It could be said that television is an industry without an inventory. For no other industry consumes its principal commodity — or the talents of those who create it — faster than television.

The need for such an inventory is the reason why this year for the first time a selected group of promising writers and directors has been working in the medium's pioneer laboratory for the development of creative talent—the CBS Television Workshop. Under the guidance of one of television's best-known producers, Albert McCleery, they have been attending seminars, learning the arts of television writing and directing, and fathoming the mystery of control rooms and electronic cameras.

Most of them have come to the Workshop with no previous professional experience in television, but with a background of demonstrated talent in other media — in fiction, the community theatre, the off-Broadway production. They are now being given a chance first to see how things are done and later to show what they can do in a series of hour-long dramatic programs on the CBS Television Network.

Essentially the CBS Television Workshop is a testing-ground for talent. It is intended to provide a reservoir of creative people who may be counted on to bring to television new prospects for fresh, original and exciting entertainment. And, incidentally, it should also be very well worth seeing on your television screen one of these Sundays.

The prestige of your station depends, to a large degree, on the quality of its news programs.

FACT:

The quality of the news programs depends on the source which gathers and distributes the news.

FACT:

There is no better source than THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, whose unmatched facilities and talent assure you of the best in day-to-day coverage and handling of the news.

CONCLUSION: *You Can Get The Best.
Why Settle For Less?*

FOREWORD

THE electronic media has definitely established itself as a dominant influence on the foundation of public opinion. Broadcasting's future was never brighter and will only tend to move forward in all important directions. As the industry's chief chronicler of statistical achievements in broadcasting during the past year, these pages of our 23rd edition of Radio Annual Television Year Book depict highlights of the progress and growth of this surging industry.

Therefore I salute the countless contributors who made this outstanding volume possible and our many industry friends who are diligently working on still bigger and better things to come in the broadcasting media.

a WORLD of difference

Take a closer look and you'll notice the difference in World's radio promotion and program service. The commercial features — seemingly custom-made for advertisers and brim-full of sell — but with a flair and finesse that sets them apart and insures productivity. The programming and station service features . . . distinctive, imaginative, complete — to give stations real individuality in their markets.

It all adds up to a World of difference in showmanship and salesmanship . . . meaning more sales and higher ratings for ANY station. Can we show you how our "radio station in 350 records" can work wonders for you?

FCC: 25th ANNIVERSARY

... U. S. Still Leads The World

FREDERICK FORD

Chairman, Federal Communications Commission

THE 25th anniversary of the Federal Communications Commission, 1934 to 1959, affords me, in the name of the Commission, to pay tribute to American imagination and ingenuity which have made the United States a world leader in telecommunication.

Among some of the major events that have transpired in the Commission's quarter century were: radio authorizations have practically multiplied by that number of years—from slightly more than 100,000 at the close of the first year to nearly 2.5 million today. Radio stations of all kinds have increased from 51,000 to more than 507,000 and currently represent the use of about 1.8 million transmitters. From 600 stations, all AM in 1934, broadcast authorizations collectively today exceed 10,000 of which 3,500 are AM and over 970 and 930 are TV and FM respectively. The number of broadcast receivers has soared from 18½ million to more than 200 million. Almost two-thirds of the world's total are in the United States. This country now has more sets than people and almost three times as many sets as it has automobiles.

The only broadcast service in 1934 was AM. Regular FM and TV service started in 1941. The result is that, as of June 1959, there were more than 5,400 authorized broadcast stations (3,500 AM, 971 TV and 934 FM) not counting about 4,700 remote pickup and other auxiliaries. Of these, 3,377 AM, 767 TV and 776 FM stations held operating authorizations. Included were 224 non-commercial educational station authorizations, 59 TV and 165 FM, of which 43 and 154, respectively, had authority to operate. The number of TV channel allocations for educational use has increased from 242 in 1952 to 259 today.

At the close of fiscal 1959, outstanding broadcast authorizations totaled 10,120, which was a gain of 1,083 collectively for the year.

