So Wise, So Stupid

One of the more glaring contradictions in this complex system of American broadcasting which gives to us so much and asks from us so little is the very wise manner in which it covers some broadcast events and the very stupid way in which it covers others.

The very wise way was demonstrated on Monday, September 12, when Hitler spoke at the concluding session of the Nazi Party Congress in Germany. Here was a speech which might shake civilization itself. All of us wanted to listen, but few of us understood German. The National Broadcasting Company solved our needs admirably by putting the Fuehrer's speech on the air, and by fading in an interpreter who gave us the gist of those dynamite-packed words.

Few men in the world can whip crowds to a frenzy by the mere use of their voices. Of these few, Hitler is the greatest. Listening to him, we heard his mounting anger, we felt his vehemence and his vitality, and at the same time we comprehended something of what he said, thanks to the NBC interpreter. It is easier, now, to understand how he has persuaded and cajoled and scared a nation into following him.

On the other hand, broadcasting moves now into its football season. Once more the listener is threatened with the identical stupidity that has marred his pleasure in the past. Once more stations and networks are planning schedules which will find all manner of senseless duplication confounding Saturday afternoon audiences.

Our position is simply this: If one network carries a major football game, another network should not duplicate that service. We are aware of the prestige that is alleged to accrue to the network broadcasting the "big" game every Saturday, but in this country, so full of powerful colleges and their teams, there are a half-dozen "big" games a week.

Certainly networks know there are audiences for these other major clashes, yet how often do they think of service before prestige? As football fans we want something more than the ear tumult of three different announcers covering the same plunge through tackle.

We want no eastern "expert" telling us what game we should hear or which will be the "big" battle of the week. We want all the big games at our finger-tips. We are completely capable of doing our own selecting.

More Sign-Posts

Several weeks ago we stuck out our neck. It was that day we wrote brashly of our reasons for omitting the conventional CBS and NBC tags which formerly dotted our program pages. Full of editorial rectitude, we felt certain our streamline make-up was much easier to follow.

We were wrong. You have told us so in no uncertain terms. That noise you just heard was the sound of us pulling our neck back in (our ears in, too), and our face is still red. So we are going back to the old type of listing for all but some of our more specialized city editions. For the help your letters gave us, we give sincere thanks. Your sign-posts will be back just as soon as our type-setting department can shoulder the task of resetting the 50,000 lines involved.

Kate Smith's Story

Beginners in broadcasting will be happy to learn that Kate Smith is about to give them some good advice. She has put the story of her career and her climb to stardom into a book. It will be on sale October 12, and is to be called "Living In a Great Big Way."

We can remember Kate Smith's first public appearance on the New York stage when, as the fat-girl comic in a Broadway musical comedy, she pranced up to the footlights and did an amazing tap dance. Though she sang, it was her heavyweight stepping which charmed the audience. Not long after that, heart-broken and unhappy because of the unfriendliness of other members of the cast, she sought Ted Collins, then manager of a recording company, and asked him if he thought she would ever amount to anything.

"If you will do what I say for the next two years and not argue or ask questions why," Collins told her, "I'll make you the biggest star in radio."

"You're the boss," she said. That was the beginning of one of the most successful partnerships in broadcasting, one which has made each of them independently wealthy, one which has never been bound by anything more substantial than a handshake and complete trust in each other.

Kate's own story should be exciting and inspiring reading.

HAUNTED HIGH JINKS

JACK BENNY DEALS WITH GOBLINS, GHOSTS AND
CECIL B. DEMILLE—MON.

Cecil B. DeMille (above) will direct some new twists in an old favorite, "Seven Keys to Baldpate," when Lux Radio Theater presents the show over CBS

For one night, Jack Benny will forget his forthcoming Jell-O show to star on DeMille version of "Seven Keys." Jack and Mrs. (above) will play Benny.

The time: Monday night, September 26
The place: Lux Radio Theater
The drama: "Seven Keys to Baldpate"
And—the cast! What a cast!

JACK BENNY will take the role of that many-voiced tragedian, that greatest living interpreter of the classics—Jack Benny!

Mary Livingstone, that modern-day Duse, that second Sarah Bernhardt, will play—Mary Livingstone!

And Cecil B. DeMille, giant of the cinema, producer, director and author, impresario-in-chief of the Lux Radio Theater, will undertake to create for the radio audience the difficult character of—Cecil B. DeMille!

It all sounds a little bit wacky, and no wonder. "Seven Keys to Baldpate," a standard classic in every theatrical company's repertory since the September night in 1913 when the curtain went up on it for the first time, has been played literally thousands of times. Raw amateurs and seasoned professionals, rural theaters and college dramatic clubs—all have staged the famous "Baldpate." But it's very doubtful indeed that any reading of the play, no matter how hilarious, was ever as thoroughly mixed up as the Benny version you'll hear this Monday night. George M. Cohan himself, who wrote the play, would hardly know it now—but he'll probably be the first to admit that the Benny interpretation is as funny as anything possibly could be!

"A mysterious melodramatic farce." That was the description of "Seven Keys to Baldpate" printed on the Astor Theater playbill at the premiere. And all those things it certainly is. Full of solid "theater," gripping, suspenseful, and with a surprise ending that would have done credit to O. Henry himself. "Seven Keys to Baldpate" has everything. Millions of Americans have laughed until they cried watching it—even as they sat on the edges of their seats wondering what in the world could happen next.

Basis of the fantastic "Baldpate" plot—it has nothing to do with men who've lost their hair, incidentally—is a wager, a bet between a writer, one Billy Magee, and the owner of a summer resort, one Bentley. Magee, whose reputation as a writer is based on "the sort of novels that are sold by the pound," has bet $5,000 that he can write a book in twenty-four hours. Bentley, owner of the mountain summer resort, Baldpate, has suggested that he go there to find the absolute seclusion he'll need to do the job. For it's the middle of winter, and Baldpate is deserted. There is, Bentley says, but one key to Baldpate, and that one he may have so he can be certain of peace and privacy.

MET at Baldpate by the caretaker and his wife, Magee settles down to work at midnight, confident that he can have the story finished on time, despite the ghosts that are supposed to haunt Baldpate. But he has barely tapped out the first page of his manuscript when interruptions begin. One after another, mysterious citizens, obviously on evil bent, fit keys into the locked front door of Baldpate and come stamping in, shaking the snow from their clothes and swinging their arms to get a measure of warmth back into their blood. There is a girl newspaper reporter, a confessed woman black-mailer, a notoriously dishonest politician, a hermit, the president of a railroad—in all, there are six of them, each with a key to Baldpate. There's $200,000 mixed up in it—stolen money at that. There's scuffling, there's gun-play, there are policemen and handcuffed criminals—thrills, surprises, suspense—suspense built up to the bursting point.

AND just at the point when Billy Magee, novelist, has concluded that the human mind can bear no more, Bentley, who bet him $5,000 he couldn't write a novel, or anything like a novel, within twenty-four hours, arrives on the scene—with the seventh key to Baldpate!

Says he: "I'm the owner of Baldpate Inn. Two policemen refused to allow me to pass, and I shot them dead."

Magee: "This isn't true. It can't be true! I'm a raving maniac!"

Bentley: "I just arrived, Billy. I motored from New York. I expected to find you alone. Who are these people? How did they get in here? Have they disturbed you in your work? And how are you getting on with the story?"

Magee: "How am I getting on? Great heavens, man, to what sort of a place did you send me? Nothing but crooks, murderers, ghosts, pistol-shots, policemen, and dead people walking about the halls. Hundreds of thousands of dollars, and keys and keys and keys! You win—I lose. Twenty-four hours! Why, I couldn't write a book in twenty-four years in a place like this! My God, what a night this has been!"

BUT all in vain. For comes now the denouement. The miscellaneous marauders who've driven Magee into the purple-fringed dithers aren't real at all, it seems—they're only stage actors, a whole company of them, brought from New York by Bentley just as a joke!

Nor is that all. The audience is still staggering under the impact of that revelation when the curtain falls on the second and last act, only to rise immediately on an epilog. None of this has really happened, we're told. It's only the story—the story that Magee has been writing all night! And that—is the end.

But as far as The Master, Jack Benny, is concerned, it's only the beginning. To Benny, Shakespeare may be sacred, but George M. Cohan is only another actor-playwright. Jack Benny's Baldpate (no pun intended, probably) has some new twists.

Jack will play a young man who's tired of forever doing comedy roles—he wants something solid, something with meat on it, something deep, and significant, and tragic. (There's probably as much truth as fiction in that. Few, indeed, are the comedians who don't pine to play Hamlet.) Now it seems that Cecil B. DeMille once made a half-promise of a part in a serious picture to Jack. (That's for the purposes

A gay birthday celebration that ended like this! When Clover Kerr was pulled from beneath the train's wheels she had lost both legs and an arm

THE LIVING WITNESS

YESTERDAY the victim of a tragedy that stirred every soul in a great city, today the inspiration of thousands who listen to her uplifting message daily on the radio, who have read her book, "Banners of Courage," or have contacted her through her good works among the afflicted, Clover Kerr stands the living witness to a simple statement made more than two thousand years ago by the Carpenter of Nazareth when he said, "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall set you free."

Since a motor accident which cost her both legs, and her right arm, Clover, through a philosophy born of affliction which she broadcasts five days a week over KFVB and California Radio System network, has prevented at least ten suicides, brought joy and happiness into the lives of hundreds of crippled children, and helped thousands of despairing, discouraged men and women to a better understanding of life and living. The catastrophe that left her maimed in body failed to feaze her indomitable spirit, focused it instead on the single divine purpose of turning an affliction into a blessing of gloriously unselfish service to her fellow man.

On the night of March 3, 1937, Clover was, to all appearances, just an average twenty-year-old American girl motoring home for a gay dancing-party with a chum's brother who had just celebrated his twenty-first birthday. Near a railroad crossing, another car locked wheels with theirs, and Clover was thrown mercilessly beneath the wheels of an onrushing train. When the ambulance finally arrived, pretty auburn-haired Clover Kerr was conscious, knew that she had lost both legs and an arm; but she wasn't frightened, for in that hour of awful tragedy the real purpose of her life, which so many never find, was revealed to her.

The next morning the whole city of Los Angeles stood aghast at the tragedy that had befallen this girl, but Clover, the victim, was strangely calm. A new light burned steadily in her eyes. While newspapers and sisters were telling the world she couldn't live, pictured nothing ahead for the maimed girl but a pathetic, pitiable future if she did, Clover was already visualizing clearly the shining path of love and service she has since traveled so courageously.

To put it in Clover's own words: "I fooled them. I not only lived, and I never doubted for a moment that I would, but I proved to them, and what is more important, to myself, that happiness is a state of mind, not a condition of the body. I knew I could live without ever feeling sad or blue again, something I had not experienced before the accident.

"When I came out of the ether after the operation, I was happy. I knew before what had happened to me, but somehow it didn't matter that I must finish my life without any legs and my right arm. My heart was too filled with a strange new happiness that I had never known before.

"THE feeling I had then about life was one that I couldn't explain to others because it was so contrary to what I thought I should have experienced. I couldn't help being happy, but I didn't know what I was so happy about, except that the world was a wonderful place, and something deep within me knew that it was going to be even more wonderful than it ever had been before. Somehow I felt that life for the first time for me was really worth living, that I must live because I had so much to accomplish.

"That was the first day. Then flowers and cards began arriving. They filled my room. Mother sat by my bed and read me the cards and letters, all so sweet and wonderful. It never occurred to me to feel sorry for myself. The only time I shed any tears was when I was told that the children in the grammar school I had attended years before were praying daily that my life might be spared. Then I cried in gratitude. Later I learned that people everywhere were praying for me, and I felt the force of those prayers. How, I thought, could anyone help feeling happy, want to live, with so many desiring it? I loved everybody in the whole world."

When friends were allowed to visit Clover at the hospital and could not conceal their sorrow, unwisely and thoughtlessly told her how they had worried and lost sleep over her, she tried to make them understand her happy viewpoint but found it difficult, for they just thought she was just acting, trying to put up a brave front when she told them how she felt and how joyous she was at what she knew the future held for her. Even the nurses and doctors at the hospital called it sheer pluck—nothing more.

But it was only a few days before the hospital staff observed that, contrary to all the ordinary rules, the case they considered hopeless was having parties in her room every night, fifteen or twenty of her friends gathering there at one time. On the twelfth day after the accident, Clover's doctor told her she could have her parties at home.

Everyone was amazed at her rapid recovery. Of course she had to remain in bed at home for some time, so her mother and dad had a hospital bed set up in the living-room of their modest home in the Walnut Park section of Los Angeles, and there she entertained her friends. Speaking of that period, Clover says, "I'll never forget how much fun it was to lie flat on my back and sing."

Self-pity was never woven into the bright pattern of Clover's plans for the future. Because she kept joy, interest in old friends and the countless new ones that had entered her life uppermost in her thoughts, there was no place for sadness and sorrow to gain a foothold. When many people who came to see her thought she should be overcome, her spirit crushed by what had befallen her, she began to wonder why the majority of human beings let misfortune down them rather than determine to live above it.

