RADIO GUIDE'S ANNUAL STAR OF STARS POLL

THIS WEEK—MOST PROMISING NEW STAR

EACH year hundreds of star hopefuls rap at radio's golden gate to try their luck at fame. Only the most talented are even given a hearing—yet out of this deluge of unknowns come new stars, new acts, new talent to tantalize a listening world.

Just who will capture the fancy of Mr. and Mrs. America in 1938, what type of entertainment will prove most popular with listeners, or who this year's most popular promising star really is, are questions of grave import to sponsors and radio officials alike. To all this, Radio Guide's great Star of Stars Election—now in the eleventh week of its fifth year—offers the rare boon of certainty. This week fans will name their choice for the air's most promising new star by filling in and mailing the ballot before midnight of Saturday, May 28.

This year's poll differs from all other Star of Stars Polls inasmuch as voting is limited to one division each week. Each week Radio Guide announces the winner in one of the polls. In the eighth poll, Richard Himber's band has been named the most popular dance orchestra in all radio. Complete results may be found on the inside back cover in this issue.

So popular is Radio Guide's great poll with listeners that thousands of letters have poured in, some chock-full of praise, others protesting because their favorites were nosed out in the finals. Greatest number of protests come from fans who demand that a poll be devoted to the most popular human-interest program in radio. Next week Radio Guide complies with this request, and adds another week of voting in a brand-new classification to its great election.

Full particulars about this poll will be announced next week. The Star of Stars Poll, formerly scheduled for the week ending June 4, will now be held during the week ending June 11.

This week attention is focused on radio's most promising new star. Winners in this division last year were: First, Deanna Durbin; second, Bobby Breen; third, Edgar Bergen; fourth, Kenny Baker; fifth, Martha Raye; sixth, Nadine Conner; seventh, Fred MacMurray; eighth, Lucille Manners; ninth, Helen Jepson; tenth, Jack Baker; eleventh, Doris Kerr; twelfth, Mary Martin.

Who, in your opinion, is radio's most promising new star? Whether your choice is man or woman, boy or girl, comedian or singer, take advantage of your opportunity to vote—today!

PREVIEWS OF SOME OF THE BETTER REGULAR AND SPECIAL BROADCASTS TO BE PRESENTED THIS WEEK

The 200th anniversary of John Wesley's spiritual awakening will be observed by Methodists this week. In connection with the ceremonies, Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf (left) of Chicago and Fred Sargent (not in picture), president, Northwestern Railroad, will be heard Tuesday

SUNDAY, MAY 22

Richard Wagner . . . 125th birthday

Anniversary Program—NBC, 2 p.m. EDT.

In celebration of the 125th birthday anniversary of Richard Wagner, a piano recital on Wagner's own piano in Haus Wanfried, Bayreuth, by Conrad Hasen, will be featured. Listeners will also hear the second act of Wagner's opera, "The Meistersinger."

Economic cooperation . . . in the Americas

Pan-American Broadcast—CBS, 2:30 p.m. EDT.

The third broadcast in a series to promote economic cooperation in the Americas will bring as speakers Foreign Minister Dr. Sanvador Agirrie, speaking from Honduras; Dr. Don Adrian Recinos, Guatemalan minister, and Elie Lescot, Haitian minister, both speaking from Washington.

George Jessel . . . from New York

"Thirty Minutes in Hollywood"—MBS, 6 p.m. EDT.

The Jessel troupe has just completed a 3,000-mile trek from Hollywood. The ringmaster, Norma Talmadge, Amy Arnell, Tommy Tucker and the band will be heard broadcasting from the stage of the Mutual Playhouse atop the New Amsterdam Theater in New York.

Chester Watson . . . for Chesterfield

"Chesterfield Hour"—CBS, 9 p.m. EDT.

A twenty-four-year-old baritone, Chester Watson, will appear with Grace Moore and Andre Kostelanetz Wednesday night. Watson is a Brooklyn lad, has studied at Pratt Institute, and is just beginning his career in radio and concert work.

Mrs. Crazy . . . thriller

"Lights Out"—NBC, 12:30 a.m. EDT.

Wednesday night's thriller by Arch Oboler is the story of the strange revenge an insane woman takes upon her accusers. The story is based upon an element of truth, in that a similar incident did take place at a well-known state institution.

MONDAY, MAY 23

Merle Oberon . . . for Lux

Radio Theater—CBS, 9 p.m. EDT.

A radio dramatization of "The Letter," starring British actress Merle Oberon, will be presented Monday night. "The Letter" is an old stage play, was made into a movie a number of years ago with the late Jeanne Eagels in the starring role.

SAFETY SINGER

BY JAMES STREET

SING A SONG OF SAFETY WITH IRVING CAESAR ON THE RUDY VALLEE HOUR THIS THURSDAY

Irving Caesar is America's foremost safety man. With a melody and a microphone he has done more to make America safety-conscious than all the laws put together

THE sage who chocked a heap of wisdom in a few words and said he'd rather write the nation's songs than write its laws should have known Irving Caesar.

There are more than one million safety laws in the United States, but Caesar, with a few ditties and a microphone, has made America more safety-conscious than all the laws of the wise men. A melody is mightier than the pen.

This little ditty may sound like a silly sewing-machine symphony to you:

*"An automobile has two big eyes, to see where it is going,
and if you don't use your own two eyes, its horn will start blowing;
but like yourself it cannot see what's happening behind it.
So here's a lesson to be learned,
and I hope you will mind it:
It's silly to play too near a car,
for when the motor's running,
it cannot look 'round and say to you,
'I'm going or I'm coming.'"*

But to your child it tells more than all the laws and all the lectures combined.

Silly, is it? All right, pull up a chair and let's get serious.

DID you ever stop to think that "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" played a bigger role in winning the Civil War than did a fistful of generals? A Confederate veteran told me that one time. "They didn't out fight us," he explained. "The Yanks outsang us. You can't lick folks who think they are crusading and who will sing about it."

Now keep these prosaic figures in mind:

In 1936 more than 39,000 persons were killed in automobile accidents in this country. The bloodiest battle of the Civil War was the Battle of Gettysburg. But despite all the books that have been written about the horror of that battle, despite all the bloody stories of Cemetery Ridge, the cold truth of the matter is that only 7,058 men were killed in that engagement. So by simple arithmetic, you can see that automobiles can be almost six times as dangerous as the cannon, muskets, bayonets, bowie-knives, tomahawks, fists, clubs and sabers of the two strongest armies that ever fought on American soil.

IRVING CAESAR figured all that out, and he was determined to get it to the American people so they would remember it. Then he realized the carnage of the Civil War was stopped when the Union got its morale organized and began to sing and fight, and when the Confederacy was too weary to sing any more.

He reasoned that if song helped stop slaughter on a battlefield it would help stop slaughter on the highways. "We can sing our way to safety," he reckoned.

That's why you hear Irving Caesar on Rudy Vallee's Variety Hour every Thursday, singing those safety songs. And it's working.

Caesar knows American mass psychology. America will yawn at figures, but America will sing songs.

Did you know psychologists reasoned the big depression was cracked when America started singing "Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf?"? Did you know some students contend "Bei Mir Bist Du Schoen" has done more to cement racial and religious friendships in this country among the masses than any series of lectures?

A tune is worth more than a tome. Caesar knew that, and he knew if he could get America singing about safety, the country would think about safety, and thousands of lives would be saved.

That's how it all started. And if you think that little spasm about "An automobile has two big eyes" is silly, teach it to your child and see if he doesn't remember it long after he forgets your warnings.

This piece is a tribute to Irving Caesar, the safety-singer, who has crowded enough activities into his forty-three years of life to satisfy four men. Not that he needs the tribute, especially when persons like Eleanor Roosevelt say things like this about him:

"These songs seem to me perfectly delightful. Irving Caesar has done, I think, a really remarkable piece of work, which children will enjoy and which may keep them safe and sound."

So sing a song of safety, Caesar says—and the nation is doing it. Radio is taking his songs to the world, and his songs are saving lives.

David Sarnoff, president of Radio Corporation of America, has applauded Caesar's idea. Eddie Cantor has given Caesar a big bow. Damon Runyon calls it a "new pedagogic notion in child-instruction." And the Washington Post says, "If it takes lyrics to save lives, then we say more power to them with a hey-nonnynonny and a hot-cha-chai!"

IRVING CAESAR gets more fun out of life than most anyone we know. He's been knocked down and dragged out, but you can't keep him down. He dropped a cool half-million dollars in the stock market in 1929. He walked away from Wall Street whistling and dodging the fellows who were jumping out of windows. He got on a bus and rode in the sunshine.

THE next day he wrote a song to the melody of "Lover Come Back to Me," and it was about the only happy thing you could find in New York after Wall Street laid that billion-dollar egg and the golden goose turned out to be a bantam rooster that strutted and crowed and did nothing else. And just because a lot of us are moping today, and grumbling, we are going to repeat Caesar's happy ditty of 1929. Swing it, suckers!

*"I buy stocks high
I sell them low
And that's why I lost all my dough;
And yet my broker keeps on saying,
'Sucker, come back to me.'
I meet the bulls, I meet the bears,
And like a lamb they fleece my hairs,
And yet my broker keeps on saying,
'Sucker, come back to me.'
Every morning I receive another margin call, 'More, more money,
Nights when I come home a telegram is in the hall,
'We've got to have more money.'
They told me, 'Oil was a good buy,
'Twas a good buy, goodbye, goodbye,
That's why I wonder why my broker keeps saying,
'Sucker, come back to me.'"*

You can't lick a fellow who can whistle while he loses half a million and then can write a song about it.

It took Caesar a long time to make that half-million, too. He is what the sentimentalist would call an underprivileged child. He came from the sidewalks of New York—almost the gutter. Horatio Alger would have liked him.

He was born on July 4, and a Henry Street Settlement nurse helped bring him into the world.

"She did a good job," Irving says. "I'm forty-three and I'll probably live a good many more years than are already on the debit side of my ledger."

His father ran a book store on Grand Street. There was about one chance out of ten that the lad would fight clear of the eddies, climbing from Grand Street stairs and showing his way to the top of the heap. Irving did it.

"My father," Irving says, "owned the first international book store in the country. It was colossal. It was stupendous. It went broke."

HIS folks bundled him off to the neighborhood public school, and when he was seven he amazed everybody, including himself, by a one-finger rendition of "One Sunday Afternoon" on a piano.

Neighbors flocked to hear him. His papa was very proud. Caesar had studied a bit of music, and there he had plunked out a melody, like "Chopsticks."

The folks begged him to do it again, but Caesar shook his head.

It was his first and last public concert, and he was acclaimed a child prodigy because he could plunk out "One Sunday Afternoon."

That was bad. Irving says so now. "They said I was a prodigy," he laughed. "I knew a prodigy didn't have to study. So I never studied music again. I never took another lesson. I knew it all, I figured. And even today when I try to rustle together a new tune, I use my right index finger to plunk out the ditty, if I haven't got a pianist handy to whom I can hum."