Concerned with the revelation of unsavory operations in the broadcasting field dealing with quiz shows, payola, offensive commercials and unbalanced programs, the Commission is engaged in public proceedings to reappraise its role in radio and TV to determine how best to hold its station licensees responsible for better serving the public. This is bringing helpful comment and suggestions by religious, educational, women's, civic, business and other groups and individuals who are concerned by some elements of broadcast fare now invading the home.

Radiobroadcast is the magic medium that brings information, education, religion and entertainment into our homes. Television adds image—even in color—to the family enjoyment. What is more, the American system of broadcasting is by private enterprise, and the Government does not censor programs or exact fees for broadcast receiver use.

Consequently, the Commission salutes not only those who have made possible the phenomenal telecommunication accomplishments of the past quarter century but also those who are working on still bigger things to come.

TV- WHICH WAY?

He may choose one of several channels. Or none. That depends on the offerings, and how they're served up. Providing the right show for the right audience at the right time is the special talent of McCann-Erickson program specialists.

Broad mass audiences call for individual types of programming. Specialized groups require others. Thus our experienced program-builders have helped to select and produce such attractions as five of '59's top-rated specials, four of the leading westerns, three of the finest drama shows and this season's outstanding documentary (winner of two Sylvania awards.)

Such an approach is too all-inclusive for any narrow formula concept. It makes for constantly fresh and stimulating TV offerings, of which both client and agency can be proud.

DECEPTION IN ADS?

... Animation Offers Freedom

By TOM GOLDEN

Animation Dir., National Screen Service Corp.

WITH so-called "deception" and "misleading advertising" in television commercials a subject for public discussion, the difficulties facing the advertising agency and manufacturer of products, which do not lend themselves properly to the limitations of live photography without some adaptation, have become a matter of serious concern within the ranks of those responsible for television commercial production.

To the experienced, the line between photographic necessity and deception is clear and well defined, but this is no longer the entire issue. Utterly confused by charges and countercharges the viewer is incapable of making the distinction. He has been given the impression that photogeny and misrepresentation are synonymous and the climate of suspicion and distrust which has been created, distracts him from the sales message and puts him in the mood to examine all advertising claims circumspectively and to be wary of camera trickery in live filmed television commercials. We feel that there is an answer to this perplexing uncertainty of what can and what cannot be done—an answer which both solves the problem and avoids the controversy: Animation! Animation, by its very nature, provides the artistic license that live photography has now been deprived of by this dispute.

It is no secret that the use of animated commercials and combinations of animation and live footage has increased tremendously in recent years.

Among the many advantageous factors inherent in the use of animation in television commercials, is the opportunity to create completely distinctive personalities. Here we have limitless freedom to design characters of nearly universal appeal, who become identified with the sponsor's product to such an extent that they begin to sell the moment they appear on the screen. Animation also makes it possible to enjoy unlimited continuity of these characters without the many obvious shortcomings of using live personalities. In addition, the production of animated commercials can, in many instances, be accomplished at a substantially lower cost than studio or location shooting.

But most important is the ability of the animator to combine entertainment with advertising, humor with sales message, and to interweave both into a likeable commercial. The flexibility of the cartoon character permits the use of material and situations which might be difficult or impossible under live conditions.

By no means do we suggest that animation should be used in all television commercials. Far from it! The major share of our business is—and always will be — live production. Most products or situations have no photographic problems or their problems can easily be corrected to the full satisfaction of the most skeptical viewer. There is plenty of room for imaginative photography and creative presentation in the studio or on location without running afoul of those inclined to be cynical.

RADIO—World-Wide Receivers and Sets

At the end of 1959 there were about 165,700,000 radio sets and an additional 38,900,000 wired speakers in the world, exclusive of the United States, its territories and Canada. These figures indicate an increase of 12,000,000 sets (8%) and 7,000,000 wired speakers (22%) during the year. The greatest expansion occurred in the Communist Bloc in Eastern Europe. The second greatest gainer was the Near East, South Asia and Africa Area, which almost doubled its 1958 increase. In terms of sub-areas, the visit of a USIA officer to Africa yielded up-to-date statistics for countries of this increasingly important continent. As a result an increase of 750,000 sets (40%) was indicated in the countries of non-Arabic Africa.

