ELMER: Honor award, patriotic symbol of achievement

"Where's Elmer?" Here He Is—and Here Is Why!

Unique Achievement Statue Is Awarded to Stars This Week

MEET ELMER:

Elmer is a quaint, patriotic little fellow, born as a result of this publication's conviction that outstanding achievement in the field of entertainment is more important than ever in time of war and should receive appropriate recognition.

Every movie-goer is familiar with Oscar, the dignified, gold statuette which has become THE badge of achievement through its annual presentation by the Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Sciences.

Elmer does not consider himself in any way as significant or as important as the "Oscars" of the Academy, for which both Elmer and Movie-Radio Guide have great respect. He is not a copy or a parody. He is simply an achievement award created by this publication to honor those who make important contributions to human happiness and welfare. He will be awarded annually for the "bests" in motion-picture achievement, and on other occasions when the person and the cause are worthy.

Elmer is a likable little fellow, as his appearance denotes. He is the counterpart of the joy the great artists who will receive him have brought to the hearts of millions in these troublesome times. He is a patriot in the fullest sense of the word, since he is made of hydrocol, thus conserving vital metals for defense. Approximately ten inches high, mounted on a two-and-one-half-inch pedestal, Elmer was designed by the Leon Schlesinger studios artists and their director, Robert Clampett, is being modeled in figurine by the famous young artist, Frank Irwin.

Arrangements are being made for appropriate presentations of Elmer to the artists and organizations which will receive these awards. For complete details on the winners, the roles for which they are "Elmered" and the pictures represented on this Movie-Radio Guide honor roll of 1941, see page 5, this issue.

TIME CHANGE:

Two a.m. the morning of February 9 the clocks of the nation move forward one hour. That means we'll all get to work earlier on February 9, but we'll still be living on standard time.

Under the law of March, 1918, when the same time-saving device was used to aid the first World War effort, time zones were legally recognized for the first time. The new law, just passed and signed by the President, states "the standard time of each zone established shall be advanced by one hour."

That makes this time change different than "daylight saving time" which has been put into effect in some sections of the country during the summer months. Although clocks move forward one hour, they'll still be on standard time. There won't be the wholesale shifting of radio programs there usually has been. At this writing the times at which your favorite programs are broadcast are NOT expected to change.

So simply use the new, streamlined, five-a-week program section on pages 18 and 19 and the regular program listings which follow as an accurate guide to your favorite entertainment.

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER'S
LION'S ROAR
 Published in this space every month
 The greatest star of the screen!

When the going got toughest, Abe Lincoln said, "With the fearful strain that is upon me night and day, if I did not laugh I should die."

The screens of America provide entertainment for all. The movies started as a novelty, learned not to flicker and learned how to talk. They were developed by Americans and conquered the world with their merit.

The part of the world that is deprived of American movies is that part which has deprived its citizens of the benefits of our great democratic heritage.

Go to your favorite theatre. There are many fine films from all movie companies. Sometimes they miss, sometimes they hit, but the average is high.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is the leading producer of movies. There are more M-G-M stars than there are stars of all the other companies combined.

You have seen the recent films, "H. M. Pulham, Esq." (Lamarr-Young-Hussey), "Woman of the Year" (Tracy-Hepburn) and "Johnny Eager" (Taylor-Turner). If you haven't, they are still playing some place.

Each in its way is a masterpiece.

Now we should like to recommend "We Were Dancing", which is based in part on the Noel Coward playlets called "Tonight at 8:30"—starring Norma Shearer, Melvyn Douglas.

"Mrs. Miniver", based on the novel by Jan Struther, starring Greer Garson and Walter Pidgeon.

This screen play is by James Hilton, author of "Goodbye Mr. Chips" and R. C. Sherriff, author of "Journey's End." An exciting collaboration.

Uncle Sam, you can count on me.

FILM STARLETS put on their regular Saturday afternoon "medicine show" to sell bonds at Los Angeles'

MEDICINE SHOW: Wartime Version

HOLLYWOOD'S younger set, impatient with the manner in which their elders are monopolizing the defense-bond front, have set up their own organization. With Freddie Bartholomew as chairman, teen-age film stars are putting new pep into the bond-selling drive through a Junior Division for Defense Savings. Their methods are the methods of the time-honored patent- tonic salesman: 1. Snare the customer with a come-hither song and dance. 2. Sell him the bottle. In other words, an unabashed, old-fashioned medicine show. Every Saturday afternoon these youngsters congregate at the Defense "Hut" at Pershing Square, Los Angeles, to charm the citizenry, then sell them bonds. Also, they are preempting as their special field all the grade, parochial, private and high schools of Los Angeles, are prepared to stage their "medicine show" at each and every school if allowed. Founders of this juvenile patriotic group include: Jackie Cooper and his band, June Lockhart, Bonita Granville, Ann Rutherford, Buddy Pepper, Sid Miller, Gloria DeHaven, Virginia Weidler, Cora Sue Collins, Joe E. Brown, Jr., Bobby Jordan, June Carlson, Edith Fellows, Walter Tetley, Bob and Billy Mauch.

THE COOPER BAND, with Jackie at the drums, supplies music for these bond-selling excursions. Many of Hollywood's prettiest teen-age glamour girls cooperate on vocals, do novelty numbers

ANOTHER COUPLE setting pace are Buddy Pepper and Jane Withers. Mere presence of these youngsters is enough to attract crowds of prospective bond-buyers, but the kids actually work at it!

*"One side, son
let Handy Andy show you how to handle that gal!"*

"By the eternal, what's the matter with the men of 1942? In my prime, I'd have had her shoulders on the floor in two seconds."

"Jackson's the name... Andy Jackson. I guess you could call me 'The Remarkable Andrew.' There ain't many men could step across a hundred years to tame the wildest spitfire... and the purtiest...that ever needed rough handlin'."

"And she ain't the only one who needed rough handlin'. As if the boy hadn't enough trouble with his gal, crooked politicians and thievin' scalawags were tryin' to railroad him to jail."

"So I sent for a few of the boys. Mebbe you heard tell of them. General George Washington, Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Jefferson, Chief Justice John Marshall, Jesse James for a little clean-up work, and a feller named Smith. They sure know a trick or two about handlin' a scrap...even in 1942...and what they didn't know—they invented 'Jumpin' fish! I ain't had so much fun since the Battle of New Orleans!"

The most side-splitting, surprise-full adventure you'll see this year... a remarkable picture about a remarkable guy...

"BIG" is just the word FOR Republic's latest

AND greatest hit. "LADY FOR A NIGHT" is the title, and the UNUSUAL cast is headed by JOAN BLONDELL. She has two LEADING men to vie FOR her affections—JOHN WAYNE in THE kind of part HE plays so well, AND suave RAY MIDDLETON, WINNING new HONORS for his DRAMATIC PERFORMANCE.

"LADY FOR A NIGHT" is a story OF the fascinating days when LIFE along the banks of the MISSISSIPPI was an exciting MIXTURE of romance and CONFLICT. As the aristocrats of THE Old South clash with the DARING adventurers who ply the RIVER, the result is a truly THRILLING struggle—especially WITH glamorous JOAN BLONDELL FOR the prize. GRACED by a LAVISH PRODUCTION and ENACTED by a SUPERB cast, "LADY FOR A NIGHT" is a SURE-FIRE hit. In ADDITION to its three great stars, IT presents such outstanding SUPPORTING players as PHILIP MERIVALE, BLANCHE YURKA, EDITH BARRETT and LEONID KINSKY. A Waitress Is Born

Tray-carrying in Hollywood is a real career. Here's how to qualify

HOLLYWOOD is a city of career girls and its waitresses are no exception. At the spots frequented by the film colony's elite a waitress' salary and tips add up to an enviable income. Dozens of pretty girls—native and imports—compete for jobs. But to be eligible a girl must have much more than eye-appeal, although glamour does help. Here twenty-five-year-old Barbara Peterson shows how she qualified for a job at one of Hollywood's Brown Derbies.

TYPICAL OF MANY GIRLS who seek waitress jobs in famed Hollywood restaurants is Michigan-born Barbara Peterson. She's a high-school graduate, unmarried

AT HOME Barbara likes housework, especially cooking. She has already waitressed for four years

JOB AT FAMED filmdom eatery is Barbara's dream. She applies to Robert H. Cobb at the Brown Derby

TO KEEP FIT in strenuous job, Barbara sees her dentist and doctor often. Health is all-important

SIMPLE, BECOMING hair-do and fresh manicure are musts. On the job an invisible hairnet is added

TO FREDRIC MARCH, for his masterful performance in Warners' "One Foot in Heaven," goes the Elmer award to 1941's best actor. He executed with understanding the difficult portrayal of a minister's private and public life

INGRID BERGMAN'S Elmer award for the best performance by a motion-picture actress in 1941 is based on three superb acting-jobs: In "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" (above), in "Rage in Heaven" and in "Adam Had Four Sons"

"ELMER" Awards

Movie - Radio Guide Introduces an Annual Award to Hollywood Stars in Recognition of the Year's Best Screen Art. Here are 1941's Winners

ELMER GUIDE, new honor figurine of MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE, makes his first annual appearance this week as the symbol of noteworthy 1941 achievements by a group of six actors, one motion-picture director, and all who made one screen production en toto.

Each of the recipients of Elmer was carefully selected by a long-debating forum of editors of this weekly. It was not easy to single out the winners and many times the shading was close. Perhaps readers will differ. But the editors of MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE wish to point out that all opinion is argumentative; that everyone is entitled to his own.

The awards in some classifications parallel the classes set up by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, whose golden "Oscars" have become cherished goals of every picture worker. It may be, even, that in these classes the editors may have singled out the same people as will be honored next month by the Academy. It will be interesting to watch. Yet make no mistake. Elmer is no parody of Oscar; Elmer is merely an expression of MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE's own personality and symbolizes its editors' opinions. This is not a design for satire at the Academy, which this weekly's editors highly respect.

With such an introduction, on with the Elmer awards:

For the best performance by a motion-picture actor in 1941, Elmer nominates FREDRIC MARCH solely for his magnificent work in Warner Bros.' "One Foot in Heaven." A most difficult role to portray—that of a minister and his troubles in private life—March gave a warm, spontaneous quality to the character and never once left himself open to criticism either by the church or movie-goers. And even strong men left the theater with a lump in their throats.

For the best performance by a motion-picture actress in 1941, Elmer nominates INGRID BERGMAN—not for one picture but for several, including M-G-M's "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" with Spencer Tracy, M-G-M's "Rage in Heaven" with Robert Montgomery, and Columbia's "Adam Had Four Sons" with Warner Baxter and Susan Hayward.

For the best comedian in 1941, Elmer nominates BOB HOPE for his phenomenally successful and excruciatingly funny "Caught in the Draft" and his almost as laughable "Nothing But the Truth," which, like the first, was a Paramount picture. Runners-up in this division, who could not easily be discounted, were Abbott and Costello, who did very well with Universal's "Buck Privates," "In the Navy" and "Hold that Ghost."

For the best comedienne in 1941, Elmer nominates ROSALIND RUSSELL, whose comedies, almost every one of them a smash success, were many and included Warners' "No Time for Comedy" with Jimmy Stewart, Universal's "Hired Wife," M-G-M's "Design for" (Please Turn to Next Page)

Winners of "Elmer" Statuettes for 1941's Best Screen Art

Best Actor: Fredric March, for "One Foot in Heaven."
Best Actress: Ingrid Bergman, for "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" and others.
Best Picture: "Sergeant York," of Warner Bros.
Best Direction: Sam Wood, of "The Devil and Miss Jones."
Best Comedian: Bob Hope, for "Caught in the Draft" and "Nothing But the Truth."

Best Comedienne: Rosalind Russell, for all her 1941 released films.

Best Character or Supporting Actor: Walter Huston, as the Devil in "All That Money Can Buy" and as father in "Swamp Water."

Best Character or Supporting Actress: Patricia Collinge, for "The Little Foxes."

