MANAGEMENT CONTROL

... Solution To Prime Problems

By MORTON J. WAGNER

Exec. Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr., Bartell Broadcasters, Inc.

"FROM Madison, Wisconsin, to Madison Avenue, and soon one of the industries most unique management control structures . . ." This is how Jerry, Lee and Mel Bartell sum up the latest step in the growth of Bartell Broadcasters, Inc.

Our Group is comprised of seven radio and television stations—domestic and international and real estate interests from Coast to Coast. Recently we've also gone "over the counter" on the Stock Exchange and are preparing for a major issue.

On April 15, we took over facilities in the Newsweek Building at 444 Madison Avenue. Half a floor is devoted to WADO, New York, executive offices and to coordinating facilities for all far-flung interests. The new offices also contain two broadcasting studios.

For 13 years we have been building toward our current position and as we establish Bartell Central in New York, we are dedicated to utilizing our management and operating experience in pursuing solutions to the prime problems of our industry—issues that have been discussed pro and con by thinkers in our profession for years. To that end, we are delighted to announce the formulation of a special division. This we feel is the challenge, the privilege, the obligation of a group of our size and experience.

The situations inherent in the development of a group of radio and television properties are but a small scale version of the growing pains of an entire industry. For 13 years, we have pioneered independent or so-called modern radio and its myriad ramifications. Now with stations in major markets across the country and with our international interests, we believe its time to apply our intra-group problem solving procedures to our industry for whatever good they might do.

We propose weekly seminars to which we will invite industry apprentices and professionals. Our suite is surrounded by a patio. Throughout the summer over sandwiches we hope to pursue shirt sleeve sessions designed to treat subjects of industry import. We propose to evolve plans and solutions.

All we hope to do is focus a penetrating and persistent spotlight on each area causing consternation throughout the industry. One by one and working together, we'll chip away each of our flaws. The second to second attention given to individual station management will be advocated on an industry scale.

If enough top station operators contribute time and talent, we will further shape a brilliant, exciting and lucrative profession into the smooth functioning machine that is now the pride of many individual station operators.

We hope to form a Control Council of industry leaders to assist in the accomplishment of our plans . . . twelve people—each from a different phase of the business will be asked to meet to expand upon or pare down subjects to be treated. Now is the time.

NEGRO RADIO MARKET

... Only Media With Boom Potential

By HARRY NOVIK
General Manager, WLIB, N. Y.

NEGRO radio is the one communications media today that has the basic potential for an expanded growth of boom proportions. A potential that is fast being recognized by advertisers of national products. The reasons for the interest in the Negro market as an area of rapid expansion are numerous, probably the most important however, is the fact that in no other media is there still a virtually untouched consumer market as in the Negro radio field.

For years national advertisers have been completely neglecting these markets with the rationalization that their investments in general radio stations "covered" these areas. Only when a few pioneering national advertisers experimented with campaigns designed specifically for the Negro market and found them successful beyond their expectations did agencies begin to realize that they had a fabulously fertile new market for their products. The success of these early national advertisers became so apparent in this specialized Negro market, that other manufacturers began to raise the question of whether or not they also should be in these specialized markets with specialized campaigns designed for the Negro audiences.

In the past few short years nearly every national advertiser of a major product has utilized Negro radio with continuing successful results. The effectiveness of this approach has been due to the sweeping change in programming concepts of Negro stations during the past ten years. Typical of this new concept is that followed by WLIB, and now used by the majority of successful stations programming to a specialized market.

The concept follows the pattern of true community service. It differs in its presentation and appeal only insofar as its specific audience interest is concerned. It offers a well-rounded, versatile and interesting program schedule aimed specifically at the Negro audience.

But this is only part of the up-beat approach Negro radio stations have inaugurated in their programming plans. Mr. and Mrs. service programs are just as popular as those on "general" radio. The stations have developed musical programs ranging from the best in jazz and classical to the smoothest in pop music and with the plentitude of outstanding Negro artists, they are never lacking in either talent or material.

Occupying an increasing position of importance in Negro stations broadcasting is the public service field. The majority of Negro stations throughout the country are making special efforts to provide a broad assortment of special public service programming for their Negro audiences. At WLIB for instance we have special coverage on the fight against segregation in the New York City schools and at present we are presenting a series on Negro life in America "The Last Citizen."

The change in some agency thinking is slow but fortunately they are being forced, by the successes of their more perceptive competitors in this area to look into the "possibilities" of the Negro market.

Stations In Major Markets Offering Advertisers In-Store Displays

This compilation, a four-month project, has been completed by the media merchandising division of BBDO's marketing department. It is the third annual survey of Radio and Television stations which offer in-store display space to their advertisers. The full report lists 185 Radio and 81 Television stations in major markets whose merchandising plans include supermarket display space for their advertisers. The survey was organized and executed under the direction of Louis Kruh, head of the media merchandising division, and Paul Freyd, vice president in charge of marketing at BBDO.

SPONSOR IDENTIFICATION

...Importance Depends On Use

By BOB FOREMAN

Exec V.P. in Charge Creative Services, BBDO

S.I. is just as important today as it was yesterday—or a year ago. Also it is just as unimportant since the degree of vitality attached to it depends upon many different things. Things such as the particular product or products, service or services doing the sponsoring. Whether the particular corporation using the medium of TV is out to do a corporate job, and so on.

The degree of S.I. importance can be nil. For example—there's spot television which has often demonstrated itself to be a great salesman. Yet, of course, spots provide no Sponsor Identification.

So let's generalize with this: whenever exposure-to-viewers is all that is expected of a television commercial, Sponsor Identification is of little significance.

For this reason, many package-goods sponsors of television programs insert one-minute product commercials in their shows as if they were spot buyers instead of program sponsors. When three different products are included per half hour—perhaps six in two weeks' time—these advertisers usually decide to let sponsor identification be damned. Circulation is their sole criterion.

But there's another side to the coin.

Where a corporate image is to be fashioned and each product must be a reflection of that image, Sponsor Identification grows in status. Here the main title of a program and perhaps a portion of every individual commercial can contribute to overall identification of the sponsor.

Where the entire commercial format is devoted, not to the selling of individual products, but to enhancing the viewing public's knowledge of the sponsor and his place in the American economy, Sponsor Identification, of course, is vital. One must be concerned about how many viewers know who is bringing them the show.

Today, there's a new facet to S.I. In the present climate I do think more advertisers than ever will be seeking television that will bring them things other than commercial exposure. They will try to create (or purchase) a new and more fitting climate with their programs. They will be more concerned with the public's opinion of the intent of their programming . . . with its qualities of good taste, artistic level, progressiveness. Therefore, they will also be concerned more than ever before with the S.I. they achieve.

Since television can build an emotional rapport with its audience it can also offer advertisers a big plus in high Sponsor Identification. More advertisers will realize the value of this in the months that lie ahead. And as they do they will be more concerned with the type of show they present to the public. To this, I say—Hallelujah!

RESEARCH IN TELEVISION

...Emphasizes Positive Aspects

By MERLE S. JONES

President, CBS Television Stations Division

LAST summer, CBS Television Stations presented a major research study that put the viewer under the microscope. I might refer to this as breakthrough research in television. This project involved a major motivational research effort conducted by the Institute for Motivation Research and Market Planning Corporation. The presentation called "More Than Meets The Eye," measured and analyzed the viewer's preference for certain stations. I would like to review some findings of the study as it emphasizes the positive aspects of the medium.

The series of aptitude and depth interviews used in the study revealed some of the factors that go into the making of a channel personality or station image. The factors include the excitement of television, viewer enjoyment, worthwhile programming, anticipation, trust and confidence, commercial atmosphere, advertising and promotion plus the viewers general satisfaction with what he sees on the home screen.

The respect accumulated by a station can only be accomplished with a balance of programming—network and local. I would like to state here that the CBS Owned television stations came out even higher in qualitative preference than they do in normal quantitative audience measurements.

We believe the personality created by the CBS Owned stations is derived from three primary sources. First, strong balanced programming maintained by the CBS Television Network. Second, the personality has been influenced by the contributions made by the stations through their local entertainment, news and public affairs programs. The third point is the adherence to the highest level of broadcasting operation. Indeed, the five CBS Owned stations not only follow the NAB code, but in addition, go beyond it with their own strict standards.

The CBS Television Network presents entertainment, information and cultural programs to satisfy the viewing habits of an entire family.

Each of the stations presents a group of locally produced programs which have become an important part of the program structure in each market.

In addition, three of the CBS Owned stations participated in a cultural program exchange during 1959 which we plan to repeat this year. The exchange called for thirteen half-hour public affairs programs to be produced on tape by each station, thus giving each market an hour and a half of additional diversified public affairs programming. All of these features go into creating a personality for a station. The image developed by the viewers affects the advertisers. A highly thought-of station is viewed in an aura of authority, prestige and confidence. A commercial on such a station assures maximum attention and respect.

The future will find the CBS Owned television stations undertaking individual and group efforts aimed at increasing and strengthening their image.

For SERVICE in TV

Service continues to be one of the basic theme songs at BMI. Not only are its facilities offered to its TV licensees, but to producers, advertising agencies and their clients, TV film distributors, music conductors, directors, and everyone in TV concerned with music and programming. This service is apparent in the day to day activities of BMI and is provided in many forms, such as:

- Assistance in the selection or creation of music for theme, background, bridge, cue or incidental mood music.
- Help in protecting music ownership rights.
- Aid in music clearance.
- Answers to questions concerning copyrights, music right for future residual usage and help in solving all other problems concerning the use of music in TV.

TELEVISION Sketch BOOK

A regular monthly service of pre-tested musical sketches for the producer, director and artist.

... practical working scripts for the presentation of songs in dramatic, comic and pictorial fashion. The very latest popular song hits as well as the standard favorites are developed into photogenic sketches which can be used effectively as complete musical shows, as production numbers in variety shows, or for scene-setting segments. Look for the BMI TV Sketchbook when it reaches your station each month.

LEGISLATE CREATIVITY?

... People Determine Their Needs

By OLIVER TREYZ

President, ABC Television

IT IS impossible to legislate excellence in legislative activity. In the recent flood of discussion about television, I have yet to see anyone explain why the American people—who have always been trusted with political and religious democracy—must somehow be regarded as children when it comes to cultural democracy and told what is “good” or “bad” for them.

In a dictatorship, the dictator believes that he can choose for the people better than they can for themselves. But who in America honestly believes he can set himself up as the sole judge of the people?

The basic question, I believe, is, what is a good television program—and how do we know we have it? In a dictatorship, a program is good which serves the interest of the state. The entire cultural product is imposed on the tastes of the people, not determined by them. By direct contrast this helps us define what we mean by a good program in America.

A good program is one which directly serves the interest and interests of the viewer rather than the government or an elite power group. And in a free society, these interests must be determined by the people, not for the people.

It is, I believe, impossible to legislate excellence in creative activity. Therefore we must be aware of and avoid any controls—whether in the form of legislation or regulation, or even in the form of pressure too heavily applied—which might cripple or retard television’s growth and its ability to experiment.

Can we believe that television should diminish its basic freedoms of thought and speech while our newspapers and schools do not, simply because of a purely technological difference which calls for the federal licensing of television and not of the press or our schools? If we are to actively believe and live the concepts of democratic freedom in America, I think not. Television is already regulated by the most demanding judge of all—the audience.

In television, if you do not please, the people do not watch. The viewer turns the dial off and television ceases to exist. Yet in some circles, an effort to please television’s audience is the equivalent of a crime.