"Here's a tip to parents—don't display too great an appreciation of the marvels of gifted youngsters."

Ever since he can remember he has had a yearning to put words into rhyme. The basketball team of his school inspired him to write a rah-rah song when he was nine. The team won the public school championship that year, and Caesar reckons his song made them do it.

Irving was studying stenography at the College of the City of New York, when he happened to see a newspaper ad seeking a secretary for the duration of a "Peace Trip Cruise." It was Henry Ford's Peace Ship, the ship he sent to Europe with a cargo of good words and good intentions to stop the Central Powers and Allies from murdering each other.

Caesar put his books away. They would do for a duller day; and he joined the peace mission. He wrote peace propaganda songs, little ditties telling the Germans et al to stop being bad boys. He had a brilliant idea—he wanted Ford to have them translated and dropped into German and Allied trenches. He thought maybe he could get the soldiers to battling with tenors and trumpets, and persuade them to sing their way to peace.

The plan failed, but so did the peace mission, and Ford kept on making automobiles, and automobiles have killed more Americans than the War did.

Back home and broke, Caesar tried to sell automobiles, but he didn't do so well. He kept trying to write songs, but they wouldn't click. Then one day he and the late George Gershwin were riding on top of a double-decker bus up Riverside Drive, and a song idea almost knocked him off his seat.

"Listen, George," he said and hummed. "It's a song."

IT TOOK them twenty-five minutes, still riding the bus, to turn out "Swanee."

With a hit under his belt, the going was comparatively easy for a while.

He was walking along one day, humming to himself, when "Tea for Two" smacked him.

"I didn't have any girl in mind," he said. "The idea came to me out of thin air."

He and Vincent Youmans wrote it, and it swept the nation.

Then he started grinding out hits—"Sometimes I'm Happy," "Just a Gigolo," "Lady Play Your Mandolin," "Animal Crackers in My Soup," "That's What I Want for Christmas," "Is It True What They Say About Dixie?" and a flock of others.

He worked on such productions as the "Follies," the "Scandals," "No, No, Nanette," "Poppy," "Wonder Bar," "White Horse Inn," and "Saratoga Chips."

He was up in the higher brackets and riding high. He appeared in vaudeville at the old Palace, and in his own sketch at the Roxy. He is one of the few authors who really can perform. He was honored with a membership on the board of the American Society for Composers, Authors and Publishers, and was made president of the Songwriters' Protective Association.

WHEN the bottom fell out in 1929, he decided not to start at the bottom again, but to start from the top. So with his right index finger he started plunking out tunes on the piano and putting words together. And he's right back up there on top again.

His theory in song-writing is, "Be master of the keys, but don't let them master you."

"In other words," he says, "have your words and tune definitely in mind before you sit down at the piano."

It was New Year's Eve of 1937 when he got the idea for safety songs. He was in the mad crowd at Times Square, and was shoved, stomped and mauled. New York was on a spree. He got to thinking about how many folks would be killed that night—drunken drivers, fools.

The next morning he went to his office on Times Square and looked out at the deserted streets. New York was sleeping it off. Then he sat down at his piano and plunked out his first safety song.

He liked it. So he did twenty-one quickly. He put his twenty-one songs into a book, an attractive book that children would notice. Rose O'Neill illustrated it. He selected two characters, Johnny B. Careful and Mary B. Ware, and dedicated the ditties to them. The book is filled with cute drawings and clever songs. Then he put the book on the market, and staid editors pricked up their ears and began praising it.

Time Magazine, usually stingy with praise, said of the songs: "Teachers College pedagogs showed instant enthusiasm—students, health educators and playground supervisors from all over the United States were beating time to the fox-trots and waltzes."

Schools from all over the country sent for copies. Governors wired congratulations to Caesar. Bigwigs applauded him. Kids started singing them. At my house, Johnny B. Careful and Mary B. Ware are running neck and neck with Snow White for song honors.

I have a five-year-old daughter, and my flesh gets clammy when I think of her at the supervised playground where she studies and romps. We've preached safety to her, but the lectures have seemed to go in one ear and out the other.

THEN came Johnny and Mary. And now, instead of giving her a heap of advice which she wouldn't understand, we tell her "Remember Johnny and Mary."

And she goes her way singing, "Each little song is a song with a lesson, and this is the kind of a lesson we mean:

*Stop, look and listen, when traffic lights glisten
And only cross streets when the red turns green.*

*Don't talk to strangers and don't play with matches;
These new little songs know the right from the wrong,*

*So learn while you're singing, and sing while you're learning,
And you'll grow up to be healthy and strong."*

Rudy Vallee, a pioneer in good programs, asked Irving to join his program and sing songs of safety as long as he could make 'em up.

A bow to Caesar, another to Rudy.

Irving Caesar may be heard on Thursday on Rudy Vallee's Hour over an NBC network at:
EDT 8 p.m. — EST 7 p.m.
CDT 7 p.m. — CST 6 p.m.
MST 5 p.m. — PST 4 p.m.

THERE WAS A WOMAN

CLEOPATRA AND
JULIUS CAESAR
LIVE AGAIN! LISTEN
TO THEIR THRILL-
ING STORY OVER
NBC THIS SUNDAY

HISTORY repeats itself, variously but eternally. And of all the theme-stories that course through history's pages, few are more persistent, and none more fascinating, than one that will be illustrated on the "There Was a Woman" broadcast next Sunday afternoon over NBC: the always old, ever new tale of the clever woman who ruled a great man from behind the throne; specifically, the story of Cleopatra and Julius Caesar.

Perhaps more than any other one woman in the history of the world, Cleopatra stands for the quintessence of all that is feminine. Not a school-boy but will tell you that she was the most beautiful woman of the ancient world, and the cleverest, and the most ambitious, and the most powerful. Some of these things are fact, some of them, of course, are fable. Although her beauty has been legendary for centuries, it is most likely that Cleopatra was not really beautiful by present-day standards, nor even the most beautiful woman in Egypt by Egyptian standards. In that indefinable quality we call personality, however, there is no question of her supremacy. And it is true enough that few women have been so amazingly clever, so insatiably ambitious, or so vastly powerful.

SEVENTEEN years old when she was made Queen of Egypt in the year 42 B. C., she was infinitely more mature than most girls of her age, and had an almost instinctive understanding and appreciation of human motives. Strong-willed, imperious, full of a relentless ambition, Cleopatra was already a master politician. Typical of the intelligence with which she approached the throne and prepared herself for it was the fact that she spoke seven languages, was almost never dependent upon an interpreter who might be bribed to betray her.

This was the woman who met and conquered the greatest dictator of his time, perhaps the most powerful man the world will ever see. It is after the patterns laid down by Gaius Julius Caesar, years before the birth of Christ, that modern-day dictators plan and plot, without as yet approaching him in success or stature. In Rome today Mussolini has caused to be built great mosaic maps outlining the old Roman Empire of the Caesars, as an incentive to the Italian people to fight on to swell the present boundaries of Italy to fit those of Imperial Rome. And when Italian soldiers, a few months ago, fought at Lerida, in Spain, they were following, for good or ill, the Roman soldiers who defeated Pompey's forces there so many centuries ago when the town was called Ilerda, the greatest difference being, perhaps, the fact that Caesar himself led the old Romans into battle, on the ground and in person.

One of the most successful political leaders of all times, Caesar was also a military tactician of superb talent, a master of Latin prose, a great administrator—in fact, Caesar was almost a universal genius. And yet, for all of his intelligence and power, he was no match for the wiles of Cleopatra. Caesar, who had conquered half the world, was himself conquered in Egypt—by a woman!

From Caesar's time to this day the story runs on in the same old way. Behind nearly every great man there has been a great woman; and often, if a choice had been struck between the two, the woman must have been adjudged the true leader, and the man—king, dictator, emperor—only a follower, a false front, a sham of authority.

The list is long. To complete it would take pages. There was, for instance, Anne Etampes, who lived from 1508 to 1576, and was mistress to Francis I of France. Her influence over the France of her time was weightier than that of any man. There was Gabrielle d'Estrees, mistress of Henry IV of France, and until her death in 1599 (someone gave her a poisoned orange), a great power in court circles.

It was the same in all countries. Not the queen who sat beside him on the throne, but the woman who moved in the shadows behind it, Barbara, Duchess of Cleveland, was privileged to counsel Charles II of England when matters of state were pressing. Athenais, Madame de Montespan, was for fourteen years the greatest single force in the France of Louis XIV. She bore him eight children. Her successor, Madame de Maintenon, was, if anything, more powerful.

BUT it is not really necessary to go back into the centuries to find the glamorous women who have shaken thrones and toppled empires. The story of Wallis Simpson and King Edward VIII of England is familiar to everyone—and, although it would seem, superficially, that now that the Duke and Duchess of Windsor have left England an end has been written to it, history, in all likelihood, will not have it so. Not if we may rightly judge from the past! Not if the stories of the Caesars of the past have any meaning for us!

But what of the Caesars of the present—the dictators of today? Stalin, Mussolini, Hitler, Ataturk and the lesser lights who trail in their footsteps? They are remaking the map of the world. Is there feminine intuition and audacity behind their breath-taking strides across the globe? It is hard to tell, because it is characteristic of a man in a position of great power to retain for himself as much of honor and glory as he possibly can. Often, in the past, decades have elapsed before historians could be sure of the identity of someone who had greatly influenced a nation's leader.

Joseph Stalin and Benito Mussolini, although they claim to be at opposite political poles, have more than a few things in common, one of them the fact that, while both were married, very little has ever been heard of their wives. According to most authorities, their wives have played unimportant roles in both their careers, have definitely occupied places subordinate to other women. Stalin's mother, who was unknown to the world until she came to Moscow from a far Georgian province to visit him—she is dead now, but she had her triumph when she brought her famous son a jar of walnut marmalade and said of him, "Joseph was always a good boy"—had considerable influence in his life. Edda Mussolini, daughter of the dictator, is probably the only woman in the world who dares give Mussolini a flat disagreement and a strong argument. She is the wife of Foreign Minister Ciano. But of Mussolini's wife, little is ever heard.

Greatest feminine influence in Adolf Hitler's life, if one can believe the rumors which filter out of Germany superstrained through the web of censorship, is the glamorous film star, Leni Riefenstahl. Once briefly in disgrace—Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels denounced her as part Jewish—she seems once again to be Der Fuehrer's favorite, and there is even talk of marriage. It was Leni Riefenstahl who was appointed by Hitler to supervise the making of all pictorial records of the last Olympic games, and since then her power has grown. But time alone can tell whether the world-shaking decisions that come almost daily out of Germany are originating, as they seem to originate, with Der Fuehrer himself and his trusted circle of official advisors—or whether they are inspired by a glamorous woman.

The fascinating Leni Riefenstahl has not been the only woman in Hitler's UNRELATED in genealogy and music are the two Strausses, one Viennese, the other German. It is significant, though, that when Richard composed his opera "Der Rosenkavalier," he tried to write its waltzes in the manner of Johann.

