RADIO GUIDE'S ANNUAL STAR OF STARS POLL

THIS WEEK—MOST POPULAR COMMENTATORS

OMMENTATING is not man's job alone. It belongs to the ladies, too! Each week political views, human-interest stories, gossip notes and news flashes are poured into the ears of fervid fans from Coast to Coast by male and female commentators alike. Although lady commentators are new to radio, commentating itself is almost as old as radio.

Who the best male and female commentators in all radio really are; what type of message fans prefer and whom they prefer to deliver those messages will be decided this week. For Radio Guide's great Star of Stars Poll—now in the tenth week of its fifth year—gives radio listeners the opportunity to name their favorite female and male commentators by filling in and mailing the ballot before midnight of Saturday, May 21.

This year's poll differs from all other Star of Stars Polls inasmuch as voting is limited this year to one division each week. Each week Radio Guide announces the winners in one of the polls. In the seventh poll, Jack Benny has been named the most popular comedian on the air. Complete results may be found on the inside back cover.

All eyes are turned this week to America's favorite air-commentators. Winners in the male division last year were: First, Boake Carter; second, Lowell Thomas; third, Walter Winchell; fourth, Jimmie Fidler; fifth, Edwin C. Hill; sixth, Paul Sullivan; seventh, Julian Bentley; eighth, Gabriel Heatter; ninth, Alexander Woollcott; tenth, John B. Kennedy; eleventh, Floyd Gibbons; twelfth, H. V. Kaltenborn.

For the first time in the history of Radio Guide's great Star of Stars Poll, Radio Guide provides a division for female commentators. Their own expert expounding of messages has earned them this distinction.

Many listeners object to some of the things air-commentators do, such as putting too much pathos into sob stories, telling news in a way likely to stir hysteria, and above all, "overselling the product" of their sponsor. Best way to protest against such dislikes is to vote for those aircommentators who don't resort to such tricks on the air.

It's up to you to support your favorite aircommentators in this great election. The ballot above will be good for this week, and this week only. It cannot be used in any other election. And don't forget, it must be mailed before midnight of Saturday, May 21!

THE HIT OF THE YEAR IS "TI-PI-TIN"

BY JAMES STREET

T ALL began with a shot in the arm, and the lady was out of her head!
Madame Maria Joaquina de la
Portilla Grever sank back on her pillow and was very unhappy. Her head hurt and her heart was heavy. Her parents and kin in Madrid were being bombed. Spain was bleeding itself to death. Her native Mexico was smoldering, ready to break into flames.

And it was Christmas, and she was in New York, and she was ill and downhearted.

The doctor tried to cheer her. She pulled herself up and sat on the edge

"Take this," the doctor said, "and you will feel better. Things never are as bad as they seem."

He injected a sedative into her arm. She stood up, then reached for support. "Oh, God, doctor, I'm tipping—

I'm tipping."

Madame Maria Joaquina de la Portilla Grever stretched out again, and her head whirled, and over and over she muttered-"I'm tipping-I'm tipping — tip—tip—tippy—ti-ti—ti-pi-ti-

Then she went to sleep!

And when she awakened, that ti-pi still was chasing around in her brain.

"What a great title for a song," she said, half aloud, "ti-pi-tipi!" It was catchy, she began humming—tippy-tippy! She forgot her worries. After all, it was Christmas - ti-pi-ti-pi! Spain would survive! Ti-pi! Her family was all right! Ti-pi-ti-pi! She had much to be thankful for! She remembered the scenes of her childhood, the streets of Madrid, the balladeers plunking guitars and singing. Plunk-plunk ti-pi-ti-pi—tin! Plunk—plunk—tipi-ti-pi ton!

That's the way the guitars sounded. She wished she could get the thing out of her head. Back on the pillow she lay and tried to count sheep, but ti-piti-pi chased the sheep away. Then the idea smacked her, and less than five minutes later she had formed in her mind the song that you are singing right now—Ti-Pi-Tin!

It's the latest in goofiness, but it makes you giggle.

And it has smashed all records for popular music since its publication. Radio is tipping every night. More than 300,000 sheets of the music have been sold. And one day more than 90,000 were sold.

It has made Madame Maria Joaquina de la Portilla famous and rich, and has started some strange stories about the lady who wrote it. No sooner had the song started flooding the airways than the men who put words together began putting a conglomeration of words together about the ti-pi lady.

She's a little Mexican girl, said one. She's a Cinderella, wrote anothera little girl who wrote a song and took

New York by storm. She's an 84-year-old woman with cleven children, wrote another.

The song, said another, is an old

Portuguese air.

Ti-pi-ti-pi, another wrote, means

Tut! Tut! Maria Joaquina de la Portilla Grever is an American, and ti-piti-pi doesn't mean anything.

It's like boomy de boom, or buckety buckety, or yama yama, or hot-cha; it's just a musical bit of nothing that series of ti-pis, the melody changes, and the last part of the ditty is a Spanish street melody, a jot, the common Spanish six-beat rhythm.

When she first wrote the song, she wanted to send it to Mexico and Spain to cheer up her friends. Then she decided she had something, and sought to sell the song.

New York publishers shook their heads.

WAS very unhappy then," she said. "I knew the song would make people happy, but I couldn't sell it. They all thought I was goofy. Everybody was singing Bei Mir Bist Du Schoen, Veni Veni, the Love Bug, Dipsy Doodle, and they said ti-pi-ti-pi didn't make sense!'

She was about to give up ti-pi-ti-pi to the limbo of forgotten songs, but tilla Grever was so positive she had a hit that she published it herself. The De La Portilla Company was she.

But after she published the song, she couldn't get it over.

"And then," she said, "my prayers were answered. You know, I pray often. I keep my prayer-book by my bed. I pray for my loved ones in Spain, for my kinsmen in Mexico and I prayed for my song."

She was at a hotel in New York one night, and on request played her song. That was in January. After she played, a young man approached her and said if she were willing he would introduce the song on the air. She didn't know him. He was Horace Heidt.

Heidt played it once, and the next day a cry went up from California to Maine for Ti-pi-ti-pi!

"Dear, sweet Horace Heidt," she said. "His name is sacred to me! He did it. He put it over!"

Horace didn't get any money for the job. He didn't ask for any. But he got his picture on the music.

A few days after the song was introduced, the sales soared. The old-line publishers groaned. They began calling the De La Portilla Company and begging for a chance to exploit the song.

The song grew so popular the De La Portilla Company was swamped. After all, Madame Maria was THE whole company.

Leo Feist, Inc., got the lady on the telephone and one of the head men stormed:

"Why didn't you let us see that song!"

"I did," said Madame Maria, as calmly as her Latin temperament would allow. "I sent it to you, and you said piffle! You wouldn't take it! You said it was not so much! It didn't have any love bugs, or doodles in it!
And it was foreign. The nation was too busy singing Veni Veni, Bei Mir Bist Du Schoen, and all those American songs to sing my simple little melody!"

H-H-H," groaned the publisher. "You mean we had THAT song and rejected it!"

"Yes," said Madame Maria, "Ti-piti-pi to you."

But she let Feist have it. After all, sales had jumped to 20,000 a day and she couldn't handle them.

The song has headed Your Hit Parade for six weeks, one week short of the seven-week record of "Once in Awhile." Ti-pi-tin fell from first place she plucked out of thin air. It indicates the sound of the strumming of a guitar.

She wrote the song first in Spanish, her native tongue. It didn't take her long after she got the idea. It deals with a boy named Manuelo and a girl named Rosita, and the moon was mellow and he stole a kiss, and, liking it a heap, told Rosita he was going to keep her. She said nothing doing, at that time, And then ti-pi-ti-pi.

BUT he kept on stealing kisses and Rosita was an accessory before and after the fact of larceny, a co-conspirator and she reckoned she loved him. Then more ti-pi-ti-pi. And they lived happily ever afterwards.

The first part of the song has the rhythm of a Viennese waltz, the swinging three-quarter time. With the first happened to attend a meeting in New York of the Theater Assembly, and she played the song.

More than 100 persons asked for copies. She warned the publishers that the song would click, but the bigbusiness men laughed at her.

A few days later the big houses were knocked back on their heels when they heard ti-pi-ti-pi on the air, and then heard everybody singing it. They pulled their hair and chewed their nails, and grabbed copies of the music. It had been published by the De La Portilla Company, and the bigwigs were alarmed. Here was competition, and beginning with a smash hit.

