CALLED THE POLICE!

They told Police Chiefs of a plan to televise their Departments in action, in a case that (1) dramatizes the forces that lead to crime and (2) adds a chapter to the record of heroic police service.

...and the Police came running...

More than a score of metropolitan PD's responded enthusiastically. They are bringing before the camera the REAL culprits, the "innocent bystanders", the victims and the officers involved in A REAL AND IMPORTANT CASE IN ITS FILE. Result:

the LEE MARVIN Show

POLICE CHIEF F. C. RAYMOND, Seattle, states:

"This television series illustrates the desperately dangerous risks the Policeman faces on the job . . . and he faces them for the Community. The citizens should know about this and, above all, should know how they can help."

POLICE CHIEF C. L. SHUPTRINE, Houston, asserts:

"The modern criminal accentuates the demand for up-to-the-minute law enforcement agencies . . . flexible, dynamic and effective. This television program accurately portrays today's Police Departments in action."

The hit with more than 2,000 angels

This year, audiences in five leading markets have been enjoying a major television innovation: "Repertoire Workshop," a 35-week series of drama, music and dance, produced by the CBS Owned stations, and specially created to encourage and give television exposure to unknown or lesser known local talent.

The series, broadcast on all five stations, has been widely acclaimed in the press. Time, for example, saluted "Repertoire Workshop" as "more than praiseworthy"; Saturday Review hailed "an ambitious and worthwhile non-network enterprise"; Variety found it "wholly enjoyable"; the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner agreed, calling it "completely delightful."

In truth, the success of "Repertoire Workshop" is a direct result of the commercial success of the five stations. For the more than 2,000 products and services which advertise on the CBS Owned stations help make it possible, by their support, for these stations to broadcast a consistent schedule of top-calibre local cultural programs, such as "Repertoire Workshop."

FOREWORD

THIS year's edition of RADIO ANNUAL-TELEVISION YEAR BOOK is a progress report on broadcasting. RADIO-TELEVISION DAILY is proud to present this compact volume of facts and figures. Another year of day-to-day advances in broadcasting is chronicled in the pages of this edition, which also records the predictions of electronic miracles in the year ahead.

THE ENTHUSIASTIC support received from the broadcasting industry in compiling this twenty-sixth annual edition bespeaks its sustained interest in the volume and its confidence in the future of broadcasting. It is documentation of the untiring creative efforts of all who have contributed so much to the success of this indispensable medium.

A GAIN, WE ARE grateful to the men and women — the who's who of broadcasting — who have contributed to the success of this edition. Without their contributions, the dramatic story of a growing service could never have been so completely told. To them we dedicate this 1963 volume.

They're only some of the nationally known participants appearing on The Mike Douglas Show, a Cleveland daytime television program seen live Monday through Friday for 90 minutes on KYW-TV. Some of them have done week-long co-host shots. All have had a chance to take part in discussions, to interview other guests and studio audiences, to express their own opinions.

Cleveland really has something to be excited about! The Mike Douglas Show is big on entertainment. It's big on public information. It's big on current, topical, and provocative content. And it's locally produced.

What KYW-TV is doing in Cleveland reflects the WBC group as a whole. Westinghouse stations are encouraged to create exciting, local television programs to supplement their network schedules. Like the unique pantomime of Lorenzo and His Friends in Baltimore. The John Reed King Show every morning in Pittsburgh. The crime documentary series, Works of Darkness, in San Francisco. Live telecasts of Cleveland Symphony and Cleveland Play House performances. Boomtown, from Rex Trailer's "ranch" in Boston.

Such programs arouse community interest. They demonstrate daily the fact that community responsibility evokes community response.

Broadcast Revenues, Expenses & Income

The radio (AM and FM) and television broadcasting industry reported total revenues of $1,909 million for calendar year 1961, an increase of 2.3 per cent (or $42.7 million) above the 1960 revenues of $1,866.3 million. Expenses, however, increased by $66.3 million, resulting in a decline in broadcast profits (before federal income tax) of $23.6 million, from $290 million in 1960 to $266.4 million in 1961. Radio accounted for about 70 per cent (or $16.5 million) of the drop in profits.

Before-tax profits in radio in 1961 were $29.4 million. These are the lowest reported industry profits since 1939 when the figure was $23.8 million. At that time, however, there were 705 stations reporting and total broadcast revenues were $123.9 million.

STORER BROADCASTING COMPANY

35 years of community service

WHEN DO YOU FREEZE A FORMAT?

The answer is simple — never!

At least, in 35 years, no Storer Station has been able to manage it.

Public preference changes too fast and so do each community's needs. That is why every Storer Station is locally oriented to the particular community it serves.