The ABC-TV attitude here has been and always will be that we are convinced the people set the standards for programming. The people determine their needs.

The validity of this is amply demonstrated by the growth of ABC Television, youngest of the three networks; in seven years, ABC-TV has passed one network and is crowding on the heels of the other in the national ratings.

This was not accomplished by jamming preconceived programming concepts down the throats of the public. On the contrary, the public has gone to its voting booths, elected what it wants, and ABC-TV has made it available.

To keep the votes which the viewing audience has been giving to ABC Television in growing numbers, we have a fine slate of “candidates” for the 1960-61 season.

THOMAS W. MOORE

Vice President in Charge of Programming and Talent

Thomas W. Moore, ABC-TV vice president in charge of programming and talent since March, 1958, was formerly vice president in charge of sales, having resigned his post as general sales manager for CBS-TV Film Sales in 1957. He had been with the CBS film organization for five years, as an account executive on the West Coast since 1952 and as general sales manager in New York since 1956. Moore was born in Meridian, Miss. and was educated at Mississippi State College and the University of Missouri. His communications career started with his post as classified advertising manager with the Meridian Star. After serving as a naval aviator from 1941 to 1945, Moore became vice president in charge of advertising and public relations for the Forest Lawn Memorial Park in Los Angeles. He lives in Darien, Conn. with his wife and two children.

JAMES G. RIDDELL

Vice President in Charge of Western Division

James G. Riddell was elected vice president in charge of the Western Division in February, 1959. He is a native of Glasgow, Scotland, and came to the United States at an early age. He entered the broadcasting industry in 1931 at Detroit with Station WXYZ. After successive promotions he was named general manager of the station when it was purchased by ABC in 1946. In 1950 he became president and general manager of WXYZ, Inc. Riddell was instrumental in launching WXYZ-TV, which pioneered in daytime operations. He is married and the father of two daughters.

WILLIAM P. MULLEN

Vice President in Charge of Sales

William P. Mullen was appointed vice president in charge of television sales in late March, 1958. Formerly head of ABC-TV's Detroit Sales Division, he joined the network's Sales Department in May, 1955. Before joining ABC-TV, Mullen was eastern sales manager for John W. Loveton Productions; account executive with Trans-Film, Inc. and Cappel MacDonald & Co.; and was associated with the William Morris Agency and the CBS Television Network. He served in the U. S. Army during World War II with the rank of lieutenant colonel and was executive officer for the Armed Forces Radio Service. Mullen lives in Port Washington, Long Island with his wife and son.

Dial Turning: a popular American sport

(OR HOW THE PUBLIC EXPRESSED ITS VIEWING PREFERENCES IN THE '50S)

SOURCE: *SUNDAY-SATURDAY 8:10-30 P.M. NIELSEN MULTI-NETWORK MARKETS, DEC. 1953-1958. *NIELSEN 24 MARKETS, DEC. 1 1959.

In the '50s television came of age. Its growing pains were necessarily marked by occasional dislocations and disenchantments as well as by many brilliant cultural achievements.

And in the '50s, as television emerged as the world's largest mass medium, it became clear that the television audience is actually many audiences, with widely diverse tastes.

The programming obligations of the broadcasters must therefore be based on a democratic concept of cultural freedom—that is, the rights of the people to want what they want when they want it.

Obviously no one is told what to watch in this country. Instead of arm-twisting, we go in for dial-twisting. It is this broad freedom of choice, as it naturally evolved in the '50s, which makes the graph on the left worth noting. This graph shows at a glance how consistent has been ABC's gain in average share of audience† over the peak viewing periods of seven Decembers.

Today, in a medium where cultural democracy supplies the most definitive of measurements, ABC has now gained the largest share of audience.* This is an expression of popularity achieved, it would seem, by giving more people what they want when they want it. This will continue to be our goal for the sixties.

FUTURE IN NETWORK TV

... Will Advance In Days Ahead

By JAMES T. AUBREY, JR.
President, CBS Television Network

WE live in a period of some of the most electrifying advances that mankind has ever known. We have seen the audience for entertainment, the desire for information and the interest in the cultured arts grow to unprecedented proportions.

The future of network television lies in its unique ability to meet and, indeed, to reflect the programming desires and interests of the ever-growing audience. The future of television derives, for example from efforts such as the CBS Reports series of prime time informational programs, which will be appearing twice as often next season on the CBS Television Network. It derives from the talents of entertainers like Harry Belafonte, producers like Leland Hayward, from recognition that true comedy, like true drama, is one of the great entertainment arts.

In 1960, we are seeing, too, that television can owe much to the intelligent advertiser. The fact that "Eyewitness to History" in its coverage of the journeys of President Eisenhower has enjoyed full commercial sponsorship, or that the CBS News reporting of the political conventions and presidential election is also under commercial sponsorship, is an indication of the exercise of exemplary responsibility by major American business concerns. By the same token, advertisers who use the CBS Television Network to bring the works of Hemingway and Cervantes and Beethoven and Mozart to the television audience of the nation are also providing examples of corporate good citizenship and television in the public interest.

We are delighted also to be able to have regularly sponsored presentations of the only weekly historical documentary program and the outstanding science program in network television.

More and more advertisers are discovering the truly amazing impact of the television medium. In the next year, I anticipate that the roster of sponsors will include a number of companies not previously active in television. The variety of advertisers seems to bring with it a matching increase in the variety of program subjects.

One thing which the CBS Television Network intends to continue emphasizing is elasticity and adaptability in scheduling.

No attempt to outline what lies in the future for network television would be realistic if we did not also consider the past and present of the medium. It is interesting to note that even in a period which made newspaper headlines not too long ago there was sustained and continuous growth in the viewing audience. This, it seems to me, is strong proof of Dr. Frank Stanton's recent statement that "There is not a single problem we face, however complex and disturbing, that does not give broadcasters a heaven-sent opportunity for improving television and thus giving it another mighty shove forward toward its inherent—and as yet only partially realized — greatness as a medium of mass communication in a free society."

To the CBS Owned television stations, dollar measure is but small measure of the value of their local community service activities.

The fact that in 1959 these five stations devoted better than eleven million dollars in time and production costs to non-network public affairs programs and messages is a small gauge of accomplishment. Much more important was the limitless amount of care, imagination and skill expended to insure that these information programs met the same high standards as any of the top-rated programs that comprise the most varied and most widely-viewed broadcast schedules in television today.

It is this consistent devotion to excellence which last year won for the CBS Owned stations more than 45 awards and citations for public affairs programming. And which provides an indication of the immeasurable contribution to the communities they serve made by CBS Owned WCBS-TV New York, WCAU-TV Philadelphia, WBBM-TV Chicago, KMOX-TV St. Louis and KNXT Los Angeles.

JAMES T. AUBREY, JR.

President, CBS Television Network

James T. Aubrey, Jr. was named President of the CBS Television Network on December 8, 1959. He had been Executive Vice President of the CBS Television Network since June 1, 1959. Mr. Aubrey, 41 years old, rejoined CBS as Vice President—Creative Services, Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc., on April 28, 1958. He had been with the ABC Television Network as Vice President in Charge of Programming and Talent since December, 1956. Previously, he had been with the CBS Television Network as Manager of Network Programs, Hollywood, since June, 1956. Mr. Aubrey was General Manager of KNXT, CBS-owned television station in Los Angeles, and the Columbia Pacific Network from October, 1952, until June, 1956. Prior to that he was Sales Manager of KNXT and account executive for KNXT and KNXT-Radio. He was also associated with Street & Smith Publications and Conde Nast Publications following World War II. During the war he served with the U. S. Air Force, being separated with the rank of Major. A graduate of Princeton University, cum laude, Mr. Aubrey is married to motion picture and television actress Phyllis Thaxler. They have two children, Susan 13 and James 6. Their home is in Bronxville, New York.

OSCAR KATZ

Vice President, Network Programs, CBS Television Network

Oscar Katz was named Vice President, Network Programs, for the CBS Television Network on August 10, 1959. Mr. Katz had been Vice President in Charge of Daytime Programs for the CBS Television Network since August 31, 1956. Mr. Katz joined CBS in the Research Department in 1938. In November 1942, he was named Assistant Director of the department. Subsequently, he became Associate Director, and in 1948 was named head of the department. In July, 1951, Mr. Katz was named Director of Research for the CBS Television Network, the post he held until his appointment in 1956 as Vice President in Charge of Daytime Programs. Over the last three years, Mr. Katz has been responsible for many important program developments and for program experimentation. He is concerned with plans for the whole program spectrum, daytime as well as nighttime, since 1951. He is a member of the Market Research Council and the Friars and The Players clubs. During World War II, Mr. Katz was on loan from CBS on a special assignment for the Office of War Information. Mr. Katz was born in New York City, and received his B.S. degree from the College of the City of New York.

WILLIAM H. HYLAN

CBS Television Network Vice President of Sales Administration

William H. Hylan has been CBS Television Network Vice President of Sales Administration since February, 1957. In this capacity, he directs all phases of network sales and services. Mr. Hylan previously had been Vice President in Charge of Network Sales since December, 1952. He joined CBS in 1937 and served as account executive for CBS Radio Sales until 1941. In July of that year he enlisted in the U.S. Army, remaining in the service until November, 1945, when he returned to CBS as Assistant to the Director of Station Administration. Three years later he joined CBS Television Network Sales. From 1948 to 1951, Mr. Hylan served as account executive in CBS Television Network Sales. In July, 1951, he was named Assistant Sales Manager and, in January, 1952, he was appointed Eastern Sales Manager. He was elevated to a Vice Presidency in December, 1952. Mr. Hylan was born in New York City in 1915, and is a graduate of Yale University. He saw service with the Counter-Intelligence Corps OSS. He is married and has three children, a boy and two girls. His home is in Green Farms, Connecticut.

SERIOUS PROGRAMMING

...Now Attracting Selling Message

By WALTER D. SCOTT

Executive Vice President, NBC-TV Network

ON A recent Sunday, Vice Admiral Hyman G. Rickover appeared on "Meet the Press" and delivered himself of a sharp and cogent criticism of American education. He declared that education is the most important problem facing this country in its competition with the Soviet Union, and he then called for some fundamental changes in the American public school system. Within the next few days, "Meet the Press" received more than 10,000 requests for copies of the interview—the largest viewer response in the 14-year history of the program.

When more than 10,000 viewers write in, not for a giveaway, but for the text of a program like "Meet the Press," it is time for a closer look at the program and its audience. It is time, I suggest, to reappraise the ability of television's cultural, public affairs and news program to excite real viewer interest and to serve as effective advertising vehicles. It may be that Admiral Rickover has unwittingly called our attention to some program values that are too often overlooked.

There is, for instance, the value of what I would call an active, rather than a passive audience. The viewers of these programs are not idle dial-twirlers who take what comes along. They are active participants in serious programming who study the schedule, select carefully and sit down to view their choice from the edge of their chair. I submit that when this audience tunes in it is in a receptive mood, not just for the program, but for the advertiser's message as well.

Secondly, this hard core of viewers who watch public affairs and cultural programs are an audience worth aiming at. They are a minority, but a minority that numbers in the millions. They include the educated, high-income groups who are this country's opinion-formers and taste-makers, who set the patterns of public opinion and set the pace for consumption. They constitute the first and most important market for any advertiser with a new product or a new idea.

Finally, the influence of this kind of programming extends far beyond the actual telecast. These are not shows that fade from memory as quickly as they fade from the picture tube. They are discussed long afterward, are quoted in the newspapers, win awards and are often repeated by popular request. The cultural and public affairs programs give the advertiser a lot of mileage for his money.

