WE ARE ALL
ON TRIAL
IN HER PLEA FOR THE LIFE OF
RATH'S KILLER, DOROTHY THOMP-SON ASKS AMERICANS TO PROTEST

As Armageddon threatens the Old World, steeped for centuries in bloodshed and race-hatred, America, through the voice of an American woman, answers the challenge! Above: Dorothy Thompson. Right: Herschel Grynszpan

BY ANY standard of measurement, Dorothy Thompson is one of the world's leading citizens. Her words are weighed by experience and knowledge and supported by deep conviction. Her broadcast appearances on the General Electric Hour have given to listeners an unusual depth and breadth of understanding. On that program on Monday, November 14, she gave the following talk:

"A WEEK ago today an anemic-looking boy with brooding black eyes walked quietly into the German embassy in the Rue de Lille in Paris, asked to see the ambassador, was shown into the office of the third secretary, Herr von Rath, and shot him. Herr von Rath died on Wednesday.

"I want to talk about that boy. I feel as though I knew him, for in the past five years I have met so many whose story is the same—the same except for this unique desperate act. Herschel Grynszpan was one of the hundreds of thousands of refugees whom the terror east of the Rhine has turned loose in the world. His permit to stay in Paris had expired. He could not leave France, for no country would take him in. He could not work, because no country would give him a work permit.

"So he moved about, hoping he would not be picked up and deported, only to be deported again and yet again. Sometimes he found a bed with another refugee. Sometimes he huddled away from the wind under the bridges of the Seine.

"He got letters from his father, who was in Hanover, in Germany. His father was all right. He still had a little tailoring shop and managed honorably to earn enough for food and shelter. Maybe he would have sent his son money, but he was not allowed to send any out of Germany.

"Herschel read the newspapers, and all that he could read filled him with dark anxiety and wild despair. He read how men, women and children, driven out of the Sudetenland by a conquering army—conquering with the consent of Great Britain and France—had been forced to cross the border into Czechoslovakia on their hands and knees—and then had been ordered out of that dismembered country that, shorn of her richest lands and factories, did not know how to feed the mouths that were left.

"He read that Jewish children had been stood on platforms in front of classes of German children and had had their features pointed to and described by the teacher as marks of a criminal race. He read that men and women of his race, amongst them scholars and a general decorated for his bravery, had been forced to wash the streets while the mob laughed. They were men of his race whom he had been taught to venerate—scientists and educators and scholars who once had been honored by their country. He read that they had been driven from their posts.

"He heard that the Nazi government had started all this because they said the Jews had made them lose the Great War. But Herschel had not even been born when the Great War ended. He was seventeen years old.

"Herschel had a pistol. I don't know why he had it. Maybe he had bought it somewhere thinking to use it on himself, if the worst came to the worst. Thousands of men and women of his race had killed themselves in the last few years rather than live like hunted animals. Still, he lived on. His father had a shop in Hanover and was making a living.

"Then, a few days ago, he got a letter from his father. His father told him that he had been summoned from his bed, herded with thousands of others into a train of box-cars and shipped over the border into Poland. He had not been allowed to take any of his meager savings with him. Just 50 cents. 'I am penniless,' he wrote to his son.

"This was the end. Herschel fingered his pistol and thought, 'Why doesn't someone do something? Why must we be chased around the earth like animals?' Herschel was wrong. Animals are not chased around the world like this. In every country there are societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals. But there are none for the prevention of cruelty to people.

"HERSCHEL thought of the people responsible for this terror. Right in Paris were some who were the official representatives of these responsible people. Maybe he thought that assassination is an honorable profession in these days. He knew, no doubt, that the youths who murdered the Austrian Chancellor Dollfuss are heroes in Nazi Germany, as are the murderers of Rathenau. Maybe he remembered that only four years ago the Nazi leader himself had caused scores of men to be assassinated without a trial and had justified it simply by saying that he was the law.

"And so Herschel walked into the German embassy and shot Herr von Rath. Herschel made no attempt to

MEDAL OF MERIT AWARDED TO DOROTHY THOMPSON

A few minutes after Miss Dorothy Thompson made her remarkable plea for the life of Herschel Grynszpan, many thousands of telegrams and letters were on their way to her. Equally remarkable was the fact that such a plea was broadcast at all. It is not policy, ordinarily, for a network to encourage the discussion of controversial matter. Nor is it usually the policy of a sponsor to tread heavily on issues loaded with dynamite. As we grow older in broadcasting experience we stride ahead, advancing to new frontiers of discussion. The frontier reached by Miss Thompson the other evening is one of which every listener should be proud. Radio Guide Weekly recognizes it with the Radio Guide Medal of Merit.

In fairness, the award must be divided into three parts. First, to the National Broadcasting Company for its broadminded service in carrying this message to millions of Americans. Second, to the General Electric Company, which sponsors the Hour of Charm, on which Miss Thompson speaks, for its support of a broadcast which had little relation to its responsibility of selling better lighting to the public. Third, to Miss Dorothy Thompson herself, who has once again demonstrated those remarkable qualities which make her not only our first lady of journalism but also a realistic and humane commentator. Because Miss Thompson's commentaries have made and are making broadcasting a more significant force in national and international affairs, and because they give to listeners a deeper understanding of those affairs, we present to her, as trustee for herself, the General Electric Company, and the National Broadcasting network, the Radio Guide Medal of Merit.

UNCLE SAM SCHOOLMASTER

EXCITING BUT PAINLESS IS THIS NEW
SORT OF TEACHING WHICH IS MAKING A NATION OF LISTENERS WISER, SMARTER

THIS is an article about education—education by radio. Ten years ago, a magazine like RADIO GUIDE wouldn't have printed it. Five years ago we couldn't have, for the things we're going to talk about hadn't been conceived, much less accomplished.

But today, down in Washington, D. C., in the U. S. Office of Education situated in the huge new Department of the Interior Building, a group of hard-working, far-sighted men are creating, hour by hour, a story so important to America that it must be told. These men are looking into such problems as how can we better educate our people? What shall we do about the thousands upon thousands of children who suffer from inadequate educational facilities? How can we help the hundreds of thousands of adults whose lives have been impoverished by educational deprivation? How can these people be reached, taught? How can the love of learning, the will to know, be instilled in them?

These men think they've found the answer. It's a one-word answer: Radio! And the United States Government is doing something about it! Brand-new on the air today, under the finger-twist of your dial, are two programs that will make educational history: "Americans All—Immigrants All," first broadcast on November 13, and "Wings for the Martins," which made its debut on November 16. Under the direct supervision of John W. Studebaker, United States Commissioner of Education, and with the assistance of the Works Progress Administration, these two programs stand as epochal in the history of radio education because they constitute the first big-scale application of the first principle of radio education, a principle so far almost universally overlooked by those trying to teach by broadcasting.

Radio is, potentially, the greatest single agency for education that the world has ever known. But the fact is that educational radio has not, until very recently, been put to proper use. Educators have not recognized its tremendous powers. Most of all they have not recognized the vital principle that radio is basically a medium of entertainment, and that in order effectively to teach by radio one must entertain as well.

Progressive U. S. teachers have long recognized that principle, wrung the last drop of effective pedagogy out of it. They know that in order to learn, a child must be interested, and that all interest is at least fifty percent amusement. But those same educators, when they first began to use radio, themselves forgot what they had learned, went on the air with long, dry-as-dust speeches; they broadcast in a technique lifted straight out of the classroom and utterly unsuited to radio; they went to the microphone with stilted, amateurish dramas. The result was failure.

But there has been a change in the weather. There are three U. S. Government-sponsored educational programs on the air today, and when you tune them in, you'll hear bright, smartly paced, fast-clicking shows, not one whit less entertaining because of their solid educational content. For a long time now, the radio listener has shied away at the mere mention of an "educational program." He knew what to expect, and he didn't want any part of it. Today that bogie-man is a dead one. Another thing: You may not have realized it, Mr. and Mrs. Radio Listener, but part of your tax money goes into radio. For those dollars and cents, you are getting value received, right down to the last penny, in airtime entertainment of lasting worth!

THE story behind the two new Government-sponsored programs is an intensely interesting one. Let's look at the weekly CBS "Americans All—Immigrants All," a program based, as its title indicates, on the fact that this country has largely been built up by natives of other lands who have found hospitality on our shores. The phrase itself, incidentally, is taken from a speech by President Roosevelt. Gilbert Seldes, famed author and journalist, is writing the script.