BOB HOPE noses out his fellow comics, Abbott and Costello, for best comedian honors, wins Elmer for his Army comedy, "Caught in the Draft," and hardly less for his next, "Nothing But the Truth." Both were Paramount pictures. Above: Bob in the uproarious draftee comedy

"SERGEANT YORK," TO SAM WOOD, for with Gary Cooper and Walter Brennan, above, besides being a great motion picture, had a great patriotic theme. Above: Wood, stars Jean Arthur, Bob Cummings

ROSALIND RUSSELL, in scene from Warners' "No Time for Comedy," above, receives Elmer's nomination as best comedienne of 1941. Most of her comedies, "Hired Wife," "Design for Scandal," "The Feminine Touch," and most of all "This Thing Called Love," were smash hits

Scandal" and "The Feminine Touch" and, to Elmer, her year's best, Columbia's "This Thing Called Love" with Melvyn Douglas. Currently, Rosalind is back at Columbia making "My Sister Eileen."

For the best supporting or character actor of 1941, Elmer nominates WALTER HUSTON as Mr. Scratch, the devil, in RKO's "All That Money Can Buy," with Edward Arnold. A hard role to create, Huston played the whiskers off it. Not without consideration, too, was his good work as the father in "Swamp Water" (20th Century-Fox).

For the best supporting or character actress of 1941, Elmer nominates PATRICIA COLLINGE, who came from the Broadway version to Hollywood to record on celluloid her characterization of the dipsomaniac Birdie Hubbard in Sam Goldwyn's "The Little Foxes."

For the best job of direction of motion pictures in 1941, Elmer scanned all of Alfred Hitchcock's and John Ford's films released during the year, and then decided that there was little doubt that SAM WOOD had won the nomination for his excellent work on RKO's "The Devil and Miss Jones," starring Jean Arthur, Bob Cummings and Charles Coburn. It was the director's picture.

And for the best all-around motion-picture production for the year of 1941, Elmer, without hesitancy, nominated Warner Bros.' "SERGEANT YORK," starring Gary Cooper, Joan Leslie, Walter Brennan. "Sergeant York" was the kind of picture people go twice to see. So, Elmer decided, was "Citizen Kane," yet the latter was missing the fine spiritual message, the patriotic urge that made "Sergeant York's" story the excellent drama it is.

So ends the first annual presentation of Elmers to the motion-picture industry. The editors tried hard and hope MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE's readers and the members of the industry agree with their choices, but right or wrong, let it simply be said, "It's a matter of opinion."

AS THE DEVIL (Mister Scratch) in RKO's "All That Money Can Buy," veteran actor Walter Huston carried off honors for best character acting in 1941. Huston scored, too, as Thursday in Fox' "Swamp Water"

PORTIA BLAKE
(Lucille Wall) wins in court but loses
in her own romance

PORTIA faces life

Here Is Part Two in Movie-Radio Guide's Fictionization of a Popular Radio Serial

This is the second instalment of Wiley Maloney's fictionization of the radio program "Portia Faces Life," heard Monday through Friday over NBC (5:15 p.m. EST) under the sponsorship of Post's Bran Flakes.

—The Editors.

PORTIA BLAKE was not bluffing when she threatened to bring charges against Arline Manning and Kirk Roder.

Jack Kearney, Arline's chauffeur who had been bribed to give Duke Hawthorne an alibi, was conscience-stricken by the enormity of his perjury and its aftermath. He was heart-sick with worry when he heard the unfounded gossip concerning Walter Manning and Portia Blake. Kearney knew most of this gossip was being spread maliciously by Mrs. Manning. He'd heard her talking to her friends.

At last Kearney could stand it no longer. He went to Portia and said that he was ready now to confess and testify no matter what happened.

Portia's hands were freed at last and she acted with characteristic speed.

She went before the grand jury and presented her evidence. Arline and Roder were indicted and their trial was set for the following Friday. Kearney threw himself on the mercy of the court and, Portia arguing his cause, won his freedom.

Portia was telling Walter Manning about it.

"Kearney really wasn't guilty. Roder held a threat over his head and he couldn't do anything else."

"You're too generous, Portia. But how do you feel toward Arline, who was behind the whole thing?"

"Poor Arline. She loves you desperately, Walter. She was so jealous of me that she believed everything Roder told her. A clever attorney can win her acquittal."

"I think that would be an impossibility. I'm going to advise my wife to plead guilty and throw herself on the mercy of the court just as Kearney has done. I'm going to talk to her this afternoon."

"Why don't you go back to her, Walter? She loves you—loves you so much that she was willing to commit a crime to hold you."

Walter took Portia's hands and pressed them between his own.

"You know," he said, "that we'd never be happy when I . . . when I . . . oh, Portia, we could have been so happy together."

"It wasn't in the cards, Walter. And now I've my work. I've got my fight for this slum clearance. I'm not bringing charges against Arline and Roder on grounds of personal feelings. I have to clear my name, it's true, but only so I can go on from there. People must listen to me. Why, the first thing you know we'll be having an infantile paralysis epidemic that will be a national scandal down there in the slums."

"You're fighting a losing battle, Portia. There's too much power arrayed against you."

Portia just laughed. Walter was an old pessimist, but he had to help her. His position as a newspaperman on the Herald was a blessing. Walter promised to do everything in his power and that very afternoon he went down to Railroad Avenue with Portia and a Herald cameraman. They quietly investigated conditions and found five cases where there were legitimate complaints. These they backed up with photographs. But one case was too urgent for filing away.

In one of the down-at-the-heel flats, Portia found a crying baby. It was the Peters child and Mrs. Peters said her baby had been sick with a sore throat for three or four days. Portia had visions of diphtheria and

The Movie Front

Hollywood Personalities Offer Blood; War Changes Pictures in Production; Jean Parker and Rosalind Russell Lose Their Husbands to Uncle Sam's Army

By EVANS PLUMMER

THE southern California sector presents its compliments and begs to report that now—operating most painfully on daylight-saving time—your spy has uncovered a very interesting story about the seesawing year in and out, for and against the earlier beginning of the working day. What's more, it makes sense. Here 'tis. The movie moguls have for years been lobbying in Washington and various state capitals against daylight-saving time because they figure (and may know) that it hurts movie theater patronage for people to get home from work while it's still light, but, on the other hand, the oil and gasoline company lobby has been as persistent in its demands for daylight-saving time, since people could and would drive their cars more if they had more leisure daylight hours. The gas and power companies, of course, were against daylight saving, too, because they could sell more of their services in the dark. But now, no one else matters but the all-out effort, so the private interests must run for cover . . .

Continuing their effective war efforts, Hollywood stars made various contributions to the cause last week. Cecil B. DeMille and a batch of screen pretties dedicated the new Red Cross Blood Donor Center here at 925 S. Western Avenue and all signed registration cards offering pints of blood, one at a time and not more frequently than two months apart. Signers the first day included DeMille, Linda Darnell, Martha Scott, Dorothy Lovett, Carole Landis, Martha O'Driscoll, Katherine Adams, Cecelia Parker, Virginia Grey, Fay Holden, Donald Crisp, Phyllis Ruth, Tony Quinn and —of all people—Skinnay Ennis, Bob Hope's very thin batoneer, who looked more to be needing a transfusion than giving one! Interesting note: Misses Darnell, O'Driscoll and Adams will have to get their mas' permission in writing before being tapped because they are minors . . .

Joe E. Brown, Connie Moore and Ben Oakland are busy winding up a two-week U. S. O.-sponsored tour of eastern Army camps, and Irene Dunne, Pat Knowles, Bob Hope, George Brent and other name stars pitched in January 19 to help put over the industry's Red Cross funds drive. Funny thing about Miss Dunne. The day previous to the mass meeting, a columnist commented that no one ever saw Irene photographed with her legs crossed. Next morning there she was, big as peas, on the front page with her gams crossed as neatly, yet modestly, as we've ever gleaned a pair . . . Ann Rutherford, who is so close to marrying Dave May, son of the department-store tycoon, is leading with her chin by setting the glamour-girl style of wearing sheer lisle cotton hose. Papa May may not like it, but the South will love it. As an alternate cure to the silk-nylon shortage, Michele Morgan wore no stockings, just covered her legs with pancake make-up for her first American film, RKO's "Joan of Paris" . . .

Jean Parker's husband, Doug Dawson, the radio announcer and amateur flyer, has reported to Uncle Sam's Army, as will Rosalind Russell's groom, Freddie Brisson, next month when his final U. S. citizenship papers are due. Brisson is a Dane by nativity. But actor Richard Webb, who reported a couple of weeks ago to Fort Ord, is having a tough time being a soldier; Uncle wants him to continue acting, but for Army training films now being made at Fort Monmouth, N. J. . . .

Notes on the changing Hollywood life: Club Trouville and the Rhumbogie have joined Ciro's in darkness; the Coconut Grove is open only two nights a week . . . Darryl Zanuck has given most of his polo ponies to the Army, while Chester Lauck, the radio Abner's "Lum," has done the same with many of his race-horses . . . All crowds these days, since General Bill Ryan of the Fourth Interceptor Command forbade assemblages of over five thousand people, are being referred to, most coincidentally, as "capacity crowds of 4,999." The uncounted one is supposed to be the reporter, in on a pass, we should guess . . .

Cable received two weeks ago by Trem Carr, Monogram production executive, reported the safe arrival at Belem, Brazil, of the Clyde Elliott

South American expedition sent there for location scenes of the jungle picture "Catch 'Em Alive." Then late last week Carr received a follow-up letter telling the rest of the story. No sooner had the movie company and its equipment been landed than fire broke out in the hold of the ship and practically gutted it. The possibility of sabotage is being checked . . .

When you see "Captains of the Clouds," that grand Warner Bros. picture about the brave Royal Canadian Air Force lads, watch for the scene in which Squadron Leader Joseph Wilmotte reads off a list of flyers to be presented with wings by Air Marshal Billy Bishop (also played by himself). Now Wilmotte is dead. The R. C. A. F. has reported that Wilmotte, at an English airdrome which was darkened for an alert, walked into the whirring propeller of a fighter being warmed up . . . More happily fortunate is Flying Officer George Varga, who was made "kiss proxy" by pretty Warner starlet Alexis Smith. Alexis gave Varga the embrace as a token for all fifty American boys now located at one training station of the R. C. A. F. . . .

The war calls for changes in motion pictures, too. M-G-M's "Panama Hat-tie" is being fitted with several new hats before it will be released. It wasn't up to the high M-G-M standards when first sneaked, so it was being remade in part when along came the attack on Pearl Harbor. Now

WHEN child discovery Gloria Warren arrived in New York recently for a premiere, photographers were surprised to find her a young lady

EXPLANATION: Ratings of pictures are in Vs—"for Victory"—and VVVV, a four-V rating, is accorded only a top-ranking, almost perfect production. VVV is a winner, excellent film fare; VV is average, and V, unfortunately, is below average. TALK IS that Jackie Cooper and Bonita Granville will soon follow Mickey Rooney's lead to altar the story has been changed again to have the sailors at Panama getting ready to sail for Hawaii, and a brand-new war song by Yip Harburg and Burton Lane called "The Son of a Gun Who Picks on Uncle Sam" has been inserted with a special sequence. The tune looks like a winner; could be the "Over There" of this war. Then there is the case of "A Yank on the Burma Road." After Pearl Harbor, special sequences to make it topical were added and Chinese consul T. K. Chang witnessed a preview of it. Said Chang: "It looks like, after four years, one American comes along and fixes up everything on the Burma Road. I can't approve it that way." So now another scene has been inserted. In it, American trucker Barry Nelson says to Laraine Day, "You've got to give these Chinese credit. I came over here thinking I knew it all, but they certainly showed me."

And now the picture may be shown in China . . .

Report from the department of vital statistics:

Only birth: A grandson to Frank Lloyd via his daughter, Mrs. Franklin Gray. Imminent stork: Martha Scott (Mrs. Carlton Alsop). Split-up: The John Paynes. She's Anne Shirley, and they have a twenty-month-old daughter. Too bad, but maybe they'll end their separation. Marriages: Betty Field to playwright Elmer Rice at Reno; Lyle Talbot to Miss Tommye Adams, dancer, at Kansas City, and Kay ("Tillie the Toiler") Harris to "Blondie" cameraman Henry Freulich at Las Vegas.

