HELP WANTED!

The Door Is Open

"How can I get a job on the radio?" The question is asked anyone who is connected with the business of broadcasting. Proud parents and ambitious youngsters stalk the Broadways of every important radio center in America seeking a key that will open the doors of opportunity.

Now is their time.

Those who come to us are being told to forget about summer vacations and the natural hot-weather desire to take it easy. Summertime schedules are the happy hunting grounds of newcomers with talent. There is hardly a station in the land that has not found it necessary to provide new programs to replace those which have gone off the air.

Through the summer, station managers must put on many new shows. They must present new ideas and new talent. In every big city the "Help Wanted" sign hangs out for budding stars who can entertain radio listeners.

It isn't easy to plan a broadcast or rehearse when the temperature is kissing the 100-degree mark. So a vigorous beginner who isn't afraid to work has a chance to find success and fame. Surely, he can get experience. Don't worry about networks. Try your nearest station, then the next. If your program is different, entertaining, or possesses the quality of greatness, the networks will soon come after you.

braying of the ding-donging Mr. Calloway. When swing first started, it was amusing to hear trumpeters go crazy and saxophonists indulging in tootling somersaults.

But our patience now grows short. The swing specialists are invading the field of sacred music. That is too much. A letter is on our desk now. It says: "I tuned in on the program by Tommy Dorsey's orchestra . . . the first thing I heard was a jazz rendition of that lovely hymn 'Going Home.' The last time I heard this tune was when it was sung at my husband's funeral a few days ago. Many friends have joined me in saying they will never listen to Tommy Dorsey again."

We know it was not the intent of Mr. Dorsey to hurt any widow's feelings—yet that happened. We know Mr. Calloway means no offense to the great Toscanini or his followers—yet it is happening.

Offenses such as these cause some of us to wonder if the broadcasting industry is doing all that it might to practise the self-regulation which it proclaims is all it needs.

Another Joe Louis Record

Joe Louis' assault on Mr. Schmeling's jaw created several new boxing records. It also created a listening record. On the evening of the fight, if you listened, you were one of approximately 68,000,000 Americans who tuned to the "one punch" broadcast. No other program in radio's short history has reached such a high mark.

It reminds us again that radio is the most powerful single force in the world, also the most useful and also the most dangerous, if used with malice.

DEVILBUGS AND DOCTORS

FIGHTING DISEASE HAS BEEN THE AIM IN PAUL DE KRUIF'S LIFE. NOW LISTENERS WILL HEAR HIS STORIES IN DRAMATIZED FORM OVER CBS THURS.

PAUL DE KRUIF stands six-feet-something tall in his bare feet and weighs 220 pounds. Hard as steel, bursting with vitality, carrying with him wherever he goes the boundless enthusiasm of a child—or a genius—Paul de Kruif has spent most of his adult life jousting a one-man crusade against Death. "He rides to microbes," Heywood Broun recently wrote, "as other men ride to hounds."

No other individual in America—in the world, for that matter—has done so much to arouse public consciousness to the necessity for determined action in the fight against disease. In his five books—"Microbe Hunters," "Hunger Fighters," "Men Against Death," "Why Keep Them Alive?" and "The Fight For Life"—De Kruif has carried the fight to the world. His books have been translated into a dozen languages. In more than half a hundred magazine articles he has sounded the battlecry, harrying the American reading public and American medical men into new and feverish activity in the fight against death.

Now Paul de Kruif comes to radio. In a series now on the air, and scheduled to run for fifty-two weeks, the Columbia Broadcasting System and the Federal Theatre Radio Division will bring to American listeners dramatizations of the deeply moving and inspirational stories that have made best-sellers of De Kruif's books: the stories of the greatest figures in the oldest war in the world, a war that dates back to the very dawn of civilization itself—the war against disease. Titled "Men Against Death," the program will bring to new millions knowledge of what has been done in the past, what must be done in the future to free mankind from the great scourges of nature: useless suffering and early death through disease.

"MOST of radio's millions," says Dr. de Kruif, "have never read my books or even heard of them. I sincerely believe that it is these millions and not the comparatively few thousands who can afford to pay three dollars for a book who, when they learn the power of science, will finally act to make science come into its own and change the life of mankind."

And so there has come to radio at last the stories of Leeuwenhoek, perfector of the microscope and first to prove the existence of microbes; the story of Koch, who discovered the tuberculosis germ; of Lister, first great surgeon to operate in a germ-free atmosphere; of Pasteur, that giant among medical men who proved the deadliness of bacteria, of Spallanzani, the eighteenth-century Italian who laid much of the groundwork for Pasteur, and of dozens of the other immortals of medicine.

Characteristically, Paul de Kruif has given the Federal Theatre permission to use his books without royalty or any other charge, and the Columbia Broadcasting System, in addition to donating Coast-to-Coast time for the broadcast, has assigned two top-ranking experts to the "Men Against Death" staff: George Zachary will direct, and Bernard Herrmann, young composer-conductor, will supervise the musical treatment. Much of the music, incidentally, will be written by Herrmann for this program alone. Leo Fontaine of the Federal Theatre staff, remembered for his brilliant adaptation of the "Epic of America" series, will handle the continuity on the program.

What sort of a man is this Paul de Kruif? Although he would deny it, his name is almost a household word, yet the American public actually knows very little about him. He has written hundreds of thousands of words—but always about other men, never himself. Great, lusty, vibrant though he may be—the exact opposite of a modest man, one would think, looking at him—the fact of the matter is that Paul de Kruif's intense interest in the task he has set himself is so all-pervading that he has no time to think of himself, no inclination to intrude himself in matters which he considers of much greater importance!

Since he first sprang into prominence, Paul de Kruif has been approached dozens of times by other writers anxious to tell the world all about him. Most men who make their living at the business of writing are vain, and there are few of them who are not anxious for personal publicity. But not Paul de Kruif. To every suggestion of publicity he has made the same unequivocal answer—no. With the exception of a little sixty-page book, written for private circulation by one of his close associates, the story of Paul de Kruif up to this time has never been told.

IT IS a story that should be told, for it is a story of devotion to an ideal, single-minded determination, persistence, courage—the sort of story that one doesn't often hear. Paul de Kruif has taken the world of medicine by the ears and shaken it upside down. And he has done it in the face of the sternest opposition. He has fought a good fight to make the world a better place to live in—and it's a fight that isn't half over yet. It will go on just as long as Paul de Kruif can lift his hands to a typewriter.

and that is likely to be a long time. And it will go on after that.

Paul de Kruif was born in Michigan, around the turn of the century. He still lives there, in a rambling, rough-hewn house that sits low against the ground on the shores of Lake Michigan, ten miles from the nearest town. He hasn't a telephone, because answering it takes too much time, time that he can put to a better use; and in the winter, when the lake piles up mountains of ice 150 feet from the front door and deep snow blankets the heavy woods around the house, Paul de Kruif and his wife travel on skis. It's typical of Paul de Kruif that his home should be tucked away in an almost inaccessible woody place, typical that he should swim in Lake Michigan almost before the ice has broken up. For that's the kind of man he is: he loves life, lives it to the full, and does his level best to make the lives of other people just as lusty and full of zest as his own.

Medicine, and particularly bacteriology, began to fascinate Kruif while he was still in his teens. He studied bacteriology at the University of Michigan, was made an assistant professor in that department in 1914, won his Ph. D. two years later. Then, simply because he was tired of study and wanted a little action, he joined the National Guard. He saw action against Villa in Mexico, and when the United States entered the war he went overseas as a lieutenant in the Sanitary Corps.

The war over, Kruif took a job on the research staff of Rockefeller Institute. That was in 1920, and it didn't take him long to get himself into trouble. Although Paul de Kruif was a bacteriologist, most of his friends were writers—and a hard-bitten lot they were, too, full of the post-war cynicism that was beginning to roll over America at that time. Kruif met Glenn Frank, then editor of the old Century Magazine, and Frank suggested that he write a series of articles on medicine. Kruif set promptly to work and in due time the articles were published—anonimously. For there was dynamite in them. Paul de Kruif has never hesitated to call a spade a spade, and he saw fit in the Century articles to handle certain eminent medical men much more roughly than they'd ever been handled before. Some of them were attached to the Rockefeller Institute, and when word of the authorship of the offending articles leaked out, young Paul de Kruif was out of a job.

It was one of the most important things that ever happened to him. Because, although he didn't know it yet, Paul de Kruif was cut out not to practise bacteriology but to write about it, and about everything else under the medical sun. He was not long in getting at it. First off, he made a book—"Our Medicine Men"—out of the Century articles. And he continued to sell medical stories wherever he could. Then, one fine bright day, he met Sinclair Lewis.

For a long time Paul de Kruif had been concentrating on the idea of writing a novel, a dozen novels. Sinclair Lewis was his ideal. When the two men met, Lewis was planning a novel about the medical profession. He needed a collaborator, someone who knew medical history inside and out. He offered the job to Paul de Kruif, and the two of them set off for Europe. There, after Kruif had poured Lewis full of his own leaping enthusiasm, "Arrowsmith" was written. It was one of Sinclair Lewis' greatest successes. There is more of Paul de Kruif in "Arrowsmith" than the world knows. To a very large extent, Martin Arrowsmith is Paul de Kruif, and the book is strongly biographical.