Miss Schumann's agile and artful playing displays itself in Richard's only composition for piano and orchestra, a vivacious opus of flashing brilliancy.

Johann's enticing strains need no further championing after what Wagner wrote: "One of Strauss' waltzes as far surpasses in charm, finish and real musical worth hundreds of the artificial compositions of his contemporaries, as the tower of St. Stephen's (Vienna) surpasses the advertising pillars on the Paris boulevards."

Howard Barlow, conductor

Overture and Bacchanale: Scenes 1 and 2 from "Tannhaeuser" (Wagner)

TODAY, May 22, marks the 125th anniversary of Wagner's birth. In commemoration, Mr. Barlow offers the "Paris Version" of scenes from "Tannhaeuser." Although that work had been premiered sixteen years before its Paris performance in 1861, Wagner altered the opening scenes considerably for the latter occasion. The beginning of the opera is the episode in which Venus and Tannhaeuser have their lengthy argument regarding chastity and sensuality. The newer pages reveal infinitely greater imagination and technical resource than the earlier essay. The amplified Venusberg scenes are rarely staged.

"... An ampler Ether, a diviner Air..."—Wordsworth

POLITICAL unrest in Central Europe has scattered some of its best conductors throughout the musical world, from Los Angeles to Palestine. In the former city, Otto Klemperer leads the local orchestra; in the latter, Hans Steinberg, German, (once Klemperer's assistant at the Cologne Opera) is the head of the symphonic body there. Toscanini, not exactly a hero in Berlin, because of his trips to Palestine heard Steinberg conduct and engaged him to prepare rehearsals for the maestro's NBC broadcasts next season. Meanwhile, however, that radio organization gives the Palestinian conductor an individual opportunity to shine and will put on an extra concert for him on June 25, after the regular series is finished.

To make the list of NBC batonists even more internationally picturesque, there is Dmitri Mitropoulos of Athens, Greece, who gained a fair reputation in various European countries but did not blaze his way into the American headlines until he led the Boston Symphony Orchestra in 1936-37 and last season became the regular chief of the Minneapolis Orchestra. Mitropoulos is being whispered about in Boston as the probable successor there to Koussevitzky as the head of the city's celebrated symphonic group. On May 28, the modern Greek hero will be the guest conductor of the NBC Orchestra for one concert.

The thought arises that only one American, Howard Hanson, has been invited to lead the NBC concerts. Why? With all due admiration for the foreigners, let it be said that we have several of our own countrymen to whom the interpretation of symphonic music is no secret. To name only five, there are Chalmers Clifton, Eric De Lamar, Werner Janssen, Howard Barlow and Jacques Gordon.

Wednesdays, at 5 p.m. EDT on CBS, an arresting series engages the attention, called "Keyboard Concerts," devoted to an exposition of numbers for the piano, clavichord and harpsichord. The first of the recitalists was George Copeland. Following him, E. Robert Schmitz, French pianist, is featured this week.

Sufficient tone-waves to impress even a musical Noah come over the air from Indianapolis on May 22 (5 p.m. EDT on CBS) when 125 pianos played by 225 performers in two groups will sound their lusty ensemble. The valiant virtuosi are sent from forty Indiana cities by 150 piano-teachers. The vast huddle takes place at Butler University Field House and Frank Wilking is the captaining conductor. One imagines 500 proud Indiana parents listening eagerly, but how in the world could they recognize the playing of their individual offspring?

Reginald Stewart, conductor-pianist

Rhapsody "Somerset" (Holst)
The Orchestra

Sonata in G Major (Mozart)
Reginald Stewart

Symphony No. 8 (Beethoven)
The Orchestra

LIKE many other modern conductors, Reginald Stewart steps down from the stand occasionally and seats himself at the piano as a soloist. Hans von Buelow, German master of the baton, set the fashion toward the end of the nineteenth century; later Rachmaninoff and Siloti carried out the idea in Russia; and in America we have experienced it from Ossip Gabrilowitsch, Bruno Walter, Jose Iturbi, Dmitri Mitropoulos and others.

Mr. Stewart chooses a Mozart sonata for his medium, and thereby proves his desire to register as a musician rather than an exhibitor of technique. However, it must not be supposed that Mozart is easy of execution. His extreme clarity of writing and the close relationship between his melodies and the adorning passage-work necessitate complete accuracy of fingers.

Sir Adrian Boult lets us hear an amiable piece of English music in Holst's "Somerset" Rhapsody, based on English folk-tunes. Dating from 1907, the score still sounds full-blooded and full of British jauntiness. Later in life, Holst composed with more philosophical reflection.

The NBC Symphony Orchestra

Dmitri Mitropoulos, conductor

Prelude and Final Air from "Dido and Aeneas" (Purcell)

Symphony No. 2 (Schumann)

Overture on Three Greek Themes (Glazounow)

Revolutionary Etude: Polonaise in A Major (Chopin-Lewitzski)

ALTHOUGH history has established that Greece was actively cultivating music as early as 675 B. C. (when contests in poetry and the tonal art took place at Sparta), that country has since developed surprisingly few composers and executants. One of the latter is the conductor of this program, but it appears that the closest he could come to programming a Grecian symphonic work for us was to use a synthetic example by a Russian, Glazounow, who selected as his themes three folk-tunes of the classical land and made them into an excellent composition. Glazounow also fashioned another overture with the same kind of material, so it must have appealed to him particularly.

Purcell's pure strains with their lean harmonization serve to intensify the rich tints and romantic ardor of Schumann's symphony, which at its 1846 premiere in Leipzig had no less a conductor than Mendelssohn. The energetic and sonorous first movement, the unbridled gaiety of the scherzo, the love-music of the slow section, and the triumphant finale give the listener a fine picture of Schumann's fancy in its most beautiful flights.

Chopin's piano music is not suitable for orchestration as a rule, but the numbers on the present program have at least been handled cleverly.

The Ford Hour presents youthful Patricia Travers, violinist, and Julius Katchen, pianist, in a program over CBS this Sunday evening

Two Child Prodigies Scheduled to Appear On Next Ford Sunday Evening Hour

Sunday, May 22, at 9 p.m. EDT, on CBS

WHEN a tiny child pianist was presented not long ago to Moritz Rosenthal, the veteran keyboard virtuoso, he asked, "How old are you still, little one?"

For the benefit of those not familiar with the business of exploiting exceptionally talented youngsters, it might be explained that Rosenthal's wicked jest was aimed at those parents who falsify the ages of such precocious performers in order to make them appear even more remarkable. The practise extends also to matters of clothes, with the girls rigged out in baby pinafores and the boys (mostly to their own disgust) crowned with mops of hair and attired in velvet shorts, Eton collars and rolled socks. I remember a satirical picture in Life showing a lad decked out as just described and a visitor asking the mother what she intended her boy to be. "An infant prodigy on the violin or piano," she answered. "But which is he studying?" was the natural further question. "Oh, neither as yet," came the reply. "For the present we're just letting his hair grow."

However, despite the deceptions of parents and managers, the fact remains that history records numerous marvelous and mystifying children whose musical gifts have astonished audiences and defied scientific explanation.

Of early ripe pianists, Franz Liszt was the most impressive. At the age of eleven, his teacher, Carl Czerny, took him to play for Beethoven, in Vienna, who embraced the pupil enthusiastically and predicted his future fame. In the past half-century, the piano prodigy who climbed the top-most height is Josef Hofmann. Infantile violin wonders have been especially abundant throughout the ages, but an extra large crop has flourished since 1900, with Heifetz, Elman and Menuhin as the leading examples, and a number of others close behind. Russia sent us most of them—so many, in fact, that an immigration inspector, seeing a Russian youngster landing empty-handed with his parents at New York last season, asked him, "Where's your violin?"

The latest discovery, Patricia Travers, never was nearer Russia than Clifton, N. J., her birthplace nine years ago, where at the age of four she began to play the violin, encouraged by her parents, neither of them a professional musician. In addition to her musical proficiency, Patricia is also a brilliant student at Kimberley School. When the girl makes her public debut on Sunday, May 22 (Ford Sunday Evening Hour, 9 p.m. EDT on CBS), she will have among her listeners numerous fellow pupils from the Juilliard School of Music, where she studies with Hans Letz.

The same Ford concert offers also another New Jersey marvel, the eleven-year-old Julius Katchen, born in West End, who burst into prominence as a pianist when he played last season with the Philadelphia and Philharmonic Orchestras. The former was rehearsing under Eugene Ormandy when chubby, tousle-haired young Katchen walked into the hall carrying a pile of music, strode up to the conductor, and said: "I'd like to play for you. I have brought along the orchestra parts of Mozart's D Minor Concerto." Taken aback by the boy's straightforwardness, Ormandy assented, and the result was his engagement of Julius. The Travers and Katchen cases seem to indicate that we shall no longer have to rob European cradles in order to be astonished by child performers on our concert platforms.

Many keen minds have busied themselves trying to discover whence comes the strange endowment of a child phenomenon, and what brings it to premature flowering, but the problem remains unsolved. The theory of heredity does not apply, for musical talent is seldom transmitted. The idea that reincarnation of genius furnishes the solution is at least poetical but still lacks practical proof.

If the fabulous youngsters were merely imitators of their teachers or of public performers, no further speculation would need to be indulged in, but what is one to say when a Josef Hofmann, at the age of seven or eight, improvised long fugues in the Bach style on any theme given him by his auditors; and when Yehudi Menuhin, at the age of eight, played the violin concertos by Beethoven, Brahms and Tchaikowsky and exhibited not only flawless execution but also ripe musical understanding and mature warmth of feeling?

MUSIC BY MUTUAL: Harold Stokes has "Your Sunday Date"

Most sustaining, or non-commercial, radio programs are built as cheaply as possible by networks, but "Your Sunday Date" on MBS is an elaborate affair headed by Jess Kirkpatrick (left), master of ceremonies, and Harold Stokes (right), conductor. Dave Marcus does specialty acts Charley Wilson, originator of "tangle-talk," has been an entertainer for thirty years—but rehearses a hundred times his spot as one of the regular comedians!

Besides Charley Wilson's confused news-reporting, a regular comedy spot on the show is "an interview with someone you don't want to meet." Above: Kathleen Bretzlaff (housewife) taunts Frank Dane (magazine salesman)

MORE than any other network, the Mutual Broadcasting System is conscious of the popularity of music that can be appreciated by everyone. Many feel that the network has grown simply because its member stations acquired huge audiences by sharing their music.

Much of MBS' music is created under the baton of Harold Stokes, orchestra leader at Mutual's Chicago outlet, WGN. Intrigued by listeners' interest in Stokes' programs, Radio Guide dispatched Gene Lester, its "singing cameraman," to cover "Your Sunday Date." On May 8 he shot these candid pictures of the cast, also sang "With a Smile and a Song."

Frank Bane talks on Social Security over CBS—Thursday

Executive Explains Social Security Law

Thursday, 7:45-8 p.m., CBS

Mark Twain is credited with the oft-quoted remark that everybody talks about the weather but nobody does anything about it.