Romantic switches: Lana Turner has been returned the costly watch she gave bandsman Tommy Dorsey for Christmas. Lana says it wasn't love, anyway. But from here, it was a good impersonation. Olivia de Havilland, now that Burgess Meredith is back in filmtown to make "The Black Curtain" at Paramount, has been going to art galleries with him. Buzz, they say, is better than an old master; he's a past master. Two D-Ds may merge. It is now quite serious between Jell-O's radio tenor Dennis Day and Paramount's Donna Drake. But both their names are phony, of course. Well, anyway, we know Day's is . . .

That's all for the week from the Hollywood sector. But don't forget, ACT those war-time Red Cross, Defense Bond and all-out slogans. Don't just read and write them!

MOVIE REVIEW

"Son of Fury"

CAST: Tyrone Power, Gene Tierney, George Sanders, Frances Farmer, Roddy McDowall, John Carradine, Elsa Lanchester, Harry Davenport, Kay Johnson, Dudley Digges and others. A 20th Century-Fox production, produced by Darryl F. Zanuck and directed by John Cromwell. Screen play by Philip Dunne, based on novel "Benjamin Blake," by Edison Marshall.

Type of Picture: A mixture of exciting love and cruelty in mid-nineteenth-century England, and then further romantic adventures in the South Pacific isles.

This Is the Story: Benjamin (Roddy McDowall) tells the story of his ill-shadowed youth when he was "nameless" and being raised by his grandfather, Amos Kidder (Harry Davenport), as an apprentice gunsmith; how he was claimed as a bonded servant by his uncle, Sir Arthur Blake (George Sanders), and made a stable-boy and beaten till he had bleeding cuts on his back. As a youth, Ben was told by his grandfather that Sir Arthur was only holding him in bond to prevent him from learning the truth; that Sir Arthur is a usurper of the title and lands of the late Sir Benjamin, and that the latter was Ben's father. As a result, Ben (now Tyrone Power) as a young man has many run-ins with Sir Arthur, falls in love with his cousin Isabel (Frances Farmer) and finally escapes from his uncle's bondage to sea, with a hanging-charge awaiting him in England. Ben jumps a three-master near a Pacific isle reported rich in pearls, builds his fortune, but falls in love with a native girl, whom he calls Eve (Gene Tierney). His plan is to return to England and buy proof of his parent-hood, if necessary, and put Sir Arthur to rout by claiming the ancestral title and lands. In England, his pearl collection opens official doors. A great fight between Ben and Sir Arthur follows, but Ben is brought to trial and, just as he is about to be sentenced to be hung—but that would spoil the story. Nor does Eve regret its ending.

Verdict: Tyrone Power's stock will soar with this romantic, fighting drama. The adventures and love-scenes are well worth the price of admission, and it becomes a first-rate "escape" picture. Okay for the family.

Johnson and Raye—in "Hellzapoppin" romantic drama of the deep South.—Family.

LOUISIANA PURCHASE (VVVV): Bob Hope, with Zorina and Victor Moore, becomes a politician in New Orleans at Mardi Gras time. Very funny and full of costume sets.—Family.

ONE FOOT IN HEAVEN (Special) (VVVV): Inspirational story of a Methodist preacher, the kind of picture you see only

Zorina and Hope—in "Louisiana Purchase"

Slip-up on Gen. MacArthur's Birthday; Fred Allen to Take Sunday Spot Left Open by Ford; McCarthy Tickles His Attorney; Virginia Payne Has Pains

WASHINGTON

By MAJOR CURTIS MITCHELL

The hubbub among the secretaries in the first wing of the War Department building was considerable the other day. Heads poked out of open doors and excited voices chirruped, "Has he gone by?"

The excitement was caused by Robert Montgomery, now a Naval lieutenant commander, who sometimes saunters through the adjacent War Department. With rumors buzzing about the town that Clark Gable may enter the nation's armed forces, with Frank Capra already here, the motion-picture colony is growing . . .

Even plans for winning the war were not being talked about as much for a week before the event as were the birthday balls in celebration of the President's natal day. Most exciting visitor expected in Washington from Hollywood was Gene Autry, who is a capital favorite. Plans called for him to ride a white horse provided by the Army, but Autry was to bring his own $25,000 silver-studded saddle. He was scheduled to appear, as were all the visiting stars, at the outstanding social event of the celebration, the Fort Meyer horse show. Some cavalry officers remember Gene's appearance here at another horse show when he first became a star. He didn't have his own saddle then, and it is reported that he attempted to mount a horse from the wrong direction! That won't happen again . . .

American ears are tuned nowadays to announcements concerning recruits needed by the Army, Navy and Coast Guard. All of us hear such spot announcements. Once, they represented the wildest irritant in a station-owner's life, for each Government agency had its own ideas of what should be plugged on the air. The young man who brought order out of chaos is a quiet capable fellow named Art Stringer, and he is just about the nation's number one radio recruiting expert. Working for the National Association of Broadcasters, it is his duty to coordinate the recruiting requirements of all the services. With him it is a business. As a businessman, he knew how many announcements were required to sell a thousand bars of soap. Now he knows how many are needed to get a thousand new pilots for the Air Corps. Announcements you are hearing on the air are evidence of the great teamwork that now exists between Government and radio in our victory effort . . .

The Army's radio office was all excited the other day. General Douglas MacArthur's birthday was February 26 and plans were afoot to put his favorite performers and musical selections on a special birthday program to be short-waved to the Philippines. But there were complications. February 26 in America was February 25 on the Bataan Peninsula. Also, any program short-waved out of America may have a great impact on the remainder of the world. Which means that every word and line must be carefully studied. Such study is the special duty of the Office of the Coordinator of Information, otherwise known as "Colonel Donovan's outfit," which is charged with all information about the United States distributed abroad. Except for South America. The Rockefeller Committee has charge of that, and since South America would hear the broadcast, Rockefeller should be consulted. Also, if the show were a good one, it might be a good idea to send it to Europe as well, just to show German and Italian short-wave fans what we think of our heroic force in the Philippines. That was another committee's job. Then someone learned that the birthday was January 26 instead of February 26 and that was just passed! So all General MacArthur got for his birthday was a special number, "The Caissons Go Rolling Along," dedicated to the whole Philippines force, sung by Bing Crosby! Bing, by the way, is the general's favorite radio singer, with Jack Benny (minus violin) his favorite comedian.

TO PLUG the newest crazy song, the publishers of "Zoot Suit" hired a Negro lad, Arthur Murray, to parade in a rainbow suit in front of Hollywood's NBC studios. Bob Hope takes one look, feels undressed

The keen competition between Eddie Cantor and Fred Allen is coming to an end, which should please a great many listeners who will now have an opportunity to listen to both Fred Allen and Eddie Cantor. Allen is moving to a Sunday night spot, taking over the time vacated by the "Ford Sunday Evening Hour." (Ford has cancelled the program due, it is said, to the stoppage of automobile manufacture.) Fred's last Wednesday broadcast will be on March 4, the first on his new time on March 15. Fred and his arch-rival, Jack Benny, will now be on within a few hours of each other, will undoubtedly regale their fans with some super-heckling . . .

All radio listeners who think they can write will have a chance at the two thousand dollars offered by the Jean Hersholt program for the best script on Doctor Christian. Stories must revolve around Doctor Christian and his secretary, who is played by Lurene Tuttle. No entries will be accepted after May 1. The winning script will be played over the air sometime in June . . .

Dorothy Lowell, star actress of "Our Gal Sunday," will shortly give up acting, temporarily at least, to wait for the stork. And Helen Mack, Marge of the "Myrt and Marge" show, has retired from the mike for the same reason. The new Marge is being played by Olive Deering . . .

News of Carole Lombard's tragic death shocked the entire nation on January 16. On Saturday, January 17, Elmer Davis, during his news broadcast from New York, called to task American newspapers and the American people whom the papers reflect, for accentuating the death of one movie star and failing to give much notice to the death at the same time of fifteen highly trained and much-needed Army flyers. What Mr. Davis failed to mention, however, was that Miss Lombard had just come from Indiana, where she had helped sell over two million dollars' worth of defense bonds, and that had she not volunteered to do this service for her country, she would be alive today . . .

Slipped quietly into a CBS "Report to the Nation" program, sportscaster Ted Husing was so dramatically effective that he was made a permanent narrator on the show. When director Brewster Morgan was asked why he picked a sports announcer as the mainstay of a dramatic program, he explained that he had once heard Husing report a Fordham football game. "We had a lot of difficult place names on our program that night," he said. "And if Ted could pronounce the names of those Fordham boys, then he was the man for me!" . . .

All employees of the New York office of the Columbia Broadcasting System have been offered free instruction in Spanish and Portuguese, as well as standard Red Cross first-aid courses. CBS announcers, incidentally, are coming and going. David Ross recently chalked up his thirteenth year as an announcer for the network, while the "outdoor" man, Bob Edge, has left radio for good, plans to devote all his time from now on to television. Walter Gross and songstress Gwen Davies started a new series of programs for service men January 27. Requests by men in the service will be sung, or played by the orchestra, and recordings of the numbers will be sent to the man who requested them. Evidently the Government's ban on request and ad-lib programs does not seem to affect this one. Seriously affected, however, is "America's Town Meeting of the Air." All questions submitted by the audience must now first be written on a slip of paper and examined by special monitors, who also examine the questioner.

As promised, the eye-witness account of the court martial January 18 of one Charlie McCarthy at Stockton (Calif.) Army Air Corps Advanced Flying School follows. It almost followed, by the way, without piano music because it seems that there wasn't a piano to be found at the base, nor even one at the Stockton radio station. But NBC's expert hand-shaker and press-agent, Hal Bock, rented one somewhere (from some jive joint we suspect) and the piano-player in Ray Noble's orchestra was happy once again. Well, you heard the court martial. Defense counsel Lt. James Stewart was so broken up by Charlie's wisecracks that he almost flunked his first assignment. But McCarthy did all right for himself. Given half-pay for three months by court-martial president Major Linn S. Chaplin, Charlie matched him, double or nothing, and eventually finished with double pay for three months! And Charlie even got a promotion, despite his double service in the Marines and air corps at one and the same time. Instead of a sergeant major, he became a flying cadet. That was arranged by Lt. Francis C. Healey, training center publicity officer, to make Charlie more impressive. There, now. And say, girls, you should see Jimmy Stewart in that new uniform. Yummmmm! . . .

We were not surprised—yet we were inwardly pleased—to note the absence of Jack Benny's comedy program from the airlines January 18 because of the death of Carole Lombard, with whom Benny had only ten days before wound up making the picture "To Be or Not to Be." Jack's gesture, you may be sure, came right from the heart. Only a year and six days previously, Joe Penner, a long-time friend of Benny, passed away so suddenly in Philadelphia. That, too, broke up Jack emotionally; at that time he almost quit broadcasting for good . . .

A petition bearing more than 27,000 signatures was received last month by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. It asked that screen-air cowboy star Gene Autry be given a special "Oscar" award for his film ability . . . Is "Elmer" listening? Where's Elmer? . . .

We saw it happen, honest! Bing Crosby brought his youngest, Lindsay, to watch his "Kraft Music Hall" rehearsal. Well, Lindsay did watch politely for a while, then Bing heard his little voice piping up and asking Daddy Bing if he might do what he wanted to do? What was that? . . . Why, yes, sonny, sure thing. So Bing spent the rest of the afternoon holding Lindsay on his lap and listening to Kay Kyser's band in rehearsal!!! Which reminds that there we learned Kyser's sax-player and singer, Sully Mason, spent one morning last week getting married for the twelfth time to the same girl, Mrs. Mason. Seems it is a regular anniversary ritual. We pose the problem to keep you awake tonight: If the Masons ever wish a divorce, will they have to get an even dozen of 'em? . . .

In war-time, precedents become dissolved by some greater force of urgency and it is easy to tip over established traditions and institutions. So, for the first time in ten years, Lum and Abner have introduced a third regular actor on their program. He's "Uncle Henry Lunceford," from their RKO picture "The Bashful Bachelor," as portrayed by Danny Duncan, once with the "National Barn Dance" of Chicago. But "Unc Henry" isn't the first to make a threesome of L. & A. We appeared on their show one day some three years ago last November. And were we scared!