Perhaps it was his association with Sinclair Lewis that did it, but at any rate, not long after "Arrowsmith" was finished, Paul de Kruif arrived at the conclusion that has been the keystone of his success. He decided that no one had written about medicine in the proper, human fashion. Wherever he turned in his reading, he was met by the same pompous, "high-brow" terminology. "All very well for doctors themselves," Paul de Kruif reasoned, "but what about the layman? What about Mr. Joe Smith, who has just as much right as anyone else to know what's going on to make his life longer, and safer, and happier?" So Kruif decided to take the stiff shirt off medical literature, to write about the great medical discoveries exactly as they really were—honest, human, full of the pulsing drama of life itself. The result was "Microbe Hunters," a best-seller at the time and even today, twelve years later, very much in demand. The book has been translated into thirteen languages, has sold something over 500,000 copies. When it was finished, when it rolled off the publisher's presses, Paul de Kruif knew that at last he had found the right road.

HE HAS been traveling that road ever since. When "Microbe Hunters" was first published, the manuscript was sent to a magazine, the Country Gentleman, and parts of it were published by that magazine in serial form. Since that time, Paul de Kruif has written some fifty articles for the Country Gentleman, and his association with Philip Rose, editor of the magazine, has been of vital importance to him.

Essentially a reporter, and a good one—thorough, objective, painstaking—Paul de Kruif is still much more than that. Although he is best known in his role of chronicler of medical history, past and present, there is another side to the man: he is himself a fighter in the front ranks of the battle. In the battle against tuberculosis, for instance; in the current widespread campaign against syphilis (incidentally, Paul de Kruif was the first writer to use the plain word syphilis in a popular magazine) against infantile paralysis and on a dozen other fronts, Paul de Kruif has been a moving spirit and a leader.

gious and that its control hinged simply on proper diet. Those who had the proper things to eat—meat, milk, plenty of fresh green vegetables—were never attacked by pellagra. But, although Dr. Goldberger had the solution, it was Paul de Kruif who applied it. He took the matter to the Red Cross. Hundreds of thousands of packages of garden seeds were distributed, tons of yeast given away. The net result: Deaths from pellagra dropped sixty percent!

There are dozens of stories like that about Paul de Kruif, stories that he himself has never written and probably never will. Think of infantile paralysis, for instance, a disease that annually strikes down thousands of little children. In February, 1934, Paul de Kruif suggested that part of the million dollars that had been collected at President Franklin D. Roosevelt's first nationwide birthday ball be devoted to research in the prevention of infantile paralysis rather than using all of it for the cure of the disease and the care of those suffering from it. President Roosevelt, when he heard of it, asked Paul de Kruif to serve as secretary of a newly formed commission for research in infantile paralysis. As a result, a full thirty percent of the money raised at the birthday ball was earmarked for research in prevention!

The other members of the commission appointed by the President were, for the most part, very rich men. It was decided that each member would pay his own expenses. Now, it happens that Paul de Kruif, although he has made a great deal of money, has also spent a great deal. It takes money, and a lot of it, to track down the great stories of science. Knowing that he was the least wealthy of all, the other members of the commission approached Paul de Kruif, diffidently suggested that they be allowed to reimburse him for the heavy traveling expenses which, as secretary, he was sure to encounter. He gently told them he would rather they didn't, and for two years he went from one end of the country to the other, keeping in touch with all the research projects that had been established, tying them together, imbuing countless men with his own high-voltage enthusiasm. Finally, in July, 1936, he was able to announce a discovery of vital importance: it had been definitely established that the infantile paralysis germ entered the body through the nose. And it had been found that a solution of picric acid, used as a spray, would give temporary immunity. Later it was found that a zinc sulphate solution produced even better results, and tomorrow something even better may be discovered. But the biggest monument to Paul de Kruif in this field is the National Infantile Paralysis Foundation, a permanent institution that will be supported by the President's birthday parties and private funds, and one that will do intensive research into every phase of the disease. The establishment of the Foundation is directly in line with Paul de Kruif's first suggestion.

Those who know him best describe Paul de Kruif variously as a thunderstorm of a man, a tornado, a human dynamo that is apparently inexhaustible in its energy. Day after day he goes on in the same incredible fashion, carrying on the fight he has set himself to win, and setting down the accounts of the battles and the skirmishes so that all may read, even before the smoke and the shouting have died away. America may well be proud of Paul de Kruif.

PREVIEWS OF SOME OF THIS

Under the Sea

When Jules Verne first wrote of the possibilities of submarine travel, most people dismissed him lightly as an arrogant visionary. "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea" was, after all, utterly incredible at the time it was written. But submarines were not, even then, quite unheard of. Men had been dreaming of undersea boats for centuries. The first really successful submarine was not launched until 1775, however, when David Bushnell, an American, built a vessel that was used in the War of 1776. Robert Fulton designed a submarine, and during the Civil War a Union vessel, the Housatonic, was sunk by a Confederate submersible. The World War, of course, saw the submarine raised to its full efficiency, and great improvements have been made since. But to most people, undersea craft are still deeply mysterious. Some of that mystery will be dispelled on Thursday, July 21, when the "Americans At Work" program presents a broadcast from a U. S. Navy submarine cruising in Long Island Sound. On the air at 10:30 p.m. EDT.

International Nights

Travel for stay-at-homes will be provided on Monday, July 18, when the Carnation Contested Program inauguates a new series of International Nights featuring musical settings in the world's gayest capitals. With Maestro Marek Weber conducting, each individual program in the long series will be devoted to the music of a single country, the orchestral numbers, the vocals and the continuity all designed to describe that particular land. On the initial program, Marek Weber's own birthplace, Vienna, will be feted. The all-string orchestra will feature "Vienna Dreams," followed by a waltz medley made up of the compositions of the well-known Viennese composers, Komzal and Ziehrer. Three Viennese student drinking-songs will be sung by the Continental quartet and Weber will conclude the first International Night with melodies from the Strauss opera, "Die Fledermaus." On the air at 10 p.m. EDT.

Dictators and Democracies

There are contemporary historians, men of sound judgment and mature experience, who will argue that the democratic nations of the world are today slowly sentencing themselves to death because they are not uniting in a firm stand against the dictator-governed countries. They will argue, and with convincing precedent to back them up, that the history of the world illustrates the peril of failing to unite against avowed aggressors. Germany, Italy and Japan have in the last few years made perfectly obvious their intention of taking what they want from the rest of the world through the use of armed force. The fact that all three countries are bankrupt does not lessen the danger, but rather increases it. A hungry man with a gun in his hand will not hesitate to rob. Should the democratic nations of the world present a common front against the aggressor countries, force them to fight or be quiet, or should a policy of conciliation and mediation be attempted? This question, and every angle of it, will be discussed on Friday, July 22, when the University Town Meeting goes on the air at 8 p.m. EDT over NBC.

Prop-Man

Observant people who have spent much time in Hollywood film studios are apt to report that while Shirley Temple is a nine-year-old miracle, and Joan Crawford charming, and Clark Gable the absolute essence of everything masculine, the most wonderful and amazing person in all of filmland is none of these, but the studio prop-man, that near-genius who can, on next to no notice, create a Sahara in a sandpile, or a moated castle in a junkyard. It is the prop-man who knows where the touch of a paint-spray will improve the reflection of a sunset upon the snow, and he is the man who knows where to find anything from 2,000 black-widow spiders to a long wig of the time of Louis XIV. If you'd like to know more, dial "It Can Be Done," Wednesday, July 20. Guest on that program will be Charles Beauchamp, No. 1 prop-man for Paramount Pictures.

The People Speak

Radio has progressed mightily since the days, not so far behind, when almost no one was allowed on the air without a typewritten script to guide his every word. Today, with informality the keynote, there are any number of programs featured by strictly extemporaneous speaking—and as a result radio broadcasting has taken on a new freshness, an increased vitality. Latest in the roster of programs to step into line to follow this trend is "The People's Platform," on the air for the first time Wednesday, July 20, at 8 p.m. "The People's Platform" will seek to create a composite of American popular opinion through informal dinner-table discussion. Each week four people of varied tastes, interests, background, will meet in a private dining-room adjoining CBS' New York studios, and with Lyman Bryson, noted educator, as leader, will discuss current social, economic and political questions for half an hour. Leon Levine, former head of the radio and forum division of New York's Town Hall, will direct the broadcasts.

Swing and Sweet

Bitterly debated among devotees of "swing" and "sweet" music are the innumerable phases of the question: Which of the two forms is best, which most nearly represents the true spirit of American music, which, in the final analysis, is the real thing? Could the two be combined, or is sweet sweet and swing swing, and never the twain shall meet? Answers to at least a few of these burning questions will be put on the air, for those who can find them, at 9:30 p.m. EDT on Tuesday, July 19, when Guy Lombardo, for years acknowledged leader of the "soft, slow and sweet" school of jazz orchestra leaders, takes baton in hand to direct Benny Goodman's band. Goodman, the King of Swing, is taking a three-week vacation in Europe, and he has arranged for other noted musicians to take over his program during his absence. Guy Lombardo will be the first to try it.

