Should foreign-language broadcasts be permitted?

WHAT good does it do for us to close the holes in our borders, to add to our navy, to train a million men if within our boundaries there is an unmolested Fifth Column which is poison to the minds of America?

At present, there is such a Fifth Column. Last week we presented the first of a series of four articles telling how Nazi-inspired societies are using our airwaves for foreign-language broadcasts which damn our system of government and insult our President. We hope you will read every word of those four articles, for they demonstrate just what has happened in other countries and what can happen here. Just last week a Chicago station permitted a

Just last week a Chicago station permitted a German-society speaker to tell his listeners that they "must not and dare not" fail to attend a certain meeting. By what right does any speaker tell you, a listener, that you dare not fail to attend a meeting?

All over America stations continue to broadcast in foreign languages. Is this in the public interest or necessity? The law requires that a station operate only in the public interest. In the public interest hardly requires a language which ninety-nine percent of American listeners cannot understand.

Worse, we have discovered that some broadcasters who seek the secrecy of a foreign-language broadcast even lie about what they are saying on the air. It happened on our West Coast. A station demanded translations from their German broadcaster. Fake translations were provided gladly, but the speaker said his speech of hate and deceit thinking he would not be detected. But loyal German-speaking listeners heard him, complained. That was that.

We cannot continue to take chances. Poland did that. We cannot continue to grant freedom to those who speak destructively of our nation and our principles. Norway did that. We cannot tolerate the slightest breach in our solid front against Nazi aggression. France did that. If, when you have read our series called "Treason on Your Dial," you believe there is danger in foreign-language broadcasting, we hope you will let us know.

Young. Now 20th Century-Fox has made a movie about Mr. Young which plays its premiere in Salt Lake City next week. In its able cast are Miss Linda Darnell, Mr. Tyrone Power and Hank Fonda. Miss Darnell is the subject of a gentle rhapsody by our Mr. Street in this week's issue, but the amaz-

Just as Horatio Alger specialized in fiction which had poverty-stricken souls happily inheriting large fortunes, so does the "Court of Missing Heirs" deal with the same subject. GIRL ON THE COVER. Mary Martin is one of the most indispensable of those tantalizing Texas girls without whom, they say, Hollywood couldn't operate. Miss Martin was born in 1914 at Weatherford, Texas, and although "My Heart Belongs to Daddy" is her own personal tag-line, the record proves it should belong to Mother, who urged her to give up a successful small-town dancingschool for one fling at the bright lights. The resultant and vain attempt to crash Hollywood ended in a singing job at the Trocadero, but this b e c a m e M a r y's spring-board to fame. It led first to her famed B r o a d w a y show, "Leave It To Me," in 1938, then to open-armed welcome by both radio and movies—a starring-spot as songstress of Walter O'Keefe's "Tune-Up Time," a Paramount contract and a starring-role in "The Great Victor Herbert." A few months ago she joined "Good News of 1940" as co-singing star with Dick Powell. Flutter of Hollywood's gossip year was Mary's elopment with Paramount story-editor Dick Halliday last May. Dick is a Dartmouth man who had been paying lots of attention to Mary for some time. Miss Martin is currently being seen on the nation's screens in Paramount's "Rhythm on the River," which stars her in a singing-and-dancing role with Bing Crosby. Her next will be a straight dramatic role—for the first time—in "New York Town," a comedy drama of life in Manhattan, and she is already working with Jack Benny and Fred Allen in "Love Thy Neighbor." Natural color photograph is by Jack Albin.

THIS RASPBERRY comes to us, part of the 1940 crop. Says M. G. Witt, of Evanston, Ill.: "I'm a baseball fan but still can't understand why we should constantly be cut off from things more important when five stations carry these blasted games. We enjoy Hedda Hopper, Paul Sullivan and certainly 'The World Today.' Please do something.'' Well, Mr. Witt, we are in accord with your sentiments, but we seem to be in the minority. Or are we? Perhaps if enough indignant listeners organized a boycott, we could scare the daylights out of some moneychasing broadcasting tycoons. Anybody want to join?—C. M.

"Life With Henry" Ain't All Like This!

Jackie Cooper, Leila Ernst present heartwarming adolescent comedy in the second of Paramount's "Aldrich Family" films

utensils, the Aldriches are entertaining important executives who plan to locate a factory in the town. The soap, of course, gets into the food and Henry's soap venture collapses. He goes to Chicago to see the sponsor of the contest, who turns out to be the man the soap-eating men represent. Result: The town gets its factory, Henry gets his trip to Alaska, movie-goers get a kick!

ANN SOTHERN, as the hard-boiled ex-chorus girl who cannot resist doing good turns for others, deals out pathos, romance and comedy with skilful abandon to win this month's acting award for her "Maisie" portrayal

CLARK GABLE, in "Boom Town," plays a drifting oil-field worker so naturally you know he's done it before. And he has-in real life. Jimmie Fidler swallows his own words in awarding him this month's award

Movie and Radio Guide Award for Distinguished Acting

OVIE AND RADIO GUIDE'S awards for distinguished acting are made this month to Clark Gable, for his work in "Boom Town," and to Ann Sothern, for her portrayal of Maisie in "Gold Rush Maisie," latest in that series about the ex-chorine who is not so tough as she seems.

Jimmie Fidler, noted Hollywood columnist, who makes the MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE awards each month, said:

"Of late, supporting actors and actresses have been running off with these monthly awards. That's why it delights me to see two of our top stars come through with performances that stand out above others.

"Miss Sothern, as Maisie, has cre-ated a character which has taken a firm grip on the hearts of America. I, for one, would never think of missing a picture of this sentimental comedy series. Ann, herself an accom-plished actress, reaches a new height in 'Gold Rush Maisie,' dishing out comedy, romance, pathos with reckless but skilled abandon.

"Never has Ann been more remind-ful of Jean Harlow (one of my favorites of screen history) than in this new film. I do not mean to compare the two. I simply mean to compliment Miss Sothern on her personality, beauty and especially on her marked histrionic talent."

In speaking of Gable's performance

Clark Gable, in "Boom Town," Ann Sothern, in "Gold Rush Maisie," give month's best performances in "Boom Town," where he meets the stiff competition of Spencer Tracy and others face to face, Jimmie Fidler says: "Gable, like good wine, improves with age. There was a time many years ago when I called Clark 'a years ago when I called Clark a ham.' I forget the picture, but I can't forget that his performance smelled distinctly like smoked pork. Clark has improved steadily, however, until his work in 'Boom Town' tops anything he has yet done. "His performance here is tops be-cause it's completely natural. As you watch him on the screen, you'll forget that what you are seeing is not a page from his own life. It is Gable at his level best, a 'don't miss' Gable who will surprise you." Ann Sothern, who has just struck her full stride in Hollywood with the "Maisie" characterization, is no newcomer to either the New York stage or Hollywood. It was simply a case of finding the right part—which was "Maisie." She got her first screen "break" while visiting Hollywood with her mother, Annette Yde, of the con-cert stage. Paul Bern, the producer, saw her, suggested the movies and got her several bit parts. The late Flo Ziegfeld, visiting Hollywood at the time, saw her, liked her, gave her a part in "Smiles," with Marilyn Miller. Later she appeared in "Of Thee I Sing," "Everybody's Welcome" and other musical comedies.

WHEN Columbia scoured Broadway for a musical-comedy lead to play in "Let's Fall in Love," a scout saw Ann and brought her to Hollywood. Her name at the time was Harriette Lake and a contest gave her the name she now uses. Despite many varied roles, Ann did just so-so in filmland until the first "Maisie" film was made. It was a cheap production made simply as a program picture. The combination of Ann Sothern and Maisie, however, made it a smash hit and money-maker. She's been making them ever since with ever-increasing power and a rapidly growing audience.

Clark Gable, speaking once about luck, said, "I'm proud to say that I've been turned away from every studio gate in Hollywood. Hollywood never had a bigger flop than Gable." It is perhaps as good a commentary on the Gable character as any other that he attributes all that he is today to luck. But Gable underestimates Gable. There was a lot of hard work involved in the transformation of Gable, the ham, into Gable, the actor, who walks off with a MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE AWARD FOR DISTINGUISHED ACT-ING. It is true that Gable, after a career of working in the oil fields, lumber camps and at road-building, found Hollywood a closed corporation, and the fact that he landed the Sergeant Quirt role in the West Coast company of "What Price Glory" after an actor became ill may be termed a streak of luck. But it was not luck that made Gable do such a bang-up job of the part that other theatrical producers gave him better roles in other plays—"The Cop-perhead," "Madame X" and "Chicago" among them.

Lionel Barrymore-with It was whom he had played in "The Copperhead"-who gave him his first screen part. It was in "The Painted Desert," which Barrymore was directing at the time. Gable never returned to the stage although he had looked upon the motion-picture interlude as only an interlude. That is a break that Gable has given Hollywood.

HOLLYWOOD HEARTBEAT

RUMOR persists that Marlene Dietrich, who sings "I Can't Give You Anything But Love, Baby" in Universal's "Seven Sinners," will divorce her husband . . . Cary Grant and Barbara Hutton are still going everywhere . . . Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lewis (Loretta Young) have bought a $30,000 home on North Camden Drive in Beverly Hills which they will remodel into French Colonial with a swimming-pool added ... Charles Chaplin attended the preview of "Lucky Partners" without Paulette Goddard . . . Fred Perry will let Helen Vinson divorce him and now Helen is stepping out with Lew Ayres, Ginger Rogers' ex, who also plays a good game of tennis . . . Judy Garland gets her first screen kiss (but not a Mickey Rooney peck), and the guy is George Murphy . . . Alan Curtis has given a solitaire to Ilona Massey . . . Simone Simon is threetiming with (1) Gilbert Roland, (2) Gene Towne, (3) Jean Niguelesco . . . John Shelton, M-G-M's new discovery, went to Reno to establish legal residence for his divorce suit against Sally Sage, stand-in for Bette Davis, but was called back for more filming . . . Miriam Hopkins dined with exhusband Anatole Litvak last week . . . Fay Wray rumbas with Al Hall . . . Chico Marx breach has widened.

EVENT OF THE WEEK

THE sun shone bright and friendly on August 16, the day selected by Paramount's Cliff Lewis as an opportune time for Hollywood's 300 film critics to view Bing Crosby's latest starring picture, "Rhythm on the River." Early-rising writers and stars alike stumbled into air-cooled Santa Fe Railway Pullmans on August 16 in anticipation of talkie-town's most novel preview stunt.

Paramount's Santa Fe special took critics and stars to the Del Mar racetrack. A gala luncheon was served in the clubhouse. Consomme Nickolas and cold cuts slipped down critical gullets while the famous Crosby horses ran. Bets were placed and some were cashed.

Came the dusk. A huge screen with giant sound projectors was erected across from the grandstand. Network engineers and announcers put in their appearance. Radio mikes stuck up in every corner. Then America heard Bing, Mary Martin, Lillian Cornell (all in the picture), Pat O'Brien, Victor Schertzinger and William LeBaron in an NBC broadcast. When "Rhythm on the River" was previewed the applause shook the heavens. The Pullman party which followed didn't end until 300 tired-but-happy critics and stars stumbled down train steps into waiting Hollywood cabs and limousines.

IN HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood studios groom starlets for Jean Harlow niche; stars give homes to refugee tots

Germany has barred all Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer films from circulation in "Greater Germany" because of that studio's recently released "The Mortal Storm" and the forthcoming anti-Nazi screen play, "Escape." Hitler likewise has clamped down on 20th Century-Fox films because of the Hitler strafing in "The Man I Married." Hollywood, however, is little worried over the ban for, because of Nazi state restrictions and money impounding, it has been next to impossible to take a profit from either Italy or Germany for several years. More concerned is the film capital over the American reaction to the anti-Nazi stories. All studios are watching the box-office results of the showing of English-made "Pastor Hall," which is brutally anti-Nazi. If it is welcomed by the American public, Hollywood undoubtedly will turn loose a flood of similar plays.

