Capital Airlines and its agency, Le Edwin Ryan, are Sold on Spot as a basic advertising medium.

To get its fast-growing Viscount service off and winging in a new market, Capital Airlines relies on Spot Radio. Ten days before a new Viscount flight schedule goes into operation, Capital opens full blast with a six-week saturation schedule. A hard-hitting, year-round campaign follows, precision-timed to reach the businessman who must travel. Early in the morning, late in the afternoon, early and late in the evening, Spot sells the businessman on the economy, luxury and speed of Capital's Viscount flights.

 Sam Hunsaker, Acct. Exec.,
 Lewis Edwin Ryan Adv.;
 Joel S. Daniels, Jr., Adv. Mgr.,
 Capital Airlines;
 James W. Austin, V.P., in charge of Sales & Traffic, Capital Airlines;
 William J. Green, Director Radio-TV,
 Lewis Edwin Ryan Adv.;
 Marty Pollins, Radio Sales
 Representative, NBC Spot Sales

Sells? In July, 1955, Capital inaugurated a new Viscount service between Washington and Chicago. By October, 1956, they had tripled the service and zoomed from less than 20% to more than a 50% share of a greatly-expanded market! In Washington, and in Chicago, as in every on-line city served by NBC Spot Sales, Capital uses NBC Spot Sales-represented stations.

Here's how James W. Austin, Capital's Vice-President in charge of Sales and Traffic, sums it up:

"Capital's problem is to sell seats and to sell them right now, to cover the market completely and to provide the flexibility we need in each market. Spot Radio is a 'must' in our advertising program."

Foreword

WITH this volume RADIO-TELEVISION DAILY presents to the radio and television industry and the field of electronics THE RADIO ANNUAL and TELEVISION YEAR BOOK of 1957. Backed by twenty years of intensive effort and the complete support and co-operation of every branch of the industry, this book has become universally recognized as the standard guide and reference work of the electronic field.

GLANCING backwards for the moment we see nineteen hundred and fifty-six as the greatest milestone in the many years of progress in this great industry. With its tremendous stations everywhere, its enormous investments, its millions and millions of viewers and listeners, its international prestige and its wholesome force for good, radio and television compellingly stands today as the giant of the amusement and public service kingdom. Color on TV for more general use is just over the hill and it is not unlikely that a third dimension will be knocking at the door soon.

TO those from every corner of the country and every branch of broadcasting who have contributed and co-operated in the compiling of statistics and information in the following pages, RADIO-TELEVISION DAILY is indeed grateful.

BULOVA
TIME"

This . . . the world's most famous commercial time signal was first heard in 1927! It became the announcement most familiar to the radio audience . . . just as today Bulova is seen most often on television.

The first commercial announcement ever made on television — 2 P.M., July 1, 1941, over WNBT, New York, was also sponsored by BULOVA. Now — Bulova has over 96 million spot impressions weekly; almost 114 million impressions on the Jackie Gleason Show and other top network programs!

As a pioneer user of radio and television spots, Bulova salutes the stations which have served it so well, and wishes them continued prosperity!

FCC REPORTS ON RADIO-TV INDUSTRY FINANCIAL FIGURES

Financial figures for the radio-television industry released by the Federal Communications Commission indicate a continued increase in total revenue. Combined radio and television profits in 1955 are reported at 48.5% above the preceding year. Among the interesting financial particulars reported, though, is the fact that the four nationwide radio networks and three regional radio networks (including nineteen owned and operated stations) had total revenues 11.6% below that of 1954. The total of the country's other radio stations reported a revenue increase of 3.9%.

A black and white advertisement for the 1957 Chevrolet. The central focus is a close-up portrait of a man with short, dark hair, wearing a light-colored suit jacket, a white shirt, and a dark tie. He is looking directly at the camera with a serious expression. The background is slightly blurred, showing what appears to be an office or indoor setting. The overall aesthetic is classic and professional.

(1) In view of the difficulty in a joint AM-FM operation in allocating FM operation expense separately from AM station operation expense, licensees of such stations were not required to report FM station expense separately. As a result, FM industry totals for expense and income are not available. AM-FM licensees, however, were requested to report separately the revenues, if any, attributable to FM station operation if such data were readily available. In only a few instances did AM-FM licensees state they were unable to segregate the FM revenues.

SIGNIFICANT DEVELOPMENTS IN TV BROADCASTING—1956-1957

A prime technical development of the past several months has been the employment of miniature-sized TV equipment. Shown above, left, is the CBS INTEC French developed portable which weighs 36 pounds including power supply, generator, and transmitter. At the right, the RCA portable TV station with a four pound camera and a 15 pound transmitter.

A major story of the year has been television's fight to gain entry to court-room hearings, from which cameras have ordinarily been barred. Above, Gabe Pressman, roving reporter for WRCA-TV, New York, leaving New York City Council hearings after protesting the exclusion, and attempting to remain.

FCC Outlines Some Current Developments and Problems

By GEORGE C.
McCONNAUGHEY
Chairman
Federal Communications Commission

(1) Brief Survey of Broadcasting
IN the broadcast field AM stations now total 3,125, of which 3,005 are on the air. Commercial FM station authorizations have decreased to 554, with 529 operating. However, the number of non-commercial educational FM authorizations has risen to 141, of which 125 are in operation.

Commercial TV station authorizations now total 631 (426 VHF and 205 UHF). Of this number, 472 commercial TV stations are on the air (382 VHF and 90 UHF). In addition, 38 stations (all UHF) which went off the air still retain operating authorizations. TV stations holding construction permits number 121 (77 UHF and 44 VHF). These figures do not include new TV translator stations, of which 21 have been authorized to extend TV service to remote areas and five are already functioning. Of 46 noncommercial educational TV station grants (27 VHF and 19 UHF), 23 are on the air (18 VHF and 5 UHF).

Over 90 percent of the population is now within range of at least one TV station, 76 percent can receive two or more TV stations, and 60 percent can get three or more TV stations. More color TV programs and color TV sets are available.

In order to make UHF transmission more compatible with that of VHF, the Commission has initiated an immediate research and development program to increase the coverage of UHF stations, is acting on proposals to eliminate local VHF channels in UHF areas and, at the same time, assign more VHF outlets to other localities. Also, it is considering the possibility of ultimately shifting all or a geographical proportion of TV operation to the UHF band. Proposals for "boosters" and "subscription" TV service, and extended authority over community TV systems, are also receiving its attention.

The Commission expects to complete its special study of radio and TV network broadcasting by June 30, 1957.

(2) Problems of the Commission in 1957

The close of last year found the Commission head-on with many problems posed by the growth of the nation's electrical communication facilities. They extend beyond broadcasting to other services bursting at the seams and interests demanding space in crowded parts of the spectrum.

New techniques may make it possible to double-up on some popular frequencies, while new equipment holds promise of operating on still higher bands. However, the complicated problems involved in "single sideband," "split channel" and "over-the-horizon" transmission, as well as extension of the microwave facilities, require exacting engineering consideration.

At the same time, the mushrooming of transmitters coupled with the mounting popularity of electronic gadgets is causing an unprecedented amount of interference which is difficult to control.

In broadcasting, the AM band is so congested that only small local daytime-only stations seem able to shoehorn in. Commercial FM continues to lose stations numerically. In trying to help resolve UHF problems in TV, the Commission is deluged with conflicting deintermixture and other proposals which further complicate the situation.

Competition and interference considerations require one out of every three applications for new TV and AM stations go to hearing.

Also, court dictum now requires the Commission to hear, with priority, practically all protests to grants made without hearing. This not only bogs down the Commission's processes but holds up new services to the public.

If Commission procedures are considered slow, this is due largely to the extra steps that higher authority requires it to take. The FCC is saddled with more procedural time-consuming requirements than any other Federal agency. In particular, it needs relief from a 1952 amendment to its act which goes far beyond standard government procedure by precluding the Commission from consulting its own staff experts on problems involved in certain proceedings.

Despite a workload that has doubled and become more complex in the past few years, the Commission personnel remains numerically unchanged and overworked.

But whether or not the Commission is able to catch up with its work schedules, there is every indication that the electrical communications industry will, in practically every line, continue its present high rate of expansion and development.

Exciting Future Of Broadcasting Is In Impact On American Thought

By HAROLD E.
FELLOWS
President & Chairman of the Board
N.A.R.T.B.

I'M sure it should be my design in this article to talk about the various accomplishments and problems of the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters during 1956 and to make some prediction of our program for the future.

However, I should like to take the liberty at the outset of making a few general comments about broadcasting itself, in both its video and aural aspects.

The most dramatic evidence of what television means to America is the estimated 1,481,570,000 home hours viewed each week by the public during the past year. And radio has reached such a point of saturation that people now listen not only in every room of their homes, but in cars, in their places of business, in their outdoor activities—in fact, everywhere they go.

Public comprehension of the vital role of both radio and television was enhanced by the observance of separate national weeks for each medium in 1956 and we hope this year's celebrations — May 5-11 for Radio and September 22-28 for TV — will be even more successful.

In the production sense, the past year has been a rich one indeed — bringing us again the national political conventions and the subsequent coverage of the campaigns themselves, and, in early 1957, by the inauguration.

The truly stupendous effect of this instrument of political life of today and tomorrow is rather difficult for any of us to comprehend. Television and radio today have dispelled some of the "fog" and the electorate's capacity to choose on the basis of merit—both in the case of candidates and issues—has been enhanced immeasurably.

In retrospect, we saw quite an advance in the field of entertainment during 1956. Some particularly fine Hollywood films have reached the home screen, adding to the riches television offers the public. Surely this new source of programming will give impetus to continued improvement in the "live" product. Competition has been a keystone in progress in this nation from time of genesis, and I don't doubt that this same factor will hold true in television broadcasting, as we know from experience that it did in radio.

We have seen the names of people in our own family of activity emblazoned in the headlines of our own trade papers — those who, in the background, have contributed so much to the objectives toward which we aspire.

During the past year, the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters, representing an all-time high of 2,126 members, seemed to attain a better understanding of its industry's principles and plans in a very significant place — on Capitol Hill in Washington. The various hearings that were conducted by the Senate Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee and the House Judiciary Committee and others, served only — although they seemed to be perhaps aggravating at the moment — to shed light that reflected some glory on the industry. I believe they helped us more than they hurt us.

In 1956 we saw organized TASO — the all-industry effort to contribute some practical analysis to the problem of full service in television, all of this at the suggestion of the Chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, the Honorable George C. McConaughy. TASO represents at the least a healthy evidence of industry cooperation with government — and at the most, we hope, a step in the direction to the solution of one of the most difficult problems broadcasting has ever faced.

There have been numerous "background" conferences between the Association and its executive personnel with broadcasters on such diverse subjects as music licensing, public relations, news broadcasting, standards and ethics, copyright, legislation, and even such subjects as changing the name of the Association back from the NARTB to the NAB. All of these conferences, leading eventually to recommendations to the policy-setting boards of the Association and the subsequent adoption of procedural plans, reflect the serious purpose of men working together.

We look forward to 1957 and the succeeding years as times of excitement and great development in both radio and television, and those of us at NARTB are happy that in some way we have a part in this adventure that lies ahead.

1957—A Year of Opportunity and of Great Success for Radio

By DONALD H.
McGANNON
President
Westinghouse Broadcasting Company, Inc.

OPPORTUNITY, they say, knocks but once. This certainly doesn't seem to be the case with radio, where opportunity's knock is sounding loud and clear for 1957.

Radio, which represented the beginning of the electronic era, responded so vigorously to the first knockings of opportunity that it became the focal point of entertainment within the home, and developed a public taste for entertainment and education to a degree never before known. Radio set density and penetration reached phenomenal heights, and its ability to sell goods and services contributed in large measure to the expansion of the entire national economy.

Then along came television, which took over the living room and scored so heavy an emotional impact that many are still convinced that it has started radio on the way out—though the fact is that radio is bigger today, in terms of advertising dollars spent and of sets in use, than it was in its so-called heyday a decade ago. In 1945, at the end of wartime and before there was any national television set density, broadcasting industry leaders felt they never had it so good, with a gross revenue for the year of $425,000,000. In contrast, in 1955, when radio broadcasters in many cases complained of the great inroads made by television, radio's gross revenue was $121,000,000 higher than the 1945 level. The 1956 figures are not in as of this writing, but the estimate is that they will be approximately the same as the 1955 gross.

But radio has taken on a new and far more personal form, and in that transformation the feature act and the highly produced show have given way to programming designed not so much for the listening of family groups but to entertain, inform and serve the individual. Radio has become the companion medium that goes with us everywhere, to the beach or the playground, to the summer cottage or on a Sunday drive. It goes with us to the beach chair in the back yard, to the work bench, to the garage. The changing character of radio listening is demonstrated by the continuing high sales figures for radio sets, with particular emphasis on portables and automobile radios underscoring the medium's role as a personal companion. And the changing character of radio listening is demonstrated further by the steady decline in audience for network programming and the corresponding decline in network revenues, in contrast with the increase in audience for locally-originated programming and the climb in local and national spot business.

For our part, we at Westinghouse Broadcasting Company have taken action during 1956 to make the most of the profound changes that have taken place and are taking place in radio. After many months of research and study, discussion and consideration, we arrived at a decision to operate our WBC radio stations locally, without network affiliation. In the light of our history of pioneering in the establishment of networks, and of our long and happy associations, this was a difficult decision, but one we felt was necessary. It is still too early for a mature appraisal of the results of our move, but such indications as we have up to now are favorable. October 1956, for example, was the best month, in gross billings, in the entire history of WBC radio. Westinghouse further indicated its faith in the future of the new radio by its purchase of WIND, Chicago, one of the nation's great independent stations.

We intend to continue to explore every new method we can devise to give better service to the people of our principal and surrounding communities, recognizing the difficulty of finding the middle course that will accomplish the noble while attracting ever larger audiences. We cordially invite and urge others in radio broadcasting to join with us in thinking and planning and dreaming—and acting—toward the greater future of radio.