World Premiere

In the golden age of music, at the time that Mozart and Beethoven lived, and before that and after, it was the custom of noblemen and kings and states to commission musicians, and artists of all kinds, painters, sculptors, writers, to execute works on order. The men—and women—who did this were called patrons of the arts, and some of them spent millions to further the talent of their times. Today such encouragement is seldom given. Writers and artists and composers are too often left to struggle along by themselves, seeking their own audiences for their works. Last year the Columbia Broadcasting System, in order partially to remedy this situation, set up a Composers Commission, asking six talented musicians to write works designed exclusively for radio, works which would receive their world premiere over CBS networks. The project was a distinct success, and this year Columbia has repeated it, original compositions being ordered from Robert Russell Bennett, Vittorio Giannini, Leo Sowerby, Jerome Moross, Quincy Porter, and R. Nathaniel Dett. The first of their works, "Eight

OF THIS WEEK

WEEK'S BETTER PROGRAMS

"Etudes for Symphony Orchestra," by Robert Russell Bennett, will be broadcast on July 17, Sunday, at 3 p.m. EDT, on the regular "Everybody's Music" program, Howard Barlow conducting. Bennett has given each etude an interesting dedication: the first, to Walter Damrosch, the second to Aldous Huxley, to Noel Coward, to Carl Hubbell, to All Dictators, to Human Faith, to Eugene Speicher, to The Ladies.

Three-Year-Olds

All horse-players, the saying runs, die broke, but a goodly number of them must go slowly mad as well. For there is no sports fan so rabid as the race-track follower, and no arguments so bitter as those that develop whenever lovers of horse-flesh foregather to debate the merits of their favorites. There is only one answer to that kind of argument, and that is the final answer of the race itself; and when the horses concerned cannot, for one reason or another, be brought together in competition, there's no answer at all. But races like that do provide fresh food for argument. On Saturday, July 23, a race will be run at the Arlington track, in Chicago, that should prove the foundation for a good, long winter of debate. The race is the $50,000 Arlington Classic, and it will be broadcast by CBS at 6 p.m. EDT. Earlier in the season it was believed that this race would decide the three-year-old championship. Entered were Stagehand, great three-year-old thought by some authorities to be the best in the country; Lawrin, winner of the Kentucky Derby (Stagehand did not run in the Derby), and Dauber, another big money winner. Unfortunately enough, Lawrin and Dauber have both suffered bowed tendons running at the Hollywood Turf Club, and neither will race at Arlington. And so the arguments will start. "Now, if Lawrin had been in that race . . ."

Murder in the Cathedral

The art of writing plays in verse reached the climax of its perfection in William Shakespeare, and it has been declining since. But that is not to say that it is dead, or that there are men writing today who are not able craftsmen in this difficult form. Perhaps one reason that plays are not often written in verse today is that other writers realized the futility of attempting to excel the greatest single figure of all literature in his chosen field, and so allowed the verse-play to fall into disuse. One writer intent upon reviving it is T. S. Eliot, great contemporary English poet. His famous verse-play, "Murder in the Cathedral," based on the murder of Thomas a Becket, Archbishop of Canterbury, in the Middle Ages, will be broadcast on Saturday, July 23, by the Columbia Workshop. The play was produced last year in New York with great success. Time: 7:30 p.m. EDT.

Youth and Politics

Cincinnati, Ohio, was once known as a thoroughly corrupt city. It conformed in every regard to the standard pattern. Conditions in the police department were in no way short of scandalous; the city treasury had been looted; unemployment and poverty were rife among the lower classes, while a few city officials and city-hall hangers-on grew wealthy. Today, Cincinnati's municipal government is regarded as an example in near-perfection, and it stands, with Milwaukee, Wisconsin; Bridgeport, Connecticut, and a few other cities, in a class by itself. As must always be the case, Cincinnati's reformation was marked by the election to high office of a number of unusually able, public-spirited men. High-ranking on Cincinnati's roll of honor is the name of the Hon. Murray Seasongood, former mayor and a recognized authority on municipal government. On Saturday, Murray Seasongood will speak on his favorite subject over an NBC network. The title of his address: "Youth and the State—Clean Politics." The time, 12 noon EDT.

The Farmer Talks

How will the wheat crop be this year? What do farmers think of the AAA? What is the truth about conditions among sharecroppers in the South? Is the farm population in favor of Roosevelt's foreign policy? Will the farmers ever join with city industrial workers in a Farmer-Labor party? These are questions that plague politicians, journalists, economists—questions which all thinking people would very much like to have correctly answered. In a new series of broadcasts CBS will bring to the microphone the people best qualified to answer these questions: the American farmers. "The Farmer Takes the Mike," which will be heard each Sunday at 4 p.m. EDT, beginning July 17, will originate each week in a different section of the country, with six people on the air in a group discussion. In each broadcast there will be a farmer, a farm tenant, a farm laborer, a farmer's wife, and a farmer's son or daughter, with an announcer as interviewer. The first program will come from Des Moines, Iowa, center of the corn belt.

King and President

Since the dawn of civilization, vast importance has been attached to international "visiting parties" by the rulers of great nations. Because such visits offer excellent opportunity for demonstrating the solidarity between allied nations, because they provide thrilling festivities for the amusement of the populace, and instill government confidence in the people, they are a standard part of international diplomatic tactics. Particularly in the dictator-governed countries they are made much of. The last year has seen Adolf Hitler in Rome and Benito Mussolini in Berlin, both visits costing literally millions of dollars, both being made the occasion for warlike speeches and declarations of policy. This week, Friday, July 22, the leaders of two of the great democracies will meet to talk of peace when King George VI of England and President Albert Lebrun of France join in the dedication of the Australian National War Monument at Villers Bretonneux. The ceremonies, recently postponed because of the death of the Countess of Strathmore, mother of Queen Elizabeth, will be broadcast at 8:30 a.m. EDT.

Four Corners Theater

All over the countryside there is a composite American theater of countless small frame auditoriums, where thousands laugh, and cry a little, too, at plays which are never on the Pulitzer list but which never close. This is the nation's rural theater, and it is an essential part of our life. These simple dramas and comedies, in which the villain usually comes from the Big City and the hero is an Honest Country Boy, will be reproduced over CBS in a new summer series called "Four Corners Theater," to be heard every Tuesday at 8 p.m. EDT beginning July 19. Under the direction of Earle McGill, the best of the typically rural dramas will be broadcast. They will be played "straight"; that is, without suggestion of burlesque. Bernard Herrmann, CBS conductor, will direct the orchestra in old American tunes and ballads accompanying the plays.

BOAKE CARTER SPEAKING

AMERICA'S FOREMOST COMMENTATOR,
BOAKE CARTER, TAKES HIS STAND
WITH TRUTH IN REPORTING THE NEWS
TO MILLIONS OF RADIO LISTENERS

Boake Carter is America's No. 1 radio commentator. His audience can be calculated only in the millions, and his influence is widespread and weighty. Acknowledged leader of the disseminators of radio news so vitally important in the American scheme of things, Boake Carter, we believe, stands as typical of radio commentators as a group. Today, with half the civilized world already engaged in warfare or swirling headlong toward it, with the economic system of the world under an unrelenting drum-fire attack, with false and malicious propaganda reaching a new high-water mark of effectiveness, there is no more momentous question than this: Are the American people—you and you and you—being given the straight, unadulterated truth in the news? For in the last analysis, it is the people who decide the course of this nation. To decide wisely, the people must think clearly. To think clearly, they must have the truth. In order that readers of RADIO GUIDE may judge the caliber of America's foremost radio commentator, and, through him, the worth and substance of his fellows, we present the following question-and-answer interview with Boake Carter.

—The Editors.

"MR. CARTER, you were born in Russia, weren't you?"

"I was. My father at that time was in the British consular service, stationed in Baku, South Russia. My given name, incidentally, is an Anglicized version of 'Baku'."

"You traveled a great deal as a boy?"

"Naturally. The nature of my father's work brought frequent moves."

"You went to school in England?"

"Yes, at Tunbridge and Christ College, Cambridge. After that I went to work for the London Daily Mail and covered stories all over Europe."

"Did you serve in the World War?"

"I did, in the air. After the War I did a bit of kicking about, finally went to Mexico to prospect for oil. I saw something of the Central American countries at that time, too. I came to America in 1924, finally decided to go back to newspapering, and went to work for the Philadelphia Bulletin."

"You first went on the air in Philadelphia?"

"That's right, it was back in 1930.

The station was WCAU."

"Now then, Mr. Carter, as a veteran radio commentator, will you answer this question: Do you think the news commentators make an earnest effort to present unbiased, unslanted, straightforward news? Do you think they are more, or less, restricted by business-office requirements than are newspapermen?"

"In answer to the first part of the question, I do. Most of the first half-dozen news commentators in the country are newspapermen with many years of newspaper experience. I think they are all as conscientious about the news they put on the air as they are about the news they write, or would write, for their papers. On the matter of restriction, I think they are more restricted on the radio by business-office requirements. And yet I can remember the many occasions while I was working on newspapers when the advertising department of the business office pressured the city desk to kill stories that might hurt an advertiser."

"To the frank question, Are you or are you not anti-labor? Mr. Carter, what would your answer be?"

"I have never been anti-labor. What I am and will forever be is anti-nitwits for labor leaders. Capital is organized with its Chambers of Commerce and manufacturers' associations. Union labor should be likewise handled for a proper social balance. But when nitwits bring ill repute on the rank and file of labor, then antics of the nitwits should be called, in my opinion."