These programs, in short, are a good buy, and they are being recognized as such by a growing list of advertisers.

It is evident that the product-selling message, as well as the institutional ad, is finding its place on serious programming.

I think that there is a deep popular concern for information and education in a world where these are becoming conditions of survival. I suggest that broadcasters and advertisers should make this concern their own.

96% of all television homes today fall within the color coverage area. More than 300 stations in the United States have the facilities to carry network color.

At NBC alone, total hours of color programming have increased more than tenfold in the past six years; over 450 hours scheduled in the first six months of 1960.

Owners of color sets tend to be higher in income, better educated, more influential.

The proof is all around us. Proof that color — an integral part of living — is an integral part of living television. Proof that your advertising future is in color.

WALTER D. SCOTT

Executive Vice President, Television Network

Walter D. Scott was appointed executive vice president, television network, in February, 1959. Before his election as head of the television network, Mr. Scott had been vice president, television network sales. An executive with more than 20 years service in NBC, Mr. Scott joined the network's sales department in 1938. He was named eastern sales manager in 1949, and in February, 1951, was promoted to New York radio network sales manager. In November, 1952, he was appointed to the new post of administrative sales manager. He held this position until he was elected vice president and national sales manager, television network, in December, 1955. He was named vice president, television network sales, in January, 1958. Before joining NBC, Mr. Scott served in the sales department of Hearst Radio, Inc., and before that on the advertising staff of the Daily Oklahoman and Times. He is a graduate of the University of Missouri School of Journalism.

DON DURGIN

Vice President, Network Sales

Don Durgin, who was appointed vice president, television network sales, in February, 1959, first joined NBC in 1949 as assistant to the manager of advertising and promotion for NBC Spot Sales. In 1951, he joined the ABC Television Network as a sales presentation writer, subsequently holding several positions there until he was elected vice president in charge of the ABC Radio Network in November, 1955. Returning to NBC in March, 1957, he became vice president in charge of sales planning for the television network. He was appointed vice president, national sales manager, television network sales, in January, 1958, holding that position until he was named to his present post. He is a summa cum laude graduate of Princeton University and a graduate of New York University Law School.

DAVID LEVY

Vice President, Programs and Talent

David Levy, vice president, programs and talent, television network, was vice president and associate director of the radio and television department of Young & Rubicam, Inc., before he joined NBC in April, 1959. With more than 20 years of experience in creative programming, Mr. Levy is spearheading the network's expansion in the areas of talent and creativity. At Young & Rubicam, he wrote, directed and supervised many of the agency's radio shows, and in 1947 entered television, becoming the agency's first television supervisor. He became vice president in charge of talent and new programs in August, 1950, and in April, 1958, was named associate director of the radio and television department. He also served on the agency's plans board for several years. Mr. Levy is also a successful author of television plays and short stories. He was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Finance and Commerce.

STAR COOPERATION

... A Plus Value For Sponsors

By FREDERICK W. ZIV

Chairman of the Board, ZIV-United Artists, Inc.

"HAVE starring role in TV series . . . will travel."

In casting a series, Ziv looks for two separate—yet related—sets of qualifications in a star: (1) a perfect match between the role and an actor (or actress) capable of delivering a winning performance every time out . . . a man who is photogenic, able to "project" to the viewers and adept in all the acting skills . . . (2) proper "presence" to meet, attract and sell to people: executives, plant workers, the Press and to "the public." In order to meet the sponsor's expectations, he must be equal to the strain of whirlwind campaigns through large market areas and still be in top form every minute.

"Shop talk" for the series star is no longer confined to "the Method," characterization, script interpretation and so forth. When today's star "talks shop," he's talking someone "else's shop"—beer sales, milksheds, tobacco leaf, bakery routes, gasoline taxes . . . and he talks it with the men who know best: his sponsor and his sponsor's executive associates, plant managers and work force. Most important, he's talking to the sponsor's customers. He faces thousands of them at a time.

Sponsors reveal a lot of excitement about these tours, using them as the focal point of other big promotions.

The series producer, today, literally says, "be our guest." We, through our stars, are seeing to it that the sponsor gets many additional thousands of TV homes not reckoned in his film buy, which, presumably, he made on a cost-per-thousand basis. Reason: we make it possible for his star frequently to appear in network dramas, make "guest shots" on variety shows and emcee special events.

It's money in the bank for the sponsor who has a star who gets these calls. This all enhances the prestige of his star and series.

Another plus—the star can pinpoint identification of series and sponsor's product by appearing in filmed commercials . . . another service of the major TV studios.

Our new industry has created a new brand of star performer and turned him into a unique and valuable natural resource for our customer.

Obviously, TV film stardom requires talents beyond the purely thespian. Primarily he's an actor before cameras but he's also a business representative, a hail-fellow-well-met, minister-without-portfolio, a salesman devoted to his sponsor's commercial success which, in the final analysis, determines his own success, ours and that of the whole TV industry.

In promotional activities, every sponsor of a series is the star's boss. The more successful the series, the more bosses he's likely to have—particularly in syndication. This calls for a high degree of adaptability, at least a reasonable amount of business sense and absolute "zero" of old-time "artistic temperament" (modern translation: bad manners). There's no place in our shop for a "prima donna." Our customers can't afford it.

THE HEART OF WSB-LAND

Atlanta population now ONE MILLION

There now are one million men, women and children in Metropolitan Atlanta. Or by the time you read this, perhaps more. Newcomers are arriving by plane, train, car and stork at the rate of 516 per week.

Atlanta is the dynamic, hard-working, good living heart of that vast region served and sold by WSB Radio and WSB Television. We invite you to share the rewards of this great and growing market's present and future.

WSB RADIO / WSB-TV

Affiliated with The Atlanta Journal and Constitution. NBC affiliate. Represented by Petry.

Associated with WSOC/WSOC-TV, Charlotte; WHIO/WHIO-TV, Dayton.

See How WFBM-TV Dominates Mid-Indiana!

First by a good margin, WFBM-TV dominates all other stations in Mid-Indiana both in total coverage and market penetration, because it is the only basic NBC outlet. (N.C.S. #3).

—will you find satellite markets that are 15% richer and 30% bigger than the metropolitan trading zone itself!

—can so many satellite markets that are recognized retail trading centers in their own right be covered from one central point . . . and only one principal station with no overlapping network affiliates to reach them effectively!

only here—where WFBM-TV is first in Mid-Indiana—can you buy more honest market penetration, more consumer influence, for fewer dollars expended than anywhere else. Let us show you how to test regional marketing ideas here with amazing results.

The Nation's 13th Television Market

... with the only basic NBC coverage of 760,000 TV set-owning families

● Indianapolis itself—Major retail area for 18 richer-than-average counties. 1,000,000 population—350,600 families with 90% television ownership!

○ 11 Satellites—Each a recognized marketing area—and well within WFBM-TV's basic area of influence. An audited audience of 412,800 more television homes.

WWL-TV ... new New Orleans Favorite And here's why:

TOP-RATED PROGRAMS — You'll find any list of New Orleans' favorite shows liberally studded with CBS and syndicated shows aired by WWL-TV. Take a look at the lineup of 10:00 p.m. strips as an example and judge for yourself why the viewing trend is toward WWL-TV. These syndicated shows earn preferred ratings from the New Orleans audience.

LIVE PROGRAMMING — Ranging in interest from Romper Room and Popeye to The Morgus Board (featured nationally in TV Guide) and authentic jungle adventure on Wild Cargo. WWL-TV's schedule of 49 live shows per week provides the perfect vehicle for commercials that require a personal touch.

ALERT PROMOTION — Day in and day out WWL-TV saturates the local market with heavy newspaper advertising, spot radio, direct mail—uses the latest animated station breaks, countless on-air promos, contests and every form of market exploitation to build audience and sales for advertisers.

FACILITIES AND PERSONNEL — WWL-TV's studios are the product of 5 years of research extending to 64 TV stations; facilities are among the nation's finest. Two complete video tape units are now in operation. And WWL-TV personnel have the experience that counts — competitive experience gained in markets coast-to-coast.

WDSU-TV Wins National Award for Editorials

(WDSU-TV News Director Bill Monroe receiving RTNDA award)

Editorials cited for integrity, good taste, courage

NEW ORLEANS—Among all television stations in the United States, WDSU-TV was awarded First Prize by the Radio and Television News Directors Association for editorializing by a TV station. The opinion of the judges was stated as follows: "Our first choice in the TV competition is WDSU-TV, New Orleans.

We were all enormously pleased by the editorials submitted. They were professional, they were important, they were concrete, they were done with good taste and integrity, and they indicated a basic courage on the part of station management."

WDSU-TV, according to station management, will continue to maintain an editorial policy dedicated to the progress and betterment of the area served.

“Wonder who’s second
this month?”

In Delaware Valley WFIL-TV makes a habit of being FIRST. For example, 20 of top 25 shows in latest survey.<sup>2</sup> Now in its third year as the area’s number ONE station, WFIL-TV is far and away your BEST buy. Check all ARBs for 1957-1960 before you buy.

INTERPRETATION

Accurate interpretation is nowhere more important than in printing. For the printer must combine the soul of the artist, the keen perception of the writer, with a true grasp of fundamentals, and superlative technical skill.

At Barnes, we have not perhaps, reached the ultimate in perfection, but we are proud to feel that our services are sought by many.

PUBLIC SERVICE IN TV

... Truth Objectively Presented

By RODNEY C. CHALK
Director, Radio-TV Division of BIS

LAST year, after what was probably the biggest and most publicized soul-searching experience in the history of radio-television, the words "public service" were rediscovered, dusted off and even put on a pedestal for solemn worship.

But what the headlines didn't spell out was that public service programming has been going on, especially on the local radio and television level, for a long time. And it is the local TV station's public affairs and news director who has needed program material more than anyone else.

It's been the function of the BIS Radio-TV Division to fill these needs with a variety of free program material—all of which can be credited to and accepted as public service programming.

Probably the most useful single service the BIS provides is the TV newsbriefs. These are free film clips sent to local TV news directors and newscasters at the rate of 2-3 per week for inclusion in newscasts or news-in-depth shows. They are features rather than hot news. This is a supplementary service that in no way intends to compete with the news services of TV reels or networks. As a matter of fact, we at BIS bend over backwards arranging for commercial news services to do their own coverage of British stories whenever they want to—and offer them any of the stories we release.

If you don't know who we are or what we do, seeing the phrase "an agency of the British Government" after our name might make you feel inclined to raise a sceptical eyebrow and ask "what are they trying to sell me?"

The simple answer is facts based on truth, objectively presented — about some of the vital problems of our complex world. And for those of us who are privileged to live in democracies, it's a demanding world from which none of us can afford to retire to the rumpus room.

To illustrate how we try to do it; during the tense moments of the controversial Cyprus emergency we released a 15 minute TV documentary.

The film was called "Cyprus—Three Points of View;" it was independently produced by an American and then offered to us for distribution. Naturally, it presented the official British arguments, but for one-third of the film only. Equal time was given to Archbishop Makarios, whose speech was as free and unhampered as ever, and to Dr. Kutchuk, who spoke on behalf of the Turkish minority in Cyprus.

Other TV series are available, together with more than 100 individual documentary TV films covering just about everything from Wimbledon to Whitehall.

Besides programs distributed from New York, there are twelve Information Officers at British Consulates throughout the country who are ready and willing to help the broadcaster get the coverage, information or guest he wants for his show.