Mark Twain, if he were living today, might very well observe that everybody talks about social security but nobody really knows much about it.

U. S. taxpayers will pay out more than $600,000,000 in social security levies this year, yet not one out of ten persons from whose pay-checks the tax deductions are made knows how the program works.

This week, however, there'll be an opportunity to find out about it when Frank Bane, executive director of the Social Security Board, takes to the air to speak on "Social Security—Everybody's Business."

Bane will clarify the picture for the average man. His is one of a series of talks by officials of the Social Security Board, presented in interview form from Washington, with Commentator Ruth Brine asking the questions.

An earlier address by Arthur J. Alt-meyer, chairman of the board, dealt with "Old-Age Insurance for 38,000,000 People." On June 2, George E. Bigge, a member of the board, will talk on "Federal-State Partnership in Unemployment Insurance," and on June 9, Mary W. Dewson, also a member of the board, will talk on "A New Way of Meeting an Old Responsibility—Help Those in Need."

Automotive Worker Hero of Radio Drama

Thursday, 10:30-11 p.m., CBS

Rightly or wrongly, the automotive industry has come to be accepted as a barometer of American business, and when word of changing conditions among the motorcar-makers comes out of Detroit the stock market bobs up and down and Wall Street echoes with alarums and excursions.

A picture of the vast industry and of the lives of the 500,000 workers it employs will be broadcast on Thursday of this week as part of the CBS Adult Education Board's series on "Americans at Work." It will include an interview with an assembly-line worker in a large automobile plant and a dramatization of his daily job.

Other broadcasts in this series, devoted to the lives of workingmen and women, have dealt with railroad engineers, beauty specialists and department-store executives. Still on the calendar are programs built around the work of artists, typesetters, bricklayers, food-dealers, toolmakers, milkmen, steelworkers and waiters.

Dr. J. B. Conant takes the stand against propaganda—Fri.

Harvard President Hits at Propaganda

Friday, 10:45-11 p.m., CBS

Whether he names persons and places or confines himself to generalities, Dr. James Bryant Conant, brilliant young president of Harvard University, when he steps before a microphone this Friday to talk on "Defenses Against Propaganda," will be treading on the toes of statesmen and diplomats all the way from Shanghai to London.

Propaganda is supposed to wither in the light of facts, but although we are fond of referring to our own times as enlightened, the truth is that we are more heavily beset by propagandists than at any other time in our history.

The very instruments which have contributed to our enlightenment—the newspaper and the radio—have in many instances been converted to the uses of propaganda. In Europe, government-owned radio stations and semi-official newspapers dominate the political scene in many nations. Information on national and international affairs is carefully edited before it is released for popular consumption.

The development and spread of subtle techniques of propaganda have been rapid. Radio, newspapers, schools, the movies—none are immune. Dr. Conant's address should be of enormous value to everyone who wants to maintain his mental integrity.

NBC Play Tells Story Of Russian Conspiracy

Sunday, 1:30-2 p.m., NBC

The historical mishaps that have upset great plans and turned them into empty dreams are the subject-matter of NBC's dramatic series, "Empires of the Moon." The title is a phrase often used to describe air-castles.

Recent dramas have dealt with incidents out of early Italian history, and out of Roman and Egyptian antiquity. This Sunday, the play will revolve around a conspiracy against Catherine the Great, of Russia, and the incident that ruined the plans of the conspirators, converting them into just another "Empire of the Moon."

Catherine the Great, born in 1729, was of German descent, and therefore an alien, but through her marriage to a Russian archduke and by dint of some skilful plotting she ruled the Russian empire from 1762 to 1796—and ruled it with an iron hand. She never shilly-shallied. She used to boast that she was as "frank and original as any Englishman," but she was marvelously talented at intrigue and more than a match for statesmen of her time, and for the troops of admirers whom she kept at beck and call.

Genial Bing Crosby and Ellen Drew celebrated Bing's 34th birthday on May 2 with cake. The celebration took place during lunch while working on Paramount's "Sing You Sinners," soon to be released no room adjoining the stage that might be used for social amities—and Miss Parsons and her screen-star guests just must have their tea and cakes before going on the air . . . Harry Owens' Royal Hawaiian orchestra is best bet for the Lady Esther series this summer when Wayne King expects to vacation.

The Stork Truth: Proud parents of a seven-pound, twelve-ounce daughter, born May 8, are the Walter Donaldsons. He's the song-writer . . . Any day now the big bird is expected to land on the chimney of Lou Bring, the ork leader, and his vocalizing wife, Frances Hunt.

Rom-Antics: Frank Parker took Jerry Cooper's spot on Hollywood Hotel—and the other night at the House of Murphy, Frank was in the company of beautiful Joan Mitchell, whom Cooper formerly squired about! . . . The wedding bells will ring sometime in July for Claire Trevor and Clark Andrews, "Big Town" producer. A Hawaiian honeymoon is planned . . . Now Martha Raye's stepping out again with her arranger, Dave Rose . . . Ken Murray, the alleged bearer of an Andrea Leeds torch, is consoling himself with Rochelle Hudson . . . Every week Frances Langford goes to the microphone bedecked with a fresh corsage of gardenias—and every week Jon Hall sends 'em . . . Gary (Bing's son) Crosby, four, and Susan Ann Gilbert (daughter of John and Virginia Bruce) are becoming seriously involved.

Hollywood scene: Lion-hunter Mrs. Martin Johnson, just before her Jolson show appearance, dashing out of the studio to a drug store to quiet her nerves with a glass of—milk!

Dad Pickard and his lovable family may hit the airlines quite soon with something brand new in shows. Heard last week by NBC and Paramount (through the plump urging of Grand Guy Norris (Abner) Goff), the biggies were enthusiastic about the show. Its author is none less than Carleton Morse, writer of "One Man's Family" . . . That family, by the way, has finally given voice to Jack's girl friend, Betty Carter, frequently referred to but never heard. Engaged to play the role was 21-year-old Jean Rouverol, veteran of stage and screen and daughter of a playwright.

Nicest thing I've heard spoken in Hollywood came from the mouth of Jan Garber, who said: "I'll bet you Kay Kyser and his Musical Klass and Dance will be the biggest program on the air in time. You watch." Jan, it seems, has not yet purchased his Hollywood dagger.

The film capital, unlike Kentucky and its colonels, is going in for mayors. Jolson heads Encino. Hugh Herbert rates the title at Studio City. Last week the pair helped induct Andy Devine as mayor of Van Nuys. But Devine isn't so sure he likes his new job. First day at work he had to attend a barbecue at Tarzana and in addition was initiated into the Van Nuys Elks Lodge. Andy would prefer to lead a bovine rather than a mayor's life.

Two new mustaches have broken out at the NBC Hollywood studios. One is on George Burns. Gracie Allen ordered it grown after she had seen her hubby wearing a false mustache at a costume party. The second adorns the upper lip of Don Ameche who had to cultivate it for a motion-picture role.

Tag Lines: California's Governor Merriam has appointed Edgar Bergen to the Swedish-American Tercentenary Commission, and already McCarthy is angling for the treasurer's job. Bergen and McCarthy, by the way, plan a two-week vacation in July . . . John Nesbitt's "Passing Parade" will take the place of Phil Baker's troupe July 3 for Gulf oil . . . May 24 will find Al Jolson airlining it to New York to spend his birthday, May 26, there, and same night see Henry Armstrong, in whom Al owns a piece, fight Barney Ross . . . Nelson Eddy is back in town for motion-picture work . . . Ex-Tennis Champ Robert Murray is the house

SOMETIMES Hollywood takes "publicity license" in staging its ambitious screen and radio promotion stunts. Most recent example was the "Cocoanut Grove" (Paramount) picture premiere, excellently staged and aired from the Cocoanut Grove, where, according to the menu-program, "back in 1923, the National Broadcasting Company . . . ran a line . . . for the first remote-control broadcast in West Coast history." There's no one less popular than a flaw-picker, but anyway Paramount should be told that NBC hadn't been heard of in 1923; was organized in 1926. Also, your reporter doubts if that was the first remote pick-up on the Pacific Coast . . . Going back six months, you'll recall that Cantor (just when his film "Ali Baba Goes to Town" was ready for release) was discovered to have been exactly 25 years in show business. So a huge silver jubilee dinner was staged. Oh well, what did it matter if Cantor's service amounted to 23 or 27 years instead of the celebrated 25? Aren't people gullible? . . . and aren't we, though?

Three stout men—Shorty Carson, Jack Ross and Curly Bradley, alias the Ranch Boys—and six stouter horses departed from the Cinema City last week (May 10), headed for Chicago via San Francisco. When, in three months' time, they arrive at the Windy City, they will first rub liniment on their saddle bruises and then yell "Yippee" into the National Barn Dance mike. The cross-country horseback ride promises to be thrilling and, during the last month, rather tiresome. However, you are going to hear all about the enterprise each Saturday right on the Barn Dance airing.

When William Powell and ex-wife Carole Lombard are cast together in a Lux Radio Theater airing, that's news, first because both are stars of first magnitude, and second, on account of the matrimonial history. The Powell-Lombard relationship is strictly friendly, but Carole loves her "rib." Bill could be no exception. Coming to rehearsal, he found the stage door locked. He pounded. No one answered. Finally a mailman came, unlocked the door with a key and admitted Powell, still unsuspecting. Onto the stage he went; found the rest of the cast rehearsing. Telling Carole of his dilemma, she laughed and remarked, "Lucky the postman carries keys, isn't it?" Then Bill looked puzzled, broke out with a sheepish grin. He knew he had been the victim of another Lombard gag.

Speaking of Lux, did you hear "Prisoner of Shark Island"? That was one of the Theater's best adaptations to date—and plums to Maurie Wood, who wrote the radio version.

Live Mikings: That puzzling line of Clark Gable's on the May 5 "Good News" airing was "Don't play ball with them grafters." Maybe you, like hundreds of others, had dirt in your ears . . . Tenor Charles Kullmann is busy in Hollywood doing the singing-voice doubling for Fernand Gravet's next picture . . . Possible welcome newcomer to fall radio will be Pat O'Brien . . . Jimmie Fidler's sponsor has extended the gossip's contract to December 31, 1940, with pay increases along the route . . . Ex-Radio Yodeling Cowboy Gene Autry is expected to return to the screen for Republic Pictures in short order, the company and Autry having smoked the pipe of peace . . . Not for Louella Parsons is the new Columbia Square radio theater. The Hollywood Hotel preview impresario is upset because there is

HOLLYWOOD SHOWDOWN

BY EVANS PLUMMER

Joe Penner and wife stopped off in Chicago between trains recently to see the sights. Joe—whose Sunday show was aired from New York for two weeks—returned to Hollywood for his broadcast last week

AL PEARCE asked for, and obtained, his release from Ford and winds up this series on June 28. Pearce has a new contract in his pocket from the same sponsor who now pays Burns and Allen their salary. He goes to work for them October 3. Lucky Strike was one of three sponsors bidding for Pearce's services and rumor had it that he was to go on for this ciggie outfit . . . When Fred Allen leaves on his vacation, a half-hour of his time will be taken over by the "For Men Only" show now heard over NBC on Monday nights. No show has been selected as yet for the remaining half-hour . . . Movie Commentator Harriet Parsons may be dropped and her NBC network spot taken over by Colonel Stoopnagle, who now is heard on Sundays for the same sponsor over an eastern network . . . Tommy Riggs' contract expires the last week in June and no decision has been made as to whether or not he and "Betty Lou" will continue on the Vallee show. It's unlikely that they will if another comic or comics can be found to replace them . . . Jack Haley returns to the air in September, and this time he will be heard over CBS instead of NBC. I, for one, hope Haley brings back the dialectician he had on his show last season. He was exceptionally amusing.