There appears to be a slowdown in the rate of increase in Western Europe and in the Far East. In this connection, the rapid growth of television, in many countries of Western Europe and in Japan, seems to have resulted in a gradual reduction in the rate of growth of radio, if not a decline in some cases. A typical example is that of Japan where the number of radio sets in use had been constantly and steadily increasing up to the end of 1958, and then began declining just as steadily for a net loss of more than half a million sets in 1959. Concurrently television is expanding at a tremendous rate in Japan and the United Kingdom.

NETWORK RADIO OFFERS

... Mass Out-Of-Home Audiences

By ROBERT R. PAULEY

Vice President in Chg., ABC Radio Network

NO matter how you look at it, it is practically impossible to find a bad network radio buy. Network radio continues to deliver the penetrating coverage, sizeable audiences and low costs that make it, to objective observers, advertising's most enticing medium. But network radio has been short changed by many who have tried to bury it, who consider it obsolete. How "obsolete" is radio?

To the people who bought some 22 million radio sets last year, radio is far from obsolete, it is vital. You don't buy radios to use as furniture. You buy them for listening. Every home in America listens to radio. People drive with radio, walk with radio, wake up to radio and pay attention to radio.

Advertisers who have paid attention to radio have found it pays off for them. ABC can, for example, give an advertiser 28 commercials a week with a cost per thousand homes of $.84. If you add the out-of-homes audience, this cost is reduced to $.64, and that is a conservative estimate.

To reach the home, network radio is a good buy. But the medium offers more: a mass out-of-home plus audience that has never been accurately measured. There are some indications as to its listening and buying strength, however.

There are 38 million radios in automobiles. There are over 18 million portable radios, 10 million radios in public places such as hotels, etc., and five million radios on boats.

This mobility and companionability which radio offers is equaled by no other media. It is a common sight to see people walking down city streets listening to transistor radios. I have seen women in supermarkets carrying transistor radios listening to their favorite programs.

The advertiser is with the shopper as she drives to the retail outlet, and in cases I have observed, is actually with her as her hand moves toward the product. But radio's flexibility goes far beyond its mobile listening audience.

Radio's area of strongest flexibility is in its programming. No one need be told of the swiftness and completeness with which radio covers news events, bringing them to the American public faster than any other media.

The fifties saw network radio pulling back to put itself in a stronger position. At ABC Radio, our retrenchment state is over. Our affiliates and advertisers have increased in number. Our task now, and the task of all people in radio, is to be constantly aware of the strength in radio and to face the responsibilities it creates, and to honestly meet and overcome its problems.

One of the things we need in order to do this, is better qualitative research. More is needed than just counting noses. Radio must find ways to measure its penetration and its impact both in and out of the home.

Now is the time when this must be done: during 1960. And in the ensuing years of this decade, network radio must grow and become increasingly important to both advertisers and audiences to fill its rightful place in the world of communications.

NETWORK RADIO TODAY

... No Remote Controlled Jukebox

By ARTHUR HULL HAYES

President, CBS Radio

AN appraisal of network radio today reveals, more than any other single fact, the medium's extraordinary adaptability to modern conditions. Network radio, of course, is modern in much the same sense that plays on Broadway this season are modern. Theatrical techniques have changed greatly over the years—but the proscenium arch of Shakespeare's time is still here. Similarly, network radio's techniques have changed—but the central fact and form of communication by sound is still there.

The CBS Radio Network and its affiliated stations were the first in the medium to take a long, hard-headed look at the changing economics and new advertising requirements of network radio, and to come up with a real answer. Not a change in spare parts, but a change in the whole machinery. Our answer has been the Program Consolidation Plan. After a full year of operation under the plan, it is good to be able to say it works.

The fact that it works has enabled us to do two things. One: continue to broadcast what most critics and listeners believe to be the most effective, most complete program schedule in all radio. Two: continue to deliver to advertisers a method to reach millions of people, with top-caliber programs and personalities, at costs so low that they amortize the costs of other national media for the big advertiser . . . and offer low-budget advertisers (and low-budget brands) a national medium complete in itself.

Thus, by creating a workable, profitable economic structure, PCP has made it possible for this radio network to continue to operate under its own "proscenium arch." In other words, to continue as the branch of show-business that network radio inherently is.