As always all your questions are welcome and so are your criticisms.

INDIE DOCUMENTARIES

... Appeal To Local Advertisers

By FRED M. THROWER

General Manager, WPIX, New York

SINCE the recent Congressional hearings on the state of this industry, there has been a marked emphasis on programming classified as "Public Affairs" programming . . . i.e., a program which performs a service to the viewer, which educates and informs, as well as entertains. In the past, this field has been left almost exclusively to the networks.

Two years ago, New York's independent WPIX-11 embarked on an experiment . . . the production and syndication of an hour-long documentary, "The Russian Revolution." This special "telementary" brought viewers the actual eye-witness films of the events leading up to and including the Bolshevik Revolution. It laid bare the deceptions of Communism and gave historical evidence as to how a handful of zealots used the distressed plight of the Russian people to erect an anarchy more tyrannical than that which was overthrown. "The Russian Revolution" was premiered in prime evening time (9:00 PM on a Tuesday night in New York) and well out-rated each of the three network flagship stations. Such success went far beyond our expectations . . . and proved that a vast commercial market existed for such productions. We became and remain . . . the only independent television station producing "documentary spectaculars" for independent station consumption.

"The Russian Revolution," has been sold to 68 TV stations in the United States and Canada. "Cold War-Berlin Crisis"—our second documentary—has been sold in over 70 markets (12 major markets bought the production sight unseen within 24 hours after the initial announcement of its availability). "The Secret Life of Adolf Hitler," the third in the series of station documentaries, is currently in syndication to 20 stations.

These WPIX-produced documentaries are unique. They are the only real "spectaculars" available to local advertisers. As "spectaculars," they offer the same values on a local level to local advertisers, as spectaculars on a network offer to network advertisers.

Sponsors of these documentaries across the country are among the finest local advertisers . . . banks, newspapers, utility companies, real estate companies, automotive companies, etc. Many are "repeaters," sponsoring each WPIX special as it becomes available. Certainly this is proof that the documentaries produced and syndicated by WPIX-11 appeal strongly to important local advertisers who are looking for a TV "spectacular" of their own in their market. Co-incidentally, local stations use the WPIX programs for the same purpose . . . that is, to bring added prestige to the station telecasting these presentations.

One of the basic purposes of these documentaries is to recreate for the audience a most influential period in history.

Our staff is now hard at work on documentary number four . . . "Woman Behind a Dictator," the story of Evita Peron.

NEW IN PROGRAMMING

...The Shows Make The Trends

By JOHN L. SINN

President of ZIV-United Artists, Inc.

IN ANSWER to the topic question: "What are the new directions in programming at Ziv?" I may say at the outset that our programming will always move in the direction of the best programs.

In that respect, I have recently said elsewhere, in effect, that each of our shows is the personal creation of an individual producer cleaving only to a standard of excellence based on an analysis of current public taste.

I have since had no occasion to amend that view. No two shows for example could be less alike than "Sea Hunt" and "Tombstone Territory." Yet both are typical programs enjoying a common success in syndication and sharing only our original faith in their common power to entertain with taste, and profit.

Two among our network programs are "Space" starring William Lundigan, and "Bat Masterson" with Gene Barry as the principal. Both of them excellent shows but in widely separated ways.

In short, our programming will always vary with the trade winds of creativity and public interest. And what I am about to set down here is simply a brief description of the way those winds are blowing at this point in the season.

There is a definite movement toward situation comedy, scientific drama and adventure series based on factual incidents in their actual settings.

There will be fewer western and detective programs, but that is not to say they are on their way to being ruled out of our programming. There will always be a place on any balanced program list for shows in those categories—if they are good shows. If they are not, they don't deserve a place on any list.

"Westerns" are a special consideration which merit a few words of extra comment here. Actually they have never represented more than a fraction of our production at Ziv, but they have impressed us as differing more from each other than they vary as a group from other types of programs.

Curiously, "scientific drama," to which we referred to earlier as part of the new drift in our programming, gives promise of becoming another national frontier, in entertainment as well as in fact. In these middle decades of the Twentieth Century, the new "west" is wherever there is a horizon to push against and new space to explore and subdue.

In any inspired programming operation, shows make trends, and not vice versa. A program that tries consciously to ride a trend has, in our view, already missed it; for nothing is so discernible as a self-conscious imitation.

But that is not to say that a certain time is not more propitious for turning out a certain program than another; it is merely to imply that the poorest reason to do so is that someone else has done it.

So this year, as always, the only design we look for after we release our individual productions is a pattern of excellence.

Hoby Gilman aims to please.

Just ask Brown & Williamson, Anheuser-Busch or Schlitz Brewing...only three of the sharpshooting TRACKDOWN sponsors currently hitting the sales mark with a series based on the true adventures of the Texas Rangers.

Or ask audiences in more than fifty U.S. markets who have made TRACKDOWN, with Robert Culp as Hoby, one of first-run syndication's most popular Westerns... duplicating its two-season success on the CBS Television Network, where it averaged a 23.0 total Nielsen rating (October 1957-April 1959).

Better yet, round up all the facts on TRACKDOWN—71 half-hours produced by crack Four Star Films—from the nearest office of CBS Films.

SYNDICATE NAME STARS

... Assure Bigger Audiences

By DAVID V. SUTTON

Vice Pres. in Charge, MCA TV Film Syndication

I HAVE often been asked, "Just how important is a name star to a syndicated series?" This is a question which has echoed up and down many a sound stage and TV planning office when a new program emerges from the blueprint stage. Is a star really that important to a successful series, or is a good script and generous production sufficient to meet the needs of the regional and local advertiser?

The proper answer, of course, is that all these elements are essential for a good show, but there is room for speculation on the relative importance of star names to syndicated programming. I think every successful producer and distributor of films for local programming has found that the first question asked by a prospective advertiser is: "Who's in it?" Mention a relatively unknown actor, and you've lost half the battle toward the contract signing. This is not to find fault with the logic of the film buyer. He knows that the viewers in his market are open to an invitation to share a television experience with someone they know, or have seen before, and generally speaking, the bigger the star, the bigger the potential audience for a new program.

We have long appreciated this principle in our end of the business. In four of our newest series, for example, we are fortunate to have names which definitely add a big plus to the sales appeal and consequently to audience appeal. For "SA 7," for example, I have Lloyd Nolan, certainly a name as big as any in the entertainment business. For "Johnny Midnight" the star is no less than an Academy Award winner—Edmond O'Brien. For "Coronado 9" we have a TV veteran, Rod Cameron. And for "Shotgun Slade" Scott Brady, who has a long list of motion picture credits and who was at that moment starring in the successful Broadway musical, "Destry Rides Again."

How, you may well ask, are the new personalities, the upcoming stars, to achieve stardom if we are all to rely upon the better known actors to headline our television productions? The answer must be the same as in the related arts of the theater, the screen and the cafes—using fresh but little known performers as supporting players. Repeated exposure—and experience—in many television programs will develop these younger artists to the point where they will some day earn the right to star in a series of their own.

As everyone recognizes, the use of a name star per se, without thorough regard for his suitability for the film characterization, is a waste of his talents and creatively unwise. We can reasonably expect, however, that professional film makers will select the right star for the right role, and that any star can be relied upon to turn in a truly professional performance.

WORLDWIDE TV LOCALE

...Viewers Want Authentic Look

By WALTER KINGSLEY

President, Independent Television Corp.

VIEWERS no longer will accept cardboard backdrops in their filmed dramas. They want to see the real thing. Former production methods are outmoded and Hollywood and New York are no longer the only production locales in the world. The grandeur of Rome, the beauty of Paris, the breathless vista of the Alps . . . all are available for today's production crews and that's what viewers demand to see — and in the flesh, so to speak. And there's a great pool of creative talent in all these countries. You might find another Ingrid Bergman in Sweden or a Jack Hawkins and Patrick McGeehan in England or a DeSica in Italy. The richness of talent often comes with the richness of settings.

Today, in television, the viewing public, spurred on by the authentic world-wide look of the movies, is now becoming more educated to and sophisticated about the finer qualities of location shooting, strong scripts and interesting entertainments whose backgrounds are real.

ITC, as part of Associated Television Limited (ATV), has been set up with just this realistic idea in mind: To face today's production facts-of-life. ATV is the leading network contractor for the United Kingdom. Seizing the initiative in world-wide production, ATV has held up the beacon and even our 3 major networks have begun to follow it full steam into world-wide production. For example, CBS, right now, is using our facilities to film a show on the Vienna State Opera. This same American network, with ATV, will tape a ninety minute drama, "24 Hours In A Woman's Life," by Stephan Zweig, starring Ingrid Bergman and produced by her husband, Lars Schmidt. And Person To Person makes extensive use of ATV's taping facilities whenever international celebrities are interviewed in their homes. ATV's production facilities are also being used by NBC who is doing a week of Jack Paar shows in England and for ABC we are filming a half hour series abroad, the first such series commitment of its kind.

Being part of such a company certainly places ITC in an enviable position. ITC can budget its syndicated shows, whether produced in Hollywood, New York, or elsewhere throughout the world, with a world-wide payoff which allows enough money to produce top quality shows.

This search for real quality can only be achieved when you have the confidence of your convictions and the showmanship "know-how" that is an integral part of an organization. We have both. When we believe in a project—are convinced the quality is there—we go ahead so that quality is in the entire series, not just a pilot.

It seems to us that this is the kind of approach that the industry as a whole and syndication, in particular, must take. Only quality production can survive. In addition to Hollywood and New York, such quality production can be found in all areas of the world. To think otherwise is to look back over your shoulders — with blinders on. But they're off now and the view is wide. In fact, it takes in the whole world.

ARE PILOTS PASSE?

... Many Try To Cover Too Much

By GEORGE T. SHUPERT

Vice President of TV for MGM

WE HAVE long been on record as maintaining that pilot films are one of the big bugaboos of our industry. The financial resources and creative energy that have gone into making pilots, which have never seen the light of a TV tube, is tremendous. A few distributors have tried to develop anthology programs built around pilots which are gathering dust in film vaults.

Pilots have been under attack by many people from many angles. Three principle points of concern are: (1) a pilot is no real indication of continuity of quality for any given series; (2) many producers overextend themselves in the production of pilots by budgeting the pilots far beyond what they can carry on a week-to-week basis; for example, spending eighty thousand dollars to produce a pilot for a program that must be brought in at forty-thousand; (3) a pilot too often tries to tell the whole story of the series rather than being a typical episode, and misses in both instances.

Nevertheless as long as agencies represent advertisers and must present a specific treatment of any proposed program to their clients, we'll probably always have pilots with us. The problem, therefore, is how we can cut down pilot fatality!

Considerable thinking along these lines went into the planning of MGM-TV's programming for the 1960-1961 season. From this came a basic philosophy which has guided us during our current sales effort. Being specific, at the outset of the season we had twelve properties, each of top calibre and in the aggregate presenting a well rounded overall program to present to agencies, networks, and advertisers. Should we make pilots of all twelve? Or make pilots of the three or four we considered most marketable?

We decided to make no pilots at all! Rather we presented our ideas for each of our twelve programs on one forty-three minute color film which, in fact, cost us considerably less than half the cost of a pilot for any one of the programs. Included in this film presentation were detailed scenarios of each of the programs, casting plans, proposals for directors and writers, and in particular the names of topflight TV film producers with whom we had agreements to handle the creative development of the programs, once they were sold. It was this presentation—"master pilot" if you will—that we showed to networks, agencies and advertisers, and it was on the basis of their concrete interest in certain of our properties that we agreed to accept assignments to produce pilots, four of them on a co-financing basis. Where we found slight interest, we produced no pilot.

