It Looks Like Politics Again

Is the farmer's radio entertainment going the way of his hogs and his wheat? The same Congress which took away his right to plant as much cotton as he wanted to plant, and which took away his right to raise as many head of livestock as he wanted to raise is in the process of deciding that he cannot hear all the broadcasts he would like to hear.

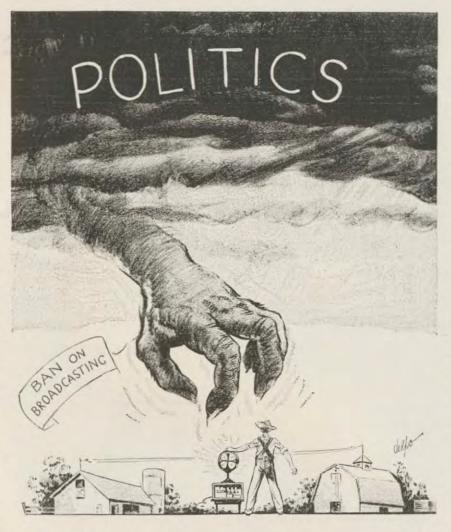

Most American farmers are handicapped by being at a distance from the powerful transmitters. During daylight hours, summer heat and kindred hobgoblins blast his reception with static. At night he is a victim of the mysterious malady called fading. Thus far, only one medicine has helped him. Its name is superpower and the solitary name on the bottle, up to date, has been WLW.

Superpower means an increase in broadcasting strength beyond the 50,000 watts now used by our strongest stations. Some time ago, Station WLW was given an experimental license to raise its power to the dizzy strength of 500,000 watts. It cost WLW close to a half-million dollars.

The sole reason for permitting one station so much power was that our government wanted to determine the facts about it. Would it improve reception in farmer homes? Could it reach the small towns with a signal strong enough to overcome fading and static?

Some months ago, RADIO GUIDE surveyed the entire United States, asking its readers to name those stations to which they listened regularly. The result was a smashing triumph for superpower. People who live in Oregon and Maine and Canada and New Mexico told us they depended on WLW for much of their listening. In other words, superpower did a job the ordinary 50,000-watt stations could not do.

Now, alarming news comes from Congress. The Senate has passed a resolution that 50,000 watts should be the limit. It seems likely the House will do the same thing down to a level with all the rest, to one-tenth of its present strength, if that resolution ever becomes a law. Which means that those who live on farms and in towns away from the city will have much of How Does It End? their entertainment plowed under by Congress just as surely as was their corn.

great nation has superpower sta- be broadcast, claiming that the lisat its next session. Which means tions. There are two on our Mexinevitably WLW will be pared ican border. Despite all that, politicians say we should go back to the old limit. Such a policy is neither efficient, good sense, nor American.

A battle royal rages in Hollywood. It concerns the dramatizations of motion-picture plays which Congress wanted the facts. It Hollywood Hotel, now summer-vagot them. Superpower is a service cationing, formerly presented. One to millions of listeners. Every other camp insists the entire play should tener wants to know how the story ends. The other camp insists that the end be left untold.

Peeking behind the scenes, we see the motion-picture moguls on the one side attempting to harness radio so that it will fill their theaters. Their device has been to present their stars in a cleverly dramatized "trailer" which was supposed to stir up our curiosity so that we would run to the nearest theater to learn how the villain was foiled and virtue remained triumphant.

There are clear indications, however, that listeners are beginning to resent these strong-arm methods. In their behalf, radio producers are demanding the full story or none at all. During the summer months, the battle will be fought and a decision reached.

But we still remain curious. Which is better entertainment, really? Do you want the complete story or just enough to give you a taste? If you heard the whole story and liked it, would you go to see the movie? Has any Hollywood Hotel drama ever caused you to see a certain movie? Has it ever annoyed you so much by leaving out the ending that you have stopped listening to the program or refused to see the picture?

Write to us and let us know.

AIR BUBBLES

Alton Cook of the N. Y. World Telegram says . .

"This Vallee is a very stubborn man. When news pictures a few years ago produced pictures of Rudy with boxing-gloves, the wrong foot and the wrong hand forward, he answered by going around the country socking people on the jaw. He was kidded about the bad saxophone playing he once did, so he practised, tried his sax with ballroom audiences and then did it in did, so he practised, tried his sax with ballroom audiences and then did it in a radio broadcast—against the judgment of his superiors. Just last week he played a clarinet on the program and held one note for forty seconds. That may not sound like very much, but it shows those musicians. (Try whistling a note for forty seconds by your watch.)"

From the Detroit Free Press . . .

"The worst of American programs "The worst of American programs are probably worse than anything tolerated in other countries. They are getting worse all the time. Some are demoralizing to children; others sickening to adults, and the public is constantly wearied by silly mutual admiration contests among radio artists and by cheap ballyhoo that frequently mars even enjoyable programs. It is unfortunate, too, that stations which most delight in giving the best commonly tolerate the worst along with it."

Joan Crawford's recent broadcast on the Lux Radio Theater got her $5,000 for the hour's work. Joan im-mediately turned the entire check over to the Motion Picture Relief Fund which takes care of out-of-work ac-tors and actresses.

That the listener may understand better the news his radio brings him, RADIO GUIDE is presenting a series of articles—of which this is the second—designed to sketch in detail the background necessary for a complete grasp of national and foreign news as it comes over the loudspeaker. Today the atten-tion of the civilized world may be tastened on the tinder-box of Czechoslovakia, tomorrow on Spain's battle-fields, next day on the bombed ruins of Chinese cities. To keep pace with the minute-by-minute flow of news as it pours into United States microphones is the duty of the patriotic, America-con-scious citizen of today!

OTTEST hot-spot on the world's griddle today is Spain, where for two years as bitter and sanguine a civil war as the world ever saw has raged unchecked. With brother fight-ing against brother, father against son, foreign soldiers of one nation arrayed against those of another, Spain today is devil's brew of hatred and slaughter. And it is more than that: it is a powder-train, burning fitfully, that may yet blast the whole world into chaos!

How did this come to be? How does it happen that war has descended upon almost the only European nation that escaped the 1914-1918 holocaust? Why is it that the Spanish people, so fond of beauty, tolerant, gracious, peaceful, have turned inward to rave at each other's throats? Is this merely another civil war or is it, as some authorities insist, the beginning of a world-wide struggle between communism and fas-cism? What is it going to mean to you and me?

The first shot in the rebellion was fired on July 16, 1935. The actual hostilities, which have not yet ended and which may go on for months and even years, began then. But to search out the real origins of the rebellion, it is necessary to go back much further than the summer of 1935. It is necessary to go far back into Spanish history, far enough back to note that for hundreds of years Spain had three rulers: the family and the landed nobility, the Church, and the army. The rule of this triumvirate was absolute and selfperpetuating, and from it there was no appeal. It was a harsh, crushing rule, and it sowed the seeds that have been reaped in the past two years at Guada-lajara, at Castellon, at Teruel.

For the plain fact of the matter is that the royal family and its satellites, the Church, and the army ruled Spain not for the Spanish people but for their own individual, selfish interests. No authority of recognized impartiality will deny that statement. Deaf to any important reform, the royal family, generation after generation, continued its rigid rule, refusing absolutely to recognize the seething undercurrents of dissatisfaction. The Spanish people, farmers in the main, owned almost no land, found themselves instead laboring for pit-tances on such estates as that of the Duke of Alba—a plot of ground equal in area to all of Belgium! Next to the nobility, in wealth and power, stood the Church. It is admitted today that the vast holdings of the Church in Spain were out of all proportion to its needs. And as far back as the eighteenth century the Spanish army was universally recognized as utterly incompetent, a hotbed of intrigue, an army in which there were almost literally more generals than there were privates!

In 1931 the world-wide depression blew the lid off seething Spain. King Alfonso XIII abdicated and fled. A republic was set up. As is natural when a strong-willed people finds the instruments of power in its hands after centuries of helplessness, there were disagreements, inter-governmental upheavals, factionalism. Radicals of varying degree, from democrats to communists and syndicalists and anarchists, fought for rule. But out of the chaos a reasonable program did appear. The great estates were broken up, reform laws of all kinds were written into the books, and for a time it looked as if Spain had

But it was not to be. Republican Spain had made powerful enemies: the nobility and the rich, the army and the Church. They wanted the old Spain back again, and they were accustomed to getting what they wanted. It is defi-nitely known now than Juan March, the richest man in Spain, financed much of the early cost of the rebellion, and it is also known that he made numerous official trips to Rome.

In July, 1935, at a given signal, the Spanish army rebelled. If the original plan had worked, there would have been no civil war—merely brisk, violent fighting in the cities, a quick seizure of control. But news of the scheme leaked out, many officers and men refused to join the revolt, the common people rose instantly, and, almost un-armed, held the rebelling soldiers until a defense could be formulated. What had been planned as a mere coup d'etat turned into a long-drawn-out major war.