Only by knowing community problems from day to day have we been able to help solve them. Only through constant check on listener and viewer preferences have we been able to build loyal, responsive audiences

Keeping the public informed and entertained, and working for a better community is a day-to-day, often an hour-to-hour, even minute-to-minute job.

We've never found a way to format community service. It's too big... too fluid... too much of a responsibility to be frozen — even for one day.

A Major Radio Project Will Measure Full Audience Reach

By
EDMUND C. BUNKER
President
Radio Advertising
Bureau, Inc.

HIGH on our list is a major Radio listening project which will show the full extent of our audience reach, by a methodology which will be pre-accepted by the buyers of Radio time.

In addition to this . . . (1) We will attempt to make a major contribution toward making Radio time easier to buy; (2) We will publish figures on advertiser expenditures in Radio. Other media publish such figures. So, from 1963 on, will Radio; (3) We will offer more creative stimulation for agencies; (4) We will emphasize computer-conscious research. RAB's On Target research is to my knowledge the first practical measurement of customer media exposure. Our research, which justifies the use of a computer, will continue to emphasize consumer consumption.

All of these efforts will be expended to make the selling of our medium more professional, and statesmanlike.

The credo which follows is another attempt in that direction. It is a statement of standards which we will urge Radio stations at all market levels to adopt.

Imagine the following points in big and imposing letters set up on the walls of hundreds of stations across the country.

The credo of a professional Radio salesman:

(1) I believe first in advertising and that it creates and builds businesses, and is the lifeblood of a free economy. I believe in all responsible advertising, because all advertising, when used with scope and intelligence, will produce results.

(2) I believe further that one of America's great advertising media is Radio.

(3) I believe it is a basic part of my job to help advertisers use Radio by showing them how to use the medium to the greatest advantage. I do not presume to have knowledge I do not have. But, where appropriate, I consider it my job to help advertisers who need help by providing ideas, by citing facts that guide them by contributing positively to a planned campaign.

(4) I believe my station is a great station and I will sell it on that plane.

(5) I believe that this station is a competitive station—competitive with other media as well as other radio stations. I believe that America's system of free enterprise is founded on such competition.

(6) I believe that competition is corrosive when it is founded on negative selling. So I will sell this medium and this station by presenting strengths, not seeking unfairly to undermine the competition.

(7) I do these things—not because I am under a bureaucratic rule—but because I want to, because I know Radio is a great advertising medium which can be built to new heights on the foundation expressed here.

(8) If that makes me a visionary, that is what I am. And I hope that it is possible to be a visionary all the way to the bank.

This credo will dictate the course of many of the actions we will be taking during my administration. I make the pledge to you: We will find a way—whether it is this credo or through other devices—to bring this kind of statesmanship to Radio selling.

The New Promotion Man— A Key Management Exec

By
DAN BELLUS
President
Broadcasters' Promotion
Association, Inc.

THE DAY seems to be here when we can stand on the curbstone of time, hold our hat in hand and watch the funeral cortege of an era fade "slowly into the sunset."

The era of the famous—or infamous—promoter, the checker-coated, derby-hatted, cane-in-hand, razzle-dazzle, side-show-barker type is virtually gone.

From our vantage point in time, we can view the prelude to the final laying to rest of this phenomenon with mixed emotions. The passing of this image with its flamboyancy, its cockiness, the "con artist" tactics, the boisterousness must arouse nostalgia, some sympathy and a bit of regret.

But again, our special vantage point in time allows us to view this passing of an era with a great enthusiasm for the new which replaces it.

The new-era promotion man retains qualities of the old—the creativity, the absolute passion for his work, the never-give-up approach to a problem and, above all, the conviction that "if you want 'em to know . . . you've got to tell 'em."

But our new promotion man also brings to his era qualities that place his promotion efforts on a plane of solid, constructive business achievement. This new man is stable. He is dependable. He is an administrator. He is a planner. He has follow-through. And he thinks in terms of the big job to be done . . . the overall company requirements and objectives.

What's most important is that he is taking his place in top management teams in ever-increasing numbers. He has demonstrated his value to the successful operation of any concern.

As far as broadcasting promotion men are concerned, the passing of the old era is not as significant as the ushering in of the new. After all, only early broadcasting caught the tail end of the old era; and today's broadcasting reflects the emergence of the new.

Today's promotion man has had just enough exposure to the old era to have an aggressive, determined approach to promotion and sufficient participation in the formative years of the new era to be acutely aware of the solid business base in which his operation is rooted—and the total cause it must serve. With this combination, it is only natural that the promotion man is emerging as a leader in management circles.

We in broadcasting can be proud that our industry is in the forefront of this tide. From the Broadcasters' Promotion Association's point of view, we're especially proud to see more and more promotion men moving upwards into general management posts.