Broadcasters can give radio and broadcasting a greater prestige and position through the service the medium can render. With thoughtful, resilient and, above all, enthusiastic planning, I am absolutely convinced that 1957 can and will be for radio . . .

A year of challenge;

A year of great success;

A year of opportunity;

A year in which we will bring a new dimension to radio.

Color Television Takes Shape As A Reality For RCA In 1957

By
DAVID SARNOFF
Chairman of the Board
Radio Corporation of America

THROUGHOUT 1956 many statements were made publicly about the position of color television in the United States. Some of these were made by well-intentioned people interested in the progress of a new art and the promise of a new industry. Others were made by those whose objective is to retard the progress of color television in order to serve their short-term purposes. In every pioneering industry there are those who prefer to see the other fellow undertake the risks of initial investments and do the spade work while they watch and wait. Sometimes they even try to impede the progress of the pioneer.

For RCA, which has pioneered in worldwide radio communications, in radio broadcasting, in black-and-white television, in electronics and compatible color, such man-made roadblocks do not represent a new experience. We recall, for example, that when RCA pioneered and established black-and-white TV, there were those in the industry who labelled us as "Televisionaries" and the head of one company asserted publicly that "television is economically so unsound that it will never succeed." As late as 1946, an officer of the same company testified before the Federal Communications Commission, "We are not making and do not plan to make any black-and-white receivers." But several years later, after RCA had demonstrated, beyond peradventure, the great success of TV and that the public embraced it eagerly, these same folks jumped on the bandwagon.

History often repeats itself, and I suspect that the same pattern will emerge in color TV as did in black-and-white TV. Today, we hear arguments in some quarters that it will be years before color can reach the stage of profitable operations. Moreover, some other irresponsible statements have been made that in its efforts to establish and promote color television as a new and regular service to the public, RCA in 1956 poured untold millions of dollars into this undertaking. I feel that the interests of the industry generally would be constructively served if the record of the actual facts of the situation were made public. Accordingly, here is the record, and here are the facts.

RCA introduced, for the first time, simplified large-screen 21-inch compatible color TV receivers for the Fall of 1955. During the remaining few months of that year, a small quantity of these sets was produced and sold; the major portion was sold in 1956. By the end of last year we had sold and delivered 102,000 of these 21-inch color sets. During this period we also sold and delivered color picture tubes, color components and equipment. The total factory billing price of all these color sales amounted to approximately $58,000,000.

After accounting for last year's costs of color developments and improvements, the extra costs of training personnel, of advertising and promotion campaigns involved in launching a new product and service, and the costs of providing color programs on the air, the net loss (after Federal taxes) of all RCA color activities for 1956 amounted to approximately $6,900,000. This is certainly a reasonable expenditure to lay the foundation for a business that promises substantial profits in the near future.

This year will witness acceleration on all fronts of color TV as a new dimension in entertainment, education, news and sports, as well as advertising and merchandising.

RCA's goal for color television in 1957 is to produce and sell 250,000 color sets, to double the number of color programs on the air, to attract sponsors to the new and productive medium, and to encourage others in the industry to enter the field. Barring unforeseen circumstances, we expect, on this volume to earn, during the second half of 1957, a modest profit on the color sets and color tubes we sell. Thereafter, profits from operations in all branches of color TV should be substantial.

RCA is firmly convinced that color television will provide a greater and more interesting service to the public, a profitable business for broadcasters, manufacturers, distributors and dealers, and a rewarding medium for advertisers. The future of television is in color.

For 1956, the RCA volume of business totaled approximately $1,125,000,000 — an increase of about six per cent over 1955. This was the second time in its 37-year history that RCA exceeded the one billion dollar figure.

Growth of Television Film Built On Imaginative Leadership

By
FREDERIC W. ZIV
Chairman of the Board
Ziv Television
Programs

THERE is one thing we at Ziv TV have learned to expect in the telefilm industry—it is the kind of dynamic business that isn't going to stand still for anyone. Our thinking and our planning must grow as the industry grows, and be prepared to meet challenges we would not have dreamed of a few seasons ago.

For example, we have set a $12,500,000 production program of telefilms for syndication and network release in 1957. Part of this, of course, is continuing production this year on our telefilm series now on the air, such as "West Point," "Men of Annapolis," "Dr. Christian" and "Highway Patrol."

However, we realize that we must constantly plan and create new forms of telefilm entertainment. New programs, like "Harbor Command" starring Wendell Corey, are due to go into production, and altogether a total of 10 pilot films are on the drawing boards or in various stages of preparation.

Although we accept production of this scope as being part of our regular business, we occasionally remember—with something of a shock, I will admit—that a production program of the size we anticipate this year is the kind of production spending that was going on in the entire television industry combined just a few short seasons ago.

Production quality is not a lucky accident. Last year, to maintain a consistent quality level, we found we had to increase our telefilm production budgets an over-all average of 27%, as compared with budgets for similar situations the previous year.

Chiefly, these stepped-up costs to us, as producers, have come about through extra location costs of housing, transportation, overtime and residual payments to crews and talent, and the stepped-up prices of the raw materials of film production.

The ranks of our personnel, particularly creative film makers and technicians, is constantly growing. Last year, the number of members in the Ziv TV employee family swelled by nearly one-fourth. Outstanding producer-director-writer teams joined forces with us bringing their valuable fund of production know-how and special skills gained in years of TV and motion picture work. Our plans call for continued expansion of our creative staffs.

Our growth has been one of diversification, too. We now produce telefilms, and market them, to an astonishingly wide variety of customers. We sell to national advertisers, for placement on TV networks and major regional campaigns. We sell to regional advertisers. We sell to purely local firms who demand the utmost in program quality for use at the local level. We sell to stations, who in turn offer programs to their own lists of advertisers.

And, we market our telefilms, largely voiced with special sound-tracks in foreign languages, overseas. We have found that audiences in foreign lands have much in common with our U. S. audiences—they want to be entertained on TV. That's why we've found widespread acceptance for Ziv TV shows in such countries as Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, Monaco, West Germany and Switzerland in Europe; in Japan, the Philippines and Australia in the Orient; and to Mexico, Cuba, Guatemala, San Salvador, Venezuela, Dominican Republic, Puerto Rico, Brazil and Argentina in the Latin and South American areas.

There has been plenty of competition, as there is in any healthy business activity. But we feel the competition has served a strong purpose for us in sharpening our creative thinking, and creative marketing of our film product.

We are optimistic about the challenges facing our industry today. There is evidence that multi-market telefilm advertisers, those in the national and regional brackets, will spend more than $125,000,000 for syndicated telefilms and telefilm time slots this year, with millions more due to be spent by purely local advertisers seeking the same high program quality. We are confident that we will play a major role in such telefilm plans.

At the same time, we are increasingly aware of the responsibilities that come with such an important role. You must keep raising your standards, setting new objectives, striving for better methods to create better film products to maintain a leadership position.

Bureau of Advertising

THERE'S no guesswork in television, only change.

In this expanding economy, up-dating, trend-discerning and fact-analyzing are the handmaidens of research, and if they are to keep the pace they must be prepared to accept the new, the hitherto unknown and—yes, even the unexpected. This is the attitude and approach we at TvB have brought, and are continuing to bring, to the Bureau's projects, and much of our findings have demonstrated that yesterday's dogma is not necessarily today's fact, nor will a current truism be tomorrow's dictum.

Yet, much of what is already known and documented is useful. Accumulated knowledge gives perspective to the present and affords a signpost for the future. Applied to advertisers' media selection, the practical use of this philosophy has served to take the element of chance out of TV. With what is known, the productive purpose of providing a base for decision is at hand; with the constant addition of new information, a signpost pointing the direction for more effective use of the medium is assured.

Since 1949, when commercial TV really got off the ground, advertisers' investments indicate that choice of TV is a matter of "which direction" rather than 'why.'

The choice (happy title) is as far removed from chance as the first dollars invested in 1949 are from the booming bucks of 1956 . . . and the projection for '57 is ample confirmation that this is truly choice without chance.

Here's how it stacks up:

In network, starting with 1949 (in terms of millions of dollars) the "choosers" invested: $29; $85; $180; $256; $320; $422; $540; $640 . . . and we figure on $720 million in '57. (Would you like to be an advertiser using network facilities who, when using other media found his sales plateauing, and after his first introduction to TV increased his sales by 300 per cent? We refer to the TV endorsement by Revlon).

In spot, again starting from 1949 (in millions): $9; $31; $70; $94; $145; $207; $260; $325 . . . and in '57 it'll probably go to 389 million. (If you're further interested in the power of spot, we commend you to the successes of such brands as Lestoil, Viceroy, Kools, Robert Hall, Rayco and the omnipresent Tea Council).

In local, here's that story, in millions: $19; $55; $81; $103; $140; $180; $224 . . . and we look to $366 million in '57.

Summing up this felicitous trio, from 1949, we find these totals (in millions): $57; $170; $332; $453; $606; $809; $1,025 . . . and an estimated $1,475 million for '57.

You will note that local hasn't, as yet as many "choosers" as the other two (there are notable exceptions, leaders in their fields and markets such as Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Sibley's of Rochester). That's only because they haven't caught up with what the others know. But they're learning, and TvB is devoting energy and time to further this education. In fact, we're so bullish about local, we're figuring the greatest percentage increase (36 per cent) for 1957 over 1956 will be in that area.

To recap: almost 5,000 national and regional advertisers will have used television . . . and the more we know and learn about the medium, the less we know of any risk for the advertiser. This is about as fortuitous a setting for sales as man has ever devised.

Statistics Reveal Growth of Radio-TV in Latin America

By
A. M. MARTINEZ
Executive
Vice-President
Caribbean
Networks, Inc.

IN the relative short period of one year, the radio and television industry in Latin America has taken huge steps. There seems to be a revival of radio at hand and television is fast getting to be a big brother.

For the first time in several years, Latin America showed a substantial increase of radio homes—20% more radio homes over 1955, or about 2,250,000 new homes which never had a radio set previously. In general terms the increases were greater in countries like Argentina (1,850,000), Brazil (3,838,000), Colombia (470,000), Cuba (1,100,000), Dominican Republic (98,000), Guatemala (68,500), Mexico (1,125,000), Nicaragua (69,000), Puerto Rico (440,000), Salvador (225,000) and Venezuela (500,000) where television has been doing well. All in all, there are some 11,500,000 radio homes today. The number of new radio stations has increased but only by 8%—the reverse of previous years when the number of radio stations increased rapidly.

The television picture is very sketchy at this writing but is summarized below:

Country	Stations	TV Homes
Argentina	1	70,000
Brazil	6	316,000
Colombia	3	50,000
Cuba	9	260,000
Dominican Republic	1	8,000
El Salvador	1	8,500
Guatemala	2	8,000
Mexico	10	230,000
Nicaragua	1	3,000
Puerto Rico	3	156,000
Uruguay	1	1,000
Venezuela	6	85,000

Of these 44 stations, 4 started in 1950, 4 in 1951, 7 in 1952, 6 in 1953, 6 in 1954, 5 in 1955 and 12 started in 1956. So you can see that 1956, compared with any previous year, showed an increase of more than 100%. At this stage there are 1,200,000 television homes concentrated in a few markets.

In the matter of radio and television programs, the following percentage figures will show, on the basis of one month's programming, the differences among 3 countries picked at random:

Radio Programming — Percentage

	Cuba	El Salvador	Panama
Adventure	—	—	7.7
Comedy	7.3	2.8	2.6
Disc Jockies	—	1.2	2.6
Drama—Soap Opera	36.7	30.2	35.2
Popular Music	13.5	52.8	29.8
News	15.2	3.8	12.0
Variety	17.6	1.2	6.7
Quiz	—	3.6	.4
All others	9.7	4.4	3.0
	100.0	100.0	100.0

Television Programming — Percentage

	Cuba	El Salvador	Puerto Rico
Adventure	—	4.8	1.4
Comedy	6.9	—	1.4
Children	3.2	22.2	7.4
Cooking	6.4	—	5.3
Drama	12.8	7.2	3.9
Educational	4.3	—	—
Long Feature Films	12.1	44.4	31.3
News	16.5	7.1	3.5
Quiz	5.3	—	3.5
Sports	12.2	3.2	1.8
Western Films	—	1.6	9.2
Variety	16.5	7.9	26.0
All others	3.8	1.6	5.39
	100.0	100.0	100.0

It is estimated that the radio and television budgets for 1957 are in the neighborhood of $49,000,000—an increase of 25% over 1956. Of this total, 59% is allocated to radio and 41% to television. Because of television's tremendous impact, and the fact that the advertiser can reach between 6 and 8 people per home, the budgets for 1957 show the larger increase.

Progress in Solving Problems Is Marked by CBC in 1956

By
E. L. BUSHNELL
Assistant
General Manager
Canadian Broadcasting
System

BBROADCASTING in Canada has progressed, in 1956, through what may prove to be its biggest year.

As this country enters its 21st year of national network broadcasting, it has a service which reaches a population scattered over one of the largest countries in the world. Ninety-five percent of the population of roughly 16,000,000 is within range of national radio service and about 86 percent is now within range of Canadian television.

This has been no easy job, and it has been complicated by the fact that Canada is a two-language country. We have five networks: Trans-Canada and Dominion in English-language radio; the French radio network, and the English and French television networks.

These networks, very similar to those in the United States, are made up of publicly-owned CBC stations and privately-owned stations, with the CBC operating the networks. The operations require public money in addition to advertising revenue because of the size of the country and the costs of program production in two languages. Another complication is that Canada, which invented the world system of time zones, has six of them to contend with—two more than the United States.