"Americans All—Immigrants All" started on its way to the microphones as the germ of an idea in the mind of Avinere Toigo, executive secretary of the Illinois Committee on Citizenship and Naturalization. Toigo, an Italian, could not speak a word of English until he was five. When he was fifteen, he went to work in the Illinois coal fields, laboring side by side with Germans, Mexicans, Slovaks, Scandinavians, Jews, Irishmen. It was there that he found his life-work—"breaking down the barriers that now exist between racial and national groups." He's been hard at it ever since. About two years ago, Toigo conceived the idea of a radio program to carry his message to America. Before influential people everywhere, he laid his argument of education and tolerance. "Enlightenment drives prejudice to cover," he'd say. "If a man of one race could hear of the achievements of other races in America, he would have more respect for them." Governor Henry Horner of Illinois first suggested a national radio program. Finally Toigo got the ear of Commissioner of Education Studebaker—and "Americans All—Immigrants All" went into immediate production, to tell a story as big as all outdoors, as big as America itself.

Few of us have ever stopped to ponder the fact that there is no such thing as a native American, judged by regular ethnological standards. Even the Indian was an immigrant, coming from far-off Asia, via Alaska, hundreds of years ago. So when we speak of "Americans" we mean English-Americans, Scotch-Americans, Italian-Americans, American Jews, French-Americans, Irish-Americans, American Negroes, and all the rest. These are the people who have made America great. And it is to honor them that "Americans All—Immigrants All" is on the air.

The basic theory of the program is

EDUCATION BY RADIO ARRIVES

Wherever one goes—in schools, homes, automobiles—one hears the new method of education. Education by radio! It is education that is fun, that entertains, but that instructs just as deeply and thoroughly as the old rule-of-thumb techniques of other days. Indeed, there is no longer any doubt that broadcasters have awakened to their responsibility to use their incredibly powerful medium of communication for the betterment of people's minds and lives. Almost simultaneously, educators have awakened also. No longer do they attempt to impose the old methods of instruction on a new medium. The ancient classroom method is, for the most part, obsolete. Instead, newer and more effective methods employing drama, human interest, and music are in use. Typical of the best of our educational programs are those produced by the Office of Education, Department of the Interior, in Washington, D. C. Broadcast on time donated by the networks, they effectively measure the progress of educators in this most important field of education-by-radio. They are convincing a public that was reluctant at first to believe that knowledge can be acquired painlessly. Radio Guide Weekly gladly pays tribute to these programs.

RADIO GUIDE'S OWN SERVICES

A change has taken place in educational broadcasting. Evidence of it is found in the Radio Guide services offered both weekly and monthly to teachers and pupils. If you want a deeper knowledge of men, of affairs, or of life itself, use these educational aids as a guide to your classroom or home listening. Helpful features are:

1. Complete, accurate program listings.
  2. A special section called "Listening to Learn," devoted to the field of education in radio.
  3. Stories of men and women educators active in broadcasting.
  4. Visual aids (maps, for example) which listeners may use while listening to a broadcast.
  5. A program classifier, published monthly, which lists and groups the major educational programs according to interest.
  6. A critical evaluation of forthcoming broadcasts of fine music called "The March of Music," including program notes for serious listeners.
  7. Stories of the lives of the immortals of music.
  8. A review of successful ideas in education-by-radio.
  9. News about radio-in-education activities from Coast to Coast.

stated by its announcer: "Nothing is ever done in this country by one group alone. The making of the United States goes on—today as always—by endless cooperative effort. Each group has its special work to do, but whatever is brought here is changed by all those who became Americans."

Group by separate group, the immigrants who have made America come to the microphone. The English, who gave America its language, its laws, and its burning desire for personal and political freedom; the Spanish, who so strongly influenced architecture, literature, and every other aspect of life in the West and Southwest; the Irish, who had more to do with the winning of the West, perhaps, than any other single national group; the Danes, the Swedes, and Norwegians; the Swiss, the French and the Italians. Thoroughly startling to most listeners will be the facts revealed on these broadcasts. Few Americans know, for instance, that the Conestoga wagon, universally used by western settlers, was a German invention; so was the Kentucky rifle, one of the most famous hand-arms of all time. The log cabin, beloved of pioneer days, wasn't an American idea. The Scandinavians built the first one. The first man to die in the American Revolution was a Negro, Crispus Attucks; and if it had not been for Haym Solomon, a Jew, the Revolution would have collapsed for lack of money. It was John Ericsson, a Swede, who built the iron-clad "Monitor," the vessel that saved the Union blockade during the Civil War; Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, was a Scotsman. And so the story rolls on, rich and inspiring. In it, radio listeners will find a new America, an America that most of them never knew existed. In these times, the lesson to be learned from "Americans All—Immigrants All" is a vitally important one. Says Commissioner of Education Studebaker: "Europe's desperate plight with neighbor set against neighbor cannot be suffered in the United States, because the men and women who have come here from the four corners of the earth have accepted the idea that there is both strength and beauty in the new alloy which comes from the melting-pot. Every United States citizen knows through experience that human progress knows no racial or national boundaries. This radio series will show through examples how this basic faith of democracy has proved itself with every strain making up our national life. On successive weeks listeners will have the opportunity to hear little-known triumphs of the American spirit of tolerance and hospitality to all who pledge allegiance to the United States."

"Let us raise a standard to which the wise and honest can repair." That is the theme announcement of "Americans All—Immigrants All." In that sentence lies its purpose and its meaning: in a world gone mad, tolerance and justice for all become vitally important. "Americans All—Immigrants All" is Government propaganda, if you like—propaganda for peace and good-will among men.

In dictator-ridden countries, not even the young are spared a daily dosage of radio-borne propaganda. Just as refreshing as "Americans All—Immigrants All" is the second of the U. S. Office of Education's great programs, "Wings for the Martins," which concerns itself with the education of the children of America—and their parents.

"Wings for the Martins" is a program for all of us who stand by, breathless, while the younger generation tries its wings. It is in this homely, down-to-earth serial story, the story of an average family facing average, every-day problems, that the first principle of educational broadcasting stands forth most clearly. Speaking before the Second National Conference on Educational Broadcasting in November, 1937, William Dow Boutwell, director of radio education for the Department of Education, said: "It was my conviction, and still is, that the crucial problem in educational broadcasting is assembling and holding an audience for what you have to say."

"WINGS FOR THE MARTINS" is designed to reach a very difficult audience—children and their parents, together. To do this, it must appeal at once to minds both young and mature; it must deal with problems and situations familiar and important both to little Jackie, aged eight, and his father, who won't see forty again. You can't step up to a microphone with a prepared speech and do that! It just isn't possible. But you can put on the air a dramatic program, involving a family just like your family and mine, or the Joneses, and be sure that Jackie and his father will listen—listen, and learn.

That is the kind of program our own United States' Office of Education has turned out in "Wings for the Martins." It's a moving, vital chunk out of the lives of the Martin family, and there are Martin families in this country beyond the numbering. Will they listen? Certainly. Any radio executive will tell you that no single type of program on the air today has the solid popularity of the dramatic serials dealing with every-day family life. Will they learn? The answer to that is: They can't help learning! No one can, when a problem and the best and most logical solution to it are presented together in a thoroughly dramatic form.

For instance: There isn't an American man alive who did not, at some time or other during his boyhood days, dream of running away from home to find adventure in the gay, glamorous world outside—the world of Robin Hood, of Morgan the Pirate, all the other immortal heroes of boyhood. Some of us did run away, slipping out in the middle of the night, armed with a four-cornered bundle of cookies, Indian arrow-heads, a sling-shot, and other such prime necessities for a life of adventure. Most of us came home again soon enough, disillusioned, a lot sadder and not much wiser—to face wrathful parents, misunderstanding, and punishment.

Well, Jimmy Martin ran away. When his mother called him to breakfast one schoolday morning—he just wasn't there. He had taken his precious collection of rocks and minerals, left a note for his parents—"it's absolutely necessary that I quit school and start my career this minute"—and that was that. The Martins reacted as any parents would. Panic-stricken at first, they soon calmed themselves, notified the police, did what they could, and then settled down to the hardest thing in the world to bear—simple waiting.

