If I'd had you folks around when I was researching, I could have knocked off a year's digging through musty old books and scripts. Most heartening of all is the knowledge that so many OTR fans are utilizing the research Frank Buxton and I did. (Bill Owen)

Your zeal and time in keeping alive memories of a great period in show business is a tribute to the founders and those who made it the exciting contribution to Americana that it was. Perhaps it can never again be reborn as it was - but if it even comes partially alive in drama again - it will be because of those like you who treasure its place in our history. (Lon Clark)

It was such a joy to see old friends and reminisce. And such a good feeling to know that so many "Friends of Old Time Radio" are still so interested in the Golden Age. There was a lot of love spread around last Saturday. Thank you so much for letting me share it. (Nancy Douglass)

It was such fun seeing old friends again-especially Nancy Douglass. We go back to when we were kids in Chicago radio and it was so great to talk over old times. (Fran Carlon)

NEW SHOWS: A comprehensive day-to-day collection of CBS radio newscasts in World War II is now available to researchers through the National Archives and Records Service in Washington. The collection is a gift from the Univ. of Wash., Seattle. Titled the Milo Ryan Phonoarchive, after the university's communications professor who set it up, the collection documents the war from the Nazi invasion of Poland in 1939 through V-J Day in 1945. Commentators on the 3500 original glass recordings include Elmer Davis, Edward R Murrow, Charles Collingwood, Douglas Edwards, John Charles Daly, Eric Sevareid, Quenton Reynolds, William Shirer and Daniel Schorr. In addition to the glass disks, the archives consist of 5000 tape recordings of the disks and descriptive material. After persuading KIRO-AM in Seattle, a CBS affiliate to donate the material, Ryan augmented it over the years with other relevant programing material up to 1972. The original disks are now being kept at the Nat. Archives' regional facilities in Seattle. The remainder of the collection is housed in the Nat. Archives building in Washington by the Audiovisual Archives Division. Phone # (202-523-3267).