It is against this background that we are proud to record the following progress: at the beginning of 1956, 77 percent of all Canadians were within range of Canadian TV. We closed the year, as mentioned above, with about 86 percent. Forty-seven percent of all Canadian homes had television sets a year ago. Today more than sixty percent of Canadian households own television. The total number of TV sets in use in Canada today is 2,680,000, of which 650,000 were purchased by Canadians during 1956.

In radio the figures eclipse those for television. During the past year 675,000 radios were sold in Canada, an increase of 65,000 over 1955.

Television, which is barely more than four years old in this country, now is available in every sizeable centre. There are 41 television stations. This number is necessary to reach a population which might be reached by one station alone in a centre such as New York City. Such is the challenge of TV in this country.

The past year saw the extension of the microwave network westward as far as Winnipeg—making possible instantaneous transmission to 18 stations from Winnipeg to Quebec City—as well as the linking together of four stations in the Maritimes.

In programming, too, it was a year of change and development. Canadians watched the first television coverage of a Canadian political convention. Experienced gleaned from coverage of U. S. political conventions helped make it a striking success. Canada's football classic, the Grey Cup Game, which a year before came to central Canada from Vancouver by courtesy of U. S. network facilities, this year went from Toronto to Vancouver by the same route.

In radio, Canadians saw the first major change in programming in several years as CBC program planners adjusted network radio to meet its new role alongside television. The Canadian system involves cooperation with privately-owned stations, which assist in obtaining national distribution for CBC-produced programs.

While this was going on, the CBC marked twenty years of national network broadcasting on November 2nd, 1956. We feel that the accomplishments of Canadian broadcasting in 1956, and indeed over the past twenty years, reflect the interest of Canadians everywhere in their national system. But the year will be remembered more for one important event than for all its physical development in Canadian radio and television.

This event was the Royal Commission on Broadcasting, which sat throughout the greater part of the year. The three-man commission, headed by R. M. Fowler, President of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, held sessions in all regions of Canada, visited the United States and studied European systems. We feel it is significant that we should have this long and careful look at some of the problems confronting us in radio and television at a time when both media are developing so rapidly all over the world.

Problem of Prime Time Slots For Syndicated Film Discussed

By
DAVID V. SUTTON
Vice President in Charge
MCA TV Film Syndica-
tion Division

ALTHOUGH syndicated film had another successful year in 1956, the impression continues to exist that the securing of good availabilities for syndication is impossible or too difficult to justify the results. It is not our contention that this phase of syndicated TV is especially easy, but I believe all of us would subscribe to the theory that no facet of the industry is free from complications.

It is a myth that prime time for syndicated film programs cannot be obtained. Our experience has proved that prime time is available in many markets. It remains only for the advertising agency, working closely with the program distributor, to make an all-out effort to line up the desirable evening hours. Like every other type of total push, it can and does pay off. The results of prime playing time are so significant saleswise to the sponsor and the station that it is worth the extra effort to secure good time.

MCA TV recently introduced a new half-hour film series for syndication, "State Trooper," which was purchased by Falstaff Brewing Corp. for 71 markets covering 28 states from Florida to California. Its agency, Dancer-Fitzgerald-Sample, paying no heed to idle trade talk, set about lining up the best time available on the stations involved. It succeeded in nailing down better than 91% Class A time in all of its markets. Sixty-five of these time segments fell into the 7:30-10:30 p.m. category, and six were placed in 6:30-7:00 and 7:00-7:30 p.m. slots, which are also considered prime time in many markets.

This fine schedule is not to be considered an isolated case. Agencies also have been able to secure prime time for such other syndicated favorites as "Soldiers of Fortune," "The Rosemary Clooney Show," "Dr. Hudson's Secret Journal," "Man Behind the Badge" and "The Adventures of Kit Carson," to name a few. Other syndicators, as well, have enjoyed good programming schedules with many of their outstanding shows.

The clearing of prime time for any type of television program is, of course, a real problem for agencies and stations alike. The competition for coveted time is strongly influenced by the networks' placement of high-rating, expensive programs and by outstanding feature films.

So the problem is indeed a real one, but it is certainly not an insurmountable one. Just how Dancer-Fitzgerald-Sample went about securing 91% "A" time must remain their secret, but there are certain evident techniques which might bear retelling at this point:

1. An agency has a better chance to win prime time if it offers a station a solid 52 weeks of programming. Common sense will tell us that a 13-week contract, which pulls a show off the air perhaps at the very time when it is building up its viewing audience, is not wise prime-time programming.

2. Other things being equal, a higher quality show has a greater chance to snare good viewing time than a quickie with its poor production values and down-beat rating potential. It is the responsibility of the producer to make sure that the product which he produces is of such quality that it can play against the stiffest competition in preferred time. Most stations face their greatest competition during the prime time period.

3. A half-hour syndicated show, with total family appeal, and which meets the requirements of long contract and high quality, is a good bet for station acceptance in the best time. These filmed programs show consistent high ratings even when slotted against much-ballyhooed feature pictures, in marginal time. In more desirable time slots, they do even better. In Houston, to quote one example, the November (1956) ARB showed the syndicated "Rosemary Clooney Show" scoring 21.8 in a 6:30-7:00 p.m. time period to rank third among all syndicated film shows. "City Detective," aired from 8:00-8:30 p.m., ranked first among all syndicated film shows with a rousing 43.7 in Pensacola, according to the same survey. The same program, in its third run, ranked third among all syndicated film shows in Chicago with a 14.3 in a 9:30-10:00 time segment.

Every situation, of course, presents its own problems. However, the securing of prime time does not have to be one of the big ones. If you're willing to go out and do something about it, it can be done.

CARTB Expands, Plans For Future Along With Canadian Broadcasting

By
T. J. ALLARD
Executive Vice-President
Canadian Assn. of Radio & Television
Broadcasters

THE year 1956 was the busiest in C.A.R.T.B.'s 32 year old history. Our radio membership went up 6.6% and our television membership 12%, so that our association now represents 145 of the 160 independently-owned and operated radio stations and 28 of the 31 independently-owned and operated television stations in this country.

The most significant event in 1956 for the Canadian broadcaster were the hearings of the Royal Commission on Broadcasting, a government-appointed, three-man Commission which travelled across Canada, from spring until fall, hearing briefs concerning the future of Canadian radio and television broadcasting. The recommendations of the Commission were scheduled to be laid before the government some time in March, 1957.

In its briefs to the Commission, C.A.R.T.B.'s main requests were for: (1) the establishment of a separate regulatory board to ameliorate the situation whereby the government-owned Canadian Broadcasting Corporation is both competitor with, and regulator of, the non-government broadcasting stations; (2) the immediate licensing of non-government television broadcasting stations in all areas of Canada, including the main metropolitan centres which are now reserved exclusively for government-owned television; and (3) permission to form private networks.

The Canadian Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters was encouraged both by the press support we received for our case and by the number of organizations, Chambers of Commerce, Boards of Trade and women's groups, which endorsed our case in their own briefs before the Commission. Support was especially strong for our contention that television stations, operated by private enterprise, should be allowed to open in areas served at present only by the CBC television system.

The separate regulatory body was also endorsed by a good many organizations and individuals on the grounds that the existing situation where the CBC not only acts as competitor for the same business and audience, while being subsidized by the government, but also acts in the capacity of judge and jury in decisions concerning the licensing and operating of privately-owned stations, and controls the only national networks allowed in Canada, is undemocratic.

As supplements to its briefs, C.A.R.T.B. also submitted to the Commission the results of polls taken by independent research organizations which showed that over 57% of voters favoured the separate regulatory board and that the government-owned TV monopoly was frowned on by 77.8% of the population.

The Association also presented a brief to the Gordon Commission, a commission exploring Canada's economic future. The point was made before this latter commission that Canadian broadcasting could expand enormously, in the way that U. S. broadcasting has expanded, if government-imposed shackles were removed.

The Sales and Research office in Toronto expanded its research and statistical material supplied to agencies, advertisers, reps and stations this year, and has also undertaken negotiations with the main broadcast measurement organizations with the view to improving statistics in this field. The Television Seminar, inaugurated last year and due to be repeated annually from now on, was also a big success. Out of this Seminar, for one thing, came the initial plans for the C.A.R.T.B. Television Sales office which will be opened in Toronto early in 1957.

Canada has now reached the point of 96.7% radio saturation and about 80% TV saturation, but Canadians are still buying both radio and television sets at record rates. In 1956, Canadians bought 536,000 new radios and 484,800 new television sets.

Feature Film Library Releases Prove Challenge to Programmers

THE year 1956 saw the sudden release of a tremendous number of major studio feature films for television use. As a result, public interest in feature films is at an all-time high, and the feature bonanza must rate as one of the top industry stories of the year.

Proper use of feature film libraries demands a "new look" in the basic framework of feature film utilization new methods of editing and cutting, new concepts in show-casing, elevated standards of production and commercial insertion. In short, purchasers of this new quality product have found it wise to reappraise their feature film programming from start to finish.

During the past six months, Triangle has purchased four major film packages released for television—the RKO, 20th Century Fox, MGM and Warner Brothers rosters. The utilization of this property to its best advantage required a new perspective on feature films—one in keeping with the quality of these outstanding features.

Owning the rights to a film library of this scope is not unlike suddenly acquiring rights to the services of Perry Como, Bob Hope, Jackie Gleason and Walt Disney. With such a roster of attractions we would have to throw out the old philosophy of "fit the product to the availability" and set about revising our basic scheme of programming and product handling to gain the full measure of value inherent in what we have bought.

We are dealing with a product finer than any ever before offered on local television. These films represent the best work of an entire industry for a period of twenty-five years. We can transpose them to television only if we are absolutely consistent in our treatment of them. We cannot afford to dissipate the values of a good product with haphazard handling, or with old techniques devised for the inferior features of yesterday's TV.

Operational patterns which have been developed have guided the program development of all four Triangle television stations. A careful analysis of the programming of feature films before the purchase of these major libraries revealed the need for revisions. What was adequate programming policy for the old films was inadequate to meet the demands of the new. Lack of prime time slots for features, scheduling of features in fringe time periods, and the excessive editing required to fit the films into a standard format were all out of step with current needs.

We decided that our top executives would benefit from an education in the needs of the product. For several weeks our key personnel devoted long hours to film previewing and "skull sessions" analyzing the basic issues of the problem and drafting concrete proposals for revamping the program day to fit the new needs. Out of these sessions came four basic decisions that form the heart of the Triangle feature policy.

First: Wherever possible, use prime weekend time for feature display. Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon shows were scheduled and their consistently high ratings have justified this invasion of what was once considered "network only" time.

Second: Lengthen the programs. Most of the really fine films in the library are too long to fit into a "regular" 90 minute format without excessive editing. Our weekday features were extended to 120 minutes, evening films are run complete to conclusion. In those few periods on the schedule where no more than 90 minutes is available, only shorter films are scheduled.

Third: Advance the start of the nighttime films to an earlier hour. Where feature films were once programmed only to extend the program day, good features draw big audiences, and are handicapped by an 11:15 or 11:30 PM start. Our films starts have now been moved into the formerly "untouchable" 10-11 PM time period.

Finally: Re-run policy. Since the film library is not a transient thing, but rather something which will figure heavily in operations for ten years or more, proper exposure sequence is important. If the same films are repeated too frequently, the impact of the films is lost. Naturally the films are run in a preference sequence, with the more valuable time periods getting first call on top films.

IAAB Plays Active, Vital Role in Latin American Broadcasting

By
RICARDO VIVADO
President
Inter-American Ass.
of Radio Broadcasters

IAAB represents the private and free radio broadcasting of the American Continents. It is formed by the Associations, Chambers and Federations of Radio Broadcasters existing in the countries of the Continents, from Canada and the United States down to those in the extreme south, which, in turn, comprise nearly five thousand radio and television stations.

Its aims, among several, are to defend the principles of democracy, in particular those relative to freedom of speech and of information, and the system of private and free enterprise for radiobroadcasting; to promote the broadcasters' collaboration with activities of public interest; to contribute towards raising the cultural level of the people through technical perfection and better programs and the intellectual and artistic exchange between all broadcasters of America; to establish norms of professional ethics to be upheld by all people participating in broadcasting.

IAAB has intervened before the governments of Argentine, Costa Rica and Paraguay in connection with matters of high interest. Before the first, asking for return of radiobroadcasting to private hands; before the second, to ask for the issue of concessions to private individuals for the installation of TV stations; and before the third, to request the release of a broadcaster and lifting the closure of his station. It has addressed the recently elected Presidents of Ecuador and Bolivia, to offer its cooperation and technical assistance, in order that radio broadcasting in these nations may have the necessary liberty, adequate structures and means to develop and perform the corresponding mission of public interest.

On the 4th of October, "Radio Day", IAAB celebrated its 10th anniversary, as it was founded on this same day in 1946 in Mexico City. The activities of the past ten years show that IAAB is an institution with solid principles and a perfectly cemented existence, which will be called upon to have a valuable influence in the progress of continental radio broadcasting and in the unification and the realization of its ideals of perfection and of service to the people.

IAAB's Central Office publishes a monthly news bulletin which is distributed to the associations, so that they may issue it to their stations, and is editing pamphlets with the same purpose. Three have already been distributed: "Private and Free Radiobroadcasting for the Argentine", which contains a memorial presented by IAAB to the President of the Argentine, his excellency Pedro E. Aramburo; "Freedom of Information in the Countries of America", in which a chapter from the report of the Board at its meeting in Lima is reproduced on this matter; the texts of the Constitution of the countries of the Americas on freedom of thought; and President Eisenhower's speech at the 1955 Convention of NARTB "Broadcasting Stations Must Have a Soul" advises on the management of a radio station. There is another pamphlet in the press on guidance for the organization of broadcasting associations, and two more shortly ready for publication.

The organization has maintained active, cooperative contact with the U.N., OAS and UNESCO. It was invited by OAS to send a special observer to the Inter-American Tourist Convention, which took place in San José de Costa Rica in April of 1956, and by UNESCO to participate in the conference on educational films for TV held in Tangiers and Paris.