And Jimmy? Jimmy was sound asleep in Farmer North's barn, miles away. Waked up by that worthy in the cold dawn, he confessed he was a little hungry, and, over steaming oatmeal and wheat-cakes, confided his secret: he had had just about all he could stand of school—"poetry an' grammar an' all about the ol' Pilgrims"—he was off to begin his life-work. He was going to be a geologist, a great geologist, starting right away! Farmer North, it happened, knew of a splendid place for rock-collecting, off into the woods a piece. Little bit lonesome, sure, but a rising young geologist wouldn't mind that. And so, fortified with breakfast, a heavy sweater, and some sandwiches, Jimmy Martin starts off on his "career."

As for Farmer North, he picks up his telephone and gives the old crank a spin: "Hello, operator . . . Better give me the police department down at Henderson . . . Hello . . . say, this is S. S. North up on the old turnpike . . . Kid turned up here this morning . . . runaway . . . yep, that sounds like the one! Red hair, freckles . . . now listen, I'll tell you where you can find him, but I want you to promise you'll go easy on him . . . Yep, smart little fellow, just ain't growed up as tall as his ambition yet . . ."

So Jimmy goes home again. He has learned his lesson, but Mother and Father Martin still have theirs to get. What's in store for Jimmy? A good talking-to? "It's wrong to run away—you mustn't do it again." A whipping? One of those, "This hurts me more than it hurts you" things? Nothing of the sort. There's no solution there. Today American educators say: "If a boy hates poetry and loves geology so much that he'll run away from home over it—then give him all the geology he can hold. And don't infuriate the boy and ruin your own patience trying to beat poetry into his head." That's the lesson that a good many American parents took out of the first instalment of "Wings for the Martins," broadcast on November 16. And that, my friends, is education by radio—model 1938! That is what this Government of ours is giving to you and me, and to every other American.

But it isn't all, not by any means. "Americans All—Immigrants All," "Wings for the Martins," and the vastly informative Smithsonian Institution program, "The World Is Yours," another series by the Office of Education, are only the surface indications of what is being done in Washington—they are the end products. Behind and under them are dozens of less spectacular but just as vitally important accomplishments.

For instance: Suppose that you want to put an educational radio program on the air over a local station. You don't know much of the technique of broadcasting, you haven't got, don't know where to get, suitable material. Instantly available to you in Washington is an information service that will tell you where to locate people who have had successful broadcasting experience, what educational programs now on the air can help you, where you may receive good radio instructions; a written request will bring you, by return mail, a catalog listing 181 educational scripts, all expertly prepared, any one of which is yours to put on the air for the asking. During the past two years more than 152,000 scripts have gone out from the Office of Education. To teach you the technique of broadcasting, there are free books, covering program production, radio terminology, sound-effects and special methods. Sixteen thousand of them have already been given to "beginning broadcasters"! Now being assembled in this unique "Script Exchange" is a collection of transcriptions—recordings of expertly built radio programs, and these will soon be available to responsible groups. In schools from one end of America to the other, young men and women, the backbone and life-blood of the radio industry of tomorrow, are learning broadcasting through these U. S. Office of Education aids. A lot of them don't have "real" radio equipment to work with, have to "broadcast" through public-address systems. But that isn't important. The important thing is they're learning. When they do go on the air, they'll know what they're about!

RADIO, it's often said, reaches everyone. But, even granting that, it's rarely indeed that a radio service so thoroughly covers its field as does this epochal U. S. Government project. A ten-year-old boy in Maine hears the fascinating story of Arctic exploration on "The World Is Yours," and a seed is planted that will last his lifetime through. A youngster in Virginia, tortured by a problem complex beyond his years, tunes in "Wings for the Martins" and learns a lesson so simply and ingeniously presented that it seems to be his own idea; and a thousand miles away a perplexed father learns the same lesson in the same way, receives it just as gratefully. A Norwegian immigrant family listens to "Americans All—Immigrants All." When the broadcast is over, somehow, magically, they have found a firmer understanding of their own people, a greater tolerance and appreciation of the Italians, Poles, the Germans who live and work side by side with them. To these people, and to uncounted thousands more, radio no longer means just Charlie McCarthy or the baseball broadcasts. Radio today is a teacher and a guide. Through it thousands upon thousands of us are learning fast, and riding ahead with America!

"Americans All—Immigrants All" may be heard Sunday over CBS at 2 p.m. EST; 1 p.m. CST; 12 noon MST; 11 a.m. PST. "Wings for the Martins," Wednesday over NBC at 9:30 p.m. EST; 8:30 p.m. CST; 7:30 p.m. MST; 6:30 p.m. PST.

THE PLAY'S THE THING

Sometimes, in radio drama, the play's the thing. Sometimes it's the actor or actress. For example:

Sunday: There's Gable. What does it matter the name and time of the program? (As a matter of formality, it's "Silver Theater," 6:00 p.m. Eastern Time.) What matters the title and plot of the play? (It isn't announced yet, anyway.) Gable's the thing. Worthy of note, also, is the fact that Clark will be supported by Paula Winslow at his own request, because of her excellent work last year when Gable appeared on this series.

Sunday: There's Lombard. She's on the same day as the fellow whose name is so often linked with hers. We mean Clark Gable. But then, you might interpret the allusion as pointing to Charlie McCarthy, for that's the guy who'll be doing the honors this time along with Don Ameche and the others. We don't know how much fun Carole has with Clark in private life, but we do know that she does have a lot of fun with Charlie, Don, et al. on the air. It goes without saying that the Lombard art and appeal will be with her.

Friday: Now comes Welles, the flash-

no particular occasion. Neither will it signalize a radical departure from the Benny fun formula. It will mean nothing special—except that more people will be listening than listen to any other regular program, or, at least, more than have listened consistently to any one star or show for a long-sustained period. Even though Benny will be the same suave sap and likable goat that he usually is, even though Mary will cackle in the same key, even though Kenny will be the same song-and-trance man, Phil the same romantic stooge, Andy the same vocal acrobat, still the Benny show is a highlight this week, and almost any week, thanks greatly to Morrow, Jack's writer. That standardized quality makes the program special every week. Why, some listeners are even disappointed if they miss Don Wilson's flat introduction, "The orchestra opens the progra-a-am . . ."

THE PLOTS THICKEN

—Mon. through Fri., NBC, CBS

How would you like to have over a hundred children to guide and plan for and worry about? Irna Phillips is radio's "Woman in the shoe," with that many brain-children to govern every week, but she does, it seems, know what to do, for the three network serials which she writes—"The Road of Life," "The Guiding Light" and "The Woman in White"—maintain their genuine interest from week to week, without becoming dull. It's hard to get away from that "Information, Please." It grows on you insidiously, but, unlike a parasite, it makes you grow with it. In this ideal combination of wit and wisdom—half and half—Fadiman, Adams and Kieran are really inimitable. What little is lacking, the happy choice of guests makes up—and more. Take the guests this week, for instance (just try to take them!). There's Alexander ("Town Crier") Woollcott, very famous author, raconteur and columnist, scheduled for this week's brain-battle, and you can bet he'll be in the front lines. Then there's also another well-known name in the field of journalism, that of Marc Duffield, of the New York Herald Tribune editorial staff. He'll know plenty of the answers. This will make a splendid quartet for one of those "tunes" the staff is sometimes required to sing!

Jackie Cooper, you can bet, won't stand for any "Sonny Boy" stuff when he visits Al Jolson Tuesday, for the cute kid has grown up. Although deemed still too young and innocent to kiss Deanna Durbin in the movie, "That Certain Age," the lad who made the wistfulness of the underslung lip famous before precocious Shirley Temple came along, is big enough to give you a flying tackle and let you know you've been hit. He's still pretty shy, though, and probably won't pull any "Dead End" kid stuff for the radio audience.

THE RADIO PLAYBILL: THIS WEEK—"BACKSTAGE WIFE"

WHEN Mary Curtis, an Iowa stenographer, marries Larry Noble, Broadway idol, and comes to New York, she finds her life as a backstage wife a constant struggle to hold the love of her husband against the designing females who flock around him. Even her own cousin, Betty Burns, tries to get Larry away from her. Mary knows that Marcia Mannering is after him too, but she doesn't suspect that Armand Delubac is Marcia's paid tool, employed to blacken her character and alienate Larry's affections. Mary accepts Armand's invitation to lunch, and unwisely gives him a diamond ring to have repaired. When Armand is mysteriously murdered, Mary becomes a suspect because her ring is found on him. In reality, gangland had its own reasons for killing him. Duke Carver, king of racketeers, is trying to promote a Broadway amusement center, and has interested both Lady Clara and Marcia, as he hopes to get Larry to headline the project. When he sees Armand becoming friendly with Mary, he has him shot. Realizing the seriousness of the situation, Mary seeks Goldie, the dead man's sweetheart. Duke discovers them together, shoots and kills Goldie, and knocks Mary unconscious as she tries to snatch the gun from his hand. Police find Mary's finger-prints on the murder weapon, suspect her of the second crime. The murders, however, have uncovered the underworld angle and aroused the public. Carver and his whole gang are desperate, because they know that Mary has told her story to the district attorney. To keep her from testifying in court, they have her uncle kidnaped. Next, Larry is snatched right at the door of his own theater. "Backstage Wife" is heard over NBC Monday through Friday, 4 p.m. EST; 3 p.m. CST; 2 p.m. MST; 1 p.m. PST.