They didn't know then, and some of them still won't believe, what actually had happened.

Madame Maria Joaquina de la Porto second place in the parade May 7. Once the song clicked, publicists began flooding the country with stories of the "unknown" who had written a hit.

But Madame Maria already was one of the best-known composers in the world! It just happened that most of her songs were written in Spanish, and Americans didn't know them. She's not a little Mexican waif, as some have said, and she's not an 84-year-old grandmother.

SHE lives right in the middle of Manhattan, over a night club!

"It's the quietest place in town,"

she says.

Her apartment is small, and looks like a whirlwind had just struck it. A piano hogs one corner, and music and books are scattered about. Madame Maria meets you at her door. Her snapping, black eyes fascinate you.

She's portly. Or is plump a better word? Or how about buxom? Her accent is heavy.

"What funny stories they have told about me," she beams. "I'm an American, a New Yorker. I've been here four years and have lived in this country for 20 years!

"My husband is Leon Grever, an oil man over in New Jersey. I write a simple little song and everybody gets very excited. Why, I have written 450 songs!"

She was born in Mexico, where her parents were visiting, but as a child she was returned to Madrid and studied there in a convent. She studied music, of course.

WHEN she was fourteen she returned to Mexico and married. "I won't tell you my age. I don't mind, really, but such silly stories have got out about my age that I'll let the public keep guessing."

(Don't tell her we told you, but she's

She has two children living, and two dead, and is grandmother of three. "There have been some fantastic hear the 'Gypsy Lament' which Nino Martini sang in 'The Gay Desperado'? I wrote that."

She also wrote Oriental Paradise, but it took ti-pi-ti-pi to get her from

"Capullito de Rosa" is another of her songs, and it was introduced by a singer who is quite well known-Jessica Dragonette.

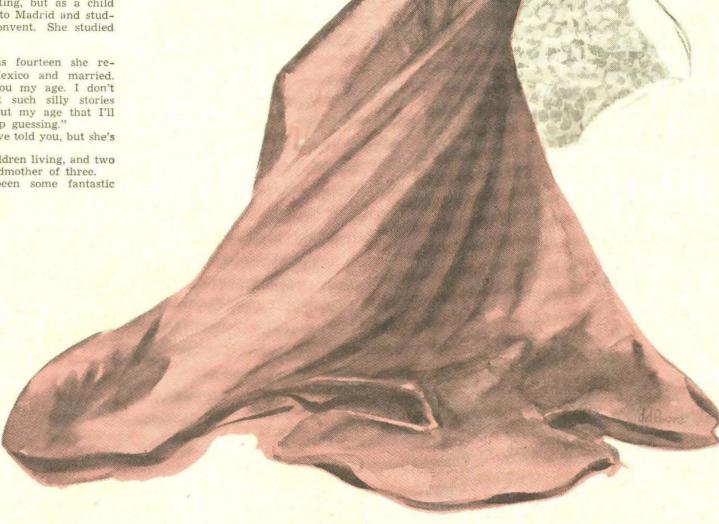

Another of her songs, "Jealous Moon," had a good introduction from a Miss Grace Moore!

Unknown!

Ti-pi-ti-pi has sold more than 300,000 copies. And that's a lot of copies, and it's made her rich. But her "Jurame," a Spanish song, sold 2,000,000 copies!

T IRKS her to think the public didn't know her until her daffy ditty clicked.

"I've been in music all my life." She shrugged her shoulders. "I don't sing much now, but I still coach singers. Perhaps you've heard of some of my pupils. There is Jessica, you know, Miss Dragonette, and Nino, and Gladys, and Jean and Grace and a few more. Reading from left to right, Nino stories about my age and children. Some persons said I had a houseful of children. Tut. Tut. Ti-pi-ti-pi!

She was a top-flight singer in Mexico until she was in an accident and underwent an operation which forced her to stop singing. So she started composing.

"Some say I was unknown. Tut. Tut. Ti-pi-ti-pi! Did you ever hear the song 'What a Difference The Day Makes?' I wrote that. Did you ever is Mr. Martini, Gladys is Miss Swarthout, Jean is Miss Dickenson and Grace is Miss Moore!

Unknown! Ti-pi-ti-pi. Tut. Tut. Her apartment is her studio.

"I coach singers all day and compose at night. I do not sleep very much.

OF COURSE, I'm happy about my song. Radio did it. Radio made it a success. Radio makes popular songs now, but radio also can spoil songs with silly little parodies."

Madame Maria dresses with a Latin flair for colors. She likes her black hat with blue flowers, a silver-fox neckpiece and heavy blue beads.

She likes to laugh, a deep laugh, and her shoulders shake when she laughs.

The only thing that makes her unhappy is the Spanish war. When you ask about it, her face blanches and her lips tremble.

"My people are in Madrid." She will say no more.

She will not talk about the war.

M PROUD I am an American." She bowed her head and closed her eyes when she said it.

Maybe Madame Maria Joaquina de la Portilla Grever is happy to be in a country where ti-pi-ti-pi is just a song instead of the staccato echo of machine

HE COVERS THE AMERICAS

GLOBE-TROTTER LINTON WELLS TURNS ROVING REPORTER FOR "MAGIC KEY": SPEAKS FROM PANAMA CITY SUNDAY

OR a solid quarter of a century, a four-month, 30,000-mile tour of Linton Wells has been a working twelve Central and South American newspaperman. Covering everything from tennis matches in Wimbledon, England, to the Nicaraguan revolts of the 1920's and the Italo-Ethiopian war, Wells has traveled more than 2,000,000 miles in his unceasing search for news. He has circled the globe twelve times. His determination to be in the thick of things has cost him several wounds, endangered his life too many times to remember. He holds commissions in several foreign armies, has been decorated by half a dozen governments, and he is the friend and confidant of notables the world over. Author of several books, his latest, "Blood on the Moon," is a best-seller.

Newspapermen have for years regarded Linton Wells as one of the world's top reporters; American radio listeners know him best as the roving reporter of the RCA Magic Key program, and next Sunday, May 15, he will again appear on that program, this time speaking from Panama City, Panama, in the second of a series of fourteen broadcasts from South American countries. The program will be on the air at 2 p.m. EDT.

countries. Traveling by steamship, airplane, automobile, native canoe, and horseback, he will broadcast weekly interpretations of the vivid, everchanging South American scene. Regarded in best-informed circles as of extreme significance because of the unsettled political conditions in most Latin American countries today, Wells' broadcasts are attracting a wide audience. His tremendous store of background material, the sum of experiences gathered in every corner of the globe, makes it possible for him to supplement factual reporting with a thorough interpretation.

A journalist of the old school, Linton Wells has had the benefits of a kind of training in his profession that would he hard to duplicate today. He broke into the newspaper game under the late "Marse Henry" Watterson, famous and beloved editor of the Louisville Courier, and he covered his first story when he was a stripling of twelve. Later he worked for the Western Newspaper Union, for the Denver Post and the San Francisco Bulletin.

Always adventurous, from childhood imbued with an intense longing to see Wells left New York on April 17 for the world's far places, Wells finally went to work for the China Press, great English language paper published in Shanghai. He also worked as correspondent for American newspapers, and it was in China that he covered his first really big story, the rise of the Nationalist movement and the revolt of Sun Yat-sen against the ancient Manchu dynasty.

An odd stroke of luck which was to have a pronounced effect on Wells' later life occurred at this time. He won $22,000 in a lottery, found himself completely independent as a result, and used the money for traveling. Like Walter Duranty, who came to world-wide prominence only after damages paid to him as a result of injury in a French railway accident freed him of the absolute necessity for working, Wells can date back much of his present success to this event.

AFTER China—he had thoroughly explored the interior—Wells wandered over parts of Asia, and the out-break of the World War found him in Java. He hurried back to China to cover the Japanese conquest of Kiaochow, then took ship for France, finally came back to America to cover the Carranza revolution in Mexico.

Wounded in the Mexican fighting,

Wells went to California and joined the staff of the Los Angeles Times. Hawaii was his next stop. Then came the Peace Conference, the campaign of Admiral Kolchak against the Bolsheviks, and imprisonment in a Russian detention camp.