Why is this good? Because radio is too useful, too powerful and too versatile an instrument to content itself with being merely a crier of headlines or an electronic, remote-controlled juke box. And because not only radio's capabilities but radio's public responsibilities go far beyond such limited functions.

There is the obligation to bring Americans more than hard news alone: to present thoughtful analysis; careful examinations of urgent topics; debates; interviews. There is the need to bring listeners directly to momentous events in history: political conventions; the coronation of a Pope; the President's trips abroad; the visit of a Khrushchev to the United States. There's the unique role network radio can play in continuing the nation's cultural heritage—especially with our young people in mind—through great symphonies, discussions of literature and the humanities, as in an Invitation to Learning.

Finally, there's an important place, too, for drama and comedy and the magic of inimitable personalities. In the nature of things, only a radio network is equipped to present such programming; it is beyond the compass of the individual station.

LOST?

IN THE NUMBERS MAZE

Any network radio count* you use – share of most popular sponsored programs or homes delivered per average commercial minute; listening in the big cities or across the country – you find the same name in the same place: CBS Radio, first.

It figures. The programs are here. Where else, for example, do you find a morning lineup to touch Arthur Godfrey, Garry Moore, Art Linkletter, Bing Crosby and Rosemary Clooney! Not to mention the daytime serials...the comedy...the variety and good music...the CBS News caliber of reporting.

In short, this is a network program schedule. It attracts the largest audiences, holds their interest and attention, and delivers to advertisers a strong, identifiable framework for sales messages that sell. Which are surely the best kind.

POWER OF LOCAL RADIO

...KBS Marks 20th Anniversary

By SIDNEY J. WOLF

President, Keystone Broadcasting Company

THIS year marks the 20th anniversary of the founding of the Keystone Broadcasting System, Inc. Inaugurated in 1940, Keystone started out with 66 member stations. Today we have 1091 affiliates, an increase of over 1500 per cent. And with the expansion of our national coverage, I am also happy to report our continuing growth in national billings. For the third year in succession, we have enjoyed peak business and, for self-evident reasons, I am confident that this trend will continue during the new decade.

In previous messages here, I have submitted extensive evidence in support of the importance of local radio on the local level at the point of sale to national advertisers and their respective agencies, and I feel that the dramatic resurgence of radio during the past three years has more than substantiated this firm conviction. Keystone's ability to provide effective broadcast impact upon over one hundred million listeners on the local level is becoming more and more recognized and accepted in the advertising field. Last year 86 national accounts used Keystone's facilities to reach the local consumer, and it is significant to note that many of these national advertisers have been our regular clients over many years. Such endorsement is surely ample proof of Keystone's basic soundness.

Now permit me to outline briefly how Keystone has been able to rationalize successfully the power of local radio, on the local level, at the point of sale in terms of a comprehensive network operation at low economical cost. We hold a dominating position in four specific fields, namely: 1) the C & D counties of the U. S.; 2) the Farm Markets; 3) Essential broadcast coverage for the Automotive Industry; 4) Effective merchandising support at no additional cost to clients at the all important points of purchase.

One of the most striking developments in the history of Keystone is the growing emphasis placed by more and more national advertisers and their agencies on the importance of developing increased sales in the 2,308 C & D Counties of the U. S. In this respect Keystone can render practical service to such advertisers, for these C & D Counties represent no less than 31.4 per cent of the total U. S. Retail Sales with over 90 per cent of all KBS affiliates located exclusively in C & D markets.

The effective merchandising support that we are able to offer national advertisers—at no additional cost—has been one of our outstanding features.

In conclusion, I would like to say that the above points I have touched upon, together with many other Keystone advantages, such as extremely low network rates, flexibility in selecting radio coverage patterned to an advertiser's specific requirements, high local listenership, and the effective means for an advertiser to establish a valuable sales franchise in the C & D markets make me confident of Keystone's great future during the coming decade.

NETWORKING THE NEWS

... Radio Provides Headline Punch

By ROBERT F. HURLEIGH
President, Mutual Broadcasting System

EVER since the first radio message was transmitted December 21, 1902, broadcasting has become paramount as a means of swift, completely flexible communications between the peoples of the world.