"In some quarters, unjustly perhaps, you are reputed to be anti-labor, anti-New Deal, anti-Roosevelt. How do you account for this?"

"Propaganda, emotionalism and smear. Nowadays if you argue theories, facts and theses you are buried under a shower of emotional denunciation. If you take a piece of New Deal legislation, argue it on its merits and conclude against it you are automatically anti-New Deal. If you condemn a specific act of perhaps one labor leader you are denounced as anti-all labor. So few people nowadays will debate the merits of any issue, and under modern mass-emotionalism methods, the right to hold a different opinion and still maintain an open mind on a subject at large is denied."

"Do you think, as Jefferson said, the people should know the truth and

Boake Carter has been air-reporting since 1930. His fifteen minutes of news over CBS is heard Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 7:45 p.m. EDT in the East (for the West, Monday through Friday, 4:45 p.m. PST) are capable of attaining right action through it, or do you feel more in sympathy with the current theory that the truth should be adjusted and pointed for popular consumption?"

"I believe as Jefferson did. I am completely out of sympathy with the theory that truth should be adjusted. The only adjustment should be toward more truthful truthfulness. Adjustment of truth in the current popular theory is simply parlor language for arrant distortion."

"AT A rough guess, Mr. Carter, which would you call the most effective propagandists, radio commentators or newspaper columnists?"

"They fall into two different classes, each being effective in their own fields. Voice plays upon emotions, cold type provides a chance to reason. By and large, radio stirs the emotions more effectively, and the world, unfortunately in too many instances, is guided more by emotion than by cold logic."

"Can you recall an instance in which sponsor restrictions forced you to kill a piece of news, or slant it from what you felt to be the true interpretation?"

"I recall no instance of a sponsor forcing me to kill a piece of news or slant it from what it should have been. Perhaps I have been lucky."

"You are said to be an isolationist. If this is true, your interpretation of foreign news is naturally colored by this philosophy. Don't you feel that you have just as much right as, for instance, a newspaper publisher, to present your own views?"

"I deny I am an isolationist. Senator Hiram Johnson and myself once chuckled heartily together when Mr. Hull accused us of being 'seclusionists.' Actually, I believe in the adoption by the Government of an independent foreign policy which considers America first, last and always, and not a perpetuation of a policy which is a shirt-tail philosophy laid down by the London foreign office. England is for England. Chamberlain and his group have readopted the philosophy of Castlereagh and Gladstone, which is simply 'England is one thousand percent England and one thousand percent less for everybody else.' Selfish? Yes, but a most effective policy and in no sense of the word can that be called isolationism. And yet, it's an adoption of that idea by America for Americans that I have continually suggested. And I am therefore condemned by the collectionists as an isolationist. I do indeed feel I have the same right to express those views that a newspaper publisher expresses in his print. But try and do it and see how long it is before the muzzle is slapped on from political headquarters."

"FROM what you have said, Mr. Carter, one may safely assume that you consider the American radio commentators to be honest, unbiased, and relatively free from sponsor influence as far as the news is concerned. But you just spoke of political 'muzzling.' Is that a serious factor?"

"It is. The most serious fight in which I've been involved since I first went on the air has been the slow struggle to defend expression. It has been a long, hard fight against continual pressure—a fight which has turned into a rear-guard action since 1933. The pressure has been mostly political and it is no secret to any commentator or anyone in radio broadcasting that the pressure goes all the way down the line from the White House at one end to the smallest bureaucrat at the other."

GENE LESTER VISITS TIM AND IRENE

Tim Ryan and Irene Noblette (who answers to the name of Mrs. Tim Ryan off the air) are the principals in the Royal Crown Revue. Here the two do a little clowning during rehearsal with Gene Lester's Contax camera PACKED with fun and laughter, the Royal Crown Revue is fast becoming one of the air's most popular shows. Featuring Tim and Irene and a host of others, it is heard over NBC every Friday night at 9 p.m. EDT and rebroadcast for West Coast listeners at 8:30 p.m. PST. On June 24, Radio Guide sent Gene Lester to visit Tim and Irene and capture, in pictures, those responsible for the show's great popularity.

HIS full name is Nikolai Jacoblevitch Miaskowsky, and to twist American tongues further, it might be mentioned that he was born in Novogeorgievsk, Russia. The symphonies of the fifty-seven-year-old composer number almost as many as the letters in his native city, for he has written twenty works in that form, five or six of which have been performed in America, perplexing both critics and music-lovers. Miaskowsky's music is heavy with typical Russian introspectiveness and sense of tragedy, but expressed with complexity and disregard for easily caught beauty. Radio listeners will have to strain both their ears and minds to enter fully into the nature and purpose of the music by Miaskowsky.

MOZART'S towering C Major symphony is the one justly known as "Jupiter," and No. 34 in the same key, dating from 1780, ranks below its famous fellow created eight years later, when the composer was at his inspirational peak. Though less elevated in mood and power, No. 34 has its own charm and vivaciousness. Search all through the thirty-nine symphonies of Mozart and you will never find a really dull or poorly made page.

Weber's "Preciosa" music (1820) was composed as incidental to a play adapted by Wolff from a novel (1620).

"... An ampler Ether, a diviner Air . . ."—Wordsworth

Musical Good Neighbors

A MISSOULA, Montana, correspondent praises the splendid work done by radio in its Pan-American "Good Neighbor" programs, but asks: "Why must the broadcasts be nearly all talk?" He writes that he felt prompted to put his query after listening to a short-waved program of the Mexico Symphony Orchestra led by Carlos Chavez, who is known to North American dialers through his batoning with the New York Philharmonic and NBC Orchestras. The correspondent also reminds us that the Mexico Police Band is world famous, and that many of the large South American centers have first-rate opera companies which deserve hearing on the air. He adds: "And there are orchestras south of the Rio Grande that lift the tango and allied dances out of the night-club sphere and into the realm of art."

The points are well taken, for an immense majority of radio owners in our land have no short-wave sets, and therefore are deprived of musical enjoyments from the southern countries. It cannot be a matter of transmission difficulties or financial expense for the networks, as music-programs are no harder to get or relay than discussions of social conditions and trade relations, especially when it is considered that many hours of symphony concerts and operas are brought successfully from Europe. True, there is a bit of music now and then from South America, but as the Missoula correspondent says, "What we want is not an incidental interlude or sporadic and momentary whiffs of Latin-American entertainment, but adequate presentation of our neighbors' serious culture at home, in the arts as well as in economics, sociology and politics."

The timely and thoughtful hint, if accepted by the major broadcasting concerns, would materially enhance the usefulness and pleasure of radio communion.

Gallows Humor

I cannot refrain from quoting also another letter-writer, who sends his opinion on a burning subject, as follows: "After experiencing some of the recent 'Swing' broadcasts, I have come to the conclusion that 'Swing' music should be swung by the neck until dead."

A disgruntled air-artist suggests that many of the sustaining programs hardly sustain the performers.

Overture to "Der Freischuetz" (Weber)
Notturno (Martucci)
Suite "Daphnis and Chloe" (Ravel)
Symphony No. 1 (Brahms)

TIME was when the musical knowledge of Italian conductors was generally supposed to be limited to the operas of their native land. But along came Toscanini and changed all that. Since his advent, the world has learned to respect also the versatility of Molinari, Serafin and Panizza.

Massimo Freccia leans over backward in his Stadium program to show that he is international in his musical tastes, for he lists only one short Italian work by the late Giuseppe Martucci, who gained wide reputation as a pianist and composer—even though he never wrote an opera. Liszt had great admiration for Martucci's piano concerto.

In the delicate Ravel music and the serious pages of Brahms, Freccia will have his best chance to demonstrate his talents with the stick.

Sinfonietta

Alfred Wallenstein, conductor

Symphony No. 1 (Beethoven)
Slavonic Dances (Dvorak)

FOR those who know all the Beethoven symphonies it is interesting to compare his first and second works in that form with his later seven, and to note how his imagination and skill found ever newer and more authoritative expression. Hearers who have no such historical perspective will be rewarded just the same by enjoying the first symphony as a bright and fluent composition which actually pleases the ear more than it taxes the mind.

The third movement, although called a minuet, shows Beethoven's originality already active, for he breaks away from the strict tradition of that dance (as treated by his predecessors, Haydn and Mozart) and makes the piece resemble a scherzo. In his succeeding symphonies Beethoven discards all the implications of a minuet and uses only scherzos for his lighter moments.

Wallenstein's program stays in joyous mood with Slavonic numbers by Dvorak, whose ebullient measures are eloquently descriptive of the robust and happy spirit of his native Czechoslovakia.

FIRESTONE is falling off steadily in the quality of its material, which now appears to be entirely eliminating the important symphonic repertoire. There are not too many dignified orchestral concerts on the air, and one hopes from such an eminent musician as Wallenstein that his present course is only a summer practise. Maybe the autumn will see him doing something of a higher type than musical vaudeville—sponsor permitting.

With these thoughts in mind, I shall try nevertheless to smile with the pleasantries of Rossini and Smetana, and to follow Miss Speaks in the agile ministrations of Gounod's bejeweled operatic aria.

