Medal of Merit

A Weekly Award for Excellence in Broadcasting

AWARDED TO THE CAVALCADE OF AMERICA

AUSTRIA is the home of genius, France of fine wines, beautiful women and wit. Culture and good taste are England's creations, unknown and unpractised outside its confines. Great souls and godliness are virtues solely Italian, and unity is proud Germany's boast.

So run the claims to glory of the nations of the world. In every country citizens band together to affirm their own greatness as a nation. The argument each group selects for its own national self-aggrandizement is an index to its right to that claim.

America's pride is the one which in these troubled days seems most notable of all—for America is proud of its democracy. In a world shaken with the palsy of propaganda and weakened by war, America proclaims again its faith in its democratic ideal.

That truly American spirit, echoing out of the past and rising in the present, is the theme of one of radio's most significant programs, "The Cavalcade of America," sponsored by E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Company. Heard for the first time on Wednesday evening, October 9, 1935, the Cavalcade remains one of CBS listeners' favorite programs.

The basis of the Cavalcade's sustained listener support is its solid program content. The first broadcast consisted of two parts, one called "The Return of the Mayflower" and the other describing the then-current grasshopper plague. In the years following, more adventures along the path of America's march to greatness have been dramatized. The flight of the first air-mail across the Sierras; the discovery of anesthesia; the story of the Declaration of Independence; the founding of the nation's life-insurance companies; the story of the song, "Home Sweet Home," and the birth of our Christmas seals have been typical Cavalcade presentations.

When Cavalcade made its debut, its announced purpose was to present a series of spoken dramas which would reveal the spirit of America as it had issued from American hearts and minds during the past three hundred years—to remind people of purposes and motives on which our fathers and mothers based and built this nation. That purpose has been remembered well and achieved very often.

Because that program has served in exemplary fashion a purpose that asks much of its servants, and because in so doing it has added greatly to our spiritual wealth and national pride, Radio Guide this week joins America's radio citizenry in a salute. To it and to its sponsor, the editors of Radio Guide express congratulations in their highest award, the Radio Guide Medal of Merit, which will be presented on the air on Wednesday night of this week.

War Without Trenches

IT MAY become necessary for the government to throttle American radio in a subsidy! Speeches by General Hugh Johnson and skits by Mae West won't be the cause, either. It's war—stinking, cut-throat, hateful lies broadcast by short-wave propagandists are its overture. America may have to reply in kind to dictators' stooges who proclaim for the world to hear, "American democracy is crumbling!" James Street may jar some of your own ideas back on their heels this week on pages 2 and 3. The story is a shocker—and one we'll wager most of us need. Check up on yourself, won't you?

Love and No Taxes

WE CAN remember when stamp-coveters (they're really philatelists, they'll tell you!) were satirized so: oldish gabies with horn-rimmed specs, magnifying-glasses and potato-sack suits. Now we learn in a story on page 6 that they come right out in the open and admit that they're hepped up over the British "Coronations," for instance. But the thing we like best about reading Radio Guide's stories before we inscribe these lines is this sort of thing: "philately"—the word—is derived from the Greek philos (love, or a fondness), and ateleia, which means tax-free or a tax exemption. The story explains why, and points up a few pungent angles on this Saturday's stamp-collectors' broadcast.

Symphony in Sweat-shirts

THE very idea of a symphony orchestra of uninhibited artists in dungarees and sweat-shirts and bedroom slippers is strangely appealing, we find. Mull it over—you get to thinking of punch-lines for cartoons right away! But aside from that, if you find yourself growing fond of the thought, there's more of this sort of thing going on in a story on page 6—the one that reveals the NBC Home Symphony in its true light!

This Week's Earfest

CONSIDER these appealing entrees culled from "This Week" on the facing page: Harpo Marx and Sid Silvers with George Jessel Sunday; Mischa Auer bantering with Bing Crosby Thursday; part of "Pinafore" on Mutual's operetta series Friday; Henry Busse starting an NBC series Sunday. # WORLD WAR HAS COME—WITH RADIO

BY JAMES STREET

SPREADING HATE AND LIES IN PEACE- LOVING COUNTRIES, RADIO HAS BECOME A PUPPET FOR NATIONS THREATENING WAR

"HITLER is a degenerated pervert; a ruthless murderer of helpless women and children, and of all who cling to their right in opposition to his insane craving for personal power and glory."

That is not the spontaneous mouth-ing of an irresponsible zealot haranguing the multitudes in Red Square, but the planned, studied and officially edited speech of a Russian propagandist whose voice may be heard in your living-room if you tune your radio to Station RAN in Moscow.

"The French government is a pack of filthy murderers who have deliberately slain hundreds of defenseless women and children by permitting French aviators to join forces with the Spanish Loyalists."

And that, the bellows of a Spanish rebel town-crier, who shouted above the roar of Italian and German planes, echoed throughout the United States from Station EA9AH at Tetuan, Spanish Morocco.

"American democracy is crumbling—"

"Rome is the hope of Islam—"

"Heil Hitler—"

"Il Duce—"

"Workers of the world, unite and fight—"

"Banzai—"

"Chinese militarism is backed by communistic imperialism! It struck at Japan. Japan, for self-preservation, struck back! That is the naked truth."

Well, the naked truth is that the new world war has come! Radio has fired the opening salvo! Barrages are being laid down by kilowatts! The airwaves are torpedoing the democratic principles of government! And thousands of casualties are falling every week as they sit in their armchairs before their radios and are victims of propaganda which is flooding the American home twenty-four hours a day.

Italy's African station at Bari is considered by diplomats to be more powerful as a weapon of war than an armada of airplanes! It has England's statesmen jittery, for they know, and we had better learn, that the pen is not mightier than the sword and that the spoken word is mightier than both, and that Europe and Japan are beating their plowshares into transmitters.

of the sand, my fine-feathered ostrich! You are not secure as long as a voice can invade your home with a hymn of hate. The music may be a lullaby, and the singer may croon, but the words are the same.

But, you'll say, you don't have to listen. Of course not, but you will—and you may never know you are being fed poison in small doses. The German stations, with traditional German thoroughness, have a way of slipping propaganda to you in tidbits so you can swallow them whole and can't taste them.

GERMANY owns eight powerful short-wave stations, more than any other nation. They can reach all parts of the world. One station asks its listeners to write Germany what they think of the program. These programs, directed mostly at America, are not the hell-fire-and-damnation stuff that Germans fire at Russians. They are good programs—good music. The station always ends its program in English and thanks American friends who have written the station.

"Thank you, William Glutz of St. Louis, for your letter. Heil Hitler." And Bill Glutz is pleased. He tells his friends. His friends write and listen. Germany, they say, must be marvelous, and Hitler must be all right.

One German station even salutes an American city during its programs. "Next week," the announcer will say, "we will salute our German friends in Milwaukee. Tell your friends to listen in."

And don't think Milwaukee doesn't hear about it. Milwaukee is flattered that Germany should salute her. It's a beautiful gesture—we should write the station and thank them. It breeds good-will, brotherly love!

Oh, yeah? Do you think Germany, pinched for pennies, is spending millions of marks on broadcasts just to spread good-will to Bill Glutz in St. Louis and Fritz Swartz in Podunk? Do you think the German government—and remember the government owns the stations—wants to hear from Bill and Fritz just to save the stamps or read about the weather in Podunk?

Don't believe me—I'm an alarmist, but listen to Major Dupuy, whose job it is to find out about such things:

"Military intelligence of one of the countries can take a mass of apparently innocent information obtained in these letters and fit it into a picture of the country."

RADIO listeners who write the foreign stations probably will hoot—but your innocent letters may become a part of the German military intelligence files. And if your letters are very informative, and you snap your heels and up your chin at "Heil Hitler," you may be asked to be a spy when Europe starts shooting instead of spiling.

Bits of information in your letters may be extremely valuable to another nation. And Major Dupuy says American radio friends of European stations would make an excellent list from which to select agents.

"Collectively," said Major Dupuy, author of "If War Comes," "radio espionage amounts to a great deal; insofar as the individual is concerned, it amounts to little. The superspy may be dismissed as an interesting figment of the imagination. Espionage nets are composed of many individuals, each of whom contributes some little bit of information—much of it useless, some of it priceless.

"Out of this mass the intelligence officers back home, passing the crude ore through the sieve of evaluation, pulls here and there some tiny nuggets, and from these nuggets finally builds a mosaic which has a definite pattern. The result is intelligence."

You read every day that every time England peeps into the Mediterranean and sees Il Duce's airplanes and submarines, John Bull gets the heebie-jeebies. But what gives England fits is every time her citizens tune in on the short-wave they hear the Prato Smorald station in Rome dishing out propaganda. And that station is being supplemented by two short-wave transmitters of one-hundred kilowatts and three of fifty kilowatts. An Arab sheik, loafing in his tent, hears Italy pleading day after day that Mussolini is the savior of Islam.

Station ZRO in Rome is a honey. The speakers lambast communism and then, in honeyed tones, tell what a fine fellow Mussolini is, a gentle-tempered man who will save Islam. They do not say from whom Il Duce will save Islam, but the Arabs know—and so does England.

ACCORDING to Station ZRO, Italy's invasion of Ethiopia was "holy work," and the announcers speak passionately of Mussolini's bringing about the "emancipation and civilization of the benighted people of Ethiopia"—those who were not butchered.

Moscow's station, RAN, competing for American ears with the excellent German stations, has run in a little sex-appeal to catch listeners. One speaker was a girl with an unusually beautiful voice.

"Nazism and fascism," she said, "already have gone far to bring about the destruction of civilization and must be fought bitterly at every turn."

Many of the speeches from Russian and Fascist stations can't be printed in this country—but they can go into your living-room. The language simply is filthy, for no words are barred. The Russians, especially, go heavy on the personal vilification of Hitler. His bachelorhood is jeered at, and he is called a pervert in every language, including the Scandinavian.

There used to be a smokehouse game in the South called "playing the dozens." The idea was for the contestants to "cuss" each other, and the boy with the most vulgar vocabulary was champion. But there were a few expressions barred. "Playing the dozens" invariably ended in fights!

If they still "play the dozens" in Dixie, the fellows can get a new supply of expressions by listening to the Communists and Fascists "play the dozens" on the international short-waves. But I'm warning you, fellows, if you use some of the language that European culture is broadcasting over here, you'd better duck when you speak. They are fighting words.

Russia has another trick that is popular. She has American visitors broadcast to this country.

AMERICANS are easily flattered. And we like to talk. Some of our citizens go to Russia, stay a few weeks and "study" the country. Then they broadcast and tell us how marvelous everything is. Some fools believe them.

The Spanish rebels are doing as much with the radio to smear the international picture as with their armies. The Tetuan station is Franco's most powerful weapon, excepting the friendship of Italy and Germany.

This station, EA9AH, is assigned to a "ham" (an amateur operator), who gets paid for his services. The professional amateur contacts American "hams" every night and gives his spiel. It's bunk—sheer bunk—but it's good bunk, and many people believe it.

Britain is so worried over the radio war that the British Broadcasting Company is planning "truthful" broadcasts in an effort to counter Germany's and Italy's propaganda. These programs will take the air as soon as the British arrange their programs in Arabic, Spanish, and Portuguese.

And the broadcasts will be part of the country's huge rearmament program. The English, who long have maintained the prestige of the Empire by words—backed up by cannon—realize now that radio is a weapon so powerful that any country that controls it will control the whole world.

Within one hundred feet of where I write this on New York's Fifth Avenue, is the Japanese Chamber of Commerce, which is blanketing America with pamphlets aimed to help the Japanese viewpoint here. These pamphlets are sent to newspapers.

And within one hundred feet of the propaganda bureau are American women with kettles asking money, "to help the Chinese people—boycott Japan!"