Quietly at first, then openly, the Italian and German governments sent munitions and men. Their objects were and are perfectly plain: first, to estab-lish a fascist or near-fascist government in Spain; second, to embarrass France by fortifying the Pyrenees against her, incapacitate England by fortifying the land across from Gibraltar. In both objectives they have succeeded. If there is another war, the French will be forced to defend the south as well as the east. And England is negotiating with Portugal for the site of a new Gibraltar!

THERE are at present about 40,000 Italians in Spain. Never impressive as fighting-men, the Italian soldiers have gained no single great victory by themselves, were terribly defeated at Guadalajara. But in weight of numbers they are important. There is a smaller number of Germans fighting for Generalissimo Francisco Franco, perhaps less than 10,000, and most of them technicians. cians. Nearly all of the Rebel equipment, however, is of Italian and German manufacture, although one American boy, fighting for the Government, at Teruel, complained that his comrades were being killed by American-made bullets! There are about 8,000 Russians with the Government forces, most of technicians and airplane pilots. The Rebels use Italian and German airplanes and pilots almost exclusively; the Government, Russian-made ships of American design, flown, in the main, by Spanish pilots.

In Spain, for the first time, the world was given an opportunity to see what war—models 1935, '36, '37, '38—really means. The mass bombing of civilian centers by the Rebels, intended to crush resistance and wreck morale behind the lines, has succeeded only in making the Spanish people more determined than ever; but it has cost tens of thousands of innocent lives. For instance, a reputable French periodical, in reporting the bombing tolls for the period from July to March, 1938, listed among the dead 10,709 children!

AND so today the war goes on. Slowly, but at appalling cost, Generalissimo Franco is conquering his native land. (Franco, a career-soldier since fourteen, was not the chosen leader of the Rebellion. His predecessors were killed.) The Government holds today only two wedge-shaped pieces of land on the eastern seaboard, centered around Barcelona, Valencia and Madrid. But the Government forces are superior in man-power and in money, and although they may lose, they are almost certain to continue the war for a long time yet.

In the meantime, England, which has held aloof so far because its ruling classes would prefer an authoritarian to a liberal government in Spain, may yet have to come in to protect her vital Mediterranean lifeline. France, neutral so far—against the will of its people—may enter the lists to free the Pyrenees from Italo-German fortifications. Russia, so far away, may yet come in out of hatred of the fascist nations.

Farmer Girl

Few of her fans know it, but Irene Beasley, long one of radio's best vocal artists, was born on a farm-a plantation, in fact, at R.F.D. No. 1, Whitehead, Tennessee. And there she grew up, steeping herself in the folk-lore to be so abundantly found around any southern manorhouse. She learned well the old Negro songs, and she learned what it means, and how it feels, to be a woman in a farmer's family. That inheritance from her childhood Miss Beasley will bring to the radio in a new program-"R.F.D. No. 1"-beginning Monday, July 4, at 12 p.m. EDT. Intimate, informal, written, directed, acted by Irene Beasley alone, "R.F.D. No. 1" will be designed for direct appeal to farm audiences. One of the primary aims of the program will be the exchange of ideas among farm women of the country, and occasionally Miss Beasley will bring members of her audience to the microphone to tell of farm life as it has been to them. And, of course, there'll be songs!

If a "woodpile" is a musical instrument, what's a "grunt-iron," and what have either one of them got to do with a "gob-stick"? Does an "alligator" ever live in a "doghouse," or a "barrelhouse," and is "gutbucket" a term acceptable in the best circles? If you know the answers to these apparently nonsenical questions, you're talking jive, an argot that is understandable, really, only to swing-music enthusiasts. To the "jitterbugs," or swing fans, a "woodpile" is a xylophone, a "grunt-iron" is a tuba, and "gob-stick" is a clarinet. An "alligator" is a form of "jitterbug," and he/she couldn't live in a "doghouse," because that is just a bass viol. "Gutbucket" is low-down music, and so, in a measure, is "barrelhouse," and both are terms entirely acceptable in swing society. When you tune in on Benny Goodman at 9:30 EDT these Tuesday nights, you're hearing music that inspires all these terms and half a hundred more. Strangely enough, however, Goodman, by all odds the foremost swing musician in the land, uses little or no slang himself. When he speaks, he speaks English—but when he picks up that gob-stick for a few hot licks deep down in the groove, he sends the jitterbugs right out of this world! Many critics say, incidentally, that Goodman was a virtuoso in his teens. While still in short pants, he played with Bix Beiderbecke!

PREVIEWS OF SOME OF THIS

Young, red-headed John Hamilton, campaign manager for Alf Landon and the Republican party in the last presidential election, took almost as bad a beating when forty-six of the forty-eight states plumped for Roosevelt as did Landon himself. No match for the veteran Jim Farley as a political tactician, even more overshadowed as a propagandist by shrewd Democratic press chief Charlie Michaelson, Hamilton was outmaneuvered at every turn during the campaign, was said to be thoroughly "washed up" when it was over. But although he was down, Hamilton refused to stay on the floor, and since '36, as chairman of the Republican party, he has continued the fight as best he could. He'll be on the air Monday, the Fourth of July, at 11 a.m., to speak on "The Aims of the Republican Party." Senator Claude Pepper of Florida, whose recent smashing victory in his state primaries was viewed by politicians as an indication of continued Roosevelt strength, will present the other side of the question. His topic: "The Accomplishments of the Roosevelt Administration."

A Better America

John B. Kennedy, journalist, commentator, traveler, knows these United States as few other men have ever known them. A veteran observer who has seen much of the sordid and seamy things in life, he has nonetheless held fast through the years to his own firm beliefs. has never lost the freshness of viewpoint and the enthusiasm so essential to those who would see things made better than they are. Beginning on Thursday, July 7, John B. Kennedy will go on the air with an entirely new program, to be called "Stepping Ahead With America" and concerning itself with all the activities of individuals, corporations and governmental authorities to improve general conditions in the United States. Every section of the country will be heard from in broadcasts illustrating every phase of the widespread activity that is today centered on the improvement of America and things American. The first program will deal with America at play, will show every branch of leisure activity for what it really is. The time: 8 p.m. EDT.

Hobby-Horses

Many a psychiatrist, a nervous, shaky, miserable patient across the consultation-table from him, has dwelt long and persuasively on the healthfulness of the hobby habit. For he knows that while the disease called "nerves," so prevalent in present-day high-speed America, may have an origin in physical ill-health, it is much more likely to be solely of mental origin, a partial or total collapse caused by allowing the mind to dwell too long and intensively on one subject. And that one subject, in most cases, is work. The happiest and healthiest man, psychiatrists will tell you, is the man who locks the office door on business worries as he leaves at night.

And to take the mind entirely away from work and worry, a hobby's the thing! The man who hurries home from work because he has a spare-time sculptor's studio in his basement, or a wood-carving set in the kitchen, is usually healthy and happy, and certainly wise. When most people think of hobbies, they think of the commonplace sort, the collecting of stamps, for instance. They've no idea of the hundreds there are to choose from. If you'd like to find out, dial to Hobby Lobby, on the air over NBC at 7 p.m. EDT (7:30 p.m. PST for West) on Sunday.

One day a young fellow named Michael MacDougal, watching a magician perform his startling tricks in a Philadelphia theater, saw something that he wasn't supposed to see. In fact, no one in the audience was supposed to see it-a concealed trap-door that was a vitally important factor in one of the magician's most baffling tricks. After the show was over, young MacDougal went backstage, told the prestidigi tator he knew how the trick was done. He got a job on the spot, and then and there was born one of the strangest careers in America. Today Michael MacDougal is a card detective. Almost single-handed, he has exposed at least 200 card-cheats, catching them red-handed all over the United States and Latin America. He'll bring his startling inside information to the "It Can Be Done" program on Wednesday, July 6, 10:30 p.m. EDT.

A veteran critic once said, in appraisal of the rich talents of W. C. Fields, "When I'm going to a Fields show, I start laughing when I buy my ticket." That's exactly the feeling of newsreel audiences the country over regarding Lew Lehr. When Lehr's face appears on the screen, the audience almost invariably begins to laugh immediately, before he has had a chance to say "Monkeys is de cwaziest people," or some other of the richly comical lines that have made him famous. Comparatively a newcomer to radio, Lehr made his air debut on the Ben Bernie program, has proved to be a thorough success. This week he'll appear as quest on the "Monday Night Show" over CBS at 8 p.m. EDT (8 p.m. PST for West). Few people know that Lehr, despite the fantastic whimsy that he displays to the public, is a staid businessman most of the time. He holds down an important job as editor of one of the big news-reels.

OF THIS WEEK

WEEK'S BETTER PROGRAMS

Frontier, 1938

The Old West is gone, and men like Wyatt Earp, Billy the Kid, Wild Bill Hickok and the hosts of others who, in one role or another, good or bad, gave to the frontier days a precious flavor that will never be recaptured, are long since dead. And we will not know their like again. But even though six-guns no longer blaze across the dusty road in front of a plainstown saloon, even though cattle-rustlers, the few that there are of them, now operate with automobile trucks and other modern-day paraphernalia, the West is still the West, a country made for men, with a capital M. You can hear all about it on Thursday, July 7, when the "Americans At Work" program presents a radio picture of the ranching industry as it stands today. The show will be divided, part originating on a ranch near Salt Lake City, part from New York. At 10:30 p.m. EDT.