There is much for broadcasting from promotion in this new era . . . a good deal of it is available right now—a lot more of it in the future.

Of the old-time promotion man we say, "rest in peace—you had your glorious days"; and of the new promotion man we say, with a fervor born of the knowledge of progress, "long live the new."

The Essence of Our Free Society Is Self-Discipline

By
LeROY COLLINS
President
National Association of Broadcasters

MANY centuries ago the Greeks developed a civilization supported by a system of self-government that flourished for many years. It provided a high degree of personal freedom, but little order—and in time it failed. The Romans came along later—and they, too, were highly successful. They developed a high degree of order, but with little freedom—and that system failed, also. From these two civilizations, we have derived much of the culture that has come to be known as Western Democracy. We learned the virtue of freedom from the Greeks, the necessity for order from the Romans. The manner in which we have been able thus far to blend these interdependent factors—freedom and order—accounts for the stability of our society.

In American business we are confronted with the constant struggle to keep free of government control, but at the same time voluntarily to impose upon ourselves the measure of self-discipline which is essential to the public welfare in a changing society. Only thus can we avoid the vacuum of unmet needs into which a democratic government by its very nature would surely become drawn.

To accomplish this requires an ingenious approach, for it challenges the character of American competitive enterprise. The effort is made more difficult because the forces of freedom are divided and often are warring against each other. Those who want to achieve a status of responsible freedom are frequently opposed not only by those who look to the government to remedy every ill, but also by those who are determined upon a course of freedom without responsibility. The ghosts of both the Romans and the Greeks combine to force us to continued effort to avoid their frustration and ultimate doom.

It is the clear purpose of the National Association of Broadcasters and its leadership to encourage constantly the improvement of the service of broadcasting to the people. We can beseech the government to keep its hands off, but we deserve little sympathy if we are unwilling to maintain order and progress in our own house.

This is the reason that the Association has placed so much emphasis in recent years upon the development and practical application of self-promulgated Codes of good practice in both radio and television—Codes that are working, believe me, in upgrading programming and advertising practices.

Here is a conscientious, dedicated effort on the part of a great industry voluntarily to improve its product and control its actions in a responsible manner. Our Code programs are not yet developed as they should be. They are not yet supported by all the broadcasters who should be behind them. But, even so, they now represent the most significant force for self-regulation in American competitive enterprise. They are, indeed, the best example in the world today of free businessmen voluntarily subordinating immediate individual profit for their collective professional advancement and for the service of the public welfare in a free society.

Space Communication Advent

Highlight of '62 FCC Activities

By
NEWTON N. MINOW
Chairman
Federal Communications Commission

THE event of 1962 which may have more impact on the FCC than any other occurrence in its 28 years of existence is the advent of space communication. In recognizing FCC jurisdiction over international communication carriers to include satellite relay, Congress has charged us with duties unprecedented in Federal telecommunications regulation.

With the advice of the NASA, we must pass judgment on the system to be used—the number of satellites required, and whether it will be high, middle or low altitude, or some combination of the three. It must also insure competition in procurement of equipment for the system.

The year's most pronounced Commission activity affecting broadcasting was our stiffening enforcement actions on stations that failed to carry out their promises and obligations. We were aided in this effort by legislation of 1960 that enables us to fine willful offenders and to give short-term licenses to others requiring closer supervision. An unprecedented number of stations were disciplined for technical and other violations.

The advantage to both the public and the Commission of a medium for securing local expression was demonstrated by the inquiry at Chicago into whether TV stations there had ascertained and were meeting the needs of their audiences in the matter of local live programming. Results of this inquiry—the first of its kind—prompted the Commission to schedule a like one at Omaha.

We have begun an inquiry into objectionably loud commercials, the subject of growing complaints. During the year stations were warned about such advertising practices as "teaser" spots and "double billing," about broadcast of horseracing information useful for illegal gambling, and of their responsibilities with respect to proper sponsorship identification. At the same time the right of broadcasters to air controversial matters, subject to the "fairness doctrine," was upheld.

Another major development was adoption of technical standards under which TV receiver manufacturers must convert to all-channel sets by April 30, 1964.

The Commission's network study staff submitted a report on the FCC inquiry into TV network program procurement. It makes various recommendations to the Commission designed to give the individual broadcaster more say in the selection of programs.

The congestion of AM stations and their worsening interference caused the Commission to put a partial "freeze" on new AM applications while we re-examine our present rules to determine what remedial steps should be taken.

While 1962 has been a successful year for communications, we are aware that many problems are unresolved. The Commission is approaching the four million mark in radio authorizations while the nation is entering the exciting era of space communications. To keep up with the technological advances, we must search for better and faster ways to carry out our heavy responsibilities so that the public may continue to enjoy the most effective, efficient and economical communications system possible.

