Happy Listening..

LAST week, we mentioned the program, "It Can Be Done." Today, we received this letter:

"Dear Sirs, you have named some great people who had to fight for their place in the sun. Here is one you overlooked. This boy I know graduated from college and decided that he wanted to be an author. His stories which were sent to magazine after magazine came back. He couldn't sell a word he had written. What hurt was that the editors didn't even bother to send a letter indicating that they thought he had promise. Finally, he took a job in a candy factory.

"One day, sitting in a barber chair, he heard a radio sketch giving a description of New England farm life. He knew who couldn't sell anything is famous for his writing and acting and producing of radio plays. He is Phillips Lord, creator of 'Seth Parker' and 'Gang Busters.'"

Yes, dear reader, we did overlook Phil Lord but the slight is only of the moment. An early issue of Radio Guide will pay tribute to his life in an unusual way. We have rummaged through his private photograph album. We have borrowed his choicest prints, and soon, under the title of "From Preacher's Son to Gang Buster," you will see an arresting picture history of Phil Lord's life.

Candidate for the most impressive speech ever made on the air is this:

Oliver Wendell Holmes, on his 90th birthday, in 1931, was persuaded to speak. He was a Justice of the United States Supreme Court. As a young man, he had received Confederate bullets through his chest at Ball's Bluff. Recovered, he was shot through the neck at Antietam and left for dead. Recovered, his foot was shattered by shrapnel at Chancellorsville. Recovered, once more, he made himself New England's leading citizen. Always, he lived fully and deeply.

At ninety, he said over the air:

"To express one's feelings as the end draws near is to intimate a task. But I may mention one thought. The riders in a race do not stop when they reach the goal. There is a little finishing canter. The race is over but the work is never done while the power to work remains. It cannot be, while you still live. For to live is to function. That is all there is to living. And so I end with a line from a Latin poet: 'Death plucks my ear and says: Live, I am coming'."

Those were this grand old man's last words on the air. His last gesture before he died was equally impressive. He knew the end was near. His friends stood about the bedside, sorrowing. Doctors were at the bed's head, nurses at the foot. The great man lifted his fist and placed the thumb against the end of his nose. Deliberately, he spread his fingers and solemnly waggled them. Then he died.

Let more men like Justice Holmes come to the microphone and let our people hear more messages like his last radio address and radio will fulfill its high destiny!

about New England, and he knew the words he heard were untrue. He decided to write a radio sketch that would really be New England. He sold his first series to a national network. Today, the boy

ON WEDNESDAY, July 15, on the historic campus of the University of Virginia, a college founded by that great disciple of democracy, Thomas Jefferson, Senator Hugo Black of Alabama will face a battery of NBC microphones to take his part in the most democratic radio institution in the world: "The Town Meeting of the Air."

In this, the second of the special summer series of three "Town Meeting" broadcasts, Senator Black will debate with James R. Emory, counsel for the American Association of Manufacturers, the question: "Should There Be Federal Control of Hours and Wages?" And when that debate goes on the air, one of the two or three biggest regular audiences in America will be listening. Eager, intent, they'll strain toward their loudspeakers in order not to miss a single word—"Town Meeting" listeners are like that! They'll hear every syllable of both men's talks—and they'll hear every pointed question asked by the hecklers from the floor. There'll be plenty of hecklers—"Town Meeting" audiences are like that!

WHAT is this "Town Meeting of the Air" and how did it come to stand so high in the radio scheme of things? It hasn't a sponsor; and, believe it or not, doesn't want one! There isn't any script-writer on the "Town Meeting" staff, and you can listen a long time before you'll hear a comedy line. There isn't even one big star, and the cast (the speakers) is changed with every program. There's no continuity. No tense, dramatic situation is left hanging over at the end of a "Town Meeting" to entice the listener to come again. In short, the program hasn't a single one of the ordinary commercial devices used to spur listener interest in every-day radio. You won't find big advertisements in your newspapers arguing the virtues of the "Town Meeting." You won't even find much mention of it in the columns of radio news. Yet, when William Shelly, "The Town Crier," rings his old-fashioned bell to signal the beginning of the program, he's summoning millions of persons to their radios! "Town Meeting" fans would rather miss a meal than a broadcast!

The town-meeting idea is as old as America. It originated in the sober, sensible minds of the old New Englanders, and became one of the firmest supports of their democracy. The town meeting was based on the right of free speech, on the right of any man to have a fair answer to a fair question relating to his government and his well-being—and under this system, New England prospered and grew great.

In 1935, George V. Denny, director of the League for Political Education, went to the National Broadcasting Company with the germ of the idea for the program, begged that it be given a trial as a sustaining feature.

"We'll set up highly controversial questions," he told NBC officials, "invite the best speakers we can get to present all sides of all questions—and then turn the floor—and the air—over to the audience."

The National Broadcasting Company rolled its collective eyes. The idea was radical in the extreme; it ran counter to one of radio's strongest precepts: the notion that controversial matter must be submitted to the powers that be for censorship before being put on the air. George V. Denny proposed to turn a microphone over to people he'd never seen before—to anyone who asked for it, and allow them to say just what they pleased—Coast to Coast!

The bigwigs were full of misgivings, but Denny was persuasive. After all, he assured them, the League for Political Education had sponsored town meetings on a local scale for a long time, and the reaction of their audiences—comprising unusually intelligent and earnest people—was well known. And so, in May, 1935, the first "Town Meeting of the Air" was broadcast. It was a smashing success!

The mail response was overwhelming—and it still is, hitting a recent top of 30,000 letters as the result of one broadcast. The "Town Meeting" was made a regular sustaining feature. Its audience soon hit, and passed, the million mark, and that without benefit of build-up and in competition with three big Thursday night shows: Bing Crosby, "Show Boat," and Horace Heidt! Independently, all over the country, "Town Meeting" fans organized into listening groups, meeting every week to hear the program, then continuing the discussion for hours afterward. They sent for the printed pamphlets containing all the broadcast material, argued over them, traded them, treasured them. The impossible had happened: a clear-cut, forthright presentation of the vital issues of the day, offered without fanfare or trimmings, had taken America by storm!

THE "Town Meeting" regularly goes off the air during summer months. The last regular broadcast this year was on April 29, and it was not planned to resume until fall. But the listeners wouldn't stand for that—summer slump or no summer slump, they wanted their "Town Meeting"! Result was that a special series of three broadcasts was planned: The first at the University of Virginia on July 8 with Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota and Mr. Clark M. Eichelberder of the League of Nations staff discussing, "Can America Remain Neutral?" The second, at the same place, on July 15, with Senator Black and Mr. Emory; the third, at the famous Open Air Auditorium at Chautauqua, New York, on July 22, a symposium under the direction of Mr. James G. McDonald of the New York Times on the subject, "Will Collective Security Give Us the

GREATER COURAGE HATH

For happiness today that would make any other woman gay, Elisabeth Rethberg has paid too great a price. Her smiles are saved for Pets "Puserl" (left) and "Lux"!

TO THE World's Most Perfect Singer," reads the inscription on the medal presented to Elisabeth Rethberg by the Guild of American Vocal Teachers.

Yet all the honors which are today heaped on her cannot bring complete happiness to this woman who rarely smiles. To the cheers that greet her in opera, to the eager autograph seekers who crowd around her after a broadcast, her response—while grateful—is quiet; even a little sad. She has paid too great a price. The road has been too harsh. She has suffered as few women alive have suffered.

Heard in opera, in concert, and on the air, Rethberg is one of those born singers whose singing begins practically in the cradle. She was caroling the melodies of little German folk-tunes before she could speak the words. The villagers in the little town in which she was born in the Erz Mountains used to gather around her go-cart and listen to her. At ten she not only sang but played the piano well enough to be in demand for local concerts. And today she is renowned throughout the world.

Then—why? . . . Elisabeth's father was a poor school-teacher. Poverty in her childhood meant nothing to her. For one thing she was too young to realize that she and her four brothers and sisters were less well fed and clothed than other boys and girls. For another, she was too enraptured by music to pay much attention to the outside world. There was always music in the Saettler household. (Rethberg is a stage name.) The mother sang. The father played the piano and the organ. All of Elisabeth's brothers and sisters were taking piano lessons. Young as she was, with typical German thoroughness she used to set goals for herself. "By the fifth of November," she would decide, "I must learn to play the Beethoven Appassionata."

But when she grew a little older and it was agreed that she ought to go on with her music, she began to feel the pinch. There was no money. The only thing to do was to send her away to the city without a penny, young as she was, and let her survive if she could. To the city she was sent—to Dresden, where she passed the examinations for the Royal Dresden Conservatory. She found a room in a slum garret with another girl who was studying. There was no thought of new dresses or silk stockings; she thought herself lucky if she had a pair of cotton stockings to her name. Nor was that the worst. They had no food.

The War was on. Elisabeth gave concerts while she was still a student at the conservatory, for food. One night her pay was a loaf of black bread. Again she sang for six lumps of sugar. Once she sang for a pair of worn shoes—real treasure!

"I sang my heart out one night," she remembers, "for an apple. My roommate was just as poor and hungry as I was. I took the apple home to our cold room and we ate it together, cutting it into thin slices and chewing every slice until there was nothing left. One whole winter we lived on stew made of potatoes and pea-pods."