MY OWN thirteen-year-old son refused to put a trinket on our Christmas tree because the decoration was "Made in Japan." He had heard the suggestion of his radio!

My daughter has a Russian doll, given me by a friend. An acquaintance saw it and instructed me:

"You shouldn't buy Russian goods."

"Why?"

"Russia is undermining our government."

He had heard it on the radio—from Germany!

I'm making a mountain out of a molehill? All right, I'm an alarmist! But when I hear children repeat propaganda they have heard on international broadcasts, when I hear men who have formed opinions from European broadcasts, then I reckon it's time to be alarmed.

What can we do about it? Officially? Nothing!

Once there was a plan to drown out Europe's and Japan's bunk by flooding the airwaves with static. That was silly.

This country won't tolerate censorship, especially during peace times. If you tell Americans they mustn't listen to international broadcasts, they'll listen in spite of hell and high water just to show you they won't be bossed.

And is it mechanically possible to shut off such broadcasts? If the stations are powerful enough, there is no way to keep radio propaganda from American listeners.

The real danger to us is not that the propaganda is going to make us Fascists or Communists. It may influence us—it does. But no nation has a balance of power yet in the propaganda field. The German stations, it seems to me, are the best, and their programs are superior. But the Russians just about even things with the Germans. The Spanish are only fair-to-middling, and the Italians are devoting most of their words to harassing England. Japan's propaganda is crude. But when England gets her machine to working—look out!

Our South American neighbors are taking a lot of punishment from short-wave broadcasts. And there is a real danger!

We've got to live with those folks. And with Germany preaching fascism to South Americans every night, there's no telling what might happen. The Monroe Doctrine has nothing to do with the air.

It may sound silly to you for Germany to tell South Americans that democracy is a dead thing, but it's not democracy is a dead thing, but it's not

democracy is a dead thing, but it's not silly to South Americans. Some of them believe it.

You'll say we can isolate ourselves, mind our own knitting, and be friends with the world. Well, brother, when words can reach my children from Berlin, Moscow and the ends of the world, I say there's no such thing as isolation. You can't isolate me from my neighbors when I can hear my neighbors fighting!

You can't tell me there won't be a world war when I can hear it every night.

Radio may win this war—it can certainly lose it.

Mr. Swing—he's not an alarmist, remember—says that if this country gets into a conflict "the radio will become a government instrument stronger than any political instrument that science has ever devised.

"It will then be beyond our powers to save it for democratic purposes. And if the United States is to succeed in isolating itself, it will find it unescapable to make use of the radio as one of its lines of defense in struggling for survival of its philosophy and institutions."

WHICH is a big editor's way of saying that if we get into war the government will take over radio, and that it will become a mouthpiece for the government. And after the war (if there is any radio left) it will be impossible to change radio back into a medium for free discussion. Or if we stay out of war, radio will be our best bet to keep our democratic ideas from being gobbled up.

Mr. Swing then holds out this gem of hope:

"History has no record of a fully marshaled and working democracy being overthrown."

But with international propaganda preached to us day after day that our ideals are weak and dying, how long will our country be a "fully marshaled and working democracy"?

Mr. Swing is critical of American radio. He believes it can save itself and its government by giving a better picture of American civilization.

In a speech recently at Chicago before the National Conference on Educational Broadcasting, he gave praise to radio where praise is due, but insisted that "if what comes over the radio is the balanced picture of American civilization, we have cause to fear for survival of that civilization."

"We are given too much highly artful amusement," he said, "quite a good deal of artful music, an occasional touch of notable literature, and very little wisdom."

He believes "creative editing" is lacking in American radio.

The foreign broadcasters are just a little bit slicker than we are. They give the people information, carefully edited. Maybe the information is a lie, but lies are interesting.

"FOREIGN radio," said Mr. Swing, "is a present-day force which affects us in America, and is going to affect us more as time goes on. What is still more serious, it affects our relations with other countries. Those other countries are being told by the Fascist countries that we are on the skids, that we belong to the past, while fascism has the future in mortgage. Of course we don't believe it. But others who listen may not be so quick to disbelieve. And those other countries are being given carefully interpreted news about us which bears out the prediction of our decline."

"What are we saying via the short wave to convince our neighbors that our civilization is full of vitality and our civilization is full of vitality and democracy is a dead thing, but it's not

WORLD'S BIGGEST SYMPHONY BEGINS NEW SERIES UNDER BATON OF LA PRADE—SUNDAY

IT IS the biggest symphony in the world. So big, in fact, that most of its members have never seen its conductor and never will, and only a few have seen each other. Some smoke stogies while they play; others perform in sweat-shirts and dungarees. Some are old, some young. Some play well, some don't. Some quit in the middle of a number and begin reading magazines. The organization has no concert hall; it never goes on tour; and nobody knows exactly what its membership is; but critics and music-lovers applaud it universally.

It swings into action this week. It is the National Broadcasting Company's Home Symphony, designed to give amateur musicians everywhere a chance to take part once a week in the greatest of concerts—a program in which thousands of listeners, sitting at their own firesides, join the NBC Concert Orchestra in the performance of works written by the masters of music. This Sunday it begins its second season.

At the conclusion of the broadcast series last year, the Home Symphony had enrolled participating study-groups in forty-six states, six provinces in Canada, several foreign countries and on a few ships at sea. How many students followed the program without writing in for copies of the music, which the broadcasting company distributed, could not be determined, but indications were that the number was large.

In the first program of the new year the amateur musicians who take part will join the concert orchestra in playing Schubert's Military March in D; Coerne's "Exaltation"; the Minuet from Divertimento, No. 17, by Mozart; Schumann's "Traumerei," for strings; and the Overture to "Russian and Ludmilla," by Glinka.

Credit for the idea goes to Ernest La Prade, of the NBC program department. La Prade also directs the Home Symphony broadcasts. The objectives of his program he describes as three-fold: (1) It gives a chance to play orchestral music to those who have no other opportunities; (2) it gives graduates of high-school orchestras the chance to continue their work (of 200,000 graduated every year, the vast majority drop their studies); and (3) it encourages the formation of local musical organizations.

"The ranks of amateur musicians in the United States are augmented each year by several hundreds of thousands of young people from school orchestras," La Prade said last week, in announcing resumption of the broadcasts. "This is due to the splendid work of the public-school music departments. Fifteen years ago, orchestras were practically nonexistent in the schools. Today there are more than 35,000, which means that from September to June some two million young people are playing orchestral instruments in the schools of the United States.

"After graduation, many of these students may wish to continue their musical experience. We hope the opportunity is afforded by these specially designed Home Symphony programs for all music-lovers to share in the performances of standard symphonic literature.

"There is no way of knowing how many groups listen to our programs," he added. "Many of them already have the music which we sell in book form. Therefore they do not have to write in for the booklet."

A folder listing the selections to be used and particulars for procuring music is available to anyone writing the NBC Home Symphony, in care of the National Broadcasting Company, Radio City, New York.

The program wastes little time on dialog. Listening amateurs are first given an opportunity to tune their instruments; Director La Prade tells them how many beats to the measure the number contains; a metronome ticks off the time; and the great unseen orchestra chimes in with the orchestra at Radio City in an immeasurable outpouring of melody.

CALLING ALL STAMP COLLECTORS! ROBERT STEINWAY DISCUSSES MUSIC IN STAMPS—SAT.

THE technical term for stamp-collecting is philately. Coined in 1864 by a French expert named Herpin, the word is derived from the Greek "philos" (for fond) and "ateleia" (for tax-free). Not to be translated too literally as a fondness for freedom from taxes, what it actually means is a fondness for the objects which denote prepayment of, and therefore freedom from, taxes. In short, a fondness for stamps.

Stamp-collecting grew out of the hobby stage and became a science in the second half of the nineteenth century as the postal systems of the world were developed. Collectors' catalogs nowadays list between 170,000 and 180,000 different varieties of governmental postage stamps alone, exclusive of the comparatively obscure issues of private, municipal and local posts.

The U. S. Post Office estimates that there are between nine and ten million stamp-collectors in the United States, ranging from enterprising small boys to the best known of all American collectors—President Roosevelt.

Some 80,000 of these people are members of the 650 collectors' clubs which make up the membership list of the National Federation of Stamp Clubs. Saturday the Federation presents for its own membership, and for millions of outsiders, the third in a brand-new series of radio programs, aptly entitled, "Calling All Stamp Collectors." The guest speaker is Theodore Steinway, of the famous piano firm, owner of an invaluable collection of stamps depicting musical subjects.

STEINWAY'S talk, based on his meticulous collection, will be called "Music in Stamps." His album contains stamps picturing cathedral bells, stringed musical instruments, trumpets, post-horns, drums, bars of music, famous composers, theaters and opera houses. One coveted item is a special issue on a sheet bearing the Czechoslovakian national anthem and autographed by Eduard Benes. Another is a stamp bearing the signature of the pianist, Paderewski, issued when he was premier of Poland.

Producers of the series of broadcasts are seeking to bring before the microphone the important personages of the world who make a practise of collecting stamps. Upon these guest stars falls the spotlight of the Federation's programs. Each is interviewed by Robert L. Graham, Jr., radio representative of the Federation, in charge of producing the programs, writing the scripts and negotiating for speakers. Graham, a busy New York attorney, who is never too busy, however, to talk stamps, acts as master of ceremonies.

Other guest speakers already scheduled for appearances are Adolphe Menjou, the film star; Congressman Sol Bloom; Roy North, of the Bureau of Printing and Engraving; L. B. Gatchel, president of the Air-Mail Society of the United States; and Lily Pons, of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

FOUR BLIND TOTS IN QUESTION-AND-ANSWER GAME GUEST ON "DEAR TEACHER" WEDNESDAY

ON WEDNESDAY afternoon, sixty pupils of the New York Institute for the Education of the Blind will step into a bus, roll through the traffic-choked streets and file out gaily when it halts in front of the Columbia Broadcasting System offices.

Four of the sixty will take their places before a CBS microphone. The fifty-six others will be in the audience to listen, to applaud, and to partake of an unusual child's program.

"Dear Teacher," featured over CBS Mondays and Wednesdays, is the brain child of a small, red-haired dynamo who was once a schoolteacher but who quit to become a reporter.

Madeline Gray understands children. She knows that they have a highly keyed competitive instinct. So she appeals to them by calling her program a "hurdle race," rather than a "quiz" or "examination." Four children are selected to appear on each program. To keep the "race" fair, they are of the same grade in school, though not necessarily the same age.

The subject upon which questions are based is chosen a week in advance. This is the feature most highly praised by teachers, because it gives pupils an incentive to study.

FIVE leather bags, crammed with questions, are on "Dear Teacher's" desk. Each child digs into the first bag and draws out his own question for the first hurdle. The questions become increasingly difficult, and the children's scores are recorded as so many yards in a hurdle. "Perfect score! One hundred yards for you." Teacher Gray has been known to give a child "thirty-three yards" if he shows a faint glimmer of knowledge about a question.

No special help or advantage is being given the four unseeing pupils who face the microphone this Wednesday. At first it was suggested that the teacher read the questions aloud to each child. This was vehemently rejected by the pupils themselves. They dislike help of any sort. Instead, the questions will be printed in Braille by a class in the school who will not be at the broadcast, and the students will do their own reading on the program. The competitors, Mildred Ebert, Athene Healy, Sanford Kopelson and Harry Sutcliffe, all in the sixth grade, were told just one week in advance that their topic would be "rubber."

The child who wins the "race" receives a fourteen-carat gold star, the runner-up gets a sterling-silver star, and the remaining two each receive a bronze pin.

Only children under twelve are eligible to appear on the program. One little girl, fearful at the shadow of approaching age, sent a frantic letter: "Please use me before my birthday, January 20, or I'll be too old!"