NATURALLY, being an outdoor girl who loved an active life, she felt bad when she thought of giving up sports, dancing she loved, and especially her piano work. But she routed that by reasoning that she hadn't had much time for sports while she was working, and that most girls gave up dancing as they grew older. As far as her music was concerned, it wasn't a month after the accident before Clover had discovered there were a great many beautiful compositions written for the left hand alone, which added to the newfound happiness born of tragedy because she had the vision and courage to seek earnestly. Too, she never doubted that she would be able to walk in time with the aid of artificial legs. And that has been realized, as pictures of her bear witness. Today she walks, rides horseback, swims, and is even looking forward to taking up golf.

Clover's only real worry those first weeks after the accident was the thought that she was an expense and a burden to her family. But that only made her resolve more determinedly to do something worth while with her life. So, during her convalescence, she took inventory of her assets. A high school graduate, she had specialized in journalism because she always had been interested in writing from the time she entered her teens. After graduation

Clover has been "adopted" by the Hollywood movie colony, always quick to commend courage. Above: One of her first treats was a visit with radio's Eddie Cantor on "Ali Baba Goes to Town" set when she was eighteen, a small newspaper had given her assignments but no pay. Feeling that she couldn't go on that way, she accepted a job tinting pictures in a photographic studio, where she was paid for her work. This, in turn, had led to classes in art work two nights a week. In the final summing-up. Clover's first resolution centered on the one big idea that in some way she must tell people that they should never accept tragedy in their lives, because she knew positively that they didn't have to, even though it was a centuries-old habit.

"I wanted to tell people that they shouldn't because it only hurt them. I wanted to show, tell and prove to them in some way they could understand that any handicap could be overcome, turned into a blessing. This was my dream, my burning desire," was the way Clover expressed it. "I was so grateful to the world for the kindness it had showered upon me that I could see only this way of repaying. I could only trust and pray that I might be given the opportunity of teaching many the lesson I had learned—and that it didn't take courage but merely plain common sense."

With that truly unselfish desire it was only natural, not strange, that Clover Kerr should receive so abundantly. For we have been promised that we shall receive if we but believe that we shall, and Clover never doubted.

When a newspaper reporter told of her ambition to write, Marion Mansfield, children's story-teller at Station KFWB, read of it. She visited Clover and asked her if she would write some children's stories for broadcasting. Delighted, Clover said she would try.

But writing children's stories never developed for Clover, proved only a stepping-stone for a bigger opportunity. When Mrs. Mansfield returned to the studio and told Harry Maizlish, KFWB manager, about her interview with Miss Kerr, he and the other members of the staff saw greater possibilities for the girl who was later to be highly commended for a courageous spirit, constructive work—be called "valiant" by no less a personage than the nation's President, Franklin D. Roosevelt, who himself knew what it meant to rise above a bodily affliction.

JUST two months after the accident, in May, Clover was given a guest appearance on the old Gus Edwards "School Days of the Air" program over KFWB and the California Radio System network. On May 10, Clover joyously celebrated her twenty-first birthday, for a week and day later she was to begin her present daily (except Saturday and Sunday) program series over KFWB, which was to be her medium for expressing that "burning desire to tell others" how to walk the highroad rather than the lowroad of life.

When the KFWB staff invited Clover to give a program of her own philosophy

Joe Penner's millions of fans will welcome him back Thursday

Green Fedora Man —Thursday, CBS

Joe Penner, the Hungarian duck-fancier, returns to the airwaves this week, and his gurgling falsetto will no doubt be as welcome as the flowers in May. Penner, starting his umpteenth season in the big-time, has come a long way from Nagechkerock, the little town in Hungary that was his birthplace. Veteran of vaudeville and the stage, he was "discovered" for radio, as so many others have been, by Rudy Vallee. One quest appearance with Vallee was all he needed. Shortly after that his famous "Wanna buy a duck" tag-line was echoing over the countryside. The echoes got to be a little bit too much for Mr. Penner, in fact. He says today that he wonders now why some irate father, after hearing the expression ten times a minute from his small son, didn't come after its originator with a gun. Today, there's no duck on the Penner program. Joe believes that his strong point is situation comedy, not gag stuff, and this year's program will follow that policy. Ben Pollack, veteran swingster, will provide the music.

Bulbs and Flowers —Tuesday, CBS

With real honest-to-goodness autumn just around the corner, flower gardeners of every degree, from the full-time fancier who measures his garden space in acres to the city dweller who cultivates a two-by-four plot in the back yard, are beginning to think in terms of bulbs: those funny-looking, shiny egg-like things that are planted in the fall and miraculously turn into flowers in the spring. The number and variety of bulbs, the technique of planting them, the care they should be given

Frederick, "Of Men and Books" fame, will review two volumes covering this precise matter. One of them is C. H. Grey's "Hardy Bulbs," and the other "Brown Hills," by Judy Van der Veer, Dutch authority on a subject that has been, for long before the great "tulip craze" of hundreds of years ago, very close to the people of Holland.

Bright Lights —Wednesday, CBS

Otto Olesen had to wash dishes for a living when he came to America, aged seventeen, to make his fortune, but he never forgot the ambition that brought him here; never lessened his forthright determination to succeed. He soon grew out of dish-washing, became office boy in a Los Angeles engineer's office, spent his days at work and his nights in school. He soon found that lights and lighting interested him more than anything else in the world, and he determined to learn so much about the science of illumination that he'd be recognized as the "world's greatest lighting expert." And he succeeded. Today Otto Olesen is owner and operator of "Spectacular Illumination," the only business of its kind in the world concerning itself with supplying magnificent and unusual lighting effects for great shows and spectacles. Olesen's lighting was used in the 1932 Olympics, at Billy Rose's show in Fort Worth, and he lighted Max Reinhardt's Hollywood Bowl production of "Midsummer Night's Dream." The Lonely Light —Thursday, CBS

Ever since the first hardy Phoenician mariners put to sea in their frail, oar-driven boats, men have relied on lighthouses to guide their paths over the water and bring them safely home again. Still in use in some parts of the world are examples of the first-known type of lighthouse: crude iron-work baskets that are filled with burning wood. And many are the tales told of lighthouses and lighthouse keepers. Few occupations are so lonely, so monotonous, and at the same time so important. The code of the beacon-keeper is, "The light must not fail!" Fifty years ago, it was an oil lamp that provided the tiny glow which the huge prisms built up until it could be thrown twenty miles to sea; and the revolving mirrors were kept in motion by clock-work. Today, an electric bulb supplies the light, and an electric motor keeps it endlessly flashing. But the drama of the lighthouse-keeper's existence goes on unchanged. On Thursday, September 29, the Columbia Workshop will present a play, "The Lighthouse Keeper." It is one of the outstanding pieces in the repertory of the Grand Guignol Theater of Paris, has been adapted to radio by Max Wylie of Columbia.

Hoover is the only living ex-president

Elder Statesman —Wednesday, CBS

One of the most frequently cited objections to our present governmental set-up is that the duties of the President of the United States are made so arduous, so crushingly heavy, that by the time he has filled his term of office he is worn out, exhausted, of no further use to his country. "The hardest job in the world"—that's what the presidency is usually called, and with good reason. The number of presidents who have died in office, or soon after leaving office, is great. In the other great democracies, Great Britain, for instance, and France, the former heads of the government are nearly always available for consultation and advice. England's great wartime leader, for instance, Lloyd George, is still active and respected. But there are few such "elder statesmen" in America. The only living ex-president is Herbert Hoover. It is to Mr. Hoover's credit that he has tried to play the proper role. On Wednesday, radio listeners will hear him talk from the Municipal Auditorium in Kansas City before a meeting of Republican clubs. Hoover will speak on the subject, "Morality in Government," and it is expected that his address will set the line for Republican attacks on the Roosevelt administration in the coming election campaigns.

"Gracie!" —Friday, CBS

George Burns and Gracie Allen were born at opposite ends of the country, George in New York City and Gracie in San Francisco. Yet they met, entered vaudeville together, and married. When they first went on the stage, Gracie played the "straight" parts, and George was supposed to get most of the laughs. But it didn't work that way. The audiences found Gracie's remarks the funniest, and their roles were switched. Since then Burns and Allen have been headliners on stage, screen and radio. Way back in February, 1932, they made their American radio debut over CBS, and within four days had received 360,000 fan letters. Now successful, established favorites, they return to CBS with a new program and a new sponsor. Moon Over the Mountain —Thursday, CBS

Kate Smith, the soft-voiced charmer whose songs have won for her as big a place in the heart of the American public as any singer ever had, will be back again this week to start another season on the air. Fresh from a long summer vacation, the girl who made the moon come over the mountain in places in these United States where it never had before is bringing back the same type of program that her listeners have loved her for in the past. Guest stars will be featured in dramatic sketches. Comedians Abbott and Costello, heard frequently last year, are now permanent fixtures on the program, with Ted Straeter's choir, Jack Miller's orchestra, and Manager Ted Collins. And, of course, there will be Kate's own singing!

World's Biggest —Tuesday, NBC

With King George VI and Queen Elizabeth participating, the colorful ceremonies and pageantry attending the launching of the world's largest ocean liner, the Queen Elizabeth, will be short-waved from Clydebank, Glasgow, Scotland, on Tuesday, September 27, for NBC listeners in America. It will be one of the rare occasions when the voice of the reigning queen of England is heard on the air in this country. Elaborate preparations have been made by the British Broadcasting Corporation to insure a complete and realistic sound-picture of the launching. Microphones will be set up throughout the shipyard to pick up not only the ceremony but also the sounds of the release of the triggers and the creaking of the ways as the great ship slides into the water. The Queen Elizabeth is ten feet longer than her "sister" ship, the Queen Mary. George Blake will be at the microphone.

Betty Caine, who gave up a good job in a Grand Rapids, Michigan, law office to try her luck at radio, will play the title role in "Madame Courageous," dramatic story of a woman left alone to bring up a family after her husband had divorced her to marry another woman, when this new serial makes its debut Monday.

The program will be heard three times a week, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. The serial is based, says Author Howard McKent Barnes, on hundreds of real-life stories.

Tubers, to You! —Wednesday, MBS

It's often said that we Americans manage to keep our heads—literally and figuratively—in a world gone berserk, because we don't take things very seriously, and particularly because we don't take politics very seriously. It may or not be true, there's much to be said for taking politics a lot more seriously than the average American citizen does—but at least our politicians know when to come down from the pedestal and kick up their heels. If you can imagine any European politicians, for instance, doing what Governor Lewis O. Barrows of Maine and Governor Berzilla W. Clark of Idaho are going to do this Wednesday, in broad daylight, you have an imagination that is wasting its time where it is. For on that day, before as big a crowd as cares to assemble, the two above-mentioned statesmen are going to engage in a potato-picking contest! It all started over an argument as to which state raised the biggest ones. Governor Clark, it seems, said that Maine potatoes were unworthy of the attention of a real connoisseur of the tuber, while His Excellency Governor Barrows replied to the effect that an Idaho potato could not aspire to the lowliest stew-pot in all of Maine. What will be settled by his earthy debate, we don't know, but Dave Driscoll will describe it.

Yankee Philosopher —Sunday, NBC

Seth Parker, beloved "Down East" character created by Phillips Lord, whose homely philosophy and dry, impish humor won him the acclaim of millions of radio listeners during his years as an NBC sustaining feature, will return to the air to begin the new season on Sunday, September 25. With Seth will be all the old, well-beloved characters, Ma Parker and the Jonesport neighbors of the family. Lord, who takes the leading role, will revive many features heard on the original program.

When Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy first came to radio, wiseacres were quick to predict that they would score the most dismal failure of the decade. "Imagine, a ventriloquist on the air!" they cracked. But Bergen showed 'em. And not so long after Bergen had triumphed with McCarthy on the Rudy Vallee program, Tommy Riggs came along and did the same thing, in the same place, with "Betty Lou." Saturday Tommy Riggs and Betty Lou will be back on the air with a show of their own.

Tin Pan Alley —Thursday, CBS

What's the dizziest occupation known to man? There are many authorities, most of them self-established, perhaps, but authorities none the less, who would reply that the writers of popular songs, the lads who beat out the melodies that all America sings and plays and who call Tin Pan Alley in New York City the center and very hub of the universe, are of all men the wackiest. It has been said that song-writers, by the very nature of their calling, put themselves beyond the ken of normal men. Is it true? Or are they just ordinary, commonplace citizens like you and me? There's a way to find out. On Thursday, September 29, there'll be some certified grade-A song-writers on the "Americans at Work" program over CBS.