Dr. Frankenstein believed a human being is a formula . . . Add two arms, two legs, etc., and you create a person.

He tried.

We know what happened.

However, there persists the Dr. Frankenstein school of advertising. You graft a headline that worked, to a picture that worked, to copy that worked. Sometimes the results do work. Often they don't.

The Dr. Frankenstein school forgets that people, and their emotions, can't be figured out with the nice finality of the mathematician.

The best advertising ideas are like people. You find in them a life force, a creative spark, an individual personality.

Average advertising can be made by formula. But the best advertising is created. It is born. And it comes alive.

HE KNOWS
THE OTHER SIDE
OF THE DESK

PGW Television Colonels worked for advertising agencies for 70 years before they joined us. Our Radio Colonels put in nearly half a century with companies that market goods and services. Altogether, we have been on the other side of the advertising desk for 173 years.

They were very productive years for many of us. Because of them, the PGW Colonel is very much at home with advertisers . . . and advertisers are at home to the Colonel.

Sales Honesty Reaps Rewards As Ballyhoo Boys Bow Out

By
ROBERT R. PAULEY
President
ABC Radio Network
our network.

WHO knows more about the broadcasting industry than the broadcasters themselves? Nobody. But when it comes to buying time on radio, several advertising agencies hire young and—in many cases—inexperienced men as “experts” on the subject.

These are the men who make the decisions about media buying.

The blame for this situation does not rest with the agencies. It rests with the broadcasters. WE are the ones who forced the agencies to do so. WE are the ones who only a few short years ago hired as salesmen con-men and charlatans who went out to “get that sale at any cost.”

To the credit of most broadcasters, the past few years have brought about marked improvement in the quality of radio salesmen. But there are still a few ballyhoo people left in responsible sales positions.

The men I’m talking about are the glib, fast-talking boys who think only on terms of that fast buck. In the end, they finally overreach themselves; their reputations become known, and they are inevitably put aside.

ABC Radio has always prided itself in its sales force. We hire pitchmen, yes. Successful radio salesmen must be good pitchmen. But they must pitch their product with honesty and integrity. There is no need for radio to use ballyhoo and fast talk as sales weapons.

If proof is required that advertisers know the strength of radio, let’s examine our own books.

Who is buying network radio today? The major companies—the Bristol Myers, the Liggett & Myers, the Mennens, the R. J. Reynolds, the Rexalls, the General Motors. These are just a few of the top advertisers on Why are they buying network radio? First, because they are fully aware of this medium’s reach. Radio buying has undergone a vast and important change during the past year-and-a-half. Courageous advertisers have stopped buying according to outmoded ratings systems and have taken an educated second look at radio — its specific audience, its potential reach and its cost. Their success stories have paved the way for other advertisers to follow in their footsteps.

Second, for the first time in the history of network radio, a new and more realistic ratings service has come along to challenge what up ’till now has been network radio’s only continuing measurement service. Those advertisers, then, that still buy for the numbers can — for the first time on a regular basis — learn exactly where their money will be going, where their messages are being heard and the buying plans of this audience.

And third, radio is being bought because today’s radio salesmen are presenting themselves — and, therefore, all of the radio industry — in a new and more respected light. Our policy here has been — and is — to hire experienced, down-to-earth media men as salesmen.

If radio is to maintain the high esteem broadcasters wish it to, then the broadcasters must wash their hands of the few remaining charlatans. This policy has worked for us. It can for any network — for any station — that has an honest product to sell.

WHO GREW THE MOST?

 These are only three reasons why the facts about network radio have changed importantly during the last twelve months.

At that time, for example, SIX 50-THOUSAND WATT STATIONS found it made the best broadcasting and business sense to join the ABC Radio Network:

WCTA, Corpus Christi

WHAS, Louisville

WHAM, Rochester

WRAK, Sacramento

KWKH, Shreveport

WWVA, Wheeling

Three of these stations came to us directly from other network affiliations. Three more had dropped other network affiliations to become independent and then joined ABC Radio. Their reasons?

“... we have been impressed by the aggressive fashion in which ABC administers its network. This coincides with our strong convictions about Radio as an important medium to the people.”

That statement by WHAS Management is typical.

ABC RADIO GREW THE MOST IN NEW STATIONS, NEW PROGRAMMING and NEW ADVERTISERS!

Our other affiliates haven't stood still either. Forty-three percent of them effected power increases during 1962, furthering their coverage and competitive effectiveness. That's why advertisers on the ABC Radio Network were able to conclude a 26 or 52-week campaign with considerably more than they started! Six months from now these facts, as the facts about network radio, will have changed because our stations will have grown still more. And that's a promise!