Virginia Payne is wheeling herself around the studios suffering from three pains—one in the leg from a fracture, one in the ankle from a dislocation and one in the neck from a dramatic role. The actress overestimated her strength and sure-footedness when she tried to heft a big stack of magazines in her apartment. That's how she got the fractured leg and dislocated ankle. Bill Murphy, NBC continuity editor and script-writer for "Doctors at Work," got an idea from Miss Payne's pains. He wrote into the American Medical Association drama the role of Mrs. Riggs, Sr., a woman with a broken leg and dislocated ankle, and he cast the disabled actress in the part. That's how Miss Payne got her slight pain in the neck. Dramatizing her injuries at the mike doesn't help her forget them! . . .

Something new has been added to radio comedy. Pat Buttram, WLS rural comic, went to Buffalo, New York, January 31 to appear with the "National Barn Dance" cast there. But Pat is also supposed to take part in the "Barnyard Jamboree," which goes over WLS locally the same evening. In his place on that show a recording of his comedy lines was played into the mike before the audience in Chicago's Eighth Street Theater. The unique feature of the stunt was that straight man Jack Holden was on the stage in person doing dialog with the transcription, which had been timed for such a procedure. You can bet that system will never be widely used—too good a chance for a stooge to sneak over some ad-lib cracks on the comedy star! . . .

And speaking of broadcasting tricks, you should see the one used in the "Romance of Helen Trent" broadcasts to make three characters out of actress Muriel Bremner. She plays the part of Jeanne Moreland, and she also has to audibly express the right inclinations of her better self and the mental machinations of temptations. It's done not with mirrors but with different kinds of mikes. For instance, when Jeanne was tortured with the diet problem, she would say her own actual lines over a regular mike, stand eye to eye with a filter mike to voice her weight-losing resolve and sneak up on an echo mike to loose those suppressed cravings for chocolates and such! . . .

"Keep 'Em Flying" applies also to chickens, at least in the language of Mel Williamson, producer of "Wings of Destiny." Mel likes his fried chicken, especially the way they cook it at Eaton's in Los Angeles. In fact, he likes it so well he made arrangements with Eaton's to ship him a chicken dinner, with biscuits, gravy and all the trimmings. It left Los Angeles by air express on a Monday and Mel received it the next day. It was still deliciously hot, thanks to thermos containers. Judging from the way mouths drool when Mel tells about it, there may be a pick-up in the air-express business into Chicago . . .

"Breakfast Club's" original meat sponsor has renewed for another year and increased the network to ninety-nine stations.

Classical Music

Exclusive! A New Department to Help Listeners Enjoy Fine Music. Here Is News, Background and Color, Interpretation, Complete Program Service

By ROBERT BAGAR

Robert Bagar studied piano from the age of nine to twenty-five. In the early days of radio he played popular and classical music on many programs. Seven years ago he became Pitts Sarnborn's assistant on the New York World-Telegram. He is an associate program annotator for the New York Philharmonic Society, has contributed to many newspapers and magazines. —The Editors.

MUCH is heard these days about the comparative talents of symphonic conductors. You'll hear endless—and often stuffy—talk concerning the "superior technic" of this one, the "lyrical feeling" of that one, the "Olympian authority" of another and the "dramatic intensity" of still one more, and then some. Discussion is good also for the musical soul, but most of it centers around the self-same topics and it usually winds up in a jamboree of inane emotionalism.

Yet most of these wordy seances scarcely touch on a most important function of the conductor—the building of programs. To what avail your magnificent batonist if he shows the taste of a kitchen mechanic in devising a list of numbers? No amount of perfection in their performance can possibly compensate for the sins against naturalness, let's say, or valid contrast (which is still naturalness), or an over-all dramatic unity (naturalness again).

Actually there is more to a symphonic program than we really hear, no matter how much we may know about its content. With the grouping in some special order of four or five works there is immediately established a psychic interrelationship which differs from that of any other arrangement. Each of these works, of course, might possess a sure-fire appeal, each might be a tried and true success, yet there is a particular enjoyment for the listener—who hardly ever knows why—in the fact each appears at the best possible place for it in that grouping. Change the order around and, given the same performing conditions, the effect of the whole would be less than that of its parts.

GRACE MOORE will star in "Tosca," this Saturday's Metropolitan Opera broadcast (Blue)

Take any of the items in that special grouping, place it in a program with altogether different fellows and we have still another situation. It has either taken on or lost something, something much too subtle to define, something outside of its purely musical value.

The great conductor knows all this, and his knowledge has come to him, usually, by experience, by the good old method of trial and error. Some conductors—mighty few, we'll say—are born with a psychic understanding of such things. We could mention names and sample programs, but perhaps it is best to leave that for a later occasion.

A Metropolitan "Tosca"

Giacomo Puccini saw Sarah Bernhardt play the part of Floria Tosca, heroine of Victorien Sardou's drama, "La Tosca." That was at Milan. He knew not one word of French, yet he understood everything. The work appealed to him, particularly since it had been made so clear to him by means of the acting alone. His ideas of an opera libretto had always stressed simplicity. The listener, he reasoned, must not be burdened with unnecessary detail. It should be up to the composer to supplement whatever is required through his music.

However, he did find some faults with the story. It had qualities that he considered nerve-racking, whereas what he was principally concerned in was the type of subject that could be transmuted into "the music of the soul," simple and unaffected and direct. On discovering later that the aged Verdi had spoken favorably about Sardou's drama as an operatic possibility, his interest in it was renewed.

Richard Specht, in his lucid and revealing book, "Giacomo Puccini, His Life and His Work," says, "The people in this play ('Tosca') are at best conventional figures, not real human beings. They are masks, Tosca of jealousy and love, Scarpia of cruelty and lust, and even Cavaradossi, who has personal traits that make him more like a human creature than the rest, is a mere marionette. I must confess that, as a work of art, 'Tosca' is repugnant to me, that the torture scenes nauseate me afresh every time, and that, in spite of its popular success, it seems to me beyond redemption from the esthetic point of view. Hence the decision to set it to music seems to me to have been a mistake. But I must also admit that, in the very first scene, I find myself becoming absolutely indifferent to esthetic considerations, and that, after the duet between Mario and Tosca, I acclaim Puccini's error, for it wrung from him his most inspired music."

The action of the opera takes place in Rome in 1800, when all Europe seethed with political intrigue—as when does it not? Mario Cavaradossi, a young painter, loves Floria Tosca, a glamorous singer, and, incidentally, an insanely jealous person. She is the idol of Rome and the object of all men's affections. Mario is a republican sympathizer, who hates the tyrant Baron Scarpia. The latter, in turn, is also smitten with Tosca. Knowing of the young people's love for each other, he orders that Mario be brought to his apartments in the Farnese Palace, where the painter is put through torture in the endeavor to discover the whereabouts of another rebel, Angelotti. Tosca is also brought there, and during her lover's agonizing cries reveals his part in the plot. Mario, therefore, is sent to prison to await execution.

She promises to give herself to Scarpia if he will release Mario, and the Baron instructs his agent, Spoletta, to arrange for a "feigned execution." Just as he is about to reap the reward for his alleged clemency and for the additional favor of giving them safe conducts out of Rome, Tosca plunges a knife into his heart. She hurries to the scene of the "feigned execution" and finds, to her horror, that she has been tricked, that the execution is cruelly realistic. She leaps to her death.

A Rising Operatic Composer

Gian Carlo Menotti is not yet thirty-one, yet he has already earned an enviable place among modern composers. He has had one opera produced by the Metropolitan, "Amelia Goes to the Ball" (1938), and another is in process of production there for this season, "The Island God." Between these two, his one-act opera, "The Old Maid and the Thief," was commissioned by the National Broadcasting Company. The work was first presented in April, 1939.

Mr. Menotti was born in Milan, Italy, on July 7, 1911, where from childhood he obtained the benefit of much musical experience. In 1928, he came to this country, together with his mother, and he took lessons from Rosario Scalero at the Curtis Institute of Music, Philadelphia. Both "Amelia Goes to the Ball" and "The Old Maid and the Thief" won flattering comments from critics and music-lovers in general.

His style follows the noble tradition of Latin opera buffa, and one or two of the commentators—this writer included—discovered in his music certain undeniable influences, notably of Rossini and Wolf-Ferrari. However, they credited him with possessing a fine talent, the ability to write music that is interesting, as well as a dramatically effective, and also a keen understanding of libretto construction. In all of his efforts thus far, the librettos have been written by the young composer.

JOSEPHINE TUMINIA, young Met soprano, sings also on MBS "Treasure Hour of Song," Sat.

The Philharmonic-Symphony broadcast concert, under the direction of Fritz Busch, will include the overture from "The Old Maid and the Thief."

Hollywood Deferred

You may have been reading lately about Josephine Tuminia and of how she turned down a Hollywood offer. The young Metropolitan soprano, a keen and industrious student, we are told, prefers to spend as much time as she can in the Metropolitan atmosphere. In that way, she opines, she will learn a great deal more about the thing that interests her most, grand opera.

Nevertheless, Miss Tuminia can find time to appear on the radio, her latest adventure involving stardom in the MBS "Treasure Hour of Song." Not too long ago Miss Tuminia did a guest shot on a Bing Crosby broadcast when she came out with a swung coloratura version of the Johann Strauss "Blue Danube." That proved to be the spearhead of a drive by various other of her contemporaries, who sought to improve on the serious efforts of the old masters.

CLASSICAL RECORDS

Sergei Rachmaninoff's First Piano Concerto is one of the better items along the record front. The piece is played by the composer and the Philadelphia Orchestra under Eugene Ormandy's direction (Victor). We liked Lotte Lehmann's singing of the Schumann "Dichterliebe" in a Columbia set, though the songs are more suited to a male singer. Bruno Walter is the piano accompanist, which helps. There's no overlooking Jascha Heifetz' performance of the William Walton Violin Concerto, by the way, in which the distinguished fiddler is assisted by Eugene Goossens and the Cincinnati Symphony (Victor). And for lighter entertainment, though still in the upper musical plane, we suggest the Lily Pons-Andre Kostelanetz Concert, a set which does them both proud (Columbia). Another item that is worthy of consideration, the Brahms "Tragic" Overture, done by Frederick Stock and the Chicago Symphony (Columbia).

TROMBONIST-bandleader Glenn Miller got good measure when he asked a soldier to talk over air!

POPULAR MUSIC

The "Chamber Music Society of Lower Basin Street" celebrates its second year of simon-pure broadcasting on Wednesday, February 11. In its brief, but hilarious, history it has not once gone "commercial," although the individual members haven't done badly at all along the fiscal front. The original "diva" of the program, of course, was Dinah Shore, who has gone places since those days; "maestro" Paul Laval has a Sunday night radio show, as you may be aware, which features his "Basin Street" woodwinds. "Dr." Henry Levine and his "Dixieland Octet" have even tossed off a pair of Victor albums. And Diane Courtney, current cantatrice of the "Society," is about to enter the Broadway scene by way of a musical comedy soon due for production. All of which, you'll agree, is on the velvet side for radio's musical satirists.

Six soldiers from Fort Jay appeared recently on the Glenn Miller "Sunset Serenade" broadcast to accept the radio which their camp won in one of Miller's contests. Miller made his usual presentation talk. Then he asked one of the young men to say something on the air. He did—for ten minutes. And good too. When he finished, everyone remarked that he should win the war in a hurry and become a radio commentator. "Folks," he said, "that's just what I was before going into the Army."

Recommended Pops

The Victor album of Cole Porter music, sung by the Victor Mixed Choir and such well-known soloists as Margaret Daum, Frank Parker and Walter Preston, is a must for anyone partial to that composer's music. Emil Cote conducts. Columbia, on the other hand, comes through with an engaging set presenting Marek Weber and his orchestra in a collection of pieces by Viennese composers.

The moods and manners of a typical Woody Herman performance are reflected in both "I'll Remember April" and "I Think of You," which occupy Decca record 4135.