But, hungry as she was, Elisabeth Rethberg went without a morsel of food two days each week to save the pennies which would buy the cheapest standing-room in the highest gallery of the Dresden Opera House. Music still meant more to her, much more, than a gnawing, tortured stomach. As thin as a skeleton, so weak from undernourishment that the stage swam before her eyes and she had to hold to a pillar to keep from fainting, she listened to the roles in which, today, audiences cheer her.

She graduated from the Conservatory with honors. But before she could send a letter home with the great news, her mother, to whom her triumph would have meant so much, died. Death robbed Elisabeth's first-moment of joy of all its savor.

When she graduated from the Conservatory things were worse in Germany rather than better. The War was over but the post-war depression was on. With three of her student friends Elisabeth formed a quartet and traveled from town to town, giving what were called, with good reason, Hunger Concerts. They could not afford to ride on trains, so they chugged along in a broken-down old car one of them owned. It had no tires. There was no rubber in the whole of Germany, even if they had been able to pay for tires. They boiled wooden barrel-staves in water and bent them around the rusty rims. They sang for cheese, bread, old clothes; anything to eat or to wear. More often they sang for nothing.

AT LAST a manager who had heard of her splendid record at the Conservatory located her and invited her to Holland to sing in a concert. He paid her way and bought her a dress to wear. For the first time in her life—and by now she was in her twenties—she saw shops with food stacked high in the windows, saw restaurants full of well-fed people. Holland had not gone into the War. Smart little Holland! But the sight was too much for her. At her first meal in a restaurant she ate so much that she became deathly ill. The concert tour lengthened, and she ate, ate, ate—like a famished animal.

In Dresden she had met two brothers, Swedes, who were on their way to Italy to study. One was a painter; the other was an architect. Now, with a little money in her purse for the first time in her life, Elisabeth went to a secluded corner of Bavaria for the summer to build up her repertoire. Much to her surprise, both of the brothers turned up there and declared—the two of them!—that they were desperately in love with her. Simultaneously the pianist hired to accompany her in her practise work announced that he, too, was not good enough to kiss the hem of her garment but would live in hope, etc., etc. While she tried to practise, the three of them sat savagely in the room and glared at each other.

"No love for me," Elisabeth said firmly to herself. "My job is singing." Then and there she resolved that came from him one day she left it lying open on the piano. Finally the two brothers disappeared with a violent slamming of doors. And the accompanist, with a shrug of defeat, settled down after that to attend to his musical knitting.

"No love for me," she resolved. "Never!"

The result, as might have been expected, was that she overthrew her resolution a short while later and entered into a bitterly tragic marriage. She got a divorce only recently.

As her artistic successes began to multiply, she commenced to realize some financial reward for the sacrifices and miseries of her studies and early career. By her very nature not a business woman, she was at the mercy of almost anybody who approached her with ideas and suggestions for "sound" her. She signed—and signed. It took years of hardening experience with a grasping world to make her realize that she had obligated herself for thousands upon thousands of dollars.

But there was one bright spot. At about the time Elisabeth herself made her first trip to the United States her sister Kathe married an American music professor and moved to Rockford, Illinois. Kathe was her favorite sister. From the days of their childhood they had felt a peculiar sympathy for each other, like that which is said to exist between identical twins. And the greatest personal joy in her life was the knowledge that Kathe was going to be near her in America.

BUT even this happiness was to be lost, and lost tragically! One day Kathe's husband, a fine, admirable man loved and respected by all who knew him, was killed at a railroad crossing.

It is strange to reflect, nowadays, that when Rethberg first came to America to sing at the Metropolitan Opera she felt as if it were only another engagement. No one had prepared her by telling her that a Metropolitan debut could make or break a singer, that it was the standard by which all other opera companies measured themselves. She arrived and went dutifully to see Gatti, at that time the manager. He spoke Italian, which she could sing but which she understood only with difficulty. She misinterpreted his request that she come in for rehearsals, gathering the idea somehow that he only wanted her to return for the performance. She spoke almost no English and so she sat in her room day after day. When at last the performance date came and she appeared at the opera house Gatti roared at her for daring to miss a Metropolitan rehearsal. The people in the cast wouldn't speak to her, because they thought she was conceited and overconfident. As she stood in the wings, ready to step out on the stage, to make the irony more complete a humble member of the chorus said to her:

"Oh, Madame Rethberg, how I wish I had your poise and self-possession!" No one could tell that actually she was so hurt by the attitude of the company and so scared and lonely that she was afraid she wouldn't be able to sing a note.

Then her cue came, and she strode out on the stage to one of the most dazzling triumphs in the annals of the Met. And she has gone on from that success to further triumphs on the concert stage and on the air.

But now that you have her story

love and art did not mix and swore that she would never marry. The accompanist she couldn't send away, because she needed him, but the brothers she resolved to get rid of at any cost. Convinced that they were all as honest as herself, she was grateful for their desire to help her increase her wealth and listened to them in complete faith. Someone suggested stocks, someone else, bonds. Papers were placed before you will perhaps understand why Elisabeth Rethberg, in spite of her full rich life and her superlative musical standing, rarely smiles. BUT

Smart Alecks said summer shows couldn't click—but Don Ameche (left) is master of ceremonies of one that has! It's the new Sunday night Coffee hour—and a hit!

A star-studded cast is a hit-show's first need—and this "impossible" program has it! At left, Don, who isn't a comedian, kids Werner Janssen, who's nobody's stooge. Don introduces guests, sings, enacts scenes of great plays. Janssen is world-famed leader of the 36-piece orchestra

Right: Guest stars add to the show's appeal—and its expense! Connie Bennett (left) was one of them. Air time costs from $15,000 to $18,000—talent is that much again. With Connie are Dwight Cooke, producer, and Shirley Ward, who co-authors scripts

Left: Janssen memorizes the lyrics of songs he conducts, helps singers who appear with him. In this picture the photographer yelled, "Hey, Mr. Janssen"—and snapped! The great conductor is nervous, fiery-tempered—doesn't like by-play. Hooded Dorothy Lamour is the show's contralto

Right: W. C. Fields is new to radio—but he's a sensation! He hated radio until his illness made him listen; now he loves it! No two members of the cast were acquainted before the first rehearsal—but now they are, and they're all pals!

Left: Ventriloquists on the air—that's another innovation of this show! Although Edgar Bergen (right) has appeared on Rudy Vallee's program, this is his first regular series on the radio Right: Joan Blondell guested, too. Most guests are female—to play opposite Don in dramatic roles. Joan found Charlie McCarthy better company than Mr. Fields—to his disgust!

Janssen helped build the summer's greatest show on NBC—but left it on June 27, began a concert series of his own on CBS on July 4. Robert Armbruster replaced him. One of the greatest American conductors, Janssen was recognized in Europe before he was known in America luminaries broadcast exclusively for them. The radio contact men in Hollywood were told to spare nothing in order to give the public what it wanted. Great plans were made. The big broadcasting companies began to send top-notch representatives to Hollywood. Theaters of the air were built or leased so there would be plenty of room for the celebrities to broadcast without crowding. People began to say that the center of the radio industry would soon be Hollywood, that New York was no longer important. In short, the sky was the limit!

"YOU CAN'T BUILD A HIT-SHOW IN THE SUMMER," SAID THE EXPERTS. BUT THIS CAST FOOLED THEM

And then it happened! One bright sunny morning Ben Bernie walked into the office of a talent-contact man connected with one arranged for two or three of his favorite radio guest artists to appear for substantial checks. Suddenly, Rudy Vallee started doing the same thing. And then the lid came off!

Victor McLaglen's was a typical case. When he found out that he had gone on the air for the fun of it—and could have had a big check for the same amount of time, he saw red! And no one, least of all the unhappy contact man, could blame him!

THE most natural thing for anyone to think," that harassed individual told me, "was that I had simply pocketed the money and let my friends go on the air for nothing. At any rate, I dodged Vic McLaglen for a week. Vic packs a punch! And I was in mortal fear of what Carole Lombard would say next time I met her. Oh, I had a dozen friends who could suspect that the least I had done for them was to make very bad deals.

"Yet, up to the time Ben Bernie made his offer and Vallee started hiring movie people for real cash, I never suspected for a second that our free stars would be worth so much serious money to radio.

"It was then that I learned just how swell Vic and Carole and several other players really are. They never uttered one word of complaint, either to me or anyone else."

But that was just the beginning, a mere starter! The real fireworks came later, when the stars discovered how much fun it was to raise the price—and then raise it again—and again!

Carole Lombard's big check for a guest appearance with Ol' Maestro Ben Bernie started Hollywood talk—then started a new air era!

ment" put an end to it. Right now, I'd trade my job for yours, cheerfully, sight unseen!

You remember when the vogue for radio appearances by screen stars began. It wasn't so long ago. And in those days, it was all so simple! Picture people were crowding the radio studios. It was no trick to sign them. In fact, at that time it seemed that the real feat was to avoid having big attractions tripping over one another at the microphone, so prodigally were the motion-picture studios dropping world-famous stars into radio's lap—free, gratis, for nothing.