Children are asked to send in four questions, the winner each week to receive a twenty-volume set of "The Book of Knowledge." Close to 1,000 letters a week are received.

DISTINGUISHED FRENCH PIANIST, ROBERT CASADESUS, IS FORD HOUR GUEST—SUNDAY

IN EUROPE, the name of Casadesus is to music what the name of Rothschild is to finance. One of the first families of French art, the Casadesus clan have been musicians for generations: among them Francis Casadesus, composer, conductor, founder and director of the American Conservatory at Fontainebleau; Henri-Gustav, founder of the Society of Ancient Instruments, who gathered one of the most famous collections of ancient and Oriental instruments in existence; the excellent cellist, Marcel-Lucien, killed in the World War; and many others, including the musician who is to appear on the Ford Sunday Evening Hour, Robert Casadesus.

Brought up in such a tradition, it was only natural that young Robert should dedicate himself to music. As his special medium, he chose the piano. Born in Paris in 1890, at the age of thirteen he entered the class of Louis Diemer, a pupil of Liszt's. At the close of his first season of study, the lad Casadesus won first prize in piano-playing. At nineteen, he gained the same honor in harmony, and the following year, the famous Diemer Prize fell to him.

Robert then started his concert career and soon made a name for himself, performing all over Europe, North Africa and South America.

Casadesus' first trip to the United States was in 1935, when he debuted in New York with the Philharmonic Orchestra, playing a Mozart concerto. The following season he returned here, triumphing again with the Philharmonic under Toscanini. Only three other pianists previously had the distinction of appearing with the great conductor. An admirer of Casadesus, whom he heard at his first concert in New York, Toscanini had promised that he should be his soloist the ensuing winter. Casadesus again played with Toscanini, this time in Paris at a French Music Festival "in homage to Saint-Saens" when he performed that composer's piano Concerto in C Minor. He was once more soloist with the Philharmonic under John Barbirolli in 1936. This season he appears as a soloist with the Boston, Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Kansas City Symphony Orchestras, and with the Philharmonic this month, his medium then being the late Maurice Ravel's piano concerto for left hand alone.

Besides his solo pianism, Casadesus also gives recitals for two pianos with his attractive wife, Gaby, whom he met when he returned to the Paris Conservatoire on a visit to his old teacher. Mme. Casadesus (also from a well-known musical family) won the highest woman's award at the Conservatoire, and is widely acclaimed as a truly brilliant performer.

Like all good Frenchmen, Robert Casadesus is fond of good food and wine. He loves the country and his favorite sport is sailing. He is a gifted composer as well as performer and last year his fine sonata for flute and piano was heard in Boston. His violin concerto and symphony have been performed in Paris. Although he commands all styles as a pianist, Casadesus' most impressive playing shows itself in the works of Scarlatti, Mozart and Beethoven, but he is also recognized as a leading exponent of modern French music. He practises three hours a day, the rest of the time devoting himself to composing and teaching. During the summer he is the head of the piano department of the Fontainebleau School of Music near Paris.

The Ford Sunday Evening Hour has already brought before the microphone a brilliant and an admirable choice of programs. The season's fare so far has included such stars as Heifetz, Menuhin, Tibbett, Lehmann, Pinza, Kullmann, and Masini. Richard Crooks will make his second guest appearance Sunday, January 23. A favorite with all kinds of listeners because of the variety it offers, the program is especially beloved of educators and music critics.

Minuet from Divertimento No. 17 (for Woodwind Quintet) (Mozart)

Traumerei (for Strings) (Schumann)

HERE is a project which everyone must warmly endorse who has the cause of music at heart. Nothing devised in recent years by radio program-makers is of wider appeal or more practical use than this idea of the Home Symphony. Read about it on page 6 of this issue of RADIO GUIDE, and if you are an amateur player on any instrument, learn how you can be a performing part of the largest orchestra in the world without leaving your own fireside—and without suffering any reprimand from Conductor La Prade in case you perpetrate a wrong note or break the rhythm with a premature or belated entrance.

SUNDAY, JANUARY 16
at 3 p.m. EST on CBS

The New York Philharmonic
Orchestra

Presents

Georges Enesco, conductor and

Mishel Piastro, conductor

Concerto in A Major for Violin and

Georges Enesco

(Orch. conducted by Mishel Piastro)

Symphony in D Major, "Haffner"
(Mozart)

Two Movements of Rustic Suite (Sabin Dragoi) (First time in America)

Symphony No. 4 in B-Flat Major,
Opus 60 (Beethoven)

(Orch. conducted by Georges Enesco)

TWO violinists conduct here, with Enesco as the main leader and Piastro taking the baton while the former plays the A Major Concerto by Saint-Saens, not as arresting a work as his example in B Minor, (he wrote three violin concertos) but possessing several gracious melodic episodes and some resplendent embroidery.

Mozart's "Haffner" Symphony is so called because he contrived it to celebrate a festivity in the home of the Haffner family, friends of the composer in his native Salzburg.

Beethoven's Fourth Symphony, coming between the majestic "Eroica" (No. 3) and the towering "Fifth," seems to be a pause in the master's higher creative flights, as though his genius were resting and diverting itself in lighter moods. Perhaps, too, he sought solace for the recent failure of his only opera, "Fidelio." At any rate, the "Fourth" is so playful, airy and blithe that it has acquired the subtitle of "Spring."

Enesco brings forward two excerpts by his Roumanian fellow-countryman, Dragoi, whose music should arouse curiosity, for the composer is totally unknown in our land.

The March of Music

Edited by Leonard Liebling

"... An ampler Ether, a diviner Air..."—Wordsworth

A TRULY sad 1937 event in the musical world was the recent death of Maurice Ravel, the most adept fashioner of poetical music and exquisite orchestration since the passing of Claude Debussy. Both men have left us a priceless gift of pages infused with rare imaginativeness and beauty.

Ravel possessed not all the creative originality of Debussy but exceeded him in the sensitivity and skill with which he made the orchestra voice its most subtle colors and loveliest accents. Perhaps never will scores like "Daphnis and Chloe," "La Valse," "Alborado del Gracioso" (Morning Serenade), "Ma Mere l'Oye" (Mother Goose) and the opera "L'Heure Espagnole" (Spanish Hour) be surpassed or even equaled for delicacy, shimmer and fragrance.

To think that the inventor of such rare and precious works should have attained his greatest popularity through an obvious though inordinately clever "Bolero" is to remember that also other renowned composers won their widest recognition from the masses with similar productions. One has only to recall Rubinstein's "Melody in F," Wagner's wedding march from "Lohengrin," Schumann's "Traumerei," Chopin's "Minute Waltz," Liszt's "Liebestraum," Brahms' "Hungarian Dances," Elgar's "Salut d'Amour" and "Pomp and Circumstance," Weber's "Invitation to the Dance," Mendelssohn's "Spring Song," Rachmaninoff's C sharp minor Prelude, Paderewski's "Minuet" and Richard Strauss' waltzes from "Rosenkavalier." However, admiration rather than disparagement goes to those composers for the universality of genius able to commune as eloquently with the untrained multitude as with the informed lovers of music.

A few years ago the French master visited America, conducting some of his works and playing others on the piano. In New York, critics praised the compositions but showed a lack of enthusiasm for Ravel's art at the keyboard. The day after his debut in the metropolis, a friend called on the composer, whom he found at diligent piano-practise. "How did the newspapers treat my concert?" he asked. "They liked your music but not your playing," was the answer. Ravel quietly closed down the lid of the instrument and said, "Then there's no use of my practising any more."

It was a tragic shock to Musicland when, three years ago, while in Ravel's birthplace, Ciboure (Basque France), I published the exclusive news that his mind had become clouded, necessitating his confinement in an asylum.

A few months later I had the information from Ciboure that Ravel's malady was hopeless, and that he spent countless hours stamping the rhythm and shouting the melody of his "Bolero." It was a shuddersome picture, and from the bottom of my heart I hoped that the sufferer would not survive long.

AUBER'S (1782-1871) opera "Masaniello" deals with an historical revolutionist of Naples who in 1647 headed the successful insurrection against the Spanish viceroy, Duke of Arcos. The "Masaniello" Overture characterizes some of the stormy episodes of that hero's career, and ends with much triumphant clamor in the drum department.

Of Saint-Saens' five piano concertos, only those in C Minor and G Minor—the latter is on the Banks program Monday—retain comparative popularity. Facile and gracious writing, they are, musically, not profound enough, and, technically, not difficult enough to win wide performance from the younger virtuosos of today.

A GLANCE over the programs on this page makes one think that we are having a Saint-Saens Week, with three of his concertos represented.

Artur Rubinstein, Polish virtuoso, chooses the best-known piano opus of Saint-Saens, the Concerto in G Minor.

Rubinstein's top-rank pianism will shine in the poesy and fervor of Chopin, and the sinister brilliancies of De Falla's fragment from his ballet, "El Amor Brujo" (Love, the Magician).

SATURDAY, JANUARY 22
at 10 p.m. on NBC-Red and Blue
The NBC Symphony Orchestra
Presents

Arturo Toscanini, conductor
Overture to "Anacreon" (Cherubini)
Symphony in B Flat No. 98 (Haydn)
Serenade in A Major (Brahms)
Prelude to "Meistersinger" (Wagner)

HARDLY a trace remains of Cherubini's operas, but several of their overtures still have public performance occasionally. The "Anacreon" gives a good idea of the composer's style, classical, clear, delicately knit.

Of Haydn's 125 symphonies, the one heard tonight belongs to the better known of that large collection. Toscanini will regale us with a transparent and finely controlled interpretation of this gentle and genial music.

Brahms' "Serenade" is in five movements, written for small orchestra. The work reveals simplicity in theme, amiable moods, and gleams of humor.

Resplendent is the close, with Wagner in richest melodic utterance and fullest brilliancy of orchestration.

MONDAY, JANUARY 17
at 3 p.m. EST on NBC-Blue

The Rochester Civic Orchestra
Presents

Guy Fraser Harrison, conductor
Overture "Coriolanus" (Beethoven)
"Unfinished" Symphony (Schubert)
Eight Russian Folk-Songs (Liadow)
Suite Opus 42 (Macdowell)

BEETHOVEN'S "Coriolanus" Overture has no relation to Shakespeare's drama, but forms a prelude for the play about the Roman patrician by the German poet Von Collin. After a short introduction the main theme (violins and violas) indicates the proud and heroic character of Coriolanus; follows a lyric strain denoting his gentler attributes. Ending the Overture is the passionate and dramatic music depicting the hero's refusal to resume allegiance to Rome, and his ensuing tragic death.

Almost as superfluous as to analyze "Home, Sweet Home," is any comment upon a work so tenderly simple, heart-warming and altogether eloquent as the "Unfinished" Symphony; Schubert's eighth work in that form, it has only two movements, composed in 1822. No one knows why it was never completed and that does not matter. What we have of those treasured pages is a hallowed masterpiece of endearing and enduring loveliness, whose haunting theme in the first movement is perhaps the most beatific morsel of melody ever to spring from the musical genius of man.

Anatole Liadow, pupil of Rimsky-Korsakoff, equaled his mentor in love of Russian music of the soil. These rich orchestrations are replete with tunes that proclaim the nostalgia of that country as well as its passionate devotion to whirlwind dancing.

The Macdowell Suite in A Minor (dating from 1889-1890) came to life just after he returned to his native America following long residence in Germany. The composition treats of its creator's impressions as he wandered often through the Wiesbaden Forest. "He half believed the old tales of spirits and fairies," Mrs. Macdowell relates. At any rate, the five movements of the Suite seem to testify to mystic imagination, for they are called "In a Haunted Forest," "Summer Idyll," "In October," "The Shepherdess Song," and "Forest Spirits."