Here are a few other jobs that might interest you: "It Happened in Hawaii" and "The Train Song," Kay Kyser (Columbia 36495).

Nazis Terrorize Peasants

J. B. PRIESTLEY, world-famous author, commented the other night over the London short-wave station on the official notes sent by Soviet Commissar Molotoff to all countries with which Russia has any relations. "This document," he said, "is a grim and horrible indictment of the crimes and depredations committed by the German soldiers in Russia. The conduct of Nazi soldiers in mass murder, rape and robbery is unparalleled in history. It is the concern of the United Nations from now on to see that this mass crime never flourishes again. This sort of thing can't go unchecked longer. Soldiers that are allowed to beat their own countrymen into a jelly pulp couldn't be expected to do otherwise in an enemy country. Some people would say that this represents, after all, only a small percentage of the German people. My answer is that an army represents a large cross-section of the people. Why does the German army do these things? Because the officers of this army have been taught that any show of sympathy or pity is a weakness to be stamped out. Cruelty and oppression are definitely encouraged by the Nazi Party. The Prussian mind had the same warped twist in the last war but throughout the years it has been growing stronger. The Nazi troops in Russia were supposed to carry out the systematic terrorization of the civil population. Actual orders taken from the bodies of dead German officers prove beyond a shadow of doubt that they had received definite instructions to loot, terrorize, rape and destroy. Many German soldiers were thoroughly ashamed of these things, also proven by diaries taken from dead bodies." . . . "And yet," Priestly continued, "the invasion of Russia has been a failure from every viewpoint. German soldiers had found themselves plunging deeper and deeper into a frozen hell over a thousand miles from home, dragging their weary feet over the frozen graves of dead comrades. Is it any wonder that thus half crazed, frozen and hungry they took out their disappointment, their despair on the poor civilian population, leaving half-demented women and screaming children in every village they evacuated? It is a fact that Nazi soldiers are not morally equipped for defeat."

News from the Americas

"News from the Americas at War" is the theme of a new series of programs being broadcast over COK (11.616) of the DGND National Sports Department of Cuba. These newscasts, being broadcast daily, except Sundays and holidays from 3:30 to 4:00 p.m. EST, are being put on in both Spanish and English, as per COK's custom.

The programs consist chiefly of reports on the measures, efforts and steps being taken by the Pan-American nations to contribute to a democratic victory in the current struggle. The diplomatic and consular representatives of the Latin countries are submitting whatever news items their respective foreign offices may consider of interest to the other countries. In addition, special features are being included in these newscasts, dealing with a specific item each day of the American democracies' war efforts.

COK, through these programs, hopes to initiate an interchange of news of considerable interest to the hemisphere as a whole, which will also contribute to afford a new channel of publicity for whatever measures are adopted or planned by the American nations for the defense of the cause of democracy and liberty.

War Prisoners Say Hello

Inaugurated as a "surprise" feature a couple of weeks ago, Radio Tokyo is now broadcasting messages and "hellos" from American war prisoners in Japan to their families and friends in the United States at the conclusion of each English newscast in its North American services. The first message in this series was from Commander Winfield Scott Cunningham of the U. S. Navy to his wife and family. The next was from Hudson President of Portland, Oregon, who stepped up to the mike (or probably was pushed) and said, "I'm being treated very fine here as a prisoner of war (pause while the guard probably prodded him a couple of times with his bayonet) and am very happy." This is an old stunt to get new listeners to the propaganda and newscasts of an enemy power. Naturally, anxious relatives and friends will sit through almost any kind of propaganda dribble if they think there is a chance they may hear a word from their loved ones. As much as I hate to say so, these messages do not necessarily mean your loved ones are safe and sound since they are recorded beforehand (from what prison camp, under what conditions or how long ago no one knows), under duress probably, and do not represent the true feelings of those sending them.

News About the Stations

THE PACIFIC FRONT—Official word from Thailand received by David Thomas of Proctorville, Ohio, states that there are only three radio stations in operation there at present. A standard broadcast station on 825 kilocycles, relayed by a short-wave station on 6.04 megs, broadcasts programs for domestic reception daily from 6:00 to 10:00 a.m. EST. A short-wave transmitter for overseas broadcasts operates on 11.715 megs daily from 6:30 to 9:00 a.m. EST. Both of these short-wave transmitters are heard in the United States from time to time . . . VPD2 (15.16), Suva, Fiji Islands, now broadcasts a short French program daily from 11:00 to 11:30 p.m. EST . . . Radio Saigon (11.78), Saigon, French Indo-China, has added a news period in Japanese which is heard daily from 6:45 to 7:00 p.m. EST. This is followed by the French press bulletin until close-down at 7:25 p.m. EST.

THE EUROPEAN FRONT—A new London frequency, GRS (2.915), is now being used on the North American service, 6:00 to 11:45 p.m. EST . . . London stations GRX (9.69) and GSE (11.86) broadcast the news in German expressly for the German troops on the Russian front, 11:00 to 11:15 a.m. EST . . . TPZ (8.96), Radio Alger, Alger, Algeria, is heard very well these days from 4:00 to 6:00 p.m. EST. Identification is a loud "bong" on a gong.

Frequency Modulation

A New Department for the Rapidly Growing Audience of FM Listeners and for Thousands Who Want to Know About FM. It's Authentic, Newsy!

By DICK DORRANCE

Last week MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE inaugurated this department by Dick Dorrance, general manager of FM Broadcasters, Inc. Mr. Dorrance is also a well-known writer. After graduating from Dartmouth in 1936, he worked for such newspapers as the Boston Herald-Traveler and the Rutland Herald, also for the Associated Press. He has written for The American Mercury, Sportsman Pilot, Colliers, This Week. He is already familiar to MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE readers for stories which have appeared in past issues. —The Editors.

LAST week we launched this page of FM facts and news by going through some elementary explanations of what frequency modulation is and how it differs from ordinary radio broadcasting. It's impossible, though, to cover all the ground that ought to be covered in just one bite, so this week we'd like to give you a little of the background and persistence that made FM a reality.

History is not always a very exciting subject, and yet we think maybe you'd be interested to know how FM came to be developed and who's responsible. In the first place, nobody actually invented FM itself. Frequency modulation is a phenomenon based on certain laws of physics, just like electricity or gravity or the Northern Lights. As a matter of fact, sometimes it used to happen with ordinary (AM) radio signals in an uncontrolled way and was considered definitely undesirable.

The development of a system to create frequency modulation in a controlled fashion and to utilize it as a highly stable type of radio transmission is something else again. The man who did that—and the man who sensed there were latent possibilities in frequency modulation transmission—was Major Edwin H. Armstrong, who has rightfully been called the greatest living radio scientist.

People don't give him this title just because he invented the now widely accepted FM system. His inventive career goes much further back than that. Major Armstrong invented the type of AM receiver you probably have in your house today—the superheterodyne—along with quite a few other things of inestimable value to the radio industry.

It all started before the first World War when Armstrong was a student at Columbia University and a brilliant one. A bevy of long-bearded scientists watched as he showed them how radio currents could be made to leap through a hoop by using a newly devised gadget called the vacuum tube. From these early experiments came his initial invention, the "regenerative" tube receiver, that took radio on its first big step away from the crystal-set era.

handful of others were also among the first.

The FM snowball had started to roll, and by the end of 1939 there were a dozen experimental FM stations on the air. Finally, at the insistence of a group of FM pioneers, who had banded themselves together into a trade association called FM Broadcasters, Inc., the Federal Communications Commission held a hearing in March, 1940, to determine whether FM should be considered a regular broadcast service.

The official decision put FM firmly on the radio map. A special FM broadcast band of forty channels was established, and beginning January 1, 1941, FM was permitted to proceed on a commercial par with the regular broadcasting industry, having sponsored programs, forming networks, building audiences and all the rest.

Improved FM service for Wisconsin listeners will come on Sunday (February 15) when the Milwaukee Journal dedicates its new W55M transmitter, replacing the low-power installation that has been on the air for well over a year. The service range of W55M will be pushed out from twenty-five to more than seventy miles, extending as far north as Oshkosh, to Madison on the west, and south to Waukegan, Ill. The new transmitter is located twenty-two miles northwest of Milwaukee and uses 50,000 watts of power in conjunction with a highly efficient antenna. A special FM edition to celebrate the dedication on February 15 will be issued by the Milwaukee Journal.

The sixth FM station for Philadelphia was authorized in January by the Federal Communications Commission which granted a permit to the William Penn Broadcasting Company (WPEN) to build W73PH. There are already two FM outlets operating regularly in Philadelphia (W53PH and W69PH), with four others—W49PH (WIP), W57PH (Westinghouse), W73PH (WPEN) and W81PH (WIBG)—under construction. Although Philadelphia had no FM service prior to last November 1, more than twelve thousand FM receivers are now in use there.

The Major, now a gentle-voiced, largish man with slightly rounded shoulders, gets his military rank from the United States Army. He served overseas in the last war with the Signal Corps, performing technical work in the then mysterious field of aircraft wireless. The superheterodyne receiver had its origin with a notion he got one night during a German air-raid over Paris. His inspiration was to build a hypersensitive device that could pick up the ignition noise of approaching bombers so that the raiders might be detected long before they reached the city. After the Armistice in 1918, he converted his discovery into the now-famous superheterodyne receiver.

Later he discovered another type of receiver called the "super-regenerative" circuit, useful for picking up the minute waves of ultrahigh-frequency signals. Then came FM.

* * *

The FM experiments began as far back as those other war-time days, always in an endeavor to combat static, which had been an enemy of good reception ever since radio first came into use. The first thing Major Armstrong discovered was that AM radio follows the same fundamentals as lightning and other reception-blasters.

So he set out to change the system.

No one seemed to pay much attention. Not until 1936 did the radio engineering world give FM more than a passing glance. Then, without any particular warning, the Major displayed the results of his research to the world. To make a long story take up less of your time, there were a few far-sighted men who began to realize FM had some of the answers to broadcasting's biggest problems. Using a high-power station and a great 450-foot antenna tower, which he had built with $300,000 out of his own pocket, Major Armstrong began to give the radio world concrete evidence of what FM can do.

Some of the country's biggest radio executives were intrigued enough to give FM a further chance to prove its worth. The Yankee Network of New England climbed a Massachusetts mountain and built a pioneer station (now W43B); WDRG, Hartford, Conn., received the second experimental FM license in the country for another FM transmitter (now W65H); the Milwaukee Journal put a station on the air (now W55M); WQXR of New York, noted for its emphasis on good music, and WOR, New York, always a technical leader, built FM transmitters. General Electric, Stromberg-Carlson, WTAG in Worcester, Mass., and a

This weekly column of FM news and discussion has been inaugurated to serve the swiftly growing FM audience. There is much about FM which bears further explanation, there are mistaken notions that should be corrected, and a continual progress which must be reported. Letters from readers are always welcome. We shall be glad to answer your questions, and if you do not yet have FM service in your locality, advise you whether any is in prospect.

Radio Contests

You Can Win! This Department Will Help You Get More Fun and More Money Out of Contesting. Look Here for Ideas, Tips, News, Winners!

By LORRAINE THOMAS

FOR ten million Americans, contesting is a thrilling, exciting—and oftentimes profitable—indoor sport. Every year contest sponsors dangle hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of prizes before any and all who wish to enter their contests. And in good times or bad, in war or peace, hope springs eternal in the hearts of sporting contesters. Somebody will win those prizes. How about you?

That's the why of this department. Its aim: To give contesters full information about contests, new and old; to help contesters win with suggestions and tips; to encourage contesters with stories of winning contesters.

$11,500 Offered by WGN

New proof of soaring interest in contests comes from station WGN, where the $10,500 Great American Operetta Contest is now in progress. First phase of this ambitious quest for an operetta—American in theme, American in setting and American from beginning to end—closed this week, February 10. Registrations received totaled an astonishing 2,232.

UNCLE WALTER (Tom Wallace) offers fifty dollars, also pipes and tobacco, for best letters. Tell how you got in the dog-house!