THE RADIO PLAYBILL: THIS WEEK—"GIRL ALONE"

NO MATTER how huge a fortune a girl may have, money cannot guarantee her future against heartbreak, against the fact that many men will propose marriage just to get possession of her money, while the one man who may really love her devotedly will shy away rather than have his friends say that he married his wife for her money. Patricia Ryan, in "Girl Alone," faces that problem. She knows it exists and meets it in her own way. Child of wealth, Patricia reasons that as a rich girl she will be seriously handicapped in the game of love, and that it will be impossible to find a mate who will love her for herself. To overcome the problem, she changes her name to Rogers, covers the fact that she's an heiress, and seeks a job in Chicago. She meets Scoop Curtis, ace reporter, and they fall in love. Scoop really succeeds, proposes to Patricia and is about to marry her, when he learns the secret of her wealth. Not desiring to be pointed out as a weakling who married money, Scoop vanishes on the eve of their wedding. Patricia has him traced and joins him in the west, where he is making a real effort to forget her. Out west, Patricia meets Dick Conover, who falls desperately in love with her. Scoop, disgusted and in a fit of temper, marries another girl after he has been told that Patricia has eloped with her new love. He goes back to Chicago and hunts up his old pal, Joe Markham, now city editor on a Chicago paper. Scoop turns reporter again, goes to work for Joe. Patricia, returning to Chicago alone, assumes her own name, sets out to be a society glamour girl. She leases a mansion and settles down on Lake Shore Drive with two girl chums. Scoop, because he feels that she is making a mistake, attempts to spoil her plans. Patricia outwits him. Meanwhile, Scoop realizes his marriage is a mistake, wants it annulled. But his bride has vanished and he can find no trace of her. "Girl Alone" is broadcast five days a week, Monday through Friday, at 4:45 p.m. EST over an NBC network. Sketches are under the direction of Lyle B. Barnhart.

PATRICIA RYAN, heiress in disguise, is played by Betty Winkler. A miss in her early twenties, Patricia's an ambitious girl who knows what she wants and goes after it, but she always tries to avoid hurting anyone else in the getting. Generous, lovable and intelligent, she is constantly stumbling into knotty situations that require shrewdness to untangle. Patricia refuses to allow the "rich girl, poor boy" jinx to stop her in her quest for a husband who will love her, not just her huge fortune. To that end she leaves the city where she is known, changes her name, and goes to Chicago merely as any American girl who must earn her living. Securing a job as cub reporter, she wins the love of Scoop Curtis, holds it until, by chance, he discovers her real identity. Then he disappears. Although she finds him again, it brings her only heartache. When he marries another girl, Patricia again assumes life as an heiress

PAT MURPHY (Scoop Curtis), twenty-six-year-old newspaper comer, jumps from the frying-pan into the fire when he stubbornly refuses to marry Patricia Ryan, because of her money. He is something of an idealist, and has no notion of becoming "Mr. Pat Ryan." Belief in his own opinions brings only heartache to himself and his friends. With Patricia's help before the break, he has risen to a position where he is publisher of his own paper. He throws that all aside and turns reporter again, determined to frustrate what he considers Pat's attempt to make a fool of herself as a society glamour girl. He hires a press-agent to upset her plans. The agent is instructed by Scoop to pose as an employe of Patricia, tell city editors that she is only seeking notoriety. But the hiring messes up the situation. With his duties as a reporter combined with his search for his missing wife, and his battle with Patricia, Scoop leads a busy life

DICK CONOVER, played by Herbert Nelson, is Scoop's age. Honorable in his intentions, Dick proves romantic in his zeal to win Patricia, doesn't realize that his father, who is a crook, is plotting against the girl he loves in order to get a generous slice of the huge Ryan fortune. Scoop believes that he has eloped with Patricia

ALICE AMES WARNER (Joan Winters) is Patricia's best friend, has saved her many times from making silly mistakes. An office worker, she shares Patricia's Gold Coast home, which proves amusing to her, especially when Patricia insists on sending her to work in a chauffeured car. Life hasn't been easy for Alice

MIKE BARLOW is a happy-go-lucky news photographer and a real friend and pal to Scoop through fair weather and foul. He takes the world pretty much as he finds it, and thinks it's not a bad place by and large. Intensely loyal to Scoop, he's always ready to help him, but likes Patricia, too. Sidney Ellstrom plays part of Mike

VIRGINIA HARDESTY (Laurette Fillbrandt) is another close friend who lives with Patricia. A cross between Gracie Allen and a jitterbug, she is not entirely dumb, but has a positive genius for saying the right thing at the wrong time. A typical socialite who refuses to take the world seriously, she adds a humorous touch to the story

KARL WEBER, in the role of John Knight, plays the part of Patricia's lawyer and trustee of her estate. Unknown to Patricia, he is deeply in love with her, determined to marry her. He is convinced that she doesn't love Scoop, refuses to consider him a rival. Knight's a suave man who is always master of his own emotions

CHARLES LYON, announcer for "Girl Alone," has been with NBC since April, 1931. Lyon came to radio by way of the movies and stage, gave up the movies when a director's script called for him to be dragged behind a moving car. After adventures at sea on a freighter, Lyon appeared in two Broadway shows before he went on air

OFF the air for a short time, "Girl Alone" was brought back by popular demand after listeners had telegraphed, telephoned, written letters asking that the show go on. Other members of the cast are: Joe Markham, city editor on a Chicago paper, for whom Scoop goes to work after his return from the West. On the surface Joe's a cynic who has no patience with human weakness of any sort, but underneath he's just a sentimentalist. The man known as "Boss" is a ig-time confidence man, a dyed-in-the-wool windler and extortionist. Leader of a notorious gang, he poses as a respected lawyer in order to hide his identity. Jack Hunt, a 13-year-old boy, is Patricia's foster son in name, although she has not legally adopted him. He has been given into her keeping by his aunt on her deathbed. Jack's burning ambition is to be an aviator when he grows up. Most difficult problem that faced Fayette Krum, author of "Girl Alone," was the newspaper sequences in the sketches. A former newspaperwoman herself, she at first debated the wisdom of writing true-to-life stuff.

Vacation's over. Packer-uppers (left to right) are Maida Heatter, Dad, Mother, all pitching in to rug-rolling business as they close the cottage

On porch of summer home at Green Pond, Conn., Gabriel Heatter, m.c. for "We, the People," puts away fishing-tackle, dreams of record bass catch

Canoe goes into drydock 'neath cottage porch. Weeks in great outdoors, quiet evenings reading are given up reluctantly for busy radio season

Unlike many families constantly in the news, the Heatters spend a good deal of time together. Above: Maida and her mother listen while Dad tells how the tenth bass got away after he'd got nine in thirty-five minutes

Two months away from work sharpened Mr. Heatter's appetite to the point where he couldn't wait for luncheon guests to arrive; so Mrs. Heatter and Maida obliged with man-sized sandwiches and thick slices of cold turkey

Twenty minutes after consuming sandwiches, turkey, Mr. Heatter sat down to real lunch with guests—the last one on the cottage porch until next summer. Left to right: The host, Susan (maid), Maida, Max, Mrs. Heatter and two neighbors

NEW YORK.—The CBS "Monday Night Show" was first reported as going off the air, and then renewed at the last minute. With this report came the news that Connie Boswell and Ted Husing would be off the show, but now we find those plans altered again. The deal for Connie to join the Bob Hope show on the Coast fell through, so she'll remain in the East for the time being and is expected back next Monday night after playing two weeks of vaudeville. Ted Husing is also expected back after having taken time off to report the tennis matches.

Frank Parker will be on the Burns and Allen show for the three weeks the comics are in New York. When they go back to the Coast Tony Martin rejoins the program . . . Jerry Cooper is back on the airlines. He can be heard on the "Vocal Varieties" program with the "Smoothies" and the De Vore Sisters, Tuesday and Thursday nights . . . Rudy Vallee's broadcast will move to the West Coast for six weeks the latter part of November, while Rudy and his orchestra play at the Coconut Grove . . . Allen Prescott, who is known to listeners as "The Wifesaver," is trying to discard that tag. He has auditioned a new show called "National Auction," in which he is a jesting master of ceremonies . . . Fred Waring has discovered a new singing group he will add to his program. They're called "Two Bees and a Honey." The "Bees" are Hal Kanner and Murray Kane, who were plenty good when I heard them sing over a New York local station about four years ago. Incidentally, Waring received 650 applications for his new a cappella male choir, from which twenty had to be selected. Among the voices you will hear will be that of NBC Announcer Gene Hamilton, who has a splendid bass voice and one of the best of the group.

Skinny Ennis left the Hal Kemp organization several months ago to organize his own band. Both Skinny and Hal have the same personal manager. Starting this Tuesday night Maestro Ennis and his band will supply the music on the new Bob Hope program over NBC. On the CBS network at the same time will be Maestro Kemp, Skinny's former boss, competing for listeners.

A new personality to the network listeners will be introduced on Sunday afternoon, October 9. He is by no means new to listeners in Chicago and the surrounding territory, where for several years he has conducted a very successful program of phonograph records known as "Red Hot and Low Down." His name is Bob Hawk, and if he can be as nonsensically amusing as he has been on his recording show, I predict a great future for him. Hawk's new program will be another audience-participation show. He will ask foolish questions while John B. Kennedy will take the serious side.

Behind the "seen" at the Paul Whiteman program last week: Songstress Joan Edwards showing to an admiring Mrs. Whiteman (Margaret Livingstone) a new evening dress she designed herself. Of gleaming satin, it had small musical notes embroidered all over it. Paul himself was spending most of the time between broadcast and rebroadcast practicing his golf stroke, with the baton substituting for a club. Advising him was Roy Bargey, chief arranger for the Whiteman band, who plays a very good golf game. Red McKenzie, who was guesting on the program as one of the members of the "bargain-counter" band Paul had assembled for that show, was rushing around looking for more tissue paper with which to cover his comb. He played a comb in the "bargain-counter" band, and its tissue paper had been torn through by the spirited playing of the first broadcast. Les Lieber, another member of the guest band, had put aside his ten-cent fife, and was busy working on a typewriter backstage. Les' main job is as a member of the CBS publicity department, and he had to finish a feature story by the next morning.

I went up to Columbia's Studio 4 the other day to watch rehearsals of "Big Sister," one of the more popular daily script-shows. The cast of the program seems a wonderful illustration of the training radio gives for the stage, for three of its members and one ex-member are now making names for themselves in the theater. There's beautiful, blond Alice Frost, who last year set all the critics raving about her performance in the Mercury Theater's "Shoemaker's Holiday." Martin Gabel, "Big Sister's" Dr. Wayne, was another hit of the Mercury season as Cassius in "Julius Caesar." And it was only last summer that Haila Stoddard left her role of Sue Evans to take over the lead in Broadway's "Yes, My Darling Daughter." Haila was succeeded by pert, fluffy-haired Dorothy McGuire, and true to "Big Sister" tradition, Dorothy walked inconspicuously into the big feminine role of "Our Town," this year's Pulitzer Prize winner, a few weeks ago, and set Broadway rocking on its heels with her inspired acting. Up until the moment rehearsal began, everyone in the cast seemed to be talking at once. Dorothy McGuire, still very much excited about her Broadway success, was thanking Alice Frost for her congratulatory telegram. Ned Wever (Jerry Miller of the script), who used to be Dick Tracy on the airwaves, was busy talking golf to Fred Uttal, the program's announcer. As soon as rehearsal began, everyone was serious. Under the guidance of Director Herschell Williams, rehearsal and broadcast went off without a hitch. But the cast wasn't finished then. After the program was over, they continued right on rehearsing the next day's script.

AIRIALTO LOWDOWN

BY MARTIN LEWIS

Whenever you've seen a picture of Ben Bernie, you no doubt have noticed the cigar he invariably has perched in his mouth or in his hand. Starting Sunday, October 2, Mr. Bernie will be working for a tobacco company, so from now on when you see a picture of the Ol' Maestro you can expect to see a pipe sticking out of his mouth in place of the customary cigar. As a matter of fact, immediately after Bernie was signed for the program his sponsor sent him several pipes and a half-dozen cans of tobacco.

Harry von Zell missed several radio shows the other week because a severe sore throat kept him in bed. His first day back at work was on a Sunday when he had to rehearse for the "Hobby Lobby" show most of the afternoon. After rehearsal came the program, and then a few hours later, the repeat program for listeners on the West Coast, which ended at midnight, New York time. That is considered a good day's work in itself, but Harry was by no means finished. He also announces the Eddy Duchin program on Monday nights, and that week the Duchin orchestra was playing at New York's Paramount Theater. The only time the orchestra leader could find for rehearsal was after the last show on Sunday night, so it was held from midnight until 3:30 a.m. The bed looked awfully good to Mr. von Zell when he reached home one hour later.

Eddy Duchin and his musicians didn't mind it either when they hit the good old hay that night. Besides the three and a half hours of rehearsal the boys did six shows that day. They had to be back at the theater at ten the next morning, and if you've never seen a tired group of people you should have seen this band after their broadcast. If you have aspired to become a musician maybe this will change your mind.

It wasn't any joke for comic Phil Baker to have his Bermuda vacation spoiled by an emergency operation for an intestinal disorder. When the Queen of Bermuda docked, Baker was carried off in a stretcher and rushed to a New York hospital. At this writing, he is getting along nicely . . . Several weeks ago you read here that a New York society deb was visiting the Astor Hotel roof each night with a different escort just to be near Hal Kemp. Last week the papers reported their contemplated walk down the well-known middle aisle . . . Eric Rolfe and his frau went on a fishing-trip together, with the Mrs. landing a big "muskie" and Eric going all day without a nibble . . . After a day of fishing, your reporter landed a "kingfish." I threw my line back hoping to catch an Amos or an Andy, but didn't have any luck.