It was at the personal request of Arturo Toscanini that Wallenstein came to New York as first cellist with the Philharmonic-Symphony of New York. In the spring of 1936 he resigned that post, as well as that of member of the board of directors of the Philharmonic Society, to devote his entire time to conducting. This, too, was done with Toscanini's approval.

Concerto for Cello and Orchestra

Marcel Hubert and Orchestra

MUSICAL proficiency and taste, smooth execution and refined tone quality distinguish the art of Marcel Hubert, cellist from France. For such a player, the amiable and melodious concerto by Saint-Saens offers an especially fruitful medium. In this opus, the composer's fancy, tunefulness and seemingly effortless craftsmanship show their most gracious voice. He has with truth been called "The French Mendelssohn," an apt comparison, for both composers lacked in lofty grandeur, and posterity therefore denies them a place with the greatest of the masters.

Brahms' innately happy disposition is well typified in his third symphony, and whenever I hear it, I think of his quaint but sensible philosophy "So long as I have healthy legs and a good book, I can snap my fingers at the universe." Before he composed this F major symphony, Brahms was already installed in the ranks of the mighty. My favorite parts of the work are the flowing first section and the pensive third movement.

CBS Starts Performances of Commissioned Music

Sunday, July 17, at 3 p.m. EDT on CBS

RADIO has always had its obvious uses as a reproductive musical medium, but hitherto did little to stimulate creative work among the composers except by premiering a few new examples not snatched by the regular concert orchestras. Some of these scores were commissioned (and paid for) by the major networks, but the practise enjoyed only occasional application.

To remedy that condition, and add to the artistic importance of radio, CBS founded its Columbia Composers Commission, now in its second year, whose purpose it is to order from American composers works written especially for air listeners and to be performed in "Everybody's Music," conducted Sunday afternoons by Howard Barlow. The six composers commissioned for the 1937-38 premieres are Robert Russell Bennett, Leo Sowerby, R. Nathaniel Dett, Jerome Moross, Quincy Porter and Vittorio Giannini. In addition to introducing the novelties, Mr. Barlow will give hearing also to other pieces by our native nities, and the Protestant creators of sacred music drew salaries from the heads of that church or from the ruling monarchs and princes in various lands. Secular composers worked for potentates or noblemen, writing to order for weddings, birthdays, funerals, holidays, and sundry other celebrations. Bach did that sort of thing, also Haydn, Handel and Mozart, to say nothing of the ancient Italian, French and English music-makers. Letters are on hand, penned by Bach and Mozart, filled with pathetic flattery, asking highly placed personages to "patronize" certain compositions and accept dedications. One could almost weep at the spectacle of exalted genius so demeaning itself.

Everyone wishes CBS well with its commission plan, and hopes that new American scores of high merit may result. The first one to be broadcast will be Bennett's "Eight Etudes for Symphony Orchestra," a series of sketches illustrating the resources of a large instrumental body in the same way that piano etudes show the possicomposers, and invites them to send in their output on approval, whether it has been previously heard publicly or not. The only requisites are musical worth and adaptability for broadcasting. The first commissioned product to be heard will take the air on July 17.

There are those who say that a composer's best efforts result only when his inspiration operates purely from creative urge, and unhampered by promised reward of pay or performance. However, historical facts do not bear out that view. One has merely to remember, of comparatively recent years, Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" (1890) and Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci" (1892), both done in a hurry for prize competitions, which they won. Neither composer later duplicated the success gained by that brace of little operas, to this day generally paired as a double bill.

Going further back into the records, it is astonishing to discover how much great music was "occasional" (the technical term for suggested or commissioned works). The early Italian Catholic composers were in the pay of the popes or lesser ecclesiastical digbilities of the keyboard. Bennett's etudes bear dedications to Walter Damrosch, Aldous Huxley, Noel Coward, Carl Hubbell, All Dictators, Human Faith, Eugene Speicher, The Ladies. Howard Barlow explains that "the dedications are novel in that they appear at the conclusion of the various numbers. Thus it might be said that we have a series of canvases to be filled in by the listener, who may compare his impressions when the dedication is revealed . . . Some of them are directly descriptive, such as the first. At the end of that etude there is a four-note figure which would seem to spell the syllables 'Wal-ter-Dam-rosch.'" Bennett is a composer and arranger of exceptional gifts. Best known of his creations are the "Abraham Lincoln" Symphony, "Charleston Rhapsody" and the opera "Maria Malibran."

It is interesting to know that Vittorio Giannini's contribution to the CBS course will be an opera to last twenty-nine minutes and thirty seconds. The libretto, by Robert A. Simon, brilliant music critic of the New Yorker, deals with the fairytale "Beauty and the Beast."

JEAN HERSHOLT had just returned from Callender, Ont., where he co-starred with Canada's darlings, the Dionne quins, in sequences for their next Fox picture, "Five of a Kind." "What," I asked the famous veteran character actor, "do they listen to over the radio?" "At present," came Hersholt's reply, "they're only allowed to listen to music, and they prefer good music. You'd never guess their favorite star or favorite selections. I didn't. Lily Pons it is who wins the unanimous approval of all five, and 'Lo Hear the Gentle Lark' and the Bell Song from 'Lakme' are their pet numbers!" . . . Seemingly odd that through the veins of Pons and the quins courses French blood, yet in this fact lies the explanation, perhaps, of the choice of their favorite broadcaster. You see, Governess Nora Rouselle so far has taught the five sisters only the French language. English will come later—and then maybe Benny Goodman will charm away their ten ears . . . Hersholt, who returns to the air for thirty Tuesdays come October, found more radio than movie fan interest in him. On his trip, the public's question was always, "When will you return to the air?" not "What is your next picture?" . . . He likes that, for he prefers radio!

Garnette was killed instantly; Don survived with bruised left thigh, minor contusions and severe shock . . . Jim Jordan, star of the Fibber McGee series, immediately left Chicago to join his friend and co-worker in his hour of need.

More fortunate was Bill Goodman, CBS announcer of "Hollywood Showcase," who suffered minor face cuts over the Fourth week-end when the car in which he was riding sideswiped another containing his wife! She was unhurt . . . Radio folk, PLEASE be careful!

"Hollywood Hotel" will have a new sponsor—not Campbell's Soup—next fall. Louella Parsons and her four-year sponsor definitely have reached a deadlock over her desire for increased funds so that hereafter she may pay her guest stars, who hitherto have gone on the air for orchids, tea and friendship. As the matter now stands, Miss Parsons and Conductor Raymond Paige are considering the deals submitted by several prospecting sponsors, while the soup firm is left with the Friday night time spot and a contract with Frances Langford, about whom they hope to build a new show.

Los Angeles syndicate cameramen no doubt will elect Irene Rich their favorite 1938 celebrity. Carefully, she wrapped the dinner piece by piece in waxed paper; dispatched it in baskets to the photographers by means of Messenger Joe Alvin, NBC publicity man. "Swell of Irene," "Rich is O.K." and like praises greeted Alvin's ears when he made the delivery, "but where," they razed him, "is the champagne?" . . . Deep down into one of the baskets he reached and produced four cold fifths! They swooned, even before taking.

AIRIALTO LOWDOWN

BY MARTIN LEWIS

BOB HOPE was in New York last week to discuss plans for his new fall radio show. He made expenses for his trip from California by appearing for a week at the Loew's State Theatre. Hope tells us he hopes to have Judy Garland as vocalist and Ozzie Nelson's band with him. A weekly guest will also be included in the half-hour variety show which debuts September 27, and there is a possibility of adding grown-up Jackie Coogan as a permanent member of the cast.

Quite a number of listeners to the Fibber McGee show were quite surprised to hear Mollie make a brief appearance on the final broadcast of the season after an absence of eight months due to illness. They wouldn't have been so surprised if they were regular readers of this pillar, as we announced Mollie's contemplated appearance two weeks in advance. Stop bragging, Lewis!

ANNOUNCEMENTS ABOUT ANNOUNCERS: Several weeks ago we told you how Kenneth Roberts would instruct the audience before an Al

Pearce broadcast on how to laugh and applaud. You may recall that we mentioned Ken's advice to look at his mustache if they had any trouble chuckling. In the last issue of RADIO GUIDE you saw a picture of Ken twirling that famous crop of hair on the lip, but this week it is no more! It was shaved off for the hot-weather months, but it will be back in the fall for the same sponsor.

CBS Announcer Charles Stark, who has been handling quite a number of that network's special events, and doing an excellent job of it, was instructed to board the Kungshold before it docked and interview Crown Prince Gustav Adolf of Sweden. Stark spent one hour in the cabin, and after the interview His Royal Highness gave Charlie an autograph that collectors claim is worth $25.00. Charlie is too proud of it to part with the signature at any price.

Mentioning special events, did you hear Bob Trout's prize boner on Sunday, July 3? He told CBS listeners that they were listening to a broadcast from the Gettysfield battleground!

Truman Bradley, who announced the Ford Sunday Evening Concerts, has hit the jackpot. He has been given a movie contract by M-G-M and reports for work on the Coast August 1 . . . Andre Baruch has resigned from CBS to join Pathé as commentator-producer of newsreels, shorts and educational features. He'll continue to announce his regular commercial programs on a free-lance basis.