But more interesting to the general contester are the side-dish prizes that go with WGN's operetta search. As soon as they have been selected by a distinguished committee of judges, including Irving Berlin, Jerome Kern, Sigmund Romberg and Oscar Straus, the three winning entries will be presented on the "Chicago Theater of the Air" (Saturday, MBS). Then the public will be asked to choose the best of the three operettas, and to the choosers will go $2,500 of the total prize amount, the remaining $8,000 being divided among composers

"TRUTH OR CONSEQUENCES"

PRIZES: $5 and $10 for questions and answers and penalties used on the program.

TO ENTER: Send in questions and answers and suggest penalties to be inflicted if questions are not answered correctly by participants. Submit entries to Truth or Consequences, NBC, New York.

"Truth or Consequences," NBC, Saturdays, 8:30 p.m. EST, 7:30 CST (9 p.m. MST, 8 PST to West).

"CHICAGO THEATER OF THE AIR"

PRIZES: $1,000.

TO ENTER: Follow these rules:

1. Just give the name of the song which you like best to hear Miss Marion Claire sing. Give the name of the operetta from which it is taken. Then tell in fifty words or less the reasons for your choice.

2. For the best entries submitted in accordance with these rules, WGN, Inc., will pay $1,000 in cash prizes. First prize, $300.00; second prize, $150.00; third prize, $100.00; fourth prize, $75.00; next 75 prizes, $5.00 each.

3. This offer is open to everyone, except employes of WGN, Inc., and members of their families. You pay nothing. Just send in an entry.

4. Entries should be mailed to "Marion Claire Contest," WGN, Inc., 445 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois. All entries must be received by WGN, Inc., before midnight of February 21, 1942. No entries will be returned.

5. Judgment will be based on originality of thought expressed in your statement. Entrants agree to accept the decisions of the judges as final. In case of ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded to tying contestants. WGN, Inc., cannot engage in correspondence on this subject. Winners will be notified by mail as soon as possible after the judges have made their decisions.

"Chicago Theater of the Air," MBS, Saturdays, 8:30 p.m. EST, 7:30 CST (Wednesdays, 9 p.m. MST, 8 PST to West).

"LIFE CAN BE BEAUTIFUL"

PRIZES: First, $100 a month for life or $20,000 cash; 400 prizes of $10 each given every week. ($5,000 added to first prize if entry is submitted on entry blank or if dealer signs entry.)

TO ENTER: Complete the following sentence in twenty-five words or less: "I like Velvet Suds Ivory Soap because . . ." Here are the rules:

1. Simply complete this sentence, "I like Velvet-Suds Ivory Soap because . . ." in 25 additional words or less. Write on entry blank obtainable at your dealer's, or on one side of a sheet of paper. Print plainly your name and address.

and writers of the winning entries. Rules by which you may qualify for the $2,500 group of prizes will be released by WGN next week. Look for them in this department!

Topping this largess, WGN has just announced another $1,000 contest in which every radio listener is invited

2. Mail to Ivory Soap, Box 144, Cincinnati, Ohio. You can enter these contests as often as you like, but each entry must be accompanied by one large and one medium size Ivory Soap wrapper (or facsimiles).

3. Cash prizes in each weekly contest will be 400 $10 bills. The winner of the grand prize of $100 a month for life will be selected from the winners of the $10 prizes. This annuity will be provided by a policy issued by The Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company and paid for by Procter & Gamble. The grand prize-winner will receive $5,000 extra cash if the winning entry is submitted (a) on entry blank from your dealer or (b) on a sheet of paper on which an Ivory Soap dealer has signed his name and address. Grand prize-winner may take $20,000 cash instead of $100 a month for life.

4. There will be six weekly contests, each with an identical list of prizes. Opening and closing dates:

1st Contest Now. Closing: Sat., Jan. 31.

2nd Contest. Opening: Sun., Feb. 1; Closing: Sat., Feb. 7.

3rd Contest. Opening: Sun., Feb. 8; Closing: Sat., Feb. 14.

4th Contest. Opening: Sun., Feb. 15; Closing: Sat., Feb. 21.

5th Contest. Opening: Sun., Feb. 22; Closing: Sat., Feb. 28.

6th Contest. Opening: Sun., March 1; Closing: Sat., March 7.

5. Entries received before Saturday, January 31, will be entered in the first week's contest. Thereafter, entries will be entered in each week's contest as received. Entries for the final week's contest must be post-marked before midnight, March 7, and must be received by March 21, 1942.

6. Entries will be judged for originality, sincerity and aptness of thought. The judges' decision will be final. Duplicate prizes will be awarded in case of ties. No entries returned. Entries, contents and ideas therein become the property of Procter & Gamble.

7. Any resident over 18 years of age of the United States, Hawaii or Canada may compete except employes of Procter & Gamble, their advertising agencies and their families. Contests subject to all Federal, state and dominion regulations.

8. The grand prize-winner's name will be announced shortly after the close of the last contest over Ivory Soap's radio program: "Life Can Be Beautiful." All winners will be notified by mail. Prize-winner lists will be available approximately one month after the close of the last contest.

"Life Can Be Beautiful," CBS, Mondays through Fridays, 1 p.m. EST, 12 noon CST, 11 a.m. MST, 10 PST.

"DR. I. Q."

PRIZES: $50 every week for each of three sets of Right or Wrong questions used on program.

TO ENTER: Send in three questions which may be answered by the words "right" or "wrong," accompanying each set of three questions with one wrapper from a Dr. I. Q. candy bar. You may send in as many sets of questions as you wish, each must be accompanied by one Dr. I. Q. candy bar wrapper. Address: Dr. I. Q., 919 N. Michigan Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

PRIZES: $250 each week for the biographical sketch selected for use on the program, plus all the money not won by the contestant on the program. (Maximum, $325.)

TO ENTER: Send description of famous personality, accompanying each entry with the picture from the top of a box of Dr. I. Q. candy bars plus six Dr. I. Q. wrappers. Address: Dr. I. Q., 919 N. Michigan Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

"Dr. I. Q.," Mondays, NBC, 9 p.m. EST, 8 CST, 7 MST, 6 PST.

"ARE YOU A MISSING HEIR?" PRIZES: Cash awards for information concerning missing heirs.

TO ENTER: Send information concerning missing heirs to Board of Missing Heirs, Box 705, New York, N. Y.

"Are You a Missing Heir," CBS, Tuesdays, 8 p.m. EST, 7 CST (9:30 p.m. MST, 8:30 PST to West).

"QUIZ KIDS"

PRIZES: A Zenith portable radio for questions used.

TO ENTER: Send questions to Miles Laboratories, in care of the station broadcasting the program.

"Quiz Kids," Blue Network, Wednesdays, 8 p.m. EST, 7 CST (9 p.m. MST, 8 PST to West Coast).

"INFORMATION, PLEASE"

PRIZES: $10 for each question used on the program, plus an additional $25 and a complete set of the Encyclopedia Britannica if the question is not answered.

TO ENTER: Submit questions to "Information, Please," 480 Lexington Ave., New York.

"Information, Please," NBC, Fridays, 8:30 p.m. EST, 7:30 CST (Tuesdays, 9:30 p.m. MST, 8:30 PST to West).

"UNCLE WALTER'S DOG HOUSE"

PRIZES: First, $50; eleven Kay-woodie pipes and one-pound cans of tobacco.

TO ENTER: Write letter telling how you got in the dog house and send to Uncle Walter, in care of the station broadcasting the program.

"Uncle Walter's Dog House," NBC, Fridays, 9:30 p.m. EST, 8:30 CST, 7:30 MST, 6:30 PST.

$100 a Month for Life!

Most tempting plum of current prizes, as usual, is held forth by that fabulous contest-runner, Procter and Gamble. On Saturday, February 7, the second of six "Security for Life" contests closes. The remaining four close on successive Saturdays. And for each the grand prize is $100 a month as long as you live! Or $20,000 in one lump sum. Just finish this sentence in twenty-five words or less: "I like Velvet-Suds Ivory Soap because . . ."

Old-time contesters know all about P & G competitions. Novices will find this latest one a thrilling initiation to the fun and excitement of contesting.

"Do's and Don'ts" of Contesting

Whether you're trying for the colossal P & G prize, or whether you're trying to stump the experts on "Information, Please," you'll find it worth while to follow these guide-posts.

DO read the rules, digest them, follow them to the letter. First rule of judging is to weed out entries which do not conform to rules, and that eliminates the majority of entries.

ENCYCLOPEDIA BRITANNICA offered by Clifton Fadiman on "Information, Please" could help any contester win bigger, better prizes

DO be yourself. Trying to submit an entry which you think sounds like an advertising copy-writer's work, or like a college professor's idea will usually result in a phony-sounding entry. If you use your own ideas, based on your own experience, your entry will be more likely to have "personality."

DON'T enter every contest. Choose carefully the ones you think you're best qualified to enter. Concentrate on a few, or even only one.

DON'T try to make a business of contesting. Few, if any, have made a living through contest prizes. Most of those who have tried have met only with disappointment. Contest for fun!

IMPORTANT NOTICE

★ Here is another new Movie-Radio Guide service feature.

★ It concerns program listings.

★ On these two pages, in accordance with this publication's new, streamlined all-service policy, have been listed ALL major network and local programs heard Mondays through Fridays from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Every program on these two pages is heard Mondays through Fridays, inclusive—five days per week—at the time specified.

★ All stations are listed in alphabetical order.

★ This new feature provides the key to the most complete radio listings ever compiled by Movie-Radio Guide.

★ To use this handy section intelligently, please study the simple rules on the opposite page. Then, for your greater listening enjoyment, put them into effect!

Broadcast Mondays Through Fridays—7 a.m. to 6 p.m.

HOW TO USE THIS SECTION

★ Every program listed on these pages is heard five times weekly, Monday through Friday. No night-time programs are listed.

★ All regular network and local programs not listed on these pages—and all programs broadcast after 6 p.m.—are listed in the regular program section on the day of the week and the time of the day at which they are heard.

★ To make the most use of this new Movie-Radio Guide feature, check the program time (noted in parentheses after each listing). If the station in which you are interested is NOT listed on these pages at the completion of the specified program time, its listing will be found in the regular program section.

★ All programs not listed in the regular program section will be found listed on these two pages on a Monday through Friday basis.

NOTE: See Following Pages for All Other Programs.

NOTICE: The information contained in the program schedules presented in these pages is supplied by the stations broadcasting those programs. MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE should not be considered responsible for errors in announcements due to failure of stations to advise of weekly program changes.

If your favorite station is not listed at quarter- or half-hour periods, consult the time listings immediately preceding. The chances are that a network program of 30 or 60 minutes' duration is on the air at a quarter-hour when you do not find your station listed.

Star in program listings indicates news broadcast.

NEW TIME

Although the entire U. S. goes on Daylight Saving Time this week, starting Monday, Feb. 9, the new time will continue to be known as Standard Time. Therefore, all times listed here for broadcasts are correct.

THE COCA-COLA COMPANY presents

"SPOTLIGHT BANDS"

PUTTING THE SPOTLIGHT ON A DIFFERENT BAND EACH WEEK NIGHT

The bands that play the music that sets the nation dancing... the bands that make the records we, the people, love to hear. A different band each night, Monday through Saturday.

Saturday night, for a full half-hour, Coca-Cola puts the spotlight on the band which, —among the hundreds of bands available to us—made the recording that outsold any other, according to our latest weekly survey.

TONIGHT AND EVERY WEDNESDAY NIGHT HEREAFTER

"Meet Mr. Meek"
at 8:00 p.m. EST
instead of 7:30 p.m. EST

SAME STATION WCAU

Tune in and laugh at the side-splitting misadventures of timid, likeable Mr. Meek and his family. It's fun to know them! Remember the new time.

Star Sparkles

The exotic MARGO, whose soft Latin love-songs are a feature of the "Cugat Rumba Revue," heard Tuesday evenings on the Blue Network, also is a dancer and actress of great prestige. She started her dancing-career at the tender age of six entirely on her own initiative. She is the niece of Carmen Castillo, wife of Xavier Cugat. She has appeared in many movies, among which are "Crime Without Passion," "Rhumba," "Robin Hood of El Dorado" and "Lost Horizon."