"Orphan Annie" folds for the summer on June 24 . . . Commentator Dorothy Thompson will say good-bye to her listeners on May 30, and starts on a three-month vacation . . . Margaret Speaks of the "Voice of Firestone" is already enjoying a European vacation. She sailed on the liner Queen Mary April 27 . . . Andre Kostelanetz will leave his airshow on June 22, and departs immediately for a tour of South America. He will return to these shores in September . . . In case you didn't know, Boake Carter is on the air three times a night—at 6:30 for listeners in the East; at 7:15 for the Midwest; and at 8:45 for the Pacific Coast. Times given are EDT . . . The Vass Family deserted New York for the Windy City and will be heard Saturday nights on the National Barn Dance. They will also visit Don McNeill's "Breakfast Club" on Mondays, and on Friday they will be heard on the "Club Matinee." Thursday mornings they have a show of their own.

There is a possibility of Morton Downey taking over Walter Winchell's spot while the popular newscaster vacations . . . His friendly enemy, Ben Bernie, has started the policy of presenting a different guest star on his show each week. Prof. Quiz is Bernie's visitor next Wednesday . . . "Your Pet Program" exits on June 25, and returns early in October . . . The serials "Margot of Castlewood" and "Cabin at the Crossroads" said au revoir on May 20 . . . "Girl Interne," heard five times weekly, switches from NBC to CBS starting May 30 . . . Seventeen hundred people attended the Town Hall celebrities luncheon at the Astor Hotel in New York City to mark the culmination of the most successful season Town Hall has had, with much of the credit attributed to George V. Denny, Jr., its founder and president. America's Town Meeting of the Air returns to the kilocycles the first Thursday in November . . . Eighteen honor students of Morgan Park Military Academy, who are being flown East, made a special request to attend a Benny Goodman broadcast. Request granted . . . The announcers and artists at CBS are spending a great deal of their time playing a new game called "Kentucky Derby."

The CBS Songshop was slated to fade a couple Friday nights ago, but the sponsor had a last-minute change of heart and the show continued indefinitely, making the cast very happy . . . Despite the fact that Jack Fulton was being tempted with an offer from a Hollywood movie studio, he will remain on the "Just Entertainment" program with the Andrews Sisters. The program has just been renewed for thirteen weeks, spiking rumors that it was to fade from the air . . . "First Nighter" will not go off the air during the summer months. Les Tremayne and Barbara Luddy have signed new contracts to co-star on this show for the next 52 weeks . . . From rumor-row drifted the story that the George Olsen and Horace Heidt shows would depart at the expiration of their current contracts.

Kay Kyser agrees it's fun to conduct his "Musical Klass and Dance" show heard over NBC Wednesday nights, especially when he has such interested pupils as the two above from N. Y.'s Paradise Restaurant

AIRIALTO LOWDOWN

BY MARTIN LEWIS

Benay Venuta and her husband, Dr. Kelley, took in some of New York's night spots recently, are shown above at the Versailles. Benay is heard in her own show Sundays at 4 p.m. EDT over Mutual Edward Roecker, who does a splendid job of singing on the "Pick and Pat" show, is introduced as the "Model Smoker," but has never smoked a cigarette, cigar, or pipe in his life . . . Irene Wicker wears a beautiful charm bracelet but has to take it off before going on the air because, as her accompanist, Milton Rettenberg, puts it, "It would sound like jingle bells everytime the 'Singing Lady' moved her arms, as she often does during a broadcast" . . . The CBS censors couldn't have been around when Bob Hope and Shirley Ross sang "Thanks for the Memory" on the CBS dedicatory program. Some of the lines were veddy risque.

In case you've missed the University of Chicago Round Table series, it has been switched to a Sunday evening spot . . . Tommy Dorsey takes his swingers to the Coast and will broadcast from that point starting June 29 . . . Before returning to the West, Rush Hughes will make stops and broadcast from Toronto, Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Des Moines, Kansas City, Omaha, and Denver. I sound like a train dispatcher . . . The Hoosier Hot Shots will travel in the opposite direction this summer. They've been signed to play an engagement in London, the contract being offered on the strength of their Brunswick recordings, which are very popular across the pond . . . Jean Sablon, NBC's French importation, is in Hollywood making a screen test . . . Working in front of the klieg lights in the East making movie shorts are Jean Ellington, Benay Venuta, Hollace Shaw, Nan Wynn, and Betty Hutton singing with Vincent Lopez' orchestra.

Last Monday night, I listened to a commercial program without any advertising announcements. Impossible, you say. Well, it isn't. It's the Connie Boswell-Richard Himber program, and here's how it works. There are fifteen different sponsors of this program in as many different cities. On cue, the engineer in each city cuts down the volume while Himber's band is playing, and the local announcer reads the advertising. In New York the audience sitting in the studio watching the program doesn't hear it because the announcement is being made from the CBS studios on Madison Ave., while the program originates in the CBS Playhouse on 45th St., and goes on uninterrupted.

Ted Husing has the last laugh on all the sports wiseacres. For nine weeks before the race he predicted that Lawrin would win the Kentucky Derby and nobody paid any attention to him. To give you an idea of how wrong everybody thought he was, the script for the Monday night show following the Derby had these lines. Ted was supposed to say, "For his next number Richard Himber will play . . ." At this point Dick was supposed to interrupt with, "How do you know what number I'm going to play? You couldn't even pick the Derby winner." These lines were deleted, and, of course, you know the reason.

After the program, Betty Lawford, the blond woman in Ted's life, waits backstage for her boy friend to take her to dinner . . . Billy Gaxton, well known to Broadway theater-goers, is pleased with the compliments received for his work as guestar. Not only do I think he did a good job, but I firmly believe he'd be a very good bet for radio on a regular series . . . Martha Boswell, whom I haven't seen in years, is there with her husband. She sports an enviable natural suntan which she Short-wave programs of American stations are shown along with the regular listings beginning on page 25. These are indicated, for example, by (sw-11.87) in parentheses following a program listing. This means that on 11.87 megacycles the same program may also be heard over an American short-wave station. Please note that foreign stations do not always adhere precisely to their announced program schedules.

On Short Waves

Edited by Chas. A. Morrison

President, International DX'ers Alliance

Times indicated on this page are for Eastern Daylight Saving Time. For EST and CDT subtract 1 hour; for CST, 2 hours; for MST, 3 hours; for PST, 4 hours

SEVERAL new short-wave stations to be officially inaugurated within the near future will add considerable variety to the already numerous programs from Europe. Claude Jones of Portsmouth, England, writes that ZR03, one of the new Rome, Italy, transmitters, is conducting initial tests on 17.82, in conjunction with ZR04 on 11.81 megs. He is also hearing a new Finnish station on approximately 9.5 megs. The new 5,000-watt National Short-Wave Station for Norway, which will replace the present low-power transmitter at Jeloy, near Oslo, will soon be broadcasting on any one of the following frequencies: 6.13, 9.53, 11.735, 15.17 and 17.755 megs. The highly publicized new 20,000-watt station nearing completion near Ankara, Turkey, to be officially inaugurated on July 22, will transmit on either 9.465 or 15.195 megs. According to reports, the new 10,000-watt short-wave transmitter under construction at Belgrade, Yugoslavia, will be completed before fall.

Raymond Messer of South Portland, Me., writes that he intercepted an announcement over ZR03 (9.635) of Rome, Italy, to the effect that on May 9, a new short-wave station at Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, took the air on a frequency of 9.6 megs.

A new Latin broadcaster, TIGX, located at San Jose, in Costa Rica, operating on a frequency of 11.92 megs, was first heard on April 23, at 9 p.m. EDT.

Arturo Toscanini will conduct the second and third concerts of the BBC Symphony Orchestra in the current London Music Festival at Queen's Hall, on Monday, May 23, at 3:15 p.m. and on Friday, May 27, at 3:15 p.m. EDT.

SHORT-WAVE SHORTS: Albania may now be added to short-wave logs. Listen for Amateur Station ZA1CC (14.3) near 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. EDT. The short-wave station broadcasting irregularly near 10.03 megs, reported by many listeners as the mysterious anti-Stalin Soviet station, is, according to Eugene Rein-hard, of Locust, N. J., the unauthorized anti-Nazi transmitter "Der Deutsche Freiheits Sender" . . . The first ultra-high-frequency non-commercial broadcast station to be licensed under the Federal Communications Commission's new ruling, owned by the Cleveland City Board of Education of Cleveland, O., has been assigned the call, WBOE. . . Guy Bigbee of Fort Benning, Ga., informs me that the call of the Vilarica, Paraguay, station on 6.15 megs has been changed from ZP15 to ZP14. . . Although supposedly operating on a new frequency of 8.735 megs, LZA, Sofia, Bulgaria, is still being heard on approximately 14.96 megs from 2 to 2:45 a.m. EDT by L. B. Brewer of Phoenix, Ariz. . . W8XWJ (41), the ultra-high-frequency station in Detroit, Mich., is being heard with fair consistency in Germany. . . Jacques Jacquemard of Algiers writes that CSW of Lisbon, Portugal, has been testing near 8 a.m. EDT on a frequency of 11.82 megs and Radio Tananarive, Tananarive, Madagascar, is being heard on a frequency of 10.95 megs Sundays to 5:30 a.m. EDT, when the station signs off with the "Marseillaise" . . . VP2LO (6.384) of St. Kitts, British West Indies, is testing a new transmitter with aerial directional to the United States, on Saturdays from about 11:45 p.m. to Sundays at 12:45 a.m. EDT, according to John DeMyer of Lansing, Mich. . . To his other aids for identifying Station TI4NRH (9.7), in Heredia, Costa Rica, Senor Amando Cespedes Marin has added a cuckoo call and a clock, whose chimes may be heard striking the hour. . . Andrew Young, the present operator of VR6AY (14.346) on Pitcairn Island, is keeping a nightly schedule with Amateur W2IXY in New York City, at 2 a.m. EDT.

