Fiber of Life, Breath of Thrilling Adventure That Is Real—of Such Stuff Is the Dramatic Technique of Elsie Hitz, Formerly of Cleveland, Now of Paradise

Elsie as she may be seen any morning taking her small daughter for a walk in the park. Motherhood, she says, has brought out the acme of her dramatic technique

By Alice Pegg

IS SHE A REAL, a human flesh and blood woman, or is she a magic voice—an ethereal, providently-endowed organ for phrasing words?

This is a quandary which has puzzled radio audiences ever since chain broadcasting was an innovation. For that was when Elsie Hitz first began to cast a spell with the marked wizardry of her voice.

It is true that Elsie's voice is of a richness particularly its own. But dominating that fact is the realization that she is a real flesh-and-blood woman, a very feminine young lady, and one of those dynamic persons who wouldn't for a minute permit her physical charm to become secondary to her dramatic equipment. Elsie's voice, to put first things first, is just a Thespian tool to be used on occasion—whereas her personal characteristics are worn constantly. And it is by these she would have you know her.

The invisibility which, unfortunately, is a rapidly waning shortcoming of radio entertainment, lends elaboration to the illusion that Elsie is just a phantom voice. But those who know her are not confused by the issue. To them she is the vivid, startling heroine of a dozen personal experiences which match the situations prepared for the roles which she enacts.

Carl Lyndon Bixby, author of the Dangerous Paradise sketches in which Elsie is featured with Nick Dawson, for many months has been fashioning his episodes around actual or nearly parallel adventures experienced by his two leading players.

This fact eliminates any conjecture about magic from the skill of Miss Hitz. True, her rare voice is a handy vehicle, but it only conveys the naturalness which she puts into her work.

Outstanding about Elsie Hitz is the fact that while she is theatrically trained, she never is theatrical. Underplaying her roles has taught her the modulation which is her chief attraction, and is the leash which forever has kept her from going dramatic.

In some stars this is highly developed microphone technique, but in this stage-trained Cleveland girl it is nature asserting itself with the aid of a well-balanced sense of proportion. To her, to be natural is instinctive—and it is by being natural that she has endeared a continent to her thoroughly typical art.

SHE was born in the Ohio metropolis on July 21, 1902, so she has reached her mature skill by progressive stages, interlarding her dramatic experiences with that most exciting of all feminine adventures, matrimony, and its culminating thrill, maternity. Her husband, Jack Welch, is of the commercial world, and so far they have no career plans for their only daughter. Elsie, herself, will carry on just so long as audiences continue to acclaim her.

Most life stories are humdrum. But that's not so of Elsie Hitz'. What makes her story so well worth telling is the fact that little suspected facts creep in about her that completely tear down the veil of obscurity and disclose her as some one you've known right along, theoretically, without realizing it.

For instance, her first radio appearance, which was in the original microphone presentations of Show Boat. She did the part of Magnolia and doubtless there still are listeners who will recall that at the time they wondered who the girl was with that compelling voice.

Others will recall the leading woman in such stage successes as The Butter and Egg Man; The Spider; The Cat and the Canary; Penrod and many others, and when they learn that it was Elsie Hitz, exclaim: "Is that who that was? No wonder we remember her so vividly. I didn't have any idea it was the same person who has made such a success in radio."

AND until she became known in The Magic Voice over the CBS network and later in Dangerous Paradise by way of NBC, she figured prominently, but more or less anonymously, in such radio features as the True Story Hour; The Shadow; Arabesque; Love Stories; American School of the Air and other programs.

The illusion bred of radio somehow presents Miss Hitz as the striding, masculine type of woman. On the contrary, she is as slight as a reed, weighing only 107 pounds. She is five feet, three and one-half inches tall and is of the type of beauty generally connected with the light brown hair and deep brown eyes combination.

Broadway knew her at 16, and she has been an important figure there for the succeeding years of her life. One of her few departures from the Manhattan scene was to play 30 weeks with a Boston stock company, and there were occasional tours with road shows.

But she has rejected completely the New York complex. She is of no place so far as her attitude toward her roles is concerned. And that of itself has been an invaluable aid in adapting herself to her tremendous variety of parts.

From the standpoint of those who work with her and the man who currently writes her scripts, she is the epitome of desirable material. By virtue of her beautifully rounded career and her fine flair for repression she literally writes herself into any continuities in which she is to figure.

No, Elsie Hitz is no phantom. She is a virile, important person, and the only thing about her which even suggests the word "dream," is that she is the answer to any director's or script-writer's dream.

Elsie Hitz may be heard every Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 7:45 p. m. EST (6:45 CST) over an Eastern and Midwestern NBC-WJZ network in the serial drama, Dangerous Paradise.

Radioin's Jess as Easy as Thet!

By Pat Buttram
(WLS' Homespun Philosopher)

A LITTLE more than a year ago I thought that I knowed about as much radio as anybody but after perusing with the innards uv it fer a spell I found out I didn't even know how to spell it. Now all you folks that want to git the real inside dope on a first-yearer's radio work you will do well to read this column (in fact, you've done pretty well to get this fer).

Back when I wuz a little youngun' runnin' round in the hills uv Winston County, Alabama (the fairest dimple on America's cheek), I used to call hogs a bit. I wuzn't so big so I couldn't holler very loud but I had a brother thet couldn't holler a-tall.

Being as how my Pa wuz the preacher, every time they had a church function er play they allus had to put me in hit 'cause my Pa wuz preacher an' he wuz boss.

Well, I got enough experience there to learn how to dodge anything frum a tomat to dead cat, an' how to stumble on an' off the stage, but hit wuzn't till nigh on three years that my first real stage appearance wuz.

I went over to B'ham (short fer Birmingham) to git a little book larning at B'ham Southern College and fer some reason er other I jined the dramatic club. (Maybe hit wuz because ye had to have a few extra credits.)

Anyway when they had a play they needed somebody to stand up an' look dumb an' fer some reason er other, they shoved me in there, and then on top uv that somebody invented the idee uv me a-makin' a curtain speech. I think the idee wuz to put me out there first so them as had something to throw could git a good target before the rest come out.

But then hit happened. One night after the show they said that somebody wuz wantin' to see me an' I jest figgered hit wuz some feller thet didn't git a good fair throw at me on the stage an' come back to do the job right, but it wuz Steve Cisler, manager uv one uv the radio stations there. He wanted me to talk on the air.

I told him I'd as soon talk there as anywhere and asked him when to start.

And he said Saddidy. When Saddidy come I wuz there and announced the Barn Dance fer a couple uv hours. We got a couple uv letters about it, something unheard uv down there, so they figgered I wuz a success.

Well, I jess played fer a month er two and then one day I found out that they actually paid money fer thet stuff! I couldn't figger out why (and still can't).

Well, fer about six er seven months I plugged along at WSGN, a little 100-watt station, and Steve used to tell me 'bout Chicago and the folks up there and so one day he decided he'd come up fer a visit to the Fair and as I allus had a hankerin' to see the Statue uv Liberty I come along too. (I didn't find out till I got here that hit wuz in Los Angeles. It wuz Jack Holden told me).

Well, after appearin' 'round here fer a week er two as guest artist an' pernouncer on one program an' tother, they finally let me in th' family an'—well—here I am . . . And I reckon I'm about the luckiest feller in th' world to be here.

In case any uv ye don't know it we also puts on a little tad uv a program every mornin' at 6:45 a. m. in Chicago. Thet's 7:45 o'clock fer you slickers down East. So long.

ONE KNIGHT OFF

Away from the Studios, Raymond Knight Tries to Stay as Close as Possible to the Atmosphere Surrounding His Art. Read His Own Story of How He Does It

By Raymond Knight

IT HAS BEEN rumored persistently among radio listeners that I am one of the original Mystic Knights of the Sea, but there is no more mystery about me than there is about a bathing beauty's silhouette.

I am addressed properly by my inferiors as Mr. Knight, which doubtless has been perverted to Mystic Knight—and accounts for the false rumors. Neither shall I further be confused as the name figure in the Knight Life of the Gods, another fallacy which has caused me untold mental anguish.

Nor yet have I ever had the distinction of being formally knighted. I know that formula too well. Some distinguished sovereign lays a sword uncomfortably close to your neck and says: "Be Knighted, Sir Raymond."

And while I may be benighted in my boyish way, I don't want the fact proclaimed before an audience by some top-heavy guy in ermine who looks like a Soglow character.

I am something of a character in my own right—

Ray Knight's bed-room is an exact reproduction of the stage in a Radio City studio. Smedley, his butler, is seen awakening the Master on the ground floor, and the hustle is next door in the Phoenix Corset, Brassiere and Bustle Shop, Inc.

It is extremely important to the creative mind that it be not disturbed by the noises of the great city, and so I ascend in the elevator to Airycastle (as I call my penthouse). I hear the clamor gradually growing fainter and fainter until it disappears altogether. (This clamor, by the way, must not be confused with a man who digs clams at low tide.)

AS I reach the top of the Chrysler Tower where Airycastle is, I nod goodbye to Walter P. Chrysler—who usually runs me up—and enter the doors of my little retreat. In honor of this my private bugler blows retreat, and Smedley comes forward to relieve me of my fur-lined coat. Smedley is my faithful old retainer who has been with me longer than any other of the servants. I can't remember just how long, but it must be at least six months. His real name is Herman; however, I call him Smedley because he is a butler.

I shall now briefly describe Airycastle, as one's surroundings have a definite effect upon one when one does creative work. Or two for that matter.

The entire design of my home is planned to put me into a mood to write radio programs, and therefore each room is faithfully copied from various rooms and studios at Radio City. When I am home, I am really living in an atmosphere of Radio, and not for a single moment am I away from my inspiration. You will see how carefully it has been planned from the following description:

THE foyer, which is the first room encountered as you stumble over the elevator door, is done in the manner of an NBC reception hall. As I enter, an ex-Follies beauty—whom I have trained myself—looks at me coldly and says "Whom did you wish to see?" I laughingly explain that I live there, whereupon she resumes polishing her nails. Smedley and I smile at each other covertly, and I am right at home.

From the foyer I go into the music room which is a faithful copy of the music library at NBC. All my music is filed on shelves about the walls, and a grand piano at one side is tastefully covered with several overcoats and hats and a varied collection of briefcases, gloves and sheet music.

Usually I require a few moments of relaxation, so I summon Smedley and ask him for a piece of music which fits my mood. If, for example, it is a bit of Brahms, I say "Brahms," whereupon, after an hour's search through the "X's," Smedley produces a Tchaikowsky overture. This is played on the piano by one of my staff of musicians who is always standing by ready to go on at a moment's notice.

Beyond is the huge living-room which is an exact reproduction of Studio 8 H, at Radio City. As I wander into this theater-like place, I am immediately filled with a tremendous desire to set down on paper some great radio program. Rushing to (Continued on Page 28) so much so, in fact, that I notice among my mail (which during the silly season, sometimes reaches the magnificent total of a dozen letters a day), a demand from RADIO GUIDE editors that I pen them a little something about my achievements in the world of So-Watts and Watts It To You.

AND SO, my dear, that is how I came to put the pencil to paper and tell you the fascinating story of how I actually set about to create all the amazing things you hear on the air which come from my pen. I am going to tell you all the little things which are involved in the enthralling process of Writing for the Radio, as we who are on the inside call it.

To begin with, I live in a penthouse, far above the hustle and bustle of the city streets. The hustle is an Elmer J. Hustle who has a plumbing establishment

Stars on a Busman's Holiday

TAPERING off after attending a series of gay and brilliant soirees staged by the kings and queens of the radio world, your fearless correspondent figuratively feels like a cat that has prowled all through the night. Always a somewhat credulous soul, I had been beguiled out of peaceful serenity into a hectic whirl of social activity that has left me watery-eyed, and with a head that feels like a flaming sword. But the things I saw—and the people I met!

Remember the story of the bus driver in London, who hadn't had a day off in twenty-five years? And when he did take that one day's holiday, he spent his time—not seeing shows, playing cards, taking a picnic in the country, not staying in bed to catch up with rest—not partaking of any of the usual holiday occupations. He spent the day riding around the city as a passenger in a bus! Well, I've been with the stars, who entertain in much the same way that that bus driver took his holiday. Here are the facts:

All invitations to the social affairs of etherdom's Four Hundred I cheerfully accepted and nobly answered. And life at the moment offers nothing sweeter than the solid comfort of a parlor easy chair far removed from the gay fanfare of excitement, the lights, the flowers, the caviar and the champagne of radio's hospitable stars.