IAAB is in full activity and preoccupied with its 5th General Meeting held in the first days of May of this year, which will mean a new impulse and a decided advance.

Increased Telefilm Product Gains Advertisers' Approval

By
JOHN L. SINN
President
Ziv Television
Programs

WHEN we began to produce and distribute television film shows just a few short years ago, we had two objectives in mind—to create top-quality film programming, and to do all we could to aid advertisers who wanted flexibility in their TV campaigns.

The ratings we've scored on first-run shows and rerun films tell the story of audience acceptance of our programs in over 300 cities in this country.

Telefilms are now established as a basic part of the means at advertisers' disposal for reaching huge audiences with a minimum of circulation he doesn't need or want.

We are happy and proud to have on our client roster, which now stands at over 2,800 by the way, many of the blue-chip names in the advertising field: Proctor & Gamble, Chesterfield, Schaeffer Pen, National Biscuit Co., Pabst Blue Ribbon, Pet Milk, Budweiser Beer, Sealy Mattress, Swift & Co., Raleigh Cigarettes, General Cigar, Emerson Drug and many more regional advertisers such as Fuller Paint Co., Ohio Oil Co., Olympia Brewing, Kroger Stores and Ballantine Brewing.

Many of these advertisers are using spot-placed telefilms to solve specialized marketing problems they face. It may be a question of boosting a sagging sales curve in a particular area that is lagging behind others. It may be a question of reinforcing advertising impact already at work in a market, or series of markets, where magazine readership is low or a network show is carried in poor time on a delayed basis. It may be a test campaign to launch a new product, and to test new commercials, within the frame of a first-rank show that commands large and loyal audiences.

But many advertisers have bought telefilms for large regional or near-national spreads—such as the recent purchase by Hamm Brewing of our "Harbor Command" series for 55 markets, the Carnation Milk-Fuller Paint purchase of "Men of Annapolis" for some 20 West Coast markets, the P. J. Ballantine renewal of "Highway Patrol" for the Eastern seaboard—for another reason. To these advertisers, the syndicated telefilms they've bought are not supplementing anything; they are the primary spearhead of major advertising campaigns involving millions of dollars in program costs, time charges, and promotional budgets.

To meet this steady demand, we are undertaking our biggest production program, one that is budgeted at $12.5 million. We feel this alone is a tremendous vote of confidence in the outlook of the television film industry, and in the outlook for choice time periods on top stations in which advertisers can air their telefilm programs.

One of the backstage secrets of the success of our telefilms with advertisers and audiences alike, we feel, is the fact that each Ziv TV teleseries launched in the syndication market in the past several seasons has been accompanied by an extensive merchandising campaign. These pre-planned, blueprinted campaigns are being used increasingly; a recent checkup showed that a gain of over 40% had been scored in their use.

Even the best telefilm show is on a starvation diet if it has to exist in a promotional vacuum. Our advertisers have made sizable audience gains by utilizing Ziv-created merchandising aids, which range from window, store and lobby displays, to posters, carcards, mailers, giveaways, premiums and contests. By even the most conservative estimate, nearly 20,000,00 viewers are being reached each week all over the country with the total weight of promotional campaigns being put behind all of the Ziv TV shows.

We've noticed another trend in the last season or two which seems to clinch the case for advertiser acceptance of syndicated telefilms. There has been a noticeable swing toward purchasing of telefilms directly by major agencies and advertisers, until nearly 70% of our billings are with clients or their agencies—even though there have been striking gains made in the sale of telefilms to local stations of all sizes.

There is a broad pattern in all this. Television advertisers have gained considerable experience in the past decade. They have tested, watched, and measured TV. The important role of telefilm advertising in the plans of all categories and sizes of advertisers is a tribute to the high scores won by telefilms in media evaluation.

Understanding Woman's Place in Broadcasting Means Profits

By EDYTHE FERN
MELROSE
President
American Women in Radio and Television

THERE are many places in the radio and television industry where women are seriously needed if we are to remain in a strong and prosperous position in the advertising world. The technical phases involving the sending of signals belong to the world of men. But how deeply have you thought about the receiving end of this dynamic advertising and its true relation to the woman's world?

Let's start out with things you already know, such as—"In 1954 women spent 236.5 billion dollars as purchasing agents for families. The purchases included everything from food to clothing, housing, recreation, medical care, cars, etc." (Fortune Magazine—"What Makes Women Buy.") TvB's survey states—"Women who shop for Food Have A BILLION-DOLLAR REACH . . . with more women between the age of 25-to-45 watching television than any other member of the family". What they prefer seeing is listed, with Women's Participating Programs one of the top five. But, there follows: "Comparatively smaller number of facts can be reported concerning these since fewer women's shows were available for sale". That was in 1954 and already it's '57. What's happened to women's programs since then sounds like a requiem!

Women's programs provide only one of the important places where women are needed in our industry, but, it's so important, let's continue to discuss it. Sending forth a strong signal to gain coverage is man's first concern and investment. Regardless of cost, investment has no value unless people dial that station's specific signal. So, man's first, and constant aim, is to win people for his signal.

But sheer numbers of people is never enough. Who is doing the dialing? Is this a potential purchaser? Sponsors reach the end of fiscal years. Here is where they must talk in terms of dollars, not exposures; profits, not merely people. Does your signal deliver merely people—or do the purchasing agents tune in for your signal? Can they, do they, spend money in response to desires and decisions sent out as information and suggestions via your signal, or the signal you may have used as an advertiser or time buyer?

Let's look at these potential "Pocketbook People" we hope we have on the receiving end. They are women. And look inside their pocketbooks there are billions for buying.

Doesn't all this make woman's place in this industry very simple? Plus her need and contribution in the normal, clerical field, she is invaluable in every facet of this industry which creates ideas, plans advertising campaigns, writes copy, produces programs or talks through our media as person-to-person to purchasing agents in skirts.

This is '57—a year when we must run our own industry by winning back the loyalty and purchasing power we may have lost because we failed to fulfill our mission in this media. There is great need for providing programs and information which women will find exciting, interesting, and dramatic because the programs help put a bit more interest, excitement and drama into their own lives.

As employees, women, with intelligence, aptitude, vision and imagination, can attract and help hold the billion-dollar purchasing agents.

Spend just one day studying a competitive medium. Study the woman's section of a good newspaper, the top magazine, then study the personnel. Those sections for women are colorful, exciting and have strong attraction for women, and they are planned by women. Good money was paid for it because the advertiser was convinced women, with ideas to spend, were turning those pages for ideas they found interesting, informative, exciting and persuasive.

Smart men must learn to work with women on the trial and error method just as they do when hiring men. If one woman didn't work out, don't throw up your hands and say, "We tried it." Shift, change, consult and advise until the entire organization is helping handle the problem. However, select a woman who talks like a woman, thinks like a woman (with good sense), who can help interpret women and one who still has retained sufficient glamour to inspire other women (and men). There's unlimited opportunity to place women in your industry where they can help you make unlimited money.

"Freedom" Committee Fights for Access to Public Information

By
ROBERT D. SWEZEY
Chairman, Freedom of Information Committee
N.A.R.T.B.

FOR many practical broadcasters, I am afraid the phrase "freedom of information" has a remote and academic ring. As a matter of fact, however, the work of the NARTB Freedom of Information Committee is of basic and immediate importance, for in certain respects the success of that work will actually determine the future stature of radio and television. It is perfectly obvious that unless radio and television secure, with the particular tools of their trade, access to courtroom and legislative proceedings, public hearings, and the like, which is equal in all respects to that accorded the printed media, they will be precluded to a large degree from doing the type of things they actually do best—the coverage of events of paramount importance as they occur.

Radio and television have a very fair and sympathetic argument. All they are asking is that they be given an equal break with other media. If they fail to obtain this, they will operate under a tremendous handicap in the news and special events field.

I have been impressed with the number and diversity of forums in which this question of equal access has arisen—Capitol Hill, state legislative proceedings, courts of all degrees, municipal councils, directors' and trustees' meetings of educational and other public institutions.

Much progress was made during 1956. One of our principal areas of dispute is with Canon 35 of the Judicial Ethics of the American Bar Association, which has been adopted in some twenty states and which provides categorically that television and radio, along with news cameras, are calculated to interfere with an orderly court procedure, and therefore should be barred. Successful demonstrations have now been made, in several states, of the possibility of the completely orderly and unobtrusive operation of radio and television equipment under actual trial conditions. This entire issue was effectively argued before the Supreme Court of Colorado, and the right of access established for the broadcasters in that state.

We have still to contend with a close-minded attitude on the part of some of the judiciary. This was recently illustrated in a San Diego County Court when the judge threatened to cite a station for contempt for interviewing discharged witnesses, and attempted to bar television personnel from taking notes in the courtroom. A California Appeals Court ruled that the TV people might take notes at any public hearing so long as their actions do not interfere with orderly conduct of the proceedings before the court or its officers.

There is still hope that a Committee established several years ago, but recently reorganized, composed of representatives of the American Bar Association and of news media may be helpful in eliminating or satisfactorily amending Canon 35 to remove the wholly unfair and unwarranted restriction upon radio and television coverage.

The position of radio and television with respect to equal access to legislative sessions and committee hearings seems to be somewhat better established and recognized. There are now some sixteen states at least which permit us general access. Within the last few weeks the members of the Texas legislature voted 140 to 4 in favor of a rule change permitting radio coverage, live and recorded, and television coverage, live and film, of its proceedings, including sessions of the House and meetings of its Committees.

In each case in which progress has been achieved, it has been largely due to the work of local broadcasters who have promptly taken the action indicated.

It is a little disheartening to encounter decisions such as that recently made by a city council to permit no further broadcasting of its meetings because "members might make embarrassing grammatical errors." It is even more alarming to have a governor, in this particular instance the governor of my adopted state of Louisiana, place a complete ban on all radio and television reporters at his press conferences. Over a period of weeks the restriction has been alleviated to the extent that we can now take full notes and silent film. These situations merely serve to point up the importance and immediacy of our problem. There is but one answer—wherever there is a closed door or a closed mind we must work patiently and insistently until it is opened to us. Ultimately, I am sure we will win.

THE WORLD

The NBC Radio Network's "HOT LINE" Service, now in operation, gives new stature to radio news coverage. An open line, linking NBC Radio Central to every affiliate, is ready throughout the broadcast day. When news breaks anywhere in the world, immediate notice clears all stations automatically, to bring NBC Radio audiences instant word.

The NBC Radio Network brings the nation another exclusive service: NETWORK NEWS ON THE HOUR. Not just a rehash of wire services, each broadcast carries fresh news—live, direct reports by NBC correspondents around the world, on-the-spot coverage of important local stories by Network Associate newsmen at NBC's affiliates. Throughout the entire week, the first five minutes of every hour keep America on top of the news.

ON A NEW "HOT LINE"

The "HOT LINE" Service and NEWS ON THE HOUR form a one-two news punch that make the NBC Radio Station in every market THE source for swift, reliable, complete news coverage. This is the combination that is giving listeners more reason than ever to keep tuned through the day to NBC Radio.

Advertisers were quick to recognize the value of this vital development. Bristol-Myers purchased half of all the NEWS ON THE HOUR broadcasts; Brown and Williamson took the other half—to make one of the biggest radio network sales in years.

The dynamic energy of NBC Radio can generate sales for you, too. Your NBC Radio Network representative will tell you how. Call him today.

informative booklet★

Condensed for quick reading, here are facts and figures for the questions more and more TV and Radio executives and clients are asking, as advertising expenditures zoom. For example:

"How accurate is a rating—a rating by any method? How about standard error, in relation to sample size?"

"How do TV and other media compare for audience interest?"

"How accurate is personal interviewing? How does it stack up with other methods?"

"Why do Uncle Sam, foremost researchers, leading advertisers and agencies insist on doorbell ringing for their top research?"

Questions like these and many more are answered in this stimulating, thought-provoking little booklet. One of its many timely suggestions may start a whole train of constructive new thinking. And you'll appreciate why Pulse continues to extend its lead as the service with the most subscribers. More than 175 markets listed. We added over 50 for TV in '56—Pulse's biggest year yet. Feature Film Releases Cause New Attitudes in TV Programming

By MICHAEL M.
SILLERMAN
Executive Vice President
Television Programs of America, Inc.

THAT sage philosopher, Goodman Ace, once made a pungent observation to the effect that "Time wounds all heels." I have often thought that this is much more than a typically Ace-high play on words; it's an acutely discerning comment on the inevitability of right landing right side up.

All this comes to mind looking back at the past year during which feature films hit television with so much force, so much force, in fact, that there were more dire prognosticators around than unanswered questions in the "$64,000 Question" vault. These prognosticators predicted, variously, the end of syndicated TV film, a stampede of advertisers cancelling all other media so they could climb on the feature film band wagon, the end or at least a sharp curtailment in live programming by the networks, and an unending parade of film buyers to the cashiers' windows of feature film distributors, with said film buyers plunking down large stacks of boodle and pleading to be sold more and more features.

Of course, none of these things has happened. This supply of pre-1948 feature films has been introduced in an orderly manner. But, just in the event any one needs to be reminded, the networks have continued programming live as before, and indeed, are making plans for even more lavish, high-budgeted shows. New syndicated film properties are being produced as they have been for ten years or so with millions budgeted for the purpose. Advertisers—local, regional and national—have continued investing not only in every kind of medium, but in the wide diversity of buys available in TV—programs, spots, participations, time signals, weather reports, station breaks, and of course, the new supply of feature films. Please note, the line reads new supply of feature films—not new feature films, which they most assuredly are not.