MARY NOBLE, the backstage wife, is played by Vivian Fridell. Mary's a sweet, unaffected young wife, whose absolute sincerity often proves her best protection. She devotes most of her time and energy to making a comfortable home for her husband, Larry, a well-known matinee idol. Although Mary has had plenty of opportunities to become a Broadway actress herself, she feels that her job in life is to lighten the tension that always surrounds her sought-after husband. Sensitive and proud in a shy way, Mary understands all Larry's moods and caters to them

LARRY NOBLE (Ken Griffin plays this role) as a man idolizes Mary, his wife. But the love he has for her sometimes manifests itself as impatience because of his headstrong, impulsive nature. As a successful actor, he is governed by his emotions. And by the same token, he is always surrounded by adoring women who are constantly seeking favors. Straightforward and truthful, Larry seldom becomes suspicious of the sly and shady tricks which his women admirers employ to gain the attention of a matinee idol. Instead, he always sees them as charming people

Next Week's Playbill: "STEPMOTHER"

LADY CLARA, Larry's mother, has spent most of her life abroad in gay Continental society. Until Larry became famous, she paid little attention to him, and seldom came to New York. Now she seems to have developed an overwhelming fondness for him. This sudden oversolicitous manner is a source of worry which gradually turns into one of real alarm for Mary. Lady Clara's business propositions in which she attempts to interest her son are especially troublesome. Ethel Owen plays Lady Clara

MARCIA MANNERING (it's Eloise Kummer's role) represents the type of New York City moth who's always found flitting around attractive and famous Broadway lights like Larry Noble. Spoiled child of a rich New Yorker, Marcia goes from one hobby to another, and her present interest is the theater. At least she says it's the theater; but her general conduct leaves no doubt in Mary's mind that Marcia's primary interest is Larry. As his leading lady, Marcia Mannering covets Mary Noble's role of wife

BETTY BURNS, a young Broadway actress, is Mary Noble's cousin. A climber who means to succeed at any cost, Betty is utterly unscrupulous in her tactics to get what she wants. Secretly married to Joel Hicks back in the Iowa town she and Mary both hail from, Betty is clever enough to present a naive and sensitive exterior that hides the hard-as-nails character she really is. Patricia Dunlap plays the role of Betty Burns

GOLDIE, a Broadway chorus girl, is played by Eileen Palmer. Goldie's an unfortunate young woman who, because of wrong companions, has been dragged through one misfortune after another. Mary Noble thinks that she can be saved from all this, befriends her, and tries in every way within her power to help Goldie free herself from the clutches of a gang in which the girl finds herself the sweetheart of a slain gangster

ANNOUNCER for "Backstage Wife" is Stuart Dawson. Stuart started out to be an M. D., then decided he'd rather do something else. He has been a research worker and bond salesman, but left those to direct a successful art school. His radio debut was in 1924, when he came to a Chicago station to meet a friend and was pressed into service as an announcer because the regular member of the staff had been called away

Musical Mismatching

CERTAIN European events of late weeks again bring grievous thoughts of what is happening to music in the lands where the ruling moguls try to make bedfellows of politics and art and degrade and persecute those who do not believe in such ill-mated companionship.

The common doctrine of Hitler, Stalin and Mussolini is that everything be made subservient to the State, whose purposes and tenets are to be the inspiration for its artists. The idea simply will not amalgamate with music, as is proved by the latest German, Russian and Italian works we are hearing in concert and on the air. Even the output has decreased lamentably. Germany and Austria used to furnish dozens of new symphonic compositions every season; Italy was on hand with an annual bumper crop of fresh-born operas; Russia poured out ceaseless abundance of material for orchestra, voice and piano, and some, too, for the lyric stage. Now the best living composers of those countries are the ones who antedate the current regimes.

Just before his death on November 21, Leopold Godowsky, my beloved friend and first piano-teacher, wrote me a most despondent letter in which he despaired for the future of music in Europe and said also: "I tremble, too, for the safety of our adored art in America if we ever permit ourselves to be even partially influenced by the foreign destructive 'isms' which intense propaganda is trying to implant here. I dread above all things that our radio might unknowingly be made an instrument for the insidious system which, if unchecked, must kill off ideal love for Art and the cult of Beauty."

The lamented Godowsky's fear has no reason so far as America is concerned, for our radio establishments keep a watchful eye over its presentations. The only frankly propagandistic music aired during the past few years was an early effort or two by the young Russian, Shostakovich, but hearers were more concerned with what they sounded like than with what they were supposed to illustrate. The unquestionably talented composer, soon realizing his mistake, abandoned "propaganda" music and promptly fell into disfavor with the Soviet heads. They wisely forgave him, however, and now he writes what and how he pleases.

America is receiving more and more German and Austrian composers as permanent residents who were unwilling to surrender their artistic ideas to political dictation. Arnold Schoenberg, Kurt Weill, Erich Korngold, Ernest Toch, are a few with whom radio dialers are fairly familiar. It is certain that a number of others will be with us as soon as they can join the migrating quotas. Perhaps even the Aryan Richard Strauss might wind up here eventually. He has riled the supersensitive Nazis several times and may do so again. If they ban him we shall welcome the greatest living composer with open arms.

Speaking Up

Is the sudden flood of symphony concerts, Bach cantatas, recitals and opera on the big networks a subtle attempt to impress the Federal Communications Commission investigation in Washington?

Toscanini throws watches on the floor in a rage at rehearsal and Artur Rodzinski curses floridly in Polish and tears his hair. The long-suffering NBC orchestra members have reached the boredom point, so that when Rodzinski takes over from Toscanini on December 10 for at least three concerts, his tantrums will cause no upheaval. With or without tantrums, Rodzinski usually gets what he wants, anyway. He kicked law-study out of the window for music, played the piano in honky-tonks, taught mathematics and inspected meat on his way to becoming the permanent conductor of the Cleveland orchestra. He likes fast driving, photography, a Sealyham called Lashie, all-night poker parties and his wife. He hates musical imperfection, getting up early, conductors who use no score (except Toscanini), and meat-shops.

Artur Rodzinski will take the baton for NBC Toscanini series Saturday

Cheers to the Castagna-Tokatyan-Morelli series on WOR Wednesday night at 8:15. Why doesn't the entire Mutual System carry it?

When you listen to Orlando Barera, Italian violinist on Sunday's Philharmonic concert, you'll hear one of the judges who chose the season's violin sensation, young Robert Virovai, in last year's International contest for violinists in Vienna. Barera was on the jury of award, a side job sandwiched in between his activities as one of the directors of the Bologna Music Conservatory, concert violinist and authority on Italian painting. Genial and darkly attractive, he studied with Menuhin's teacher, Georges Enesco, and first appeared in America in 1936.

Tabloid opera leaves the Music Hall of the Air after November 27 and won't be greatly mourned. The performances were too hurried and the commentation was insufficient and without continuity. The cast and orchestra did good jobs, but the time limit was too short for a comprehensive picture of the operas.

Although Igor Stravinsky is a highly sensuous man, fond of fine perfumes, good wines and food, expensive cars and beautiful clothes, he scorns the sensuous in music, saying that it does not express the true purpose of the art. In late years all his compositions have been experimental, some in severely classical contrapuntal style. When asked to explain his music, he snaps, "A nose is not manufactured: it just is. Thus, too, my art."

HAVE YOU HEARD THAT: The theme music written by William Grant Still for the perisphere of the New York World's Fair is almost as exciting a piece as the "Marseillaise" . . . Rachmaninoff is a great admirer of Eddy Duchin . . . Beniamino Gigli has been engaged for five performances at the Metropolitan Opera; Stefan Hero, violinist, is Jose Iturbi's son-in-law; Zoltan Kurthy, violist, can play four other instruments besides his own and is a composer as well. —V. MENDELSSOHN, too-little-performed of recent years in America, seems to be coming into strong revival here. (Hitler and his pals kindly take notice.) Apparently younger musicians and auditors are just beginning to realize the endless melodic inspiration of the facile Felix, his gracious harmonic gifts and his chiseled form and workmanship.