On a recent "Just Plain Bill" program, Actress Geneva Harrison had a baby boy—in the script, of course. Miss Harrison was substituting for Actress Ruth Russell, who usually plays that role . . . of Nancy Donovan. Miss Russell was off the program because two weeks ago she herself gave birth to a baby daughter in real life . . . Karl Swenson ("Ghost of Benjamin Sweet") is passing out cigars. He's the proud papa of David Swenson, his second offspring.

When we visited Jessica Dragonette last week, the lovely songstress showed us a flock of congratulatory wires and letters from readers of RADIO GUIDE for coming out on top in the recent Star of Stars poll . . . Major Bowes received a letter from a Lynn, Mass., fan the other week. The sender cut a clipping showing the major's face, pasted it on the envelope and mailed it. It was delivered at CBS the next day.

PURELY PERSONAL: Kate Smith is seriously considering going into the pie business in the fall . . . Victor Lombardo, sax-tooter with Guy's orchestra, has made application to become a citizen of the U. S. A. . . . Allen Prescott, the "Wifesaver," is preparing another book of household hints for the housewives . . . Arlene Harris, "The Human

Leo Fitzpatrick, radio station executive, caused something of a furor a few weeks ago when he cut Tommy Dorsey (right) off the air in Detroit for swinging "Annie Laurie." Recently they (above) met in Detroit to talk it over

"Chatterbox," used to be known as Arlene Francis on the Coast. It was changed when she arrived in the East because of another actress with the same tag . . . Muriel Pollack, organist-accompanist for Amanda Snow, has announced her engagement to Will Donaldson, arranger and composer . . . Margaret Shanna, star of "Arnold Grimm's Daughter," has her mother visiting her in Chicago for the summer . . . Dinty Doyle, the flying radio reporter, just clicked off 92,000 miles in the air . . . Paul Whiteman called time out at a recent rehearsal and sent out for "cokes" for the whole gang.

It's better late than never. Kay Kyser's program did not go on the air the night of the Louis-Schmeling fight; nevertheless, the program was put on just the same for the benefit of the studio audience. Tickets were mailed out weeks in advance and Mr. Lucky Strike did not want to disappoint 1,000 people, so he ordered Kyser to put the show on, despite the fact it wouldn't be broadcast. A nice gesture.

Al Pearce was not on the Town Hall Treasure Hunt last Wednesday as previously announced because he had to leave for the West Coast immediately after he completed his last "Watch the Fun Go By" program, due to his mother-in-law's illness. It also necessitated canceling his planned trip to Bermuda. Instead, the Pearces will vacation at Banff and Lake Louise . . . Charley Cantor, whose voice can be heard all over the dial during the regular radio season, is taking a well-earned vacation up in New England. Charley is one of the Mighty Allen Art Players, is also heard regularly with Tim and Irene, and about a dozen other popular shows . . . We asked Harry von Zell how he enjoyed his vacation. His reply, "Terrible, it rained most of the time and I came back three shades paler than when I left" . . . Bill Thompson, of the Fibber Mc-Gee show, sailed July 13 for Europe and a ten-week vacation . . . CBS Announcer Ralph Edwards is on his way to his home in Oakland, California, to be gone three weeks . . . Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Roberts are also California-bound for a three-week vacation.

Ann Leaf, CBS' young organist, recently had to be all three consoles in the regular "Three Consoles" program of Columbia's. The program usually has three organists—Miss Leaf from New York, another organist from Chicago, and one from St. Louis. A few days ago Miss Leaf completed her allotted twelve minutes from New York and sat at her console in the studio waiting for Chicago to come in. There was a long wait, and then she saw someone motioning wildly to her from the control-booth. There was a severe storm, and something was wrong with the Chicago wires, and she'd just have to pinch-hit for the second musician. When her Chicago stint was over, something seemed to have gone wrong with St. Louis, too. And Miss Leaf played the whole broadcast of "Three Consoles."

BANDNOTES: Benny Goodman will soon have some competition from his brother Freddy, who is organizing a swing band of his own . . . Several Tuesday nights ago Hal Kemp and his boys played Ravel's "Bolero" during their regular "Time to Shine" program. It was during this broadcast that I learned for the first time it costs a bandleader fifty dollars to play this number, which undoubtedly is the reason you don't hear it so often . . . Carl Hoff has been signed for the new Al Pearce show in the fall . . . After next Sunday night's broadcast, Horace Heidt and gang go on tour. The program of July 24 will come from Akron, Ohio . . . Little Jackie Heller has formed his own band . . . Jack Teagarden of the Whiteman crew is planning to do the same thing in the fall.

Samuel H. McCrory tells of farmers' aids Friday — CBS

Farm Expert Tells of Farmers' Aids

Friday, CBS, 7:30-7:45 p.m.

Time was when a horse, a plow and a plot of fertile ground were the basic necessities for successful farming. But in that day a family could live comfortably on a much smaller income than is possible today. Rapid advancement in the various fields of science and engineering brought a higher standard of living to the masses, and this, of course, was accompanied by a higher cost of living. The farmer, to survive in this stepped-up civilization, had to forsake many of the trusted formulas that had been passed down from generation to generation without any startling revolutionary changes, and, in order to keep up with the times, sought aid in the mechanical devices that science and engineering had created.

Reviewing the mechanical aspects of farming, Samuel H. McCrory will be heard as the main speaker in Columbia's educational series, "Adventures in Science." McCrory has been associated with the Department of Agriculture in various capacities since 1907, and, at present, is chief of that department's Bureau of Agricultural Engineering. The title of his talk is "The Farmer Takes a Robot."

One portion of the program will include a panoramic story of the development of scientific farming with special reference to its mechanized phases, and a discourse on what has been accomplished in scientific farming and what it means in terms of every-day living.

Farmers Give Views On Current Events

Sunday, CBS, 4-4:30 p.m.

Comments on subjects of public interest from the educated expert are very common. To give a not-so-common viewpoint on national and world affairs, a new series, to be premiered on Sunday, will bring the average farmer and farm helper to the air each week. In this cycle listeners will hear from the farm owner, the farm tenant, the farm laborer, the farmer's wife, son and daughter—will get their views and intimate personal reactions to happenings and conditions of the day.

For this series the country has been roughly divided into thirteen agricultural areas, each one the center of a different farm crop. Conversations will be divided into three groups: (1) conditions of the major crop in the district, outlook for the future; (2) general views on social and economic questions, the farmer's views on war, on a farmer-labor party; (3) personal questions regarding his desires, use of luxuries, comments on experiences.

Denny Stirs Interest in Town Meetings

Friday, NBC, 8-9 p.m.

The town meeting is a child of democracy—a child who cannot survive in the same atmosphere enjoyed by tyrants who gain and retain power by keeping people in ignorance.

Officiating at the town meeting in Swift Hall on the campus of Northwestern University in Evanston, Illinois, George V. Denny, Jr., moderator of "America's Town Meeting," will be heard on Friday in the third broadcast of a special series from five great institutions of learning. The first two broadcasts were from Harvard University and Chautauqua Institute, respectively; the last two will come, in order, from Denver University and the University of California. Denny, acting in the same capacity for town meetings at these schools as he does for "America's Town Meeting," is making this cross-country journey with the principal purpose in mind of encouraging interest among university students in world affairs. He is organizing listening groups for both the town and the university meetings en route.

The timely subject up for debate on Friday will be "Should Democracies Unite Against Dictators?" Among the speakers chosen to lead the forum on this question are Professor Tracy E. Strevey, of the history department at Northwestern, and Walter Laves, director of the midwest office of the League of Nations Association.

The university groups are patterned after "America's Town Meeting," the popular NBC educational feature which has served as an inspiration for hundreds of local listening groups throughout the country.

New Series Aims Average Citizen's Views

Wednesday, CBS, 8-8:30 p.m.

Coinciding with the programs designed to air the views of the average farmer, another new series will be inaugurated this week in which Mr. John Citizen and his wife will be the chief participants. Each week four Americans, from the butcher and the baker to the bank president, will meet in a private dining-room and discuss subjects of social, economic and political nature. The title of the series is "The People's Platform," and, from the informal discussions that will be heard, an attempt will be made to create a composite of American popular opinion. Lyman Bryson, noted educator, will lead the discussions, and Leon Levine, former head of the radio and forum division of New York's Town Hall, will direct the broadcasts.

Short-wave programs of American stations are shown along with the regular listings beginning on page 25. These are indicated, for example, by (sw-11.87) in parentheses following a program listing. This means that on 11.87 megacycles the same program may also be heard over an American short-wave station. ACCORDING to August Balbi of Los Angeles, Calif., XGJ (11.68), a powerful new Chinese station at Hankow, announcing as "The Official Voice of China," is now being heard with loud signals daily from 8 to 8:30 a.m. EDT, giving latest war news in German, French and English. Reports on reception should be sent to P. O. Box 90, Hankow, China . . . Hawaiian programs are now being heard over KQH (14.92) and KHE (17.95), on Sundays from 1 to 1:30 a.m. EDT.

A 10,000-watt short-wave transmitter is under construction at Athens, Greece. When completed, broadcasts will be transmitted regularly for the benefit of Greek nationals in the United States and Australia by means of directive antennas.

