Happy Listening

ACTS of God, we should have warned our readers, are beyond the control of editors. We refer specifically to the broadcast of the Louis-Farr fight for the world championship which we listed for a Thursday and which a rainstorm postponed to a Monday, and to Shaw's "Methuselah" which we listed for a triumphal network production on a Monday and which has been postponed until goodness knows when. After working ourselves into a lather, beating our breasts and telling all and sundry that these were broadcasts worth whole minutes of your precious time, things like that have to happen. Unless times get better we're going to change astrologers.

In all seriousness, we apologize. In the future when you read of opulent shows being prepared for your ears, please tincture your hopes for a fine program with the slight doubt that something might—just barely might, mind you, happen. This nettlesome spat with such ominous forces of nature as storm clouds and George Bernard Shaw has taught us a lesson.

A contest a reader would like to suggest is one for small stations—a prize to be offered to the station thinking up a name other than "The Musical Clock" for a program between 7 and 8 a.m.

The Columbia Broadcasting System has the knack of producing both thought-provoking programs and writing thought-provoking advertisements in behalf of its own services. We've just received an impudent pamphlet in which CBS proclaims itself "Headquarters for Radio Facts." And all the time we had thought our Mr. Fairfax was the headquarters. CBS boasts it has the answers to practically everything, even such questions as:

How many programs have been on the air 600 times or more?

How do the listening habits of college students compare with those of the average audience?

What percent of the homes in Australia have radio sets?

How much did the audience spend to listen in 1936?

Our Mr. Fairfax Who Knows All is piqued. On a clear day even natives of Alaska can see his pout. So he is challenging CBS to answer his list of questions. They're rather silly but here they are: How many programs have been on the air one time or more? How do the listening habits of college students compare with those of human beings? What percent of the radios in Australia have homes? And how spent was the audience after it had finished its 1936 listening?

Which reminds us of a peppery talk we heard the other evening from a gentleman who insisted that Americans are becoming mental grasshoppers, all because of radio. Men once listened for thoughts, he said. Now they listen for laughs, and we're all bound for hellfire and perdition unless we change our ways. As a matter of fact, he made a small speech which might be titled: "How to Be Happy Though Listening to a Radio Speech." More about it, we promise, next week.

IT CAN ONLY HAPPEN HERE

IN AMERICA ALONE CAN MEN DISCUSS THE CONSTITUTION THE WAY THEY'LL DISCUSS IT ON THE AIR THIS WEEK

BY KEN W. PURDY

WHEN in the course of human events it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bonds which have connected them with another . . ."

"We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense . . ."

One of the quotations above is taken from the Preamble to the Constitution of the United States; the other is from the opening sentence of the Declaration of Liberty. For guessing which is which, there are no prizes whatsoever, but you may find the effort enlightening. And if you are Mr. Average Citizen, you have only a 50-50 chance of being able to make the correct choice. (The second quotation is from the Constitution.) If that was your guess, you may go to the head of the class. If it wasn't—you may be inclined to say, "Well, what of it?"

Nothing at all—except that you've proved your right to membership in the great army of citizens of these United States who consider it their privilege to argue fiercely over something they know nothing about: the Constitution of the United States of America. Today, you can't toss a stone on Main Street without hitting a man who's pining away for a chance to pin you to the wall by your lapels and pour forth his own private interpretation of constitutional rights. You don't dare mention the subject to a politician, or to a jurist, whether he's a justice of the peace or a Supreme Court judge. It's the burning issue of the day in America! You can take one side or the other, or any old side at all—but nobody's neutral!

And it's an issue that stands badly in need of clarification—which is precisely what it's going to get! On Thursday and Friday of this week, three of the foremost constitutional authorities in the land will broadcast their views on the present crisis over national networks. On Thursday, September 16, Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, one of the elder statesmen, great lawyer, deep student, will air his views over the NBC-Blue network. On Friday, September 17, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, one of the leaders in the constitutional fight against President Roosevelt's Supreme Court plan during the just-adjourned session of Congress, will be on the air for 45 minutes over the Mutual network. And, a few hours later that same day, the President himself will address the nation—over NBC-Blue, Columbia, and the Mutual Broadcasting System Coast-to-Coast networks! When those three broadcasts are over, the air around the Constitution should be a great deal more clear!

For all three of these men are accredited experts on the subject. All three have devoted their lives to political endeavor, all three have attained to high eminence, and of all three it may be said that they are not mere politicians, but statesmen.

In the case of Senators Vandenberg

Michigan's Senator Arthur Vandenberg: He'll air the Republican views on Friday

—Wide World

President Franklin D. Roosevelt: Friday night he'll tell what he feels should be done to the Constitution to adapt it to our modern needs and Borah, the Constitution will be the sole subject; President Roosevelt has not announced the subject-matter of this, his first major speech since the adjournment of Congress. But while he will, of course, discuss other phases of the state of the union, you may be sure that in the main his talk will deal with the Constitution. To him, and to everyone else in Washington, it is the one issue that must be squarely faced and fought through without delay.

What is the Constitution, anyway? Actually, it's merely the basic set of laws upon which the government of this country is founded. It's a document drawn up by delegates chosen for the purpose, who met in Philadelphia on May 14, 1787, and argued, fought, debated and compromised until on September 17 they were able to report to George Washington that their labor was done.

And it was an impressive labor. Said the great British Statesman Gladstone, "As the British Constitution is the most subtle organism which has proceeded from progressive history, so the American Constitution is the most wonderful work ever struck off at a given time by the brain and purpose of man." That's high praise, indeed.

BUT, if the Constitution is such an amazingly perfect document, what's all the shouting about today? The answer is simple. Today, there are a great many people, of high estate and low, who can't second Gladstone's fulsome praise. They contend that while the Constitution was at the time of its creation perhaps the perfect expression of democratic government, and remained so for generations afterward, it cannot be called such today. Times have changed, they argue, the country has changed—and the Constitution should change as well. After all, it's only a document like any other, drawn up by men as fallible as any others; it isn't sacrosanct, it isn't holy and inviolate; it's merely a set of laws, meant to serve a purpose, and if in its

Senator William Borah of Idaho: He leads off the Constitution debate Thursday

PICTURE, if you can, just about all the big-time radio announcers from New York to Hollywood spending their off moments these days with their chins cupped in their hands and longing looks in their eyes. You may, if you wish, imagine their assorted faces any shade of green that appeals to you, and you may also picture them lying awake nights with their green faces staring into the dark, wondering unhappily why it is that some people get all the breaks.

They are very envious, these big-time announcers, of another big-time announcer named Harry von Zell. Because Von Zell has done something announcers never do. This something happens about as often as it sleets in Tahiti, or the saddest girl in town grabs off a billionaire prince:

It's when a fellow graduates from the announcing ranks to solo stardom. And it's happened to Harry.

Every Sunday night he steps smoothly into the spot vacated for the summer by Phil Baker. At a fancy fee and a lot of fame he emcees the "Summer Stars" series, and a neat piece of showmanship he makes of it, too. It's the same spot he used to announce all winter, but he isn't merely announcing any more. Harry's the show.

NOW there are a lot of reasons, as anybody who knows him can tell you, why such a thing shouldn't really have happened to Harry von Zell. In the first place, he's the worst spoonerizer in all radio. A spoonerizer is a poor guy who means to say lolly-pop and comes out with polly-lop, and such will never do for a man who makes his living pronouncing words into a mike.

Harry began his very first big commercial assignment seven years ago, when it was extra important that he do a smooth job because Mr. Paley's papa was the sponsor of the show, by calling La Palinas "Pa Lalinias" three times—and he's made a string of similar errors consistently ever since. On another stellar occasion he introduced Herbert Hoover as Mr. Hoobert Herver, and he'll never, never, live that one down. That's not to mention a long category of other notable announcerial mistakes he has made, either.

In the second place, Harry's famous for being an incurable script-loser, which is as awful as a stage actor who habitually forgets his lines. Any script handed him during the station-break will almost invariably be lost by the time he makes his opening announcement twenty seconds later.

In the third place—well, a star has to sort of behave like a star, and that's something Harry could never do any more than Mae West could give a convincing performance of Elsie Dinsmore. He walks to work from Penn Station because he likes walking, and is apt to eat four hamburgers for lunch instead of going to the Gateway. He doesn't use broad A's, a cigarette-holder or a press-agent. It seldom occurs to him to buy a new suit until his wife, Mickey, firmly states that he needn't come home tonight without one. He despises New York City and apartments, lives rather anonymously in a modest house at Great Neck, Long Island. And instead of being very tall, dark and handsome, he's rather short, blond and attractive.

On the other hand, there are also a lot of reasons why stardom should have happened to Harry von Zell. Because he's a regular guy and the people in radio love him for it. Because his Christmas dinner last year

When Harry von Zell, CBS' Sunday night (EDT) "Summer Stars" emcee, makes mistakes, people laugh with him—he doesn't let them laugh at him

He KNEW What He Wanted

BY MARY WATKINS REEVES

was a ham sandwich—he was that busy working. And because attending to his announcing duties has never been enough slavery for him; he's written and acted and produced and taught himself everything about broadcasting he could learn.

These are the pros and cons the big-time announcers are poring over when they get those longing looks in their eyes. But none of these is the real reason stardom happened to Von Zell instead of some other mikeman.

TEN years ago he was standing behind a window in the paymaster's office of the Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railroad. He had twenty dollars coming in every Saturday, a pretty bride, and an occasional opportunity to sing a baritone solo on an amateur program over KFWB in Hollywood. And a lot of ambition. So after considerable struggling, much of which was so grim Harry himself doesn't even like to recall it, he finally wound up in New York being the thing he wanted to be. A big-time radio announcer.

But big-time announcing didn't turn out to be quite the ideal job he'd counted on. He's just had his first vacation in nine years. He worked, and still works, fourteen hours a day, including the cat-naps he catches in deserted dressing-rooms between programs. He hasn't been home to play Santa Claus for Kenneth, eight, and Jeanne, six, for five consecutive Christmases. Once he didn't even see them awake for two whole months. At the end of that time Kenny suggested seriously, "Daddy, what's the matter with you getting a regular job like a policeman or something?"

With that Harry was so touched he resolved to demand a day off every week. He gets it (occasionally) on Wednesdays. He and Mickey ride or play golf in the morning. They collect the children and go on a picnic. It's a regular routine. At home in the evenings he smokes a pipe, wears old tennis shoes around the house and doesn't listen to the radio. He has his kids resigned to the fact that their papa will do anything on earth for them but read the funnies out loud. To have to read anything aloud after he finally gets home is more than he can stand.

There's only one angle about his new position in radio that has him worried: he's scared to death that the occasion may arise when he'll have to entertain formally. He's convinced he'd be a painful flop as a formal host, and intends, if he's ever pressed into it, to get perilously ill at the last minute so he can hide out. He likes to invite a few people to drop in informally, and the party's sure to include his closest friends: Harry McNaughton, the "Bottle" of the Phil Baker shows; Stoopnagle, Budd, and Announcers Truman Bradley, Andy Baruch and Don Ball. He booms out at his guests, with characteristic jubilation, "This is here, that's over there, help yourself and make yourself at home!" They do.

THE standing joke on him among all his friends is the batch of pictures he snapped of the returning Byrd expedition. They're the first real photographs Harry ever took and they turned out so swell he's never gotten over it. Consequently everybody who so much as sits down in the Von Zell living-room has to suffer through those pictures one by one while Harry explains their remarkable points in detail. His best friends have endured this at least six times each.