Code has been replaced by voice. Language barriers have been overcome by the need for understanding and comprehension. Radio was the kinetic force that set this pattern in motion.

Through the years radio ran diverse paths. It overshadowed its communications fortes with solid, quite exemplary presentations of entertainment features. Radio, due probably to limitations expressly placed in its path by persons with limited foresight, became enterprising and showed sufficient initiative to dominate the waking moments of every person within ear-shot.

Television changed this pattern, particularly in the years following the 1952 advent of coast-to-coast TV. Now television has become the dominant cost-free entertainment medium—and radio's again stressing its communications advantages.

Radio has no peer in this respect. A microphone can be toted into areas where cameras are taboo—or unwieldily and impractical. But, most importantly, radio permits news-hungry people to actually hear the words that make the news—with the voices of those actually uttering the words.

This is important. It is most dramatic—for it provides the headline punch. Because radio has today made the entire world a huge sounding board for public opinion.

We at the Mutual Broadcasting System believe we have contributed immeasurably to this development. Always a network that devoted itself extensively to news, special events, public service and sports broadcasting, MBS—in the '50's—began to amplify already well-established services, increasingly devoting more of its network time and facilities to these, rather than to entertainment programming.

But Mutual went one step farther. On June 2, 1957 Mutual made a clean break with traditional network programming. Starting that day Mutual became a service network—keyed to the proposition of building the prestige, rapport, trust and community consciousness of its affiliated stations within their own communities.

That this has been effective is demonstrated by the rapid rise in the number of affiliates—a rise which, we hope this year, will return us to the 500-station mark, or more, which we enjoyed some years back.

I have repeatedly said in public appearances and I repeat it here—we care more that people listen to the Mutual affiliate in their community than that they recognize segments of that station's programming as Mutual feeds. We want our integration into the local station's programming concept to be so absolute that the network personalities on news program, and network feature news-in-depth shows, become recognizable primarily as features exclusive to the MBS affiliate.

Of all radio networks—Mutual and only Mutual serves the best interests of the independent stations.

It's the only service any dynamic independent needs to supplement its own creative format in its market.

With The Mutual Service the voice of the independent remains just that. Beyond that—there's every latitude—every freedom to create the distinctive voice that has made independent radio the vital selling force it is today.

You can live with Mutual. You can grow with Mutual. You can make money with Mutual. That's why with stations (and advertisers) MUTUAL IS HERE TO STAY.

SOUNDS OF THE '60's

...Will Be The Sound Of Action

By WILLIAM K. McDANIEL

Vice President in Charge, NBC Radio Network

ON JANUARY 4, 1960 NBC Radio launched a dramatic, and we believe, highly progressive break with tradition. It could be called Action Programming. On that date, passive, put-your-feet-up program concepts were scrapped. In the exciting decade ahead America wants and must have a listening service that is as alive and as vibrant as the challenges we face. Man's imagination is limitless, but I doubt that even the most accurate crystal ball could prophesy all the dramatic developments we will witness within the next ten years.

In business, we have been intrigued and impressed by the recent stream of economic predictions, forecasts and expert opinions that seem to guarantee that our nation's economy will grow and prosper mightily in the next 10 years. We hear that 1970 will see us a nation of 200 million people with a gross national product of $750 billion a year and a personal income that, in the aggregate, will exceed two thirds of a trillion dollars.

One of the key assumptions upon which that growth prediction is based is that we will have to raise present consumer sales a gigantic 52 per cent! In short, we are supposed to raise our standard of living as much in the next 10 years as we did in the previous 200 years. Can we do it? You can be sure we'll have to use every resource at our command—especially advertising.

Advertising is becoming more and more the only connection consumers can make with the vast, growing array of goods and services multiply-ing endlessly about them. Automated selling is on the increase. We "buy" more often than we are "sold," persuaded by a personal, in-store salesman, that is. Advertising will become perhaps the chief arbiter of America's standard of living.

The growing need of radio audiences and advertisers for frequency around the clock is ideally met by such vehicles as NBC Radio's "News on the Hour," our new "Emphasis" series, and "Monitor."

Truth "is" stranger than fiction, and a great distinction in NBC Radio's Action Programming is in the actual material being aired. We base it on the contemporary scene. In this way, we avoid the task of changing fictional program material every hour ourselves. The actual scene itself does the changing. All we need do is be aware of those changes and then report them.