BOB HOPE recently received a medallion on behalf of his wife from Flying Officer George Varga of the Royal Canadian Air Force. The medallion, made of a portion of the windshield from a bomber that saw action in Dunkirk, is heart-shaped and contains the R. C. A. F. insignia. Varga visited the Hope program during a furlough in Hollywood.

The Radio Front

 ENTERTAINMENT
 By ARTHUR MILLER

Federal officials recognize a two-fold benefit in the recent action by the New York City police in swooping down on manufacturers and possessors of pinball machines and ridding them of these possessions. Not only is a widespread gambling-habit being severed, but metals which are vital to the war effort can be salvaged from the gaudy devices which supposedly are solely for amusement. So don't be too surprised, if, when you're about to hit that 55,000 mark and win a meager handful of coins, the local police tilt your machine in their haste to rid your town of the machines . . .

Although Robert St. John is no soldier, he's seen plenty of war. Now an NBC commentator in London, St. John tells in his recently published book, "From the Land of Silent People" (Doubleday, $3), of his memorable experiences while an AP correspondent in the Middle East when the Nazis were centering much attention there—especially on Yugoslavia, THE land of silent people who don't especially enjoy being kept silent, and are now doing something about it. This book makes history by reporting history. The story is as though every sentence were a headline . . .

Community sings—an all-but-for-gotten bit of Americana—returns to rouse us in the cause of our country. Lucy Monroe, the Star-Spangled Soprano, having given up her job on "Manhattan Merry-Go-Round," starts February 14 on a country-wide community-sing tour in an effort to stimulate sale of defense bonds . . .

Instead of making occasional appearances at Army camps and Naval and Marine bases, celebrities from all the entertainment realm are undertaking extended tours to appear before service men. Prior to the introduction of the USO Camp Show Department, entertainment for service men was sporadic, limited mainly to large camps—for the most part near big cities . . .

Under more efficient operating plans, men in remote camps—even if they number a comparatively few—will be able to whistle, stamp their tired feet, and generally applaud such stars as Bob Hope and Madeleine Carroll, who will entertain as a team in the Texas area from February 13 to 24; Deanna Durbin, who at this time should be making a swing of the Second Corps Area camps. The youthful veteran of stage and screen, Mitzi Green, was the first of the "name" performers to go on tour with a regular camp show. Remember February 20 as the day for her patriotic move. Judy Garland and husband Dave Rose just completed a Midwest entertainment junket, and even now, screen dancer Ann Miller is with the Happy Go Lucky unit (her talent, like that of other stars, is gratis), touring in Tennessee . . .

We Americans place a high value on entertainment. So long as it doesn't interfere with our victory effort we'll do all we can to retain every phase of it. Thus far, it has generally aided in maintaining national morale. It's right in step—marching along to victory—with our other liberties.

How to Make YOUR Body
 Bring You
 FAME

... Instead of SHAME!

Will You Let Me Prove I Can Make You a New Man?

I KNOW what it means to have a body that people pity! I was once a skinny, 97-lb weakling—such a poor specimen that I was constantly self-conscious, embarrassed. But later I discovered the secret that turned me into the holder of the title, "The World's Most Perfectly Developed Man." I'd like to prove that the same system can make a NEW MAN of YOU!

Charles Atlas
 This actual snapshot taken at the beach, shows how I look today.

Only 15 Minutes A Day
 Do you want big, broad shoulders—a fine, powerful chest—biceps like steel—arms and legs rippling with muscular strength—a stomach ridged with bands of sinewy muscle—and a build you can be proud of? Then just give me the opportunity to prove that "Dynamic Tension" is what you need.
 No "ifs," "ands," or "maybes." Just tell me where you want handsome, powerful muscles. Are you fat and flabby? Or skinny and gawky? Are you short-winded, peppy? Do you hold back and let others walk off with the prettiest girls, best jobs, etc.? Then write for details about "Dynamic Tension" and learn how I can make you a healthy, confident, powerful HEMAN.
 "Dynamic Tension" is an entirely NATURAL method. Only 15 minutes of your spare time daily is enough to show amazing results—and it's actually fun! "Dynamic Tension" does the work.

FREE BOOK
 It costs only a stamp—or a postcard—to mail coupon below. I'll send my new, free book, "Everlasting Health and Strength." It tells about my "Dynamic Tension" method; shows from actual photos how I have developed my pupils—explains what I can do for you! CHARLES ATLAS, Dept. 140-P, 115 East 23rd Street, New York, N. Y.

CHARLES ATLAS, Dept. 110-P,
 115 East 23rd Street, New York, N. Y.
 I want the proof that DYNAMIC TENSION will help make a new man of me—give me a healthy, husky body and big muscle development. Send me your free book, "Everlasting Health and Strength."

"WHAT COULD be a better time than now to apply that facial you're always promising yourself?" asks Mary Mason. Here she's shown relaxing after a Glama-Pak

PRETTY MARY MASON, young radio star heard on "Maudie's Diary" on CBS, doesn't fret when the doctor orders her to bed. She gives her hair extra brushings

FEMININE FORUM

By ALBERTA NORTH

Languid Loveliness

WITH temperatures changing radically, cold winds, and no help in the way of vitamin D from the winter sun, almost every one of us finds herself stuck in bed for a day or so at one point or another during the grim winter months. If you're really sick, I suppose talking about making yourself beautiful while in bed is a little silly. But if it's only a sniffing cold, or if you're convalescing after a more serious illness, you can have a good time playing around with creams and lotions and polishes.

Actually, in these busy days when you don't have the time to give yourself all the attention you want to even when you're well, a day in bed can be a most marvelous rejuvenator. Furthermore, if you've been closed in for a long time, you'll find that your health barometer will make a quick rise. Everybody knows that the way you feel has a lot to do with the way you look.

You will want to pay special attention to your hair, because even when you're well you can't brush your hair enough; and tossing on a pillow probably hasn't helped your curls any. Chances are that you won't be allowed to shampoo it, either, while you're in bed. So as soon as you're strong enough you can brush it yourself, and before that you may be lucky enough to have someone brush it for you. If your wave or your curls have quite worn away, roll the ends up into flat pin-curls, held securely in place with DeLong Bob pins. You can keep these in overnight or while you're napping, and because they lie flat you won't have any discomfort. In the afternoons and evenings, when friends are likely to drop in to console you, you can brush your curls out and brighten up your appearance with a hair-ribbon.

The most fun of all, though, is to work on your skin. You can keep your skin beautifully clean and lubricated with Pond's cold-cream at night and vanishing cream by day. It's a good idea to pat a generous portion of the latter on your face, neck and arms and then massage for half an hour or so with one hand, while with the other you turn the pages of the book you're reading.

It's a splendid opportunity to give yourself a good facial. Massage the cream into your face and neck with both hands, concentrating on the strokes facial experts use: (1) Slide your fingers from the center forehead down to the bridge of your nose, around your eyes and back to your forehead; (2) same as above, circling below the cheek-bones and back to the forehead; (3) with the second finger of each hand, slide with slight pressure out from between your eyebrows to the temples. Repeat right up to your hairline.

When you've finished the massage, remove all cream and oiliness with Pond's Skin Fresheners. Climax your facial with a good pore-tightening, stimulating masque or pack. A new and inexpensive, easy-to-use facial pack is the one called Glama-Pak, which is made out of things like oatmeal, milk and egg. You mix a little water with the pleasantly scented, powder-like Glama mixture, spread it on your face and relax completely, as Miss Mason is doing in the picture. In about ten minutes or so you wash it off with warm water, finishing with cold.

Don't forget your elbows ("Many female elbows," said one cynical male, "look like the stem-ends of lemons"). Use a lotion like Hind's Honey and Almond cream for elbows, hands, and arms.

Treatments such as these will give your skin a lift, as well as that oft-mentioned morale of yours. People will say your days of rest in bed took years off your appearance, but only you and I will know it took more than just rest.

As an added service to its readers, MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE introduced last week this new weekly feature, "What's Cooking!" Guest cooks have been invited to give their favorite recipes and a monthly contest will be run to determine the best recipe of the month. See below for details.—The Editors.

JUST as the 1840 decade has become famous for the unearthing of fabulous gold-mines, so will the 1940 decade go down in history as the time of the discovery of even richer mines—the great and abundant vitamin supply suddenly discovered in new and old foods. It will be recorded by the humorists as the decade when Pop-eye got tired of spinach and found other leafy greens which were even more potent in energy value.

It's a wry commentary that it took a total war to stimulate the 1940 vitamin discoveries. The shocking reports made by medical authorities in their examinations of draftees, revealing the widespread malnutrition, dental decay and other physical defects due to dietary deficiencies, stirred our people and our Government to an all-out effort to correct a long-time evil. As a consequence, scientists and food economists in the great laboratories of food manufacturers, in Government bureaus are working day and night, trying new foods—foods that will give our people and our armies unequalled energy and health.

You have heard it said that the home must become the first line of defense. Those aren't idle words.

Start today to make use of some of the amazing new food discoveries. Look around in the markets for green vegetables like watercress, dandelion greens, chard, kale, parsley, okra, mustard greens, the new celtuce (a kind of Chinese lettuce). Don't throw away your turnip tops and beet tops—pick out bunches that have good, leafy tops, and serve them to your family. And don't throw away the water you cook vegetables in—both mineral salts and vitamins dissolve in water. Cook vegetables in very little water, and use the liquid either with the vegetables, or in sauces, gravy and soup.

One of the most remarkable of thus-far-little-used green vegetables—surpassing even the much-vaunted spinach—is a common little water reed which you can pick wild in the country by some brookside, and which is very cheap in the market—watercress.

What's

by Georgia Scott

Vita-Mines

PRETTY SAMPLER: Brenda Joyce, 20th Century-Fox actress who is currently being seen in "Right to the Heart," likes to cook, here samples some watercress soup

Like others of the leafy green vegetables, watercress contains abundant quantities of vitamins A, B, C, and G; and valuable mineral salts like iron which help make red blood; and calcium for bone, teeth, glands, muscle and nerves. Laboratory tests reveal that a half-bunch of watercress has two thousand International units of vitamin A. Compare this astounding figure with a half-pound of beef, which contains only eighty units.

Well, how are we going to serve this wonderful food? You get tired of watercress salads week in and week out. There are all sorts of ways to use this tangy green—maybe you yourself can discover new ways to use it to spice up old recipes. It makes a delicious soup, for instance; it gives zest to an ordinary omelette. Here's a recipe for watercress soup:

- 4 tablespoons butter
- 4 tablespoons flour
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 1 grated onion
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 4 cups milk scalded
- 1 bunch watercress minced

Melt the butter; add the grated onion, flour, salt and pepper; when smooth stir the scalded milk into the mixture. Cook over a low flame until smooth and thick. Wash and drain the watercress. Mince and add the cress to the mixture. Let simmer ten minutes. Taste, add more salt or pepper if necessary. Sprinkle with a little paprika.

This is only one way to use one of the many vitamin-packed green vegetables. There are countless ways of using them to add glamour and solidity to meals. So get busy and experiment with these great vitamin sources.

Friday, June 13, 1913. Six years later he played his first speaking role with his parents in a Bedford, Mass., theater. Most of Bob's early schooling was obtained at a New York private school for children of theatrical or professional parents, and when on tour, from a tutor of the school who accompanied the Baileys. Bob later attended classes at Sioux Falls, S. D., and St. Paul, Minn., and finally was graduated from high school in Chicago. He later took post-graduate work at Senn High, his Chicago alma mater. Bob returned to theatrical work until he started as an announcer for KWK. From there he went to NBC.

Mrs. Lee Randolph, Los Angeles, Calif.—BILL BOUCHEY lists fishing as what he likes to do, but character acting is what he does best. Born May 24, 1907, at Mount Pleasant, Mich., Willis Bouchey was left fatherless when he was six months old and he and his mother moved to Seattle. When Bill was seven he made his first stage appearance with a small stock company in Seattle. He received no pay, but it proved to be the start of his acting career. He continued in stock and played dramatic roles until, at twenty-one, he decided to take a fling at announcing for a Los Angeles radio station. He has done all sorts of radio work during the intervening years. Bill has brown hair and eyes, weighs 165.