So the stars went on the air—and the listening public went wild. They liked it so much that sponsors were soon spending fortunes to have screen of the major studios. Bernie wanted Carole Lombard to guest-star for him. Could it be arranged?

"Nothing to it, Ben," was the answer. "We'll get her for you. Or better yet, you know Carole—ask her yourself."

"Yowsah, young fella," quoth Bernie, "I am on my way."

Bernie was on his way, all right—on his way, all unwittingly, to start something! He wanted Carole Lombard badly, and, because he didn't know that the studio would have asked her to take the guest spot for little more than the publicity value attached, he offered her what was then considered an amazingly generous fee!

Before the young man at the studio knew what had happened Bernie had Clark Gable: He was billed over Marlene Dietrich for radio—and it made trouble!

Here's how that one started: One day a popular studio-contact man, without a care in the world (poor lad, he has gray hair now, and plenty of cares), stopped on the lot to exchange a word with one of his favorite people—a friendly, happy-go-lucky little blonde who usually threw an arm around his shoulder, called him "pal," and asked him to bring his friends over to her Brentwood estate for cocktails and swimming.

But this time it was different. There was a chill in the air that would have paralyzed a penguin! The lovely little star barely recognized him. Naturally he wanted to know why.

He found out. As if he hadn't known all the time, she said. The ideal! What did he expect, after he had given a rival star—and one she loudly claimed ranked three classes below her—twice as much money to appear on the air as he had given her the week before!

As soon as the astounded young man could catch his breath, he denied he had done any such thing, offered to produce figures to prove it. It was no use. Hollywood's grapevine system said he had done it—and figures could be fixed. He'd lost a friend!

THAT was the first. There were more and bigger surprises coming up.

From every side came accusations of double-dealing, of insults, of knife-in-the-back stuff. The young man grew dizzy, then frantic. He couldn't understand it. Another star, one he had always considered a good friend, answered his request that she go on the air for him by accusing him of every breach of faith known to the history of iniquity, and then hijacked him into paying her double the price he'd told the sponsor was necessary. When he tried to explain that this would do him no good with his company, she had replied: "You certainly have a lot of nerve, trying to win my sympathy, after offering me a measly $2500 to go on your program—knowing all the while you were paying Sonya Sonyonavitch $3000 to play a supporting part. You want to use my name and my prestige for chicken feed!"

"But," objected the young man, "we didn't pay Sonya Sonyonavitch anything like that. We—"

"Now, don't insult my intelligence by saying I didn't hear correctly when Sonya herself told me what you paid her. And never mind one of those stories about that being the long-deferred pay-off on some big favor she once did for you!"

If you know Hollywood, you know that this bright young man was on a

Victor McLaglen's discovery that he'd acted for too little came early in the battle spot. He couldn't tell the truth—that Sonya had gone on for $1500, because it just isn't done. Many a star will go on the air for $1000 if she can tell her friends she got $6000, whereas if she must tell the truth, you'd have to battle to get her for $2500.

The net result, of course, was that the contact man had to pay $4000 for a $2500 star—all because Sonya Sonyonavitch had told her friends she got twice as much as she actually had! And that's not all! When star No. 1 discussed her radio appearance with her friends, do you think she said she'd been paid $4000? Certainly not! She told one and all that the figure was $5000! That's the way it goes.

It's a merry-go-round gone mad. The price of putting a film star on the air soars to terrifying heights. The stars' practise of misquoting radio prices is costing sponsors literally millions of dollars a year, because it applies to other artists, as well as to film artists. And nobody in the business knows what to do about it either! That's not half the story. After all, these little problems can be settled with money. It may hurt, but it can be done. But temperament's most telling blows strike where the check-book offers no protection. Once a star signs to go on at a certain price, the financial end is settled. But that's only the beginning!

Consider this headache, for instance, and be thankful you didn't have any part of it. Not long ago, one of the biggest sponsors on the air decided to broadcast a show with a cast of no less than five big film stars. There were to be male and female leads and three supporting players. Their fees were fixed, contracts were signed, everything was ducky—until the question of rehearsal time came up!

The male star set a time which would be convenient for him—Wednesday afternoon. The glittering lady star was informed that Wednesday was the day (she wasn't told who'd decided on Wednesday—the boys are brighter than that!) and she agreed to be there. Two days later, however, came the rift in the lute. The girl put an ear to the ground, discovered that her co-star had set the date. Immediately she announced a change of mind—the rehearsal could be on Tuesday or Thursday—but not Wednesday, not by any means. It just couldn't be!

So—the "fixer" from the radio station and a bright young man from the agency in charge of the show went to see the male star.

"Let's make it Thursday," they said. "That's all right," the Great Man replied, "just make up your minds."

Thursday it was then—until the next day, when the male star's agent called up. What was going on, he wanted to know. How did they get that way, pushing around a famous star like Homer Heavensent? He knew what had happened—that addepatled blonde was going temperamental! Well, he, the agent, would tell the world there'd be no rehearsal on Thursday—or any other day set by a dizzy blonde who'd been washed up for two years! Business of slamming down the receiver.

Finally a plot was concocted to bring the two together. The contact man, a publicity agent, and an agency man decided on a code: in conversation, one dog, one horse, one cat, one anything, was to mean Tuesday morning; similarly, "two" meant Tuesday afternoon, "three," Thursday morning, "four," Thursday afternoon.

Then, the agency representative went to the male star's home, the contact man to the lady's residence, and the publicity agent stayed in his office to act as middleman.

The determined damsel who was "holding out" was asked to set not one but two possible dates for the rehearsal. To ask so great a star to de-side on one definite date would be too daring. She finally decided, with great misgiving, because she was afraid she was being outwitted (and she was!) on Tuesday afternoon or Thursday morning. The contact man asked to use her phone, informed the publicity agent, in code, as to her wishes. Meantime, the male star had specified Thursday morning or Thursday afternoon. The two great stars were thus trapped together on Thursday morning. All that remained was for the publicity man to call them both and make separate appointments for publicity stunts on Thursday afternoon. That cinched the deal, and the rehearsal went on.

BUT the end was not yet! Two of the supporting players in the cast heard about the feud, decided to get in on it, and did a little holding out themselves. Result: It cost $1000 to get them to cancel certain "important" engagements for Thursday morning!

In addition to all this, there's always the question of billing. Who goes first, and why? No one not familiar with pictures can imagine how touchy stars are in regard to billing.

When one radio show announced that Clark Gable and Marlene Dietrich were both going on the air—that was a scoop. But when it was printed in the papers—"Clark Gable and Marlene Dietrich"—that was a faux pas, and dynamite!

"Dietrich is billed second to no one," she said, emphatically. "Dietrich never learned to play second fiddle, Dietrich does not go on the air!"

Well, the great German star finally did go on the air—but before an agreement was reached, all Hollywood was standing on the side-lines—betting that she wouldn't! Her appearance was a high tribute to the diplomacy of the talent-contact division of radio.

Temperament is often real among the stars—but usually it's deliberate, the result of a planned campaign.

And what in the world could offer a better opportunity for the display of temperament than radio, where a star's first appearance may be his last, and where there's no iron-bound studio contract to handcuff his style? Almost any important star in pictures can afford to toss aside a $5000 radio appearance in order to impress the individuals who are paying him, or her, twenty times that much for a single film.

So, in putting on its Hollywood shows, radio discovers it has really tuned in on temperament—and inherited the static that has been giving movie moguls headaches for years.

Shep Fields (left), 27-year-old band-leader, came upon his "rippling rhythm" by accident—and made it pay! For months he looked for something distinctive that he could apply to his music, found it when he blew on the straw in a chocolate soda!

5 Shep couldn't play sax in the Erasmus High School band, so he became drum-major. Then he organized his own jazz band, kept it together while he went to St. Johns Law School. Above: Mac Miller, who is Shep's viola player

4 Accordionist Murray Golden (below) is featured in all arrangements—but does not follow the melody! Instead, he plays harmony—does much to make the band stand out. Murray is ranked as one of the best in the United States!

2 Today, the bubbling is done in water. Sol Mercury (above) blows into a small, half-filled fish-bowl, using two straws. Further distinction is achieved by the unusual way in which the viola, the accordion, the wooden temple-blocks are combined

7 Lou Halmy is the only trumpet player in the band. Several years ago, Shep Fields often went hungry—today he buys retirement annuities, bonds! Married two years, he supports his wife, his mother, two sisters, two brothers!

YOU know radio as an entertainer, as a news commentator, sports announcer, recipe-giver. But do you know that radio is also a doctor—a doctor with the largest practise in the world? Do you know that it is credited with saving lives on rough, choppy seas, in lonely lighthouses, in tiny settlements miles from nowhere?

Radio wars against death. The story of Radio, M. D.—from the time when a lone $5,000-station carried on the work, until today, when it is a world-wide Good Samaritan—is filled with examples of heroism and self-sacrifice in times of danger and death.