Sir Henry J. Wood will conduct fourteen South Wales choirs, including more than 1,000 voices, together with four solo artists and the Welsh Symphony Orchestra, in the broadcast of the famous Three Valleys Festival from the Pavilion, Mountain Ash, South Wales, on Saturday, May 28, at 4:10 p.m. EDT.

guest of his Sunday broadcasting brother, Feg . . . Jean Rogers, of "Those We Love" cast, has won a 20th-Century Fox contract and an assignment in "Meridian 7-1212" for her first picture . . . Jack Benny, at work making "Artists and Models Abroad" for Paramount, has Joan Bennett as his leading lady. Harry Carey and the Yacht Club Boys are also in the cast . . . Joan, incidentally, was robbed of $30,000 worth of jewelry when she attended the Kentucky Derby.

Editorially speaking, those stumbling and amateurish commercials provided on the Lux and Rinso shows by high-school girls were too bad. Besides, they cheated experienced plug readers of their livelihood . . . and if the "great minds" of the gag men would kindly quit traveling in the same channels, please, maybe we wouldn't be hearing, within three hours, three big Sunday shows (one from the West; two from the East) all building laughs (?) from "Hi-ho, Silver," the Lone Ranger line.

Scandal? Clarence Stroud, divorced only a month ago from Beth Dodge for the second time, phoned her for a date May 1 after his broadcast, and later was seen dining with her. The Stroud Twins, by the way, have been invited to act as masters of ceremonies at the International Twin Convention to be held in August in Chicago.

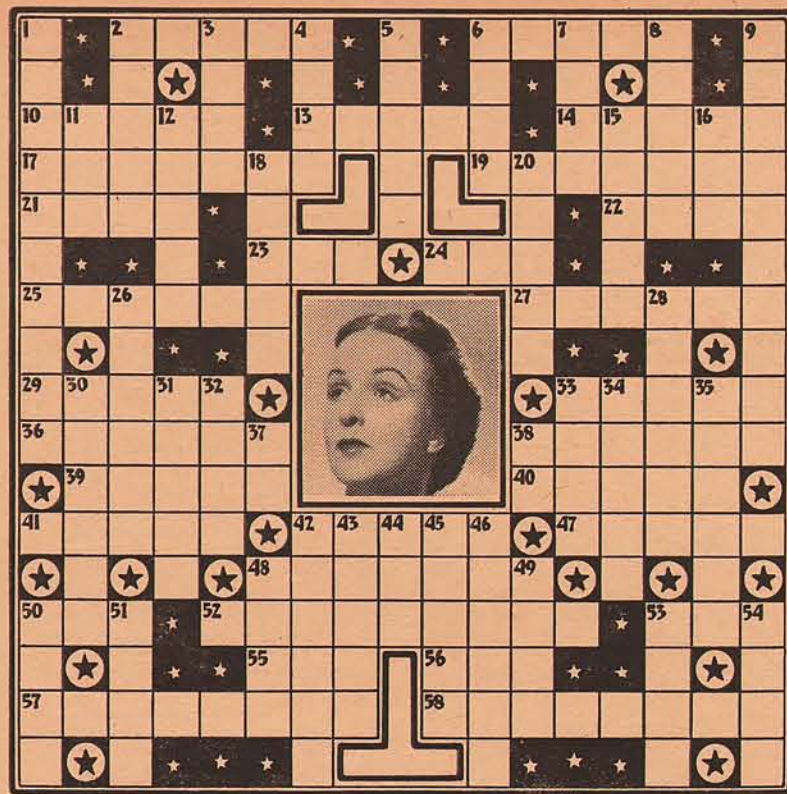

Irene Rich, the Angora rabbit wool rancher, has gone rural one more step by acquiring forty-five acres of land in San Fernando Valley on which to grow alfalfa for her bunnies. It isn't the original cost of a hobby, it's the upkeep.

Tag Lines: Barbara Stanwyck's announced appearance on the May 8 Chase and Sanborn hour was canceled because she fell from a horse while making a picture . . . Gale Page, former Chicago radiactress recently picked off by Warner Brothers, substitutes for Leota Lane in that lot's film originally titled "Sister Act," now tagged "Because of a Man," and featuring Lola, Rosemary and Priscilla Lane . . . Harry Owens' Hawaiian music was piped east last week for a prospective sponsor . . . Bill Morrow and Ed Beloin, Benny writers, are eyeing South American and South African travel folders . . . Otis (Snow White's "Happy" dwarf) Harlan is improving at Hollywood hospital from the stroke he suffered during a Jolson show rehearsal . . . Parkyakarkus was 34 years old May 6, so he gave himself a "surprise" party . . . Cecil B. DeMille is living aboard his yacht "Seaward" temporarily while gaining strength after his recent operation.

"The Paul Taylor Chorus." You hear that phrase frequently on Hollywood programs because Taylor is in the chorus business. You never hear the same Paul Taylor group on different programs, however. Ranging in size from four to fourteen voices, his groups sing on the Kraft, Talley, Woodbury and "Now and Then" airings, the Crosby and Langford Decca records, and the screen Loony Tunes.

Ada-Lines: The Norris Goffs (Abner of Lum and —) are preparing their stork-party cards for June 10 . . . A Hollywood tailor was pleased last week to sell two blue-serve suits with four pairs of pants to one (?) customer, the Stroud Twins . . . Eddie ("Rochester") Anderson, of the Benny cast, will take part in the filming of "You Can't Take It with You" . . . Mort Harris, of the "Good News" writing-staff, was killed Sunday, April 24, when the car he was driving crashed into another and over an embankment.

life, however, and there are those who hint that she has not by any means been the most important. Not long ago, a tall, blond young lady was stoned and chased from the fringes of an anti-Nazi meeting in London when members of the crowd recognized the telltale swastika pin on her bosom. She was one of the two Mitford sisters—named Unity and Verity. Spending much of their time in Germany, they are frequent guests at Hitler's retreat at Berchtesgaden. And no less an authority than Goering has proclaimed them perfect "Aryan" types.

Six months after Caesar brought Cleopatra to Rome, established her as his mistress, he was dead—assassinated, stabbed to death. Did Cleopatra cause his downfall? She was violently unpopular in Rome, and found it expedient to flee the city immediately after her protector's death. More than one man had come to his death because of her. Cleopatra poisoned her younger brother—at eleven he was her husband, too!—in order to follow Caesar to Rome. Mark Antony committed suicide when it became clear that his hopeless passion for Cleopatra had ruined him. And finally, Cleopatra herself, seeing that her world had come down about her ears, gave up the struggle. Tradition says that she killed herself by inviting the bite of an asp, but at any rate it is known that she died by her own hand at the age of 39, 29th of August, 30 B. C., thus ending one of the most glamorous love stories the world has known.

"Cleopatra and Julius Caesar" may be heard Sunday over NBC:

got from working on her farm. Connie looks lovelier than ever in a smart outfit which shows off her lovely blond hair . . . In his hurry to keep an appointment, Dick Himber forgets to change one shoe and one sock in discarding his tuxedo for street clothes. Dick starts to leave his dressing-room when your reporter calls it to his attention. Everyone has a good laugh and Himber's face turns crimson.

I was among those present in the studio the other Monday night when Eddie Cantor returned to his program after being absent for one week because of illness. During the show, the Mad Russian deviated from the script for a few seconds and started to ad-lib. In the meantime, he kept shuffling the pages of his script and by the time he was ready to read his lines again, he couldn't find his place; and if I don't miss my guess, Cantor wasn't very happy about the whole thing. Before the program went on, Eddie came out on the stage to greet the audience. Despite his recent illness, he looked very healthy, hale and hearty. His first words were, "They're not going to kill me right in the middle of a contract." Continuing his prebroadcast speech, he asked the audience to laugh and by all means to remember they got in for nothing. Hattie Noel, the sweepstakes winner, was all dressed up in a wedding-gown and veil, ready for her marriage to Spongee, who failed to show up for the ceremony.

For the first time in twelve years, the Kay Kyser band played for two days without their popular leader. They were playing at the Paramount Theater in New York and Kay had been working for several days despite the fact that he was running a temperature of 102 and 103. It finally caught up with him and he collapsed backstage immediately after one of the shows. He was taken to his hotel and a registered nurse watched over him. Like a good trouper, he got out of bed Wednesday night for his Lucky Strike show and the listeners were none the wiser. The previous night Kay was supposed to appear on the Hal Kemp show as the surprise guest, but at the last minute a substitution had to be made. Ed Cashman, producer of the program, went over to see Buddy Rogers, who was playing at the Loew's State Theater one block away from the studio, and after consulting the theater manager, they rearranged Buddy's stage schedule to permit Rogers to appear on the Kemp show. It was a swell gesture.

Announcer Fred Utall was missing from Kyser's Musical Klass and Dance program the other Wednesday night, which prompted your reporter to make inquiry. Mr. Utall will be absent from the show permanently and the reason for it should be a lesson to all announcers. As explained to me by one of the program's execs, Utall missed his cue two weeks in a row, losing his place in the script both times, which is unpardonable in this serious business of radio. One Wednesday night, when I was in the studio, Fred was shaking hands with someone in the audience when he should have been up in front of the microphone ready to read his lines. I hope that Fred Utall will profit by this experience and that it will serve as a lesson to his colleagues who become lax at times.

Rehearsals of radio programs are fun to watch because a great many things take place which don't come over the loudspeaker when you hear the program. For instance, at the finish of his first musical number, Paul Whiteman clasped his hands behind his head and did an ungraceful "bump," if you know what I mean.

Thumbs Up for Swing!

JIMMY DORSEY SAYS SWING IS HERE TO STAY—TELLS WHY!

BY JIMMY DORSEY

IN RECENT weeks there has been quite a bit of banter about the imminent demise of swing. "A fad," they say, "going the way of all fads." And so "they" scoff at swing; others scoff at "them."

No one can deny the tremendous influence exerted by radio in making swing universally popular. Its spread has been like wildfire. At the very beginning there was a lot of counterfeiting that was as much related to a "cat"—or swingster—as is a harp solo of the Elegy. Too much of it was loud, too much distinctly unmusical. Swing is the basis of all rhythm and as such can be presented in almost any manner and still retain its basic quality. But swing, as effective dance music, depends upon precision of harmony and split-second timing.

Naturally, the first great surge of swing has subsided. Anything as abnormally popular and widely played as was this type of music must settle, in time, to a normal level. Many orchestras that were not equipped for its effective presentation have abandoned the style entirely. We may hear less of it today, but what we do hear is genuine music in place of a barely recognizable imitation. And the fact that less swing is heard today than two or three months ago does not mean that it is on its way out. There is a definite and permanent niche for it in the preferences of America's dance fans.

SWING'S most devoted followers are, admittedly, youngsters. Young men and women between the ages of 16 and 24 prefer, above all others, this type of rhythm. They make up the greater portion of our dance-conscious population. Fast dance vogues, especially suited to swing music, are the favorites of this group. Other dance devotees over this age, though unable to subsist on a steady diet of swing, do relish it as a balance to their musical tastes. The provocative lilt of swing is manna to all ears.