Eddie Albert, who dotes on losing himself in Mexico, proposed another idea to counteract the loss of foreign markets and establish better will with our good neighbor countries south of the border. Albert sold the idea to Harry Warner to make ten documentary shorts eulogizing heroes of the South American states—and his services in writing them. Plan is to distribute the patriotic pictures free of charge in South America.

War Notes:

Madeleine Carroll returned to Hollywood on August 14 for the first time since her exciting flying trip to France, where she went to reassure herself of the safety of the orphans at her French villa. Back to make "Virginia" for Paramount, she is very thin, shows that war hardships did not escape her . . . Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., is planning a trip to Washington to consult with Secretary of State Hull about the sixty English refugee children whose care in this country he has agreed to finance . . . Boris Karloff has five British youngsters on the way to Hollywood and his home, where he and his wife will take care of them for the duration of the war. Likewise, the Lane Sisters, Priscilla, Rosemary and Lola, are adopting for the war two six-year-old twin sisters. Similarly, two refugee English boys, now in Montreal, are en route to Basil and Ouida Rathbone for war adoption . . . Mary Pickford, born in Toronto, is helping the Canadian war relief fund by releasing a cavalcade of her pictures, the proceeds from which will be turned entirely over to the fund . . . Will Rogers' ranch and house in Santa Monica will be opened to the public for three months beginning September 14 for the benefit of the American Red Cross . . . Ray Milland, naturalized American born in England, is continuing to contribute to the support of three hundred British youngsters living at the hospital for Tubercular Children at Leatherhead, England, where his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Milland, is in charge. Milland is worried about the state of the hospital and his mother, has been endeavoring to get her to place someone else in charge and come to Hollywood and stay with him. She, however, refuses to desert her post ... English actors Patric Knowles and Colin Tapely have left for Canada to become members of the Royal Air Force.

Cecil B. DeMille was surprised on his fifty-ninth birthday, August 13, when an army of over twenty uniformed Western Union boys invaded his office and in chorus sang happy birthday greetings. The youngsters were puzzled whether to sing "Happy Birthday, C. B." or "Happy Birthday, Cecil." Solution: A dozen sang it one way and the balance shouted the other version!

Vivien Leigh and Laurence Olivier hope to marry August 31. If they do, their honeymoon will have to be delayed, for that is practically the starting date of Korda's "Lady Hamilton," starring both of them. Immediately afterward, it looks pretty certain that Olivier will go to Warner Bros. for the title role in "Captain Horatio Hornblower" with Geraldine Fitzgerald.

The all-screen-star cast production of the Noel Coward play cycle, "Tonight at 8:30," raised $25,000 the first week for the British Red Cross War Relief Fund. So successful have been the first two weeks that plans are being laid to star Charles Bover and Vivien Leigh in "Mayerling," and perhaps later to stage a "Charlot's Revue" in typical English style. One night during the second week's run of the charitable enterprise of the movie stars was a failure, however. That was when Vivien Leigh and Laurence Olivier attended and sat on one side of the house. The audience couldn't see the stage performance for watching the glamorous couple, and during each intermission the aisles about them were packed with autograph seekers!

Name Your Person

Jean Harlow's void has not yet been filled by a Hollywood actress, but some of the girls are coming close. M-G-M has Lana Turner and Ann Sothern as entries, with Warner Bros. considered dangerous with Ann Sheridan. Twentieth Century-Fox has nominated Mary Beth Hughes, while Paramount has added Paulette Goddard and Mary Martin. Columbia Pictures, meantime, have been grooming their dark horse, Rita Hayworth. Who, readers, is your choice? . . . To be noted: Ann Sothern, who is coming right along, will play opposite Robert Taylor in Wilson Collison's story, "Tropical Hurricane," which bears a remarkable resemblance to that writer's "Red Dust," a picture which did very well by Miss Harlow.

Gene Autry, after returning from appearing at the rodeo in Madison Square Garden starting October 5 in New York City, will begin "Melody Ranch," based on his radio series, first of two features he'll do for Republic. Last week a MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE reporter was at Autry's office in North Hollywood when a nine-year-old girl, Phyllis Ann Webb, from Wichita Falls, Texas, knocked on the door and asked to see Gene. No stuffed shirt, and strong for the children, Autry immediately saw the miss, who wanted to take his picture with her camera. Not only did he pose for several pictures for her but he did even better. He said to the reporter, "Here, you take a picture of Phyllis with me." Miss Webb's fan record: "I have seen all but one of Gene Autry's pictures.'

Victor Mature and Lana Turner are Hollywood's hottest romance of the moment, while Artie Shaw has been squiring Ruth Swanson and Frances Neal about town. Lana, incidentally, has hired attorney Richard Cantillon to handle her divorce proceedings. Interesting is the fact that Greg Bautzer, Lana's boy friend at the time she eloped with bandleader Shaw, was not given the job. Bautzer is one of Hollywood's most prominent divorce lawyers.

Linda Darnell, who supplanted

Loretta Young as Tyrone Power's leading lady in one picture after another, will have a new leading man in Henry Fonda in "Red Wheels Rolling," which is based on the story "Chad Hanna," upon conclusion of "The Californian" with Power. The young lady likewise has been named to star in "Song of the Island," in which she will have a chance both to sing and dance.

For the Future Book:

Richard Carlson, who has just completed an important part in "The Howards of Virginia," has been signed for the plump role opposite Anna Neagle in "No, No, Nanette," and Constance Moore and the unknown Veronica Lake have been selected by Paramount for the much-sought feminine roles in "I Wanted Wings." William Holden, incidentally, has patched up his salary argument with Paramount and has gone to work on the same picture . . . Jane Withers, whose "Girl From Avenue A" was hardly satisfying, pleased Darryl Zanuck immensely when he saw a roughcut of her next picture, "Youth Will Be Served"; as a result he has set Miss Withers for "Golden Hoofs," a screen play about the trotting races at Goshen, New York . . . Robert Montgomery is needed by Metro for "Slightly Married," so there is some doubt of his playing opposite Carole Lombard in RKO's "Mr. and Mrs. Smith." Meantime, Gene Raymond, because of his excellent work in "Cross Country Romance," has been given a leading part in the latter picture . Brian Aherne's next will be "And So Good-Bye," by James Hilton, for Columbia Pictures . . . Comedian Bert Wheeler resumes his once top boxoffice rating screen career in Paramount's "Las Vegas Nights," with Allan Jones as his singing star . . . Claire Trevor will play the title part in "The Silver Queen," romantic story of a wide open mining town . . . Jeffrey Lynn will support Miriam Hopkins in Warners' "The Lady With Red Hair," the autobiography of famous actress Mrs. Leslie Carter.

Hemispherical Defense

Robert Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck are planning their vacation. Just as soon as Barbara finishes her part in "Meet John Doe" for Frank Capra, the pair will take a trip to South America. Comment: Movie stars can do no better deed for their industry than visit South American countries and cement friendship there.

George Brent, when he has time off from the set of "Honeymoon for Three," which he is making with Ann Sheridan, his real-life romance as well, is devoting hours to studying navigation in preparation for the racing of his yacht, the South Wind, in the mainland-to-Honolulu race next summer. With his crew all signed up, plans for making the boat shipshape have been assisted by Miss Sheridan, who sewed the blue-and-white curtains for its portholes.

OF THE WEEK

CLAIRE TREVOR, blond and lovely NBC star and motion-picture actress, has a refreshing, arctic glamour in this elaborate white fox creation. Apparently inspired by Eskimo garb, it is a versatile piece which may be worn in any one of four different ways—as a hip-length coat with parka attached; as a hip-length coat without parka; as a bolero with matching muff and collar, as above (muff and collar are really the parka and bottom of coat); or simply as a bolero.

CHARITY BASEBALL GAME between Hollywood's leading men and comedians brought out, among others, (l. to r.) Mischa Auer, Paulette Goddard, Marlene Dietrich and Broderick Crawford

GINGER ROGERS, Ronald Colman are teamed for the first time in the hilarious "Lucky Partners'

"Lucky Partners"

Cast: Ginger Rogers, Ronald Colman, Jack Carson, Spring Byington, Cecelia Loftus, Harry Davenport, Hugh O'Connell, et al. An RKO-Radio picture, produced by George Haight; directed by Lewis Milestone, who also directed "Of Mice and Men" and "All Quiet on the Western Front." From the story "Bonne Chance" by Sacha Guitty.

BENDING to the slightly risque side at times with its implications and dialog, the Ronald Colman-Ginger Rogers romantic comedy, Partners," is a sophisticated a Lucky ' is a sophisticated adult picture filled with uproarious laughter and delightfully amusing situations.

Clever in its introductory scene, maintains the pace throughout. This is the first picture in which Rogers and Colman have co-starred, and neither dances in it. Colman, a recluse artist, sees bookshop girl-Rogers on the street in Washington Square, Greenwich Village. They admire each other mutually and he, in passing, wishes her "good luck" for no reason whatsoever. Thenceforth she has a demonstration of good luck which causes, her to search for Colman to sell him the idea of buying a sweepstakes lottery-ticket with her fifty-fifty. Misunderstanding a Colman remark, she calls upon her tall and strong fiance, Jack Carson, to squelch the artist, but Colman convinces the latter of his sincerity, convinces him he merely wants to show Ginger a good time should they win the sweepstakes. Their peculiar agreement: Colman is to invest his half of the winnings to provide a platonic "honeymoon trip" for the bride-to-be and himself, after which, of course, she is to marry Carson.

The fun starts when Ginger and Colman win.

Jack Carson, as sort of a "stupe" insurance agent and fiance of Ginger, makes his supporting role the best thing he has yet done on the screen; Spring Byington, as ever, is ribtickling with her naive feminine misunderstandings; Harry Davenport, as the judge, and Hugh O'Connell, the hotel clerk, both merit palms for their part portrayals. Colman, whose subtlety is not to be forgotten, delivers one of his best jobs in several years, and Miss Rogers (who would carry this role better as a blonde) is not quite up to her similar part in "Bachelor Mother."

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Hedda Hop per: ". . first half bogged down by censorship. After that it was hilariously funny." Variety: "Here, is a picture of great charm that will leave any audience . . glowing with delight." Holly-wood Reporter: "Spicy, but never in bad taste." Los Angeles Times: "A romantic comedy of a de-lightful order." Los Angeles News: ". . . whim-· · whim sical, and at moments precious."

THIS WEEK ON THE SCREEN

Comedy, action and adventure highlight recently completed pictures

"The Great Profile"

Cast: John Barrymore, Mary Beth Hughes, Gregory Ratoff, John Payne, Anne Baxter, Lionel Atwill, Edward Brophy, Willie Fund, Joan Valerie, Charles Lane, Marc Lawrence, Cecil Cunningham, et al. A 20th Century-Fox picture; associate producer, Raymond Griffith. Directed by Walter Lang, who also directed "Star Dust."

BARRYMORE fans will find this the perfect vehicle for his talents and for their delight. It's the essence of nonsense, a farcical extravaganza with the Great Profile never missing a chance to be himself.

The action of the picture is drawn from the stage play, "My Dear Children," in which Barrymore and wife Elaine Barrie starred last year.

Barrymore is cast as Evans Garrick, prominent but wacky actor, and Gregory Ratoff is his agent Mefoofsky. Financial straits cause them to accept the play of an unknown authoress (Anne Baxter) because along with the play there comes financial backing through her fiance, John Payne. Disgusted with the play after it opens, Garrick (Barrymore) takes to drink and his antics turn it from a flop into a success. Barrymore and Ratoff battle all the way through the picture to steal scenes, both are superb.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Hollywood Reporter: "Those who were amused by John Barrymore's cavortings in real life will find plenty to entertain them in the picture." Variety: In the ace metropolitan houses the show will be a hit . . .