Our whole network has newly become one huge monitoring station continuously feeding back information and exploring areas and ideas.

We have referred to our current and future programming as Action Programming. We believe it fills today's needs and tomorrow's needs. Only an informed public can cope with the apparently endless Cold War, with the well-nigh unbelievable strides ahead in science, in manufacturing, in selling, in advertising—all of which will govern our standard of living. The decade ahead is no time for passive communications. Over NBC Radio, the Sounds of the Sixties will be the sounds of Action.

STATUS OF TV CODE

... Guideposts and Standards Set

By DONALD H. MCGANNON
President, Westinghouse Broadcasting Co.

THE Television Code is about to enter the third stage in its development. The first stage represented its creation, adoption and development from 1951 through approximately 1958.

The second phase consisted of a period of adjustment to new dimensions of need and to an expanded base of implementation, effectiveness, and membership.

As we undertake this new year, the third phase might be called the "perfecting period." We currently have 372 stations, three television networks and 24 television producers as subscribers to the Code. From the station viewpoint, this represents over 70 per cent of that segment of the industry, 100 percent of the networks and in the case of the Hollywood alliance, it involves virtually every important producer of TV films.

At this time the following represent some of the goals yet to be achieved:

1. A higher level of informational service to the governmental and congressional people. This will engender a higher regard for the current effectiveness and overall ability of the Code to do a genuine self-regulatory job.

2. Stimulation of the broadcasters who subscribe to the Code to promote it and identify themselves with it. This has been an area of shortcoming in the past; only through adequate promotion and obvious pride will the public respond and give the Code the degree of public confidence, dependence and respect which is essential to its future.

3. The expansion of the number of members on the Television Code Review Board, further investment in expanded staff, and geographical locations of the Code offices, and a broadened financial base on which to project plans and activities beyond the current year.

4. A continuing, vigorous and alert approach to the task at hand by the Code Review Board and staff, and a further improvement of working liaison with the Association of National Advertisers, the 4A's, the American Federation of Advertisers, the FCC, and the FTC.

It is my belief and conviction that the future of the Code now depends on all of these steps being simultaneously perfected and accomplished.

In evaluating the importance of the task at hand, the broadcasters must realize that there are no alternatives to self-regulation except that of onerous and destructive governmental regulation. It is obvious that governmental officials charged with the responsibility of administering the media of radio and television are not going to permit the industry to operate in an atmosphere devoid of tangible guideposts and standards. Most know how difficult such standards are to write, interpret, and implement in a creative industry where subjective reaction is the only valid process of evaluation. We can be certain, therefore, that the industry is infinitely more able to compose and properly enforce such regulations than a governmental bureau, agency or individual.

RADIO—1960 STYLE

...It's A Pleasure To Welcome You

By PAUL F. HARRON

President, World Broadcasting System, Inc.

THROUGHOUT my many years in the broadcasting business I don't believe I enjoyed any period more than the first few months of 1960. For during this key period the return to improved radio programming began to become apparent. Broadcasters threw off the yoke of sameness worn by so many of their fellow operators and adopted a creative individuolistic approach.

It seemed to occur all over the country at about the same time. I was even lucky enough to hear a change take place in mid-air, so to speak . . . wherein at a given time a station dramatically portrayed the old abandoned sound, then a sample of the new. What particularly heartened me about these changes toward a more conservative and varied pattern of sounds was the way the announcers and disc jockeys welcomed them.

To set forth the type of programming that was being ditched right and left would be a waste of space. Anyone with a modicum of taste knows the patterns of sound that were so heavily criticized. Also, let me make plain, it was not any specific element or elements which provoked the listener groans, rather it was the way such were used so frequently, or consecutively, or simultaneously! But don't get me wrong—I'm all for making radio as distinctive and creative as possible, just so it all goes to make the medium more appreciated and thereby more productive.