IS THERE TOO MUCH SWING?

ROVING REPORTER FOR RADIO GUIDE PUTS THIS PERTINENT QUESTION TO LISTENERS-IN

*Exclusive Radio Guide Photographs
by Gene Lester*

"YES," says Walter Gregoraszuk, New York City window-cleaner, "I'd rather hear something more quiet than Swing, so I could fall asleep easier"

"YES," echoes Mazie L. Bledsoe, Columbia, Mo., secretary. "While I enjoy Swing music in moderation, I think there's too much of it in radio"

"NO," says Samuel Weintraub, delicatessen proprietor of Worcester, Mass. "My customers have fun listening to Swing on the radio in my store"

"NO," decides Gerald Abovitz, ice-cream salesman in New Haven, Conn. "If radio has been a success till now, why not let well enough alone?"

"NO, there can't be too much Swing. It keeps me in a happy spirit, makes me forget the 'blues,'" says Curtis J. Graff, Washington, D. C., officer

Ray Bolger, movie dancer and sometimes broadcaster, shows what happens when queer malady known as "mike fright" grips a player

Ray (in role of singer) steps up to the black gadget all prepared for his song, but when he tries to sing, he finds he can't make a sound

He makes several attempts, but his voice has simply disappeared on a wave of fear. Finally, in desperation, he tries a salt-water gargle

But the gargle fails miserably. He still can't utter a sound, let alone sing. There is only one thing to do, and he does it—gives up!

HOLLYWOOD—That abrupt termination of the "Good News" program of September 8 can be directly charged to Norma Shearer, guest of the evening. Miss Shearer, whose radio experience is limited, failed to rehearse with the cast the night before the program because of a previous engagement. She also gave the script a light once-over on Thursday afternoon, and although she promised to give time to posing for press photographers, these gentlemen were forced to wait two hours for her to "put on a hat," a condition she imposed . . . Result, Miss Shearer's performance was not the best, nothing like her screen "Marie Antoinette" and nowhere near her broadcast "Romeo and Juliet" of several years ago. Her brief rehearsal failed also to give the radio producer an accurate timing of her script; caused the program to run overtime and forced it to be cut by NBC before the Shearer-Young interview had concluded . . . Before the broadcast, the actress received a huge bouquet of red roses.

Amos 'n' Andy turned Cedars of Lebanon hospital into a radio studio last week because the first half of that team, Freeman F. Gosden, required immediate, though not major, surgery to rectify a chronic disorder. Successfully operated on September 10, his doctor ordered Amos to stay hospitalized the remainder of the week, so two days later NBC engineers, Announcer Bill Hay and "Genevieve Blue" reported at his bedside and staged an Amos 'n' Andy episode as usual, but amidst strange surroundings. During Gosden's hospital stay, Charlie (Andy) Correll reported to the former's room each morning at ten o'clock and, with the patient, began preparing the day's script . . . However, Amos couldn't — as he ordinarily does when in the muse — pace the floor!

Thoughts at the Lux Theater reopening: Very beautiful brunet girl with dark eyes and crimson lips observed on stage strikingly costumed in white slack suit, shoes, coat and beanie. Proved later to be Elaine Barrie, who wasn't in the cast but just sat there to make hubby John Barrymore feel at home . . . Cecil B. DeMille's sunburned, thin-haired scalp accented by overhead stage lighting . . . Those were real tears Dorothy Lamour shed in enacting "Spawn of the North." Dorothy's becoming quite an actress; was all wrought up from her emoting.

Which reminds me, Dorothy is feuding with Jimmie Fidler for his trying to tell her how to live and with whom. Right now her husband, Herbie Kay, is vacationing with Dorothy, and she says she hopes she is doing right.

Another marriage you'll be hearing rumored upsets about after October first is the happy one of Frances Langford and Jon Hall. Yes, the gossips will be predicting trouble—but the only foundation they will have will be Hall's leaving America for England, where he must report by October 1 to make a new picture, while Frances' work on "Hollywood Hotel" will keep her here. Marriage agrees with the songbird, it seems, for the over-slender girl has gained four pounds.

Judy Canova, Annie and Zeke replace the Stroud Twins October 2 on the coffee hour, while the latter take a personal-appearance swing . . . Robert Taylor thought he'd take an Alaskan vacation, but he'd enjoyed one day of Skagway when his studio wired for his return . . . Charlie McCarthy and Bergen will meet their old air nemesis, W. C. Fields, when they join him to make "You Can't Cheat an Honest Man" for Universal Studios. The film story is from Fields' own original about his circus life . . . Joe E. Brown, about to become a regular Saturday night airer, is recuperating at Good Samaritan Hospital from a double hernia operation . . . Etheridol Don Ameche wins the role of D'Artagnan in the Ritz Brothers' comic version of "The Three Musketeers" . . . Can't fool me. Baby Snooks' radio mother is Margaret McKay, the former Chi radactress and stylist. She loves her new baby, too . . . Hurray! Rudy Vallee's coming back to Hollywood in November, so I can start spying on him again. So, for good measure, let's correct the newspapers which said that Judy Stewart was his "new romance." Is a three-year-old affair NEW?

Other Rom-Antics: Nan ("Those We Love") Grey and Charlie Martin are having a time trying to decide if they'll stay engaged . . . Olivia de Havilland's sis, Joan Fontaine, and Conrad Nagel are still holding hands under the table . . . Ann Wigton, I. Magnin model, film extra and Fidler commercial reader, is going places nowadays with Johnny Weissmuller.

Bob Hope, whose regular Pepsodent airer starts next Tuesday (September 27), is a comedian "Hollywood Showdown" predicts will go far. Even in private life he's a very funny fellow. Wagered a week or so ago he could play more holes of golf in one day at Lakeside Country Club here than any other member. He did, too. Played 180 holes, but by the simple expedient of playing ten balls per hole, he went around once! . . . The other day Charlie Butterworth asked Bob if he bet on the ponies. "Oh, I just make mental bets," Hope replied quickly. "In the first at Narragansett yesterday, I lost my mind!"

"Your announcer is"—Phil Stewart, ex-lady Esther voice, in town from Chicago to sign for a show here perhaps . . . Paul Douglas, who will give you Burns & Allen . . . Lou Crosby, of Lum 'n' Abner, will make his bow in the movies shortly . . . Bill Goodwin, who will bring you Bob Hope this season . . . John Conte, of the Gulf airing, who will double as mike-man for Silver Theater.

HOLLYWOOD SHOWDOWN

BY EVANS PLUMMER

Odd week-end yachting party found Gene Markey, Joan Bennett's ex, entertaining the Morton Downeys, who are his ex-sister-in-law and ex-brother-in-law . . . Downey, who always prides himself on his memory for names and faces, was greeted the other night at the Cocomanut Grove by Jack Benny, who presented a friend and said, "You remember good old Charlie Rosenberg, don't you?" "Of course," Downey replied, and kept talking to "Charlie" for a full five minutes before he was let in on the gag that Mr. Rosenberg was none other than Albert Morin, Hollywood's perennial professional ribber.

Years before she could read, Lucy Gilman was memorizing her lines and acting in the best radio dramas out of Chicago, including "Today's Children." I can recall sitting her on my lap to interview her over WJJD. Now a full-blown miss of fifteen years, with auburn hair and grey-green eyes, Lucy is to make her screen debut. She's just been signed to play the part of Jackie Cooper's girl friend in Bob Andrews' story, "Gangster's Boy," which Monogram will release this winter.

Al Pearce's Tizzie Lish has moved into the apartment recently lived in by Dorothy Page, ex-radio songstress now cowgirling it for the flickers. Tizzie reports the abode is all beruffled and chintzed and even boasts a very swish canopied bed on a dais.

Mrs. Clark Andrews, ex-Claire Trevor, isn't fooling about housekeeping. She's marketing five afternoons a week and loves it. Her co-star, Ed Robinson, has his neighbors worried, however, since returning from his Mexico City vacation: he's been roaming his exclusive Beverly Hills home vicinity and trying poor Spanish on all and sundry whom he meets. The Robinson gardener, a Jap who has enough troubles with English, is threatening to quit.

Fish Story: Abner (Norris Goff) and Andy Devine went fishing together. Abner's first cast hooked a 201-pound marlin and won a gold button from the Catalina Tuna Club. Devine reeled in a 175-pounder, too, but he received no button. The catch must weight at least 200 pounds, the rules say—so Andy has gone fishing again with Bing Crosby in order to top Abner. Don Wilson, fitted with the latest angling equipment, also tried his hand. He

A BOMB FOR ADELINA PATTI

LISTEN IN WHEN THE "OLD RANGER" OF "DEATH VALLEY DAYS" RELATES THIS DRAMATIC MOMENT IN PATTI'S LIFE, FRI.

ADELINA JUANA MARIA CLO-RINDA PATTI was unique. There never was anyone quite like her. There never will be. For more than half a century she reigned the world's undisputed "Queen of Song." It is said that her voice was the nightingale's only rival. When she sang women fainted from sheer ecstasy, and men flung themselves at her feet, ready to die after the glimpse of paradise her golden melodies revealed to them.

Never has any singer scaled the high pinnacle on which Patti stood, but a living American girl named Rosemarie Brancato is said to have come close to it. On Friday night, September 30, she will sing a song Patti made famous and be a part of a thrilling re-creation of a dramatic episode in the great prima donna's life which will be presented by NBC's famous program, "Death Valley Days."

But this program on September 30 means more to listeners than just the presentation of an unusual episode in a fascinating woman's life. It means a special birthday celebration to those millions who have come to welcome the Old Ranger into their homes not only as an entertainer but as a friend. For exactly eight years ago the first sketch in this series was broadcast. Curiously enough, it was written by one of those rare people, a really native New Yorker, but one who had long been fascinated by the lore of the Old West and who has explored many corners of mysterious Death Valley itself. She is Mrs. William E. Woodman, known to radio listeners as Ruth Cornwall, and this special anniversary broadcast that she has dramatized and dedicated to the magnificent Patti will mark the passing of a happy milestone in a life which, in its own way, has been as exciting and as productive of success as was Patti's own.

A SMALL, quiet, gray-eyed woman, Miss Cornwall fails to become ruffled in the least when people exclaim "What—YOU write 'Death Valley Days?'" in a tone of unflattering surprise. She's heard it too often in the last eight years.

But why Patti, the greatest singer of the nineteenth century, in a sketch of Death Valley? Ruth Cornwall knows the answer to that and it is because Patti, on her tour to the West Coast, found herself among the imperialistic men and headstrong, heroic women who pioneered the vast West, who tramped the sands of that grim valley and survived its heat and loneliness to find an easier but rough abode on California's Barbary Coast.

After Jenny Lind, the Swedish Nightingale, heard Adelina sing, she said, "There is only one Patti." And the world agreed with her. For more than half a century Patti (above) reigned as "Queen of Song"

Mrs. Grace Taylor Heywood, one of those pioneer women, saw this week's broadcast unfold before her eyes more than fifty years ago in the San Francisco opera house during the winter of 1884. Congress had just adopted standard time. Brooklyn Bridge had been built and recently opened; and twelve people had been trampled to death in the crush. The popular song of the period was "Always Take Mother's Advice." Mrs. Heywood, the pioneer who remembered all those events, who remembered Adelina Patti standing on the great bare stage, with smoke swirling out of the packed gallery in the opera house while people sat frozen in fear before her—that pioneer wrote a letter to the author of "Death Valley Days" and said: "Here is an episode—a new one that has never been told before. Perhaps you will want to tell it."

So Friday, September 30, Patti will live again as she lived when the French were still digging the Panama Canal and ex-President Grant's Wall Street firm was terrifying the nation by its bankruptcy, and a man with a bomb plotted a strangely ecstatic death for himself, for Patti, and for all those who heard her sing that night in San Francisco the winter of 1884.

HAD Patti died that night, her fame would still have been secure, for she was forty-one years old and already had been acclaimed in every important city in the world. Born in Madrid, Spain, February 10, 1843, Patti's mother was Madame La Barili, noted Italian opera singer. La Barili had sung the title role in the opera "Norma" only a few hours before Adelina was born. Her father was an equally well-known French opera star. When their daughter was still a tiny baby they migrated to America, where the small Patti later was to make her operatic debut. Patti hadn't left babyhood years behind her when she astonished her parents, who listened to her sing a lullaby perfectly that she had heard her mother sing. "Impossible!" they chorused. "But, no, Adelina is singing that song like a prima donna," they agreed, as they listened to their tiny daughter sing her doll to sleep. And so she was.

At the incredible age of only seven, Adelina was placed upon a table, so she could be seen by her audience, where she sang by heart the words and music of the songs she had heard her mother sing, and sang them perfectly. The only formal training Patti ever had was given her by her step-brother, and that was comparatively little. Before she was eight she had made many public appearances as a singer. When but sixteen she appeared in the difficult opera "Lucia di Lammermoor" at the New York Academy of Music. At eighteen she made her London debut at Covent Garden. And soon after, this slip of a girl was commanded to sing at the state concerts at Buckingham Palace.