"Money and the Woman"

Cast: Jeffrey Lynn, Brenda Marshall, John Litel, Lee Patrick, Henry O'Neill, Roger Pryor, Guinn Williams, et al. Warners' release of a First National picture; directed by William K. Howard, who also directed "Fire Over England."

A TENSELY told tale of a bank teller who systematically robs savings accounts, "Money and the Woman" builds up an eternal triangle theme against the backdrop of a small bank in a skilfully constructed and nicely acted piece of screen fare. It is particularly interesting because it gives Brenda Marshall an opportunity to display her maturing talents in a role of some dramatic depth.

Jeffrey Lynn, as the bank official who discovers the defalcations of Roger Pryor, the teller and husband of Brenda Marshall, competently handles a part which requires him to fall in love with the teller's wife and, in the course of events, force the teller to make restitution. The eery quality with which the warped and criminal illness of the teller is handled, together with the nice restraint with which the growing love affair between Lynn and Miss Marshall is treated, this breathlessly to a climax which is logical but highly unexpected.

Not an elaborate production, "Money and the Woman" is exciting, with good performances throughout.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Hollywood Reporter: ". . . Very ordinary screen fare . . ." Variety: ". . . Told with a tense quality, it provides acceptable entertainment . .

"The Golden Fleecing"

Cast: Lew Ayres, Rita Johnson, Lloyd Nolan, Virginia Grey, Nat Pendleton, Leon Errol, et al. A Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, produced by Edgar Selwyn; directed by Leslie Fenton. who also directed "Man From Dakota,

THE tried and true formula of a "Caspar Milquetoast" turned hero in spite of himself, with a denouement leaving the big tough crooks in a dilemma while the meek have the last laugh, is done very nicely in "The Golden Fleecing."

Lew Ayres, a young insurance salesman, becomes engaged and receives a promotion when he sells a $50,000 insurance policy-only to find himself in trouble when it is revealed that the policyholder is Lloyd Nolan, big-time racketeer who has a price on his head, dead or alive.

With this situation as a springboard, the film roars along through a series of amusing situations at a laugh-aminute pace, with enough action to make up for minor discrepancies which occur in the plot's structure.

Ayres' role provides him with good opportunities for comedy and makes the most of them. Lloyd Nolan does his usual smart job of being a

"Girls of the Road"

Cast: Ann Dvorak, Helen Mack, Lola Lane, Ann Doran, Marjorie Cooley, Virginia Field, et al. A Columbia picture, directed by Nicholas Grinde.

SEVERAL years ago, when young men by the hundreds were touring the country on box cars, the film "Wild Boys of the Road" created a minor sensation. Here is the feminine version of the same theme, and chief interest in it will center about the authoritative picture of the sort of life such young women are forced to lead.

Miss Dvorak is cast as a governor's daughter who, hearing of the conditions under which hobo girls live, goes out to see for herself what a road girl's life is really like. Shunted from town to town and county to county by law officers who will not permit her to stay overnight in one place, she learns that such a life is far from a bed of roses and the film ends with the governor promising vaguely to help solve the problem.

The story is thin but compensated for by a wealth of documentary material and statistics which give it authority. Made five years ago, it might have been a major sensation. Today, with the conditions with which it is concerned practically eliminated, it is still a worth-while documentation of a condition still close to home.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Variety: "... has enough novely to compensate for its rather naive story ..." Hollywood Reporter: "... Deals with the struggles of unfortunate girls to good effect ..."

BING CROSBY and Mary Martin score with rich comedy, sweet songs in "Rhythm on the River"

"Rhythm on the River"

Cast: Bing Crosby, Mary Martin, Basil Rathbone, Oscar Levant, Lillian Cornell, Oscar Shaw, Charles Grapewin, John Scott Trotter, Wingy Mannone, Ken Carpenter, et al. A Paramount picture, produced by William LeBaron; directed by Victor Schert-zinger, who also directed "Road to Singapore."

BING CROSBY and Mary Martin bring another smash hit to the screen in this romantic comedy, with clownful Oscar Levant of "Smattering of Ignorance" and "Information, Please" fame, and Basil Rathbone, as a villain, turning in top performances. Of the music, you will remember best "Rhythm on the River," "That's Me" and the exceedingly clever "Ain't It a Shame About Mame," all written by lyricist Johnny Burke and tunesmith Jimmy Monaco.

A human story, casually and con-vincingly enacted, "Rhythm on the River" tells of Bing earning coffee and cakes by secretly writing tunes for "song-writer" Rathbone, who also secretly employs Mary Martin to write the lyrics for them. Neither knows of the other's work until they meet, in a showdown, in Rathbone's office and quit him cold to form their own partnership. But they find it impossible to convince music publishers that it is Bing's music, not copies of the Rathbone style, that they submit for sale and publication. Beset on all sides. Mary takes a night-club singing job offered by Johnny Trotter, and Bing, not telling Mary, makes a deal with Rathbone to work for four more weeks to earn $200 with which to pay for Mary's evening gown and the accessory fineries required by her new work. But the villain, Rathbone, cornered when Mary's and Bing's sacred love song, put up by Bing with Rathbone as security for the $200 advance, is brought to Trotter to play and Mary to sing. She won't sing it, and at the same time Bing learns how the tune was released "by accident." Both pounce upon the villain for a happy ending.

Bing's languishing acting and comfortable wisecracks are up to snuff, and Mary Martin is revealed again (she was first seen in "Victor Her-bert," remember?) as a most capable and pretty young actress who knows how to put over a song. But for acting honors, Oscar Levant, as the sloppy, careless handyman of Rathbone, draws laughs aplenty. We predict a bright screen future for Levant.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Los Angeles Times: "A revel of song, and comedy, robust and light as well, insure 'Rhythm on the River' exceptional popularity . . . one of Bing's best."

crook, but the prize bits of the film are provided by Spencer Charters, as a justice of the peace, and an unbilled actor, as his constable.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Variety letdown." Hollywood Reporter:

Already a sensation in Hollywood, Albert Basserman is destined to burst like a bombshell upon the American public

By Whitney Williams

THEY were previewing "Dr. Ehr-lich's Magic Bullet." Edward G. Robinson was the star. As Ehrlich, a young German physician, he was ushered into the office of Dr. Robert Koch, one of Germany's foremost scientists.

Accompanied by another doctor, Robinson entered the office, bowed, and without a word went to a desk where stood a microscope and inserted under the glass a small slab.

"Will you look, please, Herr Doktor," he addressed the bearded Koch. (It was the scene in which was revealed the amazing fact that Ehrlich had isolated the deadly tubercle-bacillus by a staining process, completed an experiment scientists had tried in vain for years to master. It meant that tuberculosis now might easily be diagnosed by thousands of small doctors throughout the world, and steps taken to circumvent the disease. The moment was an auspicious one in science.)

"My microbe-a bright red . . .!" Koch visibly was agitated. He crossed to the silent Ehrlich, embraced him, gripped his shoulders, eyes shining, his voice filled with emotion. "My dear Ehrlich, how did you do it?"

Such a burst of applause as I never have heard in sixteen years of previewing greeted the termination of this scene.

But not for the star were the plaudits of this moment; no, not for Robinson with all his finesse and the honor rightfully due him. The applause was for the imposing, kindly-visaged man well on in years, an actor new to American theater-goers, who played the part of Koch. He was a man who acted with his eyes. His was acting such as is seldom ever seen. "Who is that man?" you could hear people asking, on every side. "He's wonderful."

His name is Albert Basserman.

At seventy-two, Albert Basserman is more in demand in Hollywood than any glamour girl. That one perform-ance in "Dr. Ehrlich" made Hollywood history, just as it connoted for Basserman the most extraordinary debut in many Hollywood seasons. From a stranger whose identity before the preview was unknown in America, he emerged the most-talked-of person-ality in the film colony. There has been a mad scramble ever since by every studio and producer in Hollywood to avail themselves of his services.

As well there may be.

In Germany, land of his birth, he is regarded the greatest living actor; the name of Basserman already has become a legend of the theater.

When Adolf Hitler came into power in 1933, Basserman was in the full flower of his classic repertoire. Goethe, Ibsen, Shakespeare—his "Lear," "Shy-lock" and "Hamlet" were the finest achievements in the European theater. Consequently he found the new regime, with its philosophy of hate and Storm Trooper tactics, intolerable; in the new Germany of the Third Reich he found no place for himself or his beliefs and ideals.

With his wife and daughter, he voluntarily took asylum in Austria, sacrificing his glorious career as well as everything a man comes during a lifetime to love in his homeland. And Basserman loved Germany.

THE minister of propaganda, Goeb-bels, learning of Basserman's abrupt departure, pleaded with him to return. All sorts of inducements and concessions were offered; he might name his own terms. Germany could not afford to lose so great an artist. The faith of his wife—half Jewish was promised extra consideration if he would agree to resume his position in the German theater. To all these overtures, broached continually during the five years he resided in Aus-tria, he turned a deaf ear, refusing to compromise with his beliefs and integrity.

Came the Anschluss of 1938, Germany taking over Austria. Basserman immediately removed his family to a villa on Lake Lugano in Switzerland, starting life anew for the third time. When he saw that war in Europe was inevitable, he set out again to find a haven far removed from conflict and hatred. This time he came to America, where he believed he might find the peace he ever had sought. His entry into motion pictures was a natural consequence of his arrival in this country, for Ernst Lubitsch, the director, begged him to continue on to Hollywood, and William Dieterle, responsible for the success of "Ehrlich," insisted he appear in the film.

This, then, is the man who has become the overnight sensation in the film capital, the man upon whom all eyes are focused. And it has left him rather aghast. He cannot understand why he, a foreigner, a stranger, should be the subject of such acclaim. Acting is something he loves; and he loved doing the part of Dr. Koch. That is all.

Basserman's appearance in this film, which won him such honor and recognition, brought also near-tragic con-sequences. He was threatened with deportation.

Originally, he had entered the United States on a visitor's visa. He was not supposed to work. When he was offered the opportunity to act in "Ehrlich," however, he remembered only that here was a chance to begin a new career, a new life, to start all over again in the only work he knew. It's exceedingly doubtful if he had ever even heard of a labor permit. A crea-tive artist, he would not know about such things. And no one else seemed to have troubled to inquire whether or not he held such a permit.

Laws being what they are, Uncle Sam stepped in and announced Basserman would have to leave the country, since he had worked in an American picture. He would be deported. Immediately there arose loud outcry in Hollywood. Such columnists as Sidney Skolsky, Jimmie Fidler, Ed Sullivan, Hedda Hopper, Louella Parsons, others whose words are read daily throughout the nation, demanded he be permitted to remain. On half a dozen radio programs listeners were asked to write in to the Federal government with a similar request. His studio set its legal machinery into operation. Everything humanly possible was done to keep Albert Basserman from being deported.

Before such an onslaught of public opinion and approbation, the Govern-ment reconsidered. If Basserman would go to Mexico and wait there until he could get his labor permit, he might re-enter the country and have his stay extended, his name stricken from the deportation list.