When Harry's obviously in extra good spirits his intimates take him off in corners and whisper, "What's the trouble, fellow? Anything I can do?" They mean it. Because they know when he's in extra good spirits that things are going badly with him; and also that when he's blue he's invariably getting all the breaks. He admits that this appears to be a trifle screwy of him but explains that when things get black he knows they've got to brighten eventually, so he automatically cheers up. And when everything's jake he gets horribly, completely depressed because he knows it can't possibly last long.

He's an ex-lightweight boxer, a superb swimmer and bowler, but his golf scores are pretty feeble. He hasn't seen a movie in two years; he got fed up with gangster pictures and has never been able to get into a movie-going mood since. But he did see Helen Hayes in Victoria Regina six times last winter. Not on passes, either.

IF HE goes to work with a couple dollars in his pocket he manages fine on a couple dollars. If he takes twenty or thirty he arrives home without a nickel. This went on for a long time until Harry saw the future in carrying his salary checks home to Mickey. She's the financier of the family. He never could save a cent until Mickey taught him the trick of saving by buying. So the Von Zells purchase annuities and real estate.

He's much too generous for his own welfare. A friend of his tells of the time recently when an announcer was forced to be absent from the studios and Harry took over that announcer's complete schedule, which, plus his own duties, kept him working straight through from eight a.m. to two a.m. for a week. At the end of that time, having given exhaustingly of his time to a friend, he took off a day to go fishing at Montauk Point. His car became embedded in a sand dune and it took one of the local fishermen fif-

IT IS estimated that 11,000,000 people will be listening next Monday night when the Lux Radio Theater, under the personal direction of C. B. de Mille, returns to the air on the Columbia network. Janet Gaynor and Robert Montgomery will be the stars and the play will be 1937's motion-picture classic, "A Star Is Born."

Three years ago, when this program began in New York, no one dreamed that it would some day be broadcast from Hollywood. In what now seems almost like pioneering days, the idea of the radio theater was simple. Buy the radio rights for a fine play, hire the biggest names available to act the principal roles, and hope the public would listen.

From the very beginning, the public did listen, and the most interesting tale of this developing new giant among our radio shows is not in how the public reacted but what happened behind the scenes. As months went on, the supply of actors in New York became scarce. Even the few movie stars who could be persuaded to fly from Hollywood to New York for a single performance could not provide the big name needed.

THEN began the amusing game of "catch the celebrity," played by this show's producers for months before the move to Hollywood was a fact. Stars would board a train or plane in Hollywood en route to England for a rest, refusing the offers of Radio Theater agents who sought to hire them for New York appearances. But they soon learned they were not finished with the matter. When they arrived in New York they were met by more agents, often from several competing programs. Lux wanted them, but so did Rudy Vallee and Paul Whiteman and other guest-star programs. Again, the bidding would become fast and furious. If the Radio Theater won out, the star would be rushed to the studio for a rehearsal. The result was a big name, to be sure, but not such a fine performance.

With new stars needed week after week, with rival programs offering more money, it was not a happy situation. Finally, one bright lad hit on the perfect device for getting first crack at an arriving celebrity. Leslie Howard was the first on whom it was tried. When his plane landed he was met by six different agents with six separate propositions. He wanted to listen to none of them. But our bright young man didn't approach Howard as he emerged from his plane. He merely watched the Howard luggage as the porter set it down. Then, without a word, he picked it up and carried it to the nearest taxi. Turning, he found Howard close on his heels. He climbed in a cab and Howard climbed in after him. As they rolled away, the great actor said, "Who are you?" The bright young man said, "I'm from the Lux Radio Theater and you're going to act for us tomorrow night."

Howard did act the following night, and so did many another startled traveler fresh from Hollywood—all because a young fellow knew that a man will always follow his suitcases.

Among those early stars was the glittering and imperious Ethel Barrymore. She came to rehearsal and studied her lines. That night she gave a fiery and magnificent performance of a difficult role. As the program went off the air the dramatic director rushed to her and, perspiring with youthful enthusiasm and joy, gushed, "Ethel, you were superb, you were triumphant."

Miss Barrymore held him off with a stare. "Young man," she said, "when Ethel Barrymore is good she doesn't need a Pipsqueak to tell her so." And she stalked away with all the glittering assurance of a queen.

PROBABLY the most amusing episode of those early days happened the night Lupe Velez was to broadcast. Miss Velez was nervous, apprehensive of the mike, with which she was then unfamiliar. During the dress rehearsal just before the actual broadcast she fretted continually.

It was exactly thirty seconds before the zero hour—before Lupe was to go on the air—that she darted through the studio door and down the hall. The director followed hurriedly. "We're going on the air," he called.

"I can't," she wailed. "I'm going to the little girls' room."

Unceremoniously, the director swung her back into the studio, closed the door firmly behind. "Sorry, Lupe," he said, "You're on the air. Little girls' room or no little girls' room, you've got a broadcast to do."

And Lupe did her broadcast.

It was the jump to Hollywood plus two years of sound building which really made the radio theater one of America's big shows. There, C. B. de Mille began to direct, there, stars were plentiful. Today, approximately thirty-two men and women are engaged in putting this program together.

It is interesting to note that, roughly, six preliminary steps are taken in advance of the broadcast.

First, Mr. de Mille and his colleagues agree on a certain play as fitting material. Second, George Wells, the adapter, goes to work on the play to fit it for microphone presentation. Third, the adaptation is sent to New York, where the client and the advertising agency officials consider it and make their suggestions. Fourth, if satisfactory, radio rights for the performance of the play must be bought and cleared by the legal department of the agency. Fifth, Mr. de Mille, Frank Woodruff, Danny Danker, Paul Rick-enbacker and Adapter Wells must go into a conference and select a cast from first-ranking motion-picture players. Sixth, the proposed cast must be signed by Mr. Danker. The final step frequently is one of the hardest to negotiate. If one of the selected stars is busy on a picture, Mr. Danker must get permission (1) from the producing company, (2) the producer in whose charge the picture is, and (3) the director of the film in order that the star may be "shot around" or production of the picture delayed in order to give the player time enough off to participate in five rehearsals of the Lux Theater play and its broadcast.

SILVER screen luminaries come high. In the last year as high as $7,500 was paid to a single actor for one performance; the average fee is from $3,000 to $5,000 for a name player. Altogether, during the 52 weeks of the preceding season, a total of 1,072 single speaking parts, or an average cast of twenty people, were heard. And only top-flight performers are engaged. From twenty to twenty-five thousand dollars annually is spent on the radio rights and the casting alone.

Mr. de Mille is delighted with his Radio Theater assignment. Said he, "I wouldn't take a million dollars for the experience I've had in radio." He loves the instant reaction from listeners by mail and telegraph that the Radio Theater provokes. To know that he is educating and entertaining millions of people, that he is talking direct to them, is for him a joy.

This is Mr. de Mille's twenty-sixth year in motion pictures. Before that he had twenty years in the legitimate theater. Because he is a stickler for atmosphere, the Lux Radio Theater is housed in a real theater with 1,000 seats and an audience.

But to return to next Monday night's play, "A Star Is Born" should provide a bright evening's entertainment. During the early days of its production in technicolor, the wise men of Hollywood discounted the production. "It's got Janet Gaynor," they said, "and the kid's finished. She was too sweet and the public got tired of her." That was their first bad guess. "It's a story about the inside of Hollywood and the movies," they added. "The public never has taken to that sort of story." That was their second bad guess.

"A Star Is Born" brought Miss Gaynor back as a first-rank star when the picture smashed records from Coast to Coast. Her Monday night performance will be interesting to hear because without the assets of her beauty and winsomeness, her voice must convey much more than was required by the lines of the movie.

Frederic March, who played opposite her so effectively, was not available for this performance, so Robert Montgomery, who only recently has begun to demonstrate his hitherto unsuspected ability as a character actor, will drop his scapegrace impersonations to play the part of the Hollywood god who goes to seed. Between him and Miss Gaynor, Monday night should be uncommonly interesting.

CBS TAKES YOU BY AIR FROM RURAL FAIR TO PARIS EXPOSITION THIS SUNDAY NIGHT

LET'S go to the Fair!

Who hasn't thrilled to that invitation? To young and old alike it means great things: pop-corn and candy and spun-sugar cotton; the thrill of mingling with the laughing, pushing crowds in the Midway; the thud of pacing horses on dirt tracks; the endless fun of innumerable "games of skill and chance"; too many sizzling hot-dogs, too much delicious ice-cold pop; much too much of all good things—enough, indeed, to last the whole year through!

That at least is what the Fair meant to grandfather, and that's what it still means to most of us. But the County Fair, like everything else American, has grown up during the last decade or so; we Americans have an unquenchable love for the Fair and its twin brother, the Circus, and these two institutions have always been lusty, squalling youngsters. But today a fair is apt to be something more: instead of lasting but a week, it's apt to go on for a summer, perhaps for a year; we don't put our big fairs under canvas any more, we house them in stone and chromium and glass; to them may stream not only the people from the immediate vicinity but visitors from almost every country under the sun. Columbia Broadcasting System is this week putting on the air a special program that will take you on a Tour of Fairs, including everything the world has to offer today; everything from the simple pleasures of a typical rural county fair to the amazing complexities of the gigantic Paris Exposition!

"Come to the Fair"—that's the title CBS has given this special-events program, but it's a title that doesn't quite fit. Because you don't have to come to the Fair—you'll be taken there! On the air on Sunday night of this week, this program will visit, for you and with you, six of the biggest, most impressive expositions now open to the public on the face of the globe! You'll go to Cleveland, Ohio, for a broadcast from the grounds of the gargantuan Great Lakes Exposition, latest brain-child of the master showman, Billy Rose. You'll visit Dallas, Texas, where they're staging a show this summer that's in proper proportion to the size of the biggest state in the union. In Toronto, Ontario, Canada, you'll be an honored air-guest at the Canadian National Exhibition. You'll be taken into the very heart of the preparations now going on, night and day, for the great World's Fair in New York City, a fair, indeed, to end all fairs. You'll be whisked from New York to San Francisco for a special preview of the World's Fair being put into readiness there. Possibly—because it will be three o'clock in the morning in France at the time of the broadcast, Columbia isn't sure as this is being written—you may hear a short-wave trans-Atlantic broadcast from the international exposition in Paris!

Also, in all likelihood, a special broadcast will be made from the grounds of the Reading County Fair, in Reading, Pennsylvania—a typical old-time county fair of the kind our grandfather knew and loved so well. As this is being written, negotiations are under way between Columbia Broadcasting System executives and officials of the Reading County Fair Association, and there's every reason to believe that the Reading County Fair will take its place beside Dallas, Cleveland, Paris, San Francisco, Toronto and New York!

Each of the fairs visited will offer to the program something typical of itself. When Columbia microphones are set up at Cleveland, Myran Roman and the Great Lakes Exposition orchestra (on the air over CBS every Saturday night) will go into action. From Dallas will come the music of Benny Goodman, king who sits on the Throne of Swing. From Toronto—where the great Canadian National Exhibition will be just closing down—you'll hear interviews with concessionaires, circus performers, barkers, all the strange coterie who follow the fairs.

So—let's go along! Let's go to the Fair!