ALL her tremendous knowledge of music was a natural gift. She never studied. The bell-like tones, exquisite bird trills that held audiences spell-bound were never practised. Languages, too, she learned with effortless ease.

Added to her musical genius was an utterly natural brunet beauty set off by an inborn grace and charm that enchanted everyone. Whenever a Patti concert was advertised, people paid any price to hear her; sometimes went without food to save the cost of a seat in the top gallery. Patti was one of the few great prima donnas who accumulated wealth. Her every desire was granted.

Louis Engel, in his work "From Handel to Halle," refers to her as a youthful prodigy; says that she was the only singer who could fill Albert Hall in London, and draw an audience representing 1,600 pounds sterling on a November when the fog was as thick as soup.

"Many countries, including America which paid her the most generously, claimed Patti as a daughter," writes Mr. Engel. "When she opened the Chicago Auditorium and sang 'Home, Sweet Home'—nothing but this song— (Continued on Page 21)

CHICAGO—Well, this is my opening column, and now I know why the knees of artists knock together on opening nights. They're thrilled and scared, and afraid they won't quite measure up to their big opportunity. So, before I write another word, please take my word for it that I am happy to be covering Chicago for RADIO GUIDE readers. Chicago is a town I love and this is a job I like. My fervent and humble hope is that you will like it, too.

Dramatic Center

Here is the radio dramatic center of the country. More script-shows originate in this town than in any other city in the world. Speaking of script-shows, just what is a "script"-show and how did it get that name? That title grew out of radio's own peculiar hunger for new things to put on the air. The theater took a play, for example, and performed it for months or years. Radio took a show and played it once. After that it was dead. Actors and actresses couldn't possibly learn and memorize new lines every day; instead, they read from manuscripts handed them by perspiring writers. Those manuscripts were soon called "scripts." Hence the script-show which thrives so well in Chicago, such as Ma Perkins, Betty and Bob, Vic and Sade, Guiding Light, Bachelor's Children, Dan Harding's Wife, and Daughter, Girl Alone, and a dozen or more others. Some folk call these broadcasts star-incubators. For out of them have come such stars as Don Ameche, Tyrone Power, Gale Page, Betty Winkler and Bess Johnson.

Let's Visit NBC

Chicago studios have not had red fire burned before them or hymns and huzzas sung about them as much as Radio City or Hollywood, but they are just as interesting. Let's look into the Merchandise Mart, where NBC is quartered. The building, twenty-two stories high, takes up an entire city block. The entire nineteenth and twentieth floors of this largest building in the world (in floor space) are used by NBC for offices and studios. Many of your favorite daytime programs originate right here. As in New York and Hollywood, guides will show you about it you ask for them. Night-times, the halls are crowded with the lucky ticket-holders to such broadcasts as that of Fibber McGee and Company and Carnation Contented Hour.

Hail Columbia

Often, at the conclusion of a program, we hear "This program comes to you from our Chicago studios in the Wrigley Building." We go over to our swank Boul Mich a few short blocks from the Merchandise Mart, where Chicago's best-known edifice stands glistening white from street-level to its famous observation tower. That is the Wrigley building, and its first two floors house the CBS offices and studios. Very modern, blue and silver, they are crowded already and architects are planning day and night for more space in which they can pack all the hundreds who want to watch the broadcasts of Eddie Guest's "It Can Be Done" program, the "Laugh Liner," and the "First Nighter."

On to Mutual

Almost directly across Michigan Boulevard looms the Tribune Tower, home of the Chicago offices of the Mutual Broadcasting System. Next door, across a Gothic court, is probably the most beautiful studio building in America. It is the home of WGN, is devoted exclusively to broadcasting, and holds the most perfect broadcasting auditorium in this windy city. So popular are some of the programs coming from it I have seen ticket-holders waiting an hour before the doors are open, while a gale from Lake Michigan whipped their overcoats and the temperature hovered around zero.

These are the happy hunting-grounds I'll cover these next weeks. Many of your favorites are already there, working, writing, acting. Whatever you want to know about them, please let me know.

Blessed Sponsor

Now an unusually happy note, the sort every columnist likes to write. It concerns the sponsors of Fibber McGee and Company and Don Quinn, a gentleman unknown to radio listeners but the writer whose sense of humor has helped this program climb up among radio's greats. Recently Don Quinn had his contract torn up and his salary raised. All unasked, too. More wonderful, though, is the fact that the same thing had happened seven times before. Eight voluntary raises from his bosses. Now we understand why, during his recent trip to Hollywood, he turned down three different offers to write for picture companies.

Box-Office Champions

Radio is hurting the box-office, we hear. We wander into the treasurer's office at the great Chicago Theatre, the Loop's biggest. Who holds the theater attendance-record around here we ask. We are told about the four biggest weeks in Chicago's history. Attendance, 150,000 one week in 1933. Who pulled those people into the theater? Amos 'n' Andy. Next, almost as many, attracted just a fortnight ago by the swing-dinging Benny Goodman. Next, Jack Benny. Next, Fred Waring.

Radio names, every one of them. And still movie people say that radio is hurting their business.

Turning the Tables

We hear so much talk about radio stars going to Hollywood that it's interesting to note some stars who have either come to Chicago or are returning to the Windy City after a Hollywood sojourn. Donald Novis, after a couple years of comparative obscurity in Hollywood, has come to Chicago, where he is once more returning to the radio spotlight as featured vocalist on the Fibber McGee and Company show. Henry Hunter, after a so-so fling at Cinema Center, is back in Chi and is now heard as the male lead in "The Affairs of Anthony"—a new serial. Henry, who was Arthur Jacobson before the movie moguls changed his name, also played the male lead all summer in "Attorney-at-Law"

—a "thin-man" type of radio-show which filled in for Fibber while he was off the air. Cliff Soubier, one of the finest actors in town, is another Chicagoan who has returned to roles on Radio Row after a brief pause for station—er, I mean picture—identification.

Prices of Plays

Did you ever figure on writing plays for radio. Here are a few prices I thought you might find interesting. If you write and sell a First Nighter script you get $100 for your efforts. Curtain Time, which formerly ran forty-five minutes, paid $35 for a script, but now that it's on for thirty minutes pays $75. Reason for this strange phenomenon can be summed up in one word—sponsor! Formerly a sustaining (non-commercial) show, the program is now being sponsored.

Operations

With Don Ameche, Dorothy Lamour and Joe E. Brown all having had operations, Chicago radio stars are following suit. Anne Seymour, star of "The Story of Mary Marlin," entered Passavant Hospital recently to have a cyst removed from her eyeball. Franklyn MacCormack had a minor operation performed on his nose, while Isabel Randolph, star of "Dan Harding's Wife," also had some "work" done at St. Lukes, where she spent a week. Many times the audience doesn't even know why a star is not on a program. While the surgeons are cutting up, the script-writers usually cut out the ailing star by having him or her visit Aunt Sophie or Uncle Obediah for a spell.

Jim Ameche, younger carbon copy of Don, has lost a swell job because he is "too old." The star of Jack Armstrong for five years, he is now too old to take a "kid" part. Jim celebrated his twenty-third birthday August 6. He is married to a Chicago girl, Betty Harris, and has a son, Jim Jr., five months old. Jim's a swell guy—natural, unaffected, and nothing "put on." Here's how he compares with Don: Don weighs 190, Jim 140. Don is six feet one inch and Jim is five feet eight and one-half inches. Don is seven years older than Jim. But

Symphony No. 2 (Brahms)

ANOTHER new work by an American engages the Barlow ministrations at this hour. He is doing a job of high value with his sympathetic attitude toward our native creators, and CBS might well continue to have him search weekly and indefinitely for their best current examples.

Brahms and his symphony need no recommendation these days, but the unfamiliar Charles Jones rates an introduction to the listening radio public. He was born in Toronto, Canada, of American parents in June, 1910, and studied at the Toronto Conservatory of Music. He then came to the U. S. A. and entered the Institute of Musical Art, from where he graduated as a violinist in 1932. As he had always shown considerable talent as a composer, the Juilliard School of Music granted him a fellowship and he studied composition with Bernard Wagenaar.

Mr. Jones has written songs, violin and piano pieces, two string quartets and numerous orchestral compositions, among them the suite to be performed today.

Politics and the Piano

PADEREWSKI'S imminent appearance on radio recalls the amusing conversational passage between him and Clemenceau when he met the French premier at the Versailles Peace Conference.

"So you are the great pianist," said Clemenceau.

"Yes, Monsieur."

"And now you are a statesman."

"I hope so, Monsieur."

"What a fall, what a fall!" was Clemenceau's comment.

By the way, Paderewski's capture by radio leaves only two other leading musical performers unheard on the air, Kreisler and Rachmaninoff. Would they surrender ultimately if NBC or CBS were to offer enough persuasion—and cash?

The Quiz Fad

Everyone—even this Music Editor—has fallen under the spell of the quiz game; and so he poses the attached: I was born in a foreign country and came to America when my native land was in political turmoil and made existence of its musical artists insecure. My career there had been that of a pianist, composer of romantic music and conductor. In America I have confined myself chiefly to public appearances as a pianist, but I still compose, although not as much as formerly. My larger works are not as well known as one of my shorter piano pieces which is universally popular. I am always requested to play it as an encore at my recitals. Tall, lean, almost cadaverous, with close-cropped hair and ascetic features, I am reticent, retiring, sparing of gesture and speech, and never submit to newspaper interviews. WHO AM I?

Musical Weather Note

A cheery tone is struck in the communication from John Castellini, whose "Misty Dawn" was performed not long ago on Everybody's Music. A type-setting accident made RADIO GUIDE refer to the composition as "Musty Dawn," and Mr. Castellini protests humorously: "I hope that it was an error and not a premonition." It is pleasant to be able to assure the composer that this department liked his sensitive, atmospheric and excellently orchestrated music.

The incomparable Iturbis—Jose and Amparo—will be heard as piano duetists on the Ford Hour this Sunday evening over CBS at 9 p.m. EST

Little did the southern darkies foresee that their prancings would one day be dignified into symphonic expression and find companionship on a program with Beethoven.

ERIC DELAMARTER of Chicago (born 1880) is one answer to the oft-asked question, "Where are our American conductors?" He is also a most convincing answer, as his leading of concerts, oratorios and operas has proved through quite a number of years. In addition to his baton abilities, he is, too, a composer and a critic who wrote brilliantly for several Chicago newspapers.

He takes us through distant periods with his present program. First Cherubini's (1760-1842) cheery overture, with its crystal-clear workmanship. His music is so transparent that one wonders why Napoleon I did not understand it at first, but later gave him the Cross of the Legion of Honor, and the monarch's successor, Louis XVIII, appointed Cherubini director of the Paris Conservatoire founded by Napoleon.

Andrea Gabrieli (1557-1613), Venetian composer of church music and organist at St. Mark's, ranked as one of the most-accomplished contrapuntalists of his day.

Respighi, lamented Italian composer, died only a few years ago but left a rich heritage of achievement.

That thirty-four-year-old Hungarian, truly gifted, died in New York in 1900, after serving as solo viola player in the Damrosch orchestra there and previously in the Boston Symphony. He wrote also in larger forms, and several of those works had performance by the great conductor, Nickisch, at the Berlin Philharmonic concerts.

An "Art of Musical Russia" Presentation

CARL OTTO NICOLAI (born 1810) set his native Germany aflame with his opera comique, "The Merry Wives of Windsor," when it had its Berlin premiere in 1849. Unfortunately the composer did not live long enough to enjoy his fame, for he expired of apoplexy about a month after the first performance. Since then the overture of the work has found a lasting place in the repertoire, even on the most conservative symphonic programs. The buoyant, charmingly tuneful score embellishes the familiar play by Shakespeare, which Verdi also used for his "Falstaff."

It will be interesting to hear what the Art of Musical Russia will do with the work, for previously we have known their singers chiefly as expounders of portentous vocal drama, with the exception of last week's "Daughter of the Drum Major." The opera will be sung in English, thereby making it easy for radio listeners to follow the plot.

Death and Transfiguration (Strauss)
Voices of Spring (Johann Strauss)

IN TRUTH, a well-proportioned program of glow and dash touched with drama.

The Liszt concerto deserves more frequent hearings than it gets from those of our young pianists who like to exploit themselves as classicists rather than romancers. A critical humorist once wrote that the Liszt concerto is better than it sounds, which probably means that its showy brilliancy has a foundation of fine artistic construction, with themes resourcefully developed and solo instrument and orchestra welded into a solid symphonic whole. Historically important is the work as the first concerto to be written in one continuous movement without pauses.

Strauss' "Death and Transfiguration" gives its best eloquence to the listener when he is acquainted with the poem which the composer affixed to the fly-leaf of his score as explanatory of the story in the music. I wish I had space to reprint the lines. Try to get them if you can, before or even after listening to Strauss' intensely affecting pages.