Stars of the Metropolitan Opera Company's presentation of "The Barber of Seville" are Lily Pons as "Rosina" and John Charles Thomas as "Figaro".

His troubled spirit now at rest, we can forget his agony, and cherish his memory through the rich heritage of lovely music left us by the matchless Maurice Ravel.

The more do we mourn his loss because he belonged to the small group of supereminent composers rapidly being depleted by death. While there were more than a score living just before 1900, we now have only Strauss, Sibelius, Stravinsky and Rachmaninoff. When they go, where shall we look for their successors?

The Toscanini-NBC Orchestra concerts continue their auspicious course, but I wonder whether music sharps are not getting greater benefits from them than the less-sophisticated radio listeners. It seems to me that as the series was planned principally to interest millions rather than an elect circle, the purpose could be better realized by performing some of the more familiar works in the orchestral repertoire. Only a few of them seem to be in the current Toscanini prospectus. The select music a conductor likes might also be preferred by regular concert-goers but is almost certain not to please the large majority of radio dialists. For their sake, we musical insiders could endure (and even enjoy, when led by Toscanini) those numbers which under other circumstances we treat with lofty condescension.

Saturday noon brings Abram Chasins, in his fourth year (and 100th broadcast) of the series in which he discusses the master composers and plays them on the piano by way of illustration. The program is not a technical lesson but rather an aid toward better understanding of noted works for the keyboard. Chasins, composer of over eighty published works, has just spent seven months making over his second piano concerto (originally played with the Philadelphia Orchestra several seasons ago) and is to re-premiere it at a New York Philharmonic concert in April.

Robert Casadesus, French pianist-composer, whose solo art will partner on Sunday with the glories of Ford, belongs to a distinguished French family of musicians, one of whose Parisian members gathered the world's most famous collection of ancient instruments. Casadesus frequently gives recitals for two pianos with his attractive wife, Gaby. Happily married and uncommonly domestic, the couple have two children and a spacious Paris apartment overlooking the Seine. Casadesus says that "America is the greatest country of music-lovers," and further compliments our "indestructible national optimism."

"THE BARBER OF SEVILLE"

by Gioacchino Rossini

The Cast:

Rosina . . . Lily Pons
Count Almaviva . . . Bruno Landi
Dr. Bartolo . . . Pompilio Malatesta
Figaro . . . John Chas. Thomas
Don Basilio . . . Ezio Pinza
Conductor, Gennaro Papi

Rossini's "Barber of Seville" is an operatic farce that should always be performed for American audiences in English, so that they need miss none of its amusing situations and the bubbling humor of the text. Often at the Metropolitan I have seen listeners who understand Italian titillated with laughter and our less linguistic compatriots sitting by glumly and wondering what all the fun was about. They had to get their smiles from the tuneful merriment of Rossini's sparkling score.

And what a rollicking score it is, with an overture effervescent as champagne preceding Figaro's ebulliently robustious air, "Largo al factotum" (Room for the factotum); Rosina's brilliantly florid aria, "Una voce poco fa" (A little voice I heard); Basilio's ridiculously explosive song, "La Calunnia" (Slander); and the vivacious Lesson Scene (in which the soprano, Rosina, is allowed to interpolate any song she pleases).

ACT I Scene I

A street, old Seville, dawn. Young, handsome Count Almaviva and his musicians serenade Rosina, beautiful ward of Dr. Bartolo. The Count, left alone, watches for Rosina but instead encounters Figaro, the famous Barber of Seville, gossip, and go-between for lovers. Figaro sings his gay "Largo al factotum" boasting that no one can get along without him. "Figaro here, Figaro there, Figaro everywhere." The Count begs Figaro to arrange a meeting with Rosina, asking that he be introduced as "Lindor," so that the girl may not be influenced by his title. He and Figaro hide as the aged Dr. Bartolo emerges to give orders to the servant that no one be admitted except Basilio, the music teacher, who is helping the guardian to marry the ward for her dowry.

Scene II

A room at Dr. Bartolo's. Rosina reads a note from "Lindor" and sings "Una voce poco fa," expressive of her delight. Basilio tells Bartolo that Count Almaviva is also a suitor for Rosina's hand, and in the aria, "La Calunnia," the musician relates how they will blacken the young man's character in order to disgust Rosina. However, Figaro reveals to the girl that Bartolo wishes to marry her himself. Bartolo accuses his ward of a romantic interest. The Count, simulating a drunken dragoon, staggers in, but Bartolo furiously refuses him quarters and rushes off to get exemption from that duty. The lovers exchange quick vows before the old man returns with soldiers who try to arrest the Count, but he secretly whispers his identity and they release him.

ACT II

A room at Bartolo's house. A strange music master enters (the Count in another disguise) and announces that he is substituting for the suddenly indisposed Basilio. Rosina's music lesson is flavored with the flirtation of the lovers. Figaro comes and starts to shave the protesting Bartolo, but manages to steal the key of the balcony. Basilio enters in perfect health and the Count secretly bribes him with a purse. Figaro diverts Bartolo's attention by getting soap in his eyes, but the latter realizes that he is being duped and the three plotters make a merry exit.

In the final scene of this act, Bartolo convinces Rosina that "Lindor" is really acting for Almaviva. Furious, she decides to marry Bartolo at once, ordering him to have "Lindor" and Figaro arrested. The happy old man goes to get the police. Figaro and the Count enter by means of the stolen key and Rosina reproaches them angrily. The Count, delighted that she prefers a poor lover to a titled rich one, admits his identity. Basilio arrives to act as notary and marriage broker for Bartolo, but a pistol persuades him to perform the ceremony for the young couple instead.

Sunday, CBS, 1:30-1:45 p.m. EST.

Ponder this novel development in the dither of international diplomacy.

Italy, it is alleged, has distributed free radio sets to the native populace of the Near East, ostensibly to augment and simplify the reception of anti-British (alleged) propaganda, and England has retaliated with the inauguration of special "straight news broadcasts" from the potent short-wave station at Daventry. These programs will be beamed for consumption in the Holyland hotbed of international and inter-racial travail—and more special "news" gluts the kilocycles!

The new British broadcasts were announced as a corollary to the intensified effort at "psychological rearmament" to be undertaken by the Empire. "Psychological rearmament" is a neat and pretty phrase for the purposeful molding of public opinion—but lo, nature tosses an old familiar wrench in the diplomatic machinery—static stains the ether!

The Columbia Broadcasting System planned with admirable foresight, a Coast-to-Coast rebroadcast of one Capt. Cazalet's "Review of the Findings of a survey of the situation in Palestine" for the hour noted above. Capt. Cazalet is a conservative Member of Parliament and Vice-President of the House of Commons Palestine Committee. Serious listeners were primed for an interesting first-hand report—then the engineers stepped in and reported "midday reception from Jerusalem too poor to make this rebroadcast advisable"—and to this deal at least, an ace in the deck of British diplomacy was ruled out of the game.

"CRIME PREVENTION AND PAROLE"

Thursday, NBC-Blue, 4:30-5 p.m. EST.

J. Edgar Hoover, fiery little crime crusader of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, leads a four-place team of social problem specialists against the nation's toughest social problem when he crosses verbal swords with "Crime Prevention and Parole" over the Blue network of the National Broadcasting Company, Thursday.

Hoover has been the spearhead of the growing consciousness on the part of the general public that crime prevention starts in the home, the school and the playground—not in the alley-apprehension of budding criminals.

Ernest La Prade, director of the NBC Home Symphony (Sunday) opens his second concert series

The "Home Symphony" Returns, January 16

The people spoke—shrilly, militantly and in hordes—and program schedules and pretty plans gave way! The NBC "Home Symphony" returns this Sunday at high noon via the Red network.

The 1936-37 series of Home Symphony programs developed such a host of enthusiastic participants that the original series was extended several weeks last spring. Only the relative summer passivity of listeners permitted the network to call a temporary halt. The program is designed to provide the amateur musician who plays strictly for the fun and enjoyment of blowing, scraping or pounding out his own notes with an opportunity to "swing out," as it were, in the finest musical company . . . purely and simply to have a grand time with his battered oboe, an old violin, Brother Joe's discarded saxophone, or what have you! The idea is to play right along with the orchestra—without fear of throwing the brass section out of bounds with your courageous but callous notes.

"So what?" . . . The Key Question

WHEN the long-heralded Man from Mars visits this sizzling corner of the old Universe and says "Phlogg"—which we can let stand as the Martian equivalent for "Hello, old man, how's tricks?"—someone will probably respond, "So what?" This will frustrate with finality the Martian's attempt at friendship and submerge all possibility of mutual understanding for at least ten thousand years.

So What? . . .

Just this—that simple phrase is the most treacherous six-letter combination of mental morphine in the lexicon of modern America, and also the most potent clew to the secret of sound intelligence!

"So what?" is the most effective question-key to the vaults of knowledge—and it can be the most simple-minded substitute for thinking, a sop to complacent stupidity!

"So what?" is the keenest of scientists' instruments, the sharpest tool in the philosopher's mental workshop—and it can be the shoddiest excuse for cleverness in the mental luggage of the lout.

Let's use this brave new phrase in the way that marks us men, not mummies. Turn it inward on the mind . . . and get excited about learning. For we'll have plenty of use for learning in 1938.

The new year's challenge is grim and gay—grim, for the times are still "out of joint"; gay, for there's joy in the anticipation of new struggles. But the grimness will dissolve and the gayness reach the heights if we meet the challenge with a swift mental charge.

Make "So what?" the spearhead of that charge. Make it the first challenge to yourself and to the political charmers when they parade for your consideration the new crop of mental patent medicines and panaceas for business, social and world salvation.

Add equal parts of "So what?" to every proposal and promise that issues from your loudspeaker, or spouts with sinister sweetness from the pages of your favorite journals, or drips convincingly from the tongue of your preferred pedagogue—and you'll be twice removed from the grasping at empty forms and slogans that is the certain badge of ignorance.

Across the page are recommended hours of predigested information. Beware the predigestion—but fling an inquisitive "So what?" at this array of informational entertainment—gamble 30 minutes a day on the outcome of listening with a purpose—and you'll come away with rewards that can't be reckoned in greenbacks.

World Man...

HENDRIK WILLEM VAN LOON

Wednesday & Friday, NBC-Red, 7:30-7:45 p.m. EST.

NBC calls this program "Present Day Happenings in terms of Past History"—and describes the man as they define the program.

We're a Van Loon enthusiast and proud of it, and this opportunity to bring the tidings of his return to the airways is not alone a duty but a privilege. Those of you who remember his previous series of cultured reminiscence will agree with our enthusiasm—and you who have yet to share his air-acquaintance have been storing up for an intellectual treat.

Frankly, it matters little what the amazing mind of this cultured Hollander conjures up for a specific broadcast. You get Van Loon—and you get the outpouring of one of the most capable minds of our age.

Disturbance...

PROF. QUIZ

Saturday, CBS, 9-9:30 p.m. EST. (For the West, 9-9:30 p.m. PST).

The keenest threat to your Saturday night complacency is not the jungle rhythms of swing bands—no, not even the excited pleas for your approval of some product . . . but the smoothly put mental menaces of Professor (Craig Earl) Quiz's Columbia question session.

The whole philosophy of these "Listen and Learn" pages springs from the belief that selective listening can provide anyone with an excellent background of information . . . and the Professor's program fills a copious niche in the process.

MUSIC IS MY HOBBY

Monday, NBC-Blue, 7-7:15 p.m. EST

Pleasant proof of the latent possibilities of music as a compelling hobby for anyone is this informal presentation of talented non-professional musicians. "Music Is My Hobby" brings to the microphone various notable persons who find in musical expression the same satisfaction that others derive from elaborate electric-train installations, badminton or stamp-collecting.