So Basserman now is safe. So long as immigration authorities are convinced he is a unique and irreplaceable dramatic artist, there no longer need be fear his extension will not be (Continued on Page 41)

THE teaming of suave Ronald Colman and Ginger Rogers for the first time caused a ripple of interest to stir in Hollywood when RKO made the announcement the two would appear in a picture. That interest grew when the title of the film, "Lucky Partners," was announced. Was it to be a dancing picture? Would Colman (who has never danced on the screen) become the dancing partner of Miss Rogers? The next announcement revealed that "Lucky Partners" would be the screen version of Sacha Guitry's "Bonne Chance," the story of a unique romance between a philosophical artist and a girl who go on a platonic honeymoon together, despite her engagement to an-other man. There, in essence, were two roles admirably tailored to the talents of Miss Rogers and Colman, and the possibilities presented were even more interesting than that of expecting Mr. Colman to dance for the benefit of the cameras. Interest blossomed into excitement as the picture progressed and as those "on the inside" saw the results of daily shooting on film. Today thousands of movie-goers everywhere are waiting impatiently to see "that Colman-Rogers picture." "Escape" entertainment in every sense of the word, "Lucky Partners" is a light comedy set in Greenwich Village, although much of the action takes place at Niagara Falls. The motivat-ing idea behind the plot is the winning of money by the "lucky partners" on a sweepstakes ticket, a happening far enough removed from the realms of probability to give a enough removed from the realms of probability to give a general idea of the light-hearted situations through which Miss Rogers and Colman romp. Jack Carson, who appeared with Ginger in "Carefree" and "Fifth Avenue Girl," is her fiance in "Lucky Partners." He's highly amusing as a serious but not-too-bright ex-football player. Spring Byington, a top character actress, is Miss Rogers' aunt. She runs a bookstore. Leon Belasco and Edward Conrad portray the proprietors of a small Greenwich Village cafe. They are named "Nick No. 1" and "Nick No. 2." Add to these excellent performers an amusing story and clever dialog, and you have "Lucky Partners" - MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE'S Picture of the Week.

The ROOGARONGA

In "Strike Up the Band," the dancing of Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland is tops!

FROM advance information, MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE has learned (and the pictures on this page prove it) that the La Conga danced by Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland in "Strike Up the Band" is nothing less than sensational. For that reason, MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE hereby christens the number "The Roogaronga." This title is a combination of the first three letters of Mickey's and Judy's last names, to which has been added the identifying dance classification. Such a name is particularly fitting when one considers the individuality these two kids have put into the number—and naming a dance after the two who perform it seems eminently more fitting than naming a sandwich or a drink after them, a stunt which has become a good old American custom. "Strike Up the Band" is the second musical (they also have appeared together in two of the "Judge Hardy" pictures) in which Mickey and Judy have been teamed. The first, "Babes in Arms," was grand; this new one would be worth seeing if only for the "Roogaronga," but there's much more to it than that. Mickey and Judy sing and clown as well as dance — and if that doesn't spell e-n-t-e-r-t-a-i-n-m-e-n-t, what does?

REALLY A LA CONGA, the dance done by Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland (above and below) is different enough, in Movie and Radio Guide's opinion, to be named after them

"Gone With the Wind" on CBS

NEW YORK, N. Y.—The headlinemaking motion picture and best-seller, "Gone With the Wind," will become a radio serial to be presented over an entire year beginning November 3. To be aired over CBS, the radio dramatization will bring David O. Selznick $500,000 in addition to the advertising it will give his motion picture. Helen Claire will start as Scarlett; Don Mc-Laughlin will play Rhett Butler. Later the public will be asked to pick a cast from a nation-wide audition to be staged by Vicks, sponsor of the program. Helen Claire is known to daytime serial listeners as the wife of Dan O'Neill in "The O'Neills." McLaughlin is a young actor from California.

Movies and Radio Join Hands

HOLLYWOOD, CALIF.—In spite of the friction that has flared now and then between motion pictures and radio, five major motion-picture companies have agreed to cooperate with NBC in supplying, starting September 15, two programs weekly featuring their stars for short-wave broadcasts to our South American friends. Each program will be recorded in both Spanish and Portuguese, so that all citizens of the Latin nations will be able to understand them. Studios in the deal with NBC include M-G-M, Universal, RKO, Warner Bros. and Paramount.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF.—Anti-democracy broadcasting was dealt a heavy blow at the recent convention of the National Association of Broadcasters, crystallizing still further the controversy which reached nation-wide proportions a few months ago when current legal requirements forced networks to broadcast a speech by Earl Browder, Communist candidate for President. It has been recommended to Congress by NAB that the law be amended to allow stations to refuse time to parties subservient to a foreign power or seeking violent overthrow of the government.

Alec Templeton Married

Los ANGELES, CALIF.—Alec Templeton, blind pianist whose radio program returns to the air this Friday, married Juliette Vaiani, thirty-nineyear-old divorced singer, Sunday, August 25. The marriage was the culmination of a secret romance which began when the couple appeared on the same program four years ago.

"The Doctor" Distributes Dough

Dr. I. Q. came to New York on his broadcast trek of the country and tendered a cocktail party for magazine and newspaper writers in a luxurious lounge sixty-seven floors above street level, atop the RCA Building. To entertain his guests, who really seemed to enjoy the affair without any especial effort on Dr. I. Q.'s part, he and two aids put on a sample program. The "Doctor," as his associates call him, ran out of questions before he ran out of silver dollars which he awards as prize money. The following day we learned he gave the remaining pieces of silver to hangers-on. We were not among that species and so did not receive any of the specie.

The "Hour of Charm" has a year's renewal effective with the September 15 broadcast . . . At this time, Phil Spitalny, leader of the all-girl band, still is so broken up by the untimely demise of Gertrude Bogard, the chime player, he hasn't auditioned anyone to replace her; Mary McClanahan, the drummer, is doing both jobs temporarily . . . After Dorothy Mallinson, director of "Beyond These Valleys," had her picture published in a New York newspaper, she received a check in the mail for $15. It was sent by a college friend who had lost track of her . . . Barry Wood did some extracurricular entertaining when he led inmates of the Monticello, N. Y., jail in the singing of popular songs of the day.

They're saying in radio circles that Fredda Gibson, ex-Hit Parade chanteuse, has been rediscovered because of her rendition of "I'm Nobody's Baby," on "Musical Americana." Fredda hasn't had much radio work since she left "Your Hit Parade" more than a year ago, but she was rewarded after her Americana guest-spot by several offers to appear on other programs.

News from the Associated Press will be heard more frequently on commercial programs because of a determined effort by executives in that company to make it more easily available... Agnes Moorehead soon heads for Hollywood, where she will appear in Orson Welles' new picture, "Citizen Kane"... Bob Trout has authored a story, "The Unlucky Three," inspired because three persons whose telephone numbers were called failed to answer and win the "Pot o' Gold" ... Raymond Gram Swing has taken into his lovely Connecticut home tenyear-old John Gabriel Newfield, an evacuee from Buckingham, England.

Memories of Pickens Sisters

After the "Ask-It-Basket" programs, Jim McWilliams conducts an informal hour of entertainment for persons in the studio. Anyone who has the ability to entertain is invited to mount the stage and go to it. Watching these proceedings recently we saw Robert Simmons and his wife, Patty Pickens, volunteer to sing a duet. McWilliams didn't recognize these two radio veterans, but when he announced their names after they identified themselves, the audience applauded terrifically. A few years seemed to pass in review, as we watched Patty on the stage in that studio, for she had been one of our favorite Pickens sisters, and there were many times when we applauded the trio.

Television Engineers Organize . . . Live Mikings

Television may await peace markets, but already the Television Engineers Institute of America has been organized and has just held its first national convention (August 22-24) in Hollywood . . . Lost, as this is written—a brother, aged fifteen, of Rosemary De-Camp, "Dr. Christian's" Judy, and several of his boy chums who began a climb of Mt. Whitney and since have not been heard from; Rosemary and her mother have joined the search . . . Haven MacQuarrie's "Marriage Club," an NBC sustaining idea, has been sold to Wonder Bread for CBS airing beginning late in September . . . Overwork, Nelson Eddy believes, lessened his resistance and caused him to suffer too many colds last year; result, he plans this year to forget about radio and concentrate on making a score of Columbia records and another motion picture to follow "Bittersweet."

Incidentally, the movies' Kleig lights

Movies and radio team up for democracy; Helen Hayes to return in regular role; Nelson Eddy shies from air; McNeill saved by mike

Best-Dressed (?) Bicycler Benny

Jack Benny was observed, attired in full dress suit, bicycling between sets of his currently shooting Paramount flicker, "Love Thy Neighbor." Such a social error could not happen to Rochester, his screen-radio valet, for Rochester has his own man Friday (whom he calls Saturday) assisting him on the sets of the same picture while Benny has no valet in real life!

Purely Personal . . .

Rumblings of a scandal of bigred-letter proportions are rumored by Ann Parminter, who asserts she has been jilted at the trousseau by Jell-O mikeman Don Wilson; she has retained attorney Gregory Bautzer . . . Kay St. Germain, NBC's "Willson Musical Revue" songbird, and screenradactor Jack Carson were wed August 21 with Kay's and Jack's relatives in town from afar . . . Kraft's bazooker Bob Burns expects his fourth child late in September.

Screen Flicks . . . Red Skelton "Discovered"

Radio's Red Skelton has been tested, okayed and announced as a discovery by M-G-M where he has been tagged a comedy find and cast for laughs in Bob Taylor's "Flight Command" . . . Character radactor Emmett Lynn, who played in thirty-nine network serials in the three years before he came to Hollywood, has inked a seven-year contract with RKO pictures to support Tim Holt in his new western cycle at that lot . . . Meredith Willson took just one day to score the music for Chaplin's "The Great Dictator," which ordinarily would require three weeks of studio recordings. Willson credited his radio training, where timing is first essential, to his recordand Charlie Chaplin was so happy that he rushed up to Willson and kissed him! . . . Screen actor Ralph Morgan's second appearance August 17-18 on Walter White's "Nobody's Children" airing was by popular demand . . Ida Lupino, current screen rave, is collaborating with NBC conductor Gordon Jenkins in writing a light opera called "Hollywood Musicana."

Queen of Lakes Visits Hollywood

Joyce Moen, of Fergus Falls, Minn., elected "Queen of the Lakes" at the Minneapolis Aquatennial and shipped to Hollywood on a good-will mission, has been named most interesting studio visitor of the week. She called on George Burns and Gracie Allen during their August 12 broadcast, bringing bottles of water from two unnamed Minnesota lakes, which George and Gracie officially christened Lake Burns and Lake Allen. Miss Moen also visited Gene Autry, and Gene and CBS newscaster Bob Garred interviewed her and recorded the interview for airing over CBS outlet WCCO, at Minneapolis.

Vacations . . . Had Yours?

Bing Crosby has decided after all, and some mind-changing (plus a pan in this column), to go through with his vacation trip to South America, sailing late in September from New York . . . Arch Oboler, whose "Everyman's Theater" starts over NBC weekly October 4, had to cancel his planned Hawaiian cruise due to pressure of work and being recalled by M-G-M to write added scenes for "Escape," starring Bob Taylor and Norma Shearer. So Mrs. Oboler sailed alone . . . Edward G. Robinson has returned from his Pebble Beach vacation, and his leading lady, Ona Munson, is back from the East; both will prepare to relaunch "Big Town" early in October.

Umpire Kyser . . . Tagline

Kay Kyser umpired the Comedians vs. Leading Men charity night ball game August 14 amidst much ribbing of the "That's wrong, you're wrong" order.

IN CHICAGO

with Don Moore

McNeill Guilty-of Guile

"Breakfast Clubber" Don McNeill was "copped" recently at Niles, Ill., as he whisked through town in a behind-schedule trip to the studios. He didn't get a ticket, but the officer told him he'd better report to the judge that afternoon. When McNeill went on the air he told of his experience and complimented Niles for having such efficient and courteous policemen, also mentioning the judge's name. When he went to see the judge, Hizzoner was beaming like the torch of justice. A large portion of the Niles population had heard the broadcast and they had been telephoning the judge about it. Don got a suspended sentence, and the judge got a blanket invitation for the town of Niles to visit "Breakfast Club."

Baines-Bones-Beans

"I'm back to five a day," says vaudeville veteran Jess Pugh, star of "Scattergood Baines," "but it's meals instead of shows." Jess, who seeks to change his legal name to Scattergood Baines, will have to put plenty of solid victuals under his belt if he is to gain thirty or forty pounds so the movie company which is to produce "Scattergood" on the screen can see him as the man hefty enough for the movie role. Ironic note: Gale Page quit the ### movies for the sake of steak!