Ignace Paderewski made his American debut in New York in 1891. Sunday he'll be heard for the first time on American radio on "Magic Key"

Paderewski's Conquering Art to Shine on American Radio

THE flaming news is bulletined that Paderewski will play from Lausanne, Switzerland, on the Magic Key, September 25, at 2 p.m. EST on NBC, an announcement of almost magical interest, for the appearance represents his first contact with the radio listeners of America. In fact, Paderewski has been on the air only once before in a brief broadcast in England, when radio was in its primitive state, with no short-wave transmission to America. The celebrated Pole and expert listeners were so little satisfied with the results that he declared his intention never again to face the microphone. It is to the high credit of NBC—and should be lauded next to their Toscanini achievement—that they have finally induced the world's most picturesque pianist to return to radio, now mechanically and acoustically perfected.

Paderewski; An abiding name to stir with, to arouse the memories of musical oldsters and to excite the imagination of younger generations who know about the man and musician but have never heard him demonstrate his art on the piano keyboard.

Now seventy-eight years old, Ignace Jan Paderewski made his conquering American debut at New York in November, 1891, and since then his career has been the most flamboyant and sensational of any pianist since the towering Franz Liszt. Paderewski's is even more varied for he not only reached the top as a performer and composer but also attained eminence in statesmanship, participating at the Versailles Peace Conference as a World War representative of Poland, and climaxing those activities by being made its premier after inducing the chief powers to grant the new republic its hotly desired Polish Corridor.

Paderewski, the necromancer who first put me under the spell of the piano, was the hero of my boyhood whom I heard for the first time by crashing one of his recitals at Carnegie Hall, effecting my entrance through the coal-chute leading to the cellar! I remember him with a flowering aureole of auburn-golden hair, mystic demeanor, white bow tie, long black coat (called Prince Albert in that era) and a personality that crowned his pianism with a halo of fascinating glamour. I remember too on that occasion and others the frenetic acclaim of the public, the adoration particularly of female listeners, their showers of violets, the delirious paeans of even the most hardened critics—and then his marvelous and splendid tone, golden in color, dulcet and dewy, sighing sensuously and thundering at will, drama and passion, sheer, irresistible, and all supplemented by a technique of unsurpassed brilliance and might, with dazzling scales and trills, and octaves and chords resonating with almost the fullness of an orchestra. No one I have heard since seemed as poetical, eloquent and altogether thrilling as the Paderewski of that period.

Of course the years have run, and later there were flaws in the once supreme performances, but a few wrong notes and some slight forcing of physical strength did not overshadow the master's musical authority, noble imagination, innate romanticism, and power to make the piano and its music tell rare and compelling stories. It is a sad thought that no godly dispensation keeps such an artist at his best always, so that the world might lastingly have his proclamations of living, incarnate, triumphant beauty!

Another memorable experience came to me when I saw the new Paderewski film, "Moonlight Sonata," recently exhibited in New York. White-haired, but still straight in figure, energetic, impressive, commanding, the artist is seen at the piano and away from it, fullface, in profile, in close-ups. There are many pictures of his hands while playing. His striking head and features, the latter stamped with aristocracy, character, suffering, are remarkable in the photographs. He carries himself with intense dignity. One feels that the camera leaves him unembarrassed.

Paderewski has always been a grand seigneur in bearing and behavior, con-sorting on equal footing with the world's leading personages, living like a prince at his castle on Lake Lucerne, and making princely gifts of money to needy colleagues from the fabulous sums he earned with his playing and compositions.

I hope that Paderewski will not be nervous when he plays for us on September 25; that he will do Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata," Chopin and Liszt; and that the performances may offer to you much of the nostalgia, charm and fire of his yesteryear.

NEWSPAPERS PRINT THIS STRIP

Eight months to a year before publication, the "Don Winslow of the Navy" cartoons are planned out by Author Frank V. Martinek (right). He writes the continuity, turns it over to Artist Carl Hammond (center), whose sketches are filled in by Leon Beroth (left)

Here Artist Leon Beroth puts the finishing touches on "The Scorpion"—something that Don Winslow has never been able to do! Week-day strips are finished seven weeks in advance of publication. Sunday pages are made up a full nine weeks ahead of time

A STRIP BECOMES A SCRIPT

"DON WINSLOW," archetype of all that stands for U. S. Navy tradition and honor, first appeared in a cartoon strip in May, 1934, and went on the air for the first time in March, 1936. Today, "Don Winslow" is a cartoon strip-radio program character reaching the eyes of newspaper-reading youngsters in more than 200 American cities, the ears of countless other youngsters Monday through Friday over NBC. Creator of Winslow is Lieutenant-Commander Frank V. Martinek of the U. S. Naval Reserve, an officer whose thorough background—he is a veteran of the Naval Intelligence Service—shows clearly in both cartoon and radio program. A firm believer in the value of peace education for the young, Martinek places emphasis on his hero's efforts to thwart international spies, sees to it that warlike achievements are kept well in the background. Young people who follow Hero Don Winslow on the air have been given a liberal lesson in preparedness for peace through "Don Winslow's Squadron of Peace," an organization pledged to circumvent the plots of international war-makers like "The Scorpion," Don's traditional enemy and villain of both cartoon strip and radio program. More than 10,000 "Peace Ships"—groups of boys and girls who are affiliated with the "Squadron of Peace"—are in existence today. Distinguished for its timeliness, the Don Winslow radio program has on several occasions "beat the news," utilizing as dramatic material various international crises weeks before actual incidents appeared on the front pages of the world's newspapers. Accuracy is another factor upon which Don Winslow's creator places great emphasis. Technical authenticity of both cartoon strip and radio program is maintained by constant research and careful attention to current developments. There is no exact parallel of dramatic action between Don Winslow of the newspapers and his radio counterpart. Plots for the radio drama, taken from the cartoon strip, are sometimes given slightly different treatment, and material may be taken from current strips, from those of four years ago, or even from strips not to be published for a month or more!

Exclusive Radio Guide Photographs by Gene Lester

First step in transforming the Don Winslow of the cartoon strip into the radio hero is done by NBC Writer Al Barker. At the rate of 10,000 words a week, he has written the equivalent of "Gone With the Wind" 13 times!

His enduring belief in "Preparedness for Peace" is Lieutenant-Commander Frank V. Martinek's guiding philosophy. When he's not in a huddle with his staff over radio and cartoon problems, he's an oil-company executive he'll strike it sure—there'll be an explosion . . .

Edwin C. Hill starts new weekly series, Monday—NBC

Veteran Reporter Begins New Series

Mondays, Wednesdays, NBC, 7:15-7:30 p.m. (Rebroadcast, 11:15-11:30 p.m.)

Even newspapermen call Edwin C. Hill "New York's greatest reporter." His record in this field justifies the opinion of his colleagues; the immense following his syndicated column enjoys is another example of the extent of appreciation the American public has for his work. Ed Hill started on an Indianapolis daily and his trail in three short years led to New York and the New York Sun. In the last two and one-half decades he has covered nearly every important big story that has hit the headlines. His value as a writer soared with his popularity, but through it all he remained true to his first love in the face of numerous attractive offers. To Ed Hill there is no bigger job than "reporter."

On Monday, September 26, Hill begins a new series of commentaries after being away from the microphone for several weeks. His rich voice, colorful, literary style and human approach to the news—familiar to network audiences since he made his radio debut in 1931—will bring a view of the news that is enriched by several years' experience with every type of page-one story.

Strictly a Hoosier, Ed Hill was born in Aurora, Indiana, educated at Indiana University and Butler College, started his career on an Indiana newspaper.

England's Queen Talks At Ship Launching

Wednesday, NBC, 9-9:30 a.m.

Three important functions of radio will be forcefully demonstrated in one broadcast this week. The functions referred to are the opportunities radio offers listeners to become familiar with well-known and prominent people, to acquaint them with other parts of the world and to give vivid pictures of outstanding current events. The broadcast that will admirably serve these three objectives may be heard Wednesday morning when NBC brings via short-wave from Clydebank, near Glasgow, Scotland, a description of the colorful ceremonies and pageantry attending the launching of the world's largest ocean liner, the S. S. Queen Elizabeth. Elaborate arrangements have been made to insure a complete and realistic sound-picture of the launching. Microphones will be set up throughout the shipyard to pick up not only the ceremony but also such sounds as the release of the triggers and the creaking of the ways as the giant ship slides into the water. The program will include a brief talk by Queen Elizabeth.

Herbert Hoover speaks for one full hour Wednesday night, CBS

Hoover Addresses Republican Meeting

Wednesday, CBS, 9:30-10:30 p.m.

Although they were conclusively defeated in forty-six of the forty-eight states in the presidential election of 1936, the Republican party was by no means licked for good. We are approaching the half-way mark in the present administration's term, time has softened the effects of the stinging blow of '36, and Republicans, as an organization and as individuals, are becoming very active once more. One reason for this regaining of confidence, more significant probably than any other, may be found in the recent upsets delivered to the Democratic party in state elections. The coming battle is beginning to take shape gradually in all parts of the country and during the next two years the public will be treated to the greatest array of political speakers it has ever heard.

Herbert Hoover, the only ex-President alive today and a man who personally suffered defeat in the 1932 election, will be heard for one full hour on Wednesday night when his address before a Republican meeting in the arena of the Municipal Auditorium of Kansas City is broadcast Coast-to-Coast.

Farm Hour Plans to Cover Major Farm Events

Monday, Wednesday, NBC, 12:30-1:15 p.m.

A schedule of National Farm and Home Hour broadcasts that will be aired from the nation's major agricultural shows this fall offers a number of features that should be of interest to the city consumer as well as his country brother, the farmer. The schedule, announced by William E. Dripps, NBC director of agriculture, includes many nationally important events, a few of which will be broadcast during this current program week.

On Monday, September 26, the National Farm and Home Hour will pick up two talks from the National Catholic Rural Life Conference, being held in Vincennes, Indiana. Rev. William P. Mulloy of Fargo, North Dakota, past-president of the organization, and Rev. James A. Byrnes, of St. Paul, Minnesota, executive-secretary of the conference, will be the speakers.

Another outstanding broadcast in this series will be relayed from the campus of the University of Wyoming on Wednesday. This school is one of the numerous land-grant colleges in the country, and during the program listeners will hear reports from both students and members of the faculty on the work that they are doing in the interest of agriculture.

osophy for fifteen minutes five days each week, she was a little taken aback. She wasn't sure, she said, what philosophy was, let alone talking about it on the radio. All she really knew was that she felt something deep in her heart that she must tell to the world.

In explaining her first reaction to the invitation, Clover said, "I not only had never been on the air except that one time on Gus Edwards' program, but I had no notion of how to write or carry out a program of my own, much less originate an idea for one."

Clover didn't let that handicap overcome her desire to serve others. One evening shortly before she was to go on the air, she was sitting with her brother in the living-room of their home, trying to figure out a plan, when he handed her a poem he had just read, by Will Allen Dromgoole, called "The Bridge Builder." It read:

An old man going a lone highway
Came at the evening, cold and gray,
To a chasm vast and wide and steep,
With waters rolling cold and deep.
The old man crossed in the twilight dim,
But he turned when safe on the other side,
And built a bridge to span the tide.

"Old Man," said a fellow pilgrim near,
"You are wasting your strength with building here.
Your journey will end with the ending day,
You will never again pass this way.
You've crossed the chasm, deep and wide,
Why build you this bridge at eventide?"

The builder lifted his old gray head;
"Good friend, in the path I have come," he said,
"There followeth after me today
A youth whose feet must pass this way.
The chasm that was as naught to me
To that fair-haired youth may a pitfall be;
He, too, must cross in the twilight dim—
Good friend, I am building this bridge for him!"

When Clover Kerr read that poem, she had the answer for her radio program. She adopted it as her theme, christened her daily message, "Bridge Builders, with Clover Kerr."

During her convalescence, she searched for topics that would fit in with her theme, and to fill out her quarter-hour at the microphone which had been installed at her bedside, she read to listeners-in a book that she considered tremendously worth while, "Green Light," by Lloyd C. Douglas. Its common sense, inspirational message coincided so well with her own message that thousands who listened in and had not as yet heard of Douglas or his great novel, "Magnificent Obsession," were fired with new hope and faith.

Eventually Douglas, then buried in his study at work on his third book, "White Banners," learned of his brave young champion and visited her. Soon after that he had her brought to his California ranch for a visit, and "adopted" her as his unofficial niece. Today Douglas, the novelist and retired minister of the gospel, is closer, perhaps, to Clover Kerr, understands her better than any other person.

But her friendship with Douglas was only one of many new ones she formed. Day by day this girl who had found her real self gathered a legion of staunch supporters, who listened to her daily broadcasts on fresh constructive ideas—ideas that helped them in building a new and brighter span in the bridge of living.

Out of her public's demand for her messages grew Clover's book, "Banners of Courage." Because it was impossible to provide copies of her daily talks for all those who requested them, Clover selected the ones she considered best and put them into book form. "Banners of Courage," with a foreword by Lloyd Douglas, was the result, and made its appearance on Los Angeles bookstalls early in July, 1938.

The last line of Douglas' foreword, "I sincerely recommend this book as a tonic to the discouraged," sounds the keynote of the book, which has met with such success.

One might think that a daily broadcast, writing a book and supervising a voluminous correspondence without the aid of a secretary would take all of this amazing girl's time, but it doesn't. Hundreds of afflicted children know her as a benefactor, for last year Clover, through her KFWB broadcasts, organized and carried out a Christmas party for crippled shut-in youngsters from private homes in Los Angeles.