WELLS' Siberian experiences had left him in shaky physical con-dition, and so, after his release from the Bolshevik prison, he headed once more for the Pacific-but not alone for a vacation. He traveled, as he has always traveled, on assignment. He covered Hollywood for a time after his return to the United States, next found himself in Japan. From Japan he went to Italy, being expelled from the country in due time after Fascist agents had gone through his notes. In London he joined the party of the Prince of Wales on his trip to the United States in 1934.

Daredevil adventurer, restless traveler, Wells has an insatiable hunger for the new and unusual. He will undertake almost any assignment so long as there is a worth-while flavor of excitement or novelty about it, During the reign of prohibition, for instance, he visited 402 towns and cities in America in order to be able to arrive at an authoritative opinion on the quality of bootleg liquors.

Domestic affairs could not hold him for long, and when Abd-el-Krim rose against the French and Spanish authorities in Morocco, Wells went to see the fun. However, he missed this particular desert war because of illness. A sudden attack of fever incapacitated him, forced him to return to America for treatment. But he didn't stay. He started around the world again, this time in an effort to establish a new record for globe-girdlers. And he did just that, making the trip in 28 days, 14 hours, 36 minutes.

When the Nicaraguan revolts broke out, Calvin Coolidge, then President, sent for Wells as a sure source of authentic, first-hand information about conditions there. Today that wouldn't be necessary. Today Linton Wells can -and will-send all kinds of vital information about South American conditions direct to America—from an on-the-scene vantage point! But the radio of 1926 was not the radio of 1938. Radio was not yet technically equipped to utilize the talents of a Linton Wells, and so, after the Nicaraguan guerrilla warfare had ended, Wells spent two years on the lecture platform, took a fling at scenario-writing in Hollywood, worked for a time with a Wall Street banking house.

BUT lecturing, movie-writing, banking were not to Wells' taste. He was soon off to Europe again, this time as correspondent for International News Service. He met King Alexander of Jugoslavia, Mussolini, Gandhi, Lloyd George and dozens of other notables.

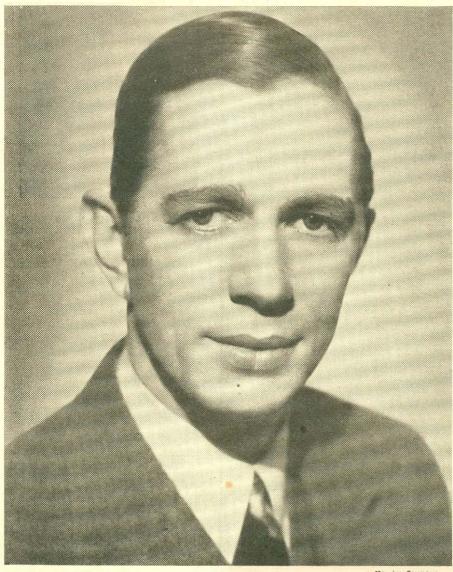

A story as big as the transformation of Russia under the Communists could not long go on without Wells' attention, and he spent the next two years in that country, going from there to Manchukuo in time to attend the enthronement of Henry Pu-Yi, On his way across country he visited mili-tary areas in Siberia which had been closed to correspondents for more than ERNO RAPEE seems definitely aligned with the active champions of Sibelius. If Sunday noon listeners end by being on intimate musical terms with the Finnish composer, the credit will belong to the zealous conductor. Most of the Sibelius devotees agree that his second symphony is perhaps the least stern and melancholy of his seven.

Viola Philo lifts her warm soprano voice in two captivating numbers. Korngold's "Tote Stadt" (Dead City) is the opera in which Maria Jeritza, making her American debut at the Metropolitan, triumphed with her vocal and dramatic art and rare beauty of face and figure. Korngold, a Viennese, now lives in Hollywood, and successfully composes and arranges music for films.

Symphony No. 7 (Sibelius)

A GIFTED leader resumes a summer series which has won many followers, and affords some consolation for the passing of the Sunday Philharmonic concerts until next October.

Edouard Lalo's "Le Roi d'Ys" (King of Ys) overture to the opera of that name deserves more hearings than it gets these days, for it is amiably melodious and suavely written.

Brahms' opus was originally a composition for two pianos, and later developed by him into an orchestral work. The stately Haydn theme is known as "Chorale of St. Anthony" and consists of the announcement, eight resourceful variations, and a broad and resounding finale, partly in fugue character.

The March of Music

Edited by Leonard Liebling

"... An ampler Ether, a diviner Air ..."-Wordsworth

HIS department desires to thank the music and research departments of NBC, CBS and MBS for their courtesy and promptness in providing its editor with needed facts about programs, compositions and performers. While he is well stuffed with assorted information, he has no memory for certain specific matters. He is rather like the late Oliver Herford, who once said, "There are three things I never can remember. One is dates, the other is names, and the third—by Jove, I've forgotten it!"

Especially the music-research section of the NBC Library has immense stocks of music, books relating to them, and masses of biographical material about composers, artists and their doings and personalities. Also the erudite researchers can tell one to almost a fraction of a second how long the standard compositions require for performance, knowledge invaluable for the finically timed radio programs. For instance, Brahms' first symphony is allotted forty-one minutes, twenty-five seconds. The first movement lasts twelve minutes, thirty seconds; the second movement eight minutes, forty seconds; the third, four minutes, five seconds; the last, sixteen minutes, ten seconds. Of course, conductors vary a bit in consonance with their temporary moods, but the foregoing is the average duration of the performance. Similarly, Debussy's "Afternoon of a Faun" gets a rating of nine minutes, based on an estimate made of three conductors. The first needed nine minutes; the second eight minutes, forty seconds; the third nine minutes, five seconds—his Faun evidently had a slower technique on the pipes.

There are 30,000 items of musical information available at NBC, and many of them clear up wrong ideas that have become prevalent. If you think you know everything concerning Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata" and Handel's "Harmonious Blacksmith Variations," just ring up music research at NBC and they will tell you that Beethoven never called his work by that name, and did not compose it for a blind girl; and that Handel would be highly amused to learn (in the Elysian Fields above) that he first heard his theme sung by a blacksmith in whose forge the composer had sought refuge during a thunderstorm.

Lewis Lane together with Robert Covell comprise the musicresearch section at NBC. Both are musicians; the former was a concert pianist and composer ("Green Mountain Sketches") and the latter is a member of the Schola Cantorum of New York, has sung in the Harvard Glee Club and played viola in the University orchestra for four years. Both are well equipped, on the basis of experience, to work in the vast storehouse of musical knowledge.

Wagner's serene and tender measures (leading to the majestic last act of "Meistersinger") bridge over to the glowing Rachmaninoff concerto, a creation of rich beauty and brilliance.

It was written in 1901, but its strength and vividness have not been dimmed through the years. If you know his three concertos, you might agree with me that the second tops the others in worth and appeal. Its broad opening melody (after a short prelude) is sounded by the orchestra, but the second theme, of quiet beauty, falls to the piano alone. Lush romanticism typifies the second movement, while the third is full of characteristic rhythms, softened by a lyric subject of oriental suggestion. The concluding episode flames into fiery expression with the piano thundering a prodigious climax of chords.

Sir Adrian Boult, conductor

Fugal Concerto for Oboe, Flute and Strings (Holst)

Symphony No. 4 (Williams)

Shropshire Lad (Butterworth)

Symphonic Variations "Enigma" (Elgar)

RADIO'S own ace orchestra has grown into a distinguished body, with tone and technical polish phenomenal, considering that the organization is still a symphonic baby, less than six months old. Sir Adrian must certainly look upon it as an infant prodigy.

His selections of today are particularly arresting, for they represent contrasting styles in modern English composing. The late Gustav Holst's concerto, with its somewhat acid harmonies and lean orchestration, belongs to the neo-classic manner which Stravinsky started and later abandoned.

A stark work, cleverly constructed, the concerto hardly warms the heart. By the way, Holst's more emotional "The Planets," a seven-section symphonic message, enjoyed its 1919 premiere under the conductorship of Boult.

Vaughan Williams, at one time a pupil of Ravel, does not follow the Frenchman's exquisite methods, but inclines to the more ponderous system of Richard Strauss. The Williams music, solid in texture, reflects the thinker upon life who, in his contemplation of man, is sometimes moved to deepest

The lamented Elgar's example, a theme with fourteen variations, portrays the characteristics of fourteen of his friends, but he conceals their identity. Hence the origin of the title "Enigma."