Latest of the important serial roles to change voices is that of "Kitty Keene." Gail Henshaw, who also plays Alice in "Backstage Wife," leaves the Kitty Keene part, but at this writing no successor has been chosen . . . Announcer Louis Roen has passed his test for a private pilot's license . . . When Pat Barrett took his "Uncle Ezra" show down to Nashville, Tenn., so he could attend the premiere of the new movie, "Comin' Round the Mountain," in which he appears, Pat almost missed the picture. He got tied up with two guest shots on the "Grand Ole Opry" program and the folks wouldn't let him go.

Massey Sings for Neighbors

Curt Massey, of the Westerners group, doesn't often practise his singing at home, for he knows that many neighbors in the city are about as ferocious and less appreciative than the wolves back on the range. He did cut loose once recently, and the result was this, the most unusual fan letter he ever received, found under the door next morning:

"Will you do us the honor of singing 'I'll Never Smile Again' on one of your programs or one of your home sessions? We wish you would practise at home more often." The note was signed: "Neighbors." Curt sings occasional solos on "Plantation Party," and is featured on MBS' Monday night "Yesterdays." I'm another listener who would like to hear his baritone voice, fresh and free like the prairie breeze, featured even more.

The Way Things Happen

It looks as if author Fayette Krum has discovered the lark in Larkin. Hearing actor John Larkin warbling Irish ballads around the studios, the writer wrote him into "Girl Alone" as Frankie McGinnis, likable Irish character who sings his way through life. The part has brought a great deal of laudatory mail, compensating Larkin somewhat for being diverted from his one-time ambition to sing in grand opera.

Peg Hillias, Alison Radcliffe in "Bachelor's Children," wanted a chair she saw in an antique shop in one of Chicago's poor Bohemian districts. She finally had the dealer coaxed down to her price. When she went around to buy the chair, she accepted actor Bret Morrison's offer to lend her his car. So Peg rolled up to the antique shop, resplendent with Bret's luxurious foreign-built car and colored chauffeur. The dealer took one look and the chair's price immediately tripled. That's once a woman shopper got taken for a ride!

Stark realism flew into a recent local broadcast of the Williams brothers, new quartet of youngsters heard occasionally on the WLS "National Barn Dance." They were singing "Get Away Flies, You Bother Me." A real fly was buzzing around, and as brother Don opened up on a tenor note, the fly accepted the challenge. Don gulped, and the quartet became a trio for about eight bars, while the tenor silently but eloquently agonized over the irony of coincidence.

THE THREE ROMEOS look like something Juliet in this intimate view of the trio rehearsing "And He Looks So Peaceful Now." L. to r., Louie Perkins, Sam Cowling, Gil Jones are heard on "Breakfast Club," "Club Matinee" and in their own NBC spots

SOUNDS IN THE NIGHT

Notes on the Log Margin

NBC, Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings: The Three Romeos have harmony that's close, comfortable and contenting when they sing seriously. When they go native with their novelty song-and-side-stuff numbers, they're pleasing to the funnybone as well as the ears. Cross reference: The Romeos are also heard one day each week on "Breakfast Club" (NBC, Mon. through Sat.), likewise one day on "Club Matinee" (NBC, Mon. through Sat.). Their original hillbilly sketches on these programs stamp the trio (they're from Louisville, Ky.) as the three Kentucky Kernels of Corn, and brand them as very clever clowns as well as singers.

very clever clowns as well as singers. MBS, Saturday, August 17: The stirring but natural characterization of Abraham Lincoln by actor DeWitt McBride in a historical cavalcade presented on the one-time broadcast of the "Chicagoland Music Festival" may well forecast a brilliant career for McBride as radio's voice of the Great Emancipator.

MBS, Monday through Friday nights: Raymond Gram Swing, commentator, and Bill Slater, announcer, make a good team. Both speak with authority, and both are dynamic, but neither of them undersells or oversells. Each, moreover, lets the other fellow take care of his own job.

sells. Each, moreover, lets the other fellow take care of his own job. CBS, Saturday night: If the networks go through with their BMI project to the limit and crowd ASCAP and most of our now-familiar popular music off the airlanes—what will happen to the "Hit Parade," which features the ten most popular tunes? A hint has been given in the recent About three musical madcaps, a mechanized studio audience, a verse that may or may not be announcement that the program offers "the ten leading hit tunes 'available for radio.' "

NBC, Saturday, August 17: "The Traitor," presented in the "Listener's Playhouse" series, served further to propel writer John La Touche into the limelight as a dynamic and forwardreaching and imaginative creator of patterns with words. This drama by the co-writer of the sensational "Ballad for Americans" employed blank verse, rhythmic prose and a Greek chorus to establish its tragic mood for the story of Benedict Arnold.

Psych the Wretch!

One of the latest radio gadgets is the psychiometer, which registers reactions of studio listeners to a program. Listeners attach pads to their hands or hold bars connected with a measuring device. Tertiary nerve currents fluctuate as people are moved emotionally. These currents are measured. They show on a tape whether listeners like Brahms or Berlin, whether an actor playing a villain is convincing or hammy. So far the contraption is in the experimental stage. The thing is costly, and its owners hope to rent it on a survey basis. It may be used to test new programs, to check rehearsals for possible flaws, and similar purposes. The gadget isn't supposed to be used

The gadget isn't supposed to be used for comedy shows. Too many comics now depend on studio-audience reaction, thinking a belly laugh they get from making a face may score as a laugh through the loudspeakers.

The many listeners who resent the imposition of studio-audience demonstrations, which are very often artificial and made under duress, might get behind this mechanical substitute.

Thoughts While Listening

On Wednesday night the half-hour beginning at 8:30 p.m. EDT must be the most geographical spot in radio. On one NBC network is "Plantation Party," symbolizing the South. On the other NBC net is "Manhattan at Midnight," with its setting of course in the East's New York City. On CBS is "Dr. Christian," set in a typical midwestern town, River's End. On some local stations at that time the "Lone Ranger" hi-yos through the Far West. To top it all, MBS' offering in the spot is "Where Do You Come From?"

is "Where Do You Come From?" On a recent "National Barn Dance" program (NBC, Sat.) the Hoosier Hot Shots introduced a new member of their outfit—Sophronia. The gal turned out to be the same old Hot Shot washboard dressed up in female garb and sporting a few falsetto horns. They could bill Sophronia as "Sophy, the First of the Red Hot Washboards"!

Literary Sherman Litters Air

Ransom Sherman, always on the qui vive to stimulate the world of culture and stuff like that there in his "Club Matinee" sessions (NBC, Mon. through Sat.), is experimenting in a new line of verse which he calls "Tone poems for the violin." They're to be read, as Ransom reads them, with feeling (spelled f-o-o-l-i-n-g) to fiddle accompaniment. Sherman's initial opus, heard on the air recently, was an original masterpiece. Here is the way it went, as nearly as cold type can convey its intensity and power:

TETHERED TERMITES

Ah, that to all, of which—skyrockets? Ahhhhh—worms seeking apples at dusk.

Worms finding apples at dusk. Wormy apples we buy—at dusk. But what of telephone poles—so low? So high? Medium. Then off to billowy pavements. Alas! Goody! Blow wind—shhhhh! Purple pumpkins—avast there, matey. Termites—tethers. Hi, Zanzibar!

FIRST FAMILIES of RADIO

These are the people behind the voices of "Midstream"

stands between Miss Gerson and Mr. Hughes. The six men in the rear, left to right, are: Timothy Storey (played by Olan Soule), Sandy Sanderson (Bob Jellison), David Meredith (Willard Farnum), announcer Gene Baker, John Elliott (Henry Hunter) and Charles Meredith (Russell Thorson)

WHEN a man reaches middle age —and usually long before—he's ready to settle down to the comforts of a slippered existence. Certainly that is Charles Meredith's (Russell Thorson) feeling after he has built a comfortable living for his wife and two children. But Julia Meredith (Betty Lou Gerson), like many of her kind, frantically clings to the youth which her husband is content to release.

Theirs is the struggle between youth and age which comes with middle age. The creator of Charles and Julia, Miss Pauline Hopkins, calls it "Midstream" (heard every week, Mondays through Fridays over NBC).

(heard every week, Mondays through Fridays over NBC). "Midstream" directs listeners' sympathies to Charles Meredith's problems in the face of his wife's mad escapades with younger men—affairs which have led only to family scandal and dissension. Currently Charles finds himself facing bankruptcy. To oversee his affairs on their behalf, the creditors have sent John Elliott (Henry Hunter), who further complicates matters because he is the former husband of Charles' secretary, Ruth Andrews (Annette Harper). Ruth is in love with Charles, and it is to her that the two Meredith children, David (Willard Farnum) and Midge (Lesley Woods), turn for advice, rather than to their mother. Both children have their own romances.

Recently Charles has announced to his wife that her latest affair—with a young artist—has wrecked their marriage and that he has forgiven her once too often. This time, it seems, he's through. Listeners to this absorbing fifteen-months-old serial are anxiously waiting to know if he is serious. Most of them hope so.

FOR MISSING HEIRS

A decrepit dishwasher inherits $12,000 . . . A hard-pressed businessman collects $45,000. Millions more are waiting—perhaps for you!

By LORRAINE THOMAS

S OME weeks, Roy Buckles did not even make ten dollars. He was getting old—almost fifty-two, already — and standing around on the damp floor of the Fort Worth, Texas, lunchroom, where he washed dishes, made his bones ache so that he couldn't work very steadily. All this made Roy wonder if his mother hadn't been right, if he wouldn't have been better off if he had stayed at home in Broken Arrow, Okla.

Broken Arrow seemed so far away and so long ago. He had been young then, and the wanderlust in his blood had taken him far and wide. But it had given him no security, and with a pride that still burned brightly, Buckles refused to go home broke. He huddled over the greasy dishwater, thinking about things so hard that he didn't hear Polly Walsh, secretary of the local dishwashers' union, come running into the kitchen.

"You're rich, Buckles," she was shouting. "I just heard it over the radio!"

When Buckles finally understood what she was saying, he didn't believe it. Polly had been listening to the radio when she heard Buckles' name. Pricking up her ears, she had heard how Roy's mother had died and left him a quarter of her estate. Excitedly he called the phone number in New York. They asked him some questions —questions which only Buckles, and no imposter, could answer. It was true.

Buckles—comico-tragic Cinderella of the greasepots—was heir to $12,000!

The shades of Horatio Alger, Jr., must hover very close to the microphone over which the "Court of Missing Heirs" is broadcast. Older readers may remember Alger as the writer who dealt—fictionally and quite profitably — with tales of the wildest dreams-come-true. He would start with a penniless bootblack, and by the time you reached the back paper cover, the deserving bootblack would be fabulously wealthy because, all the time, he was the longlost son and heir of John J. Moneybags.

Built upon the same appeal as its fictional Alger precedent, "Court of Missing Heirs" plays for keeps. It is written from the cold, matter-of-fact records of America's probate courts. This is not to say that the cases presented—in well-written dramatizations —are cold and matter-of-fact, as we shall see. They are alive, dramatic and wholly gripping. Modern Algers of the airwaves are Modern Algers of the airwaves are Chicago attorney James F. Waters and advertising man Alfred Shebal. The germ of the idea was Waters'. He came upon it one day while looking up a matter in Chicago's probate court, where he came upon thousands of dollars in inheritances which could not be delivered because whereabouts of the rightful heirs was not known. A later investigation showed that more than $162,000,000 in unclaimed legacies were beating about probate courts throughout the nation.

THE "Court of Missing Heirs" became a reality, however, when Mr. Waters told his friend, Shebal, about it. Shebal immediately saw the dramatic appeal of the unclaimed inheritances and expressed his belief that radio—so widely listened to—might find heirs that letters and newspapers couldn't. For sheer human interest, with all of those qualities which made Alger a best-seller, plus the added quality of expectation which every listener must have as names and places and legacies come over the air, "Court of Missing Heirs" is a radio best-seller.