No finer piece of musical etching has ever been achieved than the concerto programmed today, and it is the one extended Mendelssohn composition which has always been in the repertoire and appears likely to remain there indefinitely.

Mendelssohn's piano music too, with its clarity, tunefulness and lightly elegant passage-work, is ideal material for radio.

THERE has been considerable controversy over Toscanini's recent radio performance of the Tchaikowsky masterpiece, some saying that it was magnificent, others insisting that the real spirit of the music was missed by the maestro. It is difficult to say which opinion is right, for the "Pathetique" permits of highly individual conception and interpretation.

Alberich . . . . .	Adolf Vogel
Voice of the Forest Bird . . . . .	Natalie Bodanya

Conductor - - Artur Bodanzky

OF WAGNER'S four-part cycle of music dramas "The Ring of the Nibelung," the third section is "Siegfried," preceding the final "Goetterdaemmerung." Opening the series is "Das Rheingold," followed by "Die Walkuere."

In order to follow the story of "Siegfried" understandingly, one should be fully acquainted with the whole prodigious epic of the "Ring," its characters, action, romance, philosophies, passions and tragedies. Though the personages are mainly mythological gods, all their motivations have human basis. The underlying theme is the futility of vanity, greed, and the lust for power.

Briefly summed up, the "Ring" happenings prior to Siegfried cover the dwarf Alberich's stealing of the fabulous gold from the bed of the Rhine; his loss of the treasure to Wotan, who in turn is robbed of it by the giant, Fafner Simi; Wotan's punishment of his disobedient daughter, the Valkyrie Bruennhilde, whom he deprives of her godhood and puts to sleep on a rock surrounded by fire, decreeing that she shall be awakened only by the kiss of a hero who has never known fear.

ACT I

A Rocky Cave, with a Huge Anvil and Forge in the Foreground

Alberich and his brother Mime scheme unceasingly to recover the Rhine gold from Fafner, who has the broken pieces of a sword that belonged to Siegfried's slain father, Siegmund. Wotan appears briefly and then Siegfried takes the remnants of the sword and welds them into a perfect weapon, meanwhile singing the rousing dramatic number known as "The Forging of the Sword."

ACT II

The Forest Dark and Somber

Sunrise gradually lights the scene. In a cave lies the sleeping dragon, Fafner, beside his coveted gold, including the all-powerful ring. Mime brings on Siegfried, who slays the monster. Bespattered with blood, the youth finds that it gives him the power to understand the language of the forest bird, who discloses the treachery of Mime and the secret of the sleeping Bruennhilde. Siegfried kills the despicable Mime and winds his way off through the forest to find Bruennhilde. Preceding the finale, the music is ineffably lovely, describing the murmurs of the forest and its mystery and charm.

ACT III

Scene 1—A Rocky Pass

Wotan calls on Erda for advice, who warns him of the destruction of the gods. Siegfried appears, led by the forest bird seeking Bruennhilde. Wotan tries to stop him but Siegfried shatters Wotan's spear.

Kirsten Flagstad, star of Wagnerian roles in the Metropolitan Opera, at the impromptu recital she gave for the New York Kindergarten

Scene 2—A Wall of Flame Which Gradually Dies Down, Revealing a Rocky Plateau

Siegfried passes through the flames and finds the sleeping Bruennhilde. He awakens her with a kiss. She is the first woman he has ever seen. The opera ends in a love-duet.

Violinist on Sunday's N. Y. Philharmonic is Orlando Barera

THE Pinza career is a fruitful example to younger opera singers who think themselves finished artists because they have mastered one or two roles and half a dozen excerpts from others. When the now-celebrated basso first reached the Metropolitan he sang a few standard operas in Italian and was a most conventional performer. Quickly understanding the requirements demanded of a first-class artist, in New York he began assiduous study anew, and before many seasons mastered an impressive repertoire.

Dance of the Apprentices from "Die Meistersinger" (Wagner)

IT WAS long supposed that Handel, in disfavor with George I of England, wrote his "Water Music" to ingratiate himself with that monarch when he made stately parade down the Thames in a royal barge. That was in 1715. However, reliable musicologists tell us that the composition was not created until 1717.

Richard Maxwell, singer-philosopher on CBS, with five charter members of initial group, to form a chapter in the national "Good Neighbors" association

GOOD NEIGHBORS WANTED

IF YOU HAVE DESIRED TO HELP SOMEONE, AND DIDN'T KNOW JUST HOW TO GO ABOUT IT, LISTEN WEDNESDAY

ON WEDNESDAY morning at nine o'clock EST, one of the most unique and heart-warming programs ever broadcast goes on the air. It restores faith in humanity, proves the innate goodness of man in a world beset by trouble, and shows conclusively that the milk of human kindness hasn't curdled, as many are prone to think.

At that time listeners-in will hear Richard Maxwell, CBS tenor-philosopher, talk to a group who will form the first chapter in a nation-wide Good-Neighbor Club. At that time, too, the early American tradition that everyone's a neighbor whose chimney smoke can be seen from your doorway will be voiced in a new way on the radio.

For over a year now, this singer-philosopher of the air has been seeking out good neighbors and broadcasting the stories of their deeds from Coast to Coast. His program has created so much interest that thousands of letters have come to him asking how the writers might help others less fortunate than themselves.

Last week Mr. Maxwell asked his listeners whether they would like to have him form a national good-neighbor club, with chapters from New York to California, from Maine to Florida. He suggested "Your Neighbors" as the organization's subtitle, and described a simple plan of procedure.

"You may qualify for a Good Neighbor Club," he said then, "first by having the desire to do something for others, and second by getting two or more together ready to begin. But you may obtain your charter upon application to me only after actually doing something for one or more of your neighbors, either individually or collectively."

The immediate response to that broadcast was tremendous. Not only that, but a group of young people in Brooklyn, New York, came to Maxwell's office, eager to form a chapter under his good-neighbor banner and guidance. And on Wednesday morning, five of their number will be heard on the radio when they come to him for advice on organizing and to receive their charter.

FROM the content of written responses, Maxwell has drawn suggestions for the National Association of Neighbors. He believes that there should be a regular election of officers, in order to look after the business of the organization, which in addition to other duties would also edit the Good Neighbor Guide, official club paper.

The club paper he outlines as a record of activities to be printed, typed, or mimeographed for the use of club members and for himself so that he may take from it special ideas, mention them on the air, and pass them along to other chapters.

As to club dues, Maxwell contends that they should be as small as possible in money; in effort, as great as possible.

Local conditions should determine the plan of things to do, but Mr. Maxwell suggests ten ideas from which one might be drawn to meet the needs in special communities. Among them he lists:

Visit the elderly and the shut-ins. Carry out a local toy drive for the poor children at Christmas, enlist the help of local organizations to help you. Care for a poor family. Send books and flowers to the ill and lonely. Carry cheer and comfort wherever you may go.

Maxwell, who inaugurated the policy of dedicating one of his programs each week to those who are serving humanity in large and small ways, has found the majority of his good neighbors through radio listeners who have written to describe the work of people in their own communities.

To date, this singer-philosopher has honored fifty good neighbors, including nineteen men, twenty-four women, one little girl, an entire town, and five deceased persons whose good deeds were so outstanding that they are still remembered.

One that struck a responsive chord in the hearts of all who heard it was the good-neighbor work of seven-year-old Mariana Huntington of Port Washington, New York. Marianna had determination enough to do credit to anyone. When she decided to earn enough money to send a poor child to summer camp, nothing could stop her. She started out by earning small sums through hand-printing and distributing a weekly newspaper in her community, even established her own route. For a time it appeared as though she might be able to send only a tenth of a child to camp, so she looked about for new ways to earn money.

Undaunted, she went berrying, dug for little-neck clams, and weeded and watered gardens. Just before the end of the summer, Marianna had earned the last penny needed to complete the fund.

When pressed for an explanation, her parents said that they made it a point to suggest constructive activities for her; that they believe all active children can be interested in doing worthwhile things just as easily as playing aimlessly.

More than half a century separates the good-neighbor case of Marianna from that of Reverend and Mrs. C. Markert of "Faith Mission," Crystal Beach, Florida, but it's even more remarkable. The Markerts, both sixty-two, have the largest family in the world—seventy-seven children, only two of whom are their own flesh and blood.