Though we have not circumvented the practice of making pilots, we feel we have given our pilots a greater chance of acceptance and ultimately of finding a time period, by consulting with the networks and agencies involved prior to, and during production.

TV FILM SYNDICATION

... A Decade Makes A Difference

By EARL RETTIG

President, California National Productions

TELEVISION film syndication is firmly established as an essential source of programming. Each advance to its present position has been marked by major problems. Clues to problems of this new '60's decade may be gleaned by looking back at the pioneering days of the '50's. Making comparisons often is odious but, in this instance, understanding the differences in syndication yesterday and today makes for a better syndication tomorrow.

Currently, 15 per cent of total scheduled programming by local stations consists of syndicated films (exclusive of old movie features), compared with an estimated three per cent ten years ago. Perhaps, the rapid growth of syndicated product use is measured better in terms of total broadcast hours by stations: a 65 per cent gain over the decade. These statistics are laden with meaning far beyond simple arithmetical ratio. Foremost, it means syndication has become an industry within an industry; its phenomenal growth has necessitated and received both planning and organized development.

When television was still an infant and syndication just an embryo, a syndicator was anyone with a can of film under his arm. Today, syndicators who survived the short-lived wildcat era have grown into responsible companies, organized in depth, with coordinated production, sales, distribution and promotion divisions.

The fast-buck boys have practically vanished but not without succeeding, temporarily, in giving syndication a black-eye. Ten years ago, syn-dication was a dirty word to top station management. The reverse is now apparent because programming, more than ever, is vital to station success. Even the salesman today is welcomed for his useful knowledge, based on broad field experience. Smooth talking hucksters once plunked down a 30-minute film and, if they scrounged enough orders, that film would become a pilot for a series—a series they might not be able to deliver at prices commensurate with quality standards and station budgets.

Salesmen and the firms they represented were inexperienced and so were the film buyers. In the early 50's, it was assumed quality programming could only be found in network and live-local originators. Syndicated film was often considered filler material to plug gaps in schedules. Furthermore, in those researchless days of assumption, belief prevailed that viewers didn't want to watch film fare, regardless of quality.

To complete the early bleakness of the syndication scene, the sponsor or station frequently was sold a series, on the basis of a pilot, the beginning and end of the syndicator's responsibility. Consideration of sales of future series was non-existent because one series might represent the seller's "inventory." There was little effort by the seller to provide services in the areas of marketing, advertising, promotion and research. Buyer's needs were not studied; his market, audience, sponsors, program-balance and budget assumed small importance.

Even if the intent was there, the staff and the know-how were not.

Thus, obstacles faced by syndicators were built partly by themselves, in part by the inexperience of the programmers and a universal lack of solid knowledge in a young, burgeoning industry.

Since then, these chaotic conditions have virtually disappeared from syndication. The change has been transitional, nonetheless complete. First-of-all, the quality of syndicated shows is high-level and abundant. Whether first run, rerun, or off-the-network, the film buyer has his choice of class-A entertainment in any category. Syndicated film series now include the complete range of TV fare: adventure, mystery, western, comedy, and drama.

Production in syndication now meets highest standards, with directors, writers, talent and technicians drawn from the very front ranks of television.

Viewer-acceptance of filmed TV programs is a fact of life, which networks recognize and exploit. The ratio of filmed shows to total telecasting by the webs has quadrupled in the last decade. Surveys, ratings and intensive studies have proved viewers don't think of a show as live or filmed, and don't care.

The word "rerun" has been transformed from an epithet to an accolade. Advertisers have found reruns out-rating network shows, live-locals and even first runs of the same series. In order to qualify as a rerun, a show has to prove its popularity in the previous time around; reruns in effect, become "first runs" by changes in time-slotting that deliver the programs to new audiences. Reruns benefit from the "built-in build-up" of audiences via promotions, publicity and advertising inherent in success-proven shows. Perhaps the outstanding groundbreaker in the field of rerun respectability is "Badge 714," the reruns of "Dragnet." This program, now available in its seventh year, continues to be a winner against the competition, in many different markets in many different time periods. The contemporary syndication company, in addition to product output, is full-staffed and geared for full-scale distribution, promotion, research and publicity campaigns. There's much more at stake than a mere sale.

While the old problems for syndicators have been solved, others have taken their place. Costs have risen more than 60 percent since 1950. The rise in prices has not been proportionate. Rerun and off-the-network series have not commanded as much revenue as they are worth in what has become a buyers' market. This is primarily due to the wealth of first-rate programming available.

Another poser: investing in precisely the right product at exactly the right time. In the face of mounting costs and keen competition, the go-ahead to film a new series becomes a crucial decision involving feel of the market and the program's acceptance.

With tightening of time clearances, bull's-eye placement is an absolute must. That go-ahead for cameras to roll depends not only on originality and talent but also on viewer tastes and the sponsor's product compatibility.

And still more problems which did not exist in 1950; the relationships of syndication affairs to tape, color, full-hour programming. Their solutions must await further exploration. The big questions are not whether they will be solved but how. The challenge will be met by all who wish to be on the 1970 syndication scene.

What is it? — the only way of doing matte work without traveling film mattes. Many producers use it to cut cost and time 30% to 50% on matte work — titles, animation and art inserts can be combined with live action — live action inserts with live action backgrounds — almost any matte combination can be made with lower cost and improved quality.

quality...

The trade papers tell us that good music is on the way back! Once more the public is to have the opportunity to hear melodies and lyrics that have meaning. ASCAP members have always provided top quality music in the popular field, Broadway productions, Hollywood motion pictures, and the prize-winning works in the symphonic and concert field, as well as religious music.

Among ASCAP members are the immortals of the world of music, today's musical greats and the young writers who will create the outstanding music of tomorrow. THE AMERICAN SOCIETY OF COMPOSERS

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF COMPOSERS, AUTHORS AND PUBLISHERS

By STANLEY ADAMS
President

THE American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers is a non-profit organization founded in 1914 as a clearing house for the performing rights of its members, the creators of music and their publishers.

ASCAP members create the popular music of the day, production music for Broadway shows and Hollywood films, church and sacred selections, contemporary classical music — symphonic, chamber and choral works, as well as country and folk music.

The Copyright Law of 1909 gives to the holder of a musical copyright the right to receive payment whenever the owner's music is publicly performed for profit. At the same time the Society affords commercial users of music a central clearing house where, under a simple licensing agreement, the user may obtain the right to perform the music of more than 5,000 authors and composers and over 1,300 publishers.

The Society's headquarters are located at 575 Madison Avenue, New York 22, New York. It maintains twenty-two branch offices in major cities throughout the country.

The Society's Board of Directors consists of twelve writer and twelve publisher members elected biennially by the writer and publisher membership respectively. Its officers are elected annually.

BROADCAST MUSIC, INC.

By CARL HAVERLIN
President

NINETEEN HUNDRED AND SIXTY marks the twentieth year of activity of Broadcast Music, Inc. These twenty years have seen a vast growth in American music. The number of symphony orchestras has increased more than tenfold — indeed, the United States today has more than half of the symphony orchestras of the world. Thirty million Americans play musical instruments — more than double the number even in the late 1930's. The dollar volume of the sale of musical instruments has quintupled. More than eight-and-one-half million children play musical instruments, over a threefold increase in the last decade alone.

But the story of music has not been one of growth alone. It has also been one of broadening of opportunity and of healthy democratization. The number of writers, publishers and recording companies who share in the rewards of music have multiplied manyfold. More than 7,500 writers and almost 4,000 publishers have an opportunity to share in revenues from the licensing of the right to perform publicly their compositions.

BMI has played no small part in the expansion and democratization of music. It has opened to writers and publishers all over our country the doors of opportunity which were previously closed to them. It has acted as a conduit through which the creators of all types of music find a way to present their works to the American people and to have them succeed or fail in accordance with the indefinable factors of public taste.

Basically, BMI operates in only one field — that of public performance. Under our copyright law, as, indeed under the laws of virtually all major countries, the proprietors of musical works are entitled to be compensated when their compositions are publicly performed for profit, whether by radio or television, in restaurants or night clubs, or by symphony orchestras.

Today, BMI licenses all broadcasting stations and most other enterprises that use music.

As it has for the first two decades of its existence, BMI will continue to dedicate itself to the maintenance of competition and to the encouragement both of authorship and publishing in the field of music. BMI believes that America has a musical future which will make even the extraordinary progress of the last twenty years seem insignificant. BMI pledges itself to keep the doors of musical opportunity open in the interests of the creators of music, of the users of music, and of the American people.

AS 1959 drew to a close, a spectacular note was sounded in the broadcasting industry — a note which will undoubtedly provide a theme motif for months to come. While the initial chord was loud enough to catch the ear of anyone within a 10,000 mile radius of anywhere in the world, it was the chain reaction that proved the prime attention-getter. It would seem that everyone and most organizations have had something to say — pro and con — and not particularly sotte voce.

Whatever is resolved, and I believe the solution will be fair and just, because I believe in the integrity of man and his desire to overcome any fault which exists, I think it only right that time be set aside now for some intense introspection. What better way to end one year and begin another than to look deep within; to evaluate motives and to determine whether the motives direct us or we direct them.

As for me, I know of no greater force outside the home, church and school than the local radio and television station. American broadcasters are stewards of a sacred trust. Among other things, they can shape thought patterns and condition taste. What about this business of taste? Broadcasters who are in the driver's seat have a moral duty to expose their listeners to the best of whatever it is they are programming. Second best won't do. Further, one can't side-step diversification; variety still remains the spice of life and newness always sets up contrast. I honestly believe that the stew that began to bubble as the old year ran out did so simply because the brew itself had a low boiling point. Too much of anything is bad, whether it be music or watermelon. No listener can live forever on the same music without at least losing his appetite. Now, at last, attention has been sharpened and protests are made vocal. Music is getting back its old sharp edge. Look for brilliance and resiliency in the new music you are about to hear.

The producers of SESAC recordings, the streamlined 12-inch long play Transcribed Library, anticipated the current reaction and throughout the years, have recorded music of style and distinction, performed by talented and established artists. SESAC recordings are custom-built for the broadcasting industry. They are not distributed among nor can they be bought at any record store. Any broadcaster who wants to break with the old monotony and program music which meets the high standards sought by the broadcasting industry can do so with SESAC recordings. Here is a program service designed to serve all radio and television stations as their basic music library. And, why not — SESAC performers come from 1960's top roster of stars: Duke Ellington, Woody Herman, Chico Hamilton, Richard Maltby, Richard Hayman, José Melis, The Chuck Wagon Gang, Webb Pierce, Chet Atkins, Johnny Horton, Elliot Lawrence, Anita Kerr, Bill Snyder, Coleman Hawkins, Dick Jacobs, The Jordanares, Faron Young, The Statesmen, Bob Scobey, Alfredo Antonini are just a few of the names that come to mind.

FOREIGN TV GROWTH

... Not Reflected In TV Sales

By PAUL TALBOT

President, Fremantle International, Inc.

FOR several years American producers of filmed TV shows have been happily studying the increased set count in overseas markets with the natural thought that these figures will mean new and larger markets for their product.