But there's more to the story, such as our unmatched news coverage (we can document it), our new programming (Tom Harmon and Bob Considine, for example) and the many new advertisers who have found they can buy both quality and service economically on the ABC Radio Network—and there more than anywhere else.

Sindlinger Research and Audience Measurement is another example of our growth. We inaugurated the service to measure all radio so that realistic figures might be available for out-of-home listening to specific programming. Knowing that people were there—in total—didn't seem quite satisfactory by itself.

What it all means is simply: if you have not re-evaluated radio networks within the last twelve months, you will find that the facts about network radio have changed considerably!

3 Big A's for Network Radio: Affiliates; Audiences; Advertisers

By ARTHUR HULL
HAYES
President
CBS Radio

EVEN the most objective observer of network radio today must conclude that a distinct change in its fortunes is under way. One has only to look at three key areas: Affiliates; Audiences; and Advertisers.

In each of these "A's," network radio clearly is on the rise, after a period of doldrums.

Let's take them in order. Affiliates come first because a network cannot exist without them. While I cannot speak for other networks, we at CBS Radio have noticed a good deal of new interest among stations across the country in a network affiliation. The number of station inquiries crossing my desk keeps increasing. Another evidence: CBS Radio affiliated station clearances for network programs are at an all-time high.

What accounts for all this? We believe the answer is to be found in the second "A"—the audience. The U.S. radio audience has changed, or evolved, in its radio tastes and needs over the last years. And a radio network, such as ours, is uniquely able to satisfy those needs.

The appetite for radio news and information of all kinds is very great. This coincides with a similar change in reading habits as well. The American Library Association recently reported that Americans are "reading more seriously and are more concerned with domestic politics and the role of the United States in World affairs." Non-fiction book sales have never been higher.

In light of this, it's not surprising that radio stations which emphasize news, information, local politics and related subjects are rapidly increasing in audience. (Increases like 50% at some of our owned stations.)

And so this program approach is on the upswing, as a survey of U.S. radio programming, 1960-1961, has revealed. More than one quarter of the 712 stations surveyed said that they had changed program policy. And the most statistically significant changes involved those stations previously classified as "Top Tune" and "Adult."

Over 80% of the Top Tune stations said that they had changed FROM this category. Only 20.8% changed TO it. And in Adult radio, while 18.0% of the stations changed away from it, 32.8% changed TO it. Moreover, 42.4% of the stations already carrying news and talk increased this programming, while .4% decreased it.

I think the picture is plain. Audiences want "reality programming" from radio—an increased understanding of the world around us. Our network, for one, and radio in general, as indicated above, have been responsive to this public interest. And when both radio and its audiences are moving in the same direction, the third "A," advertisers, cannot afford to be far behind! So, speaking again for the network I'm familiar with, our sales picture has seldom been brighter in recent years than in the first quarter of 1963. This quarter was not only well ahead of the comparable 1962 quarter, it also topped the last quarter of '62. In other words, the trend is up.

The three "A's" — Affiliates, Audiences, Advertisers—are the cornerstones on which network radio must stand or fall. On the basis of the response from all three today, I would say our report card needs straight A's!

Small-Market Radio Areas Hold Big National Advertising $

By
SIDNEY J. WOLF
President
Keystone
Broadcasting System

RADIO'S successes and its impact continue to be dramatic . . . yet it still is a medium that is taken for granted by many of its own devotees, stations and advertisers alike. Almost 95 million people tune to radio at least once a day. Probably 60 million of these individuals are tuned daily to one of our station affiliates in the national link of 1,130 facilities affiliated with us.

A. C. Nielsen projections estimate that Keystone affiliates reach 23 million homes every day, and it's reasonable to assume there are three persons for every home, particularly in the small-town and rural markets.

These areas are the prime C and D counties—the counties which account for about 30% of the entire national population and of the dollars spent. We have an imposing national reach of 83%, going into more than eight in every 10 of the 3,000-plus U.S. counties. In the smaller counties—the C counties with from 30,000 to 100,000 people and the D counties with fewer than 30,000—we cover, respectively, 80% and 88% of the homes.

C and D counties and markets, unfortunately, constitute one of the most neglected areas of advertising activity by the national advertiser. Yet the sales appeal of the small-town and rural station is well-known to local businessmen and community advertisers. About eight in every 10 dollars spent on these stations is invested by businessmen who know exactly what they're getting. They live in the community, know the pull-in power of the individual station, set a sales pace that their big-brother advertisers in major market centers should follow. These local advertisers get day-to-day, measurable response from their radio advertising.

Many national advertisers use this small-market tactic of penetration and selling. They have benefited greatly, and have gotten tangible evidence of radio's sales impact. A number of national campaigns on Keystone have tied-in with local retailers or distributors or dealers in gaining further local-level sales proof of radio's results. In many instances, a local retailer will match the dollar amount invested by the national advertiser. In still other cases, the local advertiser will out-spend the national advertiser in pushing the same effort.