FOUR-LETTER-MAN EDDIE DOOLEY RETURNS TO SPORTS COMMENTATING THURSDAY NIGHT

THE most versatile sports commentator in America returns to the air on Thursday of this week when Eddie Dooley starts his football program for Chesterfield over CBS. Eddie has written a popular novel, "Under the Goal Posts," published in 1934. He writes sports for a New York daily and for leading magazines. Once he was a stage actor and director; another time, scenario writer and producer of a three-reel movie. At Dartmouth, from which he was graduated in 1927, he won letters in four sports: football, basketball, baseball and track. As quarterback on the Dartmouth eleven he threw the longest pass ever recorded. It traveled 73 yards.

Sports writing and sports broadcasting are Eddie's first love; law, his second. While working for a newspaper he studied law at Fordham University, and took his degree in 1930. He can start practise whenever he wants to—but he hasn't wanted to.

Eddie first stepped to a microphone nine years ago—at Evanston, Illinois, where he broadcast a football game, pinch-hitting for the regularly scheduled announcer. His first radio series was heard over CBS in 1932. Every fall since then he's been on the air commenting on football, describing games. This year he will be heard twice weekly—Thursdays and Saturdays—over 60 CBS stations in a 15-minute program sponsored by Chesterfield. On Thursdays he'll talk about the next Saturday's games, predict winners; on Saturdays, about the games just ended, about what teams won and why.

Born in Brooklyn, April 13, 1905, Eddie was brought up in New York. At preparatory school Eddie took part in plays, engaged in sports, read a great deal; later, at Dartmouth, he did the same.

EDDIE'S proficiency in sports—particularly in football—led him to sports-writing. He began work on the New York Sun ten years ago, is still there. Eddie has written and produced the Sun's educational movie, "A Day with the Sun," which has been shown to millions of high-school and college students.

Five years ago, when he started his first big radio series over CBS, he became an important air sports-commentator. Unlike many other sports writers who have never participated in the sports about which they write and talk, Eddie has taken part in many, knows thoroughly by experience the sports he describes. His training in public speaking he acquired in college as a member of the Dartmouth Arts Society, which sponsored oratorical contests. He was president of this society during his junior and senior years.

It was while he was in college that Eddie met and married Harriette M. Feeley of Long Beach, N. Y. They have been married eleven years, have one son, Edwin Benedict Dooley, Jr., aged four. The Dooleys live at Mamaroneck, N. Y., within commuting distance of New York City, own a beautiful colonial home on Long Island.

THE GOLDBERGS ARE BACK! MOLLY, ROSIE, SAMMY AND PAPA JAKE RETURN THIS MONDAY

YOO-HOO! Mrs. Bloom!"
 "Rosie, answer the doorbell."
 "Papa, make him go, I'm busy with the dishes."

"Sammy, see who's at the door."
 What's all this about? Why, the Goldbergs are back! Your network neighbors have moved back to NBC after two years of absence. You'll hear them again on Monday of this week.

You recall them, don't you?—Molly Goldberg leaning out over a window-sill, anxious to tell her joys and sorrows to the silent Mrs. Bloom; Rosie and Sammy, the Goldberg off-spring, quarreling as true-to-life brothers and sisters so often do; and mild Papa Jake Goldberg trying to have order.

The years haven't changed them. Lovable Molly Goldberg is still played by Gertrude Berg, the author and producer of the series. The same Roslyn Silber portrays Rosie. Sammy continues to be the voice of Everett Sloan, and Jake, Papa Goldberg, remains James R. Waters.

In her two years off the air Mrs. Goldberg (in real life Mrs. Lewis Berg) invaded the Hollywood scene. She wrote the scenario for "Make a Wish," Bobby Breen's newest picture. That was her first attempt at screen writing. It was followed by another, "Streets of New York," which will go into production soon, also with Bobby.

WHEN the Goldbergs left the air, Mrs. Berg did not let movies take her whole time. She held a trust with her loyal radio followers, and was unwilling to break it. Thus came "The House of Glass," a series of half-hour dramas depicting life in a mountain-hotel resort.

Quite different is the present outlook as compared with her initial efforts eight years ago to place her serial, "The Rise of the Goldbergs," on the air. Matronly Gertrude Berg canvassed all the New York City radio stations, peddling her scripts and requesting an audition. She was turned down at all of them. The scripts were essentially the same then as now. Why, then, all the courteous but firm refusals?

At that time, when Gertrude Berg's scripts were yet to be heard on the air, it was said they were too real.

Yet there was one small station that finally allowed her fifteen minutes on the air each week. No salary, of course; she didn't care about money at that time, for she looked upon her writing as a means of self-enjoyment.

Once heard, "The Rise of the Goldbergs" rose. And its parent was on the National Broadcasting Company pay-roll before many weeks passed.

Gertrude Berg was born in the Harlem section of New York City in 1901. Her father, an innkeeper, emigrated to America from England. She graduated with honors from Wadleigh High School, and studied at Columbia University.

Immediately upon being graduated from college she married, shelving her writing ambitions, as she was too busy with her home. It was not until after she had brought up her two children that she began to write. And she soon attained her goal.

Oklahoma Cowboy Gene Autry will guestar on George Fischer's "Hollywood Whispers," Saturday, on MBS (top). Dorothy Gordon's "Children's Corner" (above) returns Tuesday to CBS. Vincent Lopez (below) will be heard Friday over MBS from Billy Rose's Aquacade. Crosby Gaige (bottom) will m.c. the "Kitchen Cavalcade" on NBC 5 mornings weekly

JOSE ITURBI, JOHN CHARLES THOMAS BRING FORD SUNDAY EVENING HOUR BACK TO CBS

THE first of the major musical programs of the season gets off to an impressive start Sunday when the Ford Symphony Orchestra with Jose Iturbi conducting and John Charles Thomas as guest soloist goes on the air from the Masonic Temple in Detroit. The Ford Chorus of 28 mixed voices, and Mr. W. J. Cameron, commentator, will augment the hour program.

Listeners will do well to put this program on their list of "musts," for this type of program, bringing to our parlors such seldom-heard voices as that of Mr. Thomas, has been too greatly missed on radio's summer menu.

The Columbia Broadcasting System network will broadcast the program for a full hour this Sunday night.

The 75-piece orchestra opens the premiere program with Brahms' "Academic Festival Overture," a stirring number requiring ten minutes to perform.

Mr. Thomas has selected the "Prologue" from "I Pagliacci" as his first offering. This, along with "Vesti la Giubba," is the musical highlight of the two-act opera, which was composed by the Italian Leoncavallo in a fit of temper. The word "Pagliaccio" means "clown"—not the usual circus performer, but the stage comedian who is the butt of all jokes.

The "Prologue" opens with an orchestral introduction that bustles with life and vigor, suggestive of the life of clowns. This is followed by a more somber strain portraying the unhappiness that often comes to the players. Then follows a sentimental strain in which the singer tells of life behind the stage, of the sad fruits of love and passion and the hearts that weep and languish. The ending, said to be a favorite passage with all baritones, is built upon an expansive melody.

Following this magnificent opening, Mr. Iturbi again takes the baton to direct the orchestra in Massenet's "Air de Ballet" and "Bohemian Festival" from "Scenes Pittoresques."

Mr. Thomas returns for a group of three numbers. First he will do "The Trumpeter" by Dix. This will be followed by the Chancellor's Song from "Iolanthe" by those masters of light opera, Gilbert and Sullivan. The song group closes with Sullivan's "The Lost Chord," in which Mr. Thomas will be assisted by the Ford Chorus of 28 voices.

The first and third numbers of this group are well known to most radio listeners because of the frequency of broadcast. The Chancellor's Song, titled "When You're Lying Awake," comes from the two-act comic opera which is built upon the theme of the son of a fairy mother and a mortal father who becomes a priest's assistant. Two men want to become the husband of the Chancellor's ward, which puts the Chancellor in a very miserable position. While expressing his feelings in a song, the two suitors come in and express their sympathy. It turns out that he, too, loves his ward—and he sings to them of his unhappy plight.

Mr. W. J. Cameron will again be on the program with his short informative talk. It is most unusual that an hour musical program should interrupt its theme for a speech, but the results of last season's programs showed that Mr. Cameron's contribution was regarded as highly as the guest soloists and conductors by a great majority of listeners.

Interesting to note is the completeness of the Ford Symphony Orchestra. It is made up of 12 first violins, 10 second violins, 10 violas, 8 cellos, 4 double bass, 3 flutes, 3 oboes, 3 clarinets, 3 bassoons, 4 French horns, 4 trumpets, 4 trombones, 1 English horn, 1 timpani, 1 drum, 1 harp, 1 piano, 1 contra-bassoon and 1 bass clarinet.

The chorus, which is under the direction of William J. Reddick, who is also the producer of the program, consists of 9 sopranos, 7 altos, 6 basses and 6 tenors, will be an outstanding feature.

Ask the demonstrator if he'll sell the set he's displaying. If the answer is "yes"—you're getting your money's worth

HAVE YOU BEEN RADIO ROBBED?

BY WILLIAM GAVIN

SO YOU want to buy a new radio, do you? Perhaps you've got your heart set on a big multi-tube console, set in a cabinet of Circassian walnut, complete with short-wave band, automatic phonograph, remote-control tuning, a psychic station-selector—everything but hot and cold running water. We'll call the set of your choice an Ace 102. You know a store that sells 'em; you've got the money in the bank, and you think that's all there is to it.

That's where you're wrong. And how wrong!

But you don't know it, so you march into the store, with the air of a man who has a little business to do and means to get it over quickly. There on display are Ace sets and three competing brands, A, B and C. You tell the suave salesman in charge that you want to buy an Ace, and you make it plain that you're proud of your prejudice: nothing but an Ace will do.

THAT'S when the heat goes on. The Ace, you are told, is not a bad set, not really a bad set, but it's just another run-of-the-mill make, an assembly-line job built for a fast turnover. If you want your money's worth, you'll pass it up for a Brand A model. Only custom-built, hand-finished receiving sets leave the A factory, you're assured, and they cost—strangely enough—no more than the mass-made Ace sets.

You begin to waver, but you're still not unsold. The salesman snaps on the Ace, tunes in a local station—and you can't believe your ears. The Ace is full of bugs: it hums, it fades, it won't stay on the station and the static sounds like a fat man rolling in a corn-husk bed. Your loyalty wavers—and the salesman kills the Ace, snaps on Brand A. A child could tell the difference. Even you can tell the difference. Brand A delivers everything from the booming cadences of a candidate for public office to the dulcet tremolo of a lady fashion expert without a flaw. There's no fade here, no hum, no static. Stations are a point apart on the dial, each one clear and perfect. You buy it. You can't help yourself. After all, the salesman should know what he's doing. For the first time, you're right. The salesman knows what he's doing! He knows, for instance, that he did a swell job of detuning that magnificent Ace 102, "doctoring" it until it sounded like first cousin to a 1920 crystal set. He knows that he's sold another Brand A. And best of all, he knows that within a few days the Brand A people will send him a nice little check, clear profit for him, over and above his legitimate commission on the sale. He calls it a "spiff." What legitimately inclined, upright and honest radio dealers and manufacturers call it can't be printed here.