While the overseas market is rapidly expanding in terms of more television sets — more restrictions are continually being set up causing a greater sales contraction. Let's look at some of the cold facts: By 1961, Canadian TV stations must have 45% of their programming of Canadian content. By 1962, this figure will be upped to 55%. Further limitation is placed on US product because film produced any place in the Commonwealth outside of Canada, and also in France, is counted as being 50% Canadian origin. Therefore, a half-hour show produced in England, Australia, etc. is counted as fifteen minutes of Canadian time. Naturally, programming from these favored countries takes preference in Canadian station buys.

In Great Britain, the total programming permitted on commercial stations for non-Commonwealth material is 14%. Program contractors are regulated by the Independent Television Authority. The BBC is self-regulating and does not use more than 10% non-British programming. This, in fact, works out to approximately one hour daily on each channel allotted for all foreign material—naturally competition for this is fierce.

The outlook for the American syndicator abroad sales-wise is hardly as rosy as commonly believed. This great sales outlet is a misconception and should not be identified with the success of American motion pictures abroad. As foreign markets grow and expand they increase their own facilities and eventually produce more of their own television programs and purchase less from abroad. Thus the idea that more TV sets overseas means a greater dollar potential for American distributors is fallacious.

In minor markets there is an increasing demand for film. But the prices paid are rock bottom and eventually these small areas will also develop their own production as facilities and trained personnel increase.

One answer to this problem is "Circular Distribution" . . . a kind of round robin which Fremantle International has used with great success. For instance, shows produced in Australia are sold in Great Britain, and British shows are sold in Canada and Australia. By so doing we create a "hospitable climate" for the American shows which we distribute.

There is, fortunately, a more feasible solution and one that will benefit every American distributor. That is increased buying of foreign program material for use on US television outlets. We are probably the market least open to programming produced abroad. The insular feeling that the U. S. product alone is tops in quality and entertainment value is a strong mitigating factor against the sale of American programming elsewhere.

UK TV FILM PROBLEM

... Year of Technical Decision

By TONY GRUNER

Radio-TV Daily, London Bureau

TV FILM production, tape or tele-recording. This year should decide in which technical direction the British Broadcasting Corporation and the Programme Contractors will move. With the exception of Independent Television Corporation, the British-owned subsidiary of Associated Television, no other British company has so far gone on record in favor of film TV production. The big plans for film series in 1959 have hardly been consummated or even confirmed in 1960. Still haunted by continual failures to secure network sponsorship are most of the Contractors, while for the independent companies, there are fewer avenues to reach financial backing for these type of series than at any time in the history of the business. Even ITC, whose grosses in Canada and the States for "The Four Just Men," are now tipping 2 million dollars, is not rushing ahead with TV series, except after the most exhausting research and experimentation. In the cast of one proposed series no fewer than three pilot scripts were completed and still the go-ahead signal has not been given. But ITC with its heavy world-wide commitments of five to six series a year, is in favor of film production methods.

Managing Director, Lew Grade has gone on record saying that only this system or tape shows for spectaculars, etc., have reached the technical standards necessary for world market sales. ABC Television whose parent company, Associated British picture Corporation, is closely involved with Warner Bros., may go into British film production again, but so far there have been few signs of any concrete plans in this direction.

With continuing pressure of the American company to get greater exposure on ITV networks, there may be a few series produced by Warners in Britain, if only to qualify for quota product. Whatever doubts the companies may have about film production, there seems no slackening of enthusiasm for the importance of tape, although this too is accompanied by many presentation problems. From ATV down to the smallest Programme Contractor, all the companies are attempting shows which can be sold to stations in the British Commonwealth and usually on a pre-selling guarantee. Difficulty arises when the customer wishes to see the results before purchase. As one single tape screening session can cost as much as $200, the entire outlay, even if successful, leaves little profit in the hands of the traveling salesman. Over here it has been found that the only way tape can secure bigger profits for Contractors is to pre-sell programs all along the line.

During 1959 and early this year there have been key appointments and changes in the staffs of the Contractors and the BBC, alike to enable first-rate men to head the export selling side of the operations. Associated Rediffusion appointed Anthony Bartley, former CBS Vice-President of European operations; ABC has MacGregor Scott of AB Pathe, who, as well as being managing director of the latter company, handles overseas

Britain's ABC Television

Network and Iris Productions

OF THE TEN TELEVISION COMPANIES that between them make up Great Britain's commercial television coverage, the ABC Television Network serves the largest area and the biggest audience—half the commercial television audience of England and Wales. ABC has the sole responsibility for the North and Midlands—Britain's great industrial area—every weekend.

ABC's success in the entertainment field is typified by Armchair Theatre—the weekly drama hour which earns continuous Top Ten ratings and won the 1959 TV drama direction award.

Successful 'firsts' to ABC's credit include: the first series about books and authors 'The Book Man'; the first regular religion-and-jazz session for teenagers 'The Sunday Break'; the first farming series transmitted direct from location 'The Other Man's Farm'.

Iris Productions is, like ABC Television, a member of the Associated British Picture Corporation. It is a production company with studios near London and in the North and Midlands of England, and provides most of the live and taped television programmes shown on the ABC Television Network: the former Warner Bros. Studios at Teddington are being extended and re-equipped to become the finest TV Centre in Great Britain, capable of producing every type of television programme not only for Britain, but for Europe, the United States and South America also.

selling for film and TV for the parent Griffiths, and ATV's is Elkin Kaufman, the Lew and Leslie Grade trained executive, who has done a big selling job for both ATV and ITC. In an effort to develop both the buying and the selling side of its operations, the BBC set up its TV promotions department headed by Ronald Waldman, former business executive for the corporation.

So far the BBC's policy, with the exception of the recent NTA deal for the series "The Third Man," is to stick to taped shows or telerecordings. A system which the corporation claims to have developed to a far greater peak of efficiency and clarity than anyone else. While no demonstrations have been given to the press showing the distinctive qualities of BBC recordings, it is generally assumed that one factor in its favor is the time, care and additional personnel employed to carry out the operations.

Among the other Contractors, only AR appears to have any interest in the development of telerecordings as opposed to tape. Paul Adorian, managing director of the company believes that there are great possibilities for longer life and better standards to be gained from telerecording, although his company produces a great many taped shows. ATV will not touch recordings, will neither buy them nor sell them. Granada seems to prefer video tape, as do such progressive Contractors like Television for Wales and the West Country and Southern Television.

International TV Stations and Sets

The overall picture of overseas television in 1959 shows rapid and undiminished growth. At the end of the year, 56 overseas countries, seven more than in 1958, had TV. The number of transmitting stations abroad, including TV centers, relay and experimental stations, increased by about 47 per cent from 739 to 1,088. The growth in the number of television receiver sets in use also kept pace with the extension of transmitting facilities. There was an increase of almost 9,250,000 sets, 40 per cent, compared with 6,500,000 in 1958, and 3,500,000 in 1957.

Of the more than 32,000,000 sets in use at the end of the year, the Free World accounted for about 26,800,000, an increase of 7,200,000 sets over 1958, and the Sino-Soviet Bloc had about 5,300,000 of which 2,000,000 were acquired in 1959. In the Free World, Western Europe had 19,900,000 sets; the Far East more than 5,000,000; Latin America about 2,500,000; and the Near East, South Asia and Africa area somewhat less than 100,000. The United Kingdom with 10,000,000 sets led the Free World, followed by Japan, West Germany, Italy and France. In the Bloc, the Soviet Union reportedly had 4,000,000 sets in use, with East Germany and Czechoslovakia credited with 5,000,000 each.

International TV Statistical Roundup

This report summarizes the development in overseas television in the last quarter of 1959 and also provides a year-end statistical roundup. All countries are included, with the exception of the U. S., its territories and Canada. United States Armed Forces television stations abroad are excluded.

Statistical data must be viewed with caution since the reliability of the sources from which these statistics are compiled varies. Where official sources are lacking, a consensus of a variety of unofficial source is used.

WESTERN EUROPE

AUSTRIA

Television in Austria was very successful in 1959. The number of TV sets doubled during the year; a network of 15 transmitting stations covers about 60 per cent of the country; prices on TV sets declined by about 40 per cent since the end of 1955; hours of telecasting were increased to about 24 hours per week, and are now on a daily basis; and the quality of programs was improved. However, criticism of the TV administration has been mounting. Warnings were expressed against excessive Socialist propaganda influence on Austrian TV, and demands were put forward for "early and concrete measures" to end the Socialists' grip on TV.

BELGIUM

The Belgian Government plans to spend about $12,000,000 to expand its national broadcasting and television activities. Most of the money will be used to build a TV center in Brussels and to modernize its Eurovision facilities. About 25 per cent will be invested in radio development.

DENMARK

The Naestved TV station on Seeland Island was inaugurated last October. In addition to being used as a local transmitter, it will be an important link in the Eurovision network between Germany and Scandinavia. It is expected to improve reception in an area where East German TV programs had reportedly been received hitherto better than Danish telecasts. Television reception now extends to all of Denmark with the exception of the island of Bornholm in the Baltic.

FINLAND

Finland built up its television network with four new transmitting stations, and its first Eurovision hookup was inaugurated on January 1, 1960 with a relay via the Swedish TV network of a Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra concert on New Year's Day, and of the Central European ski contests.

FRANCE

The opening of the second TV channel in France has been postponed to April. Besides the failure of the Finance Ministry to unblock the necessary funds in time, technical problems have emerged. Test transmissions on channel 9 in Band III have proved unsatisfactory, and the possibility of using channels 10, 11, or 12 is being studied.

A great TV center at Bouvigny to serve all of Northern France has been completed. It has two transmitters which will service the Amiens and Lille areas respectively.

French and Spanish radio and TV organizations have reached an accord for the installation of a French relay transmitter on the Balearic Islands, to establish a TV link between France and Algeria.

WEST GERMANY

Last September the Federal Cabinet passed the draft bill for a federal radio and television law. In addition to various radio provisions, the bill would create a TV institute, with its seat at Frankfurt, which would establish a second TV network. The institute would not produce programs of its own, but would sell time to private companies. These would finance themselves by accepting advertising.

During November the Bundesrat (Upper House) unanimously rejected the draft bill. The Laender representatives did not object to the radio broadcasting provisions of the bill, but denied the Federal Government's alleged right to participate in TV. Thereupon the Laender broadcasting agencies jointly filed applications with the Bundespost for assignment of frequencies for the transmitters to be used for the second TV program. The Federal Government, however, announced that the bill would be discussed by the Bundestag (Lower House) in January 1960. The latter can overrule a unanimous Bundesrat rejection by a 2/3 majority vote.

In the meantime, Chancellor Adenauer called a meeting on December 16 of the Minister Presidents of the Laender to discuss the problem. It was announced after the meeting that a compromise solution was developed whereby operation of the radio services, as well as the license fee problem, should be regulated by federal law, and that operation of a second and probably a third TV program would be subject to state treaties or administrative agreements between the Federal Government and the Laender.

TV DEVELOPMENTS IN SPAIN

... Newsreels Tops In TV Fare

By BOBBY DEGLANE

Radio-TV Daily, Madrid Bureau

MADRID. — With the recent inauguration of the retransmission situated in the Caro mountain near Tortosa, Cataluña, and in the Garbi mountain near Valencia, there has been an important extension of the area and range of Spanish television under the direction of the government — TVE—, covering more than one third of the Spanish peninsular. In this way TV is actually reaching 15 million possible spectators, most of them without sets. Transmission equipment and studios operate only in Madrid and Barcelona alternating reciprocally. Daily programs begin at 2:45 p.m. lasting until 4 p.m. and again in the evening from 8:30 p.m. until 12 p.m.