It is noteworthy that the dance trends of the past seven or eight years have been fast and "umphy." Popular music, essentially music for dancing rather than for listening, has been obliged to cater to the dictates of this trend. Swing, in its present form, is the logical successor to old-fashioned jazz, on occasion flavored with a few "hot licks" by competent improvisors. It stimulates a natural response to itself, urging its listeners to get up and dance.

To use a bit of current Americana, "the stuff really sends you." You hear any number of people who say they don't know how to dance, but feel—when they hear swing—that they could get on the floor and "do a darn good job of tripping the light fantastic." The incomparable Fats Waller sums it up in fifteen words: "If you gotta have someone explain it to you, just don't mess around with it." And there are not many who want explanations when the boys really start "giving out!"

It is difficult, if not impossible, to analyze just what makes music pleasing to us. The same is true of dancing. Swing, more than any other type of rhythm, makes its listeners tap a foot or a finger, or swing a shoulder. Its rhythm is as old as worship; like religion, inherently a part of man from 'way back.

Strangely enough, almost every section of the country claims credit for its creation. As for a list of musicians who claim it as their own, the space allotted me prohibits their inclusion here. Thanks to radio, its popularity rose to the heights in all parts of the country simultaneously; but if anyone should ask you, you can take my word for it that "Mr. Swing," as he is known today, was born—not entirely by intent—on "Swing Lane," New York's own Fifty-second Street.

In the "peep-hole" days of the prohibition era, it was the old Onyx Club where musicians (and an occasional outsider) used to hang out. The "cats" flocked there like the intelligentsia once did the "Village." Many of them, wanting nothing more than refuge in a place where they could "give out" and be understood, are leaders of the top-notch bands in the country today. All were complete masters of the instruments of their choice; and they formed organizations so that they could play the music of their choice.

The sounds created in the Onyx were pandemonium to any outsider. One of the boys would start a tune, set his tempo, and then one and another of the musicians congregating there would join in, each lending his own interpretation, each getting his chance at a favorite "lick." From there they went to "sell" swing to a waiting world, and it didn't take much selling. Swing is what it is because it's musicians' music, played for their own entertainment.

TO SAY that swing is dying is to infer that dancing is also getting ready to give up the ghost. Actually it holds a more solid position today than when it first amazed the dancing public with its unprecedented rise to national favor. Swing has gained a permanent position in the American dance scene along with the perennially popular waltz, tango, slow fox-trot and rhumba rhythms, while its appeal is much stronger than any of these. It is Young America that sets the country's dance vogues, and as far as they are concerned, it's definitely "thumbs up" for swing!

Needless to say, Jimmy specializes in hot music. All members of his orchestra are versatile musicians, so Jimmy can obtain any combinations at any time. He plays while he directs, using little nods and bows of his head instead of a baton. He never displays temperament, and although working day and night insists it's all fun.

Why English Listeners Leave Home

Old Johnny Bull has just suffered a shock to his nervous system. First, a Yankee horse named Battleship ran off with his biggest race this spring. Now he has been told that his radio programs aren't as popular as the American type.

If you were an Englishman, until recently your radio day would have been filled with gardening talks, sopranos and military bands. Good, solid stuff that informed and educated. You knew it was good for you because the government said so. If you wished to adventure a bit, you might tune to Radio Luxembourg or Radio Athlone, two powerful stations which broadcast commercial programs from outside England but whose waves could be heard from Plymouth to Edinburgh. Here were swing bands and hillbillies and comedians, and men who talked of toothpaste and cold-creams. More often than not, here was fun and something to get the mind off the income tax and Hitler's war talk. In short, here were American-system programs.

If you were an Englishman, you would have voted recently for your favorite radio station. The result of that poll is what gives John Bull the jitters, for English people selected Radio Luxembourg as their favorite. Their second choice was Radio Athlone. The best an English station could do was third.

So the American system wins again. It should be a lesson to those die-hard radio reformers who wish to put all our wavelengths and programs under direct government control. It should likewise be a lesson to all listeners who think they might prefer unsponsored, government-financed programs.

If, even in the ears of English listeners, our system is better, we should be proud of it. We should defend it.

Church Bows to McCarthy

"If we go to church we can't listen to Charlie McCarthy" is the excuse given by a surprising number of young people these days. Up at America Wins Again!

Herb Lake, Canada, a minister tired of hearing it. He invited his audience to stay home until they had heard Charlie, then come to services. It worked. Now his flock listens until after Charlie's last "spot" on the coffee show and then repairs dutifully to worship.

Fibber's Crack

President Roosevelt is reported to have stated his favorite joke of the year is the one tossed off recently on the Fibber McGee program. Against a background of "My friends . . ." chatter, a woman listener said, "Oh, Frank, get another station." The response that cheered Roosevelt was, "Myrtle, when you hear 'my friends' on the air you can't get any other station."

Thanks, Walter!

We are indebted to Walter Winchell for one of broadcasting's lesser triumphs. The Pulitzer prize committee had decided to make the awards on a certain evening, and the networks were going to broadcast the entire proceedings, putting each winner on the air. The show is history now—perhaps you heard it—but it took a curious twist.

One winner, Arthur Krock, who is a hard-working journalist, had promised his wife to take her to the theater that evening. When he was named a winner and invited to the presentation banquet, he sent his regrets—his wife came first. NBC was determined that its plan to broadcast the voices of all the winners should not flop. So they followed Krock to the theater and put him on the air between acts of the play he was witnessing. NBC's special-events department managed it by connecting him via a phone in the "little boys' room."

Judgment Affirmed

Last January the editors of RADIO GUIDE awarded a Medal of Merit to America's Town Meeting of the Air, citing this popular radio forum as a broadcast which "allows no thought of propaganda or pressure to interfere with its cultivation of opinions and facts from every American group."

Just recently the Women's National Radio Committee, representing women's organizations with a membership of approximately 10,000,000, voted its annual award for "splendid achievement in radio" to the same program.

We are glad, of course, to have our judgment upheld, but we are gladder that it was by popular recognition of a program that has done so much to demonstrate the real value of radio in a democracy.

The radio forum has become the finest instrument of free speech. As long as such programs are broadcast, and as long as the right to express an opinion is cherished and defended, the democratic form of government will endure.

VOICE OF THE LISTENER

BASEBALL

Editor, RADIO GUIDE: "After reading your editorial (issue ending May 7) (Editor's note: The writer has reference to an editorial entitled "Too Much Ballcasting."), I turned on my radio and fully tested your statement. Result: I had no difficulty in getting twenty-seven stations all playing jazz or swing, or whatever it is dubbed. One group of three was playing the same jazz, another of two, and so on. How long, Mr. Editor, before baseball was regularly broadcast this horrible concatenation of savage racket was polluting God's clean air and utterly spoiling other programs for many of us! These jazz stations frequently overflow their bands as much as six kilocycles on either side on any radio and drown out smaller neighbors on the dial. I have no quarrel with jazz listeners. I am a democrat, thus believing in each to his inclination, but after striving desperately to get the only station broadcasting the game I love—then with the bases full, two out and one strike called—to have a raucous, brass, jazz, coyote howl break in makes a man want to pull his six-gun, especially when he knows that jazz is all over the rest of the dial . . ." —HARRY M. RALSTON, Glacier Park, Mont.

RADIO GUIDE: I'd like to say I'm one of the ladies who gets fed up with baseball games on the airplanes in the afternoons and sob-stories in the mornings until I have to find a small station with canned music for entertainment . . ." —MRS. E. S. WELLS, Birchwood, Wis.

SWING

Editor, RADIO GUIDE: "I've been wondering since the Detroit incident relative to 'swing' treatment of old ballads, what is happening to the 'swing' composers. Are they running out of ideas? Does it mean 'swing' is about finished? Do they have to drag in lovely old ballads like 'Loch Lomond' and 'Annie Laurie' because their so-called 'swing' composers and arrangers think they can get away with it? . . . These 'swing' boys seem to have a proper respect for patriotic songs, since a certain band was penalized for its disrespect for "The Star-Spangled Banner," and they have laid off those songs, but there seems to be no way to compel the same respect for other types of songs. I can only turn my dial when they come on. This letter is my other means of doing something about it." —A. DORSEY-CLAYTON, Parsons, Kansas.

BADMINTON

VOL: "If Funnyman Parkyakarkus always plays tennis with a badminton racket as he does in the picture on page 12 of the April 30 RADIO GUIDE, he might as well take all his shots sitting down. Some publicity shots are pretty silly, aren't they? . . ." —ROGER F. VARNEY, Chicago, Ill.

No fault of Harry Einstein's (Parkyakarkus) is the RADIO GUIDE caption which called a badminton racket a tennis racket. Truth is, Einstein plays both games well, seldom sprawls as pictured.—ED.

BACKSTAGE GYMNASTICS

COMpletely recovered from injuries sustained in a freak automobile accident last November, Judy Starr was unexpectedly drafted to handle the singing role on the Hal Kemp program. Maxine Gray, the band's regular vocalist, was injured in a train wreck several weeks before the program's debut. Sweet and lovely, Judy is one of the smallest girl-lyricists on the air. She's 23, looks 15, is as lively as an eleven-year-old.

This is real swingin'! On the air, Judy swings before a microphone, but backstage any rope will do. Near death last November, she rejoices in newly found health. She hopes Maxine Gray will be able to "swing sing" again soon

Unlike many stars, Judy is carefree, dresses informally, is comfortable in positions as precarious as this

Though it makes good copy, stories that she's the sister of Patricia Norman (Duchin's singer) are false

Hard to believe is the fact that Judy Starr is the mother of a five-year-old girl! It won't be long before Patty (the daughter) will be just as big as her mommy. At this time Judy is a divorcee, and romance rumors are not true!

ROOM, BOARD, CHAPERONES, $11.50 WEEKLY

HOSTESS of Parnassus Club's Haskell Hall—one of two residences, other being Duncan Hall—is Mrs. Mable Grant

GENEVIEVE ROWE "signs out" before going to a broadcast. A glance at this book gives the whereabouts of each resident

FOR the American "career girl" of today, Hollywood and New York are the twin centers of glamour and glory, and to these cities young girls flock in ever-increasing numbers. Tossed into the maelstrom of a great city, they face numerous dangers, frequently suffer from lack of proper guidance. To fulfill this need, residential clubs for young professional women have sprung up. Typical of such clubs is the Parnassus Club of New York. Here, for $11.50 weekly, musicians, students, writers, actors, live in a home-like environment. And typical of Parnassus girls is Genevieve Rowe, of "Johnny Presents."