For in all the excitement attendant upon the deluge of features finally being made available to TV, it seems to me that several important points have been overlooked. Perhaps the most important is that these feature films would, of necessity, be programmed in time previously allotted for the old, old feature films. In most instances, this has been true and will continue to be true. Another is that no one program type in TV can meet the needs of all clients—any one-dish diet becomes boring. But just as some advertisers use black and white magazine space, others use color spreads; others use one page units and others short one column inserts, so do the needs of TV advertisers vary in every instance. Some need their own exclusive program, affording maximum sponsor identification, merchandising and promotion. Others need alternations, supplementary spot campaigns or participations in feature films. Television is an amalgam of various kinds of programs and powerful sales devices—thus its marked success. Feature films are part of that amalgam, but so is every other program type.

But, while feature films didn't up-end TV as so many forecast, they did contribute in other ways. They injected an additional source of program supply, and hastened the departure of some outmoded properties. They centered attention anew on film programming and they gave television, as a medium, something new to talk about. All this is salutary in a business which requires new blood and new ideas constantly, and where program longevity most often is a fraction of what it was in radio. Furthermore, feature films helped in sharpening the competitive phases of programming (although it doesn't seem that it could get more competitive) thus accounting for budget increases for new shows, both by the networks and the film producers. Both the public and advertisers are benefiting.

Another consequence of the opening of the feature film vaults was to refine the quality of feature film TV shows. Both film buyers and the audience became more selective. In the case of TPA, this helped, dramatically and new interest centered on our own feature films, the Edward Small package. Presumably, it's the fact that quality begets quality.

Undoubtedly, new program forms will be introduced to TV within the near future, just as has happened since the start of broadcasting. These new program forms, and all those we know now, will last and be successful just so long as they observe the age-old entertainment maxim—"The show's the thing." Or, as Goodman Ace might say, "Time cancels all flop shows."

More top performers in entertainment and business stand behind our microphone than anywhere else in radio.
And as a logical result,
the biggest audiences are tuned to the CBS

Feature Films Have Revolutionary Impact On TV Spot Selling

By
FRANK M. HEADLEY
President
H-R Television, Inc.

TELEVISION history will record 1956 as the year of the great feature film breakthrough. The considerable impact feature film is having on the entire television industry is no longer news, but the far-reaching effects and long-range ramifications of this new programming force is still to be fully realized, and I might add, difficult to predict.

All of the major American motion picture studios save Paramount (and it is on the brink) are saturating the airwaves with hundreds of pre-1948-vintage features, and the clicking of the TV dials echoed by the clicking of the audience survey comptometers add up to solid audiences all across the country for the big name movies.

As stations in almost all markets bought and scheduled more and more good feature film (increasingly in prime time), old programming and time-buying formulas were scrapped and new techniques created to fit the changing times. Although the stir caused by the feature film revolution is being felt by all facets of the industry, nowhere is the impact more pronounced than in national spot.

Perhaps the one most important ramification of the feature-film breakthrough is the fact it has increased competition among television stations—especially in markets having three or more stations. In effect, therefore, it has tended to minimize the differences between network affiliations. Until the past year, independent TV stations in all but the largest markets had to fight hard to keep themselves in the black. Today, because of the advent of feature films, such properties, if well run, can look forward to increasing profit taking.

There are three basic sales plans for offering feature films on a national spot basis: 1) the saturation sale, in which the station runs a single feature for the better part of a week, and the advertiser is sold a participation in each showing of the film, 2) as a spot carrier, in which a new feature is scheduled each evening, 3) on a sponsorship basis, in which an advertiser is sold the entire time period in which the top-grade features are run.

1) There are many variations of the saturation sale. Some stations run the same film twice during the same day or same evening, or even on a back-to-back continuous basis. All of the saturation plans are based on accumulation of unduplicated audiences, and the resulting high cumulative weekly ratings.

2) As a spot carrier, in which a new feature is scheduled each evening, the movies must successfully compete with the network shows against which they are pitted, and must come up with equal or better ratings. That they can do this has been amply demonstrated. For example, during a single week in November 1956, according to A.R.B., KBET-TV, Sacramento, ran three features which dominated the market in their time periods, outrating such top network offerings as "Robert Montgomery Presents," "The Lawrence Welk Show," and "This is Your Life."

3) The third sales plan, the sale of the entire feature film time period to a single sponsor, has its share of proponents. Although the over-all cost is higher, this plan has appeal for multi-product sponsors. In addition, there is widespread belief that full sponsorship of a feature film program has prestige value by identifying sponsors with first-rate motion pictures. Finally, this plan offers merchandising tie-ins with dealers and distributors and guarantees impact through repetition.

Good feature films constitute good programming, and as such provide benefits to stations, representatives, advertisers and networks. Advertisers, particularly have gained, and in numerous respects. Film programs enable advertisers to purchase minute participations in time periods having "class A" ratings. Furthermore they afford a vehicle for attracting an all-family audience with a high adult composition.

However, feature films have their drawbacks, too. Package costs are high, and most stations find they must expend extensive air time in airing multiple showings. Furthermore, all packages contain many more "B" and "C" features than three to four stars, and the total supply of features is limited. However, the immediate future is extremely bright, and the long-range view is not exactly dim, either.

Large Negro Market Attracts Increasing Industry Attention

By EDITH DICK
Station Manager
WWRL, New York City

NEGRO radio, with a vast buying audience of nearly 17,000,000 persons and with over $15,000,000 annual income to spend, is attracting increasing attention from broadcasters, advertisers, and agencies, alike.

This huge audience offers a market greater than all of Canada with per capita income higher than the Canadians.

Census Bureau figures reveal one out of every ten Americans is a Negro; that the Negro population is increasing faster than the white; and the Negro income level has been increasing notably faster than the white. Study the Negro market and you will discover that New York City's nearly 1,300,000 Negro population exceeds the entire population of Pittsburgh, Boston, St. Louis or San Francisco.

Just as the Negro population has increased so has its ability to buy more and better things. Over 91 per cent of Negroes able to work are employed. Negroes today are building bigger homes, buying higher priced cars, wearing better clothes and enjoying more luxuries.

In New York City, it is estimated, Negroes spend $250,000,000 annually on food, nearly 10 per cent own their own homes, more than 50 per cent use bottled beer, while 56 per cent of the men and 46 per cent of the women smoke cigarettes.

A recent survey revealed over 700 stations nationwide are broadcasting some type of Negro programming while 220 stations direct part or all of their broadcasts to the Negro audience. Nationally, 95 per cent of Negroes have radios. In New York City, Negro set ownership approaches a saturation 98 per cent.

National advertisers have recognized the growing importance of the responsive Negro market and are using it in greater numbers and with increasing frequency. Three years ago about 100 national advertisers utilized Negro radio. Today, between 300 to 400 national advertisers are beaming their messages to this huge specialized market. And for specific reasons: it gets an audience, it convinces them and it sells them. Negro listeners, advertisers have learned, are more responsive, more brand conscious and more loyal to advertisers than the average audience.

Specialized programming directed toward the Negro market can pay off in audience ratings and business for the independent station which must compete against high-budgeted, star-studded television and network radio shows. Pulse surveys have revealed more Negroes listen to WWRL than the network, big name personalities and shows. Likewise, the surveys disclosed, more Negroes listen to WWRL's "Dr. Jive" disc jockey show than to broadcasts of New York's three major baseball teams combined. WWRL's Negro programs pull thousands of letters weekly without giveaway gimmicks.

Negroes are intensive radio listeners and deeply loyal to Negro-appeal stations and their personalities. The station which seeks to appeal to the Negro audience must know and understand the Negro. A record library and a Negro disc jockey alone won't create a business bonanza and a pyramiding Pulse.

WWRL, which in 1940 pioneered Negro broadcasting in New York City, utilizes appealing personalities, carefully selected music, special events, newscasts of interest to and about the Negro, women's shows, forums on timely Negro issues, and local and national sports news about Negroes. WWRL, and its personalities, take an active sincere interest in the welfare, growth and betterment of the Negro community it serves. WWRL's "Dr. Jive" serves as "Mayor" of Harlem, elected in a popularity contest, and leads the fight against juvenile delinquency. Its performers appear at Negro benefit shows, aid charity causes and serve on community drives.

In addition to offering the advertiser a large, responsive audience, WWRL backs sponsors with an intensive merchandising and promotion program. This includes program advertisements in Negro newspapers, floor displays, window posters and shelf tapes in drug stores, groceries and supermarkets in Negro communities; appearances by station personalities at store promotions, direct mail promotion to store outlets, testimonials by WWRL performers, plus a Negro merchandising staff; all utilized to help keep the sponsors' products moving off the store shelf.

PGW—"Project Information" and Univac to Spur Spot Industry

By RUSSEL
WOODWARD
Exec. Vice President
Peters, Griffin,
Woodward, Inc.

AT Peters, Griffin, Woodward, Inc., we have never been too concerned with "what has been" as much as we have with "what will be." Our sights are set on the tomorrow of our business—not the yesterday.

With this outlook foremost in mind, PGW, during a record-shattering year for overall National Spot appropriations, launched a number of projects designed more for the representative field as a whole rather than Peters, Griffin, Woodward, in particular. We have spent a good portion of our business years enhancing and furthering the representative field and not just our own activities because we firmly believe that one is only as good as the other. We like to think of our growth as a reflection of the growth of the whole Spot Broadcasting business. Our projects, innovations, ideas, and strides are designed primarily with that in mind.

One such project during the past year was our PGW—"Project Information." This giant project was based on 114 different studies of market conditions resulting in separate market and station references for every radio and television station represented by PGW. The project was, and is currently being, distributed to advertising agencies and advertisers across the nation.

PGW's "Project Information" is a continuation of the company's policy of providing unusual service in behalf of the Spot Broadcasting industry to both advertisers and station clients.

Of the quarter million printed materials in our "Project Information", some are designed for the use of agency media departments, some for account executives and plans boards, and some for marketing and advertising managers.

PGW—"Project Information" for radio and television is an encyclopedia of market data containing both "Market" and "Station" stories, each featured by the latest reliable station contour maps, pictures, and all types of sales figures. Other features include individual market weather conditions, college enrollments, a listing of all retail outlets, and a list of competing broadcasting stations as well as pertinent information on local newspapers.

We like to think too of another PGW giant stride conceived during the past year. After months of joint study between Peters, Griffin, Woodward, Inc., and Remington Rand engineers, an electronic system, utilizing the principles of the famed Univac, will store information on programs, availabilities, and rates for both radio and television. When this kind of information is required for an advertiser or advertising agency, the electronic system automatically and immediately reproduces the answers. Jones Scovern, Vice President of Peters, Griffin, Woodward, Inc., who directed the research and study leading to the development of the electronic system, summed up the reasons why PGW took the automation initiative: "Spot Radio and Spot Television today represent a very important part of the advertiser's budget, and as radio and television representatives, it is incumbent upon us to provide complete, accurate information at the earliest possible moment. Some years ago PGW developed standard availability confirmations and schedule change forms, as well as a simplified method of handling broadcast contracts. While these have been very successful, the growth of spot radio and spot television poses new problems. The duplication of typing information from one form to another, and checking for accuracy, consumes many hours of secretarial time—work that will be done automatically—electronically".

As a result of this pioneering work of expanding information, and introducing engineering electronics into the needs of the broadcasting industry, by Peters, Griffin, Woodward and Remington Rand, other station representative firms will have the planning, experimentation, and experience available to them.

Network, Agency, or Indie Packager for TV Production?

By BARTON A.
CUMMINGS
President
Compton Advertising,
Inc.

THERE is no neat and easy answer to the perennial question—which is preferable, an agency, network or independently produced program? That was the position taken by Lewis H. Titterton, who is in charge of TV programming at our agency when I discussed the matter with him. Together we took a nostalgic look at the history of radio programming which demonstrated clearly that in the early days the networks produced practically all programs, in the next period the agencies took over the bulk of the work, but in the heyday of radio in the late 1930's and post-war 1940's networks took a back seat while agencies shared most of the programming with independent package producers.

In the relatively short span of television we have seen an even greater fluctuating change in emphasis. Again in the earliest days the great bulk of programs were produced by networks with the agencies rather rapidly increasing their share of the work. However, the immensely greater expense of television programming over that of radio and the problem of absorbing into the agencies the vast number of new people necessary to handle agency-produced programs soon caused the mushrooming of the independent package producers.

Because competition is stimulating and healthy in the program field as in any other, and because there is room for all comers as sources of original program ideas, we believe that agencies, networks and packagers can jointly provide better programming than could any single one if it were to dominate the field to the exclusion of the others. Currently this agency is providing for its clients all three kinds of television programs. What to us is most important is effective control where possible over the costs and quality of a program, regardless of its origin.

A network controlling facilities is in a position to experiment with new patterns and new and rewarding channels. The fact that a network has numerous potential sponsors for any one show it develops makes bold and imaginative new programming possible. The networks can and do create the large programs which require multiple sponsorship and for this reason cannot be produced by the agencies.

The independent packager, working in an intensely competitive field and with limited network time periods available for the launching of his programs, has the difficult task of creating exciting ideas while molding them along fairly traditional lines.

There are times when neither the network nor the packager has a program that satisfies the specific advertising or merchandising needs of an advertiser. When this is the case, it is obviously the duty of the agency to create such a program. If the program by its nature is complex and requires a substantial staff, it is always possible for the agency to arrange to have the program packaged by one of the competent package producers. Where this is done the agency, knowing every item in the budget in just as much detail as though the program were agency-produced, can effectively fight the battle of spiralling program costs.

Where an advertiser through its agency buys one or more segments of a network package of which other segments are sponsored by other advertisers, it is obviously impossible for any one agency to exercise legal right of approval over all arrangements of the show. Where, however, an agency buys a complete package for one of its clients it is in most cases possible to obtain effective control, not in order to place a heavy hand on or to impede the imaginations of the creative people associated with the program, but by objective criticism to improve and sharpen a program's material.

We believe from experience that there is not only room for the three sources of shows, but there is a real necessity for all and that the earlier the agencies can work with the networks and package producers during the period when a show is in its planning stage, the better the results will be.