Lest the reader gather an erroneous impression, however, the writer hastens to add that while the average radioite's party is a vivid and sophisticated affair

When Stars of the Air Entertain Their Friends, What Do You Think They Do? Here Is the Intimate Story of Many of Your Favorites at Play

By Jack Banner

the atmosphere is always permeated with an aura of good taste that is strikingly unlike the whoopee parties reputedly staged by their gilded brothers and sisters in Hollywood. For the benefit of those who may be curious as to what occurs when the radioites go a-partying, the past fortnight's social activities of certain of the stars are chronicled herein.

TO absorb readily the radio-star party atmosphere one should have his baptism in one of those riotous Joe Cook soirees at the comedian's suburban home. Sleepless Hollow, at Lake Hopatcong, New Jersey.

Joe's weirdly-equipped domicile is no museum of antiques, but for antics it knows no parallel. Joe winds up by revealing himself as the most genial of hosts, but he starts as though the plot were to discourage thoroughly any plan to make your visits a habit. Before you've departed, he's made it clear that he wants you to come again, and every guest leaves wondering how soon he can arrange another call. But between the arrival and the adieu, a world of adventure awaits the uninitiated.

The visitor is greeted at the door by the most unorthodox of butlers. He is the essence of dignity in appearance, but his action in tossing your hat and coat into a heap in the nearest corner somewhat takes the edge off his formality.

Joe Cook's butler will toss guests' hats and coats into a corner—and consternation will ride high until the rest of Joe's bag of tricks has been exhibited

If you have a lady with you and one of the butlers doesn't happen to approve of her, he is quite within the rights vested in him by Cook when he asks pointblank and without a trace of hesitancy, "Hi, kid. Where did you get the old battle-axe? She isn't a marker to the blonde you had down last week."

Of course if the lady with you happens to be your wife and you've just been telling her this is your first visit to Joe's place, you are left to your own devices. The frank butler will be of no assistance in untangling your domestic problem. Of course after you've been there a while the order of events will reveal that it was all a gag.

BUT if Joe is eccentric about the fittings of his home—the non-usable lighters, the unattached lamps, the convex golf green which permits even the tyro a hole-in-one, and the thousand other eccentric devices for which Sleepless Hollow is famous—eating at the Hollow is a genuine rite.

On every menu is barbecued chicken—fowl that actually have been spitted over a pit, and which reach the table garnished with a concoction that comes under the generic term of sauce. It should have a classification all its own, as it is too delectable to be confused with any other mixture of similar description. It is prepared by Joe himself, from a recipe which proves that Joe is Cook in more than name only.

Mike's Place—reached by a circuitous underground route from Joe Cook's house, really in the back yard. It has been described as "an explosion of the five-and-ten"

When Joe Cook, Bea Lillie, the Jack Bennys, the Paul Whitemans, Burns and Allen and Scores of Others Foregather for An Evening's Fun—Do They Get as Far Away from Their Air Occupations as Possible?—Or Do They Carry on with What They Send Over the Air to Their Millions of Listeners?

AFTER a revelation of some of the eerie domestic contrivances, Joe's next inclination is to display to guests the "evil" resorts maintained in Hopatcong. One of these, a well-simulated dive operated by Mike, is reached by a tortuous route which includes trips through subways, down alleys, across lots and via divers sharp corners. Later knowledge discloses that it is right in the Cook back yard, but taking you by the seemingly sinister path is just another of the Cook conceits.

Mike's is, for all the world, the replica of some Parisian Apache rendezvous. Its ornamentation is unique to say the least, the ceiling of the crowded bar-room looking like the aftermath of a terrific explosion in a dime store.

Ben Bernie has a trumpeter on hand to welcome with fanfare each new arrival to his parties

And then as though Mike's were a bit too formal and polite, Joe concludes with a surreptitious sortie to Dutch's place. This obviously inelegant spot is conspicuous for its assortment of beer steins of every size, description and point of origin, suspended from every available point. In brief, it is a hangout for mugs.

IN contrast to the hilarity of Sleepless Hollow is the sharply sophisticated atmosphere which prevails in the home of Bea Lillie. In her smart manage the air fairly crackles, and there is an almost stifling aura of intelligence. But it is intellect tempered with the modern touch, a bright wit which scathes but leaves no blisters.

The salon of the Victorian era has been replaced by the veritable saloon of the 19th Century—but the British peeress seems to have been able to capture the spirit of her late husband's forebears, and the rowdy phase of current existence has not found its way into her domestic existence.

Aunty Bea, as she is known to intimates, conducts the modern equivalent of a salon, and if you are fortunate enough to be asked up to one of her buffet suppers, you'll meet about as brilliant a group of folks as ever have been assembled under one roof.

Miss Lillie's parties always begin about ten o'clock in the evening; she never gets up until noon, and that puts her a little behind time. But this doesn't bother her. Other folks partake of their evening meal around six or seven, so she has hers at about ten. Besides, she never likes to eat before a broadcast . . . you know, her liver or something, if you know what I mean—and—I think you do.

I went up to Bea's apartment on East End Avenue the other evening. Her guests were gathered in a big living-room with tremendous bay windows which overlook the East River. The room is flamboyantly set with crimson and brown furniture . . . full of big, soft chairs . . . the kind from which, once you sink into them, you never want to arise.

With the opening of the door sophistication literally grips you amid such luminaries as Alex Woolcott, Noel Coward, composer Arthur Schwartz and lyricist Howard Dietz and their wives, the Marc Connellys, Ben Hecht, Charley MacArthur and his Mrs. (she's Helen Hayes of the stage and screen), the Cole Porters, Roland Young, Jack Benny and his frau, Mary Livingstone; Hope Williams, Dwight Fiske, George Kaufman and Osgood Perkins . . . just to name a few.

We got there just as Bea, with a mock gesture, pointed the way to the dining room where the buffet was set. The table could be seen loaded with every manner of sandwich, whole turkeys and hams, hot-dogs, endives with gorgonzola cheese; and dominating everything was a huge platter of boiled beef which is Beatrice Lillie's favorite delicacy, and of which every guest must partake whether he likes it or not—otherwise Miss Lillie will force it on you. It is an English heritage, this love of boiled beef.

You help yourself and stand about eating and drinking, or sit at little tete-a-tete tables. Cocktails are served to those who like them, and whiskey and soda are there for supporters of that drink. Practically everyone present elected to partake of the vodka—except Bea, who restricts her imbibing to light beer.

BEa hopped about nimbly as she looked after her guests. "Me, who always 'ad me own 'orses and servants!" she gushed in mock effusion as she attended to the needs of her guests. Soon everyone drifted back to the living-room. Bea hoisted herself atop the piano and sang an amusing duet with Noel Coward, who tickled the keys. In a corner Marc Connelly was whispering one of his hilarious monologues into the ear of one of the guests. Squatting on the floor in the middle of the room was Osgood Perkins, surrounded by Helen Hayes, Jack Benny, Mary Livingstone, Alex Woolcott, and your correspondent. Woolcott, in his soft, quiet way, was telling a merry story, graphically illustrated with eloquent gestures of the hands, of how he cheated Howard Dietz in a game of anagrams. Cole Porter was holding the attention of Hope Williams and Dwight Fiske by singing several unpublished lyrics of his smash song hit, You're the Top. The rest were busy swapping stories or trying to listen to two or three events at the same time.

Thus the evening wore on, all the guests chipping in with some lively impromptu entertainment—the busman's holiday again! A highlight of the evening's fun was Bea's burlesque of Sally Rand's bubble dance—a show-stopping performance if there ever was one. About 3 a. m. there was a general leave-taking, and the last we saw of Bea was when the elevator door closed. She stood there pretending she was crying buckets at the thought of being deserted.

One of the daffiest affairs of the season was the extravaganza tossed off by that genial master of the wisecrack and fiddle, Ben Bernie. Good old "Yowsah," appearing here in the East for the first time in many months, staged an old-fashioned reunion for his host of Gotham intimates, and the antics provided by the mad guests resulted in turning the Bernie apartment upside down.

YOWSAH started the festivities by announcing the birth of a new whoopee mixture—something he called the Hot as Hell. After pattering around with the jigger for about ten minutes, he invited the boys (it was an all-male affair) to step up and sample his creation. Everyone held back but Jimmy Durante. "I'll try anything once," croaked the Schnozzola hoarsely as he tossed off a swig of the stuff. Bernie's Hot as Hell appellation was no misnomer, it seems, for the wizened little genius of the films hopped about madly, screaming that he had been poisoned.

Reviewing Radio

By Martin J. Porter

I DON'T LIKE to admit this, but that guy Marty Lewis had the right dope on Lennie Hayton. That cigaret sponsor has signed up Hayton to start a one-hour Saturday night series emanating from NBC-WEAF April 20. The whole show has been thrown into Hayton's lap, and he will stage it with the same direction that Rudy Vallee exercises over his Varieties. Hayton is leaving the FRED ALLEN show, of course, and he will be replaced there by the band of PETER VAN STEEDEN, one of the smarter young maestros. This

Two other significant developments of the week were:

The plunge of an entire nation into the radio field as a sponsor. The Country of Mexico is sponsoring the already current Mexican music of the MERCADO band, with the idea of popularizing Mexico as a tourist's paradise. Following closely upon this expedient comes the Musical Union Local 802 by-laws can be effected.

Quite a surprise was occasioned by the announcement during the week that MORTON DOWNEY'S Sunday afternoon show would fade out April 7, and that his other evening show would continue up until June.

The big flurry of the week eventuated when it became known that GENERAL HUGH JOHNSON, through Northwestern University (where he was to speak) appealed for time on WJZ to counter-attack FATHER COUGHLIN, but was refused. For 48 hours there was turmoil in the NBC. The refusal had been ordered by high officials. It was explained in a statement that the refusal was based on previous negotiations with the General for a time spot, in Washington. This was the baloney, but things were set right when, following a huddle of radio execs, Johnson was contacted—with the result that he will go on the air Saturday night, March 31, at 10:30 EST (9:30 CST).

He said the original refusal was based, actually, on a belief that a prolongation of the feud between Johnson and the radio priest seemed in bad taste—and to me that seemed sound logic. Radio is hardly the place for mud-slinging.

Recent evenings have indicated a notable and interesting trend toward the exchange of artists by commercial shows. This probably was started by BERNIE and WINCHELL. Then came Baker and Bernie, and later, Bea Lillie and Jack Benny. This practice promises to be refreshing, if not overdone. It adds an informality and good-fellowship to a show.

VIVIENNE SEGAL has served notice on the broadcasting companies regarding a sanitary matter, which surprisingly never has bobbed up before. At the moment there are scores of radio artists suffering from colds. Vivienne claims that most of those suffering, probably contracted the colds by contact with microphones, and she therefore insists on a regular system of disinfecting them. It probably will be done, now, before each broadcast.

The radio scribblers in New York recently powdered over the outstanding beauties in the broadcasting business, with the general opinion predominating that radio's three most prepossessing graces are JANE FROMAN, COUNTESS ALBANI and BERNICE CLAIRE. The handsomest gents seem to be more profuse—JAMES MELTON, BOB HOPE, GEORGE GIVOT and PETER VAN STEEDEN.

That covers only New York, of course.

The imminence of wired radio for the home is portended by the signing of contracts last week by RICHARD HIMBER and ANDRE KOSTELANETZ, to make recordings for a wireless company now getting ready to blossom in the metropolitan area. The company feeds programs over telephone wires into a gadget into which you drop two-bits for an evening's entertainment, with a choice of five non-commercial, non-static sources of divertisement.

One of the pleasant events of the week, concerning personalities, was the return to radio via the VALLEE hour of JIMMY KEMPER, the song dramatist, who has just emerged from a long siege of illness.

If there are any rocks threatening the marital bark of Donald Novis and his wife, they certainly don't show in this picture of domestic bliss. He may be heard Sundays at 5 p. m. EST (4 CST) over the CBS-WABC network sponsor's resumption of radio as an advertising medium takes the spot now filled by the SIGMUND RÖMBERG presentation, which fades out completely when the cigaret show goes in.