In one of our campaigns, which was also carried by the four wired networks, the KBS affiliates contributed more tie-in spots than did the affiliates of ALL the other four networks, this despite the fact that our stations in the schedule were restricted to the 200 markets beyond the influence of the 1,200 radio stations comprising the four wired networks.

Radio is on the rise despite an industry year in which many spokesmen talked only of gloom and doom. In the last six months of 1962, our key executives have seen a terrific resurgence in interest as well as in action.

This interest, of course, is reflected in buying patterns sanctioned by the management of advertiser companies. Most of the interest generated is directed to our total network, but many new advertisers are indicating buying intention for our sub-networks as well—our Farm Network of 865 radio stations, the Negro Network of 360 affiliates and the College Network of 355 stations.

'A Service to Indie Stations' Is Radio's True Role Today

By
ROBERT F.
HURLEIGH
President
Mutual Broadcasting System

ON June 2, 1957, the Mutual Broadcasting System made a clean break with traditional network programming. Starting that day, after taking a long, hard look at the changing economics and new requirements of advertisers, we became "a service to independent stations"—a program service to our more than 500 affiliates on a continuous, 18-hour a day basis, seven days a week—a program service with a greater emphasis on news, special events, and features of various nature.

That this new programming concept has succeeded is demonstrated by the clearances we receive from affiliated stations for advertisers, which in turn have resulted in a profit to the network for the first time in 10 years.

Today, there are continuing numerous indications that radio advertising is becoming healthier. We are now far beyond the stage when advertisers would select a program just because they liked it themselves. Today, astute sponsors are choosing programs because they reach, please, and render a service to a specific audience representing a customer market, and thereby provide the highest possible sales returns per dollar expended.

Research continues as an important factor in helping radio advertising to produce greater sales response, although we have become increasingly aware that radio needs a more effective, universal, impartial standard of measurement of potential audiences of stations and networks.

With 183 million radio sets in use in 1962, and almost 30 million sold every year, four out of five of which are self-powered, or car radios, it is obvious that more adequate listening measurements should be developed to give advertisers a true picture of radio's size.

I would like to propose that the RAB—the Radio Advertising Bureau—consider the possibility of meeting with the proper people in the major rating services in an attempt to clarify why there are differences and where these differences occur. I suggest RAB because it is a "radio only" organization and has accomplished much in the cause of radio. If we could have a group of station owners appointed to meet with the executives of the rating services on an informational basis—to be able to present to the radio industry a report which could be an advisor on the use of the different surveys—much would be accomplished.

Reviewing radio's growth in 1962—especially Mutual's—we become more aware of the tremendous effect of its prevalence in American life today. We knew that a new formula for network programming was needed—its format had to change since television became the glamor medium. We concluded that radio network's true role today is as a service organization, bringing to its affiliates news, discussion, commentary, public affairs and special events programming which individual stations cannot develop simply because they do not have the resources and facilities with which to do so.

We take it as a compliment to our foresight that our competitors have followed our lead in this news concept of cross-country broadcasting.

Closing the 'Measuring Gap' To Reflect Radio's True Growth

By
WILLIAM K.
McDANIEL
Executive V.P.
NBC Radio Network

In the annals of radio history, I think that 1962 will be remembered as the year the tide was turned in the campaign to measure the total radio audience. We have long suspected that we are being short-changed by outmoded circulation measurement techniques which do not reflect total listening. Important strides are now being taken to correct this gap.

Paradoxically, this weakness in measurement is a result of radio's lusty growth, for every hour approximately 2,700 new radios are purchased. Every four seconds, three radios are bought. Annually some 25 million new radios are sold.

This rate of growth is gratifying. But at the same time it is horrifying. Because it is audience growth that is not adequately measured.

Today the country has some 183 million radio sets. There are about as many radios in the country as there are people. The age of individual listening is here. And therein lies the problem.

Three-quarters of radio sets purchased today are self-powered. They are in automobiles. They are in shirt pockets. They move. They do not stand still. They do not plug into the wall.

Thus they cannot be measured by stationary mechanical devices. Such mechanical measurement was for years a reliable indication of our circulation. But the great bulk of today's listening—and the growing part—is pretty much unmeasured. This is a tremendous handicap to all of us.

NBC Radio has been watching this trend for years. Accordingly, in the fall of 1961, we were the first network to take positive action, commissioning a research organization to undertake a pilot study. This study was an encouraging indication of the tremendous size of the self-powered radio audience. We have since met with officials of other research companies, discussing development of more effective measurement methods.

There is no doubt that the audience with car and portable radios is huge. For example, we have indications that, on a Sunday afternoon, it is nearly double the audience listening to plug-in sets.