Roy DeMent of Plainview, Tex., writes that members of the Radio Signal Survey League and other short-wave listeners are urged to listen for transmissions from the base and advance camp stations of the Norsk Fransk Polar Ekspedisjon. Reports should be sent to Willy Knutsen Og Comte Gaston Micard, Svalbardkontoret, Oslo, Norway. Jess Tillier, one of the operators for the expedition, left Madison, Wis., a few days ago for the long journey by fishing-boat to Danmarkshavn, North East, Greenland. From this point he will proceed north by boat as far as the ice permits and will eventually establish their main base-camp radio station at Ingolfsfjord (located at 80° 30' north latitude, 17° west longitude). An advance camp still farther north will be established on the edge of Peary Land (about 82° north and 29° west).

These camps will use short-wave radio for intercommunication, and the expedition will gather meteorological data in cooperation with other weather-bureau stations of the Norwegian government so that storms heading towards Norway and England from the Polar regions may be noted and weather forecasts made for several days in advance. With the exception of radio the expedition will be completely out of touch with civilization for more than a year. Mr. Tillier's wife, at Madison, Wis., is extremely anxious to arrange daily schedules with her husband via amateur radio any time after July or August, and any listeners picking up the expedition stations are urgently requested to communicate with RADIO GUIDE. The call-letters or frequencies of the stations have not yet been determined, but daily schedules are to be made at 3 and 9 a.m. EDT and 3 and 9 p.m. EDT. Watch RADIO GUIDE for further details concerning this thrilling polar adventure that short-wave listeners will soon be able to tune in on.

George Bernard Shaw's play, "The Dark Lady of the Sonnets," with Robert Donat as William Shakespeare and Lena Ashwell as Queen Elizabeth, which is to be broadcast over Daventry Stations GSG and GSP on Thursday, July 21, at 8 p.m. EDT, will be introduced by George Bernard Shaw in person, who will give some characteristic and lively sidelights on his interpretation of Shakespeare, the man.

SHORT-WAVE SHORTS: During a recent strike in Jamaica, when telephone and telegraph lines were destroyed, the Post Office Department immediately organized a network of amateur stations to carry on emergency communications by short wave . . . A QSL card from Amateur Station PK4JD (14.09), in Biliton, Sumatra, informed Bob Hetzel of Milwaukee, Wis., that his reception report was the first received from the central states. PK4JD is on the air twice each week near 10 a.m. EDT, using a power of 30 watts, and reports are welcomed . . . LKC are the official call letters now being used by the Jeloy, Norway, station in operation on 9.526 mcs . . . W4XB (6.04), Miami, Florida, is operating at present from 2 to 4 p.m. EDT and from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m. EDT daily.

Bristow, will roll on axles and wheels supplied by Barton Yarborough, Mike Rafetto and Page Gilman, all of "One Man's Family" . . . Nelson Eddy replaces John Carter on the Sunday coffee hour August 7 . . . Dorothy Lamour and mother Carmen busily moving into their new Coldwater Canyon home . . . The Foursome is being groomed to rejoin Kraft Music Hall . . . Off on two months of one-nighters are Smith Ballew and the Beverly Hillbillies.

The movie-producer influence strikes radio! CBS muckerman Thomas Freebairn Smith, who not long ago won a diction award, was recently cast in an air-drama role requiring him to speak broken English.

"Big Town's" Claire Trevor, who rejoined the cast June 14 after returning from movie work on location, is looking over San Fernando Valley acreage in contemplation of her marriage in August to Radio Producer Clark Andrews.

Gene Morgan, the ex-N'Yawk and Chicago director, will be known hereafter as James Joyce when screened by Republic Pictures . . . Good Gulf Tenor Al Garr is being primed for Columbia Pictures screen test . . . Recent audition record-makers include Harold Lloyd and Robert Benchley . . . Creighton Hale (remember the hero of "The Clutching Hand" silents?) will announce the "Hollywood Hall of Fame" if it is sold.

One Man's Family, which plans to air during July and August from San Francisco, reports a coincidence in the winning by Sonny Edwards (Wayne Grubb in the script) of the national declamation contest held recently at Wooster, Ohio. First to offer her congratulations to Sonny was Minetta Ellen, who plays Mother Barbour. Then she drew from her purse a medal. It was an exact duplicate of the one Sonny had won. "When I was just your age," the veteran actress explained, "I won the same contest, and that contest was also held at Wooster!"

NBC technicians are hoping to perfect a transmitter permitting a broadcast from the back of a race-horse. Now, maybe, in the stretch, when the longshot passes up Seabiscuit, on which you had your $2, you'll be able to hear the favorite's horse laugh!

Not long ago this column reported that Ted Fio-Rito, who will resume airing with Jack Haley for Wonder Bread September 30, didn't like Ernie Fiorito, of MBS in the East, to use the same name. And now, by the Mutual network's ambassador, Les Gottlieb, I am informed (1) that Ernie doesn't hyphenate his name; (2) he never admitted being a relative of Ted's; (3) has had a long and distinguished career in orchestral annals; (4) that some time ago, when Ernie was only arranging, he and Ted were good friends and thought the coincidence in their names amusing, not harmful. There, my friend Gottlieb, we have cleared Ernie of skulduggery . . . so listeners, just please try to keep the two names straight.

This hillbilly trend of radio and screen reminds me that you "ain't heard nothin' yet" until you've tuned in the MBS-aired London relay of the Palace of Varieties and heard them put on strictly Piccadilly hillbillies!

Bob Burns has been "rushed" by the Mystic Knights of the Blue Ox, a group purportedly composed of descendants of the mythical Paul Bunyan of the Northwest. Burns' certificate of membership shows his Bunyan tree and a linking with Paul's niece, who allegedly married "Biggety" Burns, who later migrated to the Ozarks . . . So just to prove himself worthy of the new honor, Bob and wife went deep-sea fishing—so he says—and caught seven tuna, five on his wife's hook and two on his.

Bandleader Arthur Jarrett, whose last screen venture was in "Riptide" five years ago, will return to Hollywood this fall for a part in "My Lucky Star," Sonja Henie's next to start.

Tag Lines: It's in the cards that Basil Rathbone will be featured in a new Hollywood drama series come fall. He likes radio and believes listeners like him . . . Thomas Freebairn-Smith, CBS announcer-producer, traveled to Vancouver, B. C., last week-end to play with the Hollywood Cricket Club in its games with Canadian teams. Tommy acted as captain during the absence of C. Aubrey Smith, now vacationing in England . . . George Jessel and Norma Talmadge may return to the air before fall—and for a new sponsor . . . Frankie Masters due in to make two Paramount shorts.

DOUBLE TROUBLE

At a recent Rhumba Club meeting in Hollywood, the Stroud twins were there. Claude (left) brought his fiancee, Gloria Brewster, and Clarence turned out with Diane Lewis.

Also at the Rhumba Club and icily avoiding former escort, Clarence, was twin Barbara Brewster. Barbara spent most of her time dancing with her new boy friend, Don Barry.

Clarence, however, didn't seem to mind the incident at all; gladly entertained the Rhumba Clubsters by taking the spotlight to do his own version of the Rhumba.

LIFE TO DATE

MOST scoops are newsmen's triumphs; they leave readers cold. Not so RADIO GUIDE's exploit which last year took Photographer Gene Lester to the bedside of Marge Kretsinger, of radio's "Myrt and Marge," barely twelve hours after the birth of her son Richard ("Rikky"). Cameraman Gene's mother-and-child pictures (sample, left) had such human-interest impact, stirred so much concern among its readers that RADIO GUIDE's editors determined to publish a "running life-story" of "Baby Rikky." Time has brought that story to its fourth installment, wherein its hero walks. Born May 14, 1937, he walked into this episode in May, 1938 (above).

WASHINGTON MAKES NEWS:

Canham's day as Christian Science Monitor's Washington bureau chief and CBS commentator begins regularly at 9 a.m.

Basis for Washington reporting is not personal opinion of the writer but opinions and facts given out at press conferences by officials

White House press conferences are most important single factor in Washington news during Roosevelt administration. They are held daily except Sunday at 10:30; Presidential Secretary Stephen T. Early greets newsmen on all except Tuesday and Friday mornings, when the President sees them. Scene above is in the White House pressroom

"THE PRESS" in our nation's Capital includes not only correspondents for newspapers and press services, but a growing number of airoreporters — among them Erwin Dain Canham, commentator on national politics for CBS. He broadcasts regularly on "Headlines and By-Lines" Sundays at 10:30 p.m. EDT, but observation of political activity is such a strenuous business that sometimes he is away from Washington at broadcast time and thus cannot appear. At present

Exclusive Radio Guide

ERWIN CANHAM REPORTS IT

Newspaper deadlines are so stringent and Capital news so important that stories can't be held for dispatch at one time. After important White House conferences Canham hurries to his office around noon to report what he has gathered for the Christian Science Monitor

Canham covered the League of Nations Assembly in '26, '27 and '28; London Conferences in '30 and '33, was correspondent at Geneva from '30 to '32. Thus he is qualified as a member of Overseas Writers—reporters who have served abroad. The day these pictures were taken he presided at a club luncheon at the National Press Club (above)

Canham is with President Roosevelt on his cross-country tour. Plans were for the President to continue his trip by boat from Los Angeles, July 16, whereupon Canham planned a private study of political situations in a zig-zag return trip. When he has broadcasting facilities he'll report his findings on the spot; other reports he'll broadcast when he is back in Washington in the fall. His Washington reporting methods are shown in the pictures presented here.