MOST POPULAR spot in Haskell Hall is this, the entrance hallway with its mail-box. Genevieve Rowe reads a letter from home. In her case it's Wooster, Ohio. Both her mother and father are actively engaged in music

BUSY Helen MacDonald handles the Haskell Hall switchboard, keeps track of dozens of messages that come in every day. These messages, each one bearing a girl's name, will be put into a big slotted box in the hallway

SINGING in the music room is a top-ranking recreation. Here Genevieve gives a sprightly piano-top concert

DINING-ROOM is across street from Haskell Hall. Here Genevieve & Virginia Jacobs, writer, go to lunch

RATES at the Parnassus Club range from $11.50 to $17.50 weekly, including two meals—breakfast and dinner. Room without board may be arranged, with a $6 allowance off for meals. Above: Most girls keep snacks in their rooms

END of another busy day for Genevieve Rowe. She won the Atwater Kent Contest in 1929, came to the Parnassus Club in 1930. In 1935 she won a fellowship at the Juilliard Graduate Opera School, has held it since!

BABY ROSE MARIE GROWS UP

EVERYBODY in radio knows that Amos 'n' Andy will not allow anyone in the studio when they are broadcasting. Baby Rose Marie once hid behind a velvet drape until the show was over, then emerged, made friends with Amos 'n' Andy

BORN on New York's lower East Side on August 15, 1923, Baby Rose Marie went on the air at the age of three, became known as the "Child Wonder of Song." Her real name is Rose Marie Curley. It was changed to Baby Rose Marie, has been changed again, this time to Miss Rose Marie. NBC first broadcast Rose Marie's songs back in 1926, and she is now appearing on the Blue network of that company, 7:30 p.m. EDT Mondays and Wednesdays. Now fourteen, she has lost none of her charm. She can swing out with the best of the big-time songsters, and she is determined to make a new career in place of the one she has "out-grown." She'll probably do it!

PERSONAL appearances by Baby Rose Marie meant sell-outs for the theaters. She was the nation's best-loved young actress

UNAFFECTED and charming, Baby Rose Marie never let success go to her head. She is shown here while visiting playmates in New York. Her father, Frank Curley, one-time taxicab-driver, impressed his daughter with his own sense of generosity and fairness, and she did much benefit work

MITZI GREEN and Baby Rose Marie were good friends in their childhood days of stardom, and they are still. Mitzi is two years older

TODAY Miss Rose Marie is enrolled in the Professional Children's School in New York. She's in the eighth grade—a ranking comparable to second-year high in the regular public schools. She attends classes regularly

Mondays through Fridays, beginning at 8 a.m., leaving for the day at 4, unless she has professional engagements to attend to. Used to rigorous schedules, hard work, grown-up Baby Rose Marie enjoys herself hugely

ROSE MARIE talks over a program with Ken Hecht and Sid Bass, her arrangers. She sings four songs during her fifteen-minute program

AT MIKE. Her managers, recalling Mitzi Green's success in "Babes in Arms," hope to star Rose Marie in Broadway show

LIKE all young girls, Miss Rose Marie finds especial delight in shopping. Here she restocks her wardrobe in a swank Radio City shop

ALTHOUGH Rose Marie has led an extremely strenuous life since childhood, she has always had good health. She goes swimming regularly

STAGE AND SCREEN stars are Miss Rose Marie's favorites. The walls of her room are literally papered with their pictures

ALTHOUGH she's a veteran entertainer, Rose Marie is still a very young lady, must keep regular hours and sleep ten hours every night

SHOULD RADIO USE

"Yes," says Ed De Gulda, metal-worker of N. Y. "When a woman talks to a woman, there is more sincerity in her talk"

Typical of best of women announcers is Lisa Sergio, on many NBC shows

Yes

LISTENERS have long discussed the pros and cons of "Should radio have women announcers?" Much of the comment arose as the result of Bess Johnson's work on the Wayne King programs as the voice of Lady Esther.

Other programs have used women announcers, some are using them today. But it was the Lady Esther program that evoked more comment than any other in radio's history. Those who didn't like her voice made no bones about it. Those who did would argue far into the night.

"Women don't announce men's sports; why men for women's programs?" asks John McCormack, New York doorman

WOMEN ANNOUNCERS?

Avoiding the question of women announcers on general programs, Radio Guide set about to interview persons in scattered parts of the country on whether or not radio should have women announcers on programs especially designed for women. Here are their answers.

Bailey and Gale

Gloria Johnson, manicurist, 8861 Sunset Boulevard, Hollywood, votes "No—some women have terrible voices"

No

Men announcers like Paul Douglas get programs ranging from swing to symphony

"No. Men should. Women's voices do not have the tonal quality to sell things," says Marjorie Deane, unemployed, Hollywood

"... women are more likely to listen when they hear another woman discussing them on the radio," says Sam Lombard, barber in the Harrison Hotel, Chicago

"Yes... but I don't like women announcers." So speaks Herbert Elliott, Hollywood shoe-shine operator, who calls himself "Duke of Hollywood"

"Women compete with men in other fields, why not in radio?" This is opinion of Josephine Maxma, waitress in Chicago's Dearborn Grill

John Clark, automobile-washer at the Plymouth Court Garage, Chicago, says "No," believes "women announcers do not appeal to other women"

Leopold Oppenheimer, proprietor of a luggage-shop at 8 West 45th Street, New York, believes women lack pleasantly forceful voice quality to sell

"Women don't like to listen to other women talk. Women's voices are also monotonous." Thus spoke Bunny Waters, acrobatic dancer of New York City

WHAT'S BECOME OF—

—Wide World
Jessica Dragonette, off the air since last fall, was radio's first "name" artist—a real pioneer. Her time is now spent in concert. Her tour began in Philadelphia, extended to Honolulu and back

—Lester
Tom Howard, left, and George Shelton were a permanent fixture on Rudy Vallee's Hour back in 1935. In 1936-37 they joined James Melton on the Sealtest "Sunday Night Party." Now the boys are on vaudeville tour through the states with no radio in sight

—Seawood
"Your Unseen Friend" (M. H. H. Joachim) is building airshows for the Buchanan Advertising Agency, of which he is vice-president in charge of radio in the Chicago office. Joachim began radio on WOR in 1926; has worked on 23 programs in the past 8 years

—Gale
Benny Fields has been making $2,500 weekly in vaudeville for a year and a half, has done some night-club work, is now in Hollywood scouting a movie job. Blossom Seeley, his wife, is with him

"Mrs. Crazy," the title of tonight's thriller by Arch Oboler, is the story of the strange revenge an insane woman takes upon her accusers. The story is based upon an element of truth in that a similar incident did take place at a well-known state institution for the insane.

MR. FAIRFAX KNOWS ALL

For personal replies enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope. Please state questions as briefly as possible.—Ed.

FELIX KNIGHT was born in Macon, Georgia, on November 1, 1913. He made his radio debut at a small Florida station in 1928. Beginning a serious study of music, he has since been featured in pictures and heard with the Hollywood Opera Association, the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra and the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra—M. K., Chicopee, Mass.

RAYMOND JOHNSON plays the part of Dave Allen in "A Tale of Today." He may also be heard as Gordon Ellis in "The Guiding Light" and Jerry Quick of Uncle Sam's Forest Rangers on the National Farm and Home Hour. He was born in Kenosha, Wisconsin, on July 24, 1911. Six feet two inches tall, he weighs about 162 pounds, has brown hair and blue eyes. Betty Caine, NBC actress, is his wife—P. D., Danville, Ill.

The role of Mary in "The Guiding Light" is taken by VIRGINIA JONES. Templeton Fox was recently replaced in the role of Bunny Mitchell in "The Story of Mary Marlin," by MERCEDES McCAMBRIDGE. Shortly after taking over the role Miss McCambridge became sick and Virginia Jones substituted for her, meanwhile.—M. A., Ackley, Iowa.

BOYS, GET READY NOW TO MAKE MONEY
AND EARN PRIZES
ALL SUMMER LONG!

Make this summer vacation the BEST you ever had. Deliver RADIO GUIDE to customers in your neighborhood
— and MONEY and PRIZES will roll in. Many boys earn prizes in an evening or two after school. Start NOW for the summer. Mail this coupon.

Mr. Al Jones, Dept. M-28

OLD BOOKS WANTED

We pay big cash prices for thousands of different titles. We bought over 7,500 books in past twenty-one months, paying as high as $500 for a single book. For example, we will pay you cash for the following books as described in our price list:

Pilgrim's Progress	$4,000.00
Adventures of Tom Sawyer	200.00
Old Swimm'n' Hole	75.00
Black Beauty	100.00
Treasure Island	50.00
Scarlet Letter	35.00
Venus and Adonis	5,000.00
Leaves of Grass	250.00
Snow-Bound	45.00
Uncle Tom's Cabin	100.00
Ben Hur	50.00
Last of the Mohicans	50.00
Moby Dick	100.00
Little Women	25.00
McGuffey Primer	100.00
Tamerlane & Other Poems	5,000.00

These are but a few of the many thousands of books we want. DON'T SEND BOOKS until you have checked our latest list giving full information. Don't delay—a single old school book, story book, bible, poetry, history, travel, almanacs, newspapers, letters, etc., may bring you $25, $50, $100, $500 or even $5,000 cash for certain books. Better Investigate NOW. Send 10c to the American Book Mart, 140 S. Dearborn St., Dept. 7101, Chicago, and we will send you latest list of old books we want to buy and cash prices we will pay.

In 1936 Richard Himber's orchestra placed third in its division in the Star of Stars Poll; in '37, seventh. This year the orchestra was first!

RICHARD HIMBER WINS
TOP-ORCHESTRA TITLE

VOTES POUR IN TO END WAYNE KING'S
FOUR-YEAR REIGN OVER CONDUCTORS!

THE fans have upset a dynasty! For the last four years listeners have voted Wayne King's musical soothsayers the most popular dance orchestra on the air. This year a new monarch has won the crown. Richard Himber, heard at present on CBS on "The Monday Night Show," won the support of followers whose votes poured in an avalanche across the vote-tabulators' desks to sweep him to victory as the most popular orchestra leader of the current year.

In most polls during the last two years Himber has placed high, but this is the first time he has won in the Star of Stars Poll.

Doubtless much of the popularity of the conductor - composer - arranger stems from the fact that he has been heard on programs on all the major networks within the past year, and thus has reached a multitude of listeners who found more enjoyment in his music than in the arrangements of others.

Wayne King, who has been almost undisputed in his occupancy of the orchestra-leader's throne, slipped this year to third place. Several changes in the routine of King's programs, climaxed by the sudden dismissal recently of Phil Stewart, his announcer for the six preceding years, may explain at least part of his drop. Phil Spitalny, whose all-girl orchestra has been a noteworthy radio phenomenon but who has never before ranked with the top-flight leaders in popularity in the Star of Stars Poll, this year was catapulted into second place.

Exponents of "swing" appear to be not as numerous as their publicity would indicate, judging from the results announced this week. The leading swing bands, Benny Goodman's and Tommy Dorsey's, placed seventh and fourteenth, respectively.

Results in each division of the Star of Stars Poll are announced in RADIO GUIDE each week as quickly as available. This week a new poll is announced on the inside front cover. Votes cast on the ballots published there will determine the most promising new star of 1938. Turn to that page now. Vote for your favorite! Help him up the ladder of new fame!

Turn to the inside front cover for New Stars' Poll!