But they know it's a wide-spread practise, and so indignant are they that the Radio Manufacturers' Association is planning to incorporate into its trade practise rules the following:

"The granting or giving or promising to grant or give by manufacturers in the industry, directly or indirectly, to employes of retail sales outlets selling competitive lines of radio merchandise, of commissions, bonuses, premiums, prizes, "spiffs," "push money," gratuities, privileges or anything of value in any form whatsoever, in consideration of the said employe's influencing the retail purchase of industry products manufactured by the grantor or donor, whether or not the same shall expressly be granted or given for that purpose, to the extent that such practise has a tendency and effect of improperly influencing and deceiving the buying or consuming public by reason of the fact that the purchaser is not aware of such subsidy or consideration and expects the retail employe to be unbiased, impartial and free from any such influence as between different merchandise sold by him, is an unfair trade practise."

In other words, and expressed at a little lower mileage rate—it's crooked!

BUT "the push" or "shove" is not the only trap daily staked out in some retail radio stores for the unwary purchaser. Consider the "dead tube" racket, for instance. This is a minor evil, but a profitable one. In the first place, every time you buy a packaged tube, unless it's in a spotless carton carrying the seal of a reputable manufacturer, it's a good bet that you're getting a worthless second-hand tube. But that's a side-line. Suppose you're buying a radio set, and evidencing a decided preference for a certain five-tube set. The dealer agrees that it's a good set—but he has a better one over there in the corner. This is a six-tube set, and the dealer soon convinces you that it's well worth the extra $10. You buy. And you're stuck again. Two weeks later the set stops playing. You call in a repair-man, who tells you, probably with a happy smile, that it was a cheap set in the first place, parts cheaper than even the originals have been put into it, one of them, a low-grade transformer, has broken down—" $7.50, please"—and, unkindest cut of all, that it's only a five-tube set anyway.

NATURALLY, you scream. You point to tubes one, two, three, four, five and six in that order. "Count 'em!" you say.

"I can count, too," says the repair-man, "but one of those tubes is a phony. It's plugged into the circuit so that it lights up, but you might just as well have a Christmas tree lamp in there, for all the good it does. It's just to look at."

Most people today know the stock stunts of the second-hand automobile dealers. They know that a differential that should have been turned out to pasture in 1928 can be made to sound like a kitten's purr if enough sawdust and heavy grease is packed into it. They know what it means when a car won't idle, won't climb, and throws a smoke-screen out of the exhaust pipe. And they stay away. But these same people will wander trustingly into the jungle of the "bargain" radio stores, pay good money for a set that is a fraud and a fake, and compliment themselves on their shrewd judgment—for a couple of weeks, until they discover they could not get a 500,000-watt station clearly if they lived next door to it.

The devious methods of the crooked radio dealer are wondrous to behold. You're probably familiar with the old trick of displaying a window full of sets with price cards proclaiming them to be famous makes at bargain prices. Next time you see such a card, look closely. At first you'll notice only the words "Ace Radio—$13.95." If you look again, you may see the word "transformer" tucked away, in microscopic type, between the brand name and the price. The card should read, "Ace Radio (transformer)—$13.95." In short, "This bootleg radio is equipped with an Ace Radio transformer." To which should be added, "What of it?"

Yet the worst part of such a deal is that with the exception of the Ace transformer, the parts are little more than junk. They have been made with cheapness the only objective, and consequently are far too light to stand the loads they are necessarily subjected to when the radio is in operation. At first this may not be apparent, either, but it is only a matter of time before this flimsy equipment will start giving way under the stress. Once the defects begin revealing themselves, part after part will blow out, causing an endless amount of expense—and certainly no radio entertainment in return.

In this connection, there is another thing to be guarded against—the unscrupulous radio "expert." When your set needs repairing, see to it that a reliable service man does the job. If you don't, you'll find that while it has cost you no less, inferior parts have been used in your set, parts that later will cause you a good deal of grief—while the "expert" has pocketed the difference. Only by having a good, reliable service man do the work can you be sure that replacement parts in your set are actually replacements and not inferior substitutions. Know that the expert working on your set is an expert. It pays.

ABOUT two years ago, two well-known radio manufacturers left the field. Strangely, both those names still adorn the escutcheon plates of radio receivers manufactured after these companies' exit. Thousands of purchasers have bought these sets, relying on the fine reputations of the names. Again, thousands didn't buy what they thought they did.

Why? The story is simple—and sad. When the two original companies went out of business, two makers of inferior sets decided to capitalize on the names of their former competitors—and on the credulity of consumers. And so one maker used the exact name of one of the former manufacturers, with the tiny words "Radio Corporation" under it. The other adopted the name of the second former manufacturer, even to the script lettering of the original. The only distinction between the original and the counterfeit in this case was that a "u" in the original name was changed to an "o" in the copy; and the "o" was open at the top!

What can you do to protect yourself against this sort of fraud?

In the first place, when you detect crooked radio dealers or manufacturers, notify your Chamber of Commerce or Better Business Bureau.

Don't try to bring such underhanded operators to justice single-handed. It seldom works. Even if you've been one of their victims, you'd probably find it a good deal harder to prove that you had been swindled than your weak-lunged radio would lead you to believe. Turn the case over to either of these organizations and let them carry on from there. You'll find they will welcome the opportunity.

Second, buy only from a dealer whose reputation indicates reliability. You wouldn't go to a quack physician or a shyster lawyer. Why go to a doubtful dealer?

PICK an established merchant who sells standard sets at standard prices, and don't begrudge him his small margin of legitimate profit. For that's your assurance that you'll get a square deal, that you're dealing with a reliable businessman, and not a fly-by-night swindler. Even then, don't go into this matter of buying a radio with your eyes closed. You don't buy a radio every day, after all, and when you do buy one, good judgment is needed.

Insist on the better-known makes of radio. Don't let yourself be sidetracked into buying "bootleg" sets. Even among the standard makes, guard against the "switch." The dealer may tell you that he likes set A much better than B, that he has one himself, and so forth. Do not be influenced. Make up your own mind.

Another thing: Few radio salesrooms are in favorable locations for reception. Certainly the location is a good deal different from the location in which you intend to operate the set should you buy it. Consequently, you have no concrete idea how that set may perform once it is installed in your own home. Demonstrations won't tell you. The only way to find out is to try it under the conditions you intend to use it. Reputable dealers generally are glad to let you try the set at home for a few days, for they not only realize that it's the only true test you can give the set, but that if the set is a good, reliable outfit, you'll be so well satisfied you won't want to part with it at the end of a trial period. If you encounter objections to such a suggested test, be suspicious. The chances are that there is a good reason why the dealer doesn't want you to see how the set works under normal conditions—and that there is a good reason why you shouldn't consider buying it.

A good receiver should have no noticeable hum. Turn the volume control completely off and listen. Any but a very slight hum indicates faulty filtering units. Next, test for selectivity. A good receiver will pull in stations about one point apart without interference. Make sure that the receiver operates satisfactorily at high volume. If reception isn't clear, full and rattle-free under these conditions, distortion is being caused by the set or speaker.

If you have your mind set on owning a large radio, be sure that's what you get, and not a radio that appears to be large. Remember a cabinet can be as misleading as the manufacturer intended it to be. It's easy to put a little radio in a large cabinet and leave it to the customer to imagine that the huge console is filled with efficient parts. This writer once came upon a small-time manufacturer who made everything from compact auto radios to large floor models—using the same chassis in all of them!

Don't buy by cabinet. Too many people do. Quality—or the lack of it—lies behind the dial, inside the cabinet. Although good cabinet construction is as important as a good chassis, most people do not consider the construction, but allow appearance alone to decide their choice. The cabinet should be solid, both in material and in assembly, and completely open in back. If it's covered over with veneer, cardboard or anything else, insist that the covering be taken off. If the salesman is reluctant to display the mechanism, keep on insisting until he does it, and then, even if you don't know the difference between a transformer and a Bunsen burner, don't buy the set. The salesman's initial disinclination to open the cabinet is sufficient evidence that something is wrong.

And watch your step when you go bargain-hunting. Usually, when the consumer tries to get something for nothing, it's the dealer who actually does it. As a general rule, those who seem to offer more than seems reasonable in reality are offering a good deal less. Keep this in mind and you will never be the victim of a "more than your money's worth" deal.

IF YOU'VE EVER BOUGHT A BARGAIN-COUNTER RADIO, THIS WILL REFRESH SAD MEMORIES—IF NOT, LET IT SERVE AS A WARNING

NOT long ago, a friend of this writer, who knows radio inside and out, stopped at a demonstration booth to listen to a certain make of radio. This man—we'll call him Jones—was amazed at the tone quality of the set being demonstrated. He knew it wasn't that good, that no set made by that manufacturer had ever been that good. Two other men in the booth, however, were so impressed that they were writing checks then and there.

One of them remarked that he couldn't understand how so fine a set could be sold for so little money. Neither could Mr. Jones, and so he asked the salesman to let him see the back of the set. The salesman ignored him at first, finally turned the cabinet around. The reason for the receiver's fine performance became quite evident! Instead of the regulation speaker with which the set had come equipped, this dealer had installed a fine "high fidelity" speaker.

Jones told the salesman he'd buy the set if he could have the demonstrator.

The salesman reddened, gagged. "But the speaker in that set is $15 additional," he said weakly.

Jones asked him why he sold the regulation equipment on the strength of the performance of this better speaker.

He replied sourly that "the standard speaker was broken."

"Oh, I see," said Jones.

"Oh, oh," said the two men, tearing up their checks as they walked out.

For once, the consumer came out on top. Next time you buy a receiving set, remember that little story, and ask the salesman if he'll sell the set he's demonstrating—and if not, why?

ONE will get you ten that there's a separation in the wind for Martha Raye and her husband, Buddy Westmore, which may break shortly after you read this—or before—and I'll also take bets at the same odds that Martha's mother, frequently charged as having been unhappy about the marriage and meddling, is not the reason for the split-up. The whole business is all too unfortunate, for Martha is one of the grandest little gals in Cinemaland, and so she has our deepest sympathy.

By hours, Eddie Cantor narrowly escaped death one day recently when the "magic carpet" he had been "riding" for weeks at the 20th Century-Fox movie lot crashed to the ground and resulted in fatal injuries to two property men and serious injuries to two others. Eddie was scheduled that morning to have ridden the carpet to complete a sequence for his soon-to-be-released picture, "Ali Baba Goes to Town."

Al Jolson will be Ben Bernie's guest on Tuesday of this week, and Ben will be Al's piece de resistance one week later, on September 21. It's an even swap.

In fact, you won't be able to tell whose program you ARE listening to by the middle of October, when George Burns and Gracie Allen manage to get in four weeks of vacation. You see, their substitutes will be: October 11, Bob Burns; October 18, Eddie Cantor; October 25, Al Jolson, and November 1, probably the Marx Brothers. I'm getting almost as confused as Gracie, who has announced that she will spend her rest period in New York looking for talent for her forthcoming radio routine, "Gracie's Gay Nineties."

Wonder if it is true that the motion-picture company which recently signed Dummy Charlie McCarthy for a starring role insisted that his contract include a morality clause?

Lanny Ross and his wife Olive have become Hollywood house-hunters, and when they find what they want, Olive will return to New York to close their apartment there and move the furniture west. Lanny's co-singer on the Packard hour, Florence George, beat Lanny to the gun and is all settled in the Gene Lockhart home, which she has leased and stocked with her menagerie—which to date includes a monkey named "Dolci," Italian for "sweet," a big black Chow answering to "Coalie," and a police dog called simply "Boy." Comedian Charlie Butterworth thinks this animal stuff is very silly; would rather teach all the girls about him the way to "truck."