Photos by Gene Lester

Canham doesn't write his Sunday-night CBS reports until Sunday afternoon, is still rewriting an hour before airtime! He broadcasts nine-minute reviews in WJSV studios

BUT THE MUSIC IS SWEET!

Merwin Alton Bogue, Kyser trumpet-man, immediately refutes contentions that swing "gets" musicians. Famed as "Ish Kabibble," he attracts attention by his "dead pan"

IT'S worth your good right arm to suggest in speculative fashion that swing music is less than it might be or that it has had its best days. Enthusiasm has reached the point where fanatics are happy if they can just watch the expressions on the faces of musicians as they "give out"—and that brings us to the matter at hand, for we are willing to agree that that is fun, too! Consider, for example, what happens when Kay Kyser's boys start to "send." Exceptionally good-looking fellows, they lose themselves when they play on Kyser's "Klass and Dance" on NBC Wednesdays, 10 p.m. EDT.

Exclusive RADIO GUIDE Photographs by Gene Lester

Trombones require "umph"; Max Williams has it. A few years ago bands furnished the background for individual acts. Now they are complete shows within themselves

Well-rehearsed, expert musicians like Heinie Gunkler often demonstrate their skill by improvising, playing with one hand or other tricks. Some authorities rejoice that children idolize swing musicians, hope that will overcome the youngsters' idea that musicians are "sissies." Should that happen, parents would find it easier to make children practise instruments, and in turn appreciate more serious music. Result might be America's most musical generation!

"Jitterbugs" are swing addicts who react openly to rhythm. Usually drummers are as "buggy" themselves—viz., Eddie Shea, above

Expert musicians realize that since swing has concentrated audiences' attention on them rather than on floor shows or vaudeville acts, they have to contribute more than just "straight" music. Lloyd Snow does his bit by crossing his eyes, puffing out his cheeks and going "out of this world" on his big bass horn!

Harry Thomas hasn't been through a threshing-machine. Swing music carries such emotional wallop even listeners are exhausted

Sully Mason, saxophonist and "scat" singer, has a little more restraint than some, but even he shows wear and tear after a night behind a horn

Morton Gregory at work on a sax. Kyser's is not a real swing band, but includes swing on every program. It's increasing its popularity weekly

THIS IS HOW TO LIVE AND LOVE IT

Arquette learned his theatrical father's trick of mimicking old men when he was only 7, used the ventriloquist's dummy above ("Herman") seven years ago on West Coast stations. Now he's lost the dummy's head, takes its place himself in a home gag with his wife Mildred

If you have a hobby, you'll like Cliff Arquette; it's almost a cinch that he spends a good many hours every week doing just the things you do. Arquette, probably best remembered for his "Grandpa Sneed" stooging for Charlie Butterworth, is now bit-playing with the Grape Nuts, Burns and Allen, Monday nights on NBC at 8 p.m. EDT (6:30 PST for the West). Arquette isn't a star; perhaps the reason is that he is serious about nine separate hobbies, as pictured here, and also plays around with some several others. All in all, along the line of avocations, this Arquette is a very talented guy—and if his hobbies are the reason he has not yet reached the top, who can say that he is getting a bigger kick out of life than Cliff is?

NBC Photographs by Art Carter

Cliff built this home recording-machine at a cost of $250, saved that much by doing it himself. He uses this product of hobbying to record rehearsals at home

Cliff was Luke Ferguson, a printer, on Eddie Guest's "Welcome Valley" show, now uses this press for his movie titles and Christmas cards

Wig-making, one of Cliff's more unusual hobbies, he learned by taking them apart. Human hair he's using above cost $6; finished wigs, $150 to $300

Arquette is an adept clay-modeler, used the face above as base for a plastic rubber mask which he wore to frighten a studio audience

Besides Fred Astaire, who is kissing Helen Morgan's hand above while Jimmy Durante scratches his nose, six other marionettes are in Cliff's collection. He models heads, limbs, in clay; casts figures in plastics

Enthusied cameramen, Arquette and a partner have developed this sun-shade and "glass box" for trick backgrounds and "double" effects, sell it for $12.50, also sell miniature-camera trucks for as much as $23.50 each

Arquette once worked for Walt Disney, was at one time a newspaper cartoonist. Now he makes animated cartoons for his son Michael. The transparencies above, superimposed on backgrounds, depict a visit by Santa Claus Arquette's hobbies will pay for themselves and much more if plans for a sixteen-millimeter motion-picture camera convertible for "still" use materialize. If they don't, he still thinks he's having more fun than most!

THE SUN SEES THE BARBOURS

"One Man's Family" is the basis for friendships outside the studio for actors of its "Barbour family." Above: Barton Yarborough (Clifford) offers marshmallows to Kathleen Wilson (Claudia)

Carleton Morse writes many "One Man's Family" scripts from real lives of show's actors. After Yarborough, Walter Patterson (Nicky) and Kathleen organized a beach party, a script titled "The Barbours Don Bathing Suits" was written, broadcast June 5

Repeatedly voted top dramatic show, "One Man's Family" is on NBC Wednesdays at 8 p.m. EDT (8:30 p.m. PST Sundays for the West). Above: Miss Wilson, Yarborough, Minetta Ellen (Fanny), J. Anthony Smythe (Henry), Morse (author), Patterson, Winifred Wolfe (Teddy), Michael Raffetto (Paul), Bernice Berwin (Hazel)

Schedule Changes for July 17 to July 23

This department announces programs which change their networks or hour of broadcast for two weeks after the change is made. Consult the program listings for your local station

NEW PROGRAMS

Four Corners Theater, a dramatic presentation featuring plays that have been favorites in the rural sections of the nation, will be heard Coast-to-Coast starting Tuesday, July 19, at 6 p.m. CST (5 p.m. MST). Horace Heidt's orchestra (sponsored by Alemitre), returns to the air Sunday, July 17, at 8 p.m. CST (7 p.m. MST). The Farmer Takes the Mike, the first in a series of programs in which the average farmer will come before the microphone to express his views on national and world affairs will be inaugurated Sunday, July 17, at 2 p.m. CST (1 p.m. MST). About five or six farmers from different agricultural areas will participate in each program—a farm owner, a farm tenant, a farm laborer, a farmer's wife and a farmer's son or daughter. Each program will come from a different CBS studio in cities that are centers of certain farm crop sections. The Laugh Liner (sponsored by Wrigley's Gum), started a new series of programs Sunday, July 10. The broadcast features Billy House, tenor and Carl Hogenhart's orchestra (the latter two were heard on Just Entertainment, which recently went off the air). The program can be heard Sundays at 4:30 p.m. CST (3:30 p.m. MST).

The Peoples Platform, with Mr. and Mrs. Citizen as participants, will be inaugurated Wednesday, July 20, at 6 p.m. CST (5 p.m. MST). The program will seek to create a composite of American popular opinion, with informal dinner-table discussions. Each week four Americans, from the butcher to the bank president, will meet in a private dining-room with Lyman Bryson, to discuss subjects of a social, economic and political nature.

PROGRAM CHANGES

Benny Goodman (sponsored by Camels), who is enjoying a three weeks vacation in Europe, turns his baton over to other well-known conductors to lead his band for their weekly CBS programs. The first of these will be Guy Lombardo, who will conduct the Goodman band Tuesday, July 19, at 7:30 p.m. CST (6:30 p.m. MST). (Watch this department for next week's change on this program.)

Don Ameche (sponsored by Chase and Sanborn), who was heard on Sunday nights, left the program to go on an European vacation. However, Edward Arnold took over Don's spot Sunday, July 10, and can be heard Sundays at 6 p.m. CST (5 p.m. MST).

Paul Whiteman's orchestra (sponsored by Chesterfield), formerly heard on Friday nights, switched over to Wednesday nights, July 13. The new Wednesday night spot can be heard at 6:30 p.m. CST (5:30 p.m. MST), for West; 9:30 p.m. CST (8:30 p.m. MST).

CLOSINGS

Al Jolson Show (sponsored by Lifebuoy), faded from the airways July 12. Al Jolson will return in the fall.

Big Town, drama (sponsored by Rinso), left the air for the summer months Tuesday, July 12.

Bing Crosby (sponsored by Kraft), leaves the Music Hall for his vacation Thursday, July 28. Bob Burns takes over Bing's job while the latter is away. Court of Missing Heirs, drama (sponsored by Skelly), left the air Sunday, July 10.

SUMMER CONTESTS

BECAUSE the prize contests announced on the air constitute a considerable proportion of America's prize money and because listeners have demonstrated their interest in these announcements with millions of contest entries, RADIO GUIDE is publishing this list of national contests each week in this space.

This department is published in this form during the summer months when contest activity ebbs. During the fall and winter seasons, RADIO GUIDE publishes weekly the most authoritative contest news available to the general public. This is a department called "So You Like Contests?" It includes, in addition to lists such as the following, a resume of the week's contest news; detailed descriptions of the methods by which outstanding winners build their entries; examples of winning entries in all the big contests; losing entries, with criticisms designed to show wherein they failed, and in addition, RADIO GUIDE's contest department staff during those months is enlarged to give contest aid to readers through personal correspondence.
