

IN RESPONSE:

In the June issue of The Illustrated Press, the monthly publication of the Old Time Radio Club of Buffalo, Chuck Seeley, the editor, publicly spoke out against Hello Again and the collectors' listing.

He said... "The $3.00 price tag (of the collectors' listing) is unreasonable. Assuming he used the same printing process, mimeograph, (I did) for the listing as he used for HA, he'll make his money back after the first 8 or 10 sales. HA itself is getting sloppier, revealing lack of care in its preparation. It's certainly not worth $6.00 per year."

I have never publicly denounced a publication and advised people not to buy it. In fact I have never seen any publication reviewed like this. I think a letter to me would have been the courteous and professional thing to do. I have publicized the Buffalo Club more than once as well as all other clubs and newsletters.

I realize other monthly publications, such as Airwaves, Nostalgia Radio News, and The Illustrated Press contain more pages and are printed better because of more sophisticated equipment, more people, or more time.

Hello Again served a needed purpose in 1970 and I had the time to put out several pages and write articles. Perhaps it is not needed now because of all the other newsletters. I have thought several times of stopping. About 70% of my subscribers renew. 330 people receive HA. All other newsletters and clubs get it free on a trading basis and all personalities get it free. If any of you ever wish a refund I will return it.

If you think $3.00 for the collectors list was too much, I will refund all of part of your money. If other people write in that $3.00 is too high I will reduce the cost. Considering the time spent from typing to stuffing envelopes I make very little money considering the time spent.

I have never missed a month in spite of various personal problems during the last 7 years. Sometimes it is only 2 pages. I don't have the time to write original articles. I rely on what people send in. I have an old mimeograph machine which streaks sometimes. I can't buy expensive machines now. I do it all alone and do the best I can.

I wish to thank all my faithful subscribers and those of you who have written to me with most favorable comments about my work the last 7 years.