This is one "amateur" program that is on the level for fair, as may be witnessed from the fact that men and women too busy to risk the simple satisfaction of avoiding a gong have been scheduled for weeks ahead.

Hendrik Willem Van Loon, solid philosopher and pundit, returns for a regular series Wednesday

Listening—To Learn

Theme of the Week: Music, Played and Appreciated

Music, like good literature, good art and informational radio programs, is plagued by the popular misconception that it's heavy and "highbrow." Some is. Some isn't. And what's the matter with an honest dash of "highbrow" interest anyway?

Deems Taylor has done much to anesthetize the popular fallacy that "symphony" is over our heads. Our colleague, Leonard Lieblich, is pushing this falsehood further into the limbo of things unsound—and we shall endeavor simply to provide a broader guide to radio's splendid weekly menu . . . the rest is up to you.

Sunday. A good start on the week's listening! NBC "Home Symphony," 12-12:30 p.m. NBC-Red. This interesting experiment in musical "participation" for listeners is equally enjoyable for you who choose only to listen.

Monday. You'll enjoy particularly the music of the Coolidge Quartet, 3-3:45 p.m. CBS. This group of strings presents the music of the masters' more intimate moods.

Tuesday. Dr. Maddy's "Fun in Music," 2-2:30 p.m. NBC-Red, continues the instrumental instruction sessions for students of orchestra and band instruments—real fun, this effort to squeeze music out as well as take it in!

Wednesday. Curtis Institute of Music Program, 3:45-4:30 p.m. CBS. Talented members of the student body and faculty present a musical variety, sometimes orchestral music, sometimes vocalists, strings, etc.

Thursday. Here's appreciation-plus! "Essays in Music," conducted by Victor Bay with the Columbia Symphony, presents a wide selection of compositions all devoted to the same subject-matter as interpreted in their individual ways by different composers. 10:30-11 p.m. CBS.

Friday. A big day on radio's musical front. Dr. Damosch and his now-famous "Music Appreciation Hour," 2-3 p.m. on both NBC-Red and Blue. You need not know "do" from "mi" or a sharp from a flat to get real fun from this fine program.

Saturday. Come to the Metropolitan! (2 p.m. NBC-Blue.) Opera dominates the afternoon. This week join the gilded throng at New York's famous shrine of storied song to hear "The Barber of Seville" with Lily Pons in the role of Rosina.

Please refer to "The March of Music" in this issue for description and details regarding these headline musical presentations of the week.

The Check-Up . . .

A Question-Review of Last Week's Educational Programs

1. Where is the "decapitated capital"? How do you account for this title? What significance has the "decapitation" for international politics in the Near East?
2. What new scientific discovery is aiding the treatment of mental disease?
3. Are the planets stars? What are the "rings" around Saturn?
4. Who is Zona Gale? And for what is he/she principally noted?
5. What was the outstanding astronomical event of 1937? Only persons located in the Arctic Circle could view this phenomenon. True or false?
6. The Canning Industry is important only to housewives who don't like to do much cooking. True or false? . . . why?

Serious listening to recommended programs last week provided answers to all factual questions.

HOLLYWOOD SHOWDOWN

BY EVANS PLUMMER

MICKEY MOUSE inhaled a long, deep breath on Sunday, January 2, took one last look over his shoulder and plunged into the ether waves . . . He came up smiling—a standard broadcast program without the least odor of cheese in the vicinity. True, the premiere of Mickey did have a few bugs. Donald Duck quacked a bit unintelligibly without the aid of the silver screen, but that can be and probably is by now remedied. And your reporter would have enjoyed several numbers by a barnyard novelty band—instead of the heavier things . . . Enough of the flaw-picking, however. The show is plumful—one your children and you must not miss . . . Creator Walter Disney, as m.c., was polished, poised and likable; as the voice of Mickey, was very amusing . . . Backstage note: Amos 'n' Andy, retiring Pepsodent salesman, turned up for the opener, proclaimed it a great success.

The maddest man in Hollywood is Eddie Cantor—because Bing Crosby's latest family addenda is a boy, born January 5 at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital. The boy is Bing's fourth, rivaling Eddie's family of five girls.

Is It Romance? . . . The sad expression on the face of Dorothy Ates since Fiddler Dave Rubinoff left for a concert tour . . . The squiring to the Coconut Grove of Eleanor Walsh by Edgar Bergen.

Perhaps the flight of Dorothy Lamour to Chicago to visit her hubby, Herbie Kay, for a few days (January 3-15) might indicate that she's sincere about soon wanting to take air and screen leave and build a home with a nursery. At any rate, an interesting side note is that Kay, now airing from the Drake, has been elected president of the Society for the Protection of Bandleaders with Hollywood Wives, the roster of which includes Ozzie Nelson (wife Harriet Hilliard), Roger Pryor (wife Ann Sothern), Johnny Green (wife Betty Furness), Lou Bring (wife Frances Hunt) and Harmon Nelson (wife Bette Davis). Rules require wives to make at least one weekly phone call to their one-nighting husbands, with reverse-charge privileges, and husbands to dedicate one or more songs annually to their wives.

Attention, Ladies: If Robert Taylor's maiden effort as "Good News of 1938" master of ceremonies on January 6 rates as successful, you'll be hearing more of him—and Barbara Stanwyck will be seeing less of him.

Tall, brunet Gale Page, singing and dramatic serial star of the Chicago NBC studios, passed her Warner Brothers screen test with flying honors and returned to Hollywood January 15 to begin work in pictures . . . Another Chicago find, Florence George, who left Hollywood Mardi Gras to work in the picture "College Rhythm," rooted so hard at the Rose Bowl game that she lost her voice and delayed production on the film . . . Still another radio-to-film-goer is handsome young Jackson Wheeler, Joe Penner program mickeman, who'll start work at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer January 14.

Most embarrassed performer of the week was Charlie Butterworth, who at public radio rehearsal was surrounded by his co-workers and tipped off that his shirt-tail was sticking out.

Equally embarrassed and skinned up badly in a place that makes it necessary for her to eat off the mantel was Comedienne Mable Todd when she tried to turn her "hopped up" motor-scooter around a corner while careening along Hollywood Boulevard at 45 miles per hour. Fortunately, no bones were broken, but anyway Mable is sore about the whole thing.

James Marion Fidler has been sued for $250,000 (count 'em) damages by Constance Bennett, film actress, who alleges that on December 28 last the defendant did wrongfully imply during his broadcast that Miss Bennett had

But polls, one must remember, are polls—and if all showed the same results, they would get monotonous. Viva la argument!

Grace Moore, charged by many as being exceedingly temperamental, has a heart. While Paul Whiteman's orchestra was playing in Chicago, her brother heard Paul's eleven-year-old find, tow-headed Jean Ellis, sing. He Frank Woodruff, who sent a posthumous check to the veteran's estate.

Ken Murray is on his way back to radio with Oswald and "Mama" Marilyn Stuart—and maybe on the same program series he recently left. But if not, there's another sponsor dicker-ing for him come mid-February.

Which reminds me that Don Ameche is knee-deep in plans for his new home, to be erected on the fourteen-acre ranch he has bought in San Fernando Valley . . . and Charlie McCarthy's in hiding because he's heard Don plans to build the house of wood! . . . Out at the Santa Anita races the other day, the Stroud Twins received a hot tip on a nag named McCarthy, so they passed the word to Edgar Bergen. Bergen put a wager on the equine McCarthy's nose, but in the stretch the horse developed a wooden leg! . . . Speaking of the dummy, Jack Oakie, on a recent edition of Oakie College, flippantly told his secretary to get Charlie McCarthy on the telephone. He added, "Number's Hollywood 3101." Immediately, at the Columbia Broadcasting System's Hollywood studios, whose number IS Hollywood 3101, all bedlam broke loose. For twenty minutes every line was tied up with calls from fans, ALL WOMEN, who wanted to speak with Charlie.

Too late for the program pages, but worth tuning in Saturday night, January 15, will be the special Hollywood edition of the CBS Swing Club, extended a half-hour and featuring the full orchestra of Paul Whiteman in an ultra jam session. Producer Phil Cohan also promises the appearance of Joe Venuti, Fats Waller, the Raymond Scott Quintet, Jack and Johnny Teagarden, "Professor" Jerry Collona, whose subject will be the "Turbulent Topic Swing," and other guests.

Claire Trevor, of "Big Town," had her father, Noel, come to Hollywood for his first visit over the holidays. Every year of the four she's been on the screen, Miss Trevor has been able to get home for Christmas, but because she was busy this year making the picture "Walking Down Broadway," she had to import her dad. Next, Claire gathered in the five other girls in the picture—Leah Ray, Phyllis Brooks, Dixie Dunbar, Jayne Regan and Lynn Bari—and the six of them threw a cocktail party for their fathers, which wound up with a tour of the Hollywood night spots . . . Plums, girls, to every one of you.

The rapidly climbing in popularity Joe Penner broadcasts are never missed by Edward G. Robinson Junior, so as a special treat recently, Ed Senior took son to Joe's program and backstage afterward. Junior was greatly thrilled to meet Penner—almost as much as he is by the RADIO GUIDE Medal of Merit his distinguished dad recently won . . . Two other shows showing marked listener gains of late are those of Burns and Allen and—as you might guess—Jack Benny.

Bing Crosby, avid believer in assisting in promoting the thoroughbred, always has a Racing Form along at rehearsals; employs a runner who carries out his investments in the various events and brings Bing back the bad news of the finish. At that, he must cash dividends now and then, for he's gone in for one $85 and another $150 pheasant feather—Hawaiian-made hatbands—to encircle his old slouch hats!

(HOOK): How can you put an idea before the people who produce the radio programs? Many readers would like to know, I am sure, so watch this column next week. Your Hollywood reporter will try to give you a few tips.

Caught in a gay holiday mood recently at Hollywood's smart Trocadero were Edward G. Robinson, Tuesday night's "Big Town" star, and Rosemary Lane, star vocalist of Wednesday night's "Your Hollywood Parade." They were celebrating the success of the show on which Rosemary sings been grossly discourteous to Patsy Kelly, screen comedienne . . . So I wonder how Connie feels about the paragraph which appeared January 4 in the Daily Variety, theatrical trade paper, reading: "Constance Bennett is very upset over the reports that she sleeps in flannel nightgowns. Miss Bennett claims she is allergic to flannel and sleeps in French silk gowns with a hot-water bottle for warmth." . . . Ah me! . . . But she WAS swell in "Topper."

A nationwide radio poll conducted by a New England papermaker has named Eddie Cantor as the most popular star on the air. There are those who will disagree; will say that Jack Benny or Charlie McCarthy are tops.

thought her a discovery; wired Grace so. Result, Grace sponsored little Jean's singing appearance on the January 10 Lux Theater in which Miss Moore appeared in "Enter Madame." And what's more, Jean, who hails from a Tennessee village but eleven miles removed from Miss Moore's native Jellico, has found the diva an ardent patron who wishes to groom her for opera . . . Another touching happening the week previous in the Lux series was the signing of Stage Veteran John Prince for a supporting role. The old fellow rehearsed several nights, but on the eve of his appearance—which he had so sincerely wanted to make because it would have marked his 52nd anniversary in the theater—he died . . . # AIRIALTO LOWDOWN

BY MARTIN LEWIS

FOR every program that leaves the air, it follows logically that a new one must replace it. At the last minute, Sid Skolsky decided to give up his weekly movie-gossip airing because the work entailed probably gave him a headache. The Hollywood columnist has decided to concentrate on his newspaper column. There wasn't much time for the sponsor to get a new show into shape for the January 12th debut, but they signed Eddie Garr, emcee and mimic, who has appeared on Rudy Vallee's show several times. The tentative idea is to have Garr take the listeners on a tour of New York night clubs.