Almost like a page of fiction was the case of Carl Henry Proehl, born in Minneapolis at the turn of the century. Only child of a moderately wealthy family, he enjoyed every advantage good schools, a good home, a mother's love. When he was little more than seventeen, he fell in love with a childhood playmate and made his plans to marry her. On the night that he planned to propose, he borrowed a car from a friend and called at her home.

"Would you like to go for a ride, Peggy? Joe said I could use his car." "But—but is that all Joe told you?"

"But—but is that all Joe told you?" "Why, yes. What do you mean?" "I mean, didn't he tell you about me

"I mean, didn't he tell you about me

It was only then that Carl began to understand. Peggy and Joe were in love. They were going to be married. Carl couldn't bear to think of staying on in Minneapolis, of seeing them together day after day. That night he left his home. To his mother, whom he loved dearly, he wrote regularly but never gave a return address. And because he traveled from one job to another, moving rapidly, she was unable to locate him. There was another reason why he was hard to locate, a reason to be brought out much later.

son to be brought out much later. On October 19, 1935, Emma Proehl died, leaving her entire estate to her only son, Carl. But the probate court was unable to find him. At last they took their case to the "Court of Missing Heirs" and it was broadcast from Coast to Coast.

On that night last January when the case was broadcast, David Barry, a small businessman of Long Beach, California, was up in his study. He pored over his account books, and each time he went over them he seemed to find them in worse shape. Business had been far from good of late, and what worried him mostly was his family—wife and two children.

Mrs. Barry came up later. She had just heard a radio program about missing heirs. Some fellow—a Carl Henry Proehl—had a legacy of $45,000 awaiting him if he could be found. It would be nice, she rattled on, if they had such a legacy. But suddenly she stopped. Barry's eyes were filled with tears, for David Barry was Carl Henry Proehl. He had changed his names years before so that he might completely lose the past, but now—well, that was all a long time ago and old wounds had healed. The legacy was just what the business of David Barry needed and it had come in the nick of time.

THERE have been plenty of others. Harry Gee Jordan, for example, was a fifty-two-year-old news-peddler in Pittsburgh one day, and the next day he was heir to $13,000, part of the estate of an almost-forgotten brother who had struck it rich in the gold fields of British Columbia. But the broadcast did more for Jordan. Seventeen years before he had quarreled with his wife and they had separated. He'd heard neither hide nor hair of her since. Mrs. Jordan, hearing the broadcast, got in touch with her husband through the "Court of Missing Heirs," a reconciliation was effected, and the couple went off on a second honeymoon the moment the estate was settled.

Walter Mazgaz was another to whom the "Court of Missing Heirs" proved a godsend. A butcher's clerk in Chicago, Mazgaz was laboring under a heavy load which included an invalid wife, with monumental stacks of medical bills pouring in monthly, and a heavily mortgaged home. The fact that an uncle had left him ten thousand dollars was conveyed to him by the "Court of Missing Heirs." William R. Snyder, working on the yacht of movie actor Barton MacLane, was told that he was the heir to twelve thousand dollars by the actor after he had heard the radio broadcast while cruising. Friends of Mrs. Jack Flowers of Baltimore informed her that she would be $14,000 richer if she would get in touch with the "Court of Missing Heirs" several weeks after Mrs. Flowers had failed to hear the program which so vitally affected her.

In all, this unusual court-without official position but as entertaining a piece of broadcasting as you'd expect to find—has restored more than $170,-

000 in inheritances to its rightful owners who, except for the "Court of Miss-ing Heirs," might never have known of their good fortune. This has been cago friends who are fans of "Missing Heirs" and tuned in one Tuesday night

When the "Court of Missing Heirs" went on the air, the case was taken to the court for presentation. But it was already too late. Two days before the broadcast, the body of Gustave Wickstrom was found in a freight car near Toledo, Ohio. He had died of a slashed throat. The police report indicated suicide, and it is easy to see how the youth-after so many years of striving for success and finding only failure—might give up in despair. Tragedy is that, with a new start in life assured by his legacy, he should die under such circumstances two short days before he might have learned of his new chance for success.

EVEN more tragic was the case of George Dennis, for here a whole family was involved. Fortunately a happy ending was eventually reached. George, born in a religious family, was being educated for the priesthood when war came and he marched away to fight. Returning in 1919, he did not resume his studies but took a job in an automobile factory in Detroit, married and fathered two children. In 1932, when things were bad and men were being laid off, George found himself in the great army of the unemployed, with the support of his family pressing problem.

People said things were better in the West, and Dennis loaded his family into the car and went to Oakland. Calif. But things were not better. That first year, he supported his family by repairing cars stalled in Oakland's streets. Precariously he managed to eke out a living until his wife became ill. He went to the Traveler's Aid Society, but they were unable to help him. The next four years were hard, bitter years which will leave their scars forever on the souls of Dennis and his family.

Tragic-ironic, even-was the fact that all this while $18,000 was deposited in the bank at Lansford, Pennsylvania, awaiting him. All of the suffering that the Dennis family underwent-and which came to an end when they heard the "Court of Missing Heirs" broadcast which dramatized their case-could have been avoided.

"Perhaps," Dennis said, "it is just as well. We know what suffering and poverty are now, and we shall know how to make this money do the most good."

Neither are all the heirs listed on the program found despite its wide-spread listening audience. Where they have gone, what has become of them, whether they live in poverty or plenty are all speculative questions which have intriguing possibilities.

Back in 1909, Rose Steinberg was doing very well for herself as the star of a revue playing then at Potts Beer Tunnel, just off the Chicago Loop. It was there that she met and married the wealthy Peter William Nau, who took her to Milwaukee.

There the couple lived in a grand mansion, first built for Solomon Juneau, Milwaukee's founder, until bad investments wiped out Nau's estate and they were reduced to poverty.

Rose, undismayed, did the only thing she knew how to do. She bought a roadhouse outside of Milwaukeethe Crystal Roadhouse-and in Milwaukee she became the symbol of her age, just as Texas Guinan or Belle Livingstone were destined to become a few years later. But one night her husband, leaving the roadhouse with the night's receipts, was beaten up by gangsters, robbed and left for dead. The blows on his head, while they didn't kill him, left him insane.

One day he disappeared only to be found in the river-dead. From then on, Rose became a legend in the city. A lonely, middle-aged woman, she loved to dream of the past as she drove her high-powered motor cars through the city. Then, on August 12, 1936, Rose crashed into another car while driving and died from her injuries. She left an estate of $30,000, but her way of life and the failure to find in any of her papers mention of relatives or friends baffled the administrator. The estate still awaits any who might show valid claim to it.

T WOULD be interesting to know, too, what became of Peter Benninghoff, railroad detective at Taylorville, Ill., who disappeared under unusual circumstances and is a missing heir today.

Benninghoff, quite a few years ago, uncovered a coal thief gang, and in the battle which ensued killed one of them. That same night, as Peter was eating at an all-night lunchroom near the tracks, a gangster slouched in and threw a note on the table.

"Get out of town or else-" was its laconic warning. Peter left and, to this day, no trace of him has been found despite the fact that a five-thousanddollar legacy from a brother awaits his claim.

Perhaps, one of these nights, Peter Benninghoff will hear his name, will come back home. It might happen to him-or to you.

"Court of Missing Heirs" may be heard Tuesdays over a CBS network at.

A LMOST overnight America became aware of a Nazi fifth column operating here. Almost overnight Americans became aware that Nazi propagandists in the United States were saying the same things about us that they had said about Austria, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Belgium and Holland before actual invasions of those lands occurred. It wasn't entirely the sudden collapse of France, Belgium and Holland and the revelation of treason and fifth-column activity which caused their sudden downfall that opened our eyes to our own danger.

It was radio which opened our eyes. Nazi agents who, until Hitler's conquest of continental Europe, had worked in the shadows with the utmost secrecy, became suddenly bold. What they had been doing secretly was now done openly. Propaganda they had been spreading only among secret comrades and known sympathizers was now being spread into millions of American homes by way of radio through emboldened and paid agents of the Third Reich. But before the audacious agents of Hitler and Goebbels, working with sympathetic German-Americans and an ever-growing American Cliveden set, dared to use radio, a solid foundation had been laid for their work.

It was no accident that one-time war correspondent and American-citizenby-birth Col. Edward Emerson arrived in New York a short two months after Hitler's rise to power, from a long stay in Berlin. It was an accident—or at least a failure on our part to foresee that a new war weapon, treachery and subversive propaganda, had come into being—that caused ship photographers and reporters to completely ignore his arrival. Emerson had returned to the land of his birth on one of the most sinister missions imaginable.

He had returned to father a Nazi fifth column here in the United States!

Slipping quietly ashore, he went directly to the German Consul-General in New York and made his report. For the next two weeks he used office space in the Consulate-General's office, 17 Battery Place, and later occupied offices of his own in the same building. These offices were rented and paid for by the Consulate-General.

This pioneer of subversion had a twofold task. First, he was to build up a propaganda machine for dissemination of Nazism to Americans who, Herr Goebbels said, "were dissatisfied and depression-ridden." Second, he was to organize American citizens of German extraction into a strong minority pressure group.

Because Emerson's work laid the foundation for all that has followed and because he is so typical of the Nazi agent, he is worth consideration. He preached treason and subversion in the name of patriotism and lost no opportunity to proclaim his belief in the "great American way." He loved to boast, in beer halls about the city, that he was with Teddy Roosevelt's Rough Riders at San Juan Hill. What he failed to recall on these occasions was that Teddy Roosevelt sent him back from Cuba in chains on suspicion of being a traitor and a spy. Time has fully vindicated the roughriding colonel's judgment of Emerson.

Three notable precedents were set by Emerson, precedents which have been scrupulously followed by his successors. First, he took over an already established and respectable Germanlanguage newspaper, the Amerika Deutsche Post, in New York, thus gaining in one step a wide audience for his preachments. Those who have followed Emerson have done the same, taking established German-language newspapers and later, as we shall see, taking also established, innocuous German-language radio programs.

Emerson filled the columns of his Amerika Deutsche Post with materials furnished him by the German Propaganda Ministry direct; by the Fichte-Bund, a propaganda bureau in Hamburg; and by World Service, a Nazi press sheet published in ten languages at Frankfort and distributed to prominent clergymen, editors, radio newscasters and friends of the Third Reich. Those who have followed Emerson have made it their duty to see that the columns of certain American papers favorable towards Germany as well as the speeches of such Nazi-loving Americans as Gerald Winrod, Wichita, Kansas, preacher; Father Coughlin, their great loyalty to America and shout at the top of their lung-power that the things they do and the words they preach are for the betterment of America. So, people like Col. Lindbergh preach appeasement with perhaps the greatest honesty as patriotic American citizens. But the words Lindbergh spoke on Sunday, August 1940, at a "Peace Rally" in Soldier Field, Chicago-words heard throughout the nation by radio—are words that Herr Goebbels has spoken now for some seven years! There are There are many other Americans who, imbued with a philosophy manufactured in the German Propaganda Ministry, preach the same subversive sermon with, perhaps, every belief in its honestv. There are those, too, who preach it for the wealth and the power they hope to gain on Der Tag!

fascist radio preacher of Royal Oak, Michigan, and Representative Thorkelson, of Montana, draw their materials from the same source. To make it even easier for these people, the German Library of Information, also located at 17 Battery Place, N. Y. C., and operating in close conjunction with the German Consulate, has been set up.

THE second important precedent set by Emerson was his way of converting a passive German-American citizenry into a militant minority pressure group. To accomplish this, he formed an organization which was a miniature version of the Nazi Storm Troop. It was called "The Friends of Germany," while its own importance and negligible, its results are of the greatest importance. Out of this organiza-tion grew the German-American Bund, headed by Fritz Kuhn, an organization with chapters in almost every city. The current German-American Alliance, therefore, is indirectly a result of his work, for the Alliance has grown up in the last two years to re-place a Bund which, widely investi-gated and publicized, has lost its effectiveness.