Advertising Council Boasts Fine Public Service Record

By
GORDON C. KINNEY
Director of Radio and Television, The Advertising Council, Inc.

THE past year, in the area of public service broadcasting and advertising, was perhaps the most eventful and significant in over a decade. Certainly, it was The Advertising Council's biggest peacetime year. The volume of advertising contributed by advertising media and advertisers to public service projects reached the total of $149,069,000 as against the 1955 total of $120,000,000. Not since World War II has public service advertising reached such a high point.

And during this year broadcasters and their advertisers — local, regional and national — gave more support to more public interest information projects than they had in any previous year. They mounted the largest Register And Vote Campaign in history and closed 1956 by conducting the tremendously effective Hungarian Emergency Relief Campaign—all the while giving forceful assistance to 14 other vital public interest programs and 46 additional causes. This record includes only Advertising Council projects, and does not include hundreds of purely local community projects which radio and television stations assisted generously in their localities.

Network and regional advertisers alone contributed in 1956 a total circulation of 10,612,353,000 radio and television home impressions to those campaigns supported by the Council (in 1955 the total was 6,174,667,000). These 10½ billion home impressions resulted from sponsored programs only. The additional circulation contributed by local stations and by network sustaining shows easily would double this figure. These estimates are based on ratings of individual programs, provided to the Council free by The A. C. Nielsen Company. A home impression is one message heard once in one home.

While the scope of this public service is impressive, fortunately the campaign results also are impressive—results of which broadcasters can be proud.

Here are but a few such results registered in 1956:

The ACTION campaign stimulated 13,200 individual requests for assistance. Sponsors of the BETTER SCHOOLS campaign reported 12 to 15 thousand local citizens committees working for better schools. Four years ago there were 17, PTA membership totals 10,130,000, an increase of 720,718 over the year before.

The HUNGARIAN EMERGENCY RELIEF campaign successfully reached its goal of 5 million dollars for the Red Cross and 1½ million CARE.

The annual average of forest fires in recent years was 300,000. In 1956 it dropped to 166,000. The area burned dropped from 30,000,000 acres to 8,000,000 acres.

In 1952 the enrollment of volunteers as plane spotters in the Ground Observer Corps was under 90,000. Today it is 400,000. In addition a million men and women have been trained as observers. In the 1956 drive, the Red Cross raised $84,950,756 and achieved a membership of 24,000,000 people.

Two million $1 packages have been sent to hungry people as a result of the CARE Food Crusade.

The greatest total vote in history was cast in 1956 — 62,118,936, as compared with the 1952 total of 61,351,919. A total of 80,158,364 registered in 1956, an increase in registration of 4,578,579 over 1952.

During the ten years the Council has assisted on the STOP ACCIDENTS campaign, the traffic accident death rate per 100 million vehicle miles was reduced from 11.3 to a low of 6.3. Although selling U. S. Savings Bonds is an up-hill fight, holders of U. S. Savings Bonds reached an all-time high the past year. 40 million Americans now own E and H bonds worth 41 million dollars.

From all indications the public relations of the Council, and through it the public relations of broadcasting, of advertising and of business, continue to forge ahead. Whereas, not too many years ago, certain groups in America—educators, clergymen and perhaps physicians — were critical of "advertising", today these very groups form perhaps the loudest cheering section for the mass communications media.

THE FIRST HUNDRED MILLION DOLLAR YEAR

A couple of months ago a milestone was passed when McCann-Erickson TV-Radio billing hit a rate of a hundred million dollars annually. A glance at the accompanying charts shows that this covers every radio and TV network, hundreds of local stations—every kind of programming—every type of commercial. Like all agencies, and most people, we like to set ourselves goals. Probably it was one of our goals to be the first to reach the hundred million mark in this field—but right now there's only time to thank the many people responsible for having done it. The networks and stations who have done so much to bring these media to their present high point of effectiveness . . . the producing outlets and the talent agencies who have contributed so much to the quality of our product.

Unable to breathe adequately, this premature baby must have oxygen administered into its lungs. New methods like this are keeping infants as tiny as 1 pound 8 ounces alive and able to develop naturally.

TELEVISION: from the premature babies' nursery, Baltimore's Sinai Hospital

THIS TELECAST described the new methods which are helping to save premature babies.

This is one of a series dealing with new medical techniques in the treatment of mental disease, diabetes, and so on.

These telecasts come from medical schools and hospital research centers.

To make these broadcasts possible, the schools and hospitals, obviously, have had to see the educational value of the series. Their sympathy with the purposes of the series has led them, with the American Medical Association, to give their wholehearted co-operation.

To be of value, of course, these programs have had to be authentic portrayals of the new techniques under discussion. The doctors, the nurses, the patients—all are real.

"Medical Horizons," as this television series is called, was developed with CIBA Pharmaceutical Products Inc. by the J. Walter Thompson Company to meet very special and professional problems. It is produced and directed by J. Walter Thompson Company.

What's happened to all the advertising ideas?

Of recent years it has become slightly unfashionable for an advertising agency to suggest that maybe its chief reason for being is to spawn, for its clients, advertising ideas that are perfect wows and hellers.

Instead, in soliciting business, an agency will sedately emphasize its organization, its branch offices, its research department, that amorphous activity known as "merchandising"—which can mean almost anything the occasion happens to call for: the fact that none of its major executives got their experience in advertising but grew up in some business far removed from operating an agency, or that the agency has had remarkable success in buying already established radio or tv shows with high ratings. That's not the way the advertising business helped change the whole face of America.

It did it on ideas. Ideas that paid off and, in paying off, became part and parcel of our daily thought and language.

Our organization has a consistent record for producing ideas — a record that goes far back beyond our banding together to start this agency — which, of course, was a new idea in itself and still another one that has managed to pay off.

Agency's Production Role Is Many-Sided Challenge

By MARION
HARPER, JR.
President,
McCann-Erickson, Inc.

WE ALL know that good television has several well-established sources. Whether a program is produced by an advertising agency, a package producer, or a network is, in our judgment, secondary to the question: What program and production standards will provide the most effective vehicle for our clients' sales? Our concern with programming is that simple.

Television sponsors enjoy gratifying results with programming from all three sources. None has a monopoly in quality and effective programming.

Television does, of course, present uniquely complicated and specialized challenges. Its programming involves one of the most speculative areas in all business investment—namely, show business. The very clichés, “hottest thing in show business,” or “box-office poison” (which may be applied to the same personality or format within a period of months) indicate the unpredictability of public taste. As in any art or entertainment form, there is no sure-fire formula in television.

Moreover, while investors in other forms of show business profit from a show's popularity alone, the television sponsor must depend upon more than popularity. Through both program and commercial he must create a favorable image for his company, which will be translated into actual sales.

It is such considerations as these which compel a responsible agency to take all possible steps to see that television is employed on the sponsor's behalf with the greatest expertness and economy, whatever the program source. As the agency with the largest commitment in television, we regard this as basic.

A reflection of this policy at McCann-Erickson is that Terence Clyne, Vice President in Charge of Television, is also chairman of the Plans Review Board. In this dual role, he is able to bring a broad perspective to the client's specific requirements, and to the best uses of television to meet them.

Under his leadership we have carried out a program of developing both staff and facilities to serve our clients' needs with self sufficiency. The result is an assembly of talent capable of conceiving, planning, building, writing, and producing all kinds of television shows.

The criterion of sales development requires that an agency have competence not only in programming, but in other major areas of television: appraisal of all kinds of television properties; evaluation of network, national spot, and local television; and the whole specialized field of producing commercials. All these areas require specialized and skilled staff.

Our interest in television is as strong in the international as in the domestic field. Here we have even greater responsibility for competence in all phases of television, since the medium is so new in most countries beyond our borders. In many cases, complete agency service is required from starting date to air-time, not just to insure sales effectiveness, but simply to get a program on the air. Already, we have had gratifying success in Latin America, where television has found an immediate welcome. In the British Isles, despite a non-commercial tradition, we have made encouraging progress; as we have on the European continent, where commercial television is just beginning.

In all this activity, our purpose remains the same: to employ television, as we employ all other media, in a way that will bring the best return on our clients' investment. We have no ambition for a “corner” on the programming provided for our clients. We believe that healthy and vigorous competition for programming excellence between networks, agencies, and package-producers should be encouraged. We believe it can lead to advances both in programming and in economy—and make television an ever better and more effective sales-development instrument for our clients.

two?

One is for television...one is for radio. They go together. Most homes have both — and use both.

They sell together, too. These days you don't use television to reach one audience and radio to reach another. Most of the time they're selling to exactly the same prospects...but at different times, in different ways. Today, radio and television are a team.

That's why today's Nielsen-minded TV advertiser has come more and more to consider, in conjunction with his basic TV buy, the ideally complementary medium of network radio. He sees in network radio not the "old" medium of "filling in where TV isn't" (a fast-shrinking 21% of U. S. homes), but a "new" medium that adds important audience in terms of TV homes not otherwise reached by the basic TV properties and adds important frequency and multiple-home visits to those homes reached by TV. For example, special Nielsen duplication analyses show what ABC Morning Radio or ABC Weekend Radio add in one month to a prime TV franchise*:

That's why today the new medium for television advertisers is network radio!

Resurgence of Network Radio Striking, Yet Understandable

GEORGE COMTOIS
Vice-President, Sales
ABC Radio Network

THE outlook for network radio is so good for 1957 that Dec. 28, 1956 ABC Radio announced an increase in network radio rates effective April 1, 1957.

ABC Radio's decision to raise rates on the segmented programs in our Morning Bloc under the ABC-Dispersion Plan is based on the fact that progress on the road back for network radio can best be accelerated by providing the industry at large with a more accurate reflection of the real worth of a network radio buy in the rates charged for that buy. While the ABC Radio rate increases are modest, they signify the increasing recognition, importance and value of network radio as a national medium.

Radio has passed through a difficult period over the past decade because it has taken advertisers time to discover that $1,000 spent in 1956 to reach 1,500,000 homes per minute is an even better buy than $5,000 spent in 1946 to reach 5,000,000 homes per minute. While this may seem to be a very simple thing to "discover," one must remember that the buyer of advertising has traditionally been used to buying something that assembles a crowd for him—like the high rated radio show of yesterday and the high rated TV show of today.

In 1956, while fewer crowds were assembled at any one time by radio, radio as an individual listening medium followed more individuals than ever before—in 47,000,000 homes with radios in 35,000,000 autos with radios, in 142,000,000 individual radio set locations throughout America. With radio rates lowered in keeping with the smaller crowds assembled, the point was finally reached where radio was at once broad enough (thanks to the phenomenal continuing growth of set circulation) in minute-by-minute cost to actually enable an advertiser to economically pursue the media man's dream of following the individuals wherever they are.

Moreover, this technique of mass penetration and saturation, made possible by the new pattern of radio's cost and circulation today, furthers one of the most important selling techniques of advertising—namely, repetition. Not only does the radio advertiser get more homes per minute for less money today than he did ten years ago, he broadcasts his message more often, with greater frequency than ever before possible for that money. The advertisers who know about radio's change—in method of buying and costs of buying—are enthusiastic about radio because it is the most successful, economical medium they have ever used. Small advertisers have perhaps been the first to learn about radio's change and new vitality, because their inability to afford TV on a large scale has made them more expert on the use of radio and other media. Also, the small advertiser can usually feel results and trace those results to his use of radio more handily than the large advertiser.

The sheer weight of research evidence brought to bear in network radio's behalf has operated in the past year to saturate the buyers of advertising with the realization of network radio's strength. The demonstrable power of the medium has, in 1956, helped move network radio from the Time buyer's desk to the Plan Board table. Similarly, the advertiser is concerning himself more and more with his radio appropriations and not delegating complete responsibility for "fill-in" coverage. The great thing for network radio has been the growing realization by both agency and advertiser in case after case that with over 75% of all homes now TV-equipped the only way to consider network radio is on the basis of total U.S. homes delivered.

The resurgence of network radio is really not so surprising. Actually, trade opinion on the value of the medium has tended to follow public opinion—which has certainly changed. Advertiser Research has asked TV owners every year since 1949 in a continuing study if they think TV will replace radio and if they think they will continue to listen to radio. In 1949 52% said TV would replace radio. In 1956 only 11% thought so and 89% reported they will continue to listen to radio.

In all areas, on all fronts 1957 will be a year of greater strength for the radio medium, greater progress for networks and greater rewards and advantages for those who make use of its facilities.

Network Radio Suits Needs of Major Advertising Firms

By ARTHUR HULL
HAYES
President
CBS Radio

THE trend for radio is upward. Almost 14,000,000 new radios were sold last year which indicates that more listeners are listening. More advertisers are buying time. Why? I think the reason is that radio has maintained its unique effectiveness for entertaining, informing and persuading large audiences. Certainly, if the developments of the past year are a reliable barometer, the CBS Radio Network, in particular, has every reason to look forward confidently during the ensuing months.

One of the first principles of advertising is that, in order to be effective, it must be repetitive and it must reach a lot of people. Because the radio medium does fulfill this function, more and more national advertisers are recognizing this fact, and they recognize further that they can secure effective advertising at the right price.

At any given moment, for example, the entire nation-wide audience for radio can be reached only through the use of virtually all of the 2971 commercial AM radio stations deployed across the country. But how many—if any—advertisers can buy time on all of these stations on a consistent and repetitive basis? Here, therefore, is where network radio is tremendously advantageous and demonstrates its effectiveness. And this is why, for an increasing number of advertisers, the answer continues to lie in network radio. Although only about 42 per cent of the commercial radio stations are affiliated with networks, these network stations account roughly for about two-thirds of the families listening to week-day, mid-day radio—a formidable percentage figure.