The resulting picture of Spanish TV is very clear and of excellent quality, transmitted with a picture of 625 lines. The programs have improved since approximately a year ago although there is still much progress to be made from the artistic viewpoint. The program arrangers are too inflexible perhaps in their desire to create a sober atmosphere, perhaps exaggerated, that results in a loss of naturalness and takes away the innate Spanish qualities of human and spontaneous joy.

In little less than a year, there has been a big increase in television sets for the public, in the area between Cataluña, Aragón, Levante, Old Castilla, and New Castilla. Estimated number of sets in use is approximately one hundred thousand. Already in operation is a new transmitting center in Navacerrada at a height of 8,400 feet, considered the most powerful in Europe. It's operation, however is irregular especially in the winter months and the stormy season.

TVE sells space to advertising agencies and there are already a number of sponsors that finance various programs. Recently a football (soccer) international match between teams of Nice (France) and Real Madrid (Spain) TVE connected by micro wave a link with "Eurovision net" showing the match to France, Luxembourg, Montecarlo, Belgium, Germany (West), Austria, Denmark, Sweden, Switzerland and Italy. It is calculated that this first transmission was seen by some 50 million Europeans.

It is also calculated that with the use of the equipment in Navacerrada, besides those of Barcelona and Madrid, the number of people — in proportion to the sets in use — who can see TV now in Spain reach more than a million. The programs that are having the most success are "Tele-diarios" (newsreels).

Spanish TV does not know yet or use video tape recording. It is easily supposed that when TVE will begin to employ video tape, American present productions, such as musical shows and others, will be enjoyed by the Spanish television spectators. One can equally imagine that when the Spanish Government will give licenses to individual private companies, TV in Spain will really advance. Presently many private companies, operating in radio, are trying to obtain this authorization from the Government. Meanwhile, radio continues prosperously and with great popularity as the best organ of commercial advertising with an estimated twenty million sets in use.

Germany, saturation is still at a low 15-20 per cent, compared with 90 per cent for radio. In higher income brackets it reaches 25-30 per cent, indicating that high TV set prices are a major obstacle in the way of a more rapid development of TV.

IRELAND

The Government of Ireland has called upon Eamann Andrews of the BBC to head a new Television Advisory Committee to develop TV in Ireland. Mr. Andrews has agreed to serve on a part time basis, and visualizes a service like the BBC with advertisements, but not a commercial network such as the ITA in the United Kingdom. A plot of land on top of a mountain near Dublin has been purchased for the first transmitter.

ITALY

Despite the remarkable growth of the television network in Italy, which with 343 transmitters—second only to the U. S.—now covers practically the whole country, stocks on hand of TV sets are regarded as disturbingly high. At the end of July 1959, there was an inventory accumulation of 100,000 sets compared with 50,000 sets at the end of 1958. However, this was regarded as temporary, and a considerable stimulus to sales was anticipated in expectation of the opening of a second TV channel at the time of the Olympic Games in Rome this August.

MALTA

The Government of Malta has announced that it will have a TV station by mid-1960. Though the initial cost will be provided by the government, it will not exercise any controls over its programming. The estimated 7,000 TV set owners now view Italian TV programs.

NETHERLANDS

So far three separate applications for licenses to participate in commercial television have been filed. The Netherlands Newspaper Owners Association and a magazine publishers' group wish to cooperate with existing broadcasting companies, which are linked to various political parties or religious groups, and are united in the Netherlands Television Foundation. The third, the Independent Television Exploitation Company (OTEM), wishes to set up a separate commercial TV network along the lines of the British system.

The Government announced that it was considering the granting of a license for commercial TV to the OTEM group. This raised howls of protest from critics who maintain that if advertising is to be introduced in TV, it should take the form of spot commercials, with programming remaining in the hands of the Netherlands TV Foundation. The government still has not made any formal recommendations to Parliament concerning the form of commercial TV.

A company (VRON) has been formed to broadcast commercial radio programs from an offshore ship. Its initiator, Mr. Lewin te Diemen, has also shown interest in establishing commercial TV by means of aircraft, at times when the official Netherlands TV is off the air.

The Minister of Education stated that it is planned to increase TV transmissions from the present 15 hours per week to 18 in 1960, 22 in 1961, 26 in 1962, and 30 in 1963, at which time it is expected that there will be 1,400,000 TV sets in the country. The government plans to invest a total of 16,000,000 gulden (about $4,250,000) within the next three years for new TV transmitters, relay lines, and studio facilities.

NORWAY

Norwegian television officially joined the Eurovision network last October.

SWEDEN

The Swedish TV network is expanding rapidly. Nine additional transmitters went on the air in the last quarter of the year. Sixty per cent of the population is now within TV range, and with 17 more transmitters scheduled by mid-1960, the total will be raised to 70 per cent. By 1965, 95 per cent of the population will be covered.

A Swedish organization also plans to begin commercial television this fall, it is reported. The company is affiliated with a German concern. The government-owned and operated radio and TV organization is fighting the attempts of the commercial TV company to gain government approval. Government officials think there is little chance of the commercial company ever being licensed.

SWITZERLAND

Federal Councillor Wahlen, after consultation with the Federal Council, has decided that the permanent locations for Switzerland's central television studios should be in Zurich and Geneva. The decision was made after a long study of various reports submitted by the PTT, the Swiss Radio Society and other interested parties. A lively debate had followed the proposal of the Swiss Radio Society's General Assembly last summer that Basel and Lausanne should be the sites for the central television studios. A proposal for the eventual establishment of a third studio for the Tessin in Lugano was uncontested. Federal Councillor Wahlen stated that television in Switzerland should not be regional or cantonal but must be Swiss, and that it is the responsibility of the central studios to reflect the heterogeneous qualities of the country in their programming.

UNITED KINGDOM

This has been a peak year for television in the United Kingdom. Sales are estimated at 18 per cent greater than in 1958. Production of TV sets reached 2,700,000. With the construction of several new transmitting stations of the BBC and ITA, the former now covers 99 per cent of the population, and the commercial service can now reach over 90 per cent. It has also been a very profitable year for the programming companies.

The ITA has asked the Postmaster General for permission to increase its broadcasting from 50 to 71 hours per week, and the daily maximum from 8 to 11 hours. The authority thinks that "strong arguments are necessary in a free community to justify a state of affairs in which people can listen virtually at any time to sound programs, whilst the availability of TV is arbitrarily restricted."

The Chairman of the manufacturing firm PYE, Ltd. expressed his regret that the authorities have not yet seen fit to inaugurate a 625-line TV transmission, as "the overall pattern of European TV developments is such that Britain will be compelled in the end to change to 625 lines or fall behind in TV prestige." Such a development would also greatly expand TV set exports.

BBC Schools Television has made the transition from an experimental to a permanent service, and is in fact the first permanent nation-wide service of Schools Television broadcasts anywhere in the world. By September 1960 the present output will be doubled to ten programs a week with telerecorded repeats of all of them, and will include programs for primary schools and sixth forms in grammar schools.

YUGOSLAVIA

Viewers in Sarajevo were recently able to watch TV for the first time by means of a one-way Belgrade-Sarajevo link. Plans call for the construction of a TV station in the city in 1961. Yugoslav factories are expected to produce 15,500 TV sets in 1960. An additional 10,000 sets will be imported during the year.

LATIN AMERICA

ARGENTINA

A television survey carried out in Buenos Aires indicated that (1) the TV audience totalled about 1,400,000 with about four viewers per set; (2) there are more women viewers than men; (3) children under 14 comprise less than a fifth of the audience; (4) peak viewing hours are between 8 and 10 p.m.; (5) eight of ten female viewers try not to miss their favorite programs—dramatic TV shows; (6) with one program only, the important element is the time, not the program or the performers; and (7) people with both radio and TV sets in their homes listen little to radio when TV is on the air, except on Sunday afternoons when a substantial percentage of males listen to football broadcasts on the radio.

A new company, Argentine Tele Film, has been founded to produce films for TV. The company will begin by producing five serials which will show the Argentine countryside. The films will be dubbed in English for North American TV use.

BRAZIL

According to a Radio Tupi broadcast, the Rio de Janeiro-Soo Paula-Belo Horizonte Tupi TV hookup was expected to be completed late in December or early in January. This will enable people in Minas Gerais to view Rio and Soo Paulo programs. Seven microwave towers were being constructed between Belo Horizonte and the federal capital. The first television station in Rio Grande da Sul province, Televisao Pirotini, was inaugurated in Porto Alegre on December 21.

President Kubitschek decreed that the new capital, Brasilia, will be assigned channels 3, 6, 8, and 10, it is reported. One of these will be used in conjunction with Radio Nacional, Brasilia.

CHILE

In addition to the Catholic Universities in Santiago and Valparaiso which now have experimental television, the University of Chile in Santiago has also erected its antenna, and is preparing to telecast on channel 9 with 1,500 watts. The President of Chile has refused a request for authorization of a commercial TV station. He believes, it is claimed, the country's resources would thereby be diverted to non-productive channels, through the import of TV sets and transmitting equipment.

COSTA RICA

The first license for the establishment of a commercial TV station was issued to Carlos Manuel Reyes Zomara in October. The company, Televisora de Costa Rico, Ltd., expects to go on the air in January with American standards and equipment. American Broadcasting-Paramount Theaters, Inc. has a 35 per cent interest in this station. The company intends to import about 3,000 used but serviceable TV sets from the United States. A second TV station to be operated by Compania Televisora Nacional, S.A. is expected to initiate transmissions later in 1960.

CUBA

The Minister of Communications stated that permission had been granted to several TV stations to erect booster towers in Pinar del Rio province where reception was poor. Radio and TV networks have been having labor troubles recently.

ECUADOR

Regulations governing television broadcasting in Ecuador went into effect on December 5, 1959. The Director General for Communications stated that as yet no licenses had been issued, though three groups, including the Protestant missionary organization which operates the "Voice of the Andes" radio station, had applied for permits.

Ecuadorian TV will follow American standards. Transmitters must have a minimum power of 250 watts, and a 50,000 sucre (about $3,000) guarantee will be required from license applicants. Personnel employed must be at least 75 per cent Ecuadorian. Licenses will be granted only to Ecuadorian citizens, companies, or corporations. However, non-Ecuadorians may participate with Ecuadorian interests in such activities.

Several American broadcasting organizations have already shown interest in Ecuadorian television.

HAITI

Haiti's first TV station, Tele-Haiti, went on the air on December 13. An estimated audience of 4,000 persons viewed the show. Tele-Haiti expects to telecast four hours per day from 6 to 10 p.m., and also from 2 to 6 p.m. on Sundays. Films will be shown mainly for the first months of operation.

HONDURAS

Television was inaugurated in Honduras last September when station HRTG, channel 5, owned and operated by Compania Televisora Hondurena, S.A., went on the air. The station telecasts for six hours daily from 4:30 to 10:30 p.m. Reception is good in the Tegucigalpa area and telecasts are being received in San Pedro Sula, approximately 200 miles away. There are some 400 TV sets in the capital, and large crowds watch TV on sets installed in shop windows.

MEXICO

According to trade sources, an ultimate link between American and Mexican television may become a reality. In recent months, Emilio Azcarraga, head of the XEW-TV network, has been holding a series of talks with American TV executives with the same goal. A project to study the form in which the link can be achieved is being readied, with top technical men on both sides acting on a joint commission.

The Department of Communications announced that it has on hand 56 applications for the establishment of new TV stations, and that by the end of 1960, the country would have full TV coverage. Ten new independent TV stations in key Mexican cities will be inaugurated in the first quarter of 1960, according to plans of concession holders.