Another new show being discussed around the aircastles will have Joe Cook as head man if the deal goes through. Don Voorhees and his orchestra are slated to supply the music.

For a time it looked as though the "Senator Fishface and Professor Figgs-bottle" program would be taken off the air, but as a result of the demand by the NBC stations carrying the comedy show, the series will be retained. However, it will be heard each Sunday three hours later than its former schedule, which was taken over by a new sponsored program.

Father Coughlin has sent wires out to radio stations to find out if they have 4 to 5 o'clock (EST) Sundays open on their schedules. From his answers he will assemble a new independent network to carry his weekly series of talks.

This is somewhat belated, but nevertheless I'd like to give you a word's-eye view of the Chesterfield program of December 22, which featured Lily Pons as guest star. After her last selection, Miss Pons walked over to Andre Kostelanetz, and grasped both his hands in hers. Whereupon Kosty, very graciously, and most romantically kissed her fingers. When the program went off the air, the songstress had to take several curtain-calls, and when the excitement of the audience had died down, she went back into the wings once more. However, she reappeared several seconds later with two ushers holding a huge birthday cake. You see, December 22 was the birthday not only of Mr. Kostelanetz but of Deems Taylor also, and Lily Pons offered the cake with many happy returns of the day to both, adding, "May you have many more happy birthdays." An unusual note was struck when Maestro Kostelanetz started to leave the stage. His musicians, all fifty-two of them, stood and played "Happy Birthday to You." Beaming with gratitude and unable to express his deep appreciation, Kostelanetz waved enthusiastically.

Several letters have reached my desk from readers who wonder why the same jokes are repeated over and over again by different radio comics. There are probably several reasons for the repetition, my friends. For instance, let me tell you what happened when I was out in Hollywood several months ago. I attended the dress rehearsal of a program which is put on in front of a studio audience the night before the program goes on the air to get their reaction to the gags. I couldn't help but notice one comedy script-writer sitting in the audience taking notes of the best gags, which were used the following night on another program. That's one way. Another reason for repetition may be that a writer may work for a comic one season and the next season for another. While on the pay-roll of the new employer, the writer undoubtedly rehashes the scripts of the season before which were used by his former employer.

Right now there is a case in the law courts, brought by one comedian against the gag-writers of another. The men had worked for the plaintiff last season and he now claims that they are using his material for their new boss, but with new twists.

One of the best twisters of gags, in my opinion, is George Burns. You may recall this gag which Gracie used some twist, the gag sounds just like the original joke, but, in all probability, not quite so funny. Original jokes are few and far between, so I'm afraid we shall continue to hear the same wheezes over and over again.

Here is an opportunity for unemployed musicians to get some work that will last for at least two years. Orchestra Leader Vincent Lopez has of her life: A group of folding-chairs were piled a few feet away from the microphone into which she was singing. In the middle of a song, Amanda backed up and caught her heel in one of the chairs. A quick backward glance and the NBC singer knew that if she tried to pry loose the pile of chairs would topple and come over the air like an earthquake. She continued singing in this uncomfortable position the entire fifteen minutes, her foot aching more by the minute. The program over, she quickly pulled her foot out. Not a chair toppled!

You may have heard of understudies filling the shoes of a star during a performance, but have you ever heard of an understudy filling in at a rehearsal? That's what happened at the "Song Shop" the other week. Reed Kennedy had a slight attack of laryngitis and couldn't perform at the rehearsal. In order to time the show properly, one of the singers in Gus Haenschen's choir stepped in and sang Reed's number, while Kennedy sat back and sprayed his throat. In the evening, Reed was in good enough condition to sing "O! Man River" on the show in his famous lusty baritone.

Lucille Manners, soprano star of the Friday night concert series, was so upset recently that she almost had to give up her broadcast. She had finished rehearsals some time before and was dashing to the studio about five minutes before going on the air. She threw open the heavy, sharp-edged studio door, which swung into one of the NBC porters and gashed his forehead badly. There wasn't a thing she could do but ask one of the other porters to take him to the first-aid room, because she had to get to the stage for her opening song. However, the accident so unnerved her that she nearly lost control of her voice. Word was brought to her during the program that the gash wasn't as serious as it looked, and she perked up considerably.

Radio's serial authors sometimes lose their characters in the intricacies of plot. Florence Malone, actress with Bess Johnson on the CBS serial, "Hill-top House," tells of being left in a cocktail bar for six months on another serial she was playing. "The author had me enter with another character," Miss Malone said, "and neglected to write me out until six months later. And I came out sober!"

Phil Spitalny has a new twelve-year-old singer on his program named Mary Ann Bock. She hails from Pittsburgh, is very cute and quite clever. She has a birdlike voice that reaches an F above the octave beyond high C. Spitalny has not been able to find a name for her type of singing, so when you listen in to the program next Monday night, listen for the voice, and if you have a good name for it send it to Maestro Spitalny. Incidentally, Phil and his all-girl band are going on a tour of theaters. All this week they will be in Cleveland; starting January 21 they will play a week's engagement in Chicago, followed by a week in Kansas City.

The show goes on despite the fact that Mento ("Aunt Jenny") Everitt is under doctor's care and confined to her bed at all times with the exception of time out for rehearsals and broadcasts. Her illness is a recurrence of ill effects from an old spinal injury sustained when she had just passed her twentieth birthday. She fell eighteen feet from a scenic platform to the stage of a Boston theater, where she was playing, and although her injuries were severe and painful she continued to appear nightly in a minor role.

time ago: "We had a lot of fun diving in the swimming-pool yesterday; but we're going to have more fun tomorrow when we put water in it." Here's the way George used the same idea with the twist: "This camera I have takes wonderful pictures, but it's going to take better pictures tomorrow when I put film in it." Then on January 3, if you listened to George and Gracie you heard another twist. Said Gracie, "My brother ran 30, 40, 50, 60, 70, 80 yards over the goal-line, and it would have counted six points if he had the ball with him." The idea behind all three gags is the same and, unfortunately, all comics are not quite so clever as George Burns. Therefore, when they grab a gag told by another comic and try to give it a different

So You Like Contests?

A COUPLE of weeks ago we decided to try an experiment on our readers. We printed four entries which had been sent to us for criticism and asked readers to do the job for us. The results have proved three things we had wondered about—first, that contesters, as represented by this department's readers, are essentially sportsmanlike and want to help each other; second, that contesters are above average intelligence, for the criticisms, by and large, were remarkably well done; third, that contesters are alert to opportunities for aid, for when we mentioned that we had received letters asking for criticisms, we received about twenty times as many as ever before!

Our Labor Laboratory Contest Entries Dissected

To get right down to business on entry criticisms, we'll reprint the entries to refresh readers' minds, together with suggestions from others:

I like Ivory Soap because—I want quality as well as economy and have found it in Ivory, the superlativeness is surprising and it never fails to give perfect satisfaction.—F. R. L.

“... In this entry, F. R. L. has said the same things about Ivory Soap that she might have said about a thousand other articles. Although the quality of Ivory has been found satisfactory, what are its specific qualities? Does it wash fragile articles without hurting the fabrics? Will it clean dirty, heavy overalls? Does it injure your hands? Elsie Rushmore, who judges Procter and Gamble contests, seems to prefer concrete entries—how the smoke and grime from the near-by railroad so blackens your young son's clothes that only Ivory can bring them clean, or how Husband John's overalls, greasy from his particular work, are cleaned by this soap...”—G. L. DARLAND, 215 Michigan Ave., Pueblo, Colo.

“... Your entry has two sentences. It should have only one, as the rules stated ‘finish this sentence.’ Your entry is too general. It is better to spotlight one virtue of Ivory Soap. The word ‘superlativeness’ makes the entry sound a bit overdone, and therefore insincere. Your entry has exactly twenty-five words. I feel that a statement of fewer words has a better chance to win with P. & G. I helped my mother write a statement which won first place in a P. & G. contest last summer. It had twenty-one words...”—MARY KAY ANDERSON, Hancock Extension, Vandergrift, Pa.

I like the New Super-Creamed Crisco Because—It gives me lighter cakes, flakier pastry, crisper fried foods and so digestible. It saves work, saves time, by being already creamed.—G. B.

“... I feel much better since I noted your failure in the Crisco contest. No, I am not being ‘catty’ when I say so. The main reason that you and I didn't win, I believe, is that almost word for word our entries were alike. That's not so bad—until you consider that the judges probably read hundreds just like ours!...”—MARJORIE E. YOUNG, Panama, Okla.

I like the new super creamed Crisco because its wholesomeness, fine keep- ing qualities and creamy texture are a combination ever ready for a dependable short cut to serving many appetizing, healthful meals.—C. L. K.

“... Procter and Gamble entries are judged according to three standards: simplicity, sincerity and individuality. C. L. K.'s Crisco entry has sincerity, but it lacks the two other points. Un-

“... This entry has stuffy, cluttered sentence structure. The Joneses shouldn't be dragged in on a competitive, envying basis—or do you love your neighbor? ‘America's Dream-lined Floating Palace’ is much too flowery and impractical for modern

THIS WEEK'S PRIZE SPECIALS

These are this week's best contest bets! RADIO GUIDE has singled them out for individual discussion to increase your chances to win. These exclusive winning tips are given weekly, except the first issue of each month.

$1,000.00 a Day

PRIZES: (Daily, except Saturdays and Sundays) Ten $100.00 bills.

TO ENTER: Complete in 25 additional words or less the sentence “I consider Oxydol the perfect laundry soap because—.” The first daily contest closes Monday of this week (January 17) and the last on February 25—thirty daily contests in all. Entries received each day are considered in that day's contest. Enclose a top from any size Oxydol box. Contest open to Canada. Send entries to Oxydol, Box 123, Cincinnati, Ohio.

TO WIN: Let no contesteer forget his Procter and Gamble lessons when he enters this contest! Some reminders: Don't use a word in your entry over two syllables except “Oxydol” itself! Don't decorate your entry. Don't try to be clever. Personalize your writing style. Make your entry simple, but not stereotyped—a new personal angle is what you need. Read your entry before you send it in to be sure that what you have said applies to Oxydol only—not to any other product you can think of. These are Oxydol's favorite selling points: (1) Soaks out dirt in 15 minutes; (2) Cuts washing time “25% to 40% in tub or machine”; (3) Makes white material “4 to 5 shades whiter”; (4) Leaves colored materials “sparkling, brilliant, fresh”; (5) Leaves hands soft and white. Use these selling points—but not these phrases—and don't try to crowd in too many. Tip: Mail your entry so it will not arrive on a Monday!

“Your Opportunity Guide” lists all current contests in the first issue of Radio Guide each month. If you would like an advance copy of these contest listings, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to “So You Like Contests?” Dept. CL4, c/o Radio Guide, 731 Plymouth Court, Chicago, Ill.

60 Studebakers

PRIZES: (Weekly) Ten first prizes, each a six-cylinder, four-door Studebaker sedan with 1,000 gallons of gasoline and Philco custom-built radio; 200 second prizes, each $5.

TO ENTER: Complete in 25 additional words or less the sentence, “I like Ivory Soap because—.” Open to United States only. Entries will be entered in each week's contest as received. Weekly contest closing dates: each Saturday from January 29 through March 5, inclusive—six weekly contests in all. Attach wrappers from 1 large and 1 medium-size bar of Ivory with each entry. Mail entries to Ivory Soap, Box 828, Cincinnati, Ohio.