Concerning the acceptance of Hayton as its impresario, there should be an explanation. The sponsor was completely sold on an amateur show, but got around to buying that of MAJOR BOWES just a few days too late, and found that it already had been purchased. So that's that.

And my apologies to Lewis!

Another change announced this week is that affecting the EDGAR GUEST broadcasts. These became straight dramatic presentations on March 26, presenting a series entitled Welcome Valley, and depicting Guest as a kindly old newspaper publisher.

news of a similar role by the State of Maine, which will use a straight dramatic broadcast designed to intrigue vacationists with the splendors of Maine.

The sale of the Bowes amateur show has caused drastic changes at WHN, where its original amateur spot remains, now under the guidance of JAY C. FLIPPEN, who is thus staging a come-back to radio. Major Bowes is out of WHN as director, and also as vice-president of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, but he will retain his managing directorship of the Capitol Theater, from which he broadcasts via NBC Sunday mornings.

Indications are that the 60-odd sustaining dance bands now exiled from the air in New York, because they face a tax of $3 a musician for each broadcast, will remain off (unless they decide to pay) for at least five more weeks, before any kind of rearrangement of the

IT HAPPENED just previous to the wedding of RONNIE MANSFIELD, of the House by the Side of the Road team of Ronnie and Van, to the gorgeous Harriet Bowker, former show girl, on St. Patrick's Day. The wedding was to be officiated by Rev. Preston Bradley, also of radio renown.

Dr. Bradley, who had a moment's business at WGN with Bob Becker, the dog and recreation broadcaster, stopped in that station's studios and, well-thumbed Bible under his arm, ran into Henry Weber, the musical conductor. Weber, noting the Bible, remarked, "That's a pretty moth-eaten Bible, Doctor. Have a ceremony today?"

The minister replied in the affirmative and said, "Let's see how old this Bible is." Turning to the fly leaf, he read an inscription:

"This Bible first used for the wedding ceremony of Marion Claire and Henry Weber, 1929."

THOSE RUMORS that have had DONALD NOVIS and his wife splitting are squelched somewhat by the recent photograph which appears above on this page. Everything is definitely hotsy-totsy at the Novis menage . . . CAPTAIN DOBBSIE has been paid off with six weeks' advance pay for his part, as m. c. of the HORACE HEIDT Tuesday-Thursday night CBS show. The quarter-hour bill didn't give sufficient working time for the Captain who therefore is out. Announcer Mel Venter has taken the m. c. spot . . . Revamped MUSICAL MEMORIES show is written by Irna Phillips . . . BLUE MONDAY JAMBOREE, 8-year-old West Coast variety success, extends over a coast-to-coast CBS network starting April 8, time 12 midnight to 1 a. m. EST (11 to 12 CST).

MEN'S FASHIONS DEPT.—Following the advice of a Decatur, Illinois, lady who observed at a stage appearance that his pants were too tight, RALPH EMERSON, of the WLS and NBC Barn Dance team of FORD (Rush) AND RALPH, has invested in new and much roomier tuxedo.

DON McNEILL, Breakfast Club and Thursday a. m. Carnival m. c., is authority for the news that gag and script writers this Spring will wear old (to match the gags?) sweaters at work. So observed last week at NBC, Don was asked if he won the sweater playing football.

"No," was the fashion plate's reply, "For not playing."

FAN SQUAWK COUNTER: Mrs. S. S. would have Mr. Ford cut the imitations from Fred Waring's Thursday programs and let the maestro get in some music. She'd also overhaul the alleged recently sparkless Vallee Hour and pass a law to keep Eddie Cantor from preaching sermons. Also, in doing the Spring house-cleaning, she'd recast Peggy Bernier Flynn in her older and funnier original role previous to Penthouse Party.

D. T., of Fort Worth, Texas, would require commercial artists, poor things, to employ, eat, drink or take the junk they advertise.

W. L., of Lima, Ohio, requests us to fire Phil Baker and give his time and salary to Arthur Arbach, of the ham program.

And Joe Zilch, of Galesburg, Illinois, has a nifty idea about putting several lisping N'Yawk announcers on Winchell's show—just to be close to the other orchids

EDDIE AND FANNIE CAVANAUGH, aired over a sectional East-Midwest CBS network (1:15 EST, 12:15 CST) Monday to Friday, will celebrate their thirteenth anniversary on the air on March 31.

Incidentally, their Radio Gossip Club broadcast topped all applause mail received at the Chicago CBS studios for the month of January and February. During the latter month, a short one, too, the program was 5,000 letters ahead of the next program.

This show is now winding up a Most Popular Program poll (their own excepted) and tabulations at press time, with their poll open eight days longer, placed the first ten programs: (1) Jack Benny, (2) One Man's Family, (3) Today's Children, (4) Myrt and Marge, (5) Painted Dreams, (6) Voice of Experience, (7) Amos 'n' Andy, (8) Fred Allen, (9) Vic and Sade, (10) Fred Waring.

In comparing these standings to the Radio Guide Star Election, one must remember that the Cavanaugh canvass is limited to their seven CBS outlets, whereas the Star Election is national in scope.

Along the Airialto

HOW MANY who liked WINCHELL'S stunt on BERNIE'S programs realized what it means? You? And you? Go to the head of the class!

It looks like a new era in programs—yowsah! A radio new deal in which youse listening guys and gals get all the aces in one hand. Thousands of you wrote rave letters to Bernie and Winchell, and your enthusiasm will encourage other great stars to "drop in" informally on their friends' programs.

No one loses through this pleasant, friendly informality and the listener certainly wins! On Tuesday, the twelfth, PHIL BAKER bobbed in on Ben Bernie's program; three days later, on Friday, Ben returned the compliment and appeared on Phil's! Remember, too, how on that same day, Friday the fifteenth, JACK BENNY strayed into BEA LILLIE'S program. Two days later, Bea politely returned the call. A fair exchange of talent is no robbery to the sponsor. Quite the reverse, since increased fun for the listener means better business for the boys who pay the bills.

A lot has been written about the great technical advances made by radio during past years. They're important, of course—but they're only means towards one end, the production of better programs. And these new constellations (groups of stars to you) are better programs. They constitute just as important an advance in radio as any shiny gadget or new mike. And so, children, time marches on.

It seems my amiable colleague, MARTIN J. PORTER, is desirous of engaging in a battle of wits with this department. It's okay with me but I'm wondering what he's going to use for weapons.

Can you imagine how that mugg must feel after trying to belittle me in front of my boss and all youse guys and gals, to have to admit that I was right about that cigarette company coming back on the air with LENNIE HAYTON'S orchestra? Whoever it was who said he who laughs last, laughs best, certainly knew his stuff. What makes it funnier is that Mr. Porter stated he got his denial to my paragraph from an official of the company and had I shown him the courtesy of a call when I was in New York he would have set me right. The reason I didn't call Mike was because I was TOO BUSY making the rounds to get AUTHENTIC news for my pillar. Let that hold you for awhile. Martin J.

MISINFORMERS have been spreading word that EDDIE CANTOR'S program was to fold last Sunday (March 24). The truth is that Cantor leaves the air April 28 to make a picture in Hollywood and he is expected to return to his CBS toothpaste stanza in the Fall. After making the film, Banjo-Eyes will return to New York to headline a Summer Broadway revue. The CLUB ROMANCE show, sponsorially related to the Cantor airing, will fold after March 31, however, and will return to the air in the present Cantor time, 8 to 8:30 EST (7 to 7:30 CST) Sundays, following his departure. There probably will be a new setup for Club Romance to plug another of the sponsor's products, and it will be the first show to utilize Cantor's new program counsel service. RUBINOFF and TED HUSING, from his present show, are rumored to be elements of the subsequent Club Romance.

FRED ALLEN'S amateur hour on NBC has run into an unexpected problem. The "Gong Club" is walking out on the show. The program is broadcast twice nightly at 9 p. m. EST (8 CST), for the Eastern half of the nation, and again at 12 midnight (11 CST) for the West Coast. The repeat program is supposedly identical with the first, but many amateurs who received the gong the first time, not believing the adage about "Try, try again," failed to show up for the repeat performance. An amateur hour without a gong is no amateur hour at all, so Allen started awarding $5.00 cash 'o those who were honored by the doleful sound of defeat. But even this added inducement wasn't sufficient to bring some disappointed hopefuls back the second time. So a few extra entrants are kept on hand to fill vacancies.

Several of the ether scribes are under the impression that the DICK HIMBER-JOEY NASH feud is nothing but a publicity stunt concocted by their respective press agents who are very friendly. HIMBER wishes it were really true, then he wouldn't have to appear in court to answer the suit NASH has slapped on him. If that isn't proof enough, the announcement that FRANK PARKER has been signed and will soon be singing with Humber's band on the Studebaker show, replacing Joey, should be enough of a confirmation.

All is not well these days between ALICE FAYE and RUDY VALLEE. What the rift is all about, I don't know. However, I do know that while Alice was in Chicago for a spell recently, she was paying a great deal of attention to STAN MYERS and the baton waver was returning the compliment in no little way,

No greater love for his mother hath any man than the love LITTLE JACKIE HELLER has for his mater. When she was in town recently to visit her son, wherever Jackie went, his mother was sure to go. They visited every night club in town and when the little singer was introduced to the crowds at the various places, he brought his mother right up on the floor with him so they could meet her.

To this writer she said, "Say nice things about my Jackie. He's such a good boy."

HILL, expires in mid-April . . . The March of Time, which was to have withdrawn at the end of March, will continue for an additional month, the sponsorship reverting back from Remington-Rand to Time Mag, presumably to plug the March of Time screen releases . . . When the news dramas do fade, Hollywood Hotel will move back a half-hour on May 3, to be heard at 9 p. m. The latest is SUSAN SAGE, who has been made a professional performer with RAY PERKINS' vaudeville act . . . Rumor has ETHEL MERMAN, the blues shouter, slated for a CBS commercial . . . HELEN GLEASON, the Met Opera soprano, will share the musical spotlight of the Headliners series with maestro FRANK TOURS when WILL ROGERS returns for another cycle of CBS broadcasts on that feature Sunday, March 31 . . . KELVIN KEECH, NBC announcer, is sporting a skinned nose, having accomplished the difficult feat of slashing his own proboscis with a ping pong paddle . . . ETHEL BARRYMORE is one of the most nervous persons ever to face a microphone. She admits it. Her hands tremble so she can read her script only with the greatest difficulty . . . DON ROSS and JANE FROMAN (Mrs. Ross) both have received offers from Hollywood and will leave radio for a fling at the movies . . . A new show with HOPE WILLIAMS, a stage favorite, is in the audition stages with ALEX HYDE'S band, known in vaudeville but never on the air . . . CBS announcer ANDRE BARUCH just made one of his best announcements—of his engagement and his plans to take the walk down the aisle soon . . . One of NBC's leading mail-drawers makes its appearance during the daytime only . . . It's WILLIE BRYANT and his orchestra. When they first went on the air I suggested you listen in . . . Remember?

A visitor to the NBC studios in Chicago approached a page boy and asked if he would please show her the studio where AMOS 'N' ANDY broadcast. The obliging page pointed to studio F and with that the visitor made a dash for the door while a program was in progress.

"Just a minute, you can't go in there," the guide admonished. "Oh, I'm not going in. I just want to touch the handle on the door," was the reply.

With the current feud involving the rival Greek dialecticians, GEORGE GIVOT and HARRY (PARK-YAKAKAS) EINSTEIN, it's a case of Givot and take it or, as one wag remarked in paraphrase of the ancient Latin quotation, "Beware of the Greeks bearing Givots." When Greek comic meets Greek comic, they open, not a food store, but a feud.

Following the quick success registered by the lovely lark BENAY VENUTA, blonde beauty whom CBS recently imported from the West Coast, the same web now has brought on from California another songstress, VIRGINIA VERRILL, for a buildup. Breaking in as a "ghost" songstress as singing double for Hollywood screen stars, she is another of the long list of performers who have started their network careers on RAYMOND PAIGE'S "California Melodies" broadcasts, before taking transcontinental hops for buildups in New York—those ranks including the BOSWELL SISTERS, VERA VAN, DONALD NOVIS, KAY THOMPSON, and BING CROSBY.