Sir Edward Elgar, best loved of all English composers, will be honored when the NBC Symphony plays his "Enigma Variations" this Saturday

NBC Symphony Presents All-British Program Under the Baton of Sir Adrian Boult

Saturday, May 21, at 10 p.m. EDT on NBC-R.

HEN an ambassador from Queen Mary of Scotland came to the court beth of England, one of the courtiers took him into a vestibule and hid him behind the curtains so that he might hear the queen play the virginals—the primitive piano of the period. The ambassador was warned to silence, but the foreign listener inadvertently made an enthusiastic sound, and the queen discovered him. He fell on his knees and begged forgiveness. Coldly, the ruler asked: "Which is the better player, the Queen of England or the Queen of Scotland?" What do you suppose the diplomat answered? Your guess is correct. (Later he found out that his being taken to hear the royal performance had really been prearranged so she could ask the question.)

Before Elizabeth's time, Henry VIII had also been an ardent lover of music, and after her passing, Charles II, James II, Edward VI and William and Mary continued the royal interest in the art.

However, even earlier, fine music flourished in England, and both sacred and secular compositions came to creation in abundance. The churches employed the best composers, organists and choirmasters, and every court function included music as part of the ceremonies. A vast library of remarkable early British examples has come down to us, consisting of motets, madrigals, anthems, canons, rounds, instrumental solos and chamber and orchestral scores. Something over 300 years ago, one of the first printed pieces of English music was William Byrd's picturesquely named volume, "Psalms, Sonnets and Other Songs of Sadness and Piety." Thomas Tallis, John Bull, John Dowland and Henry Purcell were luminous figures.

In 1577, when Sir Francis Drake set out on his expedition around the world, his tiny ship had room for musicians. A Spanish admiral whom he took prisoner recorded in his diary that the "Dragon" (the Spanish nickname for Drake) "always dined and supped to the music of viols."

In those days, Shakespeare, too, was a devoted disciple and user of music. He mentions it in almost all his plays, and some of the most familiar and lovely quotations about music spring from his pen. When he wishes to make his audience believe in fairies ("Midsummer Night's Dream") he interpolates little fairy songs. In "Macbeth" he draws upon grim witch ditties. In "Henry VIII" Queen Katherine's vision is accompanied by music. Drunken songs, love songs, war chants, funeral strains abound throughout the Shakespearian dramas.

England's musical activities were not, however, confined to its native products. Foreign masters always have had the warmest kind of a reception in Albion. One recalls the honors paid in the early days to Scarlatti and Georg Friedrich Haendel, who was so adored and adoring in the British Isles that he Anglicized his name to George Frederic Handel. His "Messiah" is as familiar to every Englishman as "God Save the King."

For a while after the classical era, English composers were not particularly active, but following the death of Brahms, a new school arose, and since then the musical repertoire accords honorable place to their solos, symphonies, chamber music and operas. Chopin's disdainful and undeserved remark that the English were as musical as the cattle which he saw from his train window as he rode back to France has been amply disproved by a brilliant array of late nineteenth- and twentieth-century names, like Holst, Delius, Warlock, Holbroke, Walton, Bax, Ireland, Goossens, Parry, Stanford, Bantok, Bliss, Bennett, Scott, Gardiner, Williams, the well-loved Sir Edward Elgar, and dozens of others.

In the domain of light music, it will be generally agreed that the world has never known a more popular genius than Arthur Sullivan. England's conductors have been correspondingly eminent interpreters of their compatriots' music. Wood, Cowen, Beecham, Harty, Barbirolli, Boult, to mention only a few, stand out among international top chiefs of the baton.

The present day sees radio keeping up the parade of British musical greatness, with the BBC Orchestra heading the ministrations across the seas. The celebrated organization is led by Sir Adrian Boult, whose quality will register convincingly when he leads the May 21 concert of the NBC Symphony Orchestra in an all-British program.

OLD FASHIONED FUN: The National Barn Dance

Pat Barrett dons cotton chin-whiskers, becomes "Uncle Ezra" not only on the Barn Dance but also to bring "Station E-Z-R-A" to NBC listeners each Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 7:15 p.m. EDT (7:15 p.m. PST for West)

RADIO'S most friendly and least formal program is the Alka-Seltzer National Barn Dance, broadcast over NBC on Saturday nights at 9 p.m. EDT (7 p.m. PST for the West). Started as an experiment on Station WLS in Chicago in 1924 during the first week of that station's broadcasting, it has been on the air ever since, became a sponsored, hour-long network feature in 1933.

Stars of the program are, in nearly every case, people whose acts are absolutely genuine. Because they fall naturally into their parts, they do not have to strain for effect. Further, a definite attempt is made to leaven the program's fare with impromptu sounds, such as cow bells, with ad-libbed remarks and a babble of conversational background which suggests a real barn dance in a real hayloft.

To capture in pictures the antics of the stars who make the National Barn Dance a sort of howling success, Gene Lester, Radio Guide's most candid cameraman, took part in the Saturday night festivities on April 30, snapped these shots of entertainers whose work is play for everybody—including themselves! Taken at Chicago's Eighth Street Theater, they introduce some of the Barn Dancers you'll hear each Saturday night.

Herbert Hoover addresses Boys' Clubs meeting Thursday

Herbert Hoover Speaks At Boys' Clubs Meeting

Thursday, 11:05-11:30 p.m., NBC-Blue

Herbert Hoover, only living former President of the United States, has been increasingly active since his retirement from the White House, A lifetime of public service in all corners of the world has brought him interests that are numerous and diverse. One of these interests is centered around the activities and welfare of youth, a field close to Hoover's heart ever since his work with the Belgian refugees during the World War. It is this work that will bring Herbert Hoover to an NBC microphone next Thursday, when he speaks before the thirty-second annual convention of the Boys' Clubs of America at Chicago.

The convention, which opens May 16, will also be addressed by Judge Samuel E. Hoyt, of the Juvenile Court of New Haven, and president of the National Amateur Athletic Union. For-mer President Hoover is chairman of the board of the Boys' Clubs. He will speak at the concluding banquet of the convention on Thursday, while Hoyt will be heard at the convention luncheon on Tuesday, May 17, at 2 p.m. on NBC-Red.

"Youth and Democracy" will be the topic of Hoover's address. It is a subject upon which he is peculiarly well informed—not only because of his long experience in youth welfare work but as a result of his recent extensive travel in Europe, where he had ample opportunity to observe the regimentation of youth in the anti-democracy dictator states, and to contrast them with the work of such American units as the Boy Scouts, with the work of which he is thoroughly familiar.

Mr. Hoover will be heard on the NBC-Blue network, Judge Hoyt on the Red.

Singing Lady Tells Life of Richard Wagner

Thursday, 5:30-5:45 p.m., NBC-Blue

The inspiring story of the life of Wilhelm Richard Wagner, probably the greatest dramatic composer the world has ever known, will be put on the air by Ireene Wicker, the Singing Lady, on Thursday, as a feature in her special series of May programs.

After Wagner, the lives of Queen Victoria and Dante Gabriel Rossetti, great figure in Italian literary history, will be broadcast.

The food is inexpensive, drinks reasonable and stars rampant. Here you're apt to catch, on Saturday afternoon or night, a glimpse Saturday afternoon or night, a glimpse of Jack Benny or other members of his company, or Dorothy Lamour and others of the Chase and Sanborn crew. Wednesday afternoon and night look for Bing Crosby or Bob Burns.

The same rule holds for CBS. Here the closest eatery is Brittingham's—right in the new Columbia Square studios—and you may catch Lum and Abner on Mondays, Wednesdays or Fridays; Ed Robinson or Claire Trevor on Mondays or Tuesdays, or Cantor's troupe (after May 14) on Sundays or Mondays, but Eddie himself will be dining at the Vine Street Brown Derby (there are three, you know). The latter also is the pet lunchroom of Al Jolson Mondays and Tuesdays; Frances Langford on Thursdays and Fridays, and many of the stars favor it for cocktails as well as lunch. George McCall is one of the latter group, while the Joe Penners and the Charlie (Andy) Corrells make it frequently for dinner. George Jessel and Norma Talmadge The same rule holds for CBS. Here

A long-distance call was put through, and Bergen turned the mouthpiece over to McCarthy, much to the thrills of a pair of little New England misses . . . Excerpt from a recent letter of Tommy Kelly (Tom Sawyer in that grand new film) to a Bronx school chum: "I'm appearing on the Chase and Sanborn Hour. Listen to me tell McCarthy where to get off!" Al Jolson has nothing on Andy Devine. Encino's neighbor, the Los Angeles suburb of Van Nuys, has named gravel-voiced Andy its mayor—because they're sure he can't talk! they're sure he can't talk!