UNLIKE the old woman who lived in a shoe, the Markerts know just what to do. They direct the work of thirteen volunteers and expert teachers, contributing their time and effort to the welfare and training of one-homeless children who have found a permanent home with the Markerts at Faith Mission. From others interested in the work of the mission comes food. Dental care and medical aid are donated. And seldom is a child missing from the dinner-table because of ill health.

NEW YORK.—The new show with the music of Andre Kostelanetz and Kay Thompson's Choir is slated to start in January over CBS with the possibility of Walter O'Keefe being added as comic and emcee . . . The "Monday Night Show," with Boswell-Youngman and Himber, becomes a Wednesday night airing starting this week. It will follow the Texaco show . . . Muriel Wilson and her husband, Fred Hufsmith, are singing on the Gilbert and Sullivan opera series over NBC Tuesday nights . . . Tommy Dorsey's Wednesday night cigarette program will originate in the hotel he plays at . . . Buddy Clark, playing at the Paramount Theater in New York, was billed in the ads as "star of the Hit Parade." Buddy lost his job on this program a few days before opening in the theater . . . While on the subject of Hit Parade, I'd like to bet Fredda Gibson can sing "A-Tisket A-Tasket" in her sleep. She only had to sing it on the program for twelve consecutive weeks . . . Benny Goodman will play at an illustrated lecture at Town Hall on December 14. The speaker will be Prof. John Erskine . . . Additional concert dates for Jessica Dragonette. On December 13 the songstress will appear at the Clark University in Worcester, Mass. January 11 she sings in Duluth, Minn., and two days later will be in Grand Rapids, Michigan.

A few Saturday nights ago, Tommy Riggs did his broadcast while in great pain. He was suffering from a badly impacted wisdom tooth which became infected after an extraction . . . I don't know whether this was directly responsible for it, at any rate, a few days later Tommy took out a $25,000 15-year endowment insurance policy . . . Barbara Weeks, who is "Her Honor, Nancy James," went off and got married on Saturday, November 26, to Carl Frank, who is heard as Arch Hadley on "Your Family and Mine" and also announces "The Good Will Hour" over Mutual They had a one-day honeymoon, as he had to be back to work Sunday and she had to be at the studios early Monday morning . . . Mrs. Lew White, frau of the organist on "Her Honor, Nancy James," is expecting a visit from the stork sometime in February . . . Because Eddie Cantor has decided to stay in New York until early in January, Walter Woolf King wired his wife in California to come east so that she can be with him for Christmas . . . While Lud Gluskin was in New York with Al Jolson recently, he had to do some last-minute wiring to his frau in California. While I was in an office at CBS, Gluskin walked in and was reminded by an efficient secretary that the following day was his wife's birthday. He admitted that he had forgotten it and ran out immediately to buy a gift and send a wire of congratulations.

Marge, Myrt's air partner, has just completed courses of instruction in Spanish and German and is now tackling French . . . Announcer Andre Baruch won first prize at the amateur cooking contest for men. WOO! WOO! . . . Announcers Fred Utall and Dan Seymour should compete in a double-talking contest. While riding in a CBS elevator the other afternoon, they were driving a veddy pretty lass a wee bit screwy with their crazy conversation . . . Hobbyist Dave Elman should ask "Aunt Jenny" to show him the letter she got from that Tampa, Florida, woman asking for a button. The lady enclosed a newspaper clipping showing a picture of herself with her collection of 40,000 buttons . . . Two RADIO GUIDE readers have crashed Tin Pan Alley. One, a railroad worker, Fred D. Moser of New Castle, Pa., wrote a tune, "On a Blind Date With You," which was introduced on the Paul Whiteman show by Joan Edwards. The writer is doing his own songplugging and many bandleaders have promised to play the tune in the near future. The other songwriter is Arch Dewing, a pharmacist of Centreville, Md. "Am I Forgiven" is the title of his number.

A few weeks ago CBS added a new announcer to their staff. His name is Jim Fleming and he hails from Chicago, having worked at WGN. A week after he started his duties he was one among several of the network's ace announcers to be auditioned for the new Bob Benchley program. To make a long story short, my good friend Marty Gosch, who produces the program, told me Fleming was selected for the job despite the fact that program execs thought his voice was that of another announcer. It's a lucky break for Fleming and this department wishes him continued success. But what some of us can't understand is this: Several weeks before Fleming joined CBS a former colleague of his at WGN in Chicago came to New York and went up to CBS seeking a job. He was told that only announcers working for stations affiliated with the networks could be considered, and now he's wondering how Fleming got his job.

On Thanksgiving Day, the CBS "Americans at Work" program featured interviews with L. W. Cramer and Forest Mather, two men who make their living by raising and selling turkeys. In appreciation of the invitation to participate in the program, each man sent CBS producer Leon Levine a big turkey. Mr. Levine also produces "The People's Platform" program heard on Sunday nights. That's the program where the participants partake of a hearty meal in Prexy William Paley's private dining-room before going on the air with their informal discussions. In case you haven't guessed it by now, the guests enjoyed a delicious turkey for their dinner last Sunday night.

The following wire from Lanny Ross was received by your reporter twenty-four hours before the announcement that he was to join the Hit Parade show: "Why bother with guys that work? Now that I'm a gentleman of leisure, come over and see how the other half lives, next Tuesday afternoon."

Lanny and his frau both assured me that they didn't know anything about the contract when the wire was sent—and who am I to doubt them? Nevertheless, his host of admirers and I say, "Welcome back, Lanny, and long may you sing and be a hit on the Saturday night Hit Parade over the Columbia Broadcasting System."

Your reporter recently spent a rainy Saturday night in bed suffering from a bad cold, with a radio by his side. Listening to Joe E. Brown's effort to entertain didn't help remedy the situation. The program is sadly lacking in humor . . . Took Fred Waring's program which is rightfully called "The shortest half-hour in radio" to make me forget my ailment. It's so good, I wonder if the other programs aired at the same time have any listeners at all. In appreciation of this grand program, I sent out to the drug store for the sponsor's product after David Ross told all about it . . . I pop up in bed as Graham McNamee introduces the enjoyable Vox Pop show with the entertaining Parks Johnson and Wally Butterworth, who are two of the best of the interviewers . . . Switching stations to hear George Fisher offer what sounds like a poor imitation of Jimmie Fidler . . . After listening to Lanny Ross and the Raymond Scott Quintet go over in a big way on the Hit Parade, we complete our evening's loudspeaker listening. And so to bed sniffling, but awake in the morning feeling fine—thanks to Fred Waring's sponsor.

HOLLYWOOD.—"Trouble in Paradise" might be a fitting title to this sad tale of difficulties performers have been having with the new NBC studios here—and with the new CBS theater, too. The coldness of audiences to star comedians' opening program gags is charged to the cool, airy color-schemes with which the new NBC plant has been decorated, with the huge magnitude of the studio stages, and with the liveness of the walls to sounds. But if the comedians, like their audiences, had to stand waiting from thirty minutes to an hour in a long queue on the cold breeze-swept (you heard me!) outside promenade of NBC's Hollywood Radio City, they'd soon learn why their visible listeners are somewhat refrigerated. To combat the situation, Jack Benny demanded another row of seats to be placed in his studio between the former first row and the stage apron so that he could better feel and work with his public; comedian-writer Morey Amsterdam has redoubled his efforts to amuse the "Good News" spectators before the broadcast begins; Bob Hope clowns and "peddles" candy bars to his audience, and Al Pearce, whose eastern broadcast goes on the air at five p.m., Pacific time, to a starving as well as freezing audience, is contemplating passing out chicken sandwiches before his show begins! . . . Over at CBS, Gracie Allen, Joe E. Brown, Jack Haley and Joe Penner felt strange on the stage and couldn't figure out why until George Burns' partner said it was the lack of footlights. These were installed, and immediately public as well as performers reacted with bigger and better laughs.