Shays' Rebellion

The bright, persistent sense of independence that has from the earliest times in our history marked the people of New England will find expression again on Wednesday, July 6, when the "Living History" program airs a special dramatization of three vitally important events in American History: Shays' Rebellion in Massachusetts, the Constitutional Convention of 1787, and the Annapolis Convention. An initial failure as an armed rebellion in force, the rising of the 1,100 Massachusetts men who attacked the Springfield arsenal under Daniel Shays was a final success. The conditions that inspired it—the increasing burdens of court fees, the difficulty of lawsuits, and the custom of imprisonment for debt-were remedied as a result. The Annapolis Convention, although known today only to close students of American history, was of vital importance. It was formed by delegates from New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Pennsylvania and Virginia who met at Annapolis in 1786 to consider problems relating to commerce but found it necessary to delve into the whole problem of the weakened Confederation. The result was a call for a meeting of all the states in Philadelphia in 1787and from this our Constitution arose. The time: 7:30 p.m. EDT.

Fred Allen's on vacation now, and a new show has been fitted into his regular Wednesday night NBC position. "Town Hall Big Game Hunt" is the title, and the program will be of the audience-participation type. While the witty Allen is lolling about in his New England summer home, free for the next few months at least of the arduous task of writing a weekly script and putting it on the air, his airtime will be taken over by Norman Frescott, mind-reader, and Jane Martin, game expert, serving as his assistant. The first specimens of "big game" to be bagged by this duet are Harry "Bottle" Mc-Naughton and Al Pearce. They'll guest-star Wednesday, July 7, at 9 p.m. EDT (8 p.m. PST

Men Against Death

In 1729, a man named Spallanzani was born in Italy. He was destined to take final rank with Leuwenhock, Pasteur, Lister, and the other giants of bacteriology. For it was Spallanzani who first proved that germs must come from other germs, that the theory of spontaneous generation, until his time widely held, was in total error. In effect, Spallanzani said that "Microbes must be parents," and that is the title of the program commemorating his discovery that will be put on the air this Thursday, July 7, on the Paul de Kruif "Microbe Hunters" program. Each week a dramatization of some incident from one of De Kruif's five books on medical history is put on the air by a Federal Theatre cast under the direction of George Zachary of the CBS program department. You'll find it at 8 p.m. EDT, CBS.

When, on Friday, July 8 (10:30 a.m. EDT), President Franklin D. Roosevelt dedicates a monument at Marietta, Ohio, on the Marietta Common near the Muskegon River, to mark the 150th anniversary of the opening of the Northwest Territory, his dedica-tory address climaxing a lengthy celebration of the anniversary, Columbia's presidential announcer, Bob Trout, will be on hand to introduce the President. And he'll have to move fast to do it. The Saturday night before, Trout will finish his rebroadcast of the "Professor Quiz" show at 12:30

Hyde Park to catch the President's special train for Gettysburg, where Roosevelt will speak on Sunday, July 3. From Gettysburg, Trout will hurry to Washington to appear on "Headlines and By-Lines" Sunday night, then return to the presidential cross-country train. The day after the Marietta broadcast, he'll have to be back in New York again, in time for another Professor

Good-Will Gesture

relations is scheduled for this week. On July 4, at 3 p.m. EDT, the British Broadcasting Company and the Columbia Broadcasting System will collaborate in a program celebrating America's victorious struggle for independence! Probably no two other countries save the great English-speaking democracies could join together today in a celebration of this kind. Certainly it is hard to imagine France and Germany, for instance, arranging a program to commemorate the life of Bismarck, hero of the War of 1870, or Foch, as this program will commemorate the life of George Washington. It is true, of course, that Washington was of English origin. The first part of the international program will concern itself with that fact, will be broadcast from Sulgrave Manor, ancestral home of the Washington family. The manor has been turned into a museum, and a BBC announcer will interview the curator on the littleknown background of the Washington family. The broadcast will switch from there to Mount Vernon, George Washington's own home, for a description of the old house and its beautiful gardens by Bob Trout.

One of the showplaces of the nation when the house was first built and the magnificent grounds laid out, Mt. Vernon remains to this day as beautiful an estate as the country can boast. There are many homes more elaborately designed, many much more expensive; but there is nothing that can compare with the chaste simplicity of Mt. Vernon.

Swing Stuff

A drama that should a.m. (Sunday). From New York, he'll rush up to form a peak in the season's radio-theater productions will go on the air Saturday, July 9, at 7:30 p.m. EDT when the Columbia Workshop presents "Joe Swing," a fantasy written by Hilda Cole. "Joe Swing" tells the story of a phenomenally brilliant trumpet-player who will not speak save through the medium of his instrument, a man who appears from nowhere to thrill sophisticated audiences, then disappears as suddenly and as inexplicably as he came. The story, told by a Broadway press-agent, makes considerable use of the flash-back tech-An almost unheard-of rarity in international nique, and the climax is startling in the extreme.

$500,000 WORTH

Last Year...

PRESIDENT FRANKLIN DELANO ROOSEVELT—the first President, incidentally, to attend an All-Stars game-threw out the first ball at Washington's Griffith Stadium last year to begin the 1937 All-Stars game. That July 7 was one of the hottest days in the year, but the President didn't mind, and neither did the capacity crowd of 31,391 fans-for out there on the field was the hottest aggregation of baseball players in America! The people in the grandstands and bleachers had another reason for ignoring the heat-they knew they were lucky to be in the ball park at all, for 80,000 baseball lovers had applied for tickets-$1.10 seats brought $25 in speculators' hands -and $122,000 had been returned to ticket-buyers because there was simply no room for them.

Lou Gehrig, of the Yankees, was the star of the 8 to 3 1937 American League victory. A home run and a double by Gehrig knocked in four runs for an all-time All-Stars record. The great Dizzy Dean, now on the Chicago Cubs pitching staff, but at that time a St. Louis Cardinals mainstay, made the mistake of grooving his fast ball down the middle for Gehrig. Dean expected the ball to go past Gehrig so fast the big Yankee first baseman wouldn't be able to see it; instead, Dean himself didn't see the ball again until he turned to watch it arch over the fence!

All in all, the 1937 game was a hitters' victory. Each side garnered thirteen hits, an unusually large number when it is remembered that they were scored against the best pitchers in baseball. Dean, true to his reputation, had created something of a stir by announcing that he would not play in the big game after all. He planed in from St. Louis at the last moment with the remark, "I'm just a Boy Scout, here to do my good deed for today!"

The National Leaguers, in losing, used seven more men than the Americans needed to win. The National line-up was: Manager Bill Terry; P. Waner, of the Pittsburgh Pirates; Herman, Chicago Cubs; Vaughan, Pirates; Medwick, Cardinals; Demaree, Cubs; Mize, Cardinals; Hartnett, Cubs; Whitehead, Giants; Mancuso, Giants; Bartell, Giants; J. Dean, Cardinals; Hubbell, Giants; Blanton, Pirates; Ott, Giants; Grissom, Reds; Collins, Cubs; Mungo, Dodgers; Walters, Phillies.

First baseman Lou Gehrig of the Yankees set an All-Stars record last year with a home run and a double to knock in four runs. Iron horse of baseball, Lou has played in more consecutive games than any other man

The Broadcasts...

From the beginning of the game at 2:15 p.m. EDT to its conclusion at approximately 4:30 p.m., on July 6, baseball's biggest midseason attraction, the annual All-Stars game between picked teams of the best men in the National and American Leagues, will be broadcast by the National Broadcasting Company, the Columbia Broadcasting System, and the Mutual Broadcasting System. Thus covered, the game will be heard everywhere in America, will certainly attract one of the season's biggest listening audiences.

All three networks have assigned top-ranking baseball announcers to the big game. For NBC, Red Barber and Tom Manning will be at the microphones. Columbia will be represented by France Laux and Bill Dyer, and the Mutual network by Bob Elson and Dick Bray. Wherever you may be on July 6, you'll be able to pick up the voice of one of these six crack announcers. all of them veterans of hundreds of big league baseball games.

Typical of the caliber of the announcers who will put the All-Stars game on the air is Mutual's Bob Elson, one of the best-known ballcasters in the country—and one of the busiest. Elson is a veteran of the All-Stars contests. He has put all but one of them on the air, missing the 1936 game because of illness, is the only announcer in radio who can boast that record. Elson is in his tenth year of baseball-from-the-press-box. He regularly does three programs, and in addition to that, he's currently conducting a baseball contest that has so far drawn over 100,000 entries.