A tramp steamer stops for supplies at a leprosy-ridden South Sea Island. When it leaves, the crew begins to whisper about the first mate, who has developed a rash over his body. "He's got it," the sailors mumble to each other. "God help us, he's got it!" But radio quiets their fears: "Leprosy usually not contagious. Symptoms seem to be those of prickly heat," flashes a report over the airways. And a panic on high seas is avoided!

A TRAPPER in the Canadian Rockies is wounded by one of his traps. Sick, frightened to death of blood poisoning, he harnesses his dogs and sets out in bitter cold for the nearest radio station, fifty miles distant. The operators contact the Department of Marine in Ottawa, which advises and directs, by radio, amputation of a leg. The operation—performed by people without medical training, with crude surgical tools, but guided in each step by a calm, authoritative voice coming from hundreds of miles away—is successful. In time, the trapper recovers.

An engineer is stricken with paralysis on a steamer off the Florida coast. The proper treatment is advised by radio, but it is also imperative that the patient be placed in a hospital as soon as possible. In another day, the case becomes more urgent. The RCA station at Palm Beach handles the messages of arrangement between the Coast Guard and the ship. Through the night they flash back and forth, and in the early morning a seaplane finds the steamer—a mere dot on the sea. The Coast Guard aviator sweeps down alongside and the stricken man is whisked off to a Miami hospital.

ON LONELY San Nicolas Island, 70 miles west of Los Angeles Harbor Light, four-months-old Edna Agee is dying of fever. There is no doctor on the island and the only contact with the mainland is the single amateur radio sending-set available. "... QST ... QST ... Attention All Stations. ..." L. P. Elliot, owner of the amateur radio station W6JLF, flashes the signal again and again. Finally, his call is answered by William Defraigne, a "ham" at Redondo Beach, Calif. A call to the Redondo Beach Police, a teletype message to the U. S. Coast Guard, a fast boat to Los Angeles, a police car to Dr. William A. Brown, and eight hours later the doctor is at the child's bedside. Soon the baby begins to breathe easier, falls asleep...

Constantly vigilant, on land and at sea, by day and by night, without regard to color, creed or nationality, radio plays doctor to people in distress. The dots and dashes which spell out M-E-D-I-C-O silence radios aboard tankers, freighters and yachts within a thousand miles of the call; the rule of the sea gives the call for medical advice preference above everything else except an S. O. S.

But it wasn't always so. Both the efficiency of Radio, M. D., and the scope of its practise demanded years of experimentation, hard work and

During the same period, 105 vessels of all nationalities called for diagnosis of sickness and injuries suffered by persons on board. A total of 15,659 words flashed between ships and shore stations, directing amateur physicians in the fight against death.

Most of the MEDICO cases are routine, but there have been spectacular cases also—cases which made the front pages of newspapers and fired the imagination of the world.

Last Winter, the S. S. Ilsenstein, two days out of Antwerp, was plowing through heavy seas that shook her from stem to stern. Aboard was a seaman with a ruptured appendix which needed immediate attention. Though the ship carried a surgeon, he could hardly keep his feet, let alone perform a delicate operation. And even if he were successful, there was little hope that the patient could survive the ten-day trip to New York.

Through MEDICO, the Ilsenstein learned that the liner Europa, outbound from New York, was somewhere in the vicinity. A meeting was arranged. A lifeboat went out from the Europa, picked up the seaman on a stretcher and brought him aboard at 7 p.m. By 8 o'clock the appendectomy had been completed on the much steadier operating-table of the great liner. Dr. Brahms, the Europa's ship surgeon, said that the man probably would not have lived another four hours without the operation. When last reported, the patient was doing well in a Bremerhaven hospital, thanks to MEDICO's quick action.

THE case of William Robinson is another one from MEDICO records. His yacht, the Svaap, was anchored off Pelican Lagoon, when he suffered a sudden attack of appendicitis. In desperation, his wife navigated the yacht to Narborough, some miles away, where ships sometimes put in for supplies.

They were lucky. A motor trawler, the Santa Cruz, was in Narborough and, best of all, it had a radio sending-set aboard! From the tiny cabin of the Santa Cruz, Ward King, an ex-Navy radio operator, kept flashing M-E-D-I-C-O through the long night.

At last, the U. S. Naval Hospital in California replied: "Allow patient no food or drink. Keep affected parts packed in ice. Move patient at once to hospital for surgical attention."

There was ice on the Santa Cruz. But how to move Robinson to a hospital? There was none for a hundred miles around! Another message was flashed, this time to U. S. Navy Admiral Crosby in Balboa. It finally reached him by the roundabout method of having the RCA Chatham, Mass., station relay the plea to the Canal Zone.

Two planes set out for the Santa Cruz from the Army base at Coco Solo. A destroyer, the Hale, was dispatched from Balboa. Through the thousand miles of Pacific—through vicious rains, line-squalls and head-winds—they came. They got to Robinson just in time. He was operated upon on the dining-room table in the officers' wardroom of the Hale.

MEDICO had called upon the Army and the Navy to save a human life—and had succeeded!

OF ALL the varied uses of radio, none is closer to human needs than the free medical service it renders to people in distress. If you've ever had to stand by a sick-bed and feel the hopelessness and bewilderment of not knowing what to do to help, you can appreciate how welcome the advice of Radio, M. D. can be.

And the fact that somewhere, every day, someone who has been saved by MEDICO or QST, whispers a fervent prayer for radio, makes us look with new admiration and new respect at the dials, the coils and tubes which have not only conquered space but have even won over disease and death itself!

PLEAS FOR AID ECHO IN THE AIR— AND RADIO'S OWN MEDICO ANSWERS!

Most of the requests for medical aid by radio come from ships at sea. There are approximately 10,000 small vessels—passenger ships, freighters, tankers, yachts—which carry no physicians. On these ships, miles away from port, even minor sickness or accident can be real tragedy.

It is fifteen years since Captain Robert Huntington, superintendent of the Merchant Marine Academy of New York, conceived the idea of pitting the then newly discovered radio against death and suffering on the high seas. It is almost as long since the idea became a fact through a gift from the late Henry A. Laughlin, of Philadelphia, of a $5,000 radio station. This radio station, with call-letters KDKF, was situated on the roof of the Seamen's Church Institute on the New York waterfront. It was on duty night and day, trying to intercept calls for medical advice from ships.

But the work of KDKF was limited. It proved its value even during the first year of its existence, but—it was obvious—its scope had to be enlarged. So the Seamen's Church Institute of New York asked the Radio Corporation of America, with its powerful stations and wide facilities, to take over the work of MEDICO.

David Sarnoff, president of RCA, was quick to see the need for and possibilities in such service. He knew from personal experience what such medical aid could mean. As a youth he had been the radio operator aboard a whaler. The medical advice he had once sent from the ship saved the life of a man stationed in a lonely lighthouse on Belle Isle, off the coast of Labrador.

Today, the Radiomarine Corporation, an RCA subsidiary, picks up the MEDICO messages at its thirty powerful stations along the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, along the Caribbean, the Gulf of Mexico, the Great Lakes and the Mississippi River. There is no charge for the medical advice or the radio service connected with it. Twenty-four hours a day, 365 days a year, these messages are relayed to the nearest United States Marine Hospital.

MEDICO service is geared for high speed. It has to be. The United States Public Health Service, which runs the marine hospitals, appreciates that and cooperates to the limit. A consultation of doctors is called at once, the case is diagnosed and the advice is relayed back to the ship—usually within a few minutes.

MEDICO statistics are impressive: In the first five months of 1936, 369 seafarers were saved from death or prolonged suffering by American doctors prescribing over long distances.

RCA President David Sarnoff: He saw the need for service!

WITH so much confusion about who will take over Amos 'n' Andy January 1, it might interest you to know that the pair have been very chummy in California with an executive of a sunburn lotion firm. As reported here last week, however, they have signed with someone and they will be in Chicago for the month of October to complete arrangements. Meantime, attention turns to Charles (Andy) Correll's new Madame Queen. Chicago was all agaga last week when they saw him squiring Alice McLaughlin, former dancer with the Ted Lewis troupe, to one of the hot spots and observed the large square-cut diamond ring she wore. Miss McLaughlin is brunet, petite and twenty-something.

Gladys George (above), glamorous actress, noted for her performance in the recent Broadway production, "Personal Appearance," will make a personal appearance July 11 on NBC's Sunday night coffee show. Her latest picture has just been released, is titled, "They Gave Him a Gun"

The reason Josephine Hutchinson substituted at the last minute for Joan Bennett on Radio Theater's "The Front Page" was that Joan nearly lost an eye while being made up for a picture.

Maybe Winchell was excited about the accident, but whatever the reason might have been, he didn't do justice to the role of Hildy Johnson. His voice was pitched very high and his expression was too monotonous to be easily understood. Some listeners even thought that he talked too fast. No orchids, Walter.

That Sheila Barrett audition heralded here several weeks ago clicked. The result is that you will be hearing her in "The Time of Your Life," sponsored by a watch company, over an NBC network beginning October 3. Music will be by Joe Rines, and Graham McNamee is cast as m.c. Quartet and guest vocalist complete the line-up. . . . Another new program built on an entirely new principle is promised for the fall by a leading radio corporation. Time has been reserved over the NBC-Blue network for an evening spot and the show will originate in Chicago. . . . Haven MacQuarrie likewise reports that he will return in the fall for a it returns, because it will be in the hands of new producers, with new ideas, and, I hope, new jokes.