Which reminds me that Jack Benny's recent guest was Mayor Mancel Talcott, of Waukegan, Ill., a schoolmate . . . Benny, incidentally, is paying for his new Beverly Hills home by making its construction provide script material. "It's not true," says Jack, "what Fred Allen said about me working on the house and laying off a carpenter. I'm just a stand-in for a sawhorse. But I sure can saw wood. I learned how playing "The Bee' on my violin" . . . Hear the Jell-O show of May 1? That was young actor Frankie Nelson playing the part of Burgess, the Benny home-builder, and for his work—plums! Which reminds me that Jack Benny's

Three NBC mike-men almost crashed their radio plane men almost crashed their radio plane recently when fog blocked that network's description of the fleet's return—and also hid high-tension towers from the flying broadcasters... Bob Burns has recorded baby Barbara Ann's voice—according to Bob, "eight solid minutes of cryin'." Bob is mad at Van Buren. "They're goin' back on me," Burns explained. "They're pavin' the streets and gettin' electric lights."

OU CAN forget about the report you may have read elsewhere that Deanna Durbin and Leopold Stokowski will be on the air for Texaco next fall. An official of that company tells me this isn't true, and adds that if they were to take all the programs offered to them they could establish their own radio station and broadcast 24 hours a day without any interruption.

"How to Be Charming" fades from the airlanes after the broadcast of May 27, and the sponsor will replace this show with "Stella Dallas" starting June 6 over the NBC-Red network... 'Tis said that Jerry Belcher's "Interesting Neighbors" will be dropped and replaced with a musical-variety show.

Monday night at the Connie Boswell-Richard Himber-Ted Husing show. It is Connie's debut on this airing. After the program a short, lame man with his wife and little daughter go backstage to visit the lovely songstress, where the little girl presents Miss Boswell with a bouquet of flowers. The story behind the scene: About six years ago this child couldn't walk. She was a victim of infantile paralysis. One day the father read a paragraph in a radio column about the doctor who was doing so much for Connie. He wrote to the radio editor explaining that he had taken his youngster to many doctors, who could do nothing for her. Would the radio editor please find out the name of Miss Boswell's doctor. The r. e. passed the letter on to Connie, who in turn gave it to her doctor. A few days later the father received a letter telling him to bring his daughter to the doctor's office.

Let me point out here that the father made his living by selling coffee and the a from house to house and that as

Let me point out here that the father made his living by selling coffee and tea from house to house and that as soon as he entered the doc's office he realized that the fee would be more than he could afford. After the doctor had examined the child and found he could help her, the father explained his financial position. The parents were told to bring the youngster back in two days. They left the doctor's office and decided to visit Miss Boswell at the Paramount Theater in New York, where she was playing, and thank her personally for turning the letter over to her doctor. Connie took an immediate liking to the child and appreciated the sincerity of the parents. To make a long story short, the next time they visited the doctor's office they were told by the doctor that Miss Boswell had left word for him not to take any money from them. The child was treated several times a week for two years and Connie paid all the bills, which ran into quite a large figure. Today, the child is able to walk with only a very slight limp. So is there any wonder that this mother, father and daughter worship Connie Boswell and constantly sing her praises?

Earlier that evening, Rudy Vallee went on the air in place of the alling Eddie Cantor. Rudy was resting at his lodge up in Maine, and when the telephone call came in asking him to pinch-hit for Cantor, he hopped the first train for the big city. He arrived the morning of the broadcast. Since there was little time to be lost in preparing the script, Rudy wrote out most of his comments and introductions in longhand. About ten minutes before time to go on the air, Vallee went over to the music stand to get his specially prepared script but—it was gone! Back stage everyone in the cast joined the search for the missing script. Almost everything was turned upside down, but to no avail. Seconds before broadcast time, Guestar Jane Froman looked down at her music and noticed that she was holding the precious papers in her hand underneath the music. She had picked them off the music stand by mistake. What a relief it was to Rudy Vallee and all those concerned with the broadcast.

Next night, entering the CBS Playhouse to watch the Al Pearce broadcast, I find Kenneth Roberts at the door. He asks an usher to make sure his mother and dad are admitted and get good seats. . Before broadcast time he rehearses the audience on how to applaud and when to laugh. He suggests that if they have any trouble chuckling to take a peek at his mustache. . Pearce's take-off of Elmer Blurp is perfect. He wears a felt hat that sits on top of his head which, combined with his facial expressions, has the audience howling. . . Tizzy (Bill Comstock) Lish gets many laughs when he (she) curtsies and shows his (her) bare legs as he (she) walks off the stage at the end of the routine... Chatterbox Arlene Harris is one of the very few of radio's great who works without a script. Her rapid-fire comedy always provokes howls.

Incidentally, a few weeks ago Pearce and his gang broadcast their show from Cincinnati. If you heard the program, you probably recall that Pearce stated Announcer Kenneth Roberts was not present because he went to the Grand Central station in New York for the train instead of the Pennsylvania depot. After being ribbed, Announcer Roberts admitted to your reporter that it was strictly a gag. He wasn't suppossed to go to Cincinnati and couldn't have gone because of his work on other shows.

After leaving the Pearce broadcast, I walked across the street to attend the new Hal Kemp "Time to Shine" airing. Outside the playhouse, a diplomatic shoe-shine boy proudly boasts that he uses the polish the Kemp program advertises. . . Backstage after the broadcast, Dave Ross smiles modestly when one of the advertising executives in charge of the program compliments him on his work . . Ed Cashman, producer of the show, deserves a big hand for his efforts in having the show run so smoothly . . Saxy Dowell, who tips the scales past the 200-lb. marker, perspires as though he had just come out of a Turkish bath . . Bob Allen, handsome vocalist, makes most of the young femmes in the audience sigh when he steps to the mike to sing his numbers . . Judy Starr, 4 feet 9 inches of wim, wigor and witality, kisses one of the music publishers, the lucky guy having to bend way down low to get it . . As he leaves the stage door, Hal Kemp is surrounded by a mob of autograph hunters holding copies of Radio Guide in front of him, featuring his image on the cover, and he has a tough time breaking through to make his train for Pittsburgh.

Kemp, by the way, was given a tremendous ovation by the studio audience when he made his debut on the new "Time to Shine" program. In my opinion, listeners should also give the sponsor of this show a tremendous ovation—not only for presenting the Kemp crew with their delightful and unique musical arrangements but for their good sense in keeping their advertising spiels down. Only 55 seconds were devoted to advertising the product during the initial stanza. This, I believe, is a record and the sponsors are to be congratulated for their good sense. It should build plenty of good will for the product. Too many programs offend the listeners with longwinded and ridiculous commercials.

Short-wave programs of American stations are shown along with the regular listings beginning on page 25. These are indicated, for example, by (sw.11.87) in parentheses following a program listing. This means that on 11.87 megacycles the same program may also be heard over an American short-wave station. Please note that foreign stations do not always adhere precisely to their announced program schedules.

HE value of radio to those living in isolated sections of the world was pointed out in a letter recently received by John Sheehan, General Electric short-wave program manager, from the Rev. E. J. Cunningham of Pilgrim Springs, Alaska. Rev. Cunningham stated, "Pilgrim Springs is 110 miles from Nome and no means of communication existed there prior to the establishment of a radio telephone.

"The only possible communication was by mail and that only once a month," he said. "To leave a community, isolated like this, without doctors or dentists to help in time of sickness, epidemic or fire, was asking entirely too much of Providence, so I determined to do something about it. For the past two years my only means of asking for help and assistance in times of distress and emergency had been by signaling SOS to airplane pilots by means of a huge black flag, 20 by 12 feet, which could be raised 20 by 12 feet, which could be raised to the top of a 70-foot flagpole in the rear of our Lady of Lourdes Mission.
"A number of short-wave telephones had been installed in Alaska and were proving successful. I decided to install one and wrote to the Federal Communications Commission, secured its permission, took my radio examination in January and am now in daily conversation with Nome, happy in the thought that my community is pro-tected in the case of sickness or accident and that I can have a plane here in thirty minutes," he concluded.