At noon, six days a week, Elson takes a portable microphone into Chicago's State Street for his "Man on the Street" program, a question-and-answer show in the impromptu manner. Usually, on Elson's list there's a question or two about baseball, for in spite of his intensive concentration on the game, Elson still considers it the game of games. He played baseball in high school and college.

At 2:45 in the afternoon, Elson goes either to Wrigley Field or Comiskey Park, as the case may be, and takes a microphone into the dugout for his "The Leadoff Man" program. On this program, a preliminary to the broadcast of the game, Elson queries players, visitors and home-team members alike.

Dick Bray, of Station WSAI, Cincinnati, will work with Elson this year. Bray, a former football official in the Big Ten Conference, also has a regular daily baseball program in addition to his game broadcasts.

France Laux, who will be at the Columbia microphone, is the ace sports announcer of KMOX, St. Louis. With him will be Bill Dyer, baseball expert of WCAU, Philadelphia. Tom Manning and Red Barber covered the last World Series for NBC.

Here's John Vander Meer, Cincinnati's prize rookie, who became the wonder boy of all baseball when he pitched two successive no-hit games a month ago, the first time such a feat has ever been accomplished

Two of baseball's greatest southpaws are Carl Hubbell (left) of the New York Giants and Bob "Lefty" Grove of the Boston Red Sox. Their pitching Wednesday will play an important part in the outcome of the game

The Game ...

THE Annual All-Stars baseball game brings together the greatest players on the diamond, reest players on the diamond, regardless of their team affiliations, the rankings of their teams, or anything else. The cream of the National and American leagues, they are chosen entirely on their abilities, brought together for one purpose only: to produce the finest baseball it's possible to see!

Begun in 1933 by the Chicago Tribune, the All-Stars game is an institution now, run by baseball itself. It is conducted for the benefit of the Association of Professional Baseball Players of America. The first game was played at Comiskey Park in Chicago, saw the beginning of an American League winning streak which was not to be broken until 1936. Selection of the teams, the managers and the coaches in that year was made by a nationwide newspaper vote. Two squads of twenty-three players were cho-sen, each headed by two coaches and a manager.

But in 1934 (the game was played at the Polo Grounds in New York and the Americans won again, this time 9 to 7) the system was changed. The leagues themselves, and the office of famed Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis, took over administration of the game, and it was decided that the managers of the two teams should be the managers of the chamrion teams of each league of the season before. The fans still picked the players, however; but in some cases their choices were notably bad, and it was decided that henceforth opposing managers would be allowed to select their own teams.

Cleveland was the site of the first game under the new selection system, and again the American League players came out on top. But the fans didn't like being deprived of their voting rights, and the next year the system was changed again. This time the baseball public selected eighteen players, the managers of the league-leading teams of the season before named five. The game was played in the National League Park in Boston in 1936, and the National League stars won—for the first and only time in the series to date—by a score of 4 to 3.

The game went to Washington last year, with the selection of players once more changed over. The 1937 method found each of the major league managers nominating players, and the managers of the two All-Stars teams making the final decisions. And again the American League ran away with the prize, this time by a score of 8 to 3. Thus, in the series to date, the Americans have won four games, the Nationals one.

BECAUSE of his delicate style and exquisite imagination, Charles Griffes has sometimes been called "the American Debussy," a description that might apply to his later works; but in his earlier days the lamented composer (born 1884 in Elmira, N. Y.), dead at thirty-six, was strongly under the influence of the German composers and then bowed to Russian orientalism until he went to Paris. Modern French touches of harmony are apparent even in the Indian music of this program. Griffes intended to be a pianist but was persuaded to compose by Humperdinck, of "Haensel and Gretel" fame. Our American genius left only a handful of works, but they assure him of a high place among our creators.

Smetana's (1824-1884) quartet is superscribed "From My Life" and the Czech master makes his pages frankly autobiographical. Written six years before his death, the music is notable for its rare fancy, eloquence and picturesqueness.

Camping To Music

To take the place of the Boston "Pops" (Wednesdays at 9:30 p.m. EDT on NBC) we have the programs from the National Music Camp at Interlochen, Michigan, broadcast by orchestra, band and chorus. Originally planned to give boys and girls of high-school age an attractive place where they might combine summer recreation with advancement in almost every branch of musical training, the camp was put on the air in 1930 and a year later a division was opened for alumni. The director is Dr. Howard Hanson, and fittingly the theme-song of the broadcast is an excerpt from the slow movement of his second symphony.

The Happy Medium

The young curate who breakfasted at the home of the bishop was served a questionable egg, which he hesitated to finish. "Anything wrong with it?" asked the divine. "Oh no," replied the visitor, "it's excellent in spots."

The thought applies also to some of the frankly entertaining musical broadcasts, those which alternate light music with loftier types of compositions. These are, among others, Marion Talley's sincere and smooth singing; "Popular Classics" with the competent baritoning of Robert Weede; Chase and Sanborn (when Nelson Eddy participates); "Invitation to the Waltz" and "Waltz Time," for those whose hearts beat in three-quarter meter; "American Album of Familiar Music," better ballads and sentimental songs; Norman Cloutier's orchestra recently featuring one-composer lists and an excellent new young tenor, Ralph Blane; Carnation "Contented Hour," soothing refinements for the pre-bed hour; and "Hit Parade," orchestrally all jazz but frequently rising high with such soloists as Lucy Monroe, Lauritz Melchior and Lotte Lehmann.

musical developments of the last two decades in America.

Violinist John Corigliano, unlike most of his colleagues, seems to have discovered that there is at least one unfamiliar concerto worth occasional performance. In selecting the example by Jules Conus, born at Moscow in 1869, the soloist presents a one-movement opus which, while it does not rank with the most celebrated violin concertos, has pronounced merit and deserves to be better known. The music, of romantic and brilliant content, captivates through melodic refinement and especially rich orchestration.

Conus studied composition with Tschaikowsky and later taught at the Moscow Conservatory. His brothers Georges and Leo also gained musical recognition, the former as a pianist, the latter as a composer.

Moussorgsky's grisly legend and Tschaikowsky's exciting war memeries make contrasting companions to the symphonizing of Brahms, here in his most cheery and reposeful vein. He gives us a pastoral first movement with beautiful opening utterance of wind instruments; a tenderly reticent second part; a third section starting with delicious voice from the reed players; and a final movement reviewing some of the previous themes and ending with full-throated jubilance.

Brandenburg Concerto No. 3 (Bach) Symphony No. 7 (Beethoven)

THIS one of the "Pops" series in Toronto salaams to Bach and Beethoven. There is really no valid reason why open-air programs should make a bid for only less discriminative auditors. Top-rank music sounds just as good under the skies as under the skylights. Compare the outdoor programs of earlier in this century with the present ones to realize what a notable advance our nation has made in musical appreciation and understanding.

Beethoven was happiest when closest to nature and conceived some of his greatest ideas while roaming through the suburban woods of his beloved Vienna. Striding sturdily, his disordered hair falling over his forehead, Beethoven would stop suddenly at the call of a bird or the rustle of a stream, pull out his note-book and jot down some theme destined to become immortal. Doubtless those promenades brought to the composer much of the material in his seventh symphony, with its consistently happy and exhilarating moods.

WILL there ever come a day when Beethoven's "Fifth," as it is known professionally, shall fail in its power to impress and enthrall? Never, if you ask those who remain under its consistent spell. Their opinion seems sound, for the "Fifth" is now 130 years old and has lost nothing of its importance and popularity. There is no better medium for the study of symphony construction, as the short and pregnant themes of the first movement register through extreme clarity and may be followed without difficulty in their various changes and combinations. The slow movement has become an immortal song.

Tschaikowsky's vibrant and lovely concerto is played by the skillful and musicianly Lea Luboschutz, Russian, who now teaches at the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia.

THE Dell offers an American conductor and an American soprano, appropriate in the week including July 4. Alfred Wallenstein pays his own national tribute by programming a characteristic excerpt by the New York composer, Morton Gould, who is known to radio also as a pianist and orchestraleader. His "Swing Symphony," as he tells me, is intended "to please the populace and annoy the pedants."

Ernest von Dohnanyi, Hungarian living composer, whom the New York Philharmonic invited as a guest conductor during a recent season, displays melodic resource, instrumental facility and command of color in his fourmovement suite. I like the third division best, a romanza.

Rossini's opera "Semiramis" gets its oriental hues from the nature of the story, which his librettist based on Voltaire's Assyrian tragedy "Semiramis." Composed in 1823, the overture sounds thin to modern ears, but at least tinkles with pretty airs and graces.

Carnival of Popular Music In Festival Summer Series

Saturdays at 10 p.m. EDT on NBC.

ROM Toscanini to the tom-tom, from Wagner to Whiteman, from Beethoven to blues!

A huge leap, but it is being made by NBC in its present summer carnival festivalizing our American popular music. The orgy—beg pardon, the ceremonial series—began July 2, the first event occupying some of the time heretofore accorded to the distinguished concerts of the outstanding NBC Symphony Orchestra.