VERA VAN is a smart girl. When she gets her weekly pay envelope, it is immediately turned over to her mother, who rightfully acts as business manager for both of them. Vera gets a weekly allowance from mommy which is smaller than you think, and get by the week magnificently, all because she's put herself on a budget and won't budge it even if she does see something in a shop window she would like to have.

Compiled by RADIO GUIDE's Girl Snoopy

TO conclude the attempted exposure of the Bernie-Winchell controversy that was carried on in these columns recently, it became necessary to prod Columnist Bernie. His comeback, as announced last week, was that he temporarily had run out of ammunition. When it became imperative that copy be obtained at once, the following telegram was dispatched:

Amos 'n' Andy— Here They Are

Gosden and Correll Strike Their First Real Snag on Their Way to the Top When They Run into Complications with the Law. Here Is a Fascinating Phase of Their Experience Few of Their Listeners Know

By Harry Steele

Freeman Gosden, Amos of the famous team, was born thirty-six years ago in Richmond, Virginia; he began life an automobile salesman. He is married and has two children, Freeman, Junior, six, and Marie, four.

Charles Correll, Andy, is a native of Illinois; his early claim to fame and fortune was made through laying bricks. He too is married, but the Corrells have no children.

A mutual interest in amateur theatricals threw the pair together. In previous instalments Harry Steele has described many turns in their affairs, including the accident that came within an ace of preventing their ever making a contact with each other; their adventures coaching amateur theatrical companies in several states; their earliest flings at radio.

Herewith is presented instalment five, containing further episodes in their life-story.

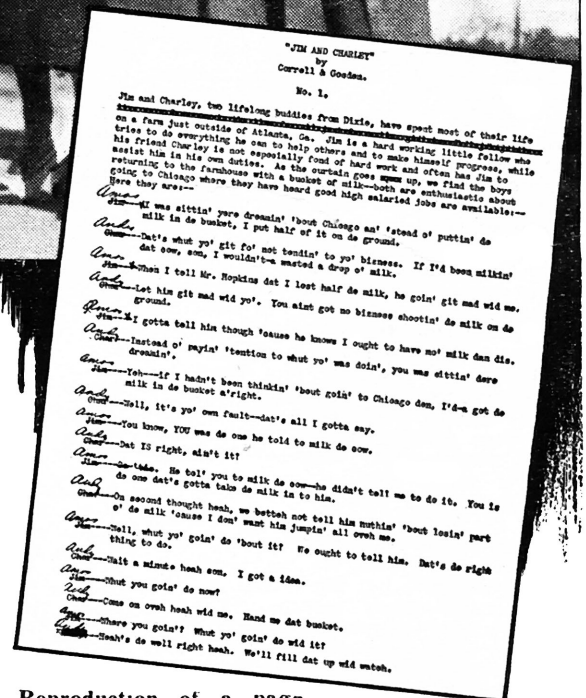

THE beginning of their long engagement at Station WMAQ, Chicago, was in the nature of an old-home week for Gosden and Correll. It found them reassociated with Bill Hay, who had acted as their interlocutor throughout the life of their WGN engagement. With them also as manager of their commercial enterprises was Alex Robb who, during the days the boys had been theatrical directors, was connected in a similar capacity with the same organization.

BUT all were destined for a sharp surprise when an attempt was made to launch the Sam 'n' Henry program at WMAQ. It developed that rights to the name of the series belonged exclusively to the Chicago Tribune station, and its executives were of no mind to release them. And to controvert the Tribune station's right, would have brought about legal complications inescapably. The comedians had been advertised in a strong promotional campaign that was designed to provide the boys with a ready-made audience.

But Destiny again was to prove that it laughed at legal barriers. Faced with what might have seemed a stunning setback, Gosden and Correll acted hurriedly to circumvent the situation which threatened to block their plans. They went into their customary huddle and determined that perhaps Mr. Shakespeare knew his stuff when he declared that a rose under any other name could boast its fragrance.

For several days they struggled over script, eager to launch a situation that would be compelling from the start. They trusted to their already-proved ingenuity to find suitable titles for their new characters. As the first idea developed, it began to dawn upon them that it would be difficult to create the first scripts unless the characters were named.

There's a sound reason for that. A trip to the boys' office in Chicago any afternoon will divulge it. When they are creating their scripts they assume the parts identically as they portray them on the broadcasts. They can be heard plainly through the partitions, speaking in the varied voices of that shadow parade with which the nation has become familiar.

IT was impossible to throw themselves into the parts if they had no names. After all, Hey There! or Say You! were rather inadequate salutations, so without much thought for the euphony or potential popularity of the names, the two decided on Jim and Charley. Only after the first script was concluded and on paper did they realize that their choice of nomenclature had been notably weak.

How to rechristen the characters became an acute problem, but their sagacity came to their rescue in typical fashion. They referred (Continued on Page 27)

Musical Leaders Change in Star Poll

THERE is news of such moment in latest Star of Star Election tabulations that an extra paper is really warranted. Rudy Vallee's Variety Hour has been compelled to yield the pinnacle in the Musical Program division.

Faunting its banner atop that select classification is the Richard Himber program. Himber's accession to the heights marks the first time the Vallee program ever has been displaced in this Election, or the first held last year. And the sudden change is just a symbol of what may be expected as the contest lengthens and the avalanche of votes continues to shift the positions of listeners' favorites.

The very possibility of upsets such as this should bring every reader-listener to the realization that now is the time to vote—to put your favorites so far out in front that it will be impossible for late starters to usurp their positions. Remember the contest closes June 1—and who wins RADIO GUIDE's gold medals in the six divisions, is entirely up to you.

This is one contest in which the listener is the sole arbiter—in which the radio audience has the last word in naming the most popular performer, orchestra musical program, dramatic program, team and announcer.

The choice is entirely in your hands as the struggle to hold leadership becomes monumental. More votes than even before poured into the hands of the election tellers last week. And those votes not only altered the standings in the Musical Programs division, but made some of the leaders' positions in the other classifications far less secure than they had been.

For instance, in the Performer division additional ballots periled Jack Benny's leadership as more and more supporters rushed to the aid of Frank Parker. Nor can Eddie Cantor's spurt toward the top be ignored. Every week finds the singing comedian giving his rivals a genuine scare as he passes one after another to near the top. From fourth place last week he has leaped to third, striding over the popular Joe Penner to menace those who lead him.

Another important shift in standings reveals itself in the Dramatic Program division. That the public is receptive to intellectual diversion is symbolized by the jump from sixth to fourth place of the March of Time. Trailing these dramatized news episodes are the Mary Pickford Company and Dangerous Paradise, both of which preceded in last week's tabulations.

But the latest tabulations of the Star Election Tellers do not necessarily imply the final results. They do mean, however, that if your favorites are to lead in their various classifications when the contest has closed, now is the time to come to their aid. You can vote as often as you please, so long as you use the official ballot which appears on this page.

It is printed in a size convenient for mailing whichever way you prefer. Either paste it to a post card or simply enclose it in an envelope. Mail your ballots to the Star Election Tellers, RADIO GUIDE, 731 Plymouth Court, Chicago, Ill.

Following are the standings of contestants as determined by the latest tabulations. The number opposite each name merely signifies the position of the contestants in relation to all others in that particular classification.

Calling All Cars

Fred Haight Had Every Right to Demand That His Wife Live with Him—and She Had Every Right to Refuse. When Their Differences Came to Gun-Play, and the Police Had to Step in —

By Arthur Kent

YOU'LL come with me—and like it!"

The waitress looked sick with fright. She shook her head. She was a smart-looking girl, but she cringed away from that little table as if the devil were sitting there.

"No!" she said. "No! Oh, Fred—please leave me alone!" But the two sleek young men just looked up at her. One of them had hold of her wrist. He wasn't bad-looking if you didn't notice the tight sneer. "I don't ask anything from you!" the girl pleaded.

"Don't be dumb, baby!" The sleek young man murmured the words through stiff lips. "You're my wife, ain't you? Listen, get wise. Fred Haight's wife ain't working in no cheap restaurant, and that's that!"

"It's an honest living!" the girl retorted, her pale face flushing crimson. "I'm getting along!" The man grinned crookedly.

"Listen, Patsy," he argued, his voice a little gentler. "Even if I wasn't nuts about you, I couldn't afford to have you dealin' 'em off the arm in no beanery. You're my wife, ain't you? I married you, didn't I?"

"Yes," the girl said bitterly, "you did. Thanks!"

"Well then!" Fred Haight went on. "I can't have you makin' a monkey outta me by working in a place like this! Baby, I'm going to be a big shot! Stick with me an' you'll wear diamonds."

A HUSH had fallen upon that obscure little restaurant in Detroit's Cass Street. The few men patrons—there were no women—stared avidly. Here was drama! Mechanics, clerks, laborers, their lives for the most part were dull; here before their eyes, a sleek young man—probably a gangster—was claiming his wife, who apparently had run away from him! Romance—Cass Street romance! But the cook, peering in from the kitchen, scowled. He knew that it was no romance, but tragedy. She was a good girl, Patricia Haight, and a hard-working waitress. This gunman husband of hers shouldn't be permitted to drag her back to the life she hated.

"I want to go straight, Fred!" the girl muttered desperately. But her hard-faced husband did not remove his hand from her wrist. "I'll never stick with you!" she said.

Now the other young man—the silent one—leaned across the little table.

"Fred," he said, so quietly that none of the other patrons in the place could hear, "she don't want you. If you make her live with you, she's liable to call the coppers on you."

Fred Haight laughed at this. "Oh, Pat wouldn't rat on me, would you, Pat?"

"I couldn't turn you in" (Continued on Page 29)

Fun Flashes

Monk: Gee, you're scared, Joe.
Penner: No—I'm not scared.
Monk: Sure you are. Look at your knees—they're shaking.
Penner: Well, you see, Monk, last night I danced the Carioca—and my knees don't know that the music has stopped!
—Bakers Broadcast

Al Bernard: Do you know the reason most successful men are always bald-headed?
Emil Casper: Sure, because they always come out on top!
—Merry Minstrels

Ed Wynn: The hero, Graham, lived on the fat of the land.
Graham: The hero lived on the fat of the land? What do you mean, Chief?
Wynn: He ran a girdle factory!
—Ed Wynn's Broadcast

Don McNeill: Where did you get that black eye, Harry?
Harry: That's no black eye—that's a birth-mark.
McNeill: A birth-mark?
Harry: Yeah—I got into the wrong berth last night.
—Saturday Jamboree

George Givot: My uncle is an inventor. He's making aviators' suits out of paper.
Block: That's silly. What kind of paper can be used to make aviators' suits?
Givot: Fly paper!
—The Big Show

Ask Mr. Fairfax

MR. WIGGS of the Cabbage Patch cast is: Betty Garde as Mrs. Wiggs, Alice Frost as Miss Hazy, Joe Labham as Stebbins, Andy Donnelly as Billy, Amy Sedelle as Australia, Estelle Levy as Europa and Pat Ryan as Asia. The program is heard Mondays to Fridays inclusive at 10:45 a. m. EST (9:45 CST) over the CBS-WABC network. (Adelaid Lorraine, New York, N. Y.)

The reason many announcers and performers cup their hands behind their ears when singing or speaking before the microphone is that they are able to hear themselves more readily and judge how their voices are sounding. Try it yourself and you will see how this works. (Abe Einstein, Brooklyn, N. Y.)

VIRGINIA CLARK takes the part of Helen Trent in the ROMANCE OF HELEN TRENT sketches. Other characters are Ed Prentiss as Dennis Fallon; Eugene McGillen as the lawyer; Marie Nelson as Aunt Agatha; Sunda Love as Mrs. Stewart; Lester Tremaine as Grant Douglas; Hazel Dopbeide as Mrs. Brens and Alice Hill as Nina Mason. (Emma Braeutigam, Lynbrook, N. Y.)

The VASS FAMILY are Mr. and Mrs. Vass, Mrs. Curtis B. Railing, an aunt; Emily, Louisa, Virginia, Sally, Frank and Lee. Lee, however, a chemist, is not heard on the air. (A. L. H., Albany, N. Y.)

The announcer of the HOUR OF SMILES program is Tiny Ruffner. Jack Brinkley announces the MA PERKINS program. (Lorraine Scheffel, Ridgewood, N. Y.)