Radio manufacturers have been most ingenious in producing multi-millions of auto and miniature radios. We must apply a similar ingenuity in finding methods to measure the circulation they represent.

Over the past few years the techniques of buying and selling advertising media have been developed to a highly scientific degree. The "emotional buy" still occurs but the great majority of media selections are made on the basis of thorough analyses of media characteristics as they fit the advertising requirements of a particular product.

It therefore becomes the obligation of the seller to provide the buyer with as complete an analysis of his medium as possible. Unfortunately, the ideal measurement situation does not exist for network radio. You do not have to look very far or very often to realize that automobile radios and self-powered radios account for the bulk of total radio listening. Efforts are being made to accomplish this total measurement but there is great room for improvement. This, unfortunately, is a problem which the whole broadcast industry must face.

Audience Action Through 'Focal Point' Programming

By
DONALD H. MCGANNON
President
Westinghouse
Broadcasting Co.

THROUGHOUT the country, the citizen sees state, town and city governments struggling to cope with the huge problems of communities in transition. The needs of a growing population are coupled with extensive demands for new public services.

Time has shown that these twentieth century community crises cannot be adequately handled in a nineteenth century way. You might say that our community problems have outgrown the ability of our institutions to handle them.

Along with the rapidly multiplying complexities of our civic lives, there has burgeoned a widespread but very natural voter apathy. Many citizens who once possessed semblances of civic pride have joined the parade of the pessimists chanting, "You can't fight City Hall."

At the nucleus of this attitude is a serious absence of public understanding. In spite of the numerous editorials, documentaries, special programs and community projects initiated and presented by radio and television stations, it is still apparent that many citizens in their communities do not comprehend the real causes of their troubles or the possible remedies.

To communicate better the causes and remedies, over two years ago we initiated a programming project at our Baltimore station (WJZ-TV) called "Focal Point." In great detail, the station has examined on a continuing basis Baltimore's civic problems: urban renewal, taxes, police administration park facilities, racial problems, to mention a few. In Boston, on WBZ radio and TV, the "Focal Point" concept is now exploring "Government 1963," local and state, in the areas of morality, modernization and manpower.

In both Boston and Baltimore, "Focal Point" focuses on critical community problems, seeking to diagnose the basic issues involved and to present workable solutions. Most importantly, the concept is designed to arouse public opinion and to bring that opinion to bear in full force on those responsible for providing remedies.

"Focal Point" aims to marshal all the forces of mass communications, including the press, on a set of particular problems throughout an entire year. If this were all there was to it, the experiment could fail. After all, for years now, enlightened pressmen and broadcasters have expended time and talent to explain and meet civic crises. The mass media have had to achieve continuing significant results, without one important, absent ingredient—audience action.

With this in mind, the WBC stations have purposely designed "Focal Point" to move citizens to communicate their definite recommendations to their Councilman, Alderman, Selectman, Representative or Senator; to encourage citizen participation in hearings on proposed legislation; to generate active party participation; to inspire active interest in young people.

It is our hope that this concept of public action activated by local stations and coordinated with the press will spread across the country and at the very least result in renewed citizen response. Audience action, even in minimum proportions, is an important weapon in surmounting the public apathy that endangers our expanding communities.

We've Never Sold
 A Samovar

Every day we sell everything from baby beds to life insurance. But, in forty years of Balaban broadcasting, WIL has never sold a samovar. Not that WIL couldn't. It's just that the samovar market has never warranted the kind of coverage WIL gives. So, if you're in baby beds, or cars, or insurance, or furniture, or beer, or anything else that requires reaching lots of people at rock bottom cost per—your advertising cup of tea is WIL. If you're in Samovars, try Radio Moscow.

AN ANNUAL EDITION gives us opportunity to reflect over the past year which has seen us gain a dominance never before achieved in the Great Northeast.

For example, Nielsen credits our 50 thousand watts with more counties covered than any other station in the Albany-Schenectady-Troy market. And it's always gratifying to see the daily mail response from Canadians who tune 1540 for its exciting programming . . . not to mention the frequent overseas correspondence received.

Pulse also gives our powerhouse a satisfying dominance in all time periods . . . listeners who have come to depend on Big Radio for entertainment and service unmatched in the four counties surveyed.

Hooper covers the three metropolitan counties which total the 31st retail spending market . . . and again it's the same story, complete dominance.

We like to remember that this dominance is made up of people . . . people who prefer us as their daily companions . . . people who respond to our efforts and make them worthwhile. There were the 8,962 who responded to our Prayer for Peace telegram sent to the President . . . the hundreds who sent Christmas cards to a cancer stricken five year old boy in October . . . and the thousands who watch our personality basketball team raise charity monies in its 35 game schedule. As any progressive broadcaster we could go on and on.