SHORT-WAVE SHORTS: Reception reports to "Radio Martinique" (9.7) of Fort-de-France, Martinique, are now being rewarded with modernistic now being rewarded with modernistic red, black, yellow and blue QSL cards . . . John Larsen of Geneva, N. Y., writes that the interval signal of HJ7ABB (4.82) of Bucaramanga, Colombia, is three cuckoo calls . . . HJ3ABX of Bogota, Colombia, has shifted in frequency to 5.99 megs . . . An unknown station on 6.755 megs, is coloring VYSEC (5.9). Covers Vyses relaying YV5RC (5.8), Caracas, Venezuela, irregularly in the evenings . . . According to Earl Roberts of Indianapolis, Ind., the private short-wave

Gail Beyer of Chicago, Ill., mitter . . . Gail Beyer of Chicago, Ill., tells me that according to information just received from Franco's main station "Radio Nacional" at Salamanca, Spain, the following independent in-Spain, the following independent insurgent stations are operating regularly: FET1 (7.006) of Valladolid; "Radio Espana" (7.203) of San Sebastian; FET5 (7.35) of Burgos; "Radio Espana" (7.246) of Bilboa; "Radio Nacional AZ" (6.75) and "Radio Espana" (7.06). No location was given for the last two mentioned . . . Of special interest to littoness in the Los Angelos last two mentioned . . . Of special interest to listeners in the Los Angeles area, is information that W6XRE (120), is relaying W6XKG (25.95) of that city, daily from noon to 4 a.m. EDT, and is very anxious to receive reception reports . . Severe magnetic storms disrupted commercial shortwave circuits on April 16 and 17, while the aurora borealis was plainly visible to residents along the Atlantic coast as far south as New York . . The director of Short-wave Station XEXA (6.132) of Mexico, D. F., Mexico, is sending questionnaires to many of that station's regular listeners, which when sending questionnaires to many of that station's regular listeners, which when properly filled out and returned entitle that person to receive interesting and valuable publications of the Mexican Department of Press and Publicity... Those interested in the Soviet version of the world's news in English can obtain excellent reception from Moscow, U. S. S. R., at present, over RKI (15.08), from 8 to 10:15 p.m. EDT. Additional stations that relay RKI occasionally include RWG (8.183), RBO (8.31), RPK (7.42), RKA (6.96) and RYS (6.75)... An excellent marimba concert is being radiated over TGWA (15.17) of Guatemala City, Guatemala, daily from 1:45 to 2:45 p.m. EDT... GSP (15.31) has replaced GSD (11.75), in the latter part of transmission IV, from Daventry, England, heard daily station's regular listeners, which when from Daventry, England, heard daily from 5:15 to 7 p.m. EDT . . . PMC (18.135) of Bandoeng, Java, may occasionally be heard phoning in straight speech near 9 a.m. EDT. The station usually uses scrambled speech.

four years and obtained a series of sensational exclusive stories on fareastern war preparations.

Wells' coverage of the Italo-Ethopian war-he was a member of the New York Herald Tribune foreign staff at that time-was perhaps the highpoint in his career, and marked him once and for all as among the greats in contemporary journalism.

A hazardous trip over the route of the proposed Nicaraguan Canal route preceded Wells' first broadcast, put on the air from Managua. He traveled through dense jungles, by native canoe along the San Juan river, across Lake Nicaragua by launch, and then by mule to Brito, Pacific terminus of the proposed new canal. After the Panama broadcast he will be heard on successive weeks from Rio Bamba, Ecuador; Lima, Peru; La Paz, Bolivia; Santiago, Chile; Montevideo, Uruguay; Buenos Aires, Argentina; Caracas, Venezuela; Santo Domingo; Port-au-Prince, Haiti, Havana and Bermuda. On this trip, as on many of his past adventures, Wells will be accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Fay Gillis Wells, aviatrix and first woman member of the Caterpillar Club.

Vitally interested in South American affairs, a keen student of relationships between the Americas, and a firm believer in the efficacy of radio as a medium of international friendship and culture, Linton Wells is ideally suited for the role of radio's first international roving reporter, and his work in the current Magic Key series will almost certainly result in better understanding and closer ties between the Americas of the North and the

Summer Listening

In His wisdom, God ordained that man should enjoy the blessings of radio. So sets made of tubes and wires and odd metal gadgets were spread throughout the land and the owners thereof profited greatly and their pleasure was indeed increased.

But man, with his habit of perfecting all things beyond reasonable need, decided to make the radio more powerful. So more tubes and wires and gadgets were added, and the voice that had once filled a large parlor comfortably now became powerful enough to fill an armory. Man came to like the strong voice and to use it each night for his favorite programs.

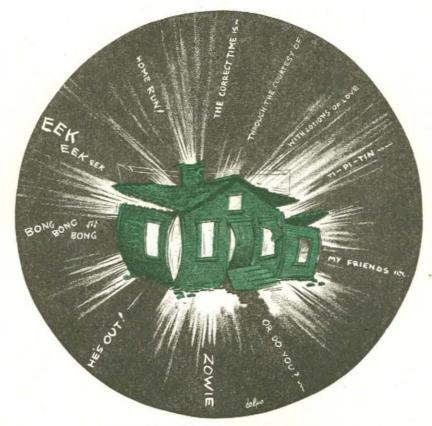

Then summer came and man opened his windows and doors in order to refresh himself, and the voices of radio poured out into the night. From apartments and homes thirty million voices boomed. All the outdoors was filled with music. Verily, it is a wonderful thing that a man can sit in his apartment and hear at the same time a dozen different songs from a dozen different sets. Or that he can go into his garden and hear the programs of an assortment of stations. It is so wonderful that he must stuff cotton into his ears if he wants to sleep. It is so inspiring that one listener picked up a shotgun last summer and blew the owner of a particularly loud radio into kingdom come. It is a tribute to man's genius that he can use his set to upset the peace and harmony of a neighborhood merely by twisting a little knob, don't you think so?

Or do you?

American Defense

Day and night, tremendously powerful European short-wave propaganda stations are broadcasting. Italy alone speaks to the world in sixteen different languages. Germany has some of the most powerful short-wave stations in existence; the Russian transmitters are active on a 24-hours-a-day basis.

How can this concern the United States? It wouldn't matter—except that a vast amount of this propaganda material is broadcast for United States consumption, and, most important, much of it is directed at the South American countries, with the specific purpose of weaning these democracies away from U. S. influence and protection, guaranteed to them since the days of Monroe.

Don't be a Bad Radio Neighbor!

Admittedly, it is unfortunate that the world should come to such a pass; that the miracle of radio should be used to urge any long-established democracy to abandon the old and trustworthy political faith for methods too new to be trustworthy. But while all this is going on, Americans cannot standidly by.

In Congress at the moment are two bills providing for the erection of powerful short-wave transmitters to be operated by the government as a means of furthering relations with the nations of South and Central America. It is to be hoped that these measures will speedily become law. The tremendous power of radio in international affairs should be recognized, and, when necessary, used to protect America and things American.

Guilty?

We'll make a wager! We'll bet that three out of the last four times you listened to the radio you listened carelessly. Three times recently we watched friends tune their radios with these results:

Case one: A housewife spun the dial until she got a dance band.

Then, for fifteen minutes while the band played, she chatted.

Case two: A businessman tuned in a variety hour. He picked up a magazine and proceeded to read through the entire broadcast.

Case three: A young married couple tuned in a play that had once been awarded a Pulitzer prize. They got out a card-table and played two-handed pinochle.

Check back to your own listening habits. Are you a careless listener, too? Most of us are. Some programs are incapable of holding an adult's interest. But many of them present the finest symphonies and plays that have been born in men's minds. Radio Guide tells you about them each week. Listen to them . . . but listen. Don't read or chat or play cards. If you do you only cheat yourself. For our fine programs can bring to you the greatest gift in the world. Give radio a chance.

It will not let you down.

A Daily Prayer

One of radio's most worth-while invitations comes to radio listeners who hear the Southernaires' program each Sunday. It is an invitation to join the Coast-to-Coast prayer-band associated with this group of inspired singers. To join, you write your name and address on a postcard and make a promise to say one prayer each day for someone less fortunate than you. Thousands of listeners have already joined the association. The world must be much better because of their daily prayers.