PANAMA

Circuito RPC-TV, channel 4, owned by the Eleta brothers, began experimental transmissions in September. The antenna is installed on a peak in the Penoncito range about 11 miles from Panama City. The station's effective radiated power is 12 kilowatts.

PERU

Limo's third commercial TV station, Panamericana TV on channel 13, was inaugurated on October 16. Isoac R. Lindley is president of the organization which is capitalized at 13 million soles (about $465,000). The transmitter was designed by Philips, according to press reports, and has a potential output of 50 kw. The station is located in an ultra-modern five story building which will have two recording rooms, one film studio, and two large production studios. The antenna is about 375 feet high and is located in the rear of the building.

NEAR EAST*ALGERIA

A television station relaying Algiers went on the air in Tizi-Ouzou. It operates on channel 7 with a power of 300 watts.

CENTRAL AFRICAN FEDERATION

The Federal Government, through the Federal Broadcasting Corporation, has awarded a contract to provide television in the Federation to Rhodesia Television (Pvt.) Limited (R.T.V.). Under a fifteen-year agreement, R.T.V. will provide a television service for the Federation, starting in Solisbury, possibly in August 1960. Service is expected to be extended to the Bulawayo area in 1961 and to the Copperbelt of Northern Rhodesia in 1962.

The new service will be supported by commercial advertising which will be limited to ten per cent of program time, or an average of six minutes in an hour. No decision has yet been reached on the amount of viewers' license fees which will accrue to the F.B.C.

A 625-line system will be used. It is planned to telecast four hours per day. The contractor will supply programs, but the F.B.C. will have control over them, and will originate the newscasts.

IRAN

The second television station in Iran recently began test transmissions in Abadan. The RCA-equipped studio is owned by the Sabets, and is a commercial enterprise like their Iran-TV station in Tehran. Telecasts will be increased from the initial 2½ hours three times a week to 3½ hours five times a week. It is reported that 1,400 TV sets are in use in Abadan. Adequate reception is limited to the Khorramshahr-Abadan area.

IRAQ

A Baghdad broadcast on December 20 stated that the Iraqi cabinet had approved commercial advertising over the Iraqi TV network.

ISRAEL

In spite of reports that Israel was considering the establishment of television, Prime Minister Ben-Gurion—in answer to questions of the Israel Newspaper Editors Committee—stated that TV should not be introduced into the country, as this would mean raising living standards while the country was still dependent on external aid for necessities.

JORDAN

The Jordanian cabinet decided to hire a foreign expert to study the prospects of establishing a Jordanian television system.

KENYA

The Kenya TV Commission is soliciting the views of racial, religious, community and financial interests regarding the establishment of TV in Kenya. A questionnaire, asking for detailed plans, is being sent to organizations, both domestic and foreign, that have already submitted memoranda on the introduction of TV in Kenya.

LEBANON

It is reported that the government has granted a commercial TV station franchise to a third group in Lebanon. The only organization, however, that is on the air is the original Television Company of Lebanon (TCL). The excise tax on radio and television receivers, sold by importers and dealers in Lebanon, has been dropped by official decree.

LIBYA

The Armed Forces Television station at Wheelus Air Base in Tripoli began a series of half hour weekly programs in Arabic on October 1.

NIGERIA

Western Nigeria TV was inaugurated on October 31. Programs originate in Ibadan and are sent out over two transmitters, one at Ibadan, and the other at Abafon near Logos. There are 3½ to 4 hours of commercial evening programs, and a one hour noontime educational telecast daily. About 700 TV sets have reportedly been sold.

TURKEY

The Turkish Information Office reported that foreign concerns were invited to submit technical and financial suggestions of a preliminary nature pertaining to the establishment of a television network in Turkey. The project covers the construction of transmitters, studio facilities and mobile units in Ankara and Istanbul; a transmitter and mobile units for Izmir; and a TV link between the transmitters for simultaneous broadcast of programs. The 625-line West European system is to be used. The government is also interested in receiving proposals for the establishment of plants for the manufacture of radio and TV sets in Turkey.

UNITED ARAB REPUBLIC

On December 19, an agreement was signed between the United States and the United Arab Republic providing for a loan of LE 4,500,000 to finance the television project. The plans of the UAR television authorities call for nine transmitters. It is anticipated that operations will begin by July 23, 1960, a national anniversary. A contract was signed between the UAR and the Radio Corporation of America to provide the equipment for the broadcasting system. Arrangements have not yet been made for the TV receiving set factory.

The first TV Institute in the Middle East was inaugurated by Deputy Minister for Presidential Affairs Hatem on November 22. The curriculum includes lectures on directing, script writing, TV camera work and other subjects. In discussions with USIS officials, the organizers of the Institute, as well as the members of the program committee of UAR-TV, expressed interest in securing program and technical assistance.

FAR EAST

AUSTRALIA

Three years after its inauguration, 30 per cent of Australian homes have television. Twelve stations are now in operation, and several others are expected to go on the air soon. In the last quarter, stations were taken into service in Queensland, South Australia, and Western Australia. Applications for 13 regional stations have been over-subscribed, and it is estimated that by the end of 1960 TV will be available to 8,000,000 Australians.

JAPAN

Television continues to expand rapidly in Japan. More than 4,250,000 TV sets were in use by year-end, and the TV network was expanded to 87 transmitting stations, consisting of 44 NHK (Government) and 43 commercial stations. An NHK official set a goal of 10,000,000 TV sets by the time of the Tokyo Olympics in 1964.

MALAYA

Two Radio Malayo officials stated to the press on November 24 that they thought that the Federation Government should introduce television soon. Returning from an educational exchange visit to the United States, they commented on the facilities in American universities for training in radio and TV broadcasting, and suggested that similar courses be inaugurated in Malaya in preparation for the eventual introduction of television.

NEW ZEALAND

Experimental television transmissions from a low-power station in Auckland have recently been started, using the 625-line system. The vision and sound rated powers are 500 watts and 250 watts respectively and the transmission is on channel 2. Work is going on to select suitable sites for transmitting stations, to determine the effective coverage and to work out a frequency allocation plan.

Their arrangement of channels differs from that adopted in Australia, although New Zealand channels Nos. 4, 5, 6, 7, and 9 are the same as Australian channels Nos. 6, 7, 8, 9, 10 respectively. Trade sources report that prior to statements by the Deputy Prime Minister and the Minister of Broadcasting that TV would be state-controlled in New Zealand, a metropolitan newspaper had been exploring the possibilities of obtaining an option for a commercial station.

OKINAWA

The transmitter of the Okinawa Television Broadcasting Company was reported to be nearing completion, and experimental transmissions were expected to begin in November 1959. A license for the construction of another TV station was also granted to the Ryukyu Broadcasting Corporation on October 1.

PHILIPPINES

Station DZBB-TV of the Republic Broadcasting System is currently telecasting filmed material on more or less a test basis with a weak signal. A fourth station, DZTV, under American ownership, is expected to be on the air shortly.

THAILAND

A communications evaluation survey among opinion leaders in Thailand—government officials, teachers, students, and business men—was carried out in April 1959. Of these, two out of three owned a TV set. Forty-four per cent of set owners watched TV on channel 4 (Thai TV) and seven per cent on channel 7 (Army TV), while 16 per cent were not sure and 33 per cent did not answer. Thus among the 51 per cent of set owners who identified the stations, Thai TV was favored by more than six to one.

SINO-SOVIET BLOC

BULGARIA

The Sofia television station, replacing the old experimental one, went on the air on November 7 on the occasion of the 42nd anniversary of the October revolution. Then on December 26, the station was officially inaugurated. It operates on a twice-weekly schedule—Wednesdays and Saturdays beginning at 7:30 p.m. In addition, it will televise special events such as meetings, concerts, sports, etc.

CZECHOSLOVAKIA

According to an October 1 Prague dispatch, the Czechoslovak Government approved a new re-organization of the Czechoslovak radio and television system. The Czechoslovak and Slovak committees for radio and TV were replaced by the Czechoslovak Broadcasting Corporation and the Czechoslovak Television Corporation. Thus radio and television in Czechoslovakia are now controlled by separate central organizations.

EAST GERMANY

According to East and West German sources, new television transmitters went into service and others were increased in power on October 7, on the occasion of East Germany's tenth anniversary. A new transmitter at Schwerin with an antenna about 850 feet high was said to have improved reception throughout a considerable area. Transmitters in East Berlin, Leipzig, Brocken, and Inselberg were to have their power raised to 100 kw.

Test transmissions from the new Leipzig transmitter were reported to be blanking out West German television in that area. In addition to these main transmitters, eight low-powered satellite transmitters with coverage areas of from two to eight miles were brought into service. It was planned to set up studio installations in Leipzig, Dresden, and Rostock within the next few years.

Demand for TV sets in East Germany is still outpacing production. Annual production is expected to increase from 125,000 in 1959 to 750,000 before 1965. Seventeen-inch models now account for the major share of total East German production. Twenty-one-inch models will be produced only in small quantities according to official plans. A portable TV prototype has been completed, but there are no immediate plans to start mass production of portables.

HUNGARY

Two television relay transmitters at Miskolc and Sopron were taken into service, and a high-power relay station at Szentes will be in operation this spring. Sales of TV sets have spurted recently, and unofficial estimates place the number of subscribers at 50,000. During the last five weeks of the year, 16,000 sets were purchased, more than the number for the entire year of 1958.

POLAND

Two additional relay transmitters were taken into service, and others are in various stages of construction. Fifty per cent of the population is now within range of TV. According to a Warsaw broadcast, a special project for rural areas has been started on Polish TV. Many farmers have TV receivers and programs are seen by many in village schools and welfare centers.

USSR

Television continues to expand at a good pace in the USSR. Six new TV centers and four relay transmitters went on the air in the last quarter of 1959. Four million TV sets are reportedly in use. These figures indicate increases of about 50 per cent in both transmitting stations and receivers during 1959.

Experimental television relays of the programs of the Moscow TV center have started on the TV and radio relay line Moscow-Orel-Kursk-Kharkov. Construction of the first phase of this main line was completed before the October revolution anniversary, according to a Kiev broadcast. It was also announced that the Moscow-Warsaw television link would be brought into operation within two years. One of the channels will carry color TV. Ninety-five per cent of the equipment will work automatically. Work on the project will begin in Poland early next year.

The government issued a decree on October 15 calling for a 42 per cent increase in output of consumer durable goods by the end of 1961 over output in 1958. Among goods slated for increased production are radio and TV sets. In the first nine months of 1959, 924,000 TV sets were produced, a 30 per cent increase over the corresponding 1958 period.

Broadcasts revealed that though TV was mainly using channels 1 to 5 in the 48-100 megacycle range, there were a number of low-power relay installations operating in certain cities in the 174-230 meg. range. The first powerful TV stations broadcasting in this range would go into operation soon. The development of color TV and the organization of second TV programs in a number of cities would require mastery of new ranges above 400 megs.

COMMUNIST CHINA

A Hong Kong report, quoting a Canton dispatch, stated that the Kwangtung television station in Canton had been recently completed, and was scheduled to commence regular operation on the eve of the Chinese national day. Evening telecasts of Cantonese and Peking operas, movies and modern operas would be presented throughout the four-day celebrations in Canton. Regular telecasts will be given on every Tuesday and Saturday. The effective range of this station was said to cover from 12 to 18 miles "in diameter." More than 200 TV receivers had been installed in government offices, schools, factories, and public buildings.