Music in the Air

By Carleton Smith

THOSE WHO, like myself, are never exhausted by the inexhaustible Toscanini, count the hours that he will be with us. We are always grateful for his matchless genius of recreation, and his penetrating vision. No one else can lift the veil of the temple and bring us as near to the shrine as Toscanini.

Perhaps his concerts are all the more precious because we know that he will not be with us forever. He is an old man. Each season may be his last. So it is that his every concert becomes an occasion, not to be missed or neglected.

This Sunday and next (CBS at 3 p. m. EST, 2 CST) bring us the final two concerts of the Brahms cycle. Then Mr. Toscanini will turn his all-seeing ear to the works of Wagner and Beethoven. At the Philharmonic concert of April 21, he concludes the preludes to Acts I and III of Lohengrin; Siegfried's Death and Funeral Music from Götterdämmerung; prelude to Die Meistersinger; prelude and Good Friday Spell from Parsifal, and prelude and Liebestod from Tristan und Isolde.

Chamber Music Festival

EVERY MINUTE of the five programs of the Library of Congress Festival of Chamber Music in Washington next week should be broadcast. Through the generosity of music's most liberal patron in this country, Mrs. Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge, a series of treats has been arranged for her distinguished guests. Mrs. Coolidge is most willing to have the concerts broadcast, and to share her pleasure with those who cannot be there. Thus far, only two broadcasts (CBS, April 8 and 9, at 11:15 a. m. EST, 10:15 CST) have been arranged. The evening concerts, which more listeners could hear, will not be broadcast because the time is sold to commercial sponsors. It is occasions such as these that make one wish for a sustaining network, devoted only to unusual programs which, in their nature, appeal to a minority. There is, after all, reason to satisfy the tastes of the minority.

The first broadcast program includes the first appearance in America of the Kolisch Quartet of Vienna. They will play Beethoven's Quartet in B-flat, Opus 130, with the Grand Fugue, Opus 133—and the world premiere of Alban Berg's Lyrische Suite—and Bartok's Fifth Quartet.

The second broadcast concert on Tuesday morning is a program of works by American composers, including Quincy Porter's Third Quartet, John Alden Carpenter's Quintet for piano and strings and the world premiere of Werner Janssen's Second Quartet. The Gordon String Quartet will be assisted by FRANK SHERIDAN, pianist.

THOSE EXCELLENT "motor" concerts are to be continued on Sundays (NBC at 8 p. m. EST, 7 CST). The Kubeliks—Jan and Raffael—join their forces. Music-lovers of earlier decades remember Jan as a poetic and sincere violinist, a quiet and touching artist who conceived what he had to say in solitude. They have never heard his son, Raffael, who is the conductor of the Prague Symphony. It will be interesting to note if the Kubelik musical talent has been transmitted to the offspring. Sons of famous fathers are rarely a success, especially in the same profession.

The April 7th and 14th concerts on this series will contain music of 16 American composers, and will be conducted by EUGENE ORMANDY, HENRY HADLEY and FRANK BLACK. And the Easter Sunday concert, April 21, will bring us the vocal sensation of this opera season—MME. KIRSTEN FLAGSTAD.

The programs on this popular concert series have been considerably better than last season. Some of the talent has been less than mediocre, though brilliant moments have lifted the hours far above the average. The program material, of necessity fragmentary, was interesting. Works by Wagner were most often chosen, with Beethoven second, Tchaikovsky third, and Schubert and Bach coming along fourth.

Even the indomitable maestro, ARTURO TOSCANINI, was thwarted in his program choice last Sunday by advertising pressure. He wanted the series' eminent soloist, MME. ELISABETH RETHBERG, to sing Leise, Leise, from von Weber's Der Freischütz, but Mme. Rethberg had broadcast this aria several Sundays before on another Sunday evening hour, and the same selection couldn't possibly be used by the same artist. To advertise competing makes of automobiles. So, instead, we heard Pace, Pace, from La Forza del Destino.

Rodzinski's Sibelius

ARTUR RODZINSKI will conduct the ninth broadcast of the present Cleveland Orchestra series this week (Tuesday, NBC, at 2:15 p. m. EST, 1:15 CST). He has chosen the first symphony of Jan Sibelius, the introduction to Moussorgsky's Khovanshchina and Rimsky-Korsakoff's Capriccio Espagnol.

It is interesting to note that the World War altered the career of GENIA FONARIOVA and indirectly steered her course to America. The Russian soprano, who will be heard April 6 over an NBC-WJZ network, 12:15 p. m. EST (11:15 a. m. CST), was singing in the Royal Opera House in Brussels at the outbreak of hostilities. Fear of the impending invasion drove her to London. There she continued her operatic career eventually to join the parade of talented artists which has the United States as its ultimate goal. The Saturday recital will include the immortal I Passed By Your Window, by Brahms.

Genia Fonariova, Russian soprano and operatic star, who will be heard Saturday, April 6, at 12:15 p. m. EST (11:15 a. m. CST) over an NBC-WJZ network

Heard on the Air

By Walter Sinclair and James Connors

Walter Sinclair, Celebrated Critic, Assisted by James Connors. Each Week Reviews for Readers of RADIO GUIDE, New and Old Programs on the Air. Mr. Sinclair's Rating System Is as Follows: ★★★★★—the Perfect Program, Rare Even in Radio; ★★★★—Excellent; ★★★—Good Average; ★—Fair. No Star with a Review Indicates a Program Poorer Than Fair. Herewith Are Presented Reviews of Programs Heard During the Week Ending March 23, and Before.

The programs reviewed since January 1, 1935, judged by Mr. Sinclair and Mr. Connors Perfect or Excellent, are:

★★★★—Jack Benny and Company.

Open House ★★
Program heard Sunday, March 17, at 5 p. m. EST (4 CST) over the CBS-WABC network. Sponsored by Vick Chemical Company.

Talent: Donald Novis and Vera Van, soloists; Freddie Martin's Orchestra, and chorus.

Here is a thoroughly enjoyable half-hour of light popular music, sung by two radio favorites, and played by a good orchestra. The keynote is brightness, sparkle. Donald Novis had as solos such hits as Every Day and The Voice in the Old Village Choir; Vera Van did well with I've Written a Love Song; included in the orchestral selections were Everybody Step, Music in My Heart, and others. If you like an orchestra with plenty of sax, this is it. Freddie Martin and "the man with the Texas accent" amused with their novelty renditions.

The commercial plugs are timed to come at the end of each ten minutes of entertainment; they were not over-long.

Crime Clues ★
Heard performing The Alphabet Massacre, Tuesday, March 19, at 8 p. m. EST (7 CST) over an NBC-WJZ network. Sponsored by Eno.

Talent: Spencer Dean (Clyde North), Dan Cassidy (John MacBryde), supporting cast.

This piece, selected as typical for a general review of this veteran weekly program, does not do the players justice. In the first place, the setting was a Southern cotton dock. There is no objection to this, except that the Southern accents were laid on so thickly by white and colored folk alike that the dialogue was difficult to understand. Nor did the background music of Negro spirituals assist.

In the second place, the plot was puerile.

It offered very little real detective work; was more of a straight crime story.

In the third place, the absence of the automobile-accident-injured Edward Reese from his long-enacted role of Spencer Dean was enough handicap to the sketch without the first two flaws.

Captain Dobbsie's Ship of Joy ★★
Heard Tuesday, March 19, at 10:30 p. m. EST (9:30 CST) over a CBS-WABC network. Sponsored by Stewart-Warner.

Talent: Captain Dobbsie as master of ceremonies; Horace Heidt and his Californians; girl choir and vocal soloists.

Following the Waring plan, this program is musically a pleasing presentation. However, the beloved Captain Dobbsie is given little opportunity to philosophize during the fifteen minutes after musical and commercial credit allotments have been deducted. The latter, incidentally, were quite lengthy. The main credit ran for two minutes and thirty seconds; the total time devoted to sales material was three minutes and thirty-five seconds—over 23 per cent of the program's time. A little better balance in favor of Captain Dobbsie would improve this period.

Uncle Ezra's Radio Station ★★
Program reviewed Wednesday, March 20, at 7:45 p. m. EST (6:45 CST) over an NBC network. The program is on the air every Monday, Wednesday and Friday at the same time. Sponsored by Alka-Seltzer.

Talent: Uncle Ezra (Pat Barrett), Mayor Boggs (Cliff Soubier), Clarissa (Nora Cuneen), Mrs. Smith (Lucille Long), Jess (Carleton Guy), Sheriff (Bill Fitzsimmons), Bjorg (Bob Johnstone), a trio of girl singers, accordion player, etc.

Here is a refreshing quarter-hour of pastoral entertainment, comedy and light music. Uncle Ezra owns a radio station at Rosedale (on any map in almost any state)—according to the background of story in the program. It is station E-Z-R-A, a "five-watter." The kindly, genial old proprietor is announcer and master of ceremonies; as such he introduced on the program reviewed, a trio of girls (unannounced) which I think is one of the best of its kind on the air; an accordion player who performed on an instrument the listener was to believe in need of repair. These and other units of the show came to the listener as "local Rosedale talent." In addition, Uncle Ezra announced items of local news—"Mrs. Brown, confined to her bed, is doing poorly"; "there will be a Community Sale Friday night," et cetera. And he introduced also News Flashes, each one preceded by "a toot on the tooter," which being interpreted means a few notes on a tin horn for emphasis. The whole was bright, wholesome and permeated with rustic atmosphere welcome to this radio habitue. And it had its note of homey philosophy, too, as witness: Uncle Ezra closed with, "The thought for the day—A postage stamp is the best patch in a wornout welcome."

George Bech, Danish Consul to the United States, will speak briefly.

EDGAR A. GUEST, poet-philosopher, stars in the leading role of Welcome Valley, new dramatic series presented every Tuesday at 8:30 p. m. over an NBC-WJZ network under the sponsorship of the Household Finance Company.

JERUSALEM, LONDON AND NEW YORK will be linked by radio for a special program from 9:30 to 10:30 p. m. over an NBC-WJZ network in celebration of the tenth anniversary of the dedication of the Hebrew University in Jerusalem. Doctor Judah L. Magnes, Chancellor of the University, will speak from Jerusalem and Sir Herbert Samuel and James de Rothschild, members of the Board of Governors, will be heard from London. Other speakers will be in attendance at a banquet held at the Plaza Hotel, New York, New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Ely Culbertson and Mr. and Mrs. P. Hal Sims will be heard at 11:30 p. m. over the CBS-WABC network in a summary of the day's and evening's play of their current bridge match. They will be heard at this time on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday in further discussions of their contract bridge tournament plays.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 3

ONE MAN'S FAMILY will come to listeners from coast-to-coast beginning today at 8 p. m. over an NBC-WEAF network, under the sponsorship of the makers of Chase and Sanborn Tender Leaf Tea. It succeeds the Mary Pickford dramas.

HAL KEMP AND HIS ORCHESTRA, assisted by the songs and comedy of Peggy Flynn and Sam Hearn, begin a new series of Penthouse Party broadcasts at 8 p. m. over an NBC-WJZ network, sponsored by the makers of Eno.

EVERETT MARSHALL returns to the air to head the cast of Broadway Varieties at 8:30 p. m. over the CBS-WABC network.

THURSDAY, APRIL 4

SMILING ED McCONNELL will be heard at 1:45 p. m. over the CBS-WABC network, in addition to his Sunday programs at 6:30 p. m.

FRIDAY, APRIL 5

DANDIES OF YESTERDAY, male quartet, is heard weekly at 1:30 p. m. over an NBC-WJZ network.

JOSE ESCHANIZ, concert pianist, will be heard at 8:15 p. m. over an NBC-WJZ network.

SATURDAY, APRIL 6

A BROADCAST FROM ENGLAND will describe the annual contest between the crack oarsmen of Oxford and Cambridge University as they race on the Thames River. The CBS-WABC audience will hear the broadcast from 9:30 to 10:15 a. m.

MINIATURE THEATER, one-act playlets, will be on the air every Saturday from 2:30 to 3 p. m. over an NBC-WJZ network.

With the close of the Metropolitan Opera season the NBC Music Guild program, hitherto heard on Friday afternoons, will be broadcast on Saturdays from 3:30 to 4:30 p. m. over an NBC-WEAF network. The Monday, Tuesday and Thursday NBC Music Guild programs will continue at their regular hours.