Voice of the Listener: "Seems to me it's high time Betty Lou Barrie made her appearance in Radio Guide pictures . . ."—Mrs. A. A. Crow, Welsh, La.

BIOGRAPHY

RADIO GUIDE: "If one of your writers in the issue of April 30 was referring to CBS Announcer Melvin Allen in his article in the issue named, please correct the statement wherein Melvin is called Adams . . .

"Allen went to New York from Birmingham, Ala., where he got his first training as sports-announcer over the (then) CBS station, WBRC. His real name is Melvin Isreal—Allen being his father's middle name, which he assumed for radio use. After his graduation at the University of Alabama in Tuscaloosa, Melvin joined the faculty of that institution as one of the instructors in the Department of Public Speech, resigning after only a few months to go to CBS.

"Birmingham is proud of the name Melvin Isreal (Allen to radio) has made for himself, and when he is named in your most popular publication, we want him to get full credit."—Mrs. C. P. McGuire, Birmingham, Ala.

RADIO GUIDE'S writer erred in reporting that Andre Baruch, Ralph Edwards and Mel Adams, announcers, live together in New York. Name should have been Allen; Mel Adams is Bandleader Hal Kemp's publicity manager.—Ed.

REBUTTAL

VOL: "At the risk of being accused of quibbling I'm going to get something off my mind. It makes me mad the way everything on the Chase and Sanborn Hour is automatically credited to Charlie McCarthy. Sure, he's a sensation—and I'm just as fond of the saucy imp as the next person, but there are other popular attractions on that program, too.

"Chase and Sanborn was voted the most popular musical program, and your publication captioned it 'Won By a Blockhead,' when most obviously it was Nelson Eddy who won it. "On the other hand, the Stroud

"On the other hand, the Stroud Twins have come in for a lot of panning. Yet when they do something good, who gets the credit? Why, Charlie, of course! I refer to the item run by Walter Winchell a few weeks ago in which he tells how Dinty Doyle got such a kick out of Charlie McCarthy's crack about 'youth being so wonderful it's a shame to waste it on children.' The fact that Claude Stroud said that didn't seem to occur to him.

"When the results of the drama poll were published it's a wonder you didn't say: 'Due to the popularity of Charlie McCarthy's program, Don Ameche has been voted radio's most popular actor for the fourth (or is it fifth?) time!"—MARIE EUDAL, Rochester, N. Y.

GRACIE ALLEN BECOMES SURREALIST ARTIST

FTER watching the painters at work on the Allen-Burns home, Gracie felt the urge, turned to crayons and brush, put her thoughts on canvas. The result, as expected, was a collection of assorted surrealistic subjects which few, including Gracie, can understand. Immediately to Gracie came recognition. The American Artists Congress, Los Angeles Chapter, invited her to exhibit her work at the organization's masquerade ball. Next came an invitation from the Julien Levy Galleries in New York City. So Gracie is an artist now.

THERE'S NOTHING FUNNY ABOUT A TICKET

SPEED LIMIT in this area on Crescent Drive is 25 miles an hour, so Ken Murray is out of bounds in this picture, rolling along at 50. To make matters worse, he has just run through a red light and is approaching a school district. The traffic policeman, siren howling, is rapidly overtaking him, ready to yell, "Pull it over, you!"

EN MURRAY won't tell exactly how many times he's been arrested for speeding—in fact, he'll not tell whether or not he has ever been arrested—but by way of furnishing an object-lesson for fast drivers, he agreed to pose for this series of pictures, demonstrating the whole process in a little photographic skit that might be titled "From Behind the Wheel to Behind the Bars." The touching scenes took place on Crescent Drive, Beverly Hills, Hollywood, with the wholehearted cooperation of the Beverly Hills Police Department. Because Los Angeles is spread out over such a wide area, nearly everyone drives a car, and the resulting traffic problem calls for strict enforcement of the law. Being a comedian is no excuse at all!

Photographs by Gene Lester

THIS is the ticket that Ken Murray's old friend handed him. It calls for his appearance at the City Court at 2 o'clock in the afternoon—along with a number of other traffic-law violators!

SURPRISE, SURPRISE! The officer turns out to be Bill Fitchey, formerly a vaudeville dancer in Ken Murray's act. "Fancy meeting you here, old pal, old pal," says Murray. "Hello, Ken," is the answer. "Doing about 50, weren't you?"

DISCONSOLATE, obviously fearing the very worst, Comedian Murray makes his appearance in court on the appointed day and hour, sits waiting his turn. Judging from the look on his face, he has just heard someone sentenced to life in prison!

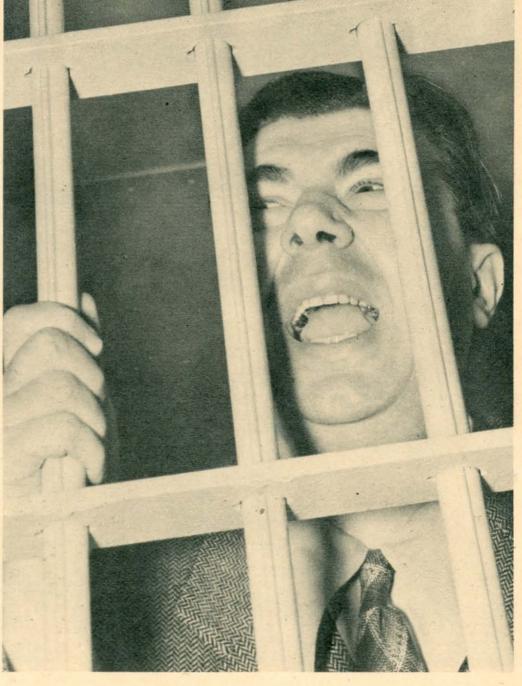

"YOUR HONOR," explains Murray, "I couldn't have been going 50... my car just wouldn't go that fast, or, that is, I don't think it would... maybe my speedometer isn't working right... it must be out of order...

I'll get it fixed right away . . . is there a chance the officer could have been mistaken, probably?" The judge, stern-faced, seems a little dubious of Murray's explanations, but Murray keeps right on explaining OUCH! Murray digs down for $25 and costs, since he doesn't want to spend ten days in jail. In addition to the fine, he will have to attend traffic school for a total of six hours!

"HEY! What about my broadcast!" If Ken Murray were really locked up here—he did pay his fine, remember?—he'd probably be put into a padded cell for creating this disturbance. As it is, he was freed in time to drive to the studio—but very slowly!

CETTING THIN TO MUSIC-

For timing movements on the air Wallace uses a model, Raynette Simpson. His rule is not to slight any part of any movement. In reducing exercise above, idea is to suspend the body in air in a way that stretches muscles

ANY women bow to summer by worrying about shaking off extra pounds put on in winter months. Thus was inspired "Get Thin to Music," heard over MBS Monday through Friday at 11:30 a.m. EDT.

Program Director Wallace (he uses no other name) is no amateur.

Program Director Wallace (he uses no other name) is no amateur in the art of reducing and building bodies. For years he supervised the waistlines of cinema stars, and this is his second season at handing out musical calisthenics over the air.

Wallace explains that his radio exercises help one keep the body fit, and with fitness and proper diet anyone can either add or lose weight at will. A listener has written to tell the story of two sisters, one who lost 65 pounds and the other who added 17, each doing the same exercises but following a different diet which Wallace prescribed.

Wallace began his work in a small Illinois town where he gained fame as a tumbler and performer on parallel bars. He went into Y. M. C. A. physical-education work and then into a large Chicago gymnasium. Eventually he opened his own gym, went into the cinema field, then hit the air.