Hmmm, Hmmm Dept.: Major reason "Scissor-bill" Barney Grant was guest of the November 17 Vallee hour was to test public reaction to him as a possible regular on the Kellogg program to originate here after the first of the year. Personally, your reporter feels that Judy, Annie and Zeke mess up the Sunday air enough without the addition of any more hill, scissor or gas bills . . . Rudy Vallee's surprise 15-year-old singing discovery aired Thanksgiving Day is really Earleyne Schools. Over at the Goldwyn movie lot, where Rudy met her, the miss is under contract and has been using the name Jane Warren . . . "One Man's Family" isn't quite over its scare yet. Right after a recent broadcast, little Joan (Aleanor Taylor) Lacey broke out with scarlet fever. The Family had visions of being quarantined in their NBC studio, until the diagnosing physician assured them Joan hadn't reached the contagious stage . . . Another ailing star is Irene Rich, who returned from a "healthful" Palm Springs spree, where she caught her worst cold in years. Irene has crossed off the desert sun in favor of sulphur and molasses (and grape juice, of course) . . . Speaking of Palm Springs, the recent trip there together of Alice Faye and hubby Tony Martin should rest those rift rumors awhile . . . Most interesting Hollywood airmance of the week is that of Chesterfield's Paul Douglas with Joan Valerie . . . After Jesse Lasky's "Gateway to Hollywood" CBS program gets under way January 8, someone's face may be pink if the KHJ-Don Lee network slaps down a damage suit based on prior use and copyright of the title. Even the program idea has its similarities to the old Don Lee series!

Faith and a great Thanksgiving Day it was for the Crosby twins, Phillip and Denis, whose twin cousins, Catherine and Dolores, came down from Spokane, Washington, with their dad, Ed J. (Ted) Crosby, and older sister Patricia to be served their turkey breast by Uncle Bing. Everyone at the festive board had a fine time, what with stuffing themselves and pointing at the pillow on which Uncle sat—for it seems that Uncle Bing, the weekend before, while cutting ice capers at the Polar Palace for the amusement of the twins, tried one too many fancy figures and wound up sitting on the ice with the point of one of his skates buried three stitches deep in his thigh.

Thanksgiving suggests Indians, and Indians suggest the odd guest recently presented by Hal Styles over the West Coast Don Lee network during his "Help Thy Neighbor" job-finding program. He was Chief White Eagle, 57-year-old Yaqui athlete who sought work. Shown a pawn-ticket reading "Ten dollars advanced on one Indian chief head-dress," Styles opined, "Gee, you must be discouraged." "Yeah," grunted Little Chief, "since squaw killed in auto accident, me have no one for bosom friend," whereupon the redman pulled a nine-foot rattlesnake from under his beaded shirt and plunked it down on the microphone desk, sending the studio audience into near panic!

Turkey day was the twentieth anniversary of Conrad Nagel, Silver Theater narrator, as a screen actor. A score of years ago, he began work on a silent film version of "Little Women" . . . Silver Theater, incidentally, has found it a paying policy to support its film-name dramatic stars with capable, experienced radio actors and actresses rather than other movie players. The combination of Fredric March with Lurene Tuttle, Margaret Sullavan with Bill Goodwin, Franchot Tone with Rita Johnson, and Ginger Rogers with Jack Arnold, former Myrt and Marge star, will be followed by Paula Winslowe supporting Clark Gable at his request. The Silver Theater plays have been greatly strengthened by the work of the radiowise actors.

HOLLYWOOD SHOWDOWN

BY EVANS PLUMMER

Having read with interest the optimistic remarks by RCA's David Sarnoff, the less enthusiastic, in fact cautious, statements by West Coast's NBC chief, Don Gilman, and the unvarnished pessimistic comments by Zenith Radio's Commander E. F. McDonald, Jr., on the subject of television's arrival, your reporter became television-conscious again (he was ten years ago, too). So, when the sixth district radio amateurs convened here a fortnight ago, he decided to prowl with them and attend the demonstration of what kind of a show television "lookers" might see . . . Well, a lady with rather comic features and three old hats twisted these into an impersonation of a woman's club meeting, a cute little girl tap-danced, a second ditto toe-danced, and a clown known as Jo-Jo played a miniature piano and amused once-over-slightly in a turn with his gal partner, who did a stiff-jointed-doll act . . . Me, I think I'll stick to my loudspeaker and the funny papers.

However, television fodder indeed will be mugging Jack Haley and his stooge, Artie Auerbach, whose catch-phrase, "Could be," has been borrowed as the title of a new popular song. It's surprising, indeed, that the movies haven't grabbed off Artie and signed him to a long-term contract. On the same show, too, is the clever comedienne Lucille Ball and the charming songstress Virginia Verrill, who'll be a treat for anyone's televisor. In fact, it's hard to believe that television wouldn't help the shows of Joe E. Brown, Joe Penner, Edward Robinson, Al Jolson, Charlie McCarthy, Al Pearce, Eddie Cantor, "Good News," Texaco Theater and other broadcasts with definite visual appeal.

Flicker Flick: Jack Benny's "Rochester" will be screen valet again in the M-G-M picture "Honolulu," starring Burns & Allen and Robert Young.

On Stage

CHICAGO.—At heart all radio actors have ambitions to appear before the footlights. No matter how popular they may be on the air, they still like to hear that applause which follows a successful stage performance. So it was that when the Chicago Mummers—a little-theater group directed by Sherman Marks—gave a performance of "The Masque of Kings," four Chicago radio Thespians were in the cast. The vehicle, a Broadway failure, was a miserable choice, but nonetheless one radio actor stood out head and shoulders above the rest of the cast—both those from the radio and those from the legitimate stage. He was Ray Johnson, whom you know on the air as the mysterious Ellis Smith in "The Guiding Light," as the lead in "Forest Rangers," and as Mr. Marston in "Madame Courageous." In the play he took the part of Emperor Franz Josef. Other radio people in the play were Toni Gilman (Betty Adams in "Women in White"), who was the Baroness Vetsera; Don C. Merrifield (Arnold Grimm in "Arnold Grimm's Daughter"), who was the Archduke John of Tuscany, and Butler Mandeville, who played Count Taafe. Francis X. Bushman, now appearing in numerous Chicago script shows, will play the lead in the next Mummers' play, "The Bishop Misbehaves."

Talent Hunt

On New Year's Day, the Chicago gum manufacturer now sponsoring "The Laugh Liner" will replace it with "Gateway to Hollywood," the talent-hunt radio program which your Tattler discussed several weeks ago. Here are details of the contest being held in conjunction with the program: Jesse Lasky, famous movie producer, and his scouts are now combing the country for unrecognized talent. Lasky will select a girl and a boy from each of several geographical sections and send them to Hollywood, where they will be put through intensive training before appearing on the air. On each of the weekly programs, two contestants will appear in the leading roles of a short play written especially for the program. They will be supported by well-known RKO movie players. Every four weeks there will be a semi-final elimination, during which Lasky and his judges will choose the boy and girl who have shown the greatest aptitude for acting. At the end of twelve weeks a board of five judges famous in the movie world will pick the two final winners—one boy and one girl. The winners will be given the names of Gale Storm and Richard Belmont, and will be starred in a full-length feature picture to be made by RKO.

Murder by a Mike

Every time a show wants to get a higher rating in surveys, a good murder can usually be depended on to turn the trick. Thus it was not surprising, in the episode of "Backstage Wife" your Tattler witnessed, to find the heroine, Mary Noble, in jail awaiting trial for not one murder but two. Two principal characters in the show were Mary Noble, expertly played by Vivian Fridell, and her husband, Larry Noble, a Broadway matinee idol, played by Ken Griffin. Griffin wears his hat while he broadcasts, and I understand he always does this on all his shows. Miss Fridell is one actress who needn't be afraid of television—she's as lovely a heroine as anyone would care to see. Character actor John Walsh, a big, burly fellow with a "mean" voice, brutally quizzes Miss Fridell in the script. He not only sounds like a tough police official but actually looks like one. Incidentally, tough roles are Walsh's specialty, and he probably plays more "heavies" in Chicago script shows than any other actor in town. Producer Maurice Lowell of "Mary Marlin" came into the control-room to watch producer Blair Walliser handle "Backstage Wife." Lowell had his thumb bandaged, and it developed he had neglected a cut until it became infected.

What's Become of—

Tony Wons, famous for his "Are you listenin'—huh?" is now making his home about fifty miles north of Chicago in Kenosha, Wisconsin. Tony makes fiddles in an old barn which he has converted into a workshop. Another pair of old-timers, Gene and Glenn, recently visited Tony, and though Gene wanted to buy a violin, Tony refused to sell. But when the boys were leaving, Tony gave them one of his best fiddles as a parting gift.

Helen Stevens Fisher, who was on the air for nine years as the "Little Lady of the House" in the "National Farm and Home Hour," is author of a new book, "Party Fun," which will be out before the first of the year. Miss Fisher, now working for a Chicago publicity firm, Ferris and Livingstone, incorporated all the games she presented over the air in her new book.