Rage as the musical intelligentsia will, they should finally realize the fact that their protests and ridicule avail nothing against the unceasing flood of jazz and its related phenomena. Also, the select group with the tall foreheads must admit that the popular type of American music is the kind the overwhelming majority of our public chiefly desires, and represents what the rest of the world regards as the typical expression of Uncle Sam and his nephews and nieces.

Frankly, that is no humiliation for the old gentleman or for the rest of us. If we remember history, we recall that always and everywhere the man in the street has been opposed in art to the man in the intellectual tower. An early American page even records that when a conductor tried to give New York its first introduction to a Haydn symphony, the primitive public of the metropolis cat-called, vegetable-pelted and rotten-egged the daring innovator, and forced him to play "Yankee Doodle" instead. The only consolation for our present superior folk is that the incident took place long ago, and that much Bach, Beethoven and Brahms has flowed under the symphonic bridges since then.

Let us get this right. There is excellent material in the repertoire of American popular music and it atones for a great deal of the lesser stuff. As for the really cheap output, it has ever sat on our shoulders like the ugly gnome that bestrode Sinbad; and the march of time to its finish will still see us tottering, similarly burdened.

The meritorious advance of American popular music may be best understood when we compare the pioneer examples like "Listen to the Mocking Bird" and "Shoo Fly" to "The Man I Love" and "Old Man River" of the present moment. Who so sophisticated, heartless or unrhythmic that he cannot respond to Stephen Foster's songs, the marches of Sousa, the melodies of Herbert and the many tuneful and stirring creations of their successors?

I confess readily that I greatly like to contact the best popular numbers from time to time and that I have not yet found that the experience robs me of love for the compositions of the annointed masters. I feel that "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes" has its place in human enjoyment as justly as the songs of Schubert and Schumann. Furthermore, my ear and fancy do not refuse the appeal of such lovely lyrical gems as "I Married an Angel," "In the Still of the Night" and "Love Walked In." My degradation will be complete in some opinions when I whisper fearsomely that I can respond to "Dinner Music for a Pack of Hungry Cannibals" as well as to the measures which Verdi allots to his well-fed Falstaff.

Having said that, I resignedly await the ax of execution and warn the postman to prepare for a heavy cargo of letters from the most critical of Radio Guide readers! (Before the deluge, however, let me add that Mozart wrote music for the hurdy-gurdy, Bach fathered a "Coffee Cantata," Scarlatti wrote a "Cat Fugue," and Anton Rubinstein intrigued his American admirers with a set of variations on "Yankee Doodle.")

The NBC carnival will parade not only our native array but also the popular repertoire of Europe and South America.

In the nine programs, some of the conductors and performers are Paul Whiteman, the Dorsey Brothers, Fred Waring, Ferde Grofe, Lennie Hayton, Al Goodman, favorite vocal and instrumental soloists and choral groups. To top the festivities, NBC also is broadcasting future hits from the manuscripts of the composers, before the music has reached the hands of the publishers.

If television were perfected and the Elysian Fields could listen in, we might note the smile on the faces of Offenbach, Johann Strauss, Herbert, Sousa, Gershwin, and even Papa Beethoven, who wrote variations on a popular song called "Kakadu the Tailor."

Program Devoted to Job-Seekers

Tuesday, MBS, 11-11:15 p.m.

Commencement for the class of '38 is history. What is not history, how-ever, is the use to which graduates will put the education and training they received during their school years. The application of these gifts of society will be a part of the unpredictable future.

As well prepared, earnest and ambitious as many of these prospective young workers may be, they are finding a new problem to face, a problem that is peculiar to the present day. That obstacle is a competition for employment, the discouraging job of finding a job. Having a job is important for today; having the right job is important for tomorrow.

So, with young men and young wo-men competing for employment with their classmates, and with a much larger group who entered the field of business before them and have not yet been placed, the renewal at this time of the popular educational series de-voted to the cause of the job-seeker is very timely. Although the series has been prepared for all who seek employment, the importance of its endeavors is enhanced many times when hordes of new competitors are turned out from the schools to make their way in the workaday world. Dr. Shirley Austin Hamrin, profes-sor in the School of Education at Northwestern University, is conducting this summer series of eight broadcasts. The third program in the schedule will be presented on Tuesday night over the Mutual network. Dr. Hamrin is introducing a new plan in vocational guidance by radio by selecting the individuals who are interviewed from particular ability groups. By employing this plan he will be able to point out to each individual how he might determine in which group his talents lie.

New Series Shows American Activity

Thursday, NBC, 8-8:30 p.m.

The first program in a new series designed to depict the activities of individuals, corporations and government to improve general conditions in the United States will be heard over NBC on Thursday. In this first half-hour every branch of activity during vacations and leisure hours will be dealt with to show how play puts America to work.

Party Representatives Tell of Party Aims

Monday, CBS, 11-11:30 a.m.

Appropriate for a day that is celebrated as symbolic of the ideals of democracy and freedom, a representative Republican and a representative Democrat will be teamed up in a special Fourth of July broadcast to present the aims and theories of their respective organizations. If these ad-dresses stick close to the problems of the day and outline the suggestions these parties have for the solution of the problems, this broadcast will offer listeners an unusual opportunity to hear both sides of a question that grows hotter and hotter, now that we have passed the half-way mark in the present administration. John Hamilton, chairman of Republican Na-tional Committee, and Claude Pep-per, Senator from Florida, who re-cently brought the New Deal a smashing victory in the Florida primaries, will be the speakers. The talks will be summaries of addresses they are delivering before the summer session of the Institute of Public Affairs, meeting at the University of Virginia at Charlottesville, Virginia. It was in 1776 when Thomas Jef-

It came then to a people who looked hopefully toward their leaders for a solution to the pressing problems of the day. One hundred and sixty-two years have passed since that memorable declaration was made, and the United States, meanwhile, has advanced through many cycles to the position it now maintains as one of the world pow-ers. In 1938, with the affairs of state as grave, at least, as they were then, it is still to the leaders that the people look hopefully for answer to the perplexing problems that this day pre-

HOLLYWOOD

BY EVANS PLUMMER

DOROTHY LAMOUR is righteously indignant that every time she is escorted to a Hollywood party while her bandleading husband, Herbie Kay, is away, divorce rumors start. Herbie understands; even okays her escorts, particularly Randolph Scott. The other day, after a gossip-writer had "tipped off" his readers that Kay was splitting from Lamour, she got mad right down to the roots of her raven hair and long-distance telephoned Herbie, asking, "Herbie, are you divorcing me?" Came the answer, "Me divorcing you? Not that I ever heard of" . . . Lamour points out, "I'm not an old woman yet. I'm still young enough to want to go out and have a good time. After all, I know I'm in love with Herbie and he knows it—so why should I be a recluse when he is out of the city with his band? Herbie doesn't want me to be a hermit."

Incidentally, "Dorothy Lamour" and "Bob Hope," or rather their respective stand-ins at Paramount, were the proud parents of a six-and-a-half-pound son born June 20. The mother, Mrs. Len Hendry, is the girl whose job Miss Lamour protected not so very long ago when the movie studio wanted to discharge her from her work because of approaching motherhood.

Hollywood's Chamber of Commerce is about ready to apply the torch to Charlie McCarthy, they're that burned up. It seems that the C. of C., noting that celebrities had become the proper things to wear as honorary mayors these days, thought that they should confer the honor on the dummy, the first screen or radio celebrity ever to be so honored by the world-famous area which really is a part of Los Angeles. But a hitch came when the "minds" of the agency sponsoring Charlie's inanimate life disclosed their fears that McCarthy was growing too, TOO popular, told of their desire to hold down the fame of the little man until his press-clippings show a slump, and therefore declined the honor with reservations. Past experiences have invariably proved it to this writer, however, that when someone NEEDS publicity, he finds it practically impossible to get . . In fact, right now, I am informed, the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce is considering for the spurned post none other than Charlie's coffee-selling rival, Fannie Brice's "Baby Snooks"!

When Joan Benny, three-year-old daughter of Comedian Jack Benny, met Charlie McCarthy recently, his first request was for a kiss. Joan gladly obliged as Edgar Bergen, Papa Jack and Mama Mary Livingstone looked on

In keeping with Robert Taylor's publicity build-up for he-man roles, he must dress the part, was seen at a "Good News" rehearsal recently dressed in slacks, sports coat, to play opposite the screen's Margaret Sullavan (above)

That crack of Charlie's on the June 19 opus, "Careful, Bergen, or I'll close your other eye," was the result of Bergen's left eye being swollen shut—not from a fist but from make-up infection.

Speaking of Fannie Brice, please recall the "Good News" edition of June 16 in which the rendition of Ed Sullivan's tone - poem was supplemented by tap-dance effects by Ann Pennington. Now Ann isn't the chipper young thing of yester - starring years. Time has caught up with her and the bank balance isn't tops. But Fannie, her old friend, hasn't forgotten. Miss Brice shelters and pals with Ann—and you can bet your last dollar that it was Fannie who saw to it, when a tap-dance routine was required, that "Good News" gave the job to Miss Pennington . . . for Fannie's that way.