Naturally, much effort, time and funds have been expended in creating our dominance, but as one year passes into another, we're proud of our past record at WPTR and plan to perpetuate it far into the future.

IN 1962
2<sup>1</sup>/<sub>4</sub> BILLION DOLLARS
WAS SPENT BY THE
VITAL NEGRO COMMUNITY
OF GREATER NEW YORK

And the figures are getting bigger every year. One out of every nine citizens of this metropolis is a member of the Negro Community. Not only are their numbers increasing, but so are their needs and wants. No advertiser who wishes to reach the entire market of Greater New York can overlook this enormous potential!

AND NO ADVERTISER CAN OVERLOOK RADIO STATION WLIB

WLIB reaches more of this vital Community than any other Negro station in the market. In every Negro Pulse taken since 1955 it has been overwhelmingly first.

THE LATEST NEGRO 7 COUNTY PULSE GAVE WLIB 25 out of 26 HALF-HOUR FIRSTS AND IT WAS TIED FOR FIRST IN THE 26TH.

No other radio station in the history of New York has ever approached this kind of dominance over its competitive facilities. It's just one of the reasons why it often has more national advertisers than all other Negro stations in the market combined.

If you want more of this market, the station to see is WLIB.

Music is also the entree to a big, vital and well-defined segment of the New York market: the 1,214,000 above-average families who depend on WQXR for fine music and The New York Times news. And who respond like angels to quality advertising on WQXR. Each year, for more than 400 advertisers, the distinctive voice of WQXR speaks with remarkable effectiveness in a marketplace where many voices are lost.

We've Never Sold A Windmill

No matter what some of our more zealous advertisers might tell you—K-BOX has not sold everything under the sun.

Take windmills for example. To our best recollection, we've never in forty years of Balaban broadcasting, sold one. Not that K-BOX couldn't, understand. It's just that the windmill market doesn't warrant the kind of coverage K-BOX delivers.

If yours is a product that requires you to reach lots of people—yet profit demands you reach them at the lowest cost per thousand—the buy-for you is K-BOX.

If you're in windmills, you might try Radio
 Amsterdam.

Canadian Broadcasting in '62

A Difficult but Rewarding Year

By
JULES LAROCHELLE
Radio-TV Daily
Canadian Bureau

THE Canadian broadcasting industry in 1962 continued to enjoy favorable business. Further extension of coverage took place and recent official Bureau of Statistics figures indicated that almost 87 per cent of Canadian households had television receiving sets during 1962, compared with 84.2 per cent in 1961, while 96.1 per cent of Canadian households had radios, virtually unchanged from the preceding year.

However, there were a number of developments in the broadcasting industry that made 1962 a difficult year.

TV advertising again showed a substantial increase. Radio advertising also recorded gains, but to lesser extent. However, the revenue dollar was more widely spread than ever before, especially in TV as the independently owned Canadian Television Network, operated full blast during the whole year, thus giving the publicly-owned Canadian Broadcasting Corporation a stiff battle.

According to estimates released in late 1962 by the commercial publishing firm of Maclean-Hunter and analyzed by the Television Bureau of Advertising of Canada, TV showed greater increase in net advertising revenues than any other media.

Television moved ahead with an 18.2 per cent gain. Radio, meanwhile had a gain of 3.6 per cent. The report noted that TV is boosting Canadian total advertising expenditures close to the relative level of U. S. expenditures.

During the year, the CBC continued to dominate the industry, but the corporation often found itself in a real battle—mainly because the privately owned CTV Network was fully operative. The biggest public hassle of the year was over televising of Canada's classic football game — the Grey Cup contest between the leading professional football teams of the Eastern and Western conferences. CTV had the telecast rights but not the network for a full national coverage. The Board of Broadcast Governors ordered the CBC to carry the CTV's Grey Cup telecast, complete with commercials. The CBC balked, claiming that the order would reduce it to the status of a sales tool of the private network. An acceptable solution to all concerned was found—telecasting the game with short "acknowledgment" messages.

The CBC during the year consolidated its radio broadcasting division. A single English-language radio network came into being, as the corporation's CBC Radio Network replaced both the former Trans Canada and Dominion radio networks. The new network comprising all CBC-owned stations along with repeaters and affiliated private stations provides wider national radio service to more Canadian communities than ever before.

The question of color TV for Canada again was fairly widely discussed during the year. Various segments of the industry remained divided on the question. Most Canadian TV receiver manufacturers came out in favor of color TV — immediately. However, in the broadcast section, the feeling was not as decisive. Some independent TV station operators favored almost immediate color TV, but members of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters were reported divided. CBC president Alphonse Ouimet and CTV president Spencer Caldwell favored a go-slow approach.