It is rumored that there is a clause in a certain Shakespeare delineator's contract which will drop him automatically should he imbibe before going on the air. . . . but then Hollywood, they say, is full of rumors. . . . and good Shakespeare delineators.

Suggestion to Rudy Vallee: Watch the work of Bill Baar, unappreciated American radio artist who has set a new record for appearances over the British Broadcasting Corporation stations in England. He has an act that I think you will like. . . . Pinky Tomlin, the song writer-warbler on the Cantor summer show, is going over and has been signed to stay when Eddie comes back. . . . The cinema scouts are keen about Mary Martin, who sang those choruses on the recently folded "Twin Stars" show. . . . Carlton KaDell will continue to sell you coffee on the Don Ameche Sunday opus because his sponsors like his voice. . . . Fred Allen is due in Hollywood in about two weeks. . . . Frances Langford, recovered from her recent illness, has gained five pounds. . . . So realistic were Lum and Abner when they were riding the Hollywood bridle paths last week wearing ten-gallon hats that curiosity seekers paused to inquire what movie company was on location, but the hats merely came from a Texas admirer. . . . And here's a good place to award plums to a few appreciative Hollywood folk, and I mean Marion Talley, Don Ameche and Lum and Abner. They haven't forgotten how to say "thank you." . . . Another winner of a basket of plums is Hal Style, whose "Help Thy Neighbor" show, even though it is broadcast only from Hollywood locally, has taken 198 people off relief and given thirteen hundred people jobs! A grand record! More stations will please copy.

Robert Armbruster (above) replaced Werner Janssen as musical director of the Sunday coffee show on July 4. Janssen left to head his own Sunday night series of broadcasts. At the age of eight and a half Armbruster made his debut as a pianist, in 1904. He once tried selling machinery but decided that he preferred music Romance Corner: Willard Waterman, Chicago actor heard in many serials, and Mary Anna Theleen, Kenosha, Wis., home girl, were wed June 30 at Kenosha. . . . Elinor, daughter of Al Short, the director of NBC Minstrels music, has announced her engagement to Vincent F. Seng, of Wilmette, Ill.

Funny Things: The response of Cecil B. de Mille's 4-year-old grandson when asked what his grandfather did for a living. He piped "Grandpa sells soap!" . . . The near stampede which Ransom Sherman caused last Saturday afternoon when on his Club Matinee show he introduced the number "Merry-Go-Round Broke Down" with a quip about "Free rides to all." It seems that one merry-go-round operator was employing radio music as his lure and had the Club Matinee tuned in. . . . The peculiarly fitting choice of Jack Wormser as sound-effects man at NBC's Hollywood studios. Jack formerly was a parking-lot attendant and now he will specialize in auto crashes, broken glass and the sound of dented fenders to simulate the sound of cars colliding on slippery pavements.

THE fall radio season doesn't get under way until a week or two after Labor Day, but several sponsors are already lining up the talent for their new shows to start then.

I know many readers of this department will be glad to learn that Harry Horlick and his Gypsies just about have a deal all set to return to the air-planes in September. Horlick dishes out some easy-on-the-ear music and he has been sorely missed by many loudspeaker eavesdroppers who have written frequently to tell me about it.

Several years ago Fred Waring was on the air for a cigarette sponsor and used as his theme melody, "You're An Old Smoothy." From present indications it looks as though Waring will come back to the kilocycles in the fall for this same old boss. Meanwhile Fred and his gang will play theaters and hotels around the country, one of the hotels being Chicago's Drake.

Deems Taylor has had a swell musical series on the air this season which seems to have interested another caddy manufacturer, who contemplates replacing one of his regular twice-weekly airings with the Taylor idea, including on the shows Taylor's clever and interesting comments on music.

Weeks before it happened I told you that Dick Powell would be back on "Hollywood Hotel" as a guest artist. Now, months before, I'm telling you not to be surprised if Dick Powell becomes head man of a one-hour show from the Coast, some time next fall.

Ben Bernie is going to have his vacation in Saratoga cut short because of the new movie which he will make with Walter Winchell. Originally the picture was scheduled to start in October, but Maestro Bernie just received instructions to report on the Coast the latter part of August to begin work on his film.

Carson Robison and his Buckeroos will come back to the mikes on October 4, with a quarter-hour, thrice-weekly series over NBC.

After considerable juggling around of talent and even the changing of the day of the program, the "Sunday Night Party" will be without the presence of Jane Pickens and Donald Dickson after the broadcast of July 11. This program, like many others, will use guest stars. Some femme singers are expected to appear on the shows in order to balance the singing of James Melton, but the program will feature surprises quite regularly. As for Jane Pickens, she has little to worry about. Already any one of three offers to appear in Broadway productions is hers to choose. Which production she will choose has not yet been decided.

There's a new radio choral group that just made its air debut with the "Show Boat" in Hollywood. Under the direction of Max Terr, this chorus, composed of colored singers as well as whites, introduces a new idea for use by radio vocal groups. You'll be seeing them in Bing Crosby's new picture, "Double or Nothing."

About eight years ago, radio listeners were hearing a program—sponsored by a certain soap—which featured a male quartet called the Cavaliers, who were accompanied by an instrumental quartet, unnamed. For the sake of history, however, I'd like to report that the pianist of the instrumental quartet was a fellow by the name of Andre Kostelanetz, and the tenor of the male quartet was a young chap by the name of Frank Parker.

Wednesday night, June 30, marked the premiere broadcast of Frank Parker on the new summer series of the caddy program on which Andre Kostelanetz has built up an enviable reputation for himself as an orchestra leader. Both Parker and Kostelanetz have come a long way since their early radio days.

Mentioning Kostelanetz immediately makes me think of Lily Pons, and that reminds me to tell you what took place on the stage after her last broadcast of the series. If you were listening in, you undoubtedly recall the tremendous ovation she received after finishing her last number. This kept up many minutes after the program was off the air with la Pons throwing kisses at the audience and a few directed at the Maestro. Kostelanetz apparently preferred getting his kisses the good, old-fashioned way, because he walked across the stage to Miss Pons, put his arms around her and planted a nice big kiss on her lips. They both turned crimson, much to the delight of the visible audience.

Your correspondent saw a special preview of the new RKO picture, "New Faces," which stars Milton Berle, Parkyakarkus and Joe Penner. Radio listeners who enjoy these comics over the air will get many laughs watching them do their stuff on the screen. Berle offers the most opportunity for chuckles and I predict you will see him in many more pictures. "Parky" and

'Hamlet' Is First Shakespeare On CBS

What the Columbia Broadcasting System is pleased to call "Radio's first major Shakespearean series" opens with the Bard's best-known work, "Hamlet," on Monday, July 12. The National Broadcasting Company has previously entered counter claims for listeners' attention with its "Streamlined Shakespeare" series, starring John Barrymore. The new CBS series will be heard at the hour formerly filled by the Radio Theater, which is off the air for the summer.

"Hamlet" on CBS will star Burgess Meredith, 28-year-old Broadway sensation, in the title role. Meredith has played the leading roles in "Winter-Set" and "High Tor," two of Maxwell Anderson's successes, which have "highlighted the reappearance of dramatic verse in the modern theater." His technique is based on a simple, natural delivery, in contrast with the bombastic efforts of actors of an earlier generation. His selection for the title role is based on the conviction of Brewster Morgan, director of the series, that a young man must have the part—despite the theater's traditional favor for more elderly Hamlets. In the play, the Prince of Denmark is called from college to his tragedy, and Morgan intends to emphasize Hamlet's youth.

'Hotel' Previews 'It's All Yours' On July 9

Francis Lederer and Madeleine Carroll will be featured on the "Hollywood Hotel" broadcast on CBS for Friday, July 9. They will present preview scenes from their forthcoming picture, "It's All Yours," in which they play starring roles. Lederer is cast as a madcap roisterer whose capers cause him to be disinherited by his rich uncle. The uncle's annoyance grows as the play progresses, and finally out of spite he turns to his secretary, played by Miss Carroll. As the understanding and sympathetic bystander, she finally inherits the uncle's fortune.

Jerry Cooper, singing star, will head the musical portion of the program, which features Frances Langford, Anne Jamison, Igor Gorin and Raymond Paige's orchestra.

John and Elaine Play Ariel, Caliban

Going on the air in the characterizations that were held up by newspapers recently as a parallel to their own lives, John Barrymore and his wife, Elaine Barry, will take the parts of Ariel and Caliban in Shakespeare's "The Tempest" on Monday, July 12. This is one of a series of presentations by Barrymore in NBC's "Streamlined Shakespeare" series, which is in listener competition with the Columbia Shakespeare series which has its debut on the night of "The Tempest" dramatization. The NBC technique differs from that of CBS in that the former edits the Bard's works, and presents them in more modern and abbreviated form. The NBC broadcasts last 45 minutes. Particularly noteworthy in this characterization will be the work of the well-publicized hectic lovers whose names became synonymous with Shakespeare's characters when their own implications were before the public's attention. John Barrymore appears in each of the NBC Shakespeare dramas.