"Hollywood in Person," that mobile movie-lot-visiting program, had its troubles the other morning when it tried to pry Lupe Velez off of her bicycle. She just kept riding around until lassoed and dragged to the mike.

Backstage at "Hollywood Hotel" on August 27 was interesting. Eddie Cantor sent an orchid to Deanna Durbin with the card: "To my sixth daughter." Adolphe Menjou amused the cast by doing cigarette tricks; Leopold Stokowski kept mumbling his lines over and over—because he broadcast without a script. Incidentally, Anne Jamison will be missing from the October 1 program while she is on a two-week vacation at Welf, Canada, her home town, and Charles Igor Gorin will leave the show permanently after September 17. He'll rest in Salt Lake City before making new radio plans. Jerry Cooper, clicking marvelously, has been renewed for six months.

Romance Corner: The Hoagy Carmichaels have patched it up . . . Muzzy Marcellino, with Ted Fio-Rito's band, is wuzzy over Martha Tilton, new solo singer signed by Benny Goodman to replace Betty Vance . . . Joy Hodges and Robert Wilcox, of the pictures, are previewing together.

Plums: For Werner Janssen's "Knock-turn" so ably written and performed on his concert of Sunday, August 29. The very funny musical burlesque of the McCarthy-Fields feud didn't satisfy Janssen at first, so two nights before its airing he worked all night to rewrite it and didn't get a wink of sleep until the night before the broadcast! . . . To Radio Writer Lola Yoakem for her clever humorous article, "Historical Lowdown," in the current issue of "Charm," the new woman's mag . . . and more plums to Tony Gilman, just grown-up radio dramatic youngster, for the beautiful brunet beauty of her young womanhood. It will land her on the screen quickly or I'm no crystal-gazer.

Virginia Verrill has quit the Goldwyn Follies picture and broken a seven-year Goldwyn contract which would have netted her $2,100 weekly eventually, all because Goldwyn wanted her to restrain her radio work to one program weekly. She preferred radio, where she will be starred shortly with Jack Haley in the Log Cabin program, in addition to her current work on NBC's Thursday night Show Boat.

Tuesday night Veteran Entertainer Al Jolson (right) will have little time on his hands. Immediately after his CBS program, he'll guest for the Ol' Maestro, Ben Bernie (above), on NBC's American Can Show

THE Wednesday night Andre Kostelanetz show is being completely overhauled. Frank Parker makes his last appearance September 22, and the following week will see the start of one of the most elaborate shows of the season. Andre Kostelanetz gets a free hand in his orchestral duties to the point of making his orchestra as large as he wishes or as small as he wishes, depending upon his idea of the interpretation of the music he will perform. Backing him up will be a galaxy of guest stars starting with John Charles Thomas on the 29th. Deems Taylor will be on the job each week to serve as master of ceremonies. Paul Douglas will handle the regular announcing duties.

The guest list follows with these stellar attractions: Oct. 6, Jose Iturbi; Oct. 13, Nino Martini; Oct. 20, Elisabeth Rethberg; Oct. 27, Albert Spalding; Nov. 3, Lucrezia Bori; Nov. 10, Bidu Sayao; Nov. 17, Jascha Heifetz; Nov. 24, Lotte Lehmann; Dec. 1, Ezio Pinza; Dec. 8, Kirsten Flagstad; Dec. 15, Rose Bampton; Dec. 22, Lily Pons.

NBC definitely will broadcast the Metropolitan Opera again this fall. The Met is to open about the middle of November, which is two weeks earlier than usual, and will run two weeks longer than in past years. Already NBC is clearing its blue network for Saturday afternoon in preparation, and Milton Cross is set for the role of commentator. Kirsten Flagstad will sing the lead in the opening performance.

The Metropolitan Auditions of the Air will also be broadcast again this year. They are scheduled to start on NBC-Blue October 3, from 5 to 5:30 p.m. EST.

And the program that has been the criterion in the classical field, the General Motors Concerts, which has in the past featured unlimited numbers of guests, does directly the opposite when it undergoes the startling change this season of choosing its soloists from a permanent company of eight or more artists of international reputation.

Sam ("Schlepperman") Hearn, who has been absent from the Jack Benny program since it moved to Hollywood, will rejoin the comedian for the new series which starts October 3.

Fiery Father Coughlin is slated to resume his Sunday 4 to 5 p.m. EST broadcasting period October 31 over an independent hook-up of stations. He'll be keyed out of Royal Oak, Mich.

as commentator, returns to the air October 7 over CBS. This move indicates that Helen Hayes, the first lady of radio, will not be on the fall air menu. For it is the coffee-maker who sponsored her the past two seasons that will now sponsor "We, The People." Although the program is the property of Phil Lord, who will get plenty of money for its use, his "Gangbusters" duties won't permit him to take part in the actual broadcasts. Gabriel Heatter, who successfully substituted for Phil last spring, gets the job.

Eddy Duchin will have two commercial programs this fall. His music must be a favorite with the femmes, for his last sponsored program was on the networks' first fashion show last year; this time, one of his two new ones will be for a cosmetic creator.

Unusual are the experiences of Frank Black. On Monday, August 30, he had to fly from New York to Chicago for his "Contented Hour" program, although he was rather certain that program would not go on the air. The Louis-Farr fight was scheduled at the same hour as Black's program, but Black had to be on hand with his full cast just in case a knockout ended the fight earlier than expected.

Then, on the return trip, the airplane in which Dr. Black was riding got into rough weather and hit a big air-pocket that threw the maestro out of his seat and against a piece of metal. He was knocked unconscious for several minutes.

Immediately upon landing at Newark he was rushed to a doctor's office, where stitches were taken in a large cut on the forehead.

Abe Lyman comes forth with his ideas on the most popular waltz tunes of all times. It's the result of his own survey. He ranks "Dear Old Girl" as first, with these others following in order: "Missouri Waltz," "Down By the Old Mill Stream," "Beautiful Ohio," "Drifting Back to Dreamland" and "Kiss Me Again."

Nonplussed is the word that best describes the feelings of radio's in-the-know folk, when the Ford Motor Company, which has been sponsoring the World Series games, dropped its option to cover the classic this year. This seems to indicate a general cutting-down of air-overhead with that company. What with the Universal Rhythm show recently having been dropped, and a big slice in expenses on the Sunday Night Concerts noticeable, this is one sponsor who is evidently easing out of radio at present at least.

Cliff Hall, who gained fame as "Sharlie" on the Baron Muenchausen broadcasts with his high-flung phrases & tongue-twisters, is now heard Saturday nights—emceeing a new show, "Home Towners"

Maestro Don Voorhees (left) and American-born Baritone Conrad Thibault: They'll be together again on Columbia's "Cavalcade of Music" when Thibault rejoins the series Wednesday night (EDT)

NEW! SCIENTIFIC AERIAL

Use the
With the Dual Connection
The DUAL CONNECTION, a new feature exclusively our own, gives better distance and positive performance on all electric radios (pat. pend.). This aerial can be installed without tools by anyone in a minute's time. Goes right inside the radio completely out of view and it does not use any electric current. No climbing on roofs. For short or long waves.

present form it can't serve that purpose, then it should be promptly changed. That's the argument of the liberals—Democrat, Republican and independent—and there is great weight on their side.

The conservatives, likewise scattered among the main political parties, take a basically opposite view-point. This Constitution, they say, has served America faithfully and well for more than a century and a half. It hasn't needed changing during that time, and it doesn't need it now! They point to the dangers of change, insisting that if the precedent is set by us, no man can say what future generations might not do. They point with alarm to the dictator-ridden countries of Europe, and they say, "There, but for the Constitution, goes America!"

A dozen or so years ago, world democracy had gained such a foothold that it seemed it would be only a short time before most progressive countries would be on a governmental basis similar to that of our own country. The seed had been planted, had begun to mature, and was thriving. Germany was well on the way towards democracy and even Spain showed promise of new awakening. Then, overnight, almost without warning, the promising seedling withered. Suddenly the rule of the strongest became the generally accepted form of government that it had been centuries before. In those countries where freedom had begun to take on new meaning, it was outlawed, abolished by strong-armed men as an evil that had no place in the new order of things. One by one, governments have fallen back into age-old patterns until today America is almost unique in having a democratic government.

This is the form of government all Americans want, of course, but as to how it should operate is subject to debate. To those who fear change, the Constitution represents the one concrete thing that assures democracy in this country. Fearing that to alter it in any way would be to invite danger of its downfall, they are determined to leave it just as it is—to fight any change that may be suggested.

HERE are the fundamental differences. Springing up from these two broad bases we find the heart and crux of the matter. The conservatives say that the Constitution is the perfect expression of democracy; that it was written by and for the common people, that it is the common man's best bulwark against oppression. The liberals reply, nothing of the kind! The Constitution was written largely by and at the behest of the rich and privileged people of the time. It was written by men who had no use for democracy, and said so; and it has always been a fortress for special privilege.

There are ample facts backing each view-point. The founders of the Constitution were such patriots as George Washington, Benjamin Franklin, James Madison, Roger Sherman, Alexander Hamilton, Gouverneur Morris—men whose devotion to their country's welfare could not be questioned. But that doesn't mean they were all earnest disciples of democracy. Far from it. To many of the delegates to the Constitutional Convention "democracy" was just as frightful a word as communism is to some legislators today. Said Roger Sherman himself, "The people should have as little to do as may be about the government." No democracy there! When it was proposed in debate that the people themselves should elect high officers, a furious opposition arose. Said Delegate Gerry of Massachusetts, with cold superciliousness, "Let us not have an excess of democracy." Later Gerry said bitterly that he regarded democracy as "the very worst of all political evils." However, when the Constitution was finally drawn up, he conceded it did not precisely represent his views.

One of the sternest arguments of the Constitutional Convention was over the question of states' rights. The small states were afraid of the big states, and the big states were determined to maintain the advantage that size gave them. And that argument, begun in 1787, is still going strong! Today it has a new name: you hear it discussed as "centralization of Federal authority." But it's the same old argument: To what extent shall Washington tell the individual states what to do, and what not to do?

HERE again the liberals and the conservatives come together in a violent head-on collision. The liberals say that the states should of course accede to a strong authority in Washington; and they point, for instance, to the fact that when a law was passed giving Federal operatives authority in certain kinds of bank robberies, that crime became highly risky and unprofitable. They point to the Federal Lindbergh Law, which has sent scores of kidnapers to prison. Conservatives argue that centralized authority is dictatorship under another name, and demand that the individual states be left to their own devices. And they can point to the Constitution for backing.

Liberals argue that when the Founding Fathers drew up the Constitution, the most far-sighted of them couldn't have dreamed of the appalling complexity of American life today, and so could hardly have made provision for modern conditions. They use this example: If there are but three families living on a plot of ground a mile square, there is no necessity for centralized authority. There are no problems of conservation of natural resources, no real problems of law and order, no necessity for unified transportation, sewage and communication systems, no need for control of manufacture. Rugged individualism can have full sway. So, they say, it was in 1787. But when there are 10,000 people on that same plot of ground, as there are today, somebody, something, has to step in and, for their own good, tell those 10,000 people what they shall do and what they shall not do.