Photographed by Drucker

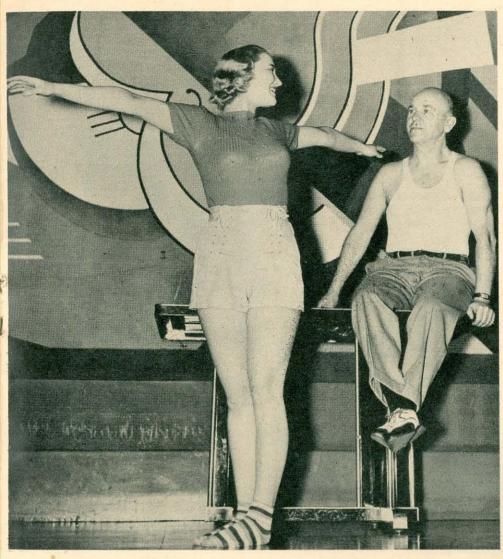

In "Stationary Trot," knees are brought up to a quick count, feet arched, toes pointed, chin up. This aids posture ills

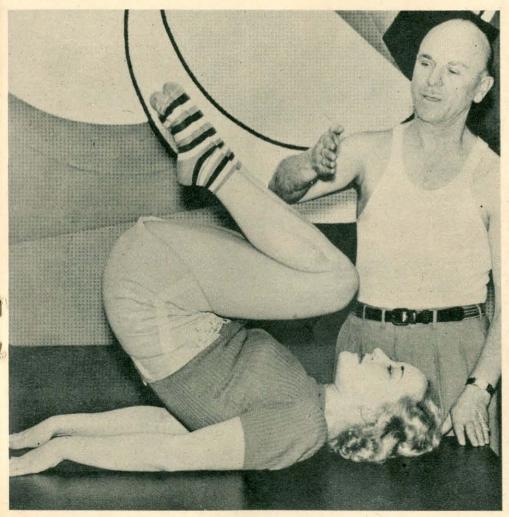

In doing the kick above, beginners can best use a chair for support, then swing each leg as high as possible, then back hard in a pendulum movement. This movement is good for reducing body flabbiness and excess thigh weight

For those with a double chin or flabby neck, Wallace recommends the exercise shown above. The model stands erect, bends head forward and backward as far as possible, repeating movement many times in rhythm. Breathing remains even

Designed for strengthening the back and for taking inches off the buttocks and waistline is this exercise. Lie flat on the floor, bend both knees to the chest, keeping the feet arched and toes pointing. Head should not be elevated

The Mule Kick calls for the model to start on all fours, kick out vigorously backward and upward and high and hard as possible. The knee should be kept straight. This exercise melts weight away from the thighs and buttocks

Miss Simpson and Wallace demonstrate the scissors movement. She brings her arm and leg up and down on time with the music and count, keeping body as well as arm and leg rigid. This reduces sides, calves, hips, thighs

In the above movement, designed to reduce abdomen, strengthen the back and remove fat under the arm, Wallace cautions that arm in back be really back, then swing the right hand to the left toe, left hand to the right toe

3,000 MILES-FOR 15 MINUTES ON THE AIR!

ARRIVING in Grand Central Station, New York, Miss Hudson smiles for the photographers. Out of her fee for the broadcast, she must pay her railroad fare, agent's fees, expenses while in New York—everything!

RADIO is an attractive field for glamour girls and boys of Hollywood. There is money to be made—big money—from personal airway appearances. Few years ago, when the guest-star program was a novelty, film stars broadcast for nothing, feeling publicity involved was ample payment. But when Lux Radio Theater paid glamorous Marlene Dietrich $5,000 for one appearance, followed with a $3,500 fee to Clark Gable, the gold rush was on! Today, fees that range from $800 to $5,000 make it profitable for a star to travel all the way from Hollywood for a New York broadcast, as Rochelle Hudson did recently. She appeared on the Kate Smith program, but before she could go on the air, hours of arduous preparation were necessary. But she found it well worth while!

JOB of Tom Lewis (left), program director, and Ted Collins, director, is to name the star who'll appear in the weekly dramatic skit on the Kate Smith show. Collins will make final arrangements with the star's agent

THE SHOW is scheduled for Thursday, but early on Monday morning the long grind of preliminary work begins. Here Rochelle Hudson talks over the script with Tom Lewis and Bob Welch, assistant director of the program

MUSIC for the program is carefully checked by Jack Miller and Tom Lewis. The racks in back of them contain hundreds of orchestrations and special arrangements, all of them classified and cataloged for instant location

ROCHELLE with Elizabeth Newburger in the CBS Playhouse during "dress" rehearsal. Rochelle, born in Oklahoma, was Will Rogers' favorite actress, played in most of his films. She's five feet four, weighs just 100 pounds

KATE SMITH didn't meet her guest star until the morning of the broadcast, at the dress rehearsal. Rochelle played the part of a telegraph-company employe whose duty it was to sing birthday greetings over the telephone!

ON THE AIR! A week of intense preparation, a transcontinental journey, hours of rehearsal—all for a 15-minute skit! When this broadcast is over, Rochelle still isn't through. She must do a "repeat" for the West Coast

WHAT'S BECOME OF-

James Melton, whose last regular assignment was as singing m.c. on the old "Sunday Night Party," spends much time on his $30,000 yacht, "Melody," makes occasional guest appearances, is hard at work for concerts, more radio

Billy Jones and Ernie Hare have 15 years of broadcasting to their credit, are now idle. Says Ernie: "We are dickering with several clients"—which may mean most anything. They made several guest appearances this past season

Dale Wimbrow left the air, went to Detroit and, he says, "bit off more than I could chew." Too many shows caused a nervous breakdown. He adds: "I am not dickering with several clients; I do not expect to be on a network soon"

Floyd Gibbons left the air last fall, has been busy since making movie shorts based upon the kind of adventure stories which made him a radio favorite. Regardless of radio, Gibbons will always be No. 1 newspaper reporter

Lee Wiley rose from an unknown New York visitor to vocalist with Leo Reisman's band, to co-star with Mrs. Roosevelt, to star of her own show. Last heard with Willard Robison's orchestra, she is now in Hollywood "resting"

MBS-Reenactment of First Flight of Wright Brothers: WOR Official ceremonies crowning National Air Mail Week at Kitty Hawk, N. C.: One of the features of the broadcast will be a reenactment of the Wright brothers first flight in heavier-than-air machine, the take-off of which took place at this same spot at Kitty Hawk. A portion of the description will be made from a transport plane piloted by Captain Dick Merrill and Jack Lambie. John Daniels and Adam Etheridge, only persons living today who witnessed the original Wright flight, will also take part in the broadcast.

Wilbur Chapman, the man who started the vogue of "pig" banks to help the American Mission to Lepers, will be interviewed. Chapman, when a boy in White Cloud, Kansas, felt so sorry for lepers that he raised a young pig, sold ir, and gave the leper Mission the money. Since then, many others have established such "pig" banks, On May 22, the American Mission for Lepers is leading a pilgrimage to White Cloud, Kansas, where Chapman still lives, to encourage further contributions for the leper cause.

Jack Benny has been radio's Star of Stars for 1935, '36 and '37and with this week's victory, the air's top comedian for 1936, '37 and '38. Will he add a fourth Star of Stars plaque to his others?

JACK BENNY ELECTED AIR'S BEST COMEDIAN

"BUCK" RIDES AGAIN; BREAKS TAPE IN LAUGH RACE FOR THIRD TRIUMPH

OMEDY, for a mader of a week, has been serious business. Ra-dio listeners, in whose incautious ears comedians mix their portions of comedy and commercial credit, have weighed the relative merits of those comedians. From their huddle has come the name of radio's top comedian.

That comedian is Mr. Jack Benny—the same Mr. Jack Benny who won the same honor in 1936 and again in 1937; similarly it is the same Mr. Jack Benny who has been named radio's Star of Stars for the past three years.

From start to finish, the race for honors among the comedians was neck-and-neck. Charlie McCarthy was at Benny's heels throughout. Last year McCarthy did not even place among the first dozen comedians (nor did his stooge, Edgar Bergen), although the youngster was named third among the "promising new stars." At no time, however, were there enough McCarthy votes to give him a lead—and at the finish, Benny's plurality was over a third as much as McCarthy's total.

Interesting in view of the predic-tions by some writers that radio comedy has passed its peak days is the fact that the total number of votes cast in this poll was much less than in either the classical singers' or the popular singers' poll. Perhaps music has captured the listeners' hearts, as would seem to be indicated by these figures; the fact remains, however, that this poll reflected much more interest than poll reflected much more interest than has been shown in many of the other polls. Comedians, like automobiles, may be just a fad, but they have not yet passed out completely!

Results in the weekly divisional elections of the Star of Stars Poll are announced each week, as are the new elections. This week on the inside elections. This week, on the inside front cover, the ballot for the commentators' poll appears. Turn to that page now; read the simple instructions— then vote for your favorite.

Turn to the inside front cover for the Commentators' Poll!