Gracie Allen threw, on June 18— Mary Livingstone Benny's birthday a gala party for 250 guests honoring Mary and equaling any Hollywood orgy ever staged by Marion Davies, but out of the party came a Burns family secret: Gracie calls George Nat; he tags her Googie . . . Hah!

Thousands of dollars worth of flowers must have been used in decorating the walls of the dancing and dining tents at the Burns and Allen shindig. One tent covered a portable dancefloor erected over the B&A swimming-pool and in an adjoining flower-decorated tent an elaborate dinner was served and topped by a birthday cake in the shape of the new Spanish-type home Jack Benny is completing in Beverly Hills. Jack was called upon to master-of-ceremony an extravagant floor-show with many acts, including an opener consisting of a dress-designer who draped costumes onto live models who first appeared in underthings.

You can't persuade "Oswald" (Tony Labriola) there's nothing to superstitions. His lucky brown derby, worn at all performances of "Hollywood Hotel," disappeared a few weeks ago. The next week he was told by the sponsor that they would complete the series without his services, having tabled the humor angle.

The complaint and barrage of envious newspaper-advertising sales executives, in convention recently, that radio's ability to pull results was grossly exaggerated was belied the other day by George McCall's CBS-aired "Screenscoops." Endeavoring to contact for a movie producer friend the survivors of the S. S. Titanic sinking, McCall asked them to write in. Within less time than it takes for this to go to press, a total of 181 letters from eye-witnesses or rescued passengers and crew of the shipwreck were received!

Claire Trevor has changed her wedding plans, due to film commitments. Instead of at Boston, her vows with "Big Town" Producer Clark Andrews will be spoken in Hollywood—and the affair must wait until August.

It begins to look like a busy year for lovely Irene Rich. Just renewed for another year by her grape-juice-selling sponsor, she only recently began work in addition at the Universal Pictures lot, where she is playing the role of Deanna Durbin's mother, and no sooner had she started the latter until the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios gave her a call—to consider work in another picture!

Margaret McKay, whose dulcet voice frequently tells you the merits of soaps and such, week-ended recently at a genuine steer ranch and became a momentary cowgirl. At the stables one of the cowboys was pitching—hay—when his aim went wild and she was struck in the head by—you guess what. She claims the soap she advertises did a marvelous cleaning-up job!

Tag Lines: Tony Martin, when he winds up for a Grape-Nuts summer recess August 1, will take the band he has been rehearsing on a personal-appearance swing . . . Bob Burns will be busy from mid-July on. Starting July 13 to act in Paramount's filming of "The Arkansas Traveler," the next day he'll take the helm of "Kraft Hall" for the duration of Crosby's vacation . . . Joan Bennett's pay, since she appeared on the Jell-O show recently as a friendly gesture and movie plug, was the gift of a jeweled clip from Jack Benny . . . After July 4, when Lux Theater rests, its impresario, Cecil B. DeMille, will take a synthetic vacation on his own "Union Pacific" sets. His picture schedule calls for him to roll the historic epic during the hot months.

Tommy Dorsey recently received the degree of "master of music for moderns" from Mary Jane Marxer, left, and Topaze Riles, radio students of Drake University. The presentation took place in the new campus studios ATE SMITH is being seriously considered to conduct the "We, the People" program when it returns in the fall. She will still have her regular Thursday show and perhaps resume the thrice-weekly newscasts. What a busy gal she will be ... Incidentally, the producers of Kate's program have changed their minds about resuming the country-wide search for dramatic talent when the program comes back in the fall. It seems they couldn't please everyone concerned and too many people were disappointed ... Andre Kostelanetz will conduct three broadcasts from South America on July 31, August 7, and August 14. They will be shortwaved to America and will be heard over the CBS Coast-to-Coast net ... Kosty was presented with a beautiful watch by his Chesterfield cigarette sponsor in appreciation of his splendid work during the four years he has been on the air for them.

Our personal good wishes to Irene Beasley, who returns to CBS this Monday . . . Ray Morton, the new singer on "Hobby Lobby," was formerly with the Ruby Newman band . . "First Nighter" will not switch to CBS . . . Vic and Sade celebrated their sixth anniversary on the networks last Wednesday . . . The "Metropolitan Auditions of the Air" has signed for its fourth consecutive season, beginning October 9 . . Milton Geiger, a young and clever writer who has had quite a number of his playlets presented on the Rudy Vallee and Don Ameche programs, will author the new "Attorney-at-Law" series, which replaces Fibber McGee starting this Tuesday night . . Tommy Riggs and Betty Lou faded from the Vallee show after last Thursday night's broadcast. Now if they would only take the loud Stroud twins off the Sunday night coffee show, I'd be happee about the whole thing. Who seconds the motion?

George Putnam and Henry Nelly are new additions to the CBS announcing staff in New York . . Announcer Andre Baruch didn't get the thrill many baseball fans did when Cincinnati pitcher Vander Meer pitched his second no-hit-no-run game in a row. Andre had to stay up till 4:30 ayem the following morning dubbing his voice for the newsreel presentation of the baseball star. Incidentally, I'm told a radio producer tried to get Vander Meer to appear for three minutes on a big radio show, but when the asking price was $1,000, he was sorry he brought up the whole thing . . . "Hobby Lobby" has the distinction of having appeared on all three major networks. It started on Mutual; then went to CBS; and now it is to be heard over NBC . . Don McNeill has compiled 100 of the most-requested poems read on the "Breakfast Club," and they are now published in book form called "Memory Time," which is selling fast.

Just learned that Eddie Cantor presented Rudy Vallee with a yacht when Rudy pinch-hitted for the comic the week he took sick and was off the program. The cruiser is christened "Banjo Eyes" . . . Major Bowes has had a ship-to-shore phone installed on his yacht and if you want to call him sometime ask the operator for WBOZ, which are his calletters . . The Major, by the way, just bought himself a nice piece of real estate on Madison Ave., in New York . . . Getting back to boats, Al Pearce had his thirty-five-footer shipped to the West Coast and it will be there by the time he arrives. Pearce also had a phone installed on his boat and he tells me that he can call any number on shore from 1,000 miles out at sea . . Jean Paul King purchased a thirty-nine-foot cruiser and will spend most of his time on the water during the hot-weather months.

More about boats . . . Eddie Cantor, Meredith ("Good News") Willson, Don Ameche and Chester Lauck (Lum of "Lum and Abner") will all be on the Queen Mary when it sails for England on July 6 . . . Songstress Ruth Lyon has been granted a three-month leave of absence and sailed for a European trip on June 24 . . . Vivian della Chiesa is bound for Italy, where she will sing in Italian and Swiss operas . . . By the time you read this, Actress Betty Garde and Barbara Weeks will be on a boat bound for Bermuda. Ditto Al Pearce, who returns on July 13 to guestar on the "Town Hall Treasure Hunt."

Vacation Notes: Kate Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Collins and daughter left June 25 for their Lake Placid home and will remain there throughout the summer . . . Kate's bandleader, Jack Miller, will spend part of the summer at his home on Long Island and then spend a few weeks around

AIRIALTO

BY MARTIN LEWIS

Cape Cod . . . Comics Abbott and Costello will keep on working during the summer. They'll be at the famous Steel Pier in Atlantic City . . . Alice Frost leaves the "Big Sister" program on July 8 for a three-week vacation . . Baritone Buddy Clark, who won a Massachusetts court decision to retain that name, has taken a place at Deal Beach in Jersey and will spend most of his time on the beach.

Mary Margaret McBride will vacation with her mother for the entire month of July. When she returns to the air, she'll be heard Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays instead of fiveweekly broadcasts . . . Connie Boswell is spending a great deal of her off-theair time at Sister Martha's farm, Peekskill, New York, where there are plenty of cows and chickens . . . Soprano Helen Alexander of "Major Bowes" Capitol Family" program has departed for Italy to study voice and make a few concert appearances . . Betty Barthell, the CBS songstress who deserted the airlanes for married life in China, is back in the U. S. A. to stay. She and her hubby returned on the Clipper and will settle down in Baltimore . . . Bob Trout went fishing for the first time during a recent visit to Washington and the first fish he caught was (I'll give you two guesses) a trout! Right the first time! . . . During their lay-off, a couple of the boys in Fred Waring's band are touring the country demonstrating Fred's new mixer at $40.00 per week . . Kate Smith has written a book, "Hello, Everybody," and it will be published early in October.

Another complex schedule is that of Elspeth Eric of "Joyce Jordan, Girl Interne." Elspeth, whom most of us remember as Drina in the play, "Dead End," will be playing in the "Inner Light" up at the summer theater at Westport, Conn., during most of July. Her daily script serial is over at 9:30 a.m., and her rehearsals begin at 11:00 a.m. up in Westport, which is, incidentally, almost a two-hour drive from New York. Elspeth's just bought herself a new car, and she's praying for the mercy of the motorcycle coppers. And after her evening performance at Westport, she'll have to rush back to New York, to be at Columbia at 9:00 a.m. for her "Girl Interne" rehearsals and program. Who said the life of a radio star is a cinch?