To sandwich subversive activities and pronunciamentos between fat slices of Americanism and patriotism was the last—and perhaps the most effective and insidious—of all his innovations. All Nazi agents profess So, while use of radio for subversive activities is comparatively new, the background for its usage—even the words which are spoken now over the microphone—is seven years old. Let's see how the fifth column has

Let's see how the fifth column has grown and operates in the United States. Let's see how it operates on the radio, openly for all to hear.

Col. Emerson is no longer active in the United States. He made the mistake of moving too rapidly towards his objective. When his Friends of Germany, in the full uniform of Storm Troopers, paraded in New York's streets and when mass meetings at which imported Nazi speakers reviled Jews and Catholics were openly held in 1933, a wave of revulsion, then resentment, swept over the nation. In anger Goebbels recalled him to Berlin. Emerson's sin lay in the fact that he was six years ahead of his chiefs.

For the next few years, Nazi agents moved in the utmost secrecy towards their objectives. But make no mistake about it, they were on the move. The Fichte-Bund's agents moved about the country planting their insidious propaganda here and there. Uncle Sam's mails were filled with pamphlets, leaflets, papers preaching mutiny and revolt, urging German-Americans to take an interest in politics and act as one large group capable of swinging elections. Our mails were—and are—used daily to spread race hatreds and dissension with propaganda manufactured on the Wilhelmstrasse. This was done subtly, below the surface, and the average American citizen, until recently, had no inkling how far this campaign had progressed. The fact that it had progressed far enough that Nazi agents felt safe in taking their case to the people of America via radio is a fact which speaks adequately for itself.

More specifically, let's see what has been happening. Early in June the Chicago Daily News began a series of articles exposing the Chicago underground activities of the German-American Alliance. Within two weeks after this series started, World Service published a story in which it was stated that the Daily News had recently passed into the hands of the "international Jewish bankers, Kuhn, Loeb and Company," which accounted for its sudden anti-Nazi tone. This sheet is widely distributed by German agents here.

Boake Carter, on a transcribed radio broadcast heard over many stations, repeated this story. Later it was picked up by several newspapers (Father Coughlin's Social Justice among them) which cited Boake Carter as its source. In a notarized statement published in its own columns, the Daily News refuted the imaginative tale by giving its true ownership, in which the name of Kuhn, Loeb and Company did not appear.

This is the perfect example of how Nazi lies are born in the perverted mind of Herr Goebbels, picked up and repeated, perhaps innocently, by an American newscaster and in turn by countless newspapers. Thus, Americans—who will be listened to by Americans without bias—spread the malicious lies of Goebbels!

Today, radio is the first line of attack for the Hitler conquest of America. By the same reasoning, it is our first line of defense also.

In Los Angeles, radio station KRKD carried a German-language radio program for several years before the outbreak of the war. Called "The German-American Hour," it was the usual type of foreign-language programmusic, commercial announcements, occasional speeches. Time on the air for this program was bought and paid for by one Hermann L. Schwinn, who furnished the radio station with an English transcript of what was purportedly said on the air. The transcripts seemed harmless enough and the station was glad to sell the time. After the outbreak of the war, how-

After the outbreak of the war, however, station officials began to notice that military airs were played almost exclusively. Hitler's favorite, "The Badenweiller," and "Horst Wessel" were frequently aired. Announcements too began to consist almost entirely of advertisements of picnics to be held in Hindenburg Park by the notorious Bund. Station officials became uneasy. When numerous complaints began to pour into the station from listeners who quoted from the speeches—violent Nazi tirades—the station officials understood what was happening.

THE transcripts furnished the station by the program's sponsor were false! What was said on the air was entirely different from what was contained in the transcript. Their investigation of Hermann L. Schwinn, prior to kicking the program off the air, was even more amazing in the story it turned up—a story of intrigue and Nazi infiltration to make one's hair stand on end.

THE QUIZ KIDS

This sparkling new radio idea holds promise for the future

By Don Moore

RS. JONES set the dial on an NBC station and ran into words that stopped her short. A child's piping voice was tumbling out of the loudspeaker:

"A candlefish is a small fish of the smelt family that has oily flesh and is dried and used as a candle by Pacific Coast Indians. It makes a good light but smells awful."

Mr. Jones grunted, "Kid stuff." "Be still and listen," said his wife. "This must be the new 'Quiz Kids' program L read about vestarday."

program I read about yesterday." Then they both settled down and listened, their opinions in agreement for a half-hour, while they wondered if Junior would be as smart in a year or two as the five youngsters whose brilliant answers to difficult adult questions had saved the Joneses from a bad evening.

Since that first bright night of the new program, the public is increasingly "keeping up with the Joneses" by listening to and applauding this sparkling idea-show. Right in the middle of the summer, when dialers are considered to be least attentive and least appreciative, "Quiz Kids" is ringing the bell with a resounding clang.

What is the super-appeal that is making this new quiz show the sensation of the hour in radio? It's extraordinary, and therefore interesting, to hear children under fifteen display knowledge beyond that of many grown-ups. And there's much of novelty and human appeal in a situation where kids vie with each other vigorously for $100 U. S. bonds and a chance to stay on the program, just as they might shoot hard and play for keeps in a marble game. But even beyond those attractions is the comforting demonstration that our modern American system of liberal, practical education, both in the home and in the school, is pressing forward, however darkly its advance may be overshadowed by action on other fronts. In the brightness and poise and earnestness of the "Quiz Kids" is the encouraging hint that out of the shadows of today's trembling civilization will rise a more enlightened society of tomorrow.

Consider, in support of that promise of the future, the sheer intelligence displayed by the children who have appeared thus far on the program, since it was conceived by Louis Cowan, Chicago press-agent, and Sidney James, Chicago representative of Time, and put on the air for Alka-Seltzer June 28. When the Joneses checked their own score on the questions they heard, they didn't do nearly as well as the kids.

The youthful experts knew that 10 Downing Street is the headquarters of the British Prime Minister in London, that Baker Street was where Sherlock Holmes lived, and that Gabby Street was a big-league baseball manager. They answered readily that Tara was the home of the O'Haras in "Gone With the Wind" and Manderley the estate of Max de Winter in "Rebecca." They've spelled words like bourgeois and heterogeneous and defined such words as antimacassar and apteryx. A young electrical wizard explained fully and technically the principle of the "electric eye." One of the lads knew that "p.m." is an abbreviation of post meridiem and means afternoon, also that PM is the name of a new newspaper in New York City.

THE youngest of the group told three Greek myths, all dealing with golden apples, and explained the myth of Cerberus and the River Styx. Among them they supplied the answers that "f 6.3" is a camera reading, "P-K4" is a chess move, and "B1" is a form of vitamin B. The same young scientist who explained the electric eye also contributed, "Film is celluloid with an emulsion on it which is sensitive to light" and "hypo" fixing solution is sodium hypochloride. Showing they keep up with current events, they knew that "Lord Haw Haw is a German propaganda broadcaster with a British accent."

This question provided a highlight? Multiply the number of the famous Dionne children by the length of time it took to create the world; subtract the result from "when life begins"; add the time it took Phileas Fogg to go around the world. What is the final figure? The answer came back promptly — eighty-five, and it was called correct. Quick as a wink, however, one of the girls confounded the judges and raised a minor controversy by asserting that this answer was wrong because it was based on the assumption that the world was made in seven days, whereas, she said it really took only six days, and the seventh was a day of rest!

And the children knew, significantly, that the first ten amendments to the Constitution are the Bill of Rights. Granting that supplying the complete answers and interpretations to questions like these won't exactly solve the world's future problems, surely such intelligence is a bright prophecy and an incentive for the Joneses and Junior's teacher to scratch their heads a little harder and for Junior to sprout a few knowledge bumps and show those "Quiz Kids" they're not the only smart ones. All the "Quiz Kids," brilliant though

All the "Quiz Kids," brilliant though they are, still are the normal children of average families. As a matter of fact, most of them come from families of moderate or even poor circumstances.

They are normal kids who got some good guidance and made the most of their opportunities, as any can. They are clean-cut and likable, as well as intelligent kids. They are kids who may lead in shaping the society of tomorrow. Thus far the "Quiz Kids" have been selected only from Chicago and vicinity, but the program probably will extend the scope of its selection nationally. Then even more astonishing and gratifying proof may be forthcoming that there are plenty of Gerards and Vans and Cynthias from Coast to Coast, eager to grow up intelligently and help the world grow up with them.

THE AROUND-THE-WORLD BROADCASTING SERVICE OF THE GENERAL ELECTRIC COMPANY

HE "Around-the-World Broadcasting Service" of the General casting Service of the General Electric Company was instituted at Schenectady, New York, in June of 1925, when W2XAF (now WGEO), one of the pioneer stations of the world, went on the air on an experimental basis. A year later in July of 1926, a sister station, W2XAD (now WGEA), began operations from the same transmitting site. To fulfill the need for satisfactory reception of North American programs in the Orient, a third in-ternational station, KGEI, was officially inaugurated in San Francisco. in March of 1939.

The Schenectady, New York, stations of the General Electric Company have been popular with European and Latin-American listeners for many years, but recent improvements in transmitter strength and in antenna design have so increased the signal strength in these areas that listeners now report almost one hundred percent veception of the programs of WGEA and WGEO. WGEO's transmitter output of approximately 100,000 watts gives it the distinction of being the world's most powerful short-wave station. WGEA at present has an output power of about 25,600 watts but this is to be increased soon to 50,000 watts. KGEI of San Francisco will also have its power upped from 20,000 to 50,000 watts in the near future.

The present operating schedule for the Schenectady stations is as follows: Daily, from 6 to 9 a.m. over WGEA (21.500 or 15.33); from 9:15 a.m. to 4 p.m., directed to Europe, over WGEA (15.33); from 4:15 to 7:15 p.m., directed to Latin America (announced in Portu-guese), over WGEA (9.55); from 1 to 4 p.m., directed to Europe, over WGEO (9.53), and 4 to 10 p.m. CST (announced in Spanish and En-glish), over WGEO (9.53).

The most popular single program broadcast over the Schenectady international stations at present is the "Salute to the Byrd Expedition" broadcast which is directed to the members of the Byrd Expedition at Antarctica, alternate Friday nights at 9:30 p.m. CST (the next will be on Sept. 13), over WGEO (9.53).

LESLIE HOWARD NOW ON STAFF OF LONDON SHORT-WAVE STATION: Leslie Howard, the stage and screen star, is now a regular contributor to "Britain Speaks," one of the most popular features of the BBC's recently inaugurated program for North Amer-

Listeners can often hear the Antarctic Station KRTK on one of the following frequencies: 12.862, 11.06 or 9.135 megs. At 10 p.m. CST, the "Byrd Mail Bag," which consists of the reading of from 100 to 200 short letters or greetings from friends or relatives in the United States to members of the expedition, is broadcast.

English news periods may be heard over the Schenectady staheard over the Schenectady sta-tions as follows: Daily, at 6 a.m. over WGEA (21.500); weekdays except Saturdays, at 7 a.m. over WGEA (15.33), at 11:45 a.m. over WGEA (15.33) and at 2:55 p.m. over WGEA (15.33) and WGEO (0.52) (9.53).

Popular network features aired over the Schenectady stations, and which often afford good reception in areas of North America in which there are no local chain outlets as well as in those countries to which they are specifically beamed, are as follows (all time Central Standard 13

THE MAN WITH THE ACTING EYES

renewed every six months. For very definitely Basserman's fifty years of greatness on the German stage-and Basserman himself, as a man-is an invaluable contribution to the American screen. He is a vital, electric, unforgettable personality.