Those in institutions were provided for at the Yuletide season, had parties and Christmas trees, but the kiddies at home, sometimes very poor ones, too, Clover explained to listeners-in, needed a party with all the trimmings. As a result of her efforts, over 1,200 crippled children were brought to the huge KFWB sound-stage, where the party was held the Saturday before Christmas with Clover as hostess. A giant tree was the background for a regulation circus ring, where movie and radio stars performed for the party. And gifts—new ones—those the youngsters had asked Santa Claus to try to please bring them—were given to each and every child. Even the small boy who asked for a puppy got it. The merchants of the City of the Angels, fired with the spirit of giving through Clover's appeal, provided most of the gifts.

Looking at her full life today, there is little to compare with what it was two short years ago. Before the accident, Clover was engaged to be married. Afterwards the engagement was broken. As this is written, the twenty-one-year miracle girl counts four proposals of marriage among her achievements, offers from forward-looking men who DO understand her creed.

She still rides horseback, swims with or without her artificial limbs, which she is rapidly learning to use, goes to places of amusement, has fun!

Today Clover Kerr is living—broadcasting through the magic of the radio the message that happiness is a state of mind, not a condition of the body.

KFWB maintains a sealed line into the simple study of Clover's modest home in Walnut Park. When the station announces her program—"Bridge Builders, with Clover Kerr"—her mother throws a switch and her daughter takes over. In her own words, five days each week, Clover Kerr, radio's miracle girl, says to a listening world: "For this end was I born; for this cause came I into the world; that I might bear witness unto the truth."

caught nothing. That was the score also for Bob Burns during the first three days of his private deep-sea expedition . . . But wait till the boys start telling about the ones that got away.

Enough conditioned air to inflate a half-dozen Zeppelins will be pumped into NBC's new Hollywood studios each day, according to the engineers, who have not reported the added air that will flow from mikemen's mouths declaring the merits of their products.

Hail to the third RADIO GUIDE kilocycle commentator, Hal Tate, who makes his bow this issue on Page 13, and takes over our old stamping ground, the Windy City, as his snooping charge. Listen, Hal, with a grain of salt to those who praise you—and always try to get the stories that Frank Rand, Bill Ray and Frank Schreiber don't give out . . . Somehow, they're always so interesting.

Tag Lines: Eddie Cantor's radio producer, Vic Knight, has written another popular tune tentatively titled "The Pie-Eyed Piper." H-mmm, I wonder whom he had in mind? . . . Virginia Verrill, surprise "Good News" guest September 15, is testing for a Metro picture—perhaps "The Ice Follies" . . . Two screen tests await Jane Froman, who won't air here until October 5.

A BOMB FOR ADELINA PATTI

she received four thousand dollars." Several of the arias in her repertoire of forty-two operas, and the simple songs like "Home, Sweet Home" and "The Last Rose of Summer," with which the name of Patti was associated so vividly, were recorded by the Gramophone Company before her death on September 27, 1919.

The most popular of the songs, the one which audiences always clamored for, was "The Last Rose of Summer." And, strangely enough, it was this most poignant of melodies, sung as only Patti could sing it, that caused the terrifying incident which will be dramatized in "Death Valley Days" for their ninth birthday celebration.

That night—it was 1884, remember—a crazed man who worshipped Patti's gift of song sat in a restaurant saying: "It is best to die gloriously after hearing her. So I shall die, my friend, as she sings my song."

That night, Patti was saying to her manager, "Tonight I shall not sing 'The Last Rose of Summer.'"

"Not sing . . . but why?" he demanded.

"I . . . I don't know, exactly. But something tells me I should not."

The manager snorted. "You are foolish, Adelina. Every audience expects it. Of course you'll sing it. Come, promise you will."

"I don't feel that it would be the thing to do."

"You must," he roared. "They will be broken-hearted. Please! Promise me."

Despite the urging of the faint instinct within, she surrendered. He was right. The audience would expect it.

So that night she marched onto the Little Jackie Heller, sixty-one-inch tenor, is being billed minus the "Little" since he opened at the Continental Room in the Stevens with his own band. Now I know what it means to give a guy a "build-up" . . . New star of "Manhattan Mother," replacing Kaye Brinker, who went to New York to be with her other half, is Marjorie Hilyas, a Kansas City girl who, in Chicago only a few weeks, has already made good in the big city . . . Frank Behrens, a Milwaukee lad, will be the new Jack Armstrong, with Franklyn MacCormack replacing Tom Shirley in selling the cereal . . . Citizens of Decatur, Michigan, are planning a monument dedicated to Edgar Bergen because he was born there. Actually, he wasn't. He lived there for about nine years but was born in Chicago. I hope I'm not too late with the gag that, because of Charlie's help in making Bergen a success, shouldn't the monument be made of wood? . . . Hope you enjoyed my first effort—let me know what you'd like in this Chicago column and I'll do my darndest to get it for you.

stage before a packed house. Graceful, tiny, dark-haired and smiling, a glorious vision in a pink taffeta gown with the hourglass figure, she sang through her scheduled program.

"Encore, encore!" voices rose from the audience. "The Last Rose of Summer." A thousand voices joined the plea. "The Last Rose of Summer."

Signaling the orchestra, she began.

A dark man in the balcony sighed. "It has come. My song!" He fumbled for something hidden under his coat. Patti's golden voice rose through the opera house, but in the balcony men suddenly shouted, rose, and spun aside. There was a terrifying explosion, a black cloud of smoke swirling in its wake!

Through that awful moment which followed, Patti's voice never wavered. It soared sweetly, serenely, over the roar of the exploding instrument of death, held the audience quiet.

Had Patti died at that instant, as her crazed worshipper had planned, she would have died gloriously, courageously. But she was destined to live and sing for almost another quarter-century. Her last concert was given in London in 1908, eleven years before her death.

Radio listeners who want to live through this entire episode with the pioneer who witnessed it and heard the great Patti sing on that raw night in January, fifty-four years ago, will have the privilege when "Death Valley Days" celebrates its ninth birthday on Friday, September 30.

"Death Valley Days" may be heard Friday over an NBC network at: EST 9:30 p.m. — CST 8:30 p.m. and later for the West Coast at: PST 8:30 p.m. — MST 9:30 p.m.

DRINK HORLICK'S HOT

HELPS TO BRING SLEEP

IF you are having trouble getting to sleep, if you toss and turn and suffer wakeful torments night after night, here is good news for you.

Today, thousands of grateful men and women all over America agree that there's nothing like a cup of Horlick's, hot, at bedtime to aid them in dropping off to sleep quickly.

Read what Mrs. P. K. of Glencullen, Ore., writes:

"For many years my husband had trouble in not being able to sleep. Now, after drinking a glass of hot Horlick's, he drops off very soon after touching his pillow."

Horlick's, hot, has a relaxing, soothing effect on the body and nerves. It gives the stomach just enough easily digestible food, too. And authorities say that going to bed on an empty stomach is often a contributing cause to sleeplessness.

You can easily prepare Horlick's, chocolate flavored or plain, with hot water or hot milk. Takes less than a minute. Try it and see if it doesn't give you the sleep you are craving. In 3 sizes at your drug store. But be sure to get Horlick's, the original and genuine.

Short-wave programs of American stations are shown along with the regular listings beginning on page 24. These are indicated, for example, by (sw-11.87) in parentheses following a program listing. This means that on 11.87 megacycles the same program may also be heard over an American short-wave station. Please note that foreign stations do not always adhere precisely to their announced program schedules.

On Short Waves

Edited by Chas. A. Morrison

President, International DX'ers Alliance

Times given are EST. For CST subtract 1 hour; MST, 2 hours; PST, 3 hours

THE launching ceremony of the world's largest liner, the Cunard White Star Company's 85,000-ton vessel Queen Elizabeth, will be broadcast on Tuesday, September 27, at 9:15 a.m. EST, over Daventry stations GSF, GSG and GSJ. Great in every sense of the word, the Queen Elizabeth, with a total length of 1,030 feet, ten feet more than her companion ship, the Queen Mary, leaves the stocks only twenty-one months after the laying of her keel, and will be ready for her maiden voyage by 1940. . . . Beatrice (Bee) Lillie, a popular radio favorite in the United States, is home in London again, and will head the bill in the "Empire Variety Theater" production which is to broadcast from Daventry on Tuesday, September 27, at 9:50 a.m. EST, over Stations GSF, GSG and GSJ.

The early evening English news bulletin from Berlin, Germany, is now being radiated nightly from 7:15 to 7:30 p.m. EST, over DJB (15.2), DJD (11.77) and DJO (11.79).

Illinois, the state of Lincoln, is to be honored by the German short-wave stations in a special dedicatory broadcast which is to be transmitted on Monday, September 26, at 9:30 p.m. EST, over Zeesen Stations DJB, DJD and DJO. The program will present music by local composers or music devoted to this state and a talk of the impressions of the "State of Lincoln."

Richard Verbrugge of Detroit, Mich., writes that the mystery Soviet station on 15.18 megs, has been definitely identified by English announcements as RV26, "Radio Center," Moscow.

A new variety show entitled "Morning Express" has been inaugurated over Huizen, Holland, Station PCJ2 (15.22), and is now being heard daily except Saturdays from 6:15 to 6:45 p.m. EST, and on Saturdays from 7:15 to 7:45 p.m. EST.

Guy Bigbee of Fort Benning, Ga.,

writes that he is hearing the new Ankara, Turkey, station on 9.465 megs, daily from 6:30 to 7 a.m. EST. Oriental and classical musical selections are featured, but no identification signal is utilized.

SHORT-WAVE SHORTS: Short-Wave Station EA8AF (7.3) is verifying reception reports with the same General Franco QSL card being issued by EAJ43 (10.37) of Tenerife, Canary Islands. . . . After a wait of nine months, your columnist has finally received a verification of his reception report to K7PQ in Ketchikan, Alaska. The buff-colored card with large green call-letters bears the legend, "Greetings from Ketchikan, the first city of Alaska, Uncle Sam's Last Frontier" . . . L. E. Gardiner of Cleveland, O., has received a letter from Dr. Roberto Levi, owner of HC2RL (6.635), Guayaquil, Ecuador, to the effect that he does not expect return postage accompanying reports of reception to his station. He said in part, "Ours is a cultural, not a commercial station" . . . The new Headquarters Amateur Station of the Amateur Radio Relay League at West Hartford, Conn., has been given the call-letters WIAW, which were originally assigned to Hiram Percy Maxim, noted inventor and former president of the League. . . . The Mormon Church of Salt Lake City, Utah, has been denied its request to build a powerful short-wave station. . . . It is reported that W8XAL, Cincinnati, O., may soon operate on an additional frequency of 11.87 megs. . . . I am informed that Short-Wave Station TG2 (6.195) of Guatemala City, Guatemala, is now issuing verifications in "Sirela," the new radio language first described in last week's column. . . . Important schedule changes are about to be introduced in the transmissions from PHI and PCJ of Huizen, Holland, and listeners are advised to listen in on their programs for full details. . . . August Balbi of Los Angeles, Calif., reports a new Fort-de-France, Martinique, station on 5.95 megs, is being heard irregularly from 9 to 10:05 p.m. EST.

BBC officials, on the banks of Loch Ness, recently recorded the story of a boy who claims to have seen the Loch Ness monster. Above: Putting on record the tale that youthful Patrick MacDonald had to tell of the play, of course; in real life, DeMille would know better!) Jack and Mary go to DeMille's office to hold him to his promise, and DeMille puts them off, saying, "I haven't any story, Jack." Thereupon, Benny offers to write a story, and to do it in twenty-four hours, too.

Solution to Puzzle Given Last Week

"You can't do it, Benny," pontificates the pontifical DeMille, "but if you can, you can have the lead in it. And you can use my old deserted house on Baldpate Mountain for the night, too. You won't be disturbed there."

So it's off to old Baldpate for Buck Benny, author. His experiences when he gets there, alas, are very much like those suffered by George M. Cohan's Magee. Life at Baldpate is just one interruption after another. But it turns out, as it did before, that the fantastic happenings of the Baldpate nightmare didn't happen at all—they're only the things that go to make up the story. At last Jack offers the story to the producer. "And remember," he tells DeMille, "—I play the lead."

"Not at all, not at all," says Cecil B. "Seven Keys to Baldpate has been produced many, many times. I've produced it at least twice myself. You haven't written a new story, Benny, you've just embellished the old one. You're not going to play the lead. I'm giving the part to a real he-man; say, for instance, Gary Cooper."

Tuner-inners will probably hear one dull thud indicating "Exit, Buck Benny, author."

Lux Radio Theater may be heard Monday on CBS:
EST 9:00 p.m. — CST 8:00 p.m.
MST 7:00 p.m. — PST 6:00 p.m.

MR. FAIRFAX KNOWS

For personal replies enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope. Please state questions as briefly as possible.—Ed.

There is no such thing as a "clearing house" for radio gags. The only suggestion that this department can offer is that you take notes of the artists on the air using gags, write to them suggesting that they permit you to submit some of your manuscripts.—J. S., Chicago, Ill.