Some centralized authority may be necessary, the conservatives admit, but, they say, let us keep it down to a bare minimum—because anything more than that is dictatorship!

And thus it goes, back and forth, around and about. Today, if Congress passes a law that is remotely offensive to anyone—and there never was a law that pleased everyone—it is sure to be carried to the Supreme Court, in order that five out of nine men may say that it agrees with the Constitution.

THE main issue of the present Constitutional fight is, of course, the Supreme Court. On Thursday and Friday you'll hear the celebrated case of the Nine Old Men argued to a fare-thee-well! And perhaps that is as it should be. There could be no Constitution without a Supreme Court. And after all, it was a Supreme Court Justice who best defined the Constitution.

To Chief Justice Hughes goes that honor. "The Constitution," he said, "is what the judges say it is."

"LET'S VISIT"

BY ARTHUR MILLER

THIS story would be twice as long if Dave Driscoll had been present when Jerry Danzig was interviewed. For the two "D"-men share and share alike the handling of the Mutual Broadcasting System's "Let's Visit" program. Therefore, anything told about "Let's Visit" rightfully should be from the lips of both of these fast-talking ex-newspapermen.

Taking the exception in the absence of Driscoll, Jerry Danzig ably tells of the planning and broadcasting of the distinctive radio program which has the "mountain to Mahomet" twist: "Let's Visit" is just what the name implies; visiting, and all done by radio. This is left to the tall and robust Driscoll and Danzig. While they visit, thousands of radio eavesdroppers tag along on Tuesday nights at 9:30 o'clock EDST.

"The objective," says Jerry, "is to and just about ties himself in a knot trying to make the person being interviewed laugh!

Driscoll and Danzig both have executive positions with WOR. In 1935 Danzig joined the newly created special-features division. Before that he had worked on the New York Evening Journal, had edited Dartmouth's paper, "The Dartmouth," and had no radio training. On the other hand, Dave Driscoll had operated his own little station in Fergus Falls. His radio experience had been gained on three stations. His was a background of sports-casting, special-events announcing and newscasting. So it was that WOR came to know these fellows, for Driscoll joined the station a few months after Danzig.

Since then, they've come to know each other so well and have worked together so much that theirs is a part-bring out the colorful lives that people living under the same roof have had. And the ultimate goal is to get the people talking among themselves."

Planning for the broadcast is the hard part of their work. Especially in the summer months. Then, they have discovered, New Yorkers are seldom to be found at home.

One would think that the tough part of their job would be the actual interviewing. To the novice, the questions of what to do when the person being interviewed starts drifting away from the topic of conversation; how to prevent someone from saying the wrong thing; and how to politely cut one's conversation short when time is getting short, are all looked upon as bugaboos.

There's an answer to each of these, and in little less than a year on the air with "Let's Visit," the two young interviewers have found the tactful way to keep the program going with the least amount of effort.

THEY claim (in the voice of Danzig) they know all the answers that are required in this type of broadcast. Although Jerry didn't mention it, he once had to think up a quick retort when a fellow told him, while on the air, (and the radio audience too), that someone had just telephoned and said that the interviewer should get off the air.

There are a few little obstacles that they have to contend with. One is the telephone ringing, another is the practical joker right in the room, who waves his arms, makes funny faces nership which has all the makings of another radio team comparable to the favorite Jones and Hare association.

DESPITE the fact that Danzig and Driscoll appear on the same program they aren't together while broadcasting. "Let's Visit" originates in apartments and hotels in the main, and is carried on in this manner: Danzig rings the doorbell of an apartment, interviews the people at home, then as he concludes, Driscoll on another floor rings the doorbell of another apartment and carries on with the program.

They don't operate in a hit-and-miss fashion. The participants are forewarned and so are forearmed. "If the people didn't know that we were coming, we'd probably spend the half-hour allotted to 'Let's Visit' just ringing bells," Jerry tells.

Once in a person's apartment, it is usually easy getting a conversation going. First, there is the self-confidence that people have in their own homes that they wouldn't have before the microphone in a studio. A system has been worked out by the "D"-men which is the key to an air-interview. Jerry discloses that knowing a person's occupation is generally a good way to begin. Knowing that, there are always three or four channels that may be open.

"In his own home, sitting in his favorite chair, there is little that freezes the average person on 'Let's Visit.' That is the sum and substance of the success of this broadcast which in the majority of cases presents people who have never seen a microphone.

teen minutes or so to dig the car out. Harry gave the fisherman ten dollars for his trouble.

"And then," his friend concluded, "he worried all the way back to New York for fear he hadn't given the man enough!"

The little thing Von Zell-hates most about himself is the fact that he can't be a mechanically minded pal to his mechanically minded son. Kenny can fix broken light sockets and roof the dog's house and do things for which his papa has absolutely no talents.

ONCE Harry tried to help him with a boat he was carving and ruined it so hopelessly he had to buy him a ready-built one. So Kenny now goes to his grandpapa, who lives with them, for expert assistance; and grandpapa's a whiz at everything mechanical. This makes Harry a little bit jealous. He admits it.

The thing Harry sells, as an announcer, is jubilation. It's in everything he says and the way he says it. CBS' Mr. Carlisle recognized this when he gave him his first job in New York seven years ago. Says Mr. Carlisle: "Harry's unquestionably radio's leading announcer when it comes to a spontaneous jubilant style of talking. He sounds like he's having a swell time and that makes his listeners have a swell time. Another thing—I've never known him to fall down on an assignment. He's always ready to get up early or stay up late." But even that's not the reason Harry's suddenly a star.

Adds Mr. Carlisle, who's very proud of Harry: "He has a gift for making his mistakes sound natural. Mistakes that would ruin any other announcer sound so natural to him that his audience actually enjoys them. He can laugh at himself."

He's thirty-one, with a heavy athletic build. His eyes, which are his handsomest feature, are the queer color of a blue sky when you look at it through black glasses. You can always see the comb marks in his straight yellow hair, his nose is bent to the left (a memo from his boxing days), and his fingers are short and chubby. Once he weighed 215. His friends razed him into dieting and he thinned to 150. He's never gained a pound since, although he's a heavy meat-and-potato eater. Work, he claims, is the answer to that.

Come to think about it, the way he came to be a star was by no mysterious hocus-pocus at all. He doesn't think he has a thing that other announcers haven't, or that he's had any breaks other announcers can't get. Harry says it was simply like this: He wanted more than anything to act, to become a master of ceremonies, to write for radio. He started eight years ago begging for bit dramatic parts, penning scripts and submitting them for free use on the air, offering to emcee, without salary, unimportant programs.

THEY wouldn't let him. Network officials hardly ever think announcers can do anything besides announce. But Harry wasn't stopped. When CBS and NBC turned down a burlesque serial he wrote, called "The Knights of King Arthur," he took it to WOR, sold it, produced it, and acted the leading role in it. Officials paid him a little mind then, but not much. In desperation he often asked the stars of the shows he announced to give him bit parts, to use this or that skit he'd written. Sometimes they did, most of the time they didn't. Walter O'Keefe, Lawrence Tibbett and Jack Benny were pestered until they gave in. Later on Fred Allen, Phil Baker, Stoopnagle and Budd came across. But nobody ever thought of Von Zell as anything but an announcer.

Until the Summer Stars auditions came up and Harry von Zell, of all people, walked off with the plum—because he could and does write the whole show, emcee it and act in it.

Harry laughed when I accused him of sudden success. "Sudden? Great day, I've been plotting this for eight years!"

Note to envious announcers: That's why some people get all the breaks.

Harry von Zell may be heard Sundays on Good Gulf Summer Stars over a CBS network at:

Solution to Puzzle Given Last Week

VOICE OF THE LISTENER

The "Voice of the Listener" letterforum is a regular feature in Radio Guide each week, offered to the readers as a means for expressing and exchanging opinions about radio.

Each week Radio Guide will publish letters deserving our readers' attention.

ANIMOSITY

Dear VOL: It seems to me that radio is being used as a tool of dirty politics. In the last election we all realized the efficacy of the radio as opposed to the press in expressing the will of the people—the majority of newspapers were opposed to returning Roosevelt, and see what happened. Now Roosevelt is using the radio to "get back" at senators who opposed his Supreme Court revision.

Recently Senator Guffey gave a radio address directed against Senators O'Mahoney, Burke, Wheeler, as a spokesman for the New Deal, instigated by the President. It was an out-and-out attack of personal animosity.

Another recent instance of dirty politics on the air was the disgraceful Roanoke speech of the President himself. He denounced some of the best organizations in America—the National Association of Manufacturers, the United States Chamber of Commerce! —G. S. Scales, Boston, Mass.

ERROR ON GEHRIG

Dear Voice of the Listener: Things have reached a pretty pass when guest stars cannot remember the name of their own sponsors and plug another product! Lou Gehrig may be a shining light on the diamond, but he's only a dim bulb when it comes to radio.

Lou was supposed to be advertising "Huskies," but when he got in front of the mike, he bragged that he liked nothing better than to bury himself in a nice bowl of "Wheaties" come breakfast time. There was quite a pause and the announcer managed to stammer—"But I thought you liked 'Huskies,'" and Lou agreed with him.

The sponsors are still in a dither. Such a waste of money and time on the air! Such is the value of knowing what a famous baseball star eats when he climbs out of bed—value, and cost!—Horace George, Chicago, Ill.

'Twould seem that was one time Husky Lou was caught off base.

MUSIC of the MASTERS

BY CARLETON SMITH

SOMEWHERE, somehow, every morning as the sun rises, a man wakes up in his bed with the firm idea that he'd like to put on a radio show.

This is not in itself so serious; he's not likely to pursue it. The menace starts when the idea grows on him. And a crisis occurs if he—and all those others like him—get so excited that by sundown they are determined they're really going to do it.

There is no predicting what they will do, nor how many millions of listeners they will affect before they are through. Each morning right after breakfast, one of these fellows grabs a taxi or hot-foots it to an advertising agency. He works the very simple gag, after he has evaded the blond receptionist, that if we had some bacon we'd have some bacon and eggs if we had some eggs.

Occasionally, even advertising agencies are sold. A cast of players and musicians or just plain musicians are got together. After fourteen various executives go over the ham-and-eggs plot, a rehearsal is given for the client. And, if he signs on the dotted line, we have a new set of noises to fill our ears for thirteen or twenty-six or however many weeks it lasts.

Now this appears to be a very simple procedure, one that needs no further explanation. Yet it is the most risky and uncertain activity in the whole world. It occupies the best brains in the whole radio industry just now. And the most important link in this prophetic chain of events is the man who had the idea.

He seems to have laid down on his job as far as the music of the masters is concerned. There hasn't been a really exciting approach to the problem of how to present great music over the air since radio began. We are still where we started. Announcers are announcing in so many words that Madame X will sing the second-act aria, "One Fine Day," from Puccini's "Madame Butterfly."

Not two people in 100 know which fine day nor why she's singing about it. They may like the melody. They won't understand the words even if she sings them in English, and she won't, not if she can murder them in Italian.

"Well, isn't liking the melody enough?" you may ask. "Must you understand the words?"

THE answer is: "Yes, you must."

Music, no matter what the eminent authorities say, is not abstract. It may say things that cannot be said in words. It may convey feelings, moods, and states of minds. It may give subtle hints of thoughts never phrased in any other language. It may be our closest contact with the Beyond.