But now that the old-sound interment is definitely under way, let's spend some time with the new-born programming concepts that are proving interesting even to venerable 30-hour-a-week TV addicts. Take music, for instance — station managers are experiencing welcome surprise in discovering it is not imperative to program 'down' to win audiences. They're playing all kinds of music, and once again using their show business horse sense as to whether the sound is good, and thereby worthy of play, or not. Some managers, almost as if in a fit of frenzy, chucked charts, polls and whole segments of their obscurely labeled records into the rubbish pile — and began to listen to their own stations again! More than one has explained, "It is not necessary for me to play the same stuff as everybody else to survive. I'm trying my own ideas and apparently listeners like what I like because I've been besieged by letters and calls urging me to continue the new way." Now when this happens, I'm sure that sales—including merchandise sales off the counter—will follow.

At World, of course, we're pleased with these new trends. We believe them to be right for the industry, and we know they point straight in our direction. For we're geared, as always, to help stations program in numerous ways — all tasteful and all productive. We already have the new styled production tools so drastically needed by so many stations — as well as the features, promotions, and talk-shows. Radio programming, 1960 style, it's a pleasure to welcome you.

For Better Radio Results in Cleveland Use WDOK/1260

When WDOK was established in 1950, it tried then to become an important factor in the Cleveland radio broadcasting scene.

WDOK had excellent equipment and played the world's greatest music. But, it had an additional asset—the most devoted broadcasting pioneers whose aims were to make WDOK a vital part of the community, not only by providing fine and wholesome entertainment, public service features and accurate news but, overall, to present cleaner and better musical programming. We hope that WDOK has proved the point throughout these years by audience loyalty, praise by newspapers, public service awards, the appreciation shown by institutions and, ratings.*

Yes, you have to have something special to excel in North-eastern Ohio. We think that WDOK has demonstrated that it has it.

**Latest Nielsen: 11:00 am-6:00 pm, No. 1 among all Cleveland radio stations.*

From pianissimo to resounding crescendo, every movement of the hands reflects a quality touch possessed by the maestro. Experience, dedication, desire — these are the elements which help to achieve such eminence. They are the same ingredients which make possible the quality touch found today in better radio and television station operations.

END OF MONOPOLY TV

...Hearings Under Way In Canada

By T. J. ALLARD
Executive Vice President, CAB

THE Canadian Association of Broadcasters entered the '60's with 157 radio members (compared to 147 members as of December 31, 1958) and 41 TV members (compared with 37 TV members at the end of the previous year).

Much of Canadian broadcasting history this past year has been concerned with the activities of the Board of Broadcast Governors, the independent regulatory tribunal, for whose appointment the private broadcasters had campaigned for many years.

The BBG held its first public hearing in Ottawa in January of 1959, and has since held seven other hearings to consider license applications and power boosts. At all of these hearings, the Board has given applicants full opportunity to state their case, and decisions have been given promptly. The BBG also held a public meeting to consider its proposed regulations for radio broadcasting, and a separate one to consider its television regulations.

Although the C.A.B. believed that the radio regulations were a considerable improvement over the former CBC regulations, it felt the wording of some of the proposed regulations could be changed, and this was done, in some cases.

The draft regulations for television stations were especially interesting since TV stations had not had separate regulations.

Here again, the Board's procedure of holding a public hearing on its draft proposals paid dividends. Both private and government-owned stations submitted their views on the regulations, with most of the attention focusing on the BBG proposals for a 55 per cent Canadian broadcasting content and the proposed ban on morning telecasting.

As a result of these submissions, the Canadian content clause of the regulation was changed so that the 55 per cent Canadian content regulation provided "there shall be no specified minimum percentage of broadcast time of stations or networks devoted to programs that are basically Canadian in content and character prior to April 1st, 1961; and from April 1st, 1961 to March 31st, 1962 inclusive, the minimum percentage of broadcast time so devoted shall be 45 per cent."

The meaning of the words "Canadian content" was defined: the ban on morning TV was substantially modified and a regulation which would have given the BBG empirical control of the prime evening viewing time was dropped completely.

Hearings have been taking place across Canada in the early months of 1960 to determine which companies will be okayed by the BBG as holders of second television licenses in major cities across Canada.

In ending monopoly television in Canada, the BBG has proceeded carefully. In each case the Board went carefully into the applicants' financial stability; technical arrangements (including facilities for transmitting color TV) and their plans for Canadian content.