Monday, July 12—NBC
9:30 p.m. EDT (8:30 EST; 7:30 CST)

Gladys George Guest Of Don Ameche on NBC

Gladys George, popular screen star, will be guest star of the new Sunday night coffee-sponsored variety hour heard on NBC on Sunday, July 11. She will play in a scene from a popular play opposite Don Ameche, radio's first "matinee idol," who is master of ceremonies of the new series, and exchange banter with W. C. Fields, radio's newest steal from filmland, and Edgar Bergen and his Charlie McCarthy. Fields' feud with McCarthy will be carried on undiminished, with the 20-pound dummy holding his own against the talkative comedian.

Dorothy Lamour, sultry-voiced soloist, will be featured in song, and Robert Armbruster, who has replaced Werner Janssen, will lead the 36-piece modern symphony orchestra. Janssen left the program to start his own series of concerts over NBC. Armbruster is a former Radio Theater conductor.

Sunday, July 11—NBC
8 p.m. EDT (7 EST; 6 CST)

Ormandy Conducts in Austria

Conductor of the world-renowned Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra during an international broadcast from Linz, Austria, July 17, will be the recent co-conductor of the famous Philadelphia Symphony, Eugene Ormandy. Dedicated to the memory of the late, great Austrian composer, Anton Bruckner, the Linz music festival is an important event. Born at Ansfelden, Austria, September 4, 1824, Bruckner composed eight symphonies, dedicated his eighth—and last—in 1890 to Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria. First hissed, called "inhuman noise," this symphony was later called heroic and applauded.

Saturday, July 17—NBC
3 p.m. EDT (2 EST; 1 CST)

MUSIC of the MASTERS

BY CARLETON SMITH

FRITZ REINER, who conducts for us July 11th from New York's Lewisohn Stadium, is one of the world's great Wagnerian conductors.

More than that, he is among the most knowledgeable of all practising musicians, an authority equally versed in classic and modern literature. Sensitive and sure, he has every orchestra instantly in the grip of his hand and, as you listen, you feel that it is the hand of a master. Since that fact is becoming everywhere recognized, he is in universal demand.

His itinerary resembles that of a round-the-world flyer. In the past year he has crossed the Atlantic six times.

He was in London for the 1936 Covent Garden season, returned to conduct in San Francisco, and sailed back to—

"Rome—cold in spite of sunshine—mimosa—roses—excited audiences . . ."

"Budapest—the Danube frozen—concert sold out since announcement—much too much food—parties all over town—midnight train for—" him now only on the wing. The Stadium finished, Reiner starts off to Ravinia Park on Chicago's North Shore and to Hollywood. On the West Coast, he directs the German operas in the already-sold-out San Francisco season. We shall have him back again during the winter on the "Sunday Evening Hour," which has wisely engaged him for a goodly number of its concerts.

"Florence—damp gray weather—"

In Frank Black's New York office the other day, we heard the first playing of the first pressing of some ultra-modern music recorded by Mr. Black and the NBC String Symphony. The balance, the phrasing, the dynamics were excellent in a score extraordinarily difficult to perform and even more trying to record. It is reassuring and helpful to have all music in permanent form. When more radios have phonograph attachments, and the demand for "music that you want when you want it" increases, all the great music will be on wax, as it should be.

The news, heretofore only rumored, that Kirsten Flagstad will retire in a the Arno swollen and noisy—a heart-warming Italian success with the audience shouting 'Bis, bis' and insisting upon innumerable bows, one after the orchestra had left the stage and was practically on its way home . . .

"Vienna—the warm, moist air left behind—and here three feet of snow and intense cold—but the best breakfast coffee in Europe . . ."

"Stockholm—after six changes of train—three weeks of concerts with every other Swede speaking English or German, and Mr. Reiner always managing to meet the 'other' one—Smorgasbord—and many friendly people—a good chorus and all climaxing in a blaze of glory: Beethoven's Ninth Symphony . . ."

"London: The British Broadcasting Company orchestra in an all-Wagner concert, and back to the United States in March . . ."

"Detroit: — photographing the Ford factory—and broadcasting . . ."

"Philadelphia: The world premiere of Gian-Carlo Menotti's one-act opera, repeated in New York—great enthusiasm . . ."

"In April, London again: Parsifal and Flying Dutchman and Orphee—the Coronation—recording—extra performances . . ."

As the diary reveals, the International Coronation Season at Covent Garden was Mr. Reiner's third London engagement in twelve months. We hear very few years is true. Madame Flagstad has two more seasons under her present contract at the Metropolitan. She has promised her family that after one additional year before the public, she will definitely end her career.

Gian-Carlo Menotti is hard at work writing his opera for us. He has secluded himself in a chalet near St. Wolfgang, Austria, the recent retreat of the Duke of Windsor. His score, entitled "The Old Maid and the Thief," concerns itself with the complications of a situation in which the robber steals everything from the lady in question except what she most wishes he would steal. The scene is laid in Maine: A small village in the present day. The action and thoughts will be sung by the various characters. And, as Mr. Menotti has an unusual gift for melody, they should have much to say that is beautiful and exciting. A narrator, used because the radio audience cannot see, will describe merely the place, the scenery, and the background.

Bad news for those anticipating the Salzburg and Bayreuth broadcasts comes from the weather forecasters. Sun spots and other obscure phenomena make it highly probable that trans-Atlantic reception this summer will be disappointing. But keep your fingers crossed; specialists can be wrong. Maybe they will be this time!

Part IV (Conclusion) of the Log Will Appear in Next Issue!

VOICE OF THE LISTENER

The "Voice of the Listener" letter-forum is a regular feature in Radio Guide each week, offered to the readers as a means for expressing and exchanging opinions about radio.

Each week Radio Guide will publish letters deserving our readers' attention.

THE ANSWER

Voice of the Listener: If Miss Eileen Eby's statements that operatic music is enjoyed by a "few so-called high-brows" are true, how does she account for the fact that Nelson Eddy, one of the great singers of classical music, ranked second in the recent popularity contest conducted by RADIO GUIDE while Bing Crosby could rate only sixth?

We wonder if Miss Eby has ever been to a motion picture. For your information, Miss Eby, it is always classical music that is used as "background music" in scenes of great emotional stress. The reason for this is simple. Your "swing" lacks the depth and feeling needed. Swing satisfies a passing whim; classical music has a lasting beauty.—James W. Perrin, Jr., and Charles F. Green, Jr., Wilmington, N. C.

THURSDAY NIGHT THOUGHTS

Vallee from the pine trees and Crosby from the fir.
"East is East, and West is West,"
Said Kipling in his verse.

But these two have in common;
No, not a love of strife;
But wholesome contributions to
The lightening of life.

We've listened to the Major
And heard his praises sung.
But isn't it, now frankly,
A trifle overdone?
—Guy Summers, McColloms, N. Y.

SOME FUN!

Voice of the Listener: As a contest feature, instead of asking the contestant to write 50 convincing words on "Why I Like This or That," why not the novel idea of permitting the consumer to tell exactly why he does not like a certain product? The manufacturer might be astonished to learn a great many things to his advantage for improving his product; and think of the fun folks would have panning a product and getting paid for it!—Miss Sally Simpson, St. Joseph, Mich.

GOOD-BY (?) SWING

Voice of the Listener: It is with plenty of pleasure that I've watched the dance spots dissolve and in their place enter the better music! Now don't get me wrong—I go for swing in a big way—after all, I'm a dance musician—but too much is too much, and I'm sure we were getting way too much of it. At any rate, I'm for the beautiful classics and our ever-increasing list of concert stars, one hundred percent.—Max L. Williamson, Northumberland, Pa.

Time given is CST; for MST subtract one hour. Short-wave programs of American stations are shown along with the regular listings beginning on page 27. These are indicated, for example, by (sw-11.87) in parentheses following a program listing. This means that on 11.87 megacycles the same program may also be heard over an American short-wave station. Please note that foreign stations do not always adhere precisely to their announced program schedules.

SHORT WAVES

BY CHAS. A. MORRISON, president, INTERNATIONAL DX-ER'S ALLIANCE

(Figures in Parentheses Are Megacycles)

MIGUEL A. RIVERA, recently returned to his native city of Lima, Peru, after an eleven-year sojourn in the Orient, sends the following data concerning Peruvian broadcasters: OAX1A (6.150) of Chiclayo has a power of 200 watts. OAX4P (6.122), "Radiodifusora Andina, Junin," Huancayo, has a power of 250 watts. OAX4Y (6.092) and OAX4Z (9.562), radiating 15,000 and 10,000 watts power respectively, are transmitters of the government station "Radio Nacional" at Lima, which relay broadcast station OAX4A. OAX5A (11.8), "Radio Universal," is located at Ica. OAX4M (10.345), "Radio Record, La Voz de Huacho," a new station at Huacho, whose proprietors are Senores Cortes & Cia, relays broadcast station OAX4Q of the same city.