FREDERIC WILLIAM WILE'S discussion of The Political Situation in Washington Tonight will be heard at 6 p. m. instead of at 1 p. m., beginning today, over the CBS-WABC network.

RABBI JONAH B. WISE of New York will be the guest speaker during April in the Jewish program series heard every Saturday at 6 p. m. over an NBC-WJZ network.

AL JOLSON returns to radio tonight as the headliner of a new full hour program, Shell Chateau, heard at 9:30 p. m. over an NBC-WEAF network, under the sponsorship of the makers of Shell Gasoline.

As a tribute to Army Day a special program from the Mayflower Hotel in Washington will be broadcast at 10:30 p. m. over an NBC-WJZ network. An address by Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas at the banquet of The Military Order of World War Army Day will be the high spot of the broadcast.

The Cover Girl

THERE IS certain to be compensation in life for one and all—even fellows who play the flute. The reward for George Possell, flutist for Walter Damrosch's orchestra, was the opportunity to meet, woo and wed Helen Jepson, whose blonde, exciting beauty is portrayed on this week's cover.

Fate played sort of a jolly trick on Helen. It imbued her with a mad yearning one day to become a star in the Metropolitan Opera Company, and then arranged for the event long before she thought she was ready. She is one of the members of that charmed circle of artists who didn't suffer rejection in her first or second application for a hearing at the big Manhattan opera house.

Gatti-Casazza solicited her for an audition, and it was just a matter of formality—he was pretty certain in advance that she was just the artist he was seeking. And he had heard her on the radio.

But back of the Jepson curtain of fame is a far more complicated scene than that. Helen can tell you of weary weeks on the candle-light circuit, doing Chautauqua shows in sunshine, stifling heat or pouring rain; of singing to empty benches and heartless rustics who didn't think sopranos were so essential to a good Chautauqua program when you could get performers who were much louder and funnier.

She was born November 28, 1906, in Titusville, Pennsylvania. The town originally had gained fame as the site of the world's first oil well, but that glow had just about worn off in the light of later developments in the world of petroleum, when Miss Jepson came along to restore the prestige of the village.

Helen Jepson may be heard with Paul Whiteman's Music Hall Thursdays at 10 p. m. EST (9 CST) over an NBC network.

LEARN MUSIC 2 to 3 Times Faster This EASY Way

Yes, you can actually learn to play your favorite instrument 2 to 3 times faster this amazing short-cut way! No expensive teacher—no tiresome scales and exercises—no confusing theories. You learn at home, in your spare time, at a cost of only a few cents a day. Every step is as clear as ABC—and before you know it, you are playing real tunes by note. Just pick any instrument you want to play and the U. S. School of Music will do the rest.

FREE BOOK Send for free booklet and demonstration lesson. These explain our wonderful home study course fully. Mention instrument preferred.

U. S. SCHOOL OF MUSIC,
4334 Brunswick Bldg., New York, N. Y.

One Cent a Day Brings $100 a Month

Over $900,000.00 in cash benefits have already been paid to one-cent-a-day policyholders by National Protective Insurance Co., 421 Pickwick Bldg., Kansas City, Mo., the oldest and largest company of its kind.

Their new policy pays maximum Principal Sum benefits of $4,000, increasing to $6,000. Maximum monthly benefits of $100 are payable up to 24 months. Large cash sums are paid immediately for fractures, dislocations, etc. Also liberal benefits are paid for any and every accident. Same old price—just one cent a day. Age limits for policy—men, women and children—ages 7 to 80 years.

Send No Money
For 10 days' free inspection of policy, simply send name, age, address, beneficiary's name and relationship. No application to fill out, no medical examination. After reading policy, which will be mailed to you, either return it or send $3.65 which pays you up for a whole year—365 days. Write National Protective today while offer is still open.

12 POUNDS IN 5 WEEKS
... or no cost!

NO DIETING...NO STRENUOUS EXERCISES...NO SELF DENIAL

YOU... eat what you wish and as much as you want!

Sounds too good to be true! Yet it is true. Dilex-Redusols increase your metabolism, which after all is nothing more than turning surplus fat into energy. There is no need to change your present mode of living in any way, yet objectionable surplus fat... especially around hips and waist... will quickly disappear!

THE DILEX-REDUSOL WAY IS THE SAFE WAY!

Beware of products claiming more rapid reduction... physicians agree that 16 pounds a month is the limit of safety. And do not accept any substitute for SAFE Dilex-Redusols... the capsules which reduce fat by increasing metabolism. Dilex-Redusols contain no thyroid extract or other harmful ingredients and are absolutely safe when taken according to directions.

HON. J. J. LYONS, Former Secretary of State, REDUCED 18 POUNDS IN 5 WEEKS!

Why don't you rid yourself of burdensome FAT, too! Remember, you REDUCE 12 pounds in 5 weeks or it costs you nothing!

DILEX INSTITUTE, Inc.
9 East 40th St., Dept. 374, New York City

Enclosed find $3.00, please forward, postpaid, one box of 90 Dilex-Redusols Capsules in plain wrapper.

Send Dilex-Redusols Capsules, C. O. D. I will pay postman $3.00 (plus 23c postage). If I do not lose at least 12 pounds after taking the first box of Dilex-Redusols as directed, you will refund my $3.

DO YOU SUFFER FROM PSORIASIS?

IF SO, WRITE FOR BOOKLET ON SIROIL!

Don't delay. This relief has accomplished wonders for men, women and children who have been chronic sufferers from psoriasis. Siroil applied externally to the affected area causes the scales to disappear, the red blotches to fade out and the skin to resume its normal texture. Siroil backs with a guarantee the claim that if it does not relieve you within two weeks—and you are the sole judge—your money will be refunded. Write for booklet upon this new treatment. Don't delay. Write at once.

SIROIL LABORATORIES INC. 1214 Griswold St., Dept. R-G Detroit, Mich.

The Strange Condition That Causes Hay-Fever

There is an unknown condition about Hay-Fever which causes many people to believe that nothing can be done for it. Mr. R. O. Murphy, Box 597, Stillwater, Minn., who freed himself from the sufferings of Hay-Fever, will explain this condition without charge to anyone who writes him. Just send your name and address at once, because strange as it may seem this is the time of the year to treat and prevent Hay-Fever suffering. —Adv

Now We Know

And How Dormant Roots Grow New Hair When Dandruff Germ Is Removed From Scalp Skin.

(Learn What to Do Free)

An amazing new discovery now enables any one to harmlessly remove a most insidious cause of scalp itch, falling hair and baldness. A germ called "Flask Bacilla of Unna" in the scalp skin produces a most aggravating, hair destroying type of dandruff. Pores and tiny openings of the hair follicles become congested and plugged up. You can't wash this away with soap and water, shampoo, tonics, oils and ointments. No wonder so many lose hair and become bald.

This new discovery actually takes off the germ-laden, congested, thin outer layer of scalp skin in six days' time; gives you a clean, new scalp skin free to breathe in air, sunshine, and to absorb a stimulating, nourishing scalp food to activate the sleeping, dormant hair roots and glands to function as Nature intended and grow new hair. It is the most sensational discovery yet made in the history of dandruff, falling hair and baldness, and seems destined to revolutionize treatments for growing new hair. A new Treatise called "GROW HAIR," revealing the anatomy of your hair and telling what to do, is now being mailed ABSOLUTELY FREE to readers of this paper who write to it. Address: Dermolay Lab., Desk 312-C, No. 1700 Broadway, New York, N. Y. and it will come in plain wrapper, postpaid. If pleased, tell friends who have hair troubles.

By Chas. A. Morrison

(Time Shown Is Eastern Standard. Figures in Parentheses Denote Megacycles, or Thousands of Kilocycles.)

THE importance that radio has assumed in international politics has never been more clearly demonstrated than in Adolph Hitler's startling announcement to the world, via short waves, of Germany's definite and finally abandoning the Versailles treaty.

A few minutes after this drastic statement was issued from Germany, the radio channels of the world were humming with the frantic interchange of messages between statesmen of the various world powers, each trying to decide just how this announcement was going to affect his individual country. The English translation of Hitler's speech came through DJB, Zeesen, Germany, on Sunday morning, March 17, from 10:45 to 11 a. m.

Without making any attempt to philosophize, I say that short wave listening is destined to be an important factor in deciding whether or not there will be another war. Today one may decide for himself the vital issues of the day by tuning from country to country.

STARTING April 1, the new schedule of the Hungarian short wave stations will be: HAS3 (15.37), 19.52 meters, Sundays, 9-10 a. m.; HAT4 (9.12), 32.88 meters, Sundays, 6-7 p. m. This is the first time HAT4 has ever been on the air with a regular broadcast. Communications should be addressed to Radiolabor, Budapest, Gyali-ut 22, Hungary.

Advance Programs

FOR THOSE WHO like to try for unusual, and rare stations, the International DXers Alliance has arranged a special broadcast from that tiny short wave station TI-60W, in Puerto Limon, Costa Rica. This broadcast will take place on April 1 from 1 to 3 a. m. At this time they will be testing a new transmitter and will use either 7 or 7.07 megs.

Davenport, GSA (6.05) and GSC (9.58) Sunday, March 31, 7 p. m.—Baptist service from North Road Baptist Church, Huddersfield. Monday, April 1, 6:15 p. m.—The Gossip Hour, 6th edition. 7 p. m.—Talk, "Nanda Devi and Watershed of the Ganges," by Eric Shipton. Tuesday, April 2, 6:15 p. m.—Talk, "Church Choirs of the Empire." 6:30 p. m.—An Organ Recital from Broadcasting House. 7 p. m.—"Affairs Piratic," Merry moments 'neath the Jolly Roger, by Wm. MacLurg. Wednesday, April 3, 6 p. m.—Big Ben; The Band

Studio News and Notes

By Murray Arnold

NEW TO THE announcing staff at NKYW is ROBERT ARTHUR, former announcer at WOR. Arthur, born in Cleveland, was graduated with an electrical engineering degree from Ohio State College, and before entering radio, appeared on the stage with such stars as Jeanette MacDonald and Bert Lytell.

TWO YEARS AGO Marion Brewster, former member of the WGY staff, lost her voice. Last Friday she returned to the air to give a quarter hour song recital, her voice fully restored.

STEPHANY DIAMOND, ex-WCAE announcer and dramatic star, now heard with the Joe Penner program, traveled all the way from New York last week to learn to talk like a cat for her following week's show on the network. Her teacher was none other than Dave Olsen, music librarian and sound effects expert at WCAE. Incidentally, Dave just made the team of the Pittsburgh Revolver Club, and that's certainly making his mark.

ART KASSEL Plays a BUESCHER

Popular leader of one of the best liked bands on the air, Art Kassel himself uses a Buescher True-Tone Saxophone in all his playing. In tone and playing qualities the Buescher meets the most exacting tests of the microphone. That's why so many of the leading directors and soloists personally use Buescher Band Instruments. A Buescher will Advice on 4 questions if you order at once. My 20 years study of the science of astrology is yours to command.

ME! The following is in answer to H. D.'s request:

- Will I succeed as a drugless physician? A. Taurus born natives make successful physicians, have a keen intellect and successful in diagnosing illness and applying the proper remedy. By all means stay in this field.
- Will my son, born June 13, 1933, have good health? A. Had your son been born a day sooner, he would not, I believe, outlive his infant years due to the Moon-Saturn opposition. However, his health outlook is very excellent and he succeeds in life thru his magnetic personality. He will likely be an author.
- Before I married, I courted a girl who now threatens "breach of promise." How will this turn out? A. You probably received this "threat" during the past 60 days when under adverse social aspects. You will never be sued by this person.
- Will I make more money in 1935 and what event of particular importance do you believe is in store for me during this period? A. You will do much better in 1935 in a financial way. There's plenty of hard work and much success. Money you thought lost will be recovered.

ONE WOMAN TO ANOTHER

GET A MODERN WOMAN'S REMEDY TO

RELIEVE PAIN and IRREGULARITY Now

Don't suffer unnecessarily when nature fails you. Do as other women do. Get a modern woman's praised remedy for gaining quick relief. Used by thousands of women from coast to coast for relief of late appearing, suppressed periods and similar abnormal functional irregularities. Only a woman knows how another woman can suffer at times so if you are troubled with irregularities read every word of this message from another woman who wants to help women everywhere.