Short-wave programs of American stations are shown along with the regular listings beginning on page 25. These are indicated, for example, by (sw-11.87) in parentheses following a program listing. This means that on 11.87 megacycles the same program may also be heard over an American short wave station. Please note that foreign stations denot always adhere precisely to their announced program schedules.

On Short Waves

Edited by Chas. A. Morrison

President, International DX'ers Alliance

Times indicated on this page are for Eastern Daylight Saving Time. For EST and CDT subtract 1 hour; for CST, 2 hours; for MST, 3 hours; for PST, 4 hours oR the past several days I have been making a study of the effect of high altitudes and mountainous country on radio reception in general and on short-wave reception in particular. My temporary head-quarters are at the beautiful Lewiston Hotel which, 7,800 feet above sea-level, is perched on a picturesque cliff 300 feet above the foaming waters of Fall River and just on the outskirts of Estes Park Village, Colorado, which has been dubbed the rado, which has been dubbed the Shangri-La of the Rockies, and is the eastern gateway to Rocky Mountain National Park—including sixty-five named peaks more than 10,000 feet high feet high.

Daylight broadcast-band reception during the summer months is practically limited to the Denver stations due not only to the screening effect of the mountains but to the almost continuous static. At nights and in the winter, reception is somewhat improved. On the other hand, shortwave reception is quite fair here, and wave reception is quite fair here, and is, in fact, not only more enjoyable than broadcast-band reception due to the almost complete absence of static, but provides, through such stations as W3XAL, W2XAD and W2XE, the only possible program service from the East, which is not carried on the local stations. England, Germany and other foreign countries come through with marked clarity and volume. It is reported that high-frequency reception on that that high-frequency reception on that superb section of Trail Ridge Road, which runs for more than five miles at an average elevation of more than 12,000 feet, is exceptional in its crystal clarity.

At a recent gathering of National Park Service officials, I was privileged to listen in on some of the most thrilling possible stories concerning the role that short-wave communications have played in our national parks. Permission to relate some of these true stories, as well as to reproduce some rare photographs, has been granted to RADIO GUIDE, and I hope to give you this material from time to time in ensuing issues.

According to the National Radio Club, RCA proposes to erect at Alpine, N. J., a 50,000-watt ultra-high-frequency transmitter which, operating on frequencies between 41.02 and 43.98 megs, would supply high fidelity and interference-free programs for the cities of New Jersey and New York.

Ashley Walcott of San Francisco, Calif., furnishes me with the latest information concerning the short-wave stations in Asia and Oceana as follows: The Chinese Government Radio Administration has again got Radio Administration has again got its internal telephone service in working order. Hankow uses XTJ (11.7) or XTK (9.08) to phone Can-ton and Swatow, daily from 5:30 to 9 a.m. EDT. The Canton station, which operates on 9.485 megs, uses the call XTV when in communication with Hankow, and the call XRB with Hankow, and the call XRB when phoning San Francisco, at 10:15 a.m. EDT. Swatow uses either XTS on 11.44, or XTR on 9.4 megs . . . There are two new Japanese ship-to-shore telephone circuits for ships working on 6.65 megs. One is at Kobe, on about 8.35 megs, the other at Moji, on 6.17 megs. These are heard from 6 to 9 a.m. EDT . . The new Stations ZHO and ZHP, located at Singapore, apparently are not on any kind of a regular schedule. ZHP has been heard once or twice testing in the early mornings on a frequency of 9.53 megs, being heard with greatest signal strength near 10:30 a.m. EDT, but announcing merely, "This is the Singapore station testing on a frequency of 9.53 megacycles." ZHO has not been heard at all . . . For an output of forty-nine watts, little ZHJ of Penang, F. M. S., puts in a remarkably strong signal, week-days from 7:40 to 9:40 a.m. EDT. The present frequency is 6.057 megs, just a few kilocycles below W8XAL, Cincinnati, O. . . YDB of Soerabaia, Java, is coming through on 15.3 megs daily from approximately 8:30 p.m. to 2 a.m. EDT. The signal is not only strong, but the "Hier is de NI-ROM te Batavia" is unmistakable. with Hankow, and the call XRB when phoning San Francisco, at 10:15

SPECIAL MEDAL OF MERIT

TO THE YANKEE NETWORK

NDER the American system of broadcasting, individual initiative is encouraged to the utmost. The result is that many radio stations develop services and features which are far beyond the merely adequate. RADIO GUIDE calls attention to those services in the belief that it aids the cause of the listener.

Conspicuous for its merit is a service offered listeners by the Yankee Network of New England. The program is known by name as the Yankee Network Weather Service. Many stations offer weather services, but more often than not theirs is a mere routine reading of a government handout. It is typical of the energy of the men behind the Yankee Network that they established on the highest mountain within reach a year-round weatherobservation tower which is manned by experts, which does its job day in and day out, during blizzards or sun-storms, in order that the people of its territory may have the best and most accurate information that man can collect.

In the last analysis, it is just a weather service, of course, but Radio Guide is happy to point to it and what it means because it represents the added value and usefulness that can be put into the most commonplace thing by men with imagination and daring.

RADIO GUIDE'S Special Medal of Merit is offered to radio stations, networks, or operators for conspicuous initiative and rendering of service for the public well-being. The achievements of the Yankee Network weather service measure up to the high standard demanded. With the wish that it may enjoy many more years of public service, we present to the Yankee Network Weather Service our Special Medal of Merit.

SPAIN IS IN THE

These eventualities would produce a world war. In Washington, D. C., today, the best-informed opinion is that the United States would enter a second world war much more quickly than it entered the first! It is hard for the average American to appreciate that fact. Daily, on every hand, we see evidences of the intensity and strength of pacifism in this country. Admittedly, the American people do not want war. The American people never have wanted war, but on the other hand, they have never been afraid of war, and the strong sense of justice inherent in most Americans is easily roused and converted into a warlike crusading spirit.

Strongest factors in support of the contention that the entrance of the United States into a war tomorrow might be much quicker than its entrance the last time are, first, the fact that if war comes, it will be a war be tween fascism and democracy, and the American people, always strongly are today intensely bitter democratic, against the fascist nations. Anti-German feeling is much stronger now than it was before the World War. Secondly, strong as the pacifist movement is today, the fact remains that it was just as strong, if not stronger, in 1914!

Spain, then, comes home to American citizens and radio listeners with a ven-geance. The Spanish civil war is more than a mere bloody struggle in a far-away foreign land. It is a portent of what may befall the whole world, in-cluding the United States! To be eternally remembered is the fact that the best safeguard of peace is truth—the facts. When radio brings you news from the Spanish battle-fields, remember that your opinion on that news definitely matters. Listen to that news, and evaluate it. It may be very important.

MR. FAIRFAX KNOWS ALL

No personal replies to questions unless accompanied by stamped, self-addressed envelope.

JAN KIEPURA made his debut with the Metropolitan Opera Company on February 10, 1938. He was born the son of a prosperous Polish merchant. His father sent him to Warsaw to study law, but his persistence in singing led to an abrupt break in parental support. Jan then joined a traveling troupe. An operatic scout heard him sing "Faust," and took him back to Warsaw to sing a Puccini role. His success was immediate, and he was called to sing in many cities in Europe before he returned to Poland famous at 22 years of age. In the United States he has been known chiefly as a singing star of motion pictures. Prior to his debut at the "Met," he sang with the Chicago City Opera.—Mrs. B. H. B., Traverse City, Mich.

Announcer EDWARD J. HERLIHY is not married. PAT (Uncle Ezra) BARRETT was born in Holden, Missouri, on September 27, 1887. WILLIE MORRIS was recently married to Stephen G. Crean, Jr., a New York hotel operator.—M. G., Fairfield, Me.

ANYTHING ON YOUR HEAD IS A HAT

A LLEN PRESCOTT, well remembered as "The Wife Saver," turned his mind recently in a moment of whimsy to the styles of the ladies' latest chapeaux. Utilizing such kitchenware as happened to be in his own stock, Prescott adorned the elfin Judy Starr in creations which so closely parallel accepted styles as modeled by Ruth Carhart that these pictures were made to perpetuate his findings. Anyone interested may prove to himself that all three collaborators pictured here have other and more commendable occupations by listening at the prescribed times: Allen Prescott, "Say It With Words," 9:30 p.m. EDT, Tuesdays on the Mutual Broadcasting System; Judy Starr, Hal Kemp's "Time to Shine," 10 p.m. EDT Tuesdays on the Columbia Broadcasting System; Ruth Carhart, 11 a.m. EDT, Mondays on the Columbia Broadcasting System. No one assumes responsibility for any outrages milliners may now perpetrate!