ALAN BUNCE, who portrays the roles of Dr. Kenneth Stuart in "David Harum," Ted Hopkins in "Hello Peggy," and Dr. Tony Chalmers in "John's Other Wife," was born in Westfield, New Jersey, on June 28, 1908. He made his theatrical debut in a Broadway play when he was seventeen years old, and in six short weeks was given one of the major roles. In stock he toured this country extensively and made appearances in Australia and New Zealand. Following this with motion-picture work in Hollywood, he came to radio in 1933. Alan is married to Ruth Nugent, daughter of the veteran actor, J. C. Nugent. He is five feet eleven inches tall, weighs 150 pounds, has brown eyes and red-brown hair and a fair complexion.—A. F., Perth Amboy, N. J.

CHARME ALLEN portrays the role of Mrs. Murger in "Pretty Kitty Kelly." This serial is broadcast from Columbia's New York studios.—H. F. B., Hornell, N. Y.

PATRICIA DUNLAP, who is Janet Dexter in "Bachelor's Children," was born in Bloomington, Illinois, on May 20, 1911. She paid her way through the Goodman School of Dramatics in Chicago by working in an office.—P. P., Lena, Ill.

FRED VON AMMON portrayed the role of Terry Moran in "Today's Children" (now off the air). He is not active in radio work at present.—E. M. K., Allentown, Pa.

DEL CASINO, CBS singer, is about twenty-five years old. He has black hair, brown eyes, weighs 150 pounds and is five feet ten inches tall. Started in radio on a small Brooklyn station and won a wide reputation as a specialist in romantic ballads, sung in English and Italian. Russ Columbo was his cousin.—P. E., White Bear, Minn.

ARTHUR GODFREY was married last April.—R. B. N., State Sanatorium, Md.

"Pop Goes the Weasel" is the theme song of "THOSE HAPPY GILMANS."—R. K., Detroit, Mich.

FREDERICK KOHNER, scenario writer, was at Republic Studios in Hollywood until recently. He may be addressed in care of Screen Writers Guild, Hollywood, and have mail held or forwarded.—R. B., St. Louis, Mo.

DISCARD YOUR OLD AERIAL

It is Most Likely Corroded and Has Poor or Loose Noisy Connections
No MORE BUZZES, CLICKS and shorts from summer rains and winter snow and sleet when using an F & H Capacity Aerial Eliminator. Anyone can connect it in a moment's time to the radio set—occupies only 1 1/2 inch by 4 inch space behind the set, yet enables your radio to operate without an aerial and tune in stations over the entire broadcast band frequencies and short wave channels.
ELIMINATE THE AERIAL FOR GOOD
Attach this unit to your radio—make your set complete in itself—forget aerial wires and troubles—move your set anywhere—no more roof climbing, unsightly lead-in or aerial wires.
NOT NEW—VALUE ALREADY PROVED
On the market five years, 100,000 customers in U.S. and foreign countries. In use from the Arctic Region of Norway to the Tropics of Africa. Each factory tested on actual long distance reception. Cannot harm set—Easily connected to any radio, including radios having no ground or radios for double aerial. Note: It will not operate on battery or automobile radios.
5 DAYS TRIAL Free penneis postage on delivery. If not entirely satisfied, return within five days and your dollar will be refunded without question.

WHAT USERS SAY
LaPorte, Tex. After using the Capacity Aerial Eliminator over a year on my 1935 small 7 tube set can say it brings in reception with fine volume and clarity, pulling in stations from Japan, Europe, South America, and broadcast stations from all over the U. S.—Efficiency proven, I took down my old outside aerial.
Signed: Davenport, Ia. Received your Radio Aerial Eliminator and it sure works fine. Also works swell on Short Wave band. Wish I had found it long ago.

Most radio programs are affected by this week's switch back to Standard Time. Because of this general alteration, program changes usually brought to your attention in the "Schedule Changes Department" are included in the following program pages.

Log of Stations Listed in Edition C—Northwestern

Table with columns: Call Letters, Kilo-cycles, Power Watts, Location, Network, Call Letters, Kilo-cycles, Power Watts, Location, Network. Lists various stations and their broadcast details.

Frequencies of Stations Carrying Rebroadcasts: KNX, 1050; KPO, 680; KPRC, 920; WBAP, 800; WOAI, 1190; KFI, 640

NOTICE: The programs as presented here were as correct and as accurate as the broadcasting companies and RADIO GUIDE could make them at the time of going to press. However, emergencies that arise at the studios sometimes necessitate eleventh hour changes in program listings, time, etc.

If your favorite station is not listed at quarter or half hour periods, consult the time listings immediately above. The chances are that a network program of 30 or 60 minutes' duration is on the air at a quarter-hour when you do not find your station listed.

PLEASE NOTE: Symbols in parentheses, such as (sw-9.53), after a program listing indicates that this program may be heard by tuning in 9.53 megacycles on your short-wave dial. For foreign short-wave programs, please see page 22.

LOVE SAID "YES" BUT PRIDE REBELLED

The boy is poor—the girl, an heiress. Can their love survive? Or will his pride ruin everything? "Girl Alone" meets these problems in radio's most exciting serial, now back on the air every afternoon, Monday through Friday. Sponsored by Quaker and Mother's Oats. Hear this entertaining program regularly!

NOISE and AERIAL ELIMINATOR
only $1.00 Postpaid!

Eliminate your old aerial! Make your radio complete in itself and movable anywhere. Simply plug in our aerial eliminator. Why bother with troublesome messy appearing wires? Insure yourself of getting maximum radio broadcasting reception on long or short wave bands and minimum static interference. GUARANTEED. Try it for five days, if not absolutely satisfied return and your money will be refunded. Note: Will not operate on battery or auto radios. SEND NO MONEY. Simply pay Postman $1.00 plus few cents postage or we will send postpaid for one dollar bill. AMERICAN LEADER. 1646 W. 78th St., Dept. E-19, Chicago, Ill. (Attractive proposition for Agents.)

RECORDS OF THE WEEK

A new department reviewing the recordings of your radio favorites

In introducing "Records of the Week" as a regular weekly department in RADIO GUIDE, the editors acknowledge the mounting interest in records, as evidenced by increasing sales of records of all types of music, as well as the growing membership rosters of the "record clubs." The reviewer's attempt is to serve record-buyers of all dispositions. Readers particularly interested in certain types of records or in the records of certain artists are invited to make their preferences known to the editors.

Classics:
A VARIETY of religious music strikes us this week... all the way from the very early composer, Arcadelt, up to present-day Negro spirituals.

Two very alive American musicians figure in the "Ave Maria" recording written by the 16th-century Arcadelt. Harl McDonald, who directs the University of Pennsylvania Choral Society as well as having edited this spiritual church aria. On the other side, the choir gives us the Lament from "Dido and Aeneas," by the early Englishman, Purcell. (Victor 1895. $1.50.)

The Philadelphia Orchestra has long been noted for its potent transcriptions of Bach church music, most of which was written for organ. Eugene Ormandy has carried on the tradition set by Leopold Stokowski in this respect, and two new transcriptions made by Lucien Cailliet are now out—the tremendous chorale-prelude, "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" on one side and the "Prelude in E Major" on the other. (Victor 14973. $2.)

Marian Anderson, the Negro contralto with one of the greatest voices of the day, might be criticized for having too cultured a voice to sing spirituals, but in "I Know Lord Laid His Hands on Me" she expresses a feeling and intensity that is most worthy. Highly recommended. (Victor 1896. $1.50.)

Less interesting is the musical setting by Albert Malotte of the Twenty-Third Psalm, and The Beatitudes, sung by Igor Gorin with orchestra. (Victor 12245. $1.50.)

Popular:
This column has groused a bit about the "fakey" bands which seem to thrive on a mysterious favor with some of our citizens. To elaborate on our beef, we elaborate:

Ted Fio-Rito was way ahead of his day with the "Mickey Mouse" style of orchestration—plip-plop-plop temple-blocks, trilling flutes and such novelty. Guy Lombardo has long thrived on an out-of-key saccharine style, Jan Garber tagging along with a very similar type of music.

But in the last year or two, another batch of fakeroos has cropped up to plague us, all capitalizing on some trick or attention-getting style as well as some fancy name. Shep Fields and his Rippling Rhythm probably started the inundation with his glissando fiddles, accordion, clon-plop-clop drums and the straw-in-the-glass bubbly-water introduction. Kay

Kyser resorts to the device of singing the title of a tune at the start of the rendition, as well as trick phrasing and a little personal announcement before each vocal solo. Right behind him is Sammy Kaye, who uses the same stuff, only goes way overboard with a highly annoying lick he characterizes as "swing and sway."

Then there's the tick-tock rhythm of Gray Gordon, patterned along the fizz-water Fields line, and the champagne music of Lawrence Welk, aping the Lombardo style with an electric organ tossed in. Hal Kemp's band is not above the bubbling-clarinet Morse-code trumpet stuff, and last but not least, there's Horace Heidt and his Alemite Brigadiers, who will go to any length for novelty—slurpy electric guitars, wavering trombones and triple-tongue trumpets and all.

Alas, the record companies seem to encourage all these bands, Decca being the only outfit excepted (although Decca has a few other type ickies on its list). All of them should be banished to some unpleasant island and be forced to listen to each other all day.

Swing:
Rhythm in Spain is about the most interesting jam platter to come along this week except for a reissue of a fine old Red Norvo blues job which was formerly on the Columbia label—"Blues in E Flat"—now on Brunswick. But to get back to "Rhythm in Spain," the Spanish motif only lasts four bars, but not the rhythm. Jabbo Smith and his trumpet kicking out with jam aplenty. Decca.

Any Time at All. Jimmy Dorsey's tune, swung lightly by Gene Krupa's band, with a nice burst of trumpet and a good vocal by Irene Daye. Brunswick.

Memories of You and three others were made in a private jam session by Bud Freeman, Jess Stacey, Bobby Hackett, Eddie Condon and some more of Manhattan's best cats. The records are sold through the Commodore Music Shop on Lexington Avenue in New York, storm center of the swing movement and ringleaders of the get-it-on-wax school of thought.

Blue Is the Evening and Sharpie. Both by Cootie Williams and his Rug-cutters, an Ellington subsidiary band. Both with vocals by Seat Powell; but the gang have done better. Vocalion.

Truckin' Little Woman. Big Bill is a blues-singer in the race catalog, and this boogie-woogie piece of jive lifts it out of the run-of-the-mill class. Vocalion.

Tu-Li-Tulip Time. Every time the songwriters go Holland on us, they seem to lose all integrity and quality. This one is no exception, and the Andrews Sisters are awash. Jimmy Dorsey's band can give little succor. Decca.

Prelude to a Kiss. Duke Ellington's band at their most moodindigoish, with the best version of Lambeth Walk yet on the other side. Brunswick.

THOUSANDS NOW PLAY

who never thought they could!

Learned Quickly at Home

I didn't dream I could actually learn to play without a teacher. Now when I play for people they hardly believe that I learned to play so well in so short a time.

*H. C. S., Calif.

Plays on Radio

I am happy to tell you that for four weeks I have been on the air over our local radio station. So thanks to your institution for such a wonderful course.

*W. H. S., Alabama.

Wouldn't Take $1000 for Course

The lessons are so simple that anyone can understand them. I have learned to play by note in a little more than a month. I wouldn't take a thousand dollars for my course.

*S. E. A., Kansas City, Mo.

You, too, can play any instrument By this EASY A-B-C Method

Surprised Friends

I want to say that my friends are greatly surprised at the different pieces I can already play. I am very happy to have chosen your method of learning.

*B. F., Bronx, N. Y.

Best Method by Far

Enclosed is my last examination sheet for my course in Tenor Banjo. This completes my course. I have taken lessons before under teachers, but my instructions with you were by far the best.

*A. O., Minn.

YOU think it's difficult to learn music? That's what thousands of others have thought! Just like you, they longed to play some instrument—the piano, violin, guitar, saxophone or other favorites. But they denied themselves the pleasure—because they thought it took months and years of tedious study and practice to learn.

And then they made an amazing discovery! They learned about a wonderful way to learn music at home—without a private teacher—without tedious study—and in a surprisingly short time. They wrote to the U. S. School of Music for the facts about this remarkable short-cut method. And the facts opened their eyes! To cap the climax, a free Demonstration lesson actually showed them how easy it was to learn.

The result? Over 700,000 men and women have studied music at home this simple, A-B-C way. Now, all over the world, enthusiastic music-lovers are enjoying the thrilling satisfaction of creating their own music. They have found the key to good times, popularity and profit.

And that's what YOU can do, right now. Simply mail the coupon below. Get the proof that you, too, can learn to play your favorite instrument—quickly, easily, in spare time at home. Never mind if you have no musical knowledge, training or talent. Just read the fascinating illustrated booklet that answers all your questions—examine the demonstration lesson. Both will be mailed to you without the slightest cost or obligation. Tear out the coupon now, before you turn the page. (Instruments supplied when needed, cash or credit.) U. S. School of Music, 43310 Brunswick Bldg., New York City, N. Y.