My "Special Relief Compound" is designed to be QUICKER IN ACTION THAN PILLS OR TABLETS. Compounded of time tested vegetable ingredients used by physicians and nurses for over a quarter of a century because of their reputed power to relieve pain and aid in restoring a normal action. Safe. Harmless. Does not contain any narcotics, habit forming or harsh mineral drugs, only pure laboratory tested vegetable extracts used for their effectiveness in functional periodic disturbances. Women report relief, often in a few days, without pain or inconvenience. Friendly testimonials like these reach me from women the country over.

C. W. "I was late nine weeks. Had a natural action in 3 days." D. C. "I was about 6 weeks past, in 5 days I was O.K. It is wonderful being odorless, tasteless and pleasant to take." E. U. "Tardy for 3 weeks. Relief started on 4th day. Simple as A.B.C. to take!" G. V. "After two months—relief started on 5th day." Send for reports of many others.

SEND NO MONEY

If it is inconvenient to get a money order or a bank draft I will be pleased to send your order C.O.D. I will pay the regular postage as usual but you pay the C.O.D. Fee. However, if you wish to save time and possible embarrassment I suggest you send remittance with your order. Nearly every woman who orders does so for it is much quicker. I do not recommend C. O. D. if you wish prompt service. Your order will be shipped the same day as received in a plain box, carefully sealed so it cannot be tampered with.

SPECIAL TRIAL SIZE 25c

If you have never had the pleasure of trying my "Special Relief Compound" I will be pleased to send you a sample of Formula No. 2 for 25c. I make this offer particularly to those who may have tried other remedies without success and who perhaps are a bit doubtful as to the merits of my compound. The fact that a great many of my orders come from friends of my customers is ample evidence of the great good it is doing. Many of my customers say they are glad they found out about my remedy and that they will use no other. Regular package $2.00. Special Formula No. 2 for slow regulating functions $3.00. Two packages for $5.00. All orders are given personal attention and mailed quickly. Don't let disorders persist. Send for this popular remedy today. You don't need to write me a letter, just use the coupon for FAST SERVICE.

LITERATURE FREE

My private talk "Do As Other Women Do" will be sent FREE to all women who desire to relieve pain and irregularity now. Other interesting literature together with a "personal record" calendar for 1935 will also be included. Send for this. It's FREE. Use coupon. No obligation.

WORDS FROM FRIENDLY USERS

- P. S. "Your compound is the best I have ever used. I was a little more than two weeks past. I had good results in four days."
 P. B. "I used six boxes of your Compound. I used to have the most painful time every month, now since using your Compound I am greatly relieved. I also was late once 10 days but was relieved in 12 hours."
 H. M. Y. "I can truthfully say your Formula No. 2 is a blessing to women. After missing five weeks I took one box and in five days I got relief."
 E. K. "Your compound proved highly satisfactory. After two and a half weeks on the function appeared again in regular form."
 J. M. "The Formula No. 2 was very satisfactory, having been past six weeks the function resumed very normally and without pain."
 H. C. "After taking your compound for 5 days I was relieved with no pain or inconvenience whatever."
 J. McC. "I have just finished one box of your compound and found relief after being tardy for 6 weeks. I have just received my second box but will keep them on hand."

NOTE—Some women even report quick relief after spending many times the cost on other treatments that they say failed. H. E. "I was 12 days past and all that I needed was one box Formula No. 2. Sorry I did not know of your Compound before as I spent a lot of money on other treatments that did not help me bit." J. McC. "I have just finished one box of your Compound and found relief after being six weeks without. I had spent considerable money on medicines before I tried yours but not relief until I used one box Formula No. 2. I shall never be without them."

Amos 'n' Andy—Here They Are

to a glossary of names in their office dictionary and listed from it, alphabetically, all of the male titles which they believed would be used by a Negro mammy for one of her boys. They never got beyond the A's. For the bluff, know-it-all character they had devised, Andrew struck them as thoroughly typical. For his meek but more intelligent pal, Amos impressed them as positively ideal. The alliteration made for euphony, and the contraction of Andrew to Andy produced a short and easily remembered title.

Thus were born the two adventurers whose careers were shortly to be the concern of an entire continent—whose words were to halt service in public cafes; whose lives were, for a time so to confound theater owners that many of them found it expedient to interrupt shows and permit their audiences to hear the broadcast right in the theaters, in order to accommodate the customers who otherwise would not stir from their firesides until each evening's Amos 'n' Andy episode was concluded.

WMAQ officials were more lenient with Gosden and Correll about the proposed recordings which would permit broadcasting of the day's episode simultaneously in all parts of the country. Their decision was far-sighted. Already the station had NBC affiliations for occasional network purposes, and its owners realized that popularizing the Amos 'n' Andy sketches in remote sections of the country would provide them with a high-class feature for later sale to the big chain organization.

With Robb directing their business affairs, the broadcasting by records was inaugurated. The plan was simple enough. Independent stations were offered ten successive recorded broadcasts, with the understanding that if they proved unpopular the contract would be abrogated automatically. It is almost needless to say that no station that launched the series ever cancelled its contract. Within a year the Amos 'n' Andy disconnected chain was the largest on record, and it was to be many years before any of the network organizations would approximate, for single broadcasts, the number of stations included in that phonographic network controlled by Gosden and Correll.

It was not until a few months after the network was set up that the boys had any idea of the popularity which they had attained. In response to a request from a theatrical firm in the Northwest they decided to make a personal appearance tour along the Pacific Coast in hope of bringing themselves into the public eye.

Their first stop was San Francisco. Their previous experience as hams playing seemingly interminable theatrical tours in no way prepared them for what happened in that city. They were accustomed to the routine of debarking from day-coaches, unostentatiously entering those mysterious back doors which characterize all show houses, and there fighting the customary battles for billing and position.

It is a fact that when Correll and Gosden stepped down the Pullman steps and saw the horde which had turned out to greet them, they instinctively turned around to watch other passengers alight, thinking that some movie star or national

It was Robb who first realized that the crowd was there to welcome Amos 'n' Andy, the two bashful Chicago entertainers who had come West in the hope that they might build up some prestige with potential listeners. Save for the huge mail response to their recent contest, this year—which was amazing in light of the fact that the act was charged with waning in popularity—that San Francisco greeting, which took on all the aspects of a civic holiday, still stands out in the minds of Freeman Gosden and Charles Correll as the most vivid experience in their entire success story.

"Boy, that was sumpin'," is their characteristic, succinct summary of the occasion. In light of later developments it appears to the lay eye as practically nothing, but it was eventful to a pair of aspiring actors who, to phrase the cliché of the day, "didn't know their own strength."

For two years Amos 'n' Andy pursued the weird experiences of the Fresh Air Taxicab Co., Incorporated, over WMAQ and via their widely distributed records.

Their first omen of what was in store for them materialized from a totally unexpected telephone call which brought them into contact with an old friend of WEBB days, Sen Kaney. By then Kaney had ascended to managerial capacity with the National Broadcasting Company. It was just prior to one of the boys' broadcasts that Correll received the call. Kaney said:

"I wonder if you could come in some time tomorrow morning. Niles Trammell would like to have a talk with you."

Trammell is vice-president of NBC and manager of all its Chicago activities. That call was pregnant with eventualities—yet prominent among them was a decision which might easily have subjugated Amos 'n' Andy to a point where their identities would have been so merged with others that their tremendous future might have been forever balked.

Learn how the future of Amos 'n' Andy hung in the balance—in next week's issue of RADIO GUIDE. In the forthcoming installment will be disclosed the plans of the sponsor who wanted to employ Gosden and Correll, but who wasn't convinced that a symphony orchestra might have a greater appeal—or that if he did use the act, how it might be presented to better advantage in an entirely different setting. How the boys themselves, along with Sen Kaney, fought and conquered, is fully revealed in next week's issue. Don't fail to read these intimate revelations.

Amos 'n' Andy may be heard every day except Saturday and Sunday at 7 p. m. EST (6 CST) over an NBC-WJZ network, and on the same days at 11 p. m. EST (10 CST, 9 MST and 8 PST) over a split NBC network.

On Busman's Holiday

was stationed at the door, and he greeted each guest with a grandiloquent bow, supplemented with a blast on the trumpet. The poor bugler almost pulled himself into a state of collapse, for the guests packed the living-room, overflowed into the dining-room and finally into the kitchen.

The Jack Bennys, the Fred Allens, and the Ed Wynns are real home-bodies and seldom entertain, particularly the latter two couples. Wynn and Allen write their own radio scripts, and this keeps them busy most of the time. Fred and Portland occasionally step out, but the Fire Chief and his wife eschew parties for the most part.

Jack Benny and Mary used to do a lot of entertaining, but since the adoption of Baby Joan their social activities have been curtailed considerably. Their parties are designed along informal lines, and lavishness is taboo.

Bennys Bar Shop

Jack and Mary believe in divorcing themselves from show business the minute they cross the threshold of their apartment. This doesn't mean that they have nothing to do with radio or theatrical people socially. To the contrary, they draw their best friends from these professions, but shop talk for shop talk's sake is ruled out.

The Benny's Essex House apartment on the 12th floor and overlooking Central Park is modestly furnished. Dinner is served in the big living room and usually on a card table. If there are more than four guests, the dining-room table is used.

Early last month Paul and Margaret Whiteman staged a party called the "Breakfast Breakdown," which for sheer swank and splendor, outranked anything previously attempted by the jazz monarch and his lovely wife.

The affair was staged in a private dining room at the Biltmore Hotel in New York, in an atmosphere that was trance-like in its beauty. The tables were set with especially prepared Rhapsody in Blue tablecloths—broken stripes of blue and white that suggested musical staves. The glasses carried out the Rhapsody motif, being of a soft shade of Mexican blue, with the china decorated in cerise.

Everything was carried out in grand style and elegant proportions. Several concert pianists and violinists played excerpts from the classics; the only light touch in entertainment was provided by George Gershwin, who played the Rhapsody, also a medley of his other compositions. The names of the distinguished guests present at the affair read like a page torn from the Social Register—Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Astor, Mr. and Mrs. Whitney, the John Wanamakers, the Herbert Bayard Swopes, the Rhinelander Stewarts and others from the same social stratum.

The idea behind the Breakfast Breakdown party was a Sunday morning breakfast for those who had arisen late in the morning, and a light supper for those who had started their day early. So the menu was heavier than cocktail-hour food.

Ace of Hosts

When the Goodman Aces give a party you may rest assured that plenty of celebrities will be on hand to pep things up, for the Aces are among the most genial hosts in all etherdom.

Goodman and Jane are a happy, skylarking and fun-loving couple who are noted for their swell dinners and their wide selection of wine, Scotch, rye and bourbon. Bridge, backgammon, and gab are their favorite forms of recreation, and if you think you know the finer points of contract or auction bridge, come up and play 'em sometime.

Abe Lyman probably is the most noted off-stage entertainer in the radio world. The Club Lyman they call his Warwick Hotel apartment, and almost any night of the week you'll find the stars of the entertainment world gathered there for laughs, eats and sprightly talk.

Another lavish radio host is Jimmy Melton. Should you drop in the East Avenue penthouse when Jimmy and his lovely blonde wife are staging a party, you generally will find opera stars or concert and stage notables gathered there. Like all singers, the Meltons like to gather with others in the same field, although occasionally you'll find a generous sprinkling of the Park Avenue set also present. John Charles Thomas and Lawrence Tibbett never miss one of Jimmy's parties, and always the feature attraction of the night is a vocal selection rendered by this distinguished triumvirate.

And that is the excellent summary of what happens when the radio stars go a-partying. They do their stuff for their friends—stars on a busman's holiday.

One Knight Off

a microphone in the center of a stage-shaped terrace, I call out: "Here comes an idea... take it away, Miss Gallagher."

At this my faithful secretary, who has been taking it for five years, whips out her notebook and calls back through the studio speaker: "Shoot, Kid!" Hastily I dictate the rough outline of some magnificent ether program, and as I talk I can see through the glass windows of the control room how fast her fingers are flying as she endeavors to control the flow of language which is pouring to her out of the loudspeaker.

As soon as the rough idea is outlined, I signal to Smedley, who has been sitting in one of the 1,500 living-room chairs, and he steps to the microphone.