TO WIN: First, read the full contest announcement on RADIO GUIDE's back cover, then the Procter and Gamble reminders listed under the Oxydol contest. Also read the criticisms of P. & G. entries in these columns. Don't mail your entry in time to get in the first weekly contest—wait for the second and third; don't get it in the last week, either. There are two approaches to Ivory Soap-selling: (1) the wide variety of its uses—such as bath, face, shampoo, baby's bath, dishwashing, fine silks and woollens; (2) some remarkable effect in one (no more) particular use. Write in a “homey” style, and put personal, human-interest angles in your statement. In both of these contests, note that the statement must be in a single sentence. Use blanks provided in contest advertisements (see RADIO GUIDE's back cover this week for yours) or white 8½” by 11” paper.

wieldy wording and long phrases spoil its simplicity. As for individuality, nearly every Crisco advertisement, either printed or broadcast, carries almost these exact words.

“Although it may sound silly, I'd like to make a suggestion. C. L. K. should keep a diary—one of those little ones in which one has to say as much as possible in a very few words. It stimulates self-expression and helps develop conciseness...”—MRS. LEE FIGG, 320 N. Temple Ave., Indianapolis, Ind.

After riding in the New Packard the one thing I like best about it is: “The Jones' turn-around stares of admiration, and why shouldn't they, for who could resist a second look at advertising. What, concretely, has been expressed in the whole thing about a Packard?...”—MRS. BAXTER HERBERT, 816 West Sixth St., Los Animas, Colo.

“... To express my criticism, as one contest fan to another, let's get right down to riding facts. The question is ‘the one thing I like best.’ Instead, you put it thus:

Jones'—stares.
Jones'—admiration.
They—couldn't resist.

“Sponsors do not want flowery stuff. They want slants on their product, with as much sincerity as you would want them to give you in what they have to sell...”—LOIS BAILEY, 15 Fort St., Groton-on-the-Thames, New London County, Conn.

This business of entry criticism has stirred so much interest that next week we're going to print more entries for criticism here. But take heed—they'll be harder to criticize, because now that the game has been started and everybody knows the rules, there will be more value in harder assignments.

We mentioned an award of $5 to be paid for the best criticism. In our opinion, two of the criticisms are equally worthy—and duplicate awards are being made to G. L. Darland, for his Ivory criticism, and to Lois Bailey, for her Packard entry analysis. Checks have already accompanied congratulations to them!

Maxwell House and Hollywood Some Closing-Date Confusion

All week, serious pondering has shadowed the ordinary perkiness around this department. Finally it has been decided that the most useful thing we can do for our readers is to admit that we're stumped. It seems somehow more courageous to lay our cards on the table than to ignore a matter which is important to contesters. So here goes:

The Maxwell House Coffee—M-G-M radio program, “Good News of 1938,” announced a contest on its December 30 broadcast. We knew it was coming, of course—but could get no advance information. As a matter of fact, on the very morning of the day on which the contest was announced, RADIO GUIDE's Hollywood office was told that “details were still in conference.” Since then there has been even more confusion. The closing date was announced on December 30 as January 13. That date is still confirmed by our own staff. But NBC says that the closing date is January 20—which is an important point, because if it is the former date, the contest will be all over by the time you read this. If it's the latter, you still have time to enter. Our recommendation is this: Listen to “Good News of 1938” this Thursday night on NBC, and if it develops that the closing date is next Sunday, proceed on the facts below. If it was January 13, consider this just a misspent attempt to serve.

The prize is $5,000 cash and a trip to Hollywood. The winner may also be asked to appear on the Coast-to-Coast program. To enter, suggest a name for an M-G-M motion picture to be made from the book, “Benefits Forgotten,” by Honore Willsie Morrow, and explain in not more than 50 words why your title applies. If more than one title is suggested in one letter, the writer will be disqualified.

Now, we know that the outline of the story given on the air easily slips the mind, so here's a resume of the story for those who can't get copies: The time is 85 years ago. Stars are Walter Huston, and James Stewart as his son. His wife will be Beulah Bondi. Story concerns a boy who couldn't get along with his father, but who enjoyed a great mother-love. Huston is a fanatic circuit-riding preacher in the days of the pioneer West. Advance notes on the film call it a “significant presentation” of “a classic story of a potent problem in American family life.”

Send entries to M-G-M, P. O. Box 7, Culver City, Cal. Good luck!

THREE TRUE TALL TALES

NEW YEAR'S night Robert L. Ripley presented the three winners in his contest to discover the most amazing "Believe It Or Not" personalities for 1937. They were: Hubert Young of Northport, Alabama; John Urban of Dunlap, Pennsylvania, and Milton Stewart of New Sharon, Iowa. This contest, held in conjunction with the regular Saturday night "Believe It Or Not" program presided over by Ripley, drew more than 30,000 letters from persons in all walks of life. Open to everybody, all a person needed to do to enter the contest was describe a legitimate "Believe It Or Not" experience during 1937—whether serious, funny, odd or weird. In addition to winning free trips to New York City with all their expenses paid for one week and making a network air appearance, the winners received cash awards.

MOST DRAMATIC winner was Hubert Young (left), who never knew his mother until one day last year. While fishing in the Florida swamps, he became lost. Crawling on hands and knees, mosquito-bitten and half dead, Hubert's moans attracted a farmer. When Hubert regained consciousness he discovered the farmer and his wife were his real parents

ODDEST tale was told by John Urban (left). One night Urban's wife heard a thief among the chickens, slipped out of bed and called her husband. Not recognizing her, Urban grabbed a gun, fired at Mrs. Urban, missed, but hit a flower-pot he had placed above the door to the henhouse. It fell, and knocked the unsuspecting thief unconscious!

FUNNIEST incident was told to Ripley by Milton Stewart (left). For years Stewart had been a stutterer. Then suddenly he stopped stuttering, only to find he was in the clutches of an even more embarrassing voice affliction than stuttering. Stewart frequently finds he unexpectedly says "Whoa" while talking that they had better pattern after us rather than Italy or Germany?

WORLD WAR HAS COME—WITH RADIO

"The modern propagandist comes with gifts of music. He is interested in you, the listener. He tries to win your sympathy. He talks about things happening in his country. He explains them reasonably. His task is to disarm you while his government continues to arm. He speaks to you face to face, and it gets you. After all, he presents facts, or they seem to be facts. And you are rational, you trust yourself to weigh facts.

"THAT is the secret of the power of radio propaganda. It disseminates information. It tells facts. It reports news. And there is no information, there are no facts, no news, that cannot be weighed for a special interest. When a despotic government supplies them it weighs them for its own sake. It is a despotic government; it has no responsibility to you.

"Whether we want it or not, whether we accept it or not, a challenge has gone forth throughout the world to us and to all that we have believed in our national history. The challenge is already vocal in every house in this country that uses a short-wave receiving set. It is vocal in far corners of the world where such matters have hardly been given a thought. The challenge is already a sizable stream today. Before we know it, it will be a flood. Radio as a present-day force is one of the chief instruments of that challenge. It also must be one of the chief instruments in meeting the challenge. It must meet it abroad wherever the challenge is heard. But it must meet it above all at home in expressing the whole of our civilization.

We have been hiding our radio light under a bushel! The only way to meet this foreign propaganda is to fight phrase with phrase. The dictators are telling the world how good and noble they are, and how weak we are. Let's tell the world how good we are, and without blurbs.

Now don't ask me how we can publicize America and answer propaganda with propaganda without the government subsidizing radio, because, brethren, I don't know.

Next Ten Prizes, $10.00 Each .....	100.00
Next Ten Prizes, $5.00 Each .....	50.00

TOTAL ..... $1,000.00

EVERYBODY thinks of "snappy comebacks" from time to time—and now RADIO GUIDE is giving away $1,000.00 for them! Think of the luxuries you've always wanted, think of having a lot of unexpected cash in your pockets—and then enter this contest. All you have to do is think up "snappy comebacks" for cartoon "balloons"! It's fun! It's easy! And everyone has an equal chance! Experience isn't necessary, ability to write isn't essential, technical knowledge isn't needed, and painstaking neatness doesn't count. Your contest entries are to be judged simply on their wit, their appropriateness and their originality. If you can furnish the best answers for the "comeback balloons," you'll win the prize regardless of the literary value of your entries. And for the best set of answers, RADIO GUIDE will pay $500.00 in cash. The next best answer wins $250.00, the third best, $100.00, while $10.00 will be paid for the next ten winners. The remaining prizes of $5.00 each boost the grand total up to $1,000.00—and there's no rule against your winning more than one of the prizes, either! All of this money is being given away—and you have as much chance as anybody to win it. Get in the contest now.

The two scenes above are from "Hollywood Hotel," the million-dollar motion picture now showing throughout the country. Be sure to see it. It's a history-making episode in the film industry, for it brings a radio show to the screen for the first time—and it's grand entertainment, as well. More than that, seeing it will certainly help you to win this contest!

The contest began last week, so if you haven't already entered, get your copy of that issue now. Then fill in the six yet to come, and send them to the address below. But don't send in any of the cartoons until you have the set of eight completed. You'll be disqualified if you do. Before starting, read the rules carefully—and then get in on the profitable pastime—today!

RULES: 1. In each of eight issues—January 15, through March 5—Radio Guide will publish two photographs of scenes from Warner Bros.' motion picture, "Hollywood Hotel." Each picture will have a blank conversation "balloon" to be filled in with a "snappy comeback" to remarks printed in other "balloons." Suggested "comebacks" will accompany each picture.
2. A complete set of sixteen filled-in photographs or reasonably accurate facsimiles of them, constitutes an entry. Replies must be written in spaces provided on pictures. For the sets of pictures selected by the judges, prizes amounting to $1,000.00 will be paid according to the schedule on this page.
3. Entries will be judged on appropriateness—in consideration of the story of the motion picture—neatness, originality, and directness of thought. Elaborate entries will receive no special consideration.
4. Do not send in any entries until your set is complete—sixteen pictures in all. Back issues of Radio Guide may be obtained from the Circulation Dept., Radio Guide, 731 Plymouth Court, Chicago, Ill., or examined at its offices or in public libraries. Sign your name on each picture or affix it securely in some way. Send entries to "Snappy Comeback" Contest Editor, Radio Guide, 731 Plymouth Court, Chicago, Illinois—first-class postage, prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will not be accepted by the addressee.

5. To be eligible for prizes, entries must be postmarked before midnight, March 13, 1938.
6. No entries will be returned. In fairness to all participants in the contest, judges will not enter into any correspondence concerning any aspect of this contest. All entries become the property of Radio Guide.
7. This contest is open to everyone in the United States and Canada, except employees of Radio Guide and their families. The editors of Radio Guide will be the contest judges. All persons agree by entering to accept the decisions of the judges as final. In case of ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded.
8. Anybody eligible to compete may enter as many times as he likes—and may win more than one prize if his entries merit such consideration.

A call to Volunteer 5-1900 in New York—and $50—buys any mood from versatile Irene Hubbard. Above: She portrays happiness

Above: Hatred and contempt. Miss Hubbard uses a characterization such as this in Mutual's "The Shadow," in which she plays sinister, criminal roles

Mother love (above), a mood she often uses in "Death Valley Days," a serial on NBC in which she portrays homespun, down-to-earth parts

Irene's idea of timidity (above) is used as often in "Aunt Jenny" as her portrayal of surprise (below). In this CBS show, she's everything from society snob to scrubwoman

MOODS

$50 EACH

STARDOM comes to the actress who excels in one particular type of role—but it never comes to Irene Hubbard. Although she's one of the most sought after actresses on the air, few listeners have ever heard her name.

While others become well known for the roles they play, she remains anonymous, specializing in no particular one—and yet excels in all of them!

Irene charges $50 an appearance—and is heard from time to time on nearly every important show on the air calling for characterizations. Her sponsor need only name the type wanted and Irene will drop her true personality—to become that person! Long experience on the stage authenticates every part that Irene Hubbard plays.