But when it is wedded with words, it has, if it is worth its salt, some definite and intimate relationship with those words. It is a commentary on their meaning. It expresses their intent.

Therefore, the person who hears a song or an opera without knowing what it is about is in the same position as a blind man judging another's character only by his voice. He may be very apt and do quite a good job of it. But certainly he would be able to do better if he could look the man in the face.

Of course, it depends upon the individual. Some blind people "see" much better than others with two eyes. Some listeners hear a new work for the first time and know it better than others who have heard it and read the score from which it is played fifty times. The former have a more keenly developed intuition.

But these people are rare. They are exceptional. Most of us who listen can never know too much about the music we are to hear.

It bothers me to realize that, this being the case, we are such confirmed snobs. We pose as knowing things we don't know. We listen when we are bored. Not all of us, of course, but many do.

Nothing damns music so completely or retards the spread of the love of it so effectively as our refusal to be honest with ourselves and with others. Must we make out that we understand a work of art or that we like a piece of music when we don't? Must we claim to be enjoying something that is as confusing as the Greek alphabet?

We may want to learn the Greek alphabet so that we can read the great treatises of Plato and Aristotle as they were originally written . . . and we may not have had time. We may want to understand and learn the language in which Bach's "St. Matthew Passion" is written, and we may also not have had the time nor the opportunity. Let us, in either case, confess it. Then let's get busy and learn.

IT IS necessary to make clear that people may be attracted by beautiful sounds in music without understanding their significance or their message. No one who heard for the first time the Parisian or the Florentian speaking beautiful French or melodious Italian would think because he was charmed by the sounds they were making that he understood their meaning. Likewise, because one is enchanted by the melody of "One Fine Day" is no assurance that he knows its psychological significance or its meaning.

Music is a language that must be studied and lived with as any other. It is capable, as all languages are, of being used by babies, by peasants, by businessmen as well as philosophers. We all use it in one way or another. There is not a human being living who does not like and respond to some kind of music. He may want it only for dancing . . . to vibrate his spinal cord. He may want it only to put him to sleep, or to make him cry.

To use music honestly for dancing or for any other purpose is no shame. But to continue forever in the baby-prattling stage is a great pity. That, unfortunately, is what many of us do.

Not that it is altogether our fault. It is mostly that we have never had the opportunity or the proper motivation to develop in our understanding of the language of music.

And that is where the man who wakes up in the morning with an idea comes in. Wouldn't it be to the point if he would think out and sell a scheme that would accidentally but certainly spur on ten million listeners to a deeper and sounder and richer and fuller and whatever else you want to call it . . . understanding of music?

It can be done. It should be done. And some day some fellow is going to do it and win the everlasting gratitude of his fellow men—and a sponsor.

Elaborate preparations are being made to stage a great music celebration in connection with the Soviet November revolution anniversary. Serge Prokofieff, summing in a wooded village not far from Moscow, is completing a cantata for the occasion which requires 1,000 men. Dmitri Shostakovich will be on the scene with his latest, his Fifth Symphony. The younger composers will have a chance, also, as well as the "classic" or recognized composers. Those who follow the trend of art in the land of Lenin will want to hear these newest examples of socialist realism. If broadcasting conditions are favorable, we may expect to hear generous portions of it.

Bach's Art of the Fugue will be heard over NBC when Robert and Heinz Scholz of the Salzburg Mozart-eum arrive in America this winter.

Rosa Pauly is to sing a concert version of Richard Strauss' Salome and some of the same composer's songs in a Philharmonic-Symphony broadcast this winter. No one who heard it can ever forget her account of Elektra under Artur Rodzinski last spring.

Pierre Monteux, formerly of the Boston Orchestra and France's most noted conductor, has been invited to conduct the NBC Symphony. The series will be opened by Artur Rodzinski on November 4, and M. Monteux will conduct the next three weeks; Rodzinski will follow with four concerts during December; Toscanini will begin his period on the first Thursday after Christmas, December 30.

The Metropolitan Opera season will be opened by Kirsten Flagstad on November 29. The first Saturday afternoon broadcast will be held December 4. Make your "dates" accordingly!

Lucky old Highlander

First Chief of his Clan—tradition says this old Highland warrior never had a toothache! Tough, chew foods gave his teeth ample exercise—kept them in prime condition! His descendants eat soft, refined foods, giving teeth too little exercise.

WISE MODERNS CHEW DENTYNE—because Dentyne's firmer consistency invites more vigorous chewing—gives teeth and gums the active exercise they need! It stimulates circulation in gums and mouth tissues, helps make them firmer, healthier—and wakens the salivary glands, promoting self-cleansing. Time given is CST; for CDT add one hour. Short-wave programs of American stations are shown along with the regular listings beginning on page 27. These are indicated, for example, by (sw-11.87) in parentheses following a program listing. This means that on 11.87 megacycles the same program may also be heard over an American short-wave station. Please note that foreign stations do not always adhere precisely to their announced program schedules.

SHORT WAVES

BY CHAS. A. MORRISON, president, INTERNATIONAL DX-ER'S ALLIANCE

(Figures in Parentheses Are Megacycles)

DURING the next four months, short-wave listeners, particularly those who reside on the West Coast, will have the opportunity of logging a most unusual station with the odd call HO2U. The transmitter is powered at 100 watts and is located aboard a ship on a round-the-world cruise. Since the station is unlicensed, we are unable to divulge the name of the ship or the station's operator. We understand, however, that a complete log of transmission is being kept, and all correct reports of reception will be verified upon completion of the world cruise. Interesting cards are being prepared for this purpose, and a space has been provided for inserting the exact position of the ship at time of reception. What more could a DX-er ask for? These reports should be sent to Amateur Radio Station HO2U, Post Office Box 181, El Cerrito, California. The station may be heard almost daily at 3 and 9 a.m. EST (2 and 8 a.m. CST) on a frequency of 14.14 megs. At present the ship is near Hawaii, but we understand it will touch Kobe, Japan, and Singapore, Straights Settlements, during the next few weeks.

R. B. Oxrieder, of State College, Penn., writes that a new Cuban, CODX, was heard on August 20, relaying Broadcast Station CMDX, on a frequency of 9.125 megs. . . . A new Spanish-speaking station, believed to be in South America, is being heard on a frequency of 9.642 megs, or just between LRX, Buenos Aires, Argentina, and OAX5C, Ica, Peru, on the dial.

The location of the mysterious French station on 9.685 megs, mentioned in last week's column, has been identified as Fort-de-France, Martinique, in the French West Indies. I am unable to say whether or not this is a new frequency for the former "Radio Fort de France," which has been off the air for some time. The station broadcasts daily from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. EST (5:30 to 6:30 p.m. CST) . . . I am still unable to identify the Latin station which broadcasts nightly up to 11 p.m. or 12 mid. EST (10 or 11 p.m. CST), on 12.007 megs. Strong interference from a code station together with the fact that all announcements are made in rapid-fire Spanish has made it impossible to discover either the name or call-letters of the broadcaster, although its location is undoubtedly Santiago, Chile. Prior to signing off, the Chilean national anthem is played, which is followed by the sounding of very weak chimes somewhat similar to those employed at the beginning and end of transmissions from Nazaki, Japan. The station then closes down abruptly without making its identity known. . . . Reception on the 20-meter amateur band is improving rapidly. Tuning these frequencies from 6 to 7 a.m. EST (5 to 6 a.m. CST) will disclose many Australian stations in contact with American hams.

RAG, a new Soviet station on 12.15 megs, is being heard nightly from 10:15 to 11:30 p.m. EST (9:15 to 10:30 p.m. CST), broadcasting a program in French.

Louis Ambrosius of Louisville, Ky., has been hearing the new San Salvador, El Salvador, station on two additional frequencies. Using the call YSH, the broadcaster is testing almost daily from 9:20 to 9:40 p.m. EST (8:20 to 8:40 p.m. CST) on a frequency of approximately 9.517 megs. From 9:40 p.m. to 1 a.m. EST (8:40 p.m. to 12 mid. CST) a frequency of 7.89 megs is employed, with the call given as YSD. The station relays the programs of YSS (formerly known as RDN), "Alma Cuscatleca," which operates on a frequency of 638 kilocycles. During the daytime this new transmitter is used for radio-telephone service with other Central American countries.

Warren Stark of Wauwatosa, Wis., reports HP5J (9.607), Panama City, Panama, will shortly sponsor a contest for the benefit of its wide-spread audience of short-wave listeners. The winner will receive a free trip to Panama with all expenses paid. The power of HP5J is being raised to 3,000 watts, and the main studio is being remodeled into a radio theater seating 200 persons.

The Holden Expedition, now en route for the Amazonian jungle regions, will establish its base camp about 600 miles south of Georgetown, British Guiana, at the junction of the Kissikityu and Essequibo rivers. A special 200-watt RCA transmitter, installed at this point, will be used to maintain contact with the explorers in the field, who will be carrying a small portable transmitter and receiver. A radio beam transmitted from this short-wave station will also be used in directing the party through the dense bush country. Weekly broadcasts originating at the base camp and picked up by RCA Communications at Riverhead, Long Island, N. Y., will keep the listeners of the National Broadcasting Company's networks informed as to the progress and activities of the expedition.

According to Egyptian Radio, in the near future the Helsinki, Finland, programs are to be relayed by a new short-wave station, in order to make them available to a greater number of overseas listeners. The new Finnish transmitter will probably be erected near Lahti, in the immediate vicinity of the powerful long-wave station.

A verification from COBC (9.31) states that it relays the programs of Broadcast Station CMBC, "El Progreso Cubano" and "Y Los Grandes Almacenes de Trajes, El Gallo," whose address is Apartado 132, Havana, Cuba.

The "Our American Neighbors" program, which is heard on Sundays from 4 to 4:30 p.m. EST (3 to 3:30 p.m. CST) over W2XE (15.27) of New York City, has drawn a very gratifying response from Latin listeners in those countries to which the programs have thus far been dedicated. Each week one of our neighboring Latin countries is saluted with special talks and music.

—CLARK DENNIS. FROM DANCE BAND SOLOIST
TO NBC TENOR STAR
—THAT'S HIS STORY!

Clark Dennis (left) came to Chicago as tenor soloist for a dance orchestra. Being an individualist, he felt lost in the crowd, quit the band to sing on sustaining shows—become NBC's romantic tenor star. Glorious melodies, old & new, by Clark (above) are heard on the daily "Breakfast Club" & "Club Matinee," Wednesday night "Minstrels," & Saturday night "Jamboree." His fan mail is enormous, his listeners many—and devoted!