"This concludes our dictation," he says. "You have been listening to Raymond Knight, the Voice of the Diaphragm, in a program of his own ideas. This is Smedley Herman Butler, saying—good-night and God bless you."

With this completed, the next thing is to polish up the program, put dialogue in it, select the music and find a sponsor.

I allow myself from fifteen minutes to one hour to write a radio script. As I seat myself at my desk, Smedley poises himself with one eye on the clock. "Quiet, please!" he announces. The visitors peer through the window. Then Smedley, standing before a Louis of XVI Street microphone, rings a small set of chimes and says: "We take pleasure in presenting at this time fifteen—or thirty as the case may be—minutes of creative work by Raymond Knight. Mr. Knight is sent to you through the courtesy of his mother and father, the manufacturers of Raymond Knight."

This is my cue, and as I dash off page after page of manuscript, they are seized by a uniformed page who rushes them across the room to Miss Gallagher, where she types them off. Sometimes she gets excited at the speed of writing, and once she slipped the uniformed page into the rollers of the typewriter instead of the manuscript page. But she never repeated this.

Meanwhile, a small string orchestra plays soft background music to fit the mood of the particular type of program I am writing.

As the end of the period approaches, Smedley lifts a warning finger. This means I have but one minute left to finish the program. My fingers race, writing against time, but as the sign-off comes, I must of necessity, stop.

Smedley holds up his hand. I dot my last "t" and jab my last period, and as I drop my pencil Smedley announces into the microphone: "You have been listening to Fifteen Minutes with Raymond Knight. He will now say a few words to you."

At this I lean over to my desk microphone, breathe deeply and say: "Hello, Mama... Hello, Papa... It was a tough battle... but I made it. Another Raymond Knight program has been written!"

That's how I do it.

Crook + Wife + Radio

the girl said dully. "I've often wished I could. But I can't." Suddenly she frowned in a puzzled sort of way. "But tell me—how did you get out of that Canadian jail?"

Fred Haight smirked. "Leave it to me, baby!" he boasted. "And I only had to knock one guard over to do it, too!" Patricia Haight shuddered. She believed him. Fred would kill like a rattlesnake to gain anything important to him.

Now he had escaped. Undoubtedly, the police of two countries were after him and—he was dragging her down again.

"It isn't fair!" she wailed, losing control of her voice so that her words echoed clearly throughout the small restaurant. In the kitchen, the cook picked up a large cleaver, clenched his jaw. Certainly it wasn't fair. Patricia had told him how she met Haight on a train bound for Florida in 1926. He was boyish, lively, pleasant—and she fell in love with him. Not till a year later did she know that he had ever been a criminal. But after that year of happiness came disillusionment. Fred Haight returned to crookdom.

Shanghaied Wife

"Nuts to this!" Fred growled. "You're comin'—now!" He stood up, and so did his sleek friend. Fred Haight commenced to drag his whimpering wife across the restaurant floor to the door.

The cook ran out with the cleaver in his hand. A waiter started, stepped forward from another direction.

"Don't!" screamed Patricia. "He'll kill you!"

Swiftly, Fred Haight snatched a snub-nosed automatic pistol from his pocket. "Stand back!" he snarled. "Stay where you are, or I'll let you have it!"

The cook and the waiter stood still. Patricia sobbed wearily. Still clutching her wrist, Fred Haight pulled her through the door.

Meanwhile, Fred Haight's gangster friend had left him alone with Patricia. The two of them were in a taxi, speeding towards Fred's apartment. He was trying to comfort her.

Once in the apartment, Haight brightened again. It was a nice place.

"Look!" he said, sweeping his arm around in a grand gesture. "Your future home, baby!" The girl sat on a divan. She didn't look at him. "You'll get used to it!"

He sat beside her. "Give your husband a nice kiss!" he demanded, seizing her.

Patricia Haight screamed. He was her husband, but the prospect of his caresses nauseated her.

Suddenly there was a pounding on the door.

Telltale Shot

"Open the door!" an angry voice cried. "You can't get away with that kind of thing in this building!"

"Who's there?" snarled Fred Haight. He was furiously angry. Patricia saw the big veins pulsing at his temple, as he drew the automatic. "Who are you?"

"I'm Roux, the janitor!" the voice came through the door. "Come on, open up here! What d'ye think this is?" "Get away from there or I'll blow you to hell!" roared Haight.

But Janitor Roux inserted his pass key into the lock and began to open the door.

The gun in Haight's hand jumped, with a roar. His wife screamed as a bullet ripped through the thin wood. Outside there sounded a jingle as the janitor dropped his key-ring and ran. He didn't run far, however—just to a telephone where he put through a call to police headquarters. And a few seconds afterward this radio call was broadcast:

"Calling Scout Car one-three . . . Scout Car one-three . . . Go to five-eight five-eight John R Street . . . Man with gun there . . . Five-eight five-eight John R Street . . . Man with gun . . . WCK . . . That's all . . ."

"That's us!" exclaimed Patrolman Ambrose Dolney, to the driver of Scout Car 13.

"Don't you s'pose I know my own squad number?" demanded his buddy, Patrolman Ed Pitts. He yawned, even while tooling the fast car around to obey orders. "Probably just another drunk gettin' gay with an empty gun."

"A night in the cooler'll sober him up," Dolney commented. "That reminds me of one time . . ." To these yeomen of the law, a man with a gun was just another item in the day's work.

But they changed their minds when Pearson Roux, the janitor, told them of the bullet that had ripped through the door.

"He's turned out the lights in the upper hall, too!" the excited man added.

The two policemen started for the stairs. Up above their heads they heard a noise as of someone running a few steps—then a gun roared—and roared again. Two slugs tore sideways through Dolney's coat—but miraculously failed to scratch him.

"That's what I got for cops!" Haight yelled down. "Want some more?"

"All you got, mister!" said Dolney calmly. This time he deliberately sprawled as he spoke.

Flashes of light showed in the darkness ahead—flashes, and the barking of an automatic once—twice—thrice as the gangster poured hot lead down that staircase.

Coolly, while slugs gouged, slanting, into the wall above his head, Dolney returned the fire, shooting into the darkness at the spot from which those flashes of fire emanated. Working with him in perfect team-play, Ed Pitts fired over his head.

Suddenly something thudded onto the floor in the darkness, up ahead.

"Guess we got him, Ed," murmured Dolney.

"Maybe he's foxing."

With guns ready, the two policemen climbed the stairs, edging up cautiously. But Haight wasn't foxing. He was past that.

Pitched on his head, and pumped as full of lead as the legendary Dan McGrew, the gunman lay with blood pouring from wounds in head and chest.

Saved by Radio

Inside the apartment they discovered Patricia Haight, covering in mortal terror. She told them that her husband had just threatened to shoot her, when they arrived.

Swift police inquiry established the fact that Haight had a record as a most daring and dangerous gunman.

"You know," Patrolman Dolney said, as he and Pitts went about their routine duties next day, "that Haight girl sure had plenty of guts. Telling that bozo she wouldn't live with him, an' all."

"You're telling me?" Pitts snorted. "Why, he mighta shot her. She sure is a spunky kid!"

And neither one said anything about the courage it took to shoot it out with an infuriated killer, on a dark staircase. That was just in the day's work—the work for which policemen so seldom get the credit they deserve.

Suddenly the radio spoke:

"Calling Scout Car one-three . . . Scout Car one-three . . ."

"Say!" Dolney exclaimed suddenly. "Did I tell you? That Haight guy shot eleven holes in me clothes—right over the belly!"

"Haw!" laughed Pitts. "I told you you were gettin' too fat! If your belly didn't stick out like that, he'd 'a' missed it!"

Coppers are like that. It's the main reason crime doesn't pay.

EDDIE CANTOR

As He Appears Under the MIKEroscope

By Fred Kelly

THERE IS a disposition among skeptics to twit Eddie Cantor about his frequent references to Ida, his wife, and their five daughters. Perhaps if the public better understood the beautiful love story between Mrs. Cantor and her comedian-husband, there would be less of criticism and more of recognition of Eddie's tributes to his loyal life partner.

His frequent reference to his family, particularly Ida, is not an effort to aggrandize her or them. It is Eddie's only way of acknowledging publicly—as all of these sagas of wifely loyalty should be—the tremendous debt which he owes her for her moral support, not alone since they began married life but in the hard and exacting days of their courtship.

It is natural to view the pop-eyed jester as a millionaire whose life is made sweet by public acclaim and the possession of all the required comforts of life. But that's just a late phase of the Cantor career; its prominence is apt to bedim the struggles by which he acquired his present status.

And those were the days when he was busy piling up a moral obligation to Ida that no amount of public or private adulation could dissipate. So when Eddie lauds her or refers to her on his programs, it isn't pride talking—it's gratitude.

Eddie's success of recent years only reflects the vicissitudes he had to endure to attain it. But over his entire life shines the glow of Mrs. Cantor's endless encouragement and abiding faith in the eventual conquest of the world by "her man."

Eddie once determined to turn his back on the theater in order that he might win the girl whom he idolized. It was a sacrifice hard to understand by anyone not aware of Cantor's natural inclination for the stage. His clowning is inherent.

To him the theater wasn't a mere expedient because it offered an outlet for a bubbling humor. It was his medium and he knew it. None other would do. Yet he unhesitatingly said no to his impulses when he learned that if he persisted in his determination to go on the stage, Ida's parents would forever ban the union which the two youngsters from the Ghetto, he and Ida, planned and yearned for.

Yet it was Ida herself who altered the tide of his career. When she realized that he was a misfit in the commercial world, it was she who demanded that he abandon it and follow the pursuit for which he was equipped so wholesomely. It would mean the death of romance, Eddie argued, as he refused.

It would be the birth of happiness, Ida retorted. And she planned to marry him in spite of the firmly knit devotion to her parents which is the heritage of Jewish children. Domestic dictates were one thing, but the happiness of two people was even more to be considered.

Fortunately any threatened rift was averted when Ida followed the dictates of her heart, married her girlhood sweetheart and made him accept a tendered European theatrical contract. But though that rift followed, she still would have made the choice.

So many wives whose guidance has led husbands to the heights, have been relegated to the background or abandoned entirely, that Eddie Cantor defies precedent by not only clinging to his faithful mate but by trying to reflect upon her at least a share of the glory in which he basks.

It is the sort of gratitude which some express in memorial halls, endowments or showy monuments. But Eddie just happens to subscribe to the theory that the time to express appreciation is while the recipient of it still can enjoy the manifestation.

Eddie was born January 31, 1892. He has passed forty, but for Eddie life did not begin there. Eddie and Ida have enjoyed life and romance for many years.

Favorite Stories of the Stars

Conrad Thibault's favorite yarn concerns a young and ambitious English crooner who arrived here with the avowed intention of setting the radio waves afire with his talents. After spending many weary weeks trying to obtain a radio audition, the disappointed young Englishman finally came to his friend Thibault for assistance.

"I thought I could do it all on my own, Conrad," he said, "but now I see that I need some assistance. Will you help me?"

"Of course," replied Conrad.

A few telephone calls to the right people, and an audition for the youngster was arranged.

"Now don't get nervous at the microphone," advised the star.

"Just keep a stiff upper lip and I'm sure that you'll do all right."

Conrad chuckles as he tells of the denouement to this little drama. "Why do Englishmen always take instructions so literally?" he asks with a laugh.

"I met the youngster the next day and I asked him how he made out. 'Rotten,' was his down-hearted answer. 'I just couldn't keep my upper lip stiff, and I flunked the test!'"

Leon Belasco, the bandmaster, tells of the time he attended a banquet at which the late Israel Zangwill was a guest. Leon offers it as an illustration of this famous writer's brilliant extemporaneous wit.

"Mr. Zangwill hated all hecklers, but none so desperately as those who did so, because he was Jewish," relates Belasco.

"At this particular banquet pork was served. Not to offend his host, although it was not his habit, he partook of it.

"Oh, I thought Jews were not allowed to eat pig!" exclaimed a snippy, somewhat insolent young lady who was seated immediately next to him at the banquet table.

"No, no," replied Mr. Zangwill quietly. "We don't mind just pig. We object only to pig-tongue."

"That young lady undoubtedly must have felt very uncomfortable during the remainder of the meal," concludes Leon.