Above: Irene's conception of tragedy and sorrow. Below: Her portrayal of fear. Either mood might be needed in "Big Sister," a CBS show in which she plays any role from that of servant to hillbilly

Below: A blasé mood that becomes the selfish Thelma Gidley in "Hilltop House." Irene is also philosophical Aunt Mary Hallock in "Special Delivery"

WHAT IS A NETWORK?

HERE'S HOW RADIO SHOWS ARE AIRED COAST - TO - COAST!

—International

LIVING on a farm, a lonely boy calls his girl friend—and for miles around, farmers' wives on the same party line pick up their receivers to listen. Doing this, they do what stations on a radio network do when they broadcast a program from Coast to Coast. For in reality, a network is not wireless. It is just what the name implies—a web of telephone wires connecting stations throughout the nation. Now think of the lonely boy as an artist in Radio City, his phone as WEA. Simply think of all the other phones on the party line as affiliated stations of the vast NBC-Red network, and for the purposes of illustration, the picture is complete. For engineers, however, it is not so simple. Technical differences between an ordinary speaking voice and a radio program are so great that they call for 20 million dollars' worth of special telephone equipment and 500 skilled engineers to operate it. Here and on the following two pages, in pictures, Radio Guide tells how these magicians of the wires accomplish this modern-day miracle of universal entertainment.

2 Programs from all Radio City studios go through the master control room (above) before going on the network. The desk there has 3,700 lamps & keys

4 Motor generators (above) develop the power used. Stored in batteries to assure a smooth, uniform flow, the reserve could run Radio City for 72 hours!

3 A miniature of power lines (above) reveals the location of any power failures. All power equipment is installed in duplicate to cover emergencies

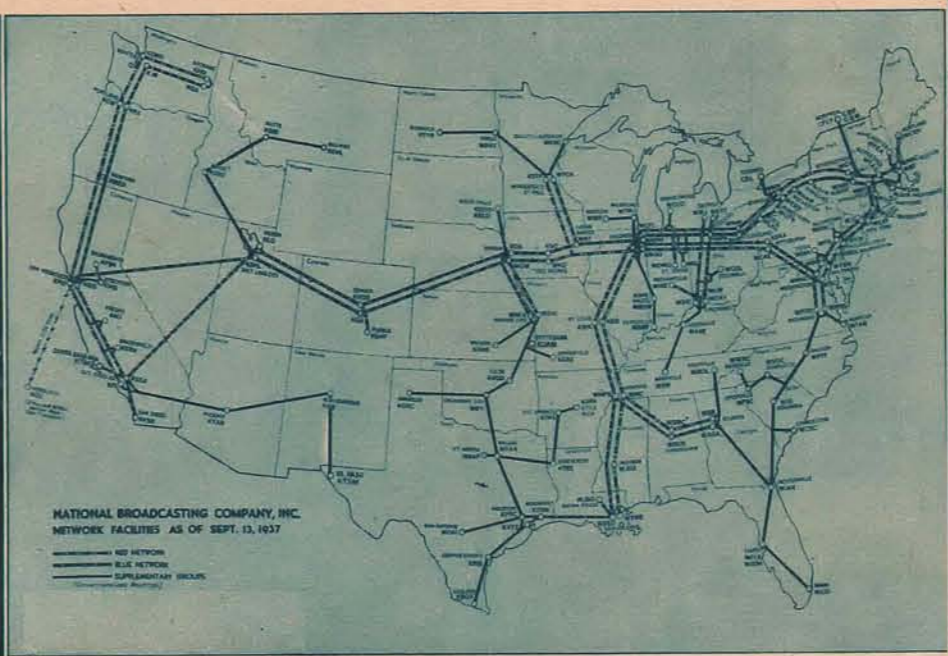

7 Over 60,000 miles of cable—containing hundreds of wires (above) make up the network

8 Wires, such as those to the right, carry broadcasts over the nation. But because sending signals over wires weakens them, booster stations (above) are needed every 50 miles to amplify them, restore their strength

9 The cross-country telephone wires lead to switchboards (above) at stations on the net

10 Above: A map showing the 143 NBC stations in the United States. Of these, 37 are on the Red network, 45 on the Blue, 61 on both. New York programs for the Red net originate at WEA, for the Blue net, WJZ

5 Left: Card files of all program schedules for stations on the NBC networks are kept in Radio City. Above: All such arrangements are made over teletype

6 From the master control-room, the program goes to the telephone company (above). From there, it is sent on wires to individual network stations

11 WSM, Nashville, Tennessee—on both networks—has the world's tallest towers (above)

12 Under the 875-foot tower, the WSM transmitter (top) airs the Radio City program. Here, telephone service ends—and actual broadcasting begins!

SLEEP with the STARS

Ordinarily, sleep comes to the person who lies on his back, relaxed, as is Carson Robison (above) of the MBS Buckaroos

WORST form of torture ever devised by sadistic savages consisted of tying a captive securely, then tickling his feet to keep him from sleeping. For they knew sleep was necessary, even though they didn't know why. And until comparatively recently, science knew little more than they did.

Today scientists generally agree that when a person is fully awake, reactions between nerve cells create consciousness—and when he's asleep, these reactions are suspended. Sleep saves the nerves by forcing the body to rest.

Realizing that sleep doesn't always come when it's most needed, scientists have turned their attention to the matter, developed scientific sleeping-aids. One of the best-known stores where they're sold is Lewis & Conger, New York. To this shop, radio stars, often sleepless because of the nerve-wracking nature of their work, turn to solve a problem that literally has been keeping thousands of people awake nights!

Frances Adair (above), heard over CBS and NBC on "Johnny Presents," needs freedom of movement—finds it with this flexible $10 elbow pillow

Lights keep many from sleeping—but Alice Cornett, songstress of the CBS "Song Shop," has found a solution to that problem. Her black sleep-shades (left) cost $1

Temperature changes can't wake Betty Wragge, "Peggy" in NBC's "Pepper Young's Family." Above: She uses a $65 automatic electric blanket

Agitated minds cause most sleeplessness. So Morton Bowe, tenor of the CBS "Magazine of the Air," uses this $15 lamp (above), reads light literature until he's drowsy

The reason for Bob Burns' changed attitude toward city life (right) seems to be his wife and secretary, the former Harriet Foster. She and Robin (above) were married last June

Hollywood Hillbilly

TIME and Hollywood change all things—and apparently they're even affecting Bob Burns, master of the Bazooka and native son of Van Buren, Arkansas! Bob's still a hillbilly, of course. His mannerisms are not affected; they're retained from the days when he really lived in the Ozarks. But Bob isn't the nostalgic mountaineer that he once was.

When he arrived in Hollywood, for example, Robin rented an apartment for $27.50 a month, and though stardom followed shortly afterward, he lived there for over a year. He was saving his money so that he could buy Arkansas acreage—and retire to it!

But the Ozarks seem to have lost their real-life appeal. Recently Bob bought a beautiful new home in Bel Air, near Hollywood, began settling down to urban life—and now he's a "Hollywood hillbilly"!

Though he prefers horses, Robin raises angora rabbits (above)—because "they ain't so much of 'em when it comes to curryin'!"

Above: When Bob's Scotty, Snooker, insists on drinking from the same pan that his duck, Donald, wades in—a referee's needed!

Bob admits it's his wife's influence that makes him pick walnuts (above) instead of waiting for them to fall. Right: Maintaining a hill tradition

The 55-piece Carborundum Band (above), with a repertoire of more than 2,000 pieces, made its radio debut 12 years ago, and has been on the air ever since. Heard Saturdays, the program consists of music by the band, directed by Edward D'Anna, Indian legends, narrated by Francis D. Bowman, and the actual roar of Niagara Falls, picked up by microphones suspended over the gorge. It's been a CBS feature since 1930

Angelo Sarracinni (above) is a saxophonist—and a newspaper editor and publisher. His Italian-language paper was begun in 1922, has 4,000 circulation

PLEASURE BEFORE BUSINESS

AMERICA, it has been said, is becoming a nation of spectators, a place where a chosen few entertain all others. But if this is true, the Carborundum Band proves there are exceptions, for it is composed of non-professional musicians—ordinary businessmen who have learned to lead fuller lives. Here's how they make pleasure pay profits.

Romeo Greene (above), a trombonist, works in the Shredded Wheat factory. In summer he conducts tours through the plant, where he's employed as chief receiving-clerk

When Clyde Emert (standing, above) isn't busy giving music lessons to students or directing the band in Niagara Falls Senior High School, he's playing bassoon with the Carborundum Band

BROADCASTING from Station E-Z-R-A

EVERY MON.-WED.-FRI.

NBC — Coast-to-Coast

You'll enjoy the philosophy and quaint humor of this old man with young ideas. One of the best loved characters in radio, in a program that's DIFFERENT. Never a dull minute. The Hoosier Hot Shots supply the music. 'Nuff said.

SHORT WAVES

BY CHAS. A. MORRISON, president, INTERNATIONAL DX-ER'S ALLIANCE

Time Shown is EST. For CST subtract 1 hour; for MST, 2 hours; for PST, 3 hours

THE famous violinist, Bratza, will give a recital in a program from Daventry, on Tuesday, January 18, at 11:20 a.m. EST. Bratza, who is a Serbian by birth, became a naturalized British subject in 1929, has played under most of the leading European conductors. He studied under the celebrated Professor Sevcik at Vienna. . . . The Royal Research Ship Discovery, the vessel in which Scott made his first Antarctic Expedition, and is now moored in the Thames off the Embankment, London, will be the source of a special broadcast from Daventry on Tuesday, January 18, at 5:20 p.m. EST. Specially built for the British National Antarctic Expedition in 1901, the Discovery left London, under Scott's command in August of that year. As the world knows, Scott discovered the great ice-cap on which the South Pole is situated.

According to Earl Roberts of Indianapolis, Ind., VPP (12.86), giving location as Nottingham Island, Canada, was heard phoning VE5FX at Chesterfield, N.W.T., near 5:45 p.m. EST.

Mildred and Harve Amers of Pomona, Calif., send me the following interesting notes: HVJ, Radio Vaticano, Vatican City, has been testing with Madras, India, from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. EST, on its usual frequency of 15.12, and on a new frequency of 11.74 megs. . . . YUA (6.1), Belgrade, Yugoslavia, has been heard broadcasting a special program to the United States from 7 to 8 p.m. EST, on the 1st and 14th of each month. . . . ZMBJ, aboard the New Zealand motorship Awatea, is broadcasting test programs on 8.84 megs, Saturday nights at 11 p.m. EST, while waiting for the government to assign the station a regular broadcast frequency.

CB1170 (11.68), Santiago, Chile, is radiating an English program on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays from 7 to 7:45 p.m. EST. Reports should be sent to P.O. Box 706. . . . A verification from CXA8 (9.64), which relays LR3, gives the correct address of the latter station as Belgrano 1841, Buenos Aires, Argentina. . . . HJ1ABE, Cartagena, Colombia, normally on 9.495 megs, is testing on 4.86 megs, preparatory to adopting this as a regular frequency. Reports should be sent to P.O. Box 31.

The construction of a new 100,000-watt station has been authorized by the Egyptian Government and subsequently it is expected that there will be a powerful short-wave relay station.

Some of the most beautiful compositions of the Viennese orchestra conductor and waltz king, Johann Strauss, are contained in the immortal melodies of his operetta "Wiener Blut." This operetta, especially arranged for broadcasting will be offered by the Zeesen, Germany, short-wave stations on Wednesday, January 19, at 6 p.m. EST. . . . The new weekly series of broadcasts from Zeesen, Germany, entitled a "Tour of Germany," and presented in English, will be inaugurated on Thursday, January 20, at 7:30 p.m. EST, with a short visit to Heidelberg, the world-famed university city.