L. D. Brewer of Phoenix, Ariz., reports loud and clear reception of DJE (17.76), of Zeesen, Germany, on Monday, June 21, at the unusual hour of 12 mid. EST (11 p.m. CST) . . . Mr. Brewer almost daily is hearing a new Mexican station, XERU, "La Voz de la Mexico" on 9.5 megs, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon EST (9 to 11 a.m. CST) and on 15.16 megs irregularly in the evenings. The interval signal consists of four chime notes in a descending scale.

The Chicago Short Wave Club notes a Mexican station XEAW on a frequency of 15.165 megs, heard daily from 4 to 5 p.m. EST (3 to 4 p.m. CST). Since XEAW is actually the broadcast call of a station in Reynosa, Tams, Mexico, operating on 960 kilocycles, it is logical to assume that this is merely the broadcast call of the station which XERU relays.

RV15 at Khabarovsk, U. S. S. R., is again broadcasting on its former frequency of 4.27 megs.

DURING July, WIXAL, of Boston, America's pioneer educational station, will follow the lead of colleges and universities in declaring summer recess for its regular educational programs. The daily news bulletins in English, which usually are radiated on 15.25 megs, will be continued on WIXAL's beam antenna directed to Europe. Special tests also will be run each week on an additional beam antenna system now being completed by WIXAL engineers.

W10XDA (12.86), the transmitter aboard the Schooner Morrisey en route to Arctic regions, was heard in contact with amateur stations VO1I and W2OJ on June 23, from 8:50 to 8:55 p.m. EST (7:50 to 7:55 p.m. CST), by Louis Ambrosius of Louisville, Ky.

The regular schedule of overseas broadcasts from Nazaki, Japan, which are audible in North America are radiated at present as follows: For Australasia daily from 9 to 10 a.m. EST (8 to 9 a.m. CST) over JZJ (11.8) and JZK (15.16); for the Atlantic coast region of North America, daily from 4 to 5 p.m. EST (3 to 4 p.m. CST) over JZJ and JZK, and for the Pacific coast region of North America, daily from 12 mid. to 1 a.m. EST (11 p.m. to 12 mid. CST) over JZK. Broadcasts of games from the Tokyo municipal ball park are being heard Saturday evenings around 1:30 or 2 a.m. EST (12:30 or 1 a.m. CST) over JVN.

OLR5A (15.23) of Prague, Czechoslovakia, has been testing near 9:30 p.m. EST (8:30 p.m. CST), on Mondays and Thursdays, in connection with the American hour, which is usually heard over OLR4A (11.84).

G. M. Cornfield, of Hong Kong, writes that KZRM, the new Manila, Philippines, short-wave transmitter, is on the air. This station broadcasts daily from 5 to 10 a.m. EST (4 to 9 a.m. CST) on 9.57 megs. "Radio Manila," which relays a broadcast station whose call letters are also KZRM, utilizes a metronome for an interval signal. E. H. Clark, of Hollister, Calif., reports hearing KZRM testing on 11.83 megs from 7:15 to 9 a.m. EST (6:15 to 8 a.m. CST).

While its verification, OAX4J, "Sintonice Radio Internacional," of Lima, Peru, claims the station broadcasts on 9.52 megs, it actually is being heard on 9.33 megs. Transmissions are daily from 12 noon to 3 p.m. and from 5 p.m. to 1 a.m. EST (11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and from 4 p.m. to 12 mid. CST). Reports may be addressed to Antonio P. Vasques, Edficio Minería 6 piso, Casilla 1166, Lima, Peru.

G. C. GALLAGHER, of San Francisco, informs me that XEWW (9.51), of Mexico, D. F., is being heard daily from approximately 8 p.m. to 12 mid. EST (7 to 11 p.m. CST). An English announcement is made just before the station signs off but no street address is given for mailing purposes . . . HC2OBA of Guayaquil, Ecuador, formerly on 9.441 megs, but hopping about lately like a Mexican jumping bean, now seems to be on 9.37 megs.

NBC of Chicago has been granted a license under the call W9XBS for an experimental high-frequency broadcast station with a power of 50 watts to operate on 31.6, 35.6, 38.6 or 41 megs.

Myron D. Reamy of Yonkers, N. Y., writes me that a recent communication from the Belgrade, Yugoslavia, short-wave station advises that YUA (6.1) is being relayed twice monthly by Germany's DJO (11.855) and DZC (10.29). This apparently refers to the programs for Yugoslav residents in North and South America, carried for a time by Dutch stations PCJ and PHI. Yugoslavia will soon have its own powerful station to replace YUA (ex-YTC).

According to the latest issue of the African Radio Announcer, the Tananarive, Madagascar, station has finally settled on a frequency of 9.53 megs, where it broadcasts daily from 9:45 to 10:45 a.m. EST (8:45 to 9:45 a.m. CST) . . . A new station on 9.53 megs, believed to be in Bombay, India, was heard closing down Friday at 12:30 p.m. EST (11:30 a.m. CST)

FOR BRINGING DELIGHTFUL ENTERTAINMENT TO THE AIRWAVES — THESE STARS WIN RADIO GUIDE CHEERS

... MORTON BOWE (above), for his delightful solos on NBC's Friday night cigarette-sponsored show. Bowe came from the stage to radio in 1926, and is now one of the airwaves' popular tenors. His hobby is inventing. His latest invention—a labor-saving device for memorizing operatic roles

... JOY HODGES (above), because of her sprightly songs heard on "Fibber McGee and Molly" and "Joe Penner" shows. Joy, a native of Des Moines, first came to public notice as the winner of a "beauty singer" contest. She's since appeared with many bands

... Conductor ANDRE KOSTELANETZ (left), Tenor FRANK PARKER (standing), for the fine music they air on the CBS Wednesday night cigarette-sponsored program. Parker is the show's new singing star. He replaced Diva Lily Pons

One-time pad-and-pencil steno, Lucille Manners saved pennies, dimes for voice lessons, practised every day.

Heard on a local station, she soon won network stardom, is now soloist on a big Friday night program!

"Howdy,

Howdy, Folks!
IT'S GREAT TO BE BACK ON SHOW BOAT AGAIN"

Charles Winninger
SHOW BOAT'S ORIGINAL CAPTAIN HENRY

"JIMINETY, folks! It's swell to be back at the wheel o' my old Show Boat again!

"An' believe me I've brought the best crew o' rollickin' entertainers you ever saw in your life. Yes, siree! We got new stars, bright and shiny—some o' the very best in the whole world. We got new music . . . new songs . . . an', by jiminyety we're havin' plenty o' new adventures.

"But no matter what else, there's one Show Boat custom we're sure goin' to keep goin'! Every night we're servin' to all the folks aboard a cup of the finest, smoothest, most taste-temptin' coffee I ever run across anywhere at anytime . . . a rich, mellow cup o' Maxwell House Coffee!

"So come aboard folks and join me and my merry crew for a whole hour on the Show Boat."

EVERY THURSDAY NIGHT—NBC NETWORK

NADINE CONNOR, one of the brightest stars that radio has uncovered in many years. Her glorious voice is one of the many reasons why folks all over the country are asking their friends, "Have you heard Capt. Henry's Show Boat?" More reasons are Meredith Willson's Orchestra, Tommy Thomas, Virginia Verrill. Hear them and a host of others every Thursday night.

FUNNYMAN JACK HALEY, hailed by many as "America's merriest comic." The star of such Broadway hits as "Good News," "Take a Chance," and of the screen sensation, "Wake Up and Live," Jack now brings chuckles, giggles and hearty laughs to the Maxwell House Show Boat.

Above: Hugh Studebaker (who in a straight pose looks like anything but the role he plays) has been building a steadily increasing following for the character, "Sylvius Leviticus Deuteronomy (Silly) Watson"—a lazy, philosophical, slow-talking colored fellow on the "Fibber McGee and Molly" program. Studebaker was once a train news "butcher" before turning to vaudeville and radio

Above: Dramatic Actress Betty Garde received a star's salary and billing to appear in "The Boss" on a recent Kate Smith show. Betty is a Philadelphia girl who came to radio via the stage & screen

YOU Asked for Them —and Here They Are

YOU'VE HEARD THEM
MANY TIMES, NOW SEE THEM AS THEY ARE — IN EVERY-DAY LIFE!

Below: Jane Pickens, soprano on NBC's "Sunday Night Party," was prima donna until recently of the Ziegfeld Follies. She and her two sisters, Patti and Helen, compose the trio known on stage, screen and radio as the Pickens Sisters. They're from Macon, Ga.