Exclusive Radio Guide Photographs by Charles Seawood

The differences between the hat worn by Judy Starr (center) and Ruth Carhart's are as follows: Ruth's is expensive, fragile, fashionable, made of straw and imitation flowers. Judy's is a frying-pan, upturned and bent, with real daisies attached by Prescott!

Prescott opines that the orange-juicer-with-daffodils model is "within the means of the woman in the street" — further guesses that that's where most husbands might dispose of it

Obvious advantages of Allen Prescott's home-made model over the store-bought article are easily noted: Judy's Prescott creation of wide-brimmed breadboard-with-clothesline is more durable, cheaper than Ruth's somewhat similar, but swanky, straw skimmer

If you guess that the rakish model Judy Starr is demonstrating for Prescott is an upside-down funnel with a stalk of asparagus projecting through the spout, you're exactly right!

ANOTHER AMECHE BECOMES A FATHER

James Ameche, Jr., was born on March 23, cried lustily (but hasn't cried as much since as most babies do). He finds his father to be quite a fellow, demands more companionship—especially around 2 a.m. feeding-time!

Jim Jr. was Bette Ameche's first-born. His grandparents live in Hollywood in a home provided for them by Don. He will have to better Don's children, Donnie, 4, and Ronnie, 2, to carry the torch of Ameche acting!

AMES AMECHE and Don Ameche suggest that for once Nature was well enough pleased with her handiwork to do the whole thing over again. Twenty-three-year-old Jim looks like a retouched picture of Don, and listeners are constantly astonished at the resemblance of their voices on the air. This week many listeners will hear Jim for the first time, for on Sunday night at 9, EDT (6:30 PST for the West), he takes over the leading role in NBC's new series, "Win Your Lady." This climaxes a series of promotions Jim has had during the past year. Until recently the most exciting thing that had happened to him was a congratulatory telegram from Don after his first "Grand Hotel" performance.

More exciting than that, though, was the birth on March 23 of Jim Jr. On the assumption that what has happened twice might tion that what has happened twice might happen again, Radio Guide shows another Ameche who may some day carry on the tradition of excellent Ameche acting being established by Don and Jim, Sr.

Radio Guide Photographs by Gene Lester

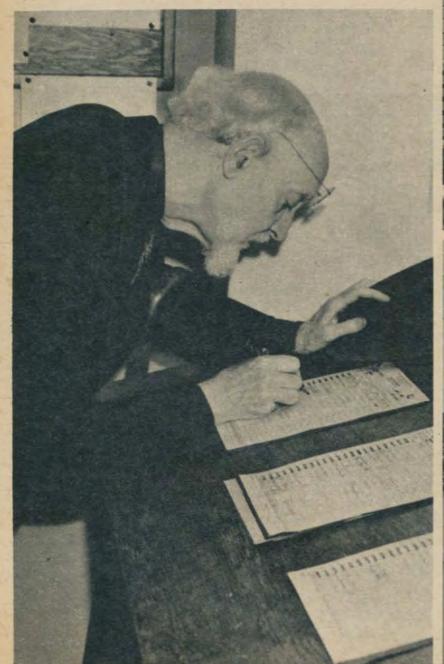

The Ameches live unpretentiously in Oak Park, a suburb of Chicago, where Don made his reputation as star of "Grand Hotel," "First Nighter." Many believe Jim's talent, rather than his resemblance to Don, will soon take him to Hollywood too

UNCLE SAM BROADCASTS: AS "GOVERNMENT RADIO"

Federal Theatre Radio Divi

Above: In this room the directors of the Federal Theatre Radio Division programs plan their broadcasts. The WPA radio project began two years ago on a local New York station, has now expanded to all major networks Lucius Henderson is probably oldest working actor in the world. He's 93, played in musical comedies 50 years ago, was on Broadway in 1884. Above: Now an FTRD "regular," he signs in daily for new jobs!

WITHIN recent months the Federal government has played an increasingly important ingly important part in conversation about radio. As for real action, little has happened, but almost every day some new reports or rumors have come in about a Congressional investigation of the Federal Communications Commission; or about a Federal Communications Commission investigation of a hypothetical "radio monopoly," or of a "radio dictator," or the elimination of "superpower" (more than FTRD actors are colorful; most of them have earned big salaries at some time. Maximum WPA salary is $23.80. One object of the project is to avoid depletion of talent; many stage actors go from FTRD shows to commercial programs. Above: Work for all!

DON'T LOOK TOO FAR FOR YOUR FUN

Like home-makers and office-workers, artists find their work demands more nervous energy than physical. To balance that without straining themselves, many turn to retreats such as the Valley Dude Ranch, 86 miles from the heart of Manhattan, for frequent workouts. Above: Betty Wragge and Dell Sharbutt start out ACATIONERS, as soon as they revert to their normal routines, are generally willing to agree with doctors that hectic holidays are bad business. Most people whose lives provide little exercise overtax themselves on their vacations by working too hard at "getting healthy." Instead of such flash-in-the-pan activity, doctors urge week-to-week health-courting, such as Betty Wragge, Peg La Centra, Dell Sharbutt and Dave Grant demonstrate in these pictures.

Photographs by Charles Seawood

Principal attraction at the "dude ranch" are miles of open trails. Above: Peg La Centra and Dave Grant ride along (rear)

Left to right: Dell Sharbutt, Dave Grant, Milton Stern (co-owner of the ranch), Betty Wragge (shooting) and Peg La Centra (with gun across knees). They've found that diversified sports help prevent strain on any one set of muscles, recommend outings for others whose work doesn't keep them in top physical condition

Betty (left) is "Peggy" on "Pepper Young's Family" on NBC daily. Peg is the only girl on "For Men Only" on NBC Wed. nights

Among most common errors of vacationers are muscular strains (spectator activities, such as watching riders in the corral above, prevent this), over-exposure to the sun (which strains nerves, heart, prevents sound sleep) and eye-strain, also from the sun. Outings should be frequent and must include plenty of rest. Valley Ranch rates are typical of resorts handy to all cities: $7 per day (including meals, cabin, horse); $45 per week, $15 for a week-end

Table tennis (better known by a brand name, ping pong) intrigues Betty (left) and Peg. They're not expert, but enthusiastic. Bad recreations are those requiring more stamina (rather than more energy) than participants have Sharbutt (left) announced the Songshop—and drinks Coca Cola; Grant (next to him), singer and pianist with the Steinie Bottle Boys, drinks from one of the containers he advertised. Many radio stars are not so loyal to sponsors!

This trick, demonstrated by one of the cowboys employed by the ranch, is not difficult for the horse, since the hurdle is low, but demands co-ordination from the rider because of the bar overhead. A "dude," according to the dictionary, is a fop or dandy. Western slang has attached the title to easterners unaccustomed to ranch life. "Atmosphere" is one of the most important elements in dude-ranching. Most cities have places similar to this near by

WHAT'S BECOME OF-

Gene and Glenn were favorites as early as 1929, created "Jake and Lena," one of the first big comedy teams. In real life Gene Carroll (left) and Glenn Rowell, they now broadcast on NBC Tuesdays on the West Coast, Fridays on a broadcast that also reaches the Midwest

Donald Dickson, baritone, was a sensational "find" last year, sang on the Sealtest series and at the "Met." Now he's on a Yankee network series Sundays at 6:45 p.m. EDT

Donald Novis (left) won the Atwater Kent 1928 auditions, was "America's most promising singer," then a top star. Now he's staging a "comeback" on a West Coast program

"Colonel Lemuel Q. Stoopnagle" (above) and his equally shallow-witted stooge, "Budd," have been a big-time team for so long that their character names are household words. Recently they—F. Chase Taylor ("Stoop-nagle") and Budd Hulick ("Budd")—broke up their partnership, both got jobs. Budd is on MBS Friday nights on "What's My Name?" "Stoop" is on the Yankee net with Donald Dickson in a Sunday night commercial series

The exciting drama of man's fight to banish illness and early death from the earth, his fight against microbes, hunger, disease and poverty is being told in a series of radio dramatizations of the five books of the noted scientist-writer. Paul de Kruif. "Microbe Hunters."
"Hunger Fighters. "Mon
Azainst Death," "Why Keep Them Alive?" and "The Fight for Life." The second programof the series will be "Spallanzani: Microbes Must Be Parents." Spallanzani, an Italian born in 1729, was the first to prove that the theory of spontaneous generation was incorrect, an important step in microbe huntling.

SUMMER CONTESTS

HIS list of national contests, in-THIS list of national contests, including those which are not broadcast as well as those on the air, is published weekly in Radio Guide during the summer months. During the season when there is greater activity in contesting, Radio Guide publishes, in addition to "Your Opportunity Guide," which lists all the outstanding contests, a department of contest tips, news and advice. This is known as contests, a department of contest tips, news and advice. This is known as "So You Like Contests?" and appears each week during the winter. Widely praised as one of the most helpful of all contest features, "So You Like Contests?" will return to Radio Guide in the fall. In the meantime, keep up with current contest activity with the at-a-glance list below. at-a-glance list below.