In this area the CBS Radio Network is dominant. CBS Radio's 201 affiliated stations, representing about seven per cent of all commercial stations in the United States, account for more than 26 per cent of the week-day, mid-day listening. This is more than the listening commanded by any other network and as much as the listening to the next two networks combined. CBS Radio has retained and has increased its audience dominance because it has maintained the quality of its programs and has not slackened its alertness to listeners' tastes and preferences. This emphasis on the importance of programming is, in fact, the foundation on which CBS Radio has rested from its very beginnings. And attention to programming quality gives advertisers access, not only to larger audiences, but to more responsive ones.

These factors are the basis for the confidence which major advertisers are displaying in radio as a potent selling medium. CBS Radio, for example, can point to a number of tremendously important business organizations which have allocated a sizable portion of their advertising dollar to impressive time purchases on the network. Gross time purchases of a million dollars or more were made by the following in recent months: Colgate-Palmolive, $3 million; Lever Brothers, $3 million; Slenderella International $1 million; Standard Brands, $1½ million; Scott Paper Co., $1,000,000. In addition, time purchases from the CBS Radio Network included renewals by such companies as Chevrolet, Delco, Brown & Williamson and the Wm. Wrigley Co. Where such advertisers lead, it is inescapable that others follow. The reason is simple: it's good business to buy radio!

The final barometer of advertising interest in network radio is the fact that, at this writing, 91 per cent of the CBS Radio Network's daytime programming is sold out—an improvement of more than 100 per cent on the status which was reported six months ago.

There can be little doubt about radio's continued growth and vitality. Certainly the developments of the past year seem to be a reliable indicator toward the continued growth and health of radio, both for 1957 and the years beyond.

Network Radio Structure Seen as Filling Manifold Needs

By
JOHN B. POOR
President
Mutual Broadcasting
System

RADIO'S resurgence is the misnomer that's making the rounds.

It is not a resurgence. Dictionaries define the word as a "rising or a tendency to rise." And where radio is concerned that is definitely incorrect.

The phrase that should be used these days is "radio's recognition." For that is what we have today—a recognition by all advertisers that radio is the big medium for flexible and elastic impact on the biggest possible mass audience in the world. And it is done by network radio at a minimum in cost.

This year 1957 actually marks a carry-over of a rekindled interest by national advertisers in network radio's commercial impression impact. This closer attention to network radio's potentials became markedly apparent in 1956 when our own Research Department checked the commercial minute impressions on network radio ordered over a specified period of time that year against a similar period in the preceding year 1955—and showed there was a big increase.

I have constantly harped on the fact that network radio's big problem was the simple fact it was being eclipsed by network television. And, taking my theme from Mark Twain's famed Connecticut Yankee story, I point out these days that network radio's solution to the problem is to remove itself from the picture medium's shadow.

We did that in 1956. And we are setting our sights not to increase that campaign throughout 1957 and the years ahead. We know we're on the right track.

We have many criteria to prove our points. Firstly, last year appliance makers made and sold twice as many radio sets as they did television. As I noted above, last year more and more advertising agencies began counseling clients to spread advertising dollars more sagely by increasing allocations for network radio. We know, too, that now as never before the great American public is a mobile force—constantly on the move via new cars and newer highways.

All these are signs of the times that none of us—whether we be network operators, affiliates or national and regional advertisers—can overlook. Americans are moving out of their homes these evenings. They're traveling. They're attending drive-in theaters and enclosed theaters. They're visiting people. They've stopped hibernating.

And wherever they go there's radio. When these words are printed there will be upwards of 150 million radio sets in use throughout the country. There are more than 40 million radio-equipped cars, trucks and busses. It's the biggest mass audience in the world. And it can only be reached by radio—with network radio most efficient in this process.

There are skeptics who talk down the advantages of network radio. Fortunately, they are few today.

I have seen at first hand that local programming kept strictly on a local level has manifold limitations and is far from the answer to good programming, economically sound and progressive radio programming.

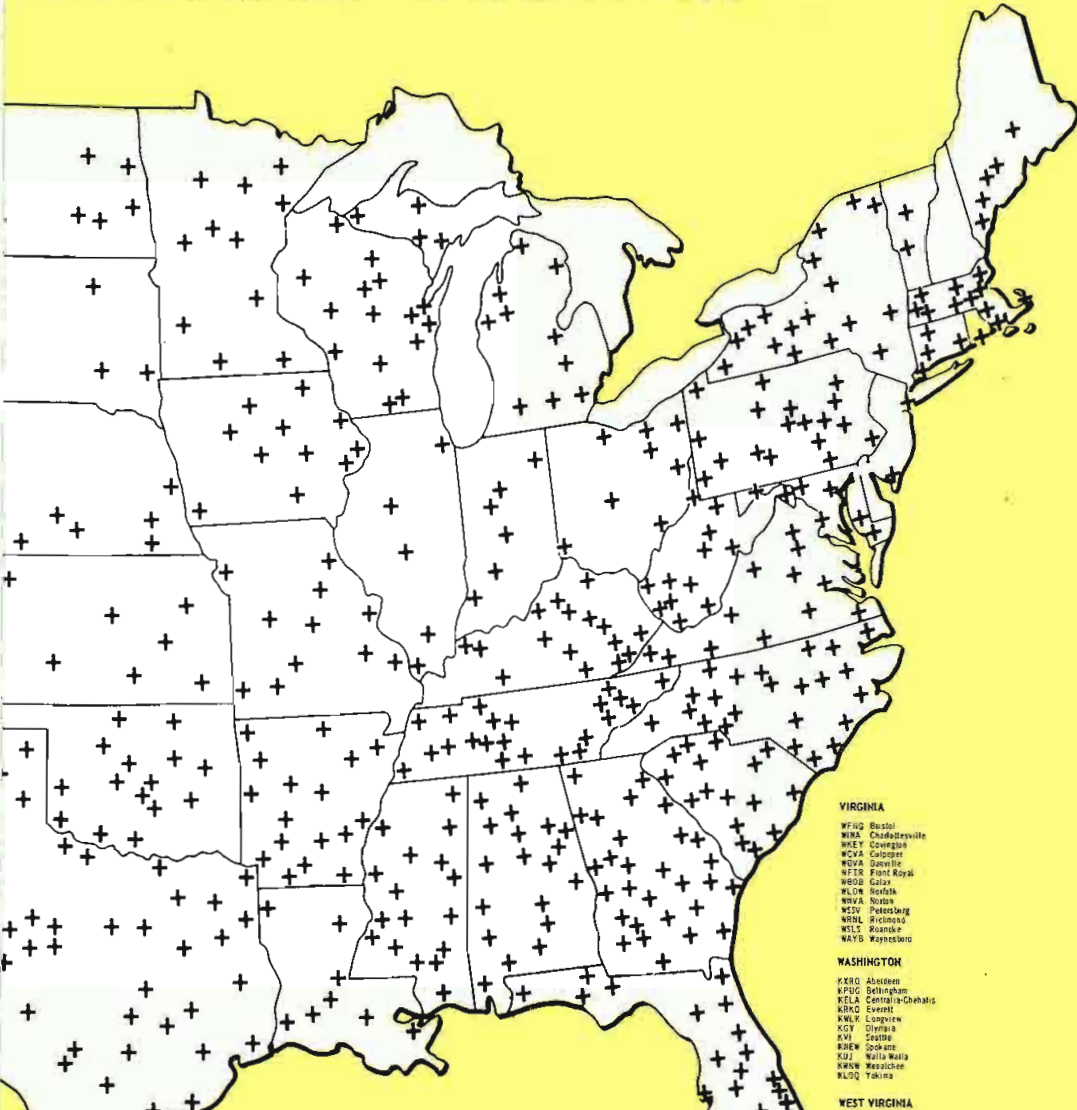

That has to be an interlocking of local interests between the specifics for neighborhoods (areas of 100 to 200 square miles within the radial transmitting distances of average a.m. stations) and local programming and the spectacular, colorful broadcasting that radio listeners have come to depend on these days—the type of interstudded programming that only a network can provide.

Only a network can go round the world—for news where it is actually happening—for events as they actually occur. This is network radio's big plus.

And never again in our lifetime will we see it overshadowed.

Turnabout in the Fortunes of Network Radio Described

By MATTHEW J.
CULLIGAN
Vice President
NBC Radio Network

THE miraculous turnabout in the fortunes of network radio that has occurred during the past few months is definitely not a matter of luck, the failure of competition, or the charity of advertisers and agencies. It is the result, we at NBC think, of identifiable, measurable causes, all of which contribute in varying degrees. As I see it, there are seven forces which have brought about the greatly improved atmosphere for network radio. You can weigh them according to your own orientation:

1. Stability of Audience — Television smashed into radio nine years ago with devastating effect, particularly at night. Night-time radio lost 69% of its audience to television. To a lesser degree, daytime radio was affected. About 27% of radio's daytime audience was lost to television. But happily, the decline in radio audiences was arrested about 18 months ago, and audience levels stabilized for six months, then started a gradual, small increase. Network radio rates, however, declined faster and for a longer period than audience levels, resulting in the phenomenon of an underpriced national advertising medium.

2. Research—Leading national advertisers have completed research studies which have had a drastic effect on their thinking. One large soap company conducted a continuing research project over a two-year period and made a discovery which led to their purchase of $4,000,000 in network radio. Other research is now underway, and we believe the conclusions are inevitable—that as a supplement to an existing campaign, network radio is definitely superior to any other medium—television, print or newspapers.

3. Merchandisability — This is an intangible, but it certainly should be considered. For more than six years television has had an almost unique explosive power with elements of the distributive and retailing trade. Almost any television caused excitement among a sales force and the trade. And no radio advertising had much effect in exciting the trade. This feverish excitement has run its course, and television no longer completely dominates the scene.

4. Economics of Television — The rising costs of television have militated against continuity for many advertisers. There is considerable concern about the "valleys of forgetfulness" between television exposures. Network radio is being used by bellwether advertisers to bridge the gaps between television exposures and print exposures in weekly and monthly magazines.

5. New Equipment—A whole new area of service to the public is being opened via new radio equipment—such as the NBC Hot Line Service which restores to the American scene the electronic equivalent of the old newspaper's EXTRA, which was relegated to the graveyard by the speed and flexibility of radio news coverage.

6. Need for Networks—In recent months there have been ringing confirmations of the need for radio networks by the people whose opinions really matter. Our NBC affiliates demonstrated this beyond all doubt by accepting a change in network option time, permitting us to take under network option the first five minutes of every hour from 7:00 A.M. to 11:00 P.M. Advertisers and agencies, recognizing network radio as a supermarket way to buy, have shown their support by some recent purchases of network radio.

7. "Imagery Transfer"—And finally, a concept . . . "Imagery Transfer," which struck sparks immediately among the best minds in the advertising business. The NBC Radio Network has undertaken a detailed study of "Imagery Transfer" and will shortly publish a book, called "The Scientific Basis for Imagery Transfer." The net effect of Imagery Transfer will be, in my judgment, the acceptance of network radio as a necessary part of any balanced national advertising campaign.

I would like to make three predictions about Network Radio.

1. Network Radio will be with us at least as long as any present major advertising medium—including television, magazines or newspapers.

2. The period between the Fall of 1956 and the Spring of 1957 was the turning point in the trend of Network Radio.

3. New radio audience research will be devised in 1957 which will for the first time illuminate the true audience levels of radio, including portable sets in the home, car radios and out-of-home portables.

Keystone Web Services Needs Of Hometown And Rural America

THE rich bread basket which makes up Home Town and Rural America is one of the most desirable market places in the nation. Its statistics alone prove that as a market it can scarcely be overlooked as a source of tremendous revenue for advertisers in almost every conceivable field. 28,058,420 radio homes comprise an audience of over 87,000,000 listeners. Included in this group are over 4,000,000 farms where television is not a strong factor. Keystone Broadcasting System covers this vast market with radio service that has a large and loyal following. Keystone Broadcasting System provides the advertiser with access to this market that can be compared to nothing else available to him. Advertisers who have used Keystone are staunch advocates of the power of radio . . . specifically Keystone . . . in Home Town and Rural America.

One of the outstanding advantages of Keystone service to its clients is the ease and simplicity with which large market areas can be covered by the simple writing of an order. Keystone's administrative facilities enable the advertiser to choose sections of the country as he sees fit and Keystone takes over from there. The programming problems and paper work are out of the advertiser's hair because Keystone's services are such that they are almost automatic. With more than 920 stations in the Keystone family, it becomes possible for the advertiser to choose where and how many stations will best fit his particular problem. 90 or 900, according to the dictates of his merchandising program, Keystone tailors Home Town and Rural America to fit each individual need.

Probably the great plus factor in KBS service is a tremendous extra that is provided by the unusual effort put forth by Keystone affiliates in behalf of merchandising. Time after time advertisers have expressed wonderment at the real "get up and go" of Keystone merchandising. This is no idle statement — Keystone's records are full of merchandising stories that are literally worth their weight in gold . . . and all at the local level where they do the most good. The unusual relationship that Keystone maintains with its affiliates is fertile ground for merchandising growth that we believe is unparalleled in the field.

Yes, Keystone is still growing. Every year sees new members added to the already large family. And new members mean even greater services to Keystone's present customers and future advertisers. Keystone is looking forward to 1957 as a year which will realize an even greater boon to Keystone clients and greater results from rich, enthusiastic Home Town and Rural America and the over 920 Keystone affiliate stations.

SERVICES OFFERED: The Keystone Broadcasting System is a transcription network covering principally hometown and rural America. Keystone services these local radio stations in their programming with transcriptions and makes the stations' time available to national advertisers at an attractive network package price.

At present, there are more than 900 Keystone affiliates located in towns with 10,000 to 250,000 population. Most of these Keystone stations serve areas which are beyond clear reception of metropolitan radio stations and which are beyond television coverage. Based on Nielsen reports, or one-half-millivolt where the Nielsen report is not available, there are over 29,000,000 radio homes in the Keystone Primary Coverage Area.