Like all great men, he is totally lacking in affectation. He goes his way, does what is required of him with a self-effacement strange in his profession but typical of him. Max Reinhardt says it is his nobility, a nobility of heart and soul and purpose, that makes him the great and simple actor that he is. You feel this quality the instant you come into his presence.

WHEN you meet him, you note that his eyes-those eyes with which he can convey any emotion—are a deep blue, sad almost. There are deep lines in his face. Sturdily built, he gives the impression of one who has lived through terrible times. The magnetic attraction of the man is felt in his presence. One is struck by a sense of humility which sweeps over one like a tidal wave.

America he has come to love, he tells . but he would rather live in you . Germany. After all, that is his home. But not the Germany of today. His Germany is no more. It passed into oblivion with the rise of Hitler and Nazism. It pained him deeply to have to renounce his own country, but he loves his wife more than nationalization.

There is a certain sense of completion between the actor and his wife, Elsa Schiff, seldom found nowadays. They rarely go out, Basserman preferring her company to the utter exclusion of friends and other celebrities. Even in Europe, he was known as a man who never mingled-although genial and easy to know—and his shy-ness was a by-word of the theater. Close as was Reinhardt to him, the producer never once stepped inside Basserman's home. The actor kept to himself, just as he does in Hollywood, where few enjoy any intimacy with him.

Basserman is an individualist. In German, he speaks with an accent which he will not forsake and for which he was famous in his homeland -comparable, perhaps, to the southern accent of our own country. His writing is unique-he writes phonetically and makes no attempt to conform to convention. But he is trying to Americanize himself.

He meets this question with the reply that he is trying to "Hollywoodize" himself. He tells you, quite seriously in his halting English but with an unmistakable twinkle in his eye, that at home he dresses up in slacks, polo shirt, sport jacket and scarf, and parades around the house for his family to admire him in his new Hollywood regalia. When he is to go out, though, he loses his nerve and puts aside the outfit for more conservative attire.

He never mentions the past. There are too many bitter memories. Much of the fortune he amassed now is gone. That is unimportant, relatively speaking. What really matters is that the spirit of his country is changed, dead; there no longer is anything to look forward to in Germany. He belongs to the old order, and he admits he is too old to change. A patriot at heart, he cannot bear to touch upon his renunciation of his country. It hurts too much. Basserman is a sensitive man who cherishes memories. He is a gentleman of the old school.

It is an axiom in Hollywood that the studio workers - electricians, carpenters, props-are the severest critics. It is significant, then, that whenever Basserman works in a scene they manage to be on hand in maximum numbers. Word has spread that Basserman's acting is of spectacle proportions.

When Noel Coward visited Hollywood some weeks ago with little time at his disposal, his first move was to head straight for the "A Dispatch from Reuters" set, there to pay his respects to Basserman. He idolizes the man, and to him it was a privilege to greet him. It was not until he had talked with the actor for more than an hour that he even noticed the others on the set, Edward G. Robinson-who plays the title role-among them. That awe in which Coward holds Basserman is contagious

Despite difficulties of language, Basserman is a "one take" actor-he never makes a mistake. Dieterle paid tribute to his acting by refusing to direct him in a single scene in "Ehrlich." He outlined the action, then left its delineation, its dramatic emphasis, its feel wholly to Basserman, accepting his interpretation without question as the full extent to which the scene could be played.

Basserman's training as an actor dates from the time he was a boy. Born in Mannheim, he went on the stage in 1889, and for fifty years was known as the greatest actor of his time.

There is a tradition in the old Deutsches Theater in Berlin that no actor shall ever take a curtain-call. That tradition was broken when audiences insisted that Basserman appear before the curtain after an Ibsen drama. Years ago he was awarded the famed Iffland ring, which since early in the nineteenth century has been handed down to the best actor of successive generations.

BASSERMAN was one of the first German actors to go into movies. Occasionally he would take time off from his tours of central Europewhere his stage appearances were hailed as the finest events of the season -to make pictures. His real screen career, however, may be said to date from his appearance in "Dr. Ehrlich's Magic Bullet," a career which already has found motivation in such new pic-tures as "Escape," "Knute Rockne—All American," "Foreign Correspondent,' "A Dispatch from Reuters," and "Moon Over Burma," most of which are still to be seen by the American public.

One last anecdote is illustrative of this man who has taken Hollywood by storm:

Bette Davis admires Basserman as a great artist. Whenever she can, she slips onto the set to watch him act. For the premiere of her picture "All This, and Heaven Too," she invited him and his wife to be her honored guests. Basserman, deeply touched, declined with thanks.

He refused on the ground that the evening was Bette's, a gala occasion for her. It would be impertinent of him, he declared, to share her wellearned glory by entering the spotlight with her when he had done nothing in America to deserve attention.

Albert Basserman wants only peace for his old age, the right to pursue the calling for which he was born.

Hollywood now proudly and gratefully extends him that right.

VOICE OF THE LISTENER

Express your opinions. Write V. O. L., 731 Plymouth Court, Chicago, Ill.

Commercialized Patriotism

Dear V. O. L.:

I object to commercialized patriotism. So many sponsors are taking advantage of present conditions and even go so far as to refer to the Declaration, the ex-Presidents and everything we hold sacred as true Americans when they are advertising their products. Advertise, yes, but keep our patriotism apart.

Flo Hartz, Chicago, Ill.

• We haven't checked recently. Are they guaranteeing soap to clean up Hitler and cigarettes to smoke out the fifth column?—V. O. L.

Write the Sponsor

Dear V. O. L .:

Radio studio audiences need to be educated on group etiquette. It is said that the intelligence of the average listener is comparable to that of a twelve-year-old child. Even this age estimate is flattering to many audiences. After each joke studio spectators whistle and applaud. Usually there are two or three stooges who guffaw and lead those who ordinarily would chuckle to join in on the handclapping.

Several of these commuting audience leaders can be recognized by voice and the sustained applause on various comedy programs. Another fact that shows the lack of thought by studio attenders is the vigorous applause that follows a solo or choral rendition of a sacred selection. Recently on a large Sunday musical program a soloist sang Malotte's program a soloist sang Malotte's "Lord's Prayer." When the singer had finished the impressive anthem, the attending audience burst into robust applause.

A movement to improve the intelligence of the studio audience would be welcomed by the millions of home listeners.

Paul Barter, Melrose, Mass.

• We agree with the general complaint, but we are inclined to disagree somewhat with the direction of charge. We believe that the situation proves not so much the lack of intelligence on the part of spectators as it does the need for sponsors and their agencies to tone down the overemphasis on studio applause, requested, urged and coached by the directors of the shows. This calls for plenty of writing to the sponsors.-V. O. L.

Dialer's Discovery

Dear V. O. L .:

I was under the impression that all quiz programs were dull. But recently I heard "Information, Please" and changed my mind. Now it's my fa-vorite program and I wouldn't miss it. Elizabeth Pryor, Rushville, Ill.

• The writer would probably also like the new "Quiz Kids" program on Fri-day nights on NBC. And by the way, this is a strategic place to notify "In-formation, Please" listeners that the listeners that the program changes from NBC-Blue to NBC-Red, from Canada Dry to Lucky Strikes, from Tuesday to Wednesday on November 13.-V. Mrs. C. Holmes, Newaygo, Mich .--BETTY RUTH SMITH, Karen Adams Harding on "Woman in White," graduated from Kansas University in 1937, then decided to get into radio. Knowing that experience on a small station very valuable, she worked for the next year and a half in Wichita, helping with dramatic shows, writing continuity and a multitude of other broadcasting chores. Then she came to Chicago on a Monday, saw the sights a Tuesday, wandered around to NBC on a Wednesday morning, tried out in a studio audition and was so very convincing that she got the role. She has been working in various roles on NBC ever since. Betty's sparetime hobby is watercolor painting of landscapes and portraits. Her nickname is "B. R." and she definitely does not like to be called "Smitty." Standing five feet four and one-half inches, Betty Ruth Smith is an attractive lass with lightbrown hair and snapping blue eyes . . . RUSSELL THORSON is now heard as Charles Meredith on "Midstream."

Miss Marjorie Gross. Chicago, Ill.-LEONARD KELLER, orchestra-

music as a career. He was born in Chi-cago, October 6, 1909. He attended the Ogden elementary school, Francis Parker High School and studied music at the Juilliard Foundation, where he won a scholarship. This paid his way through the University of Wisconsin While at the university he taught at the Wheeler School of Music and organized a string quartet which became famed throughout the state. After graduation Leonard struggled along in New York at one job or another until he was finally called upon to organize an orchestra for a Manhattan night-club. Keller played with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra as soloist in 1927. His favorite pastime is listening to symphony concerts and favorite sport is baseball. All the members of Leonard's family are interested in music to the extent of playing one or more instruments. Leonard is six feet one inch tall, weighs 150 pounds. He has dark-brown hair and brown eyes.

Mrs. Grady Clements, Moultrie, Ga.-It was fortunate that STUART CHURCH-ILL worked his way through college. Otherwise he might have missed the chance of going with Fred Waring as one of his featured performers. In 1929 Churchill was in his senior year at the University of Michigan. The four college years hadn't been all fun. For two years he had paid for his room by tending furnaces and had earned his meals by working in a restaurant. An occasional job playing in dance orchestras kept him in pocket money. Anyway, in his senior year he was singing in a restaurant when Waring dropped in. It wasn't entirely a coincidence, because with him was a fraternity brother of Stuart's who was a member of the Waring orchestra. A short time before, this "brother" had visited the Phi Mu Alpha fraternity house at Ann Arbor and heard young Churchill sing. He was so impressed that he prevailed upon the maestro to come and hear the promising young singer. Waring liked the boy and thought so well of his singing that he invited him to join his Pennsylvanians. That, however, was not the beginning. Stuart's mother taught piano in his home town, St. Francis, Kans. As a result, his musical education began early. He developed into a good pianist and then took up the study of the xylophone. Vocal studies followed. Stuart can play the drums, vibraphone, banjo, mandolin, saxophone and also other reeds. He writes his own arrangements, but has never tried composing music. Stuart is five feet seven inches tall, weighs 130 pounds (has tried everything to gain weight, but to avail), has blue no eyes and brown hair, celebrates his birthday on January 15. One of his hobbies, to which he gives a great deal of time, is photography. He has a portrait gallery of radio artists whom he has photo-graphed himself.

Mr. R. Ress. St. Marys, Pa.-RED FOLEY is married to the former Eva Overstake. She is not doing any professional work at present, but used to be leader and violinist, states that since child-hood he has thought of nothing but RABY portrays Harry Davis on "When

Mr. James E. Sills, Winston-Salem, N. C .- VIVA LIEBLING iS LEONARD LIEB-LING'S daughter, ESTELLE LIEBLING is Mr. Liebling's sister.

Mr. Paul McMahon, Rome, N. Y .-HELEN WOOD was born in Clarksville, Tenn., June 4, 1917. She is five feet six inches tall, weighs 120 pounds, has brown hair and hazel eyes. She attended private school, high school and studied voice culture and dramatics. Some of the pictures she has appeared in include "My Marriage" and "She Married Her Boss" in 1935; "Charlie "She Chan at the Race Track," "High Tension," "Can This Be Dixie?" and "Champagne Charlie" in 1936, and sion." "Crack-Up" in 1937.

Two perfectly matched speakers handle the wide frequency response and power of the 17-tube receiver. The small light weight speaker is scientifically positioned within the larger 12-inch speaker. They are espe-cially designed to handle the tremendous output of the highly advanced audio system of the super powerful Midwest chassi. Every tone is handled perfectly—from clear treble to deep, sonorous bass. There are no "lost" frequencies.

Offers even higher efficiency pick-up, even greater noise-reducing and long-distance re-ception on 12-tube and 17-tube models. This "collector system" greatly improves recep-tion by cutting down man-made interfer-