SAIL THE SOUND WITH JAMES MELTON

AMIDST COOL BREEZES, SHIMMERING SPRAY
—GLIDES "SUNDAY NIGHT PARTY'S" STAR

Beneath a bunk in the forward stateroom, in the guest cabin, rests this built-in piano (left). Sometimes the robust tenor of radio and screen fame is in the mood for song, rehearses here for his Sunday night show

Melton's 8-year-old, $30,000 yacht (right) heads off for a day's cruise on Long Island Sound with Jimmy, Mrs. Melton and Captain George Williams aboard. Williams works for Melton the year 'round, gets a salary of $3,000

Mr. and Mrs. Melton (right) in the 11' x 8' deck-house. Above Melton's head is a barometer, upper left is a clock. They are both expensive. The "Melody," listed in "Lloyds Register of American Yachts," is a 15-ton ketch, 50' over all, has modern equipment—there's even a shower on board

The Meltons (below) often go on week-end cruises, take guests, usually 2. On day cruises anywhere from 2 to 20 guests are invited. On such a cruise they stock up with 200 biscuits, 15 chickens, 4 watermelons, milk, Coca Cola, beer. A week-end cruise costs the Meltons anywhere from $25 to $50

Unique's the word for minor details aboard the Melton yacht. Cocktail glasses (right) are painted with nautical designs. Even the linen expresses the spirit of the sea, bears the emblem of Jimmy's private signal

A gasoline station in the ocean (right, below), where Melton refuels the "Melody's" 300-gallon-capacity tank. The boat uses six hundred gallons of gasoline per month—when cruising, that much per week

Instrument panel (left) of Melton's boat. In the row of buttons just in front of the clock is the ignition. In winter the "Melody" has to be laid up at a cost of $200, is also covered by insurance at $350 a year

Air heater (right) on board Melton's yacht. It cost $20—there are 6 of them in all. Operating cost of the "Melody" for a year amounts to approximately $5,000—but Jimmy says it's worth it, it's his hobby

Above: Green-eyed, auburn-haired Edythe Wright is the songstress with Tommy Dorsey's orchestra on the "Raleigh and Kool Show" on NBC every Friday night. Edythe trained to be a dancer, but gave up this career when injured while performing at a college charity

Exotic Corinna Mura (right) sings and plays the guitar on her own program, "International Salon" Thursday nights (EDT) over MBS. She has previously broadcast with such orchestra leaders as Paul Whiteman, Rudy Vallee & Richard Himber. Both of her parents are Spanish

ARE!

Bailey Axton (above, left) can be heard on Thursday afternoons (EDT) over NBC. He's a 24-year-old tenor who has been a featured singer for 19 years—he made his first concert appearance at the age of 5

Helene Dumas (above), radiactress now appearing in the dramatic serial "Love and Learn" over NBC week-day afternoons (EDT). She has been in the cast of "The New Penny," "House of Glass" and "True Story Court"

Left: Howard Phillips, baritone soloist over CBS on Monday nights (EDT), specializes in robust songs. He was formerly m.c. on CBS' "Music in the Air." He's a New Yorker, born there in 1911... yet he wants a log-cabin home

Below: Templeton Fox plays the role of Marilyn Fletcher in "Young Hickory," NBC's dramatic serial heard each week-day morning (EDT). Her name was Esther, but a numerologist advised her to change it to Templeton

Below: Jane Rhodes, 16-year-old vocalist on NBC's "Packard Hour" Tuesday nights (EDT). Although new to listeners in the East, West Coasters know Jane. She began singing there at the age of seven Andre Baruch (below) is one of the few foreign-born announcers heard on the air. He's heard with Edwin C. Hill on "Your News Parade" over CBS week days. He plays piano, paints, speaks 7 languages

BUCK WHITEMAN RIDES AGAIN

WEDNESDAY MIDNIGHTS
(EDT) PAUL'S A BAND LEADER—THE REST OF THE TIME, A FARMER!

Playing at the Frontier Fiesta called for Paul Whiteman's moving to Fort Worth. So he leased "Shady Oaks," a farm with over 1,000 acres of grazing-land, became a gentleman farmer. Left: Paul, astride his horse, "Walkalong"

—Richard Averill Smith

After his bandleading, Paul seldom feels like hard work. Usually he rides over the farm, supervises his men, then relaxes in his living-room (above)

Paul doesn't do all his farming from "Walkalong's" back, however. Often he works in the fields like the hired hands. Below: Whiteman tills his soil

To Paul, the farm is a recreation—but to his wife it's a business. She makes the farm show a profit, is shown above just after supervising the storing of the hay

Below: Paul with a few of his sheep—he has over 500. Texans don't consider it right to keep both sheep and cows, but Paul does it—and finds that it pays!

On Paul's large farm is a 12-room house which the Whitmans have modernized completely. He and his wife—the former cinemactress, Margaret Livingston—now have it just as they want it. Left: Putting on the finishing touches

Rudy Vallee and Paul are old friends. So when Rudy was playing at the Dallas Centennial, he visited the Fort Worth Whitmans, received a ready welcome. The first thing they did was to dress him in the clothes of a western cowboy (right)

One of radio's oldest shows was revived on April 21 when the NBC Minstrels went on the air. They replaced the Wiener Minstrels of WENR—famous as the Sinclair Minstrels—who went off last November after 6 years of broadcasting. Left: Gene Arnold, veteran of the old show, is interlocutor. With him Endman Vance McCune (right)

Featured singers on the show are Baritone Edward Davies (below) and Tenor Clark Dennis. Since the sudden death of Al Short on August 10, guest conductors have been leading the orchestra. This show differs from the old one only in that it honors some city each week. Honor city votes are counted by population percentage

MEN AT WORK

THE NBC MINSTRELS REVIVE OLD TIMES
—EVERY WEDNESDAY NIGHT (EDT)

Photos by JUN FUJITA

Left: Part of the choir of 12 voices which accompanies Davies and Dennis. There has been only one change in the cast since April. Bill Thompson replaced Harold Peary Aug. 18. Arnold is the only original Wiener Minstrel Right: Endmen Jimmy Dean (right) and Vance McCune in the midst of one of their skits. The show, like its predecessor, features jokes, songs, and, of course, tap-dancing—done by hand. The show is aired from Coast-to Coast

A broadcast which visits several of the Fairs now going on in the United States, previews some future Fairs, and possibly even takes a look in at the Paris Exposition, will be put on by the Columbia Special Events Department. The program will be largely musical, but there will also be interviews and descriptions of the Fairs. The broadcast will visit the scene of the Fair in Toronto, which closes the day before the broadcast, and will interview various concessionaires on how a Fair folds up; it will move to the Great Lakes Exposition in Cleveland, Ohio, where several musical acts will be put on the air. It will go to the Dallas Exposition and listen to music coming from the Casino there. It will preview the New York and San Francisco Fairs, both scheduled for 1939. And it will possibly move to Paris, for a look at the International Exposition.

NBC-Goldbergs, sketch (Oxydol):
(sw-15.33)

The Goldbergs, one of the most popular serials in the history of radio, return
today after a year's absence from the air, with a five-days-a-week, five-year contract. The familiar serial, dealing with the daily life of a typical family on the Lower East Side of New York City, first went on the air as a weekly feature in 1929 and was increased to six nights a week in 1931. The intimate joys and sorrows of the Goldberg family and their neighbors will be picked up where the serial left off a year ago.

Gertrude Berg, who writes
The Goldbergs, and plays the central character of Molly Goldberg, will continue in the role of Molly, and other central characters of the story will be unchanged. The parts of the children, Sammy and Rosie, will be taken by Everett Sloan and Rosalind Siber. The part of Jake, the husband, will be played by James R. Waters, who joined the cast in that role only a short time after the program was launched in 1929.

Tragedy

A ballad of hope, created in tomorrow's trust, turned to a hymn of heart-break when the life of its composer became a sacrifice to selfishness. Read the story of "Silver Threads Among the Gold"—and of the strife behind one of the sweetest songs of all times. Then hear this song of undying love on Jack Fulton's "Poetic Melodies"—to know fully its message, its full significance.

Dorothy Gordon's "Children's Corner" returns after a summer's absence, to be heard again Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays in a program of songs, fairy stories and games for children. "Drama of the Skies" formerly heard at this time has been shifted to Thursdays at 5:30 p.m. EDT (4:30 EST; 4:30 CDT; 3:30 CST; 2:30 MST; 1:30 PST).

NBC-Intl Congress of Radiology: WREN KOIL KGBX

Four internationally famous authorities on cancer will conduct a round-table discussion of that disease as part of the program of the Fifth International Congress of Radiology to be held this year in Chicago. Dr. Francis Carter, Wood of the Crocker Institute for Cancer Research, Columbia University, will speak briefly on "What America Is Doing in the War on Cancer" and will act as chairman of the round table.

Dr. Russell Reynolds, London, chairman of the British delegation; Dr. Gosta Forsell, Stockholm, director of Sweden's Public Institute Against Cancer, and Dr. Fedor Baenisch, of Berlin, are others who will take part in the discussion. It will be the first international congress of X-ray and radium specialists, physicists and development experts ever to meet in the United States. The Congress will be attended by 400 foreign delegates and visitors from 30 nations, and is expected to attract some 2,000 delegates and visitors from the United States.

"Dress Rehearsal" is the title of this episode. In this chapter rehearsals for Clifford and Ann's wedding will take place. Once again the program will be packed with laughs, high spotted by Jack's characterization of the minister. Jack's interpretation of how a wedding should be performed rouses the indignation of Clifford and provokes the laughter of the rest of the family. Ann and Clifford, as well as the rest of the wedding party, beaming with expectant delight, prepare for the event with great seriousness, despite the heckling of Paul and Jack.

ball News (Chesterfield): KFH
KLRA WNAX KSCJ KMBC
(also see 6:30 p.m.)

Eddie Dooley, widely-known sports writer and commentator, was a four letter man at Dartmouth — baseball, football, basketball and track.
He is regarded as one of the greatest grid-iron generals in all football history. He was named all-American quarterback in 1924 and "Joek" Sutherland, the eminent football coach of Pittsburgh, once commented that Dooley
"has contributed more than any man I know to the improvement, interest and appreciation of American football." Dooley, now a sports columnist for one of New York's most widely read dailies, has contributed many articles on football and other sports to national magazines and is the author of "Under the Goal Posts." He has been heard in sponsored programs every year since 1932 and has become nationally popular for his trenchant, rapid-fire and authoritative style of delivery.
His Thursday programs, in addition to the predictions of Eddie himself and of his prominent football coach guests, will be devoted to anecdotes, background information about teams, and news of developments in football strategy, technique and plans of the nation's major teams.

preparations which New York City merchants, police, and entertainers are completing in anticipation of the influx of half a million American Legionnaires will be given by Bob Trout, commentator for the CBS Department of Public Affairs. Trout will interview police officials, hotel men, night club owners, taxi drivers, rooming house proprietors, chefs, bartenders, waiters, and many other persons who will come in contact with Legionnaires. He also plans to talk with personalities of Harlem, where thousands of Negro veterans will be quartered and entertained. In addition, Mayor

La Guardia of New York City, himself a war veteran, and Gen. James G. Harbord, president of the 1937 convention, will speak briefly.

TIME...

Marches Back!

DAYLIGHT SAVING ENDS ON SEPT. 26

And when you turn back the clock—you'll change the schedules of many programs on your dial! It's as simple—and as complex—as that! What's more, many new shows, featuring such big names as Eddie Cantor, George Jessel, Kate Smith, Marion Talley, Ted Weems, and Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, will come on the air that week! Yet you needn't miss one of them. Radio Guide comes to your rescue. In the issue for the week ending Oct. 2, all program listings will be revised to cover the time changes. Tell your dealer to reserve your copy—now! Don't wait until it's too late!

YOU'LL ALSO FIND THESE BIG FEATURES

- Complete, informative news-stories and pictures of the outstanding broadcasts on the air—each week
- Exclusive, informal candid-camera picture-stories of your favorite air stars and shows—in action
- Sparkling, never-before-told stories that reveal the private lives of your favorite radio entertainers