Above: Allie Lowe Miles, with her skillful questioning of wives in the "Husbands and Wives" studio audiences, brings out the woman's side of every argument that arises. She's co-conductor of the show

Above: Rex Chandler—maestro of "Universal Rhythm." His 43-piece orchestra presents popular music glorified by novel arrangements. A native of Melrose, Mass., Rex has a background that is international in flavor. Himself half French and married to a French woman, he has a home in France as well as in America. He has conducted orchestras in Europe, Australia, Africa & the Orient

Left: Lyric Soprano Lois Bennett is heard with Tenor Frank Munn on NBC's "Sweetest Love Songs Ever Sung." Besides her radio work, Miss Bennett has sung in concerts and in Gilbert & Sullivan light opera. (She's Mrs. L. J. Chatten "off mike")

Above: Barry McKinley, baritone star of NBC's new "Melody Revue," made his vocal debut in Cincinnati as the falsetto member of a girls' trio. Before entering radio, Barry was known as a tap-dancer and not as a singer

Above: Col. Jack Major is a real Kentucky Colonel who hails from Paducah, Ky. You hear him on the Monday afternoon CBS variety show. He tells "tall stories" about Blue Grass folk, whistles, sings and acts as the show's master of ceremonies

Right: Dramatic Star Alice Reinheart has 10 years of theatrical and 6 years of big-time radio work to her credit. A native of San Francisco, Alice was a favorite of West Coast theater-goers when but 15. You've heard her on Joe Cook's show, and many other programs

RICH MAN'S TOY— Frank Black's FARM

MUSICIAN FRANK
RELAXES BY DAY-
LABORING ON A
COUNTRY ESTATE,
BUT TO HIM IT'S PLAY—NOT WORK!

Though he's director of Sunday "Magic Key," Monday "Contented Hour," Wednesday "String Symphony," and NBC music director, Frank Black owns a farm, visits it often, keeps Frank Ulmer (right) as caretaker

5 Pride and joy of Farmer Black is his Chicken Palace, planned by himself. In it are 100 Rhode Island Reds, 100 White Rocks, 50 Plymouth Rocks—and, here, Frank himself! The hens provide the Black homestead with 60 eggs—and up—per day. Frank's farm is in Bucks County—near Philadelphia

6 Though a crack rifleman, high-jumper, quarter- and half-miler in high school, Frank stayed out of football to save his fingers from possible injury. But now his sensitive musician's hands are given field labor to do. Behind the big shovel here is Tiller-of-the-Soil Black! Once Frank upset his father's career plans—became a musician instead of a dairyman!

7 Pitch-forking hay to the cows—a Frank Black labor. Two cows, two calves, a Chester White sow, ten baby pigs, two work-horses, a fine saddle-horse, comprise Frank's livestock. The cows have names, are called "Mrs. Astor," "Mrs. Vanderbilt," have private drinking-fountains, electric lights, are housed with pigs, horses, in the 175-year-old barn

2 Frank Black's chauffeur, Walter Krisbell, waits for Black & Mrs. Black, is ready to drive them to farm

4 The house was built in 1732, renovated in 1787 and 1834, bought, modernized by Frank in 1935

8 This is the litter of little pigs that Frank's Chester White sow mothered. There are 10 of them altogether

3 Doffing city attire is Frank's first duty upon arrival at the farm. He dons country clothes, puts on slacks, wears these brown suede boots

10 A luxurious touch in each bathroom is a white bear-skin rug. Mrs. Black, an authority on interior decoration, planned, shopped for all the furnishings

9 Frank's country manse is up to date in every way—is even oil-heated. There are 5 bedrooms, exclusive of servants' quarters, 3 bathrooms with modern fixtures, electric lights, telephones, and radios—of course

11 Black is a practical farmer. He uses modern machinery, pays attention to small details—even to having a rubber tire on the farm's wheelbarrow

12 Black often tramps several miles a day on the farm, is trailed by his constant companion—a goat named “Whiskey.” Whiskey has the run of the living-room, won’t drink anything but milk, likes to sit on Frank’s lap

14 Luncheon the day Radio Guide’s cameraman was a guest consisted mostly of farm produce. Chicken was served, topped off by rice-balls, dressing, gravy and new peas. Dessert was strawberry short-cake

15 Black is joined at luncheon by Mrs. Black. Watercress for the meal was picked that morning from a near-by sparkling spring, which comes directly out of the roots of a 300-year-old oak tree. In olden days, the spot was a gathering place for Indians

13 Black’s favorite chair. It is made of metal and has the notes of his “Magic Key” theme song on the back of it. This chair is part of a set of chairs with which the terrace in back of house is furnished

16 Frank spends many leisure hours in his “playroom.” Among the furnishings are an old Franklyn cast-iron stove, a stool carved entirely from one block of wood, and antique odds and ends picked up by Mrs. Black at neighborhood auctions

17 Mrs. Black’s proud possession is “Boo Boo,” a chestnut-colored three-gaited mare

18 Frank poses with “Whiskey,” the goat, and “Reddy,” the full-blooded Irish Setter. Whiskey is about a month old, was bought at a near-by auction by Mrs. Black for three dollars

19 Black and Mrs. Black wave a cordial good-bye to Radio Guide’s cameraman. Black commutes weekly between Chicago and New York, maintains a New York apartment, but spends as much time as he possibly can at his 118-acre country estate in Pennsylvania

John Barrymore and his wife, Elaine Barry, present a streamlined version of "The Tempest" with themselves cast in the roles of Ariel and Caliban. The story, as most of you know, concerns the wronged Duke of Milan, Prospero, who, by the use of magic on his enchanted island, is enabled to have revenge and later forgive those who had exiled him from the court of Naples. The supporting cast, all film stars, is: Walter Brennan as Stephano, Herbert Mundin as Trinculo, Robert Warwick as Alonso and Henry (Art Jacobson) Hunter as Ferdinand.

Virgil Cox, a 49'er, made medical history when a 22-inch tamping iron was blown clear through his head in an explosion, and did no more damage than to knock him temporarily senseless. Had Virgil lived in the days of X-ray his head would have been photographed promptly. Instead, it was mortgaged! The series of events which followed will be told by the Old Timer.

Robert L. ("Believe-It-Or-Not") Ripley begins a new series of programs on a new day and a new time for the makers of Huskies. Mr. Ripley will be assisted by B. A. Rolfe's Orchestra and the Men-About-Town trio. Incidentally, Mr. Rolfe and the Men-About-Town supplied the music for Mr. Ripley when he first presented his dramatized "Believe-It-Or-Not's" in 1933. The Men-About-Town trio is made up of Phil Ducey, Jack Parker and Scrapy Lambert with Will Donaldson, accompanist.

With Robert Taylor heading the cast, Hollywood Hotel tonight tentatively schedules MGM's "Broadway Melody of 1938" as its dramatic bit. Supporting Taylor will be Eleanor Powell, Buddy Ebsen, Igor Gorin and Sophie Tucker. The story concerns a young girl (Miss Powell) and her father who owns a race horse. The father is forced to sell the horse to a society woman, who incidentally, is backing a play written by a New York playwright (Taylor). Later the socialite auctions the horse and Eleanor bids for it. But she hasn't any money, so Taylor loans her some. From there on the plot thickens.

* CBS-Saturday Night at the "Spread Eagle," from London: KSCJ WCO (sw-15.27)
From the "pub" of the "Spread Eagle" in Little Bardfield, Essex, England, a village of about two hundred inhabitants, will come a unique broadcast. The program will offer discussions on life and politics led by "Uppy" Andrews, 64-year-old town bard, and tall tales and songs of the amenities in which all the Saturday night habitués of the "pub" will join. To round out this slice of English life, Harold Laski, eminent British economist, will describe the quaint village and its background.

Thousands have acclaimed the Magic Voice as radio's finest. But RCA Victor engineers have made it still more tone-full by new simplified Sonic-Arc Tone Chamber built like a bandshell.

OVERSEAS DIAL

Seven tuning bands, each over 9½ inches wide. Foreign and other short wave stations are 50 times farther apart than on ordinary dials. Short wave stations as easy to tune as domestic.

BEAUTY-TONE CABINETS

RCA Victor cabinets, made by skilled craftsmen in world's largest musical cabinet shop, combine beauty in appearance and tone. Only RCA Victor offers these Beauty-Tone Cabinets.

Push a Button—there's your Station!

THAT'S RCA VICTOR ELECTRIC TUNING!

New radio thrills yours with 16-tube radio that is crowning achievement of RCA skill in making fine instruments

FOR a real thrill choose this new 1938 RCA Victor radio. It's packed with excitement! The biggest thrill is Electric Tuning of this new Sonic-Arc Magic Voice Radio. You have only to look at this instrument—only to hear a few bars of music from it—and you will want to trade in your present radio.

Electric Tuning is all that the name implies. It's truly automatic—simple as pushing the light button in your living-room. You just push a button—there's your station... another button for another station.

The convenience goes still further. For a little additional you can have this remarkable, automatic station selector with Armchair Control. Then you can tune your radio from across the room, or from an adjoining room. A final touch of luxury is the big, open-faced Overseas Dial. This dial puts short wave stations on six bands, each over 9½ inches wide. Think of that! Short waves spread over 57 inches of dial! It makes foreign tuning as easy as getting domestic stations. Only RCA Victor gives you these four new radio thrills.

Why RCA ALL THE WAY means extra value for you

As a radio instrument, each RCA Victor is planned, and built, by Radio Corporation of America engineers, the only radio organization that also builds broadcasting stations.

As a musical instrument, each RCA

Added to all of this skill is that of the National Broadcasting Company, another member of the RCA family. NBC experience inspires the amazing fidelity of the 1938 RCA Victor Models.

This unmatched experience creates radio that is RCA ALL THE WAY, an extra value that only RCA Victor offers.

Visit your RCA Victor dealer. You'll be delighted with every cabinet, with every feature—and with the small investment needed to put a 1938 RCA Victor in your home.