Agency Tries To Meet Client's Requirements For "Ideal Show"

By GEORGE HAIGHT
Vice President and Manager of TV-Radio
Program Services Div.
McCann-Erickson, Inc.

AMONG advertisers and agencies, television is usually referred to as "the newest sales tool" and along with their employment of this most provocative and effective medium, there are many who say that they have taken on a whole new set of problems. One wonders how new these problems really are.

Our clients look to us for special knowledge of television. They, after all, have complicated problems of their own in the operation of the manufacturing and distributive processes which their products and services require. They cannot be expected to be fully informed in the fields for which we are retained to further and protect their interests. They not only look to us for this service; but they also endow us with, and we willingly accept, the responsibility for the conduct of their television affairs.

At McCann-Erickson this year, we expect to bill more than one hundred million dollars in the broadcast media, the lion's share of which goes to television. Television represents a sizable percentage of our total billing. Some of our clients are spending in excess of 75% of their advertising monies on this influential instrument; and we must be thoroughly prepared to advise, to create, to judge, to estimate, to research and to receive their approbation as well as their disapproval.

These television affairs all add up to basically one thing—"the show." Now, from an advertisers' point of view, what is a good show? The ideal, of course, is the best entertainment possible, at a reasonable cost, capable of charming not only the largest possible audience, but the type of audience that might be induced to buy the advertiser's product. The advertiser today expects his agency to supply him with a show as near as possible to this ideal. And he holds the agency responsible. If the show falters, the advertiser turns to the agency and demands that the show improve. If the show fails, the advertiser wants out. It's as realistic as that.

Since we have the full responsibility for our advertisers' shows, it naturally follows that we must be directly involved with what goes into those shows. Not only do we feel that being on the scene is the best way to protect our clients' investments, but more important we know that we must make genuine, constructive contributions to any and all of our programs. We have had occasion recently to contribute in a very real sense to maintaining the high standards of "Climax!," "Studio One" and "Jim Bowie," to name but three of McCann-Erickson's current television entries in which our professional people have been able to make good use of their program and production experience.

Wherever possible, future shows for which McCann-Erickson is responsible will have a clear definition in contract of the function of the agency in terms of co-creativity. There are times when it is difficult to obtain program production co-control, especially when a popular personality is involved. But more and more as the results come in, we believe that McCann-Erickson's professional contributions will be not only accepted but welcomed.

Of course, it goes without saying that our participation in the production of our clients' programs is by no means a cure-all or guarantee of success. We have had and probably will continue to have an occasional miss. The fact remains, however, that it has been our experience that where we have "co-produced" a show the results have been better than they have been where our participation was limited.

The day may soon come when pilot films, made on speculation and offered on the open market for sale, will be a thing of the past. We have had several discussions with two large film show suppliers on this subject, suggesting that perhaps under the pilot system the cart is before the horse, or the egg before the turkey. Each of these outfits agreed that there is some merit in a new system where the advertiser's marketing problem might be the starting point—with a show created to fit that specific need, less money might be lost.

The folks at Knobs Creek, Ky., first knew
Lincoln as a boy who lived in this cabin.
The country knew him later as a great,
warm-hearted President.

Storer, too, had a humble origin... was known first as the operator of a little 100-watt

now acclaims Storer Stations as leaders in programming and in effective salesmanship.

What Happened to the Woman Broadcaster and Her Program?

By JEAN GIBSON
Radio-Television Daily

NO ONE will deny the television impact of a dancer in a swirling skirt, a chic model in the latest fashion, or a pretty hostess with plunging neckline, cooking in her kitchen. And a sultry-voiced actress still packs evocative punch on the radio.

But what has happened to the woman broadcaster?

Certainly most women broadcasters have talent, poise, and show a well-turned ankle. They have verve and TV-genic features. A surprising number are honest-to-goodness good reporters. Even more are top-rated salesmen.

Female broadcasters have long faced the fact that in their careers the demand on a woman is greater than on a man in the same capacity, especially in the news field. A few women broadcasters are doing an exceptional job of entertaining the female portion of the American public. But a great many more deserve a chance.

For years, the woman broadcaster and her program grew in importance. Nearly every radio station had at least one woman on the air. When television came of age, it too used women and their programs.

What, then, went wrong with this type of show? What made her disappear? Was it the switch many radio stations made to a news and music programming format? Why did TV drop many of its women's shows?

Women's programs succeeded because of their flexibility. They failed because of it too. Almost anything could be used on their program to satisfy advertisers of other shows. Commercials, given in a conversational style, were encouraged to be longer and many more were used than would be tolerated on any other program.

The woman's show also suffered greatly from two labels: 1. woman's program and 2. service program.

To program directors, (some women commentators were guilty too) the words "woman's program" meant only homemaking reports, recipes and sewing hints. Some of these homemaking hints helped the program, but the over-abundance—well that was one of the first mistakes.

A woman listener needs to "get out of the kitchen" even though she is hearing a program while fixing dinner or washing dishes.

Stations underestimated the female audience. The female listeners wanted something besides kitchen shows. They wanted to hear what was going on in the world; they wanted to hear interviews with interesting people — people who have accomplished something, not the station manager's wife who happens to be Mrs. Club Woman and just has to tell about the rummage sale the club is sponsoring. Of course, this cut down on the time Mr. Important could be interviewed.

This brings us to another reason women broadcasters and their programs left the air. Mrs. Club Woman got the air time free of charge as a service from the station. Other women who knew the "right" person at the station got free service announcements on the woman's show. When this was coupled with the ever-present low budget for the program the listeners dropped off.

The thinly disguised commercials, the household hints, the dull interviews tired many women broadcasters. Like Doberman of the Phil Silvers "Sgt. Bilko" show, their complaint was "But Sarge; why does it always have to be me?"

What can be done to bring the woman broadcaster back to the air? Even when she was most popular the "talking woman" was still in the minority. The situation is not hopeless.

First she could build her name by appearing on panel shows, both radio and TV. Or, as many women are doing now, give commercials. She could moderate a quiz or panel show. From here, she would find an easier stepping stone back to a show of her own.

But first she must get a new label for her show, a new approach and face broadcasting with her own special integrity and keep it that way.

Women lost their programs because the approach was wrong and audiences were changed. But never underestimate the power of a woman — especially a woman broadcaster.

In a single day, KNX reaches more homes in Metropolitan Los Angeles than the three leading independent stations combined.

That's saturation!

And KNX saturation sinks in. Your sales message is backed by programming that demands attention: drama, discussion, comedy, sports, variety and news... not a lulling repetition of top tunes.

When you talk "saturation" get saturation.

Buy KNX RADIO, the most listened to station in Los Angeles.

You'd think they'd thrown the keys away...

- ▶ IN SOUTHERN NEW ENGLAND. Politz studies show that 88 out of every 100 people listen to radio — morning, noon and night — and almost four times as many tune to 1080 on the dial as to any other radio station.
- ▶ IN SOUTHERN NEW ENGLAND, family income is 14% above the U.S. average. You can reach this quality in quantity on the radio station that serves best.

Runaway/no give-away

It happened fast in Miami—and it happened without a single giveaway, or any contest in which listening was a requisite for winning.

In less than 3 months under new ownership, Storz Station programming catapulted WQAM to a decisive first place position. First in the morning, with 25.5% of audience. First in the afternoon, with 33.6%. First all day with a resounding 29.9%.

Already a fine buy to begin with—WQAM is now the buy in Miami. Talk to your nearest Blair man—or General Manager Jack Sandler.

THEY'RE BLOWING OUR HORN!

Take it, Mr. Pulse!

The latest Pulse Report (Oct.-Nov., 1956) of the Fort Wayne area covers 26 counties.

Pulse surveyed 476 quarter hours 6 A.M. to 11 P.M., Monday through Sunday.

Pulse reports that, for the 3rd straight year, WOWO has . . .

476 "FIRSTS" out of 476 quarter hours surveyed

The reason is no secret: results like these come from WOWO's bright new music programming . . . complete on-the-spot news reporting . . . plus service that keeps WOWO listeners informed on what's going on in their communities.

For hard-selling availabilities call Tom Longworth, WOWO Sales Manager, at Anthony 9436, in Fort Wayne. Or, A. W. "Bink" Dannenbaum, WBC VP-Sales, Murray Hill 7-0808, in New York.

In the tri-state Indiana-Ohio-Michigan Market, no selling campaign is complete without the WBC station . . .

SAMSON gets a haircut

Poor soil conductivity can make a coverage weakling out of the most efficient 50 KW transmitter. On the other hand, top soil conductivity can turn a lower powered station into a coverage GIANT.

Located in America's highest rated conductive soil, WIBW's 5 KW signal smashes out 200 miles in every direction — over twice as far as 50 kilowatts could reach grounded in poor soil.

Moral: Power Alone Is Not Enough

Still 1st, still rocketing

Among New Orleans' 11 radio stations, WTIX (A Storz Station) has been a commanding first for some time now, and maintains or widens its first place audience position. For example, of 220 weekly Hooper quarter hours, 170 belong to WTIX, which also has 40 2nd place quarters, 10 thirds . . . and not a single one lower.

Another look at new data shows WTIX with double the audience of the nearest network competitor. And wait 'til you see the newest! Pulse! 'Nuff said. It's Storz Station news, music, ideas at work. Put Adam Young to work, or look up WTIX General Manager, Fred Berthelson.

WPOR is not Portland's only station... but

It's the only station in Portland where radio is not a secondary operation.

It's the only station in Portland that features Music, News and Sports.

It's the only station in Portland that raked up 15 quarter hour firsts out of 24 tested in a recent Survey. It's the only station in Portland that doesn't claim or charge you for questionable coverage outside the greater Portland market —

And it's the only station in Portland that can truthfully say,

Portland's Favorite Station — Ask Anyone!

Nearly unanimous

Hooper, Pulse, Nielsen and a host of Twin Cities advertisers agree—WDGY has the big audience for those big results. There's a new listen in Minneapolis-St. Paul. Hardly a factor less than a year ago—WDGY is now a major factor in any Twin Cities advertising campaign.

Storz Station programming quality plus 50,000 watt coverage are doing a big job for an increasing number of national and local accounts whose audience story is up to date. Is yours? See the Blair man, or General Manager Steve Labunski.

87% renewal

87% of WHB's largest billing local accounts in 1955 . . . renewed in 1956! WHB has a higher renewal percentage among both local and national advertisers than any other Kansas City Station.

Thus WHB is Kansas City's RESULTS station . . . and RATINGS station, because WHB is a dominant all-day first on every survey!

Latest Metro Pulse: WHB first 360 of 360 ¼'s!
 Latest Area Pulse: WHB first 263 of 288 ¼'s!
 Latest Area Nielsen: WHB first all day, every day!

Latest Hooper: WHB first all day, every day!

Dominance in St. Louis . . .

KSD and KSD-TV—pioneers in their respective media—this year observe the completion of 35 eventful years in radio and 10 exciting years in television.

Such pioneering naturally means foresighted leadership! And that leadership now means more than ever for achieving success in any campaign in St. Louis—America's ninth market!

5th year of dominance!

For a long time now, KOWH has enjoyed almost as much of the Omaha daytime audience as all the other stations put together. (Hooper). Just about every daytime 1 1/2 hour belongs to KOWH. And no matter who asks the question, the answer is KOWH. Latest Pulse: KOWH first 228 of 240 14's. Latest Trendex: KOWH first every time period!

What's done it? Storz Station programming and broad (660 kc.) coverage- which have been bringing results to a host of local and national advertisers. You can be one, too. Ask the Adam Young man, or General Manager Virgil Sharpe.

The Italian Influence

In every phase of American life, Italian creativeness plays a leading role in satisfying our demands for better living. From music to motor cars, from fashions and furniture to films and food, we eagerly accept the good things the Italian Influence brings us. Here in New York, with more than two million Americans of Italian origin, the Italian Influence makes its most penetrating impact.

MUSIC AND NEWS ISN'T ENOUGH!

Sure, you can always attract the jukebox set. All you have to do is follow the charts and run a jukebox! You might even pile up some impressive ratings.

But for day-in day-out results for local sponsors it takes something extra.

Maybe it's mature deejays, public service, comprehensive sports coverage, year-round promotions, contests, public appearances, advertising and merchandising tie-ins.

Maybe it's the mobile news unit, our own record survey, the stereophonic experiments, the Hi-Fi Fair, the Miss Cleveland Contest, the Show Trains.

Maybe it's these "extras" that really count after all!

WCAU means
PHILADELPHIA

response

This story is directed particularly to those who ask, "How much product did it move?" WCAU-TV's "Mister & Missus" team, Joan and Gene Crane, in a few weeks increased the upholstering department's work at Gimbels about 200 per cent! Proof that this outstanding couple converts audience appeal to sales appeal. So when you think of response, think of WCAU.

might as well face it . . .

KRLD is the only Full-Time 50,000 watt station in the Dallas - Fort Worth area

KRLD is the only 50,000 watt station operating in the Dallas-Fort Worth area not sharing its frequency with another station. Complete saturation, morning, afternoon and night, of this rich, rapidly expanding market, plus North Texas and Southern Oklahoma, is yours with just one order . . . on KRLD. Best of all . . . by not having to divide contracts with two stations . . . you earn greater frequency discounts . . . maximum impact for minimum investment.

KRLD is the oldest CBS affiliate in Texas. Southwestern listeners are accustomed to tuning to 1080 for their favorite radio entertainment. Popular regional and top-rated CBS programs consistently make KRLD the No. 1 station for this vast audience . . . one of the highest income groups in the nation. To reach this group completely, effectively and economically, your basic advertising medium choice should be . . . MUST be . . . KRLD . . . Dallas.

KRLD Radio CBS Dallas

Owned and operated by KRLD-TV, televising with Maximum Power from the top of Texas' Tallest Tower, The Dallas Times Herald station, Herold Square, Dallas 2. The Branham Company, National Representatives.

JOHN W. RUNYON
 Chairman of the Board