Miss Nancy Allen, Washington, D. C.—SANTOS ORTEGA, although born in New York, is a dark, typically Spanish type—black hair, dark-brown eyes and olive complexion. His father was a native of Spain, his mother an Irish lass from Dublin. When seventeen, Ortega got his first theater job, with a road company playing in the Henry Savage production, "Every Woman." He made his debut on Broadway in a Belasco show. In 1924 the actor went to South America to handle family business in Venezuela. A year later he returned to America and the stage, playing in countless Broadway productions, in stock, musical comedy and vaudeville. Later he turned to radio, often playing the role of a foreigner, due to his soft-toned Spanish accent and ability to speak in other foreign dialects.

Miss Lois Sixt, Eden, N. Y.—BOB BAILEY made his stage debut when he was six months old. Both of his parents, Grace Lockwood and Edward B. Bailey, were making an appearance with a stock company in the East and the "prop list" called for his mother to carry a "doll." Instead, she carried Bob. He was born in Toledo, Ohio, on hastened to the Department of Public Health, where she saw Assistant Doctor Stanley Holton. Holton, a tall, good-looking man with a certain hangdog air about him, did not appear in the least upset and promised quite casually that he'd see that the case was taken care of. Portia was not impressed.

She would have been even less impressed—in fact, she might have been alarmed—if she could have overheard Doctor Holton's conversation with Boss Connolly shortly after she left the office.

Portia was so busy during the next few days that she had no time to check on the baby. On Friday, however, Doctor Holton called to tell her that the child was getting along fine with the best of hospital care. It did not have diphtheria. When Portia turned from the phone, she remarked to Kathie that she must have misjudged Doctor Holton.

"It now appears that he's very charming and efficient," she said.

Kathie reminded Portia she'd have to hurry to get to the trial, that there was no time to discuss the whys and wherefores of Doctor Holton.

A big surprise awaited Portia at court. For days it had been rumored that Arline Manning would appear with a battery of legal talent that would make Parkerstown look sick. But when court was called to order and when the lawyer for the defense of Arline was called, she stood up. She was white-faced and defiant.

"I have no attorney," she told the judge bluntly. "I was unable to find one that will take my case. I'll defend myself with the truth."

Arline sat down amidst the hum of the courtroom. The judge leaned across the bench and, in a kind voice, told Arline that a lawyer would be appointed by the court.

Portia couldn't believe her ears. She looked at the District Attorney, who was now all smiles and confidence. The D. A. knew he had a good case and that there wasn't an attorney within miles who could defend Arline successfully. Portia turned to Walter, who was sitting in the back of the courtroom with her.

"Why, she's frightened to death, Walter. She won't stand a chance with one of the lawyers the court will appoint. I didn't realize . . ."

Before Walter could stop her, Portia walked up the aisle of the courtroom, approached the judge's bench.

"May the court please," she said, "I'm the attorney for the defense."

Portia then asked for a recess so that she could talk to her client. The request was granted immediately and Arline was shown into the anteroom. Portia faced Arline across the table.

"What sort of dirty trick is this?" Arline demanded.

"It's no trick at all, Arline. Look—I know you don't care for me, that you never have. But that's only because you are in love with Walter. I know that's why you listened when Roder tried to frame me. It wasn't your fault and I think that I can convince the court that you're innocent . . ."

"But, Mrs. Blake—" Arline's voice was breaking, "you can't do this for me after all I've done to you. You just can't. Please go away and leave me alone."

For a moment before the trial started, Portia saw Walter and told him that everything was under control.

"I think you've gone mad, Portia," he told her. "You know the D. A. has an iron-clad case against Arline. You yourself dug up the evidence."

"But, Walter, I've told you all along that I didn't think Arline was guilty. Not really. Roder is the guilty person. Let me prove it."

Jack Kearney was the first witness. Questioned by the District Attorney, Kearney was forced to put the blame on both Roder and Arline. But when Portia cross-examined Kearney, her questions were so framed that Roder was shown as the evil genius behind the whole affair. Kirk Roder was the second witness and Portia's questions were designed to free Arline of all direct blame. The District Attorney, however, took the witness and attempted to prove that Arline was as guilty as Roder. It was then that Portia called Arline.

Portia began her examination slowly, attempting to point out through her questions that Arline, beside herself with jealousy, was beyond the power to reason sensibly. Little by little the questions became more personal and it soon was evident that Portia was attempting to prove to the jury that there was basis for Arline's jealousy.

SUDDENLY Arline broke down in tears. "I won't! What you're saying is only half true! Why don't you tell them the rest . . . the whole truth? The day I married Walter I knew he was in love with you! I married him . . . I tricked him into it!"

"But," Portia said, and before she could go on, Arline interrupted:

"Oh, yes, I did . . . deliberately . . . just to show you I could take him away from you." Arline was sobbing openly now. Never in her life had she known a person who would sacrifice herself like Portia Blake had done. "Afterward, Walter wanted to leave Parkerstown. But I wouldn't go. You tried to stay out of his life, too, and maybe you could have if I hadn't messed things up. After that, Walter tried to make a go of it. I know how hard he tried and each time you sent him back to me. That only made it worse. Because, you see, I . . . I fell in love with him . . . I didn't want to, but when I did . . . oh, there were times I could have killed you, Portia! That's why I did these awful things! It wasn't your fault! It was mine! And now . . . I've found out . . . too late! But at least once in my life I've had the decency to tell the truth . . . no matter what it cost!"

DR. HOLTON (Don Briggs) is a question mark in Portia's campaign to improve slum conditions

Arline paused for a moment to wipe the tears away.

"That—that's all I've got to say," she finally sobbed.

"Your Honor," said Portia in a quiet voice, "the defense rests."

Arline won acquittal and Roder was found guilty. It was a three-sided victory for Portia, but now, weeks later, she had almost forgotten her moment of triumph in the press of work. Arline had left Parkerstown after promising to give Walter a divorce. In addition, she gave Portia power of attorney in handling her financial affairs, even going to the extent of providing enough capital to tear down the Railroad Avenue tenements which Roder was supposed to have repaired.

MISS DAISY (Henrietta Tedro) seems to have a big heart despite her run-down rooming-house

Portia knew she'd have trouble getting a building permit through the corrupt city government. She was hardly prepared, however, for outright threats of violence.

"Why don't you forget the whole mess, Portia?" Walter asked. "Arline has promised to give me a divorce and I'll be free within six months at least. I'm going away tonight and, Portia, I'm asking you to marry me for the last time. The decision rests solely with you. If you don't call me tonight by midnight, I'll take it for a refusal. I know how much I've made you suffer and I can't beg you to come to me . . . but I must know by tonight."

Portia was blue that night. Walter had told her the decision rested entirely with her. Had Walter forgotten the hundreds of poor people living in the slums who were depending upon her to win them a new, cleaner life? And what of Arline and her love for Walter? Could she take her happiness at the expense of Arline? And yet, Portia argued, here was the chance to get the things she really wanted—a home for herself and Dickie with the man she loved. Did she have to sacrifice that for the hundreds who needed her down on Railroad Avenue?

The next day a telegram came for Portia. It was from Walter and said that since Portia had not called, he understood it was good-by . . . that he was leaving immediately on the Clipper for a front-line war correspondent's post in the Far East. The telegram said he was leaving directly from the airport—Portia would get this telegram after he already was on his way!

Portia Blake was not a fatalist. But after reading Walter's telegram she knew—deep within her—that she'd never see him again. Maybe, she told herself, happiness with Walter Manning was never to be and now she had her job cut out for her. She hoped she could forget Walter in her work. The permit for the new building down on Railroad Avenue had been refused and Portia, swallowing her grief, turned to Doctor Holton for aid. But Doctor Holton held out little hope. In fact, he told Portia that he could do nothing about the situation.

The next day she decided to fight the slum clearance problem from a new angle. She'd go down and gather the evidence herself and now was the time to do it when Dickie was out of town. Portia told Kathie about her plans and Kathie said she'd go, too.

The next night the two girls, carrying suitcases, walked down Railroad Avenue. They asked a newsboy where they could find a place to stay and he gave them the address of Miss Daisy's place down the street a couple of blocks at 485 MacKenzie. When they stopped in front of the rooming-house, Kathie remarked that it was the most unwholesome-looking building she'd ever seen and tried to talk Portia out of the whole venture. But Portia was adamant. With a wry face, Kathie pushed the bell.

The door was answered by Miss Daisy herself. She was a big, good-natured, red-faced Irishwoman who, for some strange reason, seemed to think that the girls were in trouble. She told them to come in and then without asking too many questions she said that she guessed she could find them a room. With that she took them upstairs.

Just after Miss Daisy had left, Kathie put her hand on Portia's arm. "Did you hear that?" she asked.

Both girls listened. There was a thumping on the dark stairs outside and the sound of a man groaning in pain. They heard the thumping—it was only footsteps—pass their room. It sounded like someone was being carried. The sounds stopped in the room next theirs but, because the walls were paper-thin, Portia and Kathie could recognize muffled voices. Portia went to the wall to listen more carefully. She recognized the voice of Miss Daisy talking to a man who replied with rasping, cruel tones.

"You keep this fellow here, see," the man was saying. "His name is Smitty Kline. He's been shot a bit in a fracas over at the White Laundry. Doc Holton is on his way up to take care of him. As for Bill White who owns the laundry—he'll get his all right."

Portia looked at Kathie with astonishment. Had they heard right? Was Doctor Holton of the City Health Department coming here to treat a man for bullet wounds? Portia and Kathie did not have to wait long to have their curiosity satisfied. It was only a few minutes later that the voice of a second man was heard in the room—it was the voice of the doctor they both knew.

Portia and Kathie heard him open his bag and treat the man. After he'd given Miss Daisy instructions on taking care of Smitty Kline, he apparently turned to leave. The voice of the other man came through the walls.

"You understand, don't you, Doc, that there'll be none of this nonsense about reporting that bullet wound to the police?"

"You don't have to worry, Lambert," Doctor Holton replied.

Portia looked at Kathie with horrified eyes. There was only one Lambert who could be mixed up in something like this—Lambert, the racketeer and ward boss who was Boss Connolly's chief lieutenant! Why was Doctor Holton taking orders from him?

MUSIC LOVERS!

Triple your enjoyment with this famous 3-volume "LISTENER'S LIBRARY"

- DEEMS TAYLOR'S Biographical Dictionary of Musicians
8,500 entries—lives, dates, accomplishments of every major and minor composer, musician, performer; with key to pronunciation in 16 languages.
- 151 GREAT OPERAS
by 60 greatest operatic composers—plots, casts, musical themes, history.
- 438 CONCERT WORKS
by 112 immortal composers—meanings, what themes and passages to listen for, how they came to be written, etc.

DO YOU LOVE GOOD MUSIC, and want to enjoy it even more fully? First, know the "Men of Music." Second, know the stories of great operas—the sublime blending of music, poetry, and drama. Third, know more about the glorious symphonic masterpieces.

How to Know All Three

So that you may know more about these three subjects, the "Listener's Library" has just been assembled. One of its editors is DEEMS TAYLOR—world-renowned composer, critic, radio commentator!

These inexpensive volumes (Formerly $7.00; NOW only $2.95 for all three) cover virtually every opera, every symphonic work, every composer. In 1510 interesting pages (See partial Table of Contents at right) these books tell you of the composers' lives; what their music is about; how they wrote it; for what instruments, and how to listen to them; the stories behind the great music.

A Library You and Your Children Will Always Cherish

The inspiration you can derive from good music depends on your familiarity with it. How much more beauty you will find in the Unfinished Symphony when you know the poignant story behind its composition, and that of unhappy Schubert who set it down! How much more grandeur will cling to the majestic opera filling your living room—when you know its history and legend! And how much more appealing you can make good music for children—when you can explain music to them from its human side!

You will refer to these volumes time and again. They bring the whole rich world of music within your grasp. Read carefully the Table of Contents here—even though it can give only a hint of the vast amount of musical information you will find in these three books. And you may examine them now—without obligation and without paying a penny in advance!