Organic Theme

Last week we spoke of "The Guiding Light." Here's a little behind-the-scenes item concerning that show: It was the 466th episode that your Tattler saw, but Bernice Yanacek, NBC organist, who plays the theme song, Gietzl's "Aphrodite," has never seen the show! She is in another studio. Miss Yanacek has a script with her and hears the show with earphones. As a double check, in the control-room producer Howard Keegan tells engineer Charles Butler to "take it away, organ," and the engineer, via a wire connection, tells Miss Yanacek, "organ." Thus the theme song of "The Guiding Light" program goes on and off, just as if the organist were in the same studio as the cast.

Tattler's Tidbits

Exclusive! Here's why you no longer hear prospective brides and grooms on Eddie Cantor's show. A Chicago actress, Jeanne Spencer, claims she submitted the very same idea to a Chicago station about three years ago. To avoid the possibility of a suit, Cantor is not interviewing the couples. At this writing the matter had not been straightened out . . . Arch Oboler, famous writer, called up; he was in town to see his alma mater, the University of Chicago, get trounced by the western team now coached by the Midway's grand old man, Coach Stagg. Oboler is now busy with a legit show, "Dr. Croton," scheduled for early Broadway production. Also plans on writing adaptations of Satevepost Mr. Tutt stories for Walter Huston . . . Why were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Novis, Harlow Wilcox and Cecil Underwood bowling on Chicago's North Side one Friday at 5 a.m.? . . . Irna Phillips is Hollywood-bound. She has a scenario in mind for Gale Page. Miss Page, once a singer at NBC, got her first radio dramatic role in one of Miss Phillips' shows, "Today's Children" . . . Latest New York actress to come to town is Gail Henshaw, who was heard in "Big Sister" and other New York programs. Miss Henshaw is now appearing on Edgar A. Guest's program, "It Can Be Done" . . . Janet Logan of "Romance of Helen Trent" and Catherine McCune of "Scattergood Baines" have moved into a near-North Side apartment and are busy redecorating it.

Scoop: Your Tattler has learned that an advertiser is "hot" for "Kaltenmeyer's Kindergarten." A free picture was offered, in Chicago only, over WMAQ, and if an avalanche of mail results, it may be that K. K. may be a sponsored show shortly after this hits print.

... A Ceaseless Search, an Unquenched Thirst for Knowledge ...

Educators Test Disk Value to Classroom Work

Franklin Dunham (see center column) made the following statement* recently: "National network programs cannot possibly fit the varied curricular of the schools of this country. Neither can they fit the changes in time zones, nor frequently the schedules of subjects within the schools themselves. We have all recognized for some time that local programs, or at least zone programs, can best fit this particular need."

Dr. Dunham is absolutely correct. It is not possible, speaking generally, to blend Coast-to-Coast network broadcasts with the various schedules and needs of all the nation's classrooms at the same hour of the day. To his statement may we add that in many cases broadcasts useful to the classrooms but not expressly prepared for them are broadcast over the networks at a time when classes are not in session. These obstacles are not cause enough to pass up entirely many of the excellent network broadcasts that could serve a vital need in classrooms.

Treatment by local or zone broadcast, using recordings of the network programs at an hour suited to the particular needs of the community, is the answer to this perplexing question. Here is one phase of radio-educational work that is possessed with unlimited possibilities but with which relatively little has been done so far.

To test the value of recordings as a supplement to regular classroom work, experiments are being carried on in high schools in and around Columbus, Ohio, and Detroit, Michigan, by the Federal Theater Project and education officials. The FTP-Columbia series, "Men Against Death," currently being broadcast over CBS stations on Saturday nights, is being used in this test by Ohio State University's department for the evaluation of school broadcasts. This series is an example of a commendable educational program that comes on the air at a time when classes are not in session.

West Coast Professor Makes Lively Approach to Geology

An excellent example of the high caliber educational programs and program ideas being presented by the State College of Washington is a weekly fifteen-minute series, "Geology in the News." Ralph L. Lupher, associate professor of paleontology at the college, explains and interprets the geological news that appears in the daily newspapers, enlarges upon it, giving the history, causes, and scientific explanation of the events described. The series is designed to give listeners a better understanding of such things, quite common in the West, as earthquakes, landslides and land formations, while they are still fresh in the minds of the public.

KWSC, located in Pullman, Washington, is the State College of Washington's own station. Six days a week, from 6:45 a.m. to 10 p.m., it services listeners with top-notch educational features.

Dr. Franklin Dunham supervises NBC's vast educational activity

LIKE a fleet of ships venturing into strange, uncharted waters, broadcasters, skeptical and timid, entered the field of radio-education. Realization was sudden but definite that the age-worn principles and techniques that guided educators since the day of the first classroom were not by themselves sufficient for the educational radio program. Groping in a sea that was at times friendly but more often turned in fury against them, broadcasters were confused, to say the least. Every new move had to be made without the benefit of precedent. Today, as the National Broadcasting Company looks back at the progress it made during these hectic years, the finger of credit points to one man who, more than any other, is responsible for guiding their ship to the prime position it now holds in the field of radio-education. The man who captained their ship through these trying times was Dr. Franklin Dunham.

Scanning his unusual record, we find, in the years he has been associated with radio, officiating in a unique position as NBC's educational director, that he has lent impetus to many programs that today are universally recognized for their educational merit. Many of these programs he originated himself, others he endowed with qualities that gave them national appeal. Of the NBC network programs that rendered great service and furthered the reputation of educational broadcasting under the critical supervision of Dr. Dunham, the following list includes some of the most outstanding:

"Our American Schools (NBC-National Education Association).

Answer Me This (NBC-U. S. Office of Education), first quiz program testing general knowledge.

"Time for Thought (NBC-Federal Council of Churches), daily program of religious inspiration.

Music in the Air, piano lessons, to prove that radio actually could teach a subject in the home.

"Science Everywhere (NBC-American Association for the Advancement of Science).

Evidence is abundant, in this list of programs Dunham has fathered, of his policy of arranging broadcasts in co-operation with recognized educational, religious and public-service organizations—a policy that has helped to keep NBC's educational programs under the jurisdiction of authorities best prepared to understand the needs of an audience, larger by millions than any ever faced by a teacher, and, at the same time, in the hands of radio experts who, in their turn, were best qualified to blend the technical and artistic details concerned with the presentation of a broadcast.

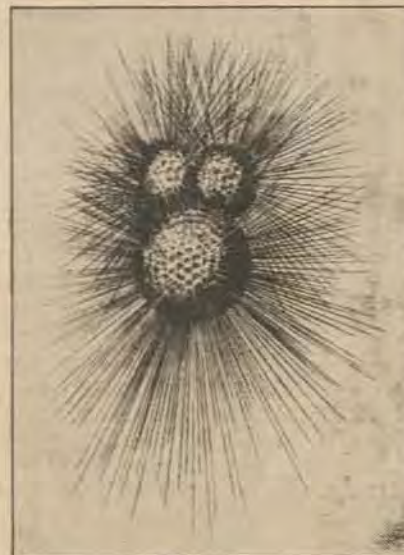

The first charts for navigating this new realm are being outlined by Dunham and other contemporary pioneers in this work. Using these charts, future generations will be able to further exploit radio's possibilities as a means of educating far beyond anything we can imagine today.

WHAT IS IT?

IT'S ALIVE. It moves. It breathes. It eats. But what is it? Listen to "The World Is Yours" Sunday to learn about the great abundance of minute animal life that surrounds us, the economic value of these tiny creatures, the purposes they serve during their short lives and after death. In the drawing is pictured one of the members of the large and varied class of unicellular marine animals known as foraminifera, the skeletons of which make up the immense deposits of chalk.

Tune in Sunday over NBC at 4:30 p.m. EST, 3:30 CST, 2:30 MST, 1:30 PST.

Radio Guide's Educational Program Classifier will appear in the issue for the Week Ending December 17

Notes

Appreciation . . .

Day after day, reading about radio-education or writing about it, this burning question has visited often: After all the to-do about radio in education, is it really appreciated and used by those for whom it is intended? A recent notice from station WLW provided answer to this ever-mysterious aspect of radio work. Let's hope it typifies the feeling of adults and students toward radio-education.

A little country school outside of Connersville, Indiana, has no radio, but Mrs. Dewey N. Border, who lives in a farmhouse near by, offers the use of hers. Here teachers and students from the school gather and listen to the daily WLW-MBS feature "The Nation's School of the Air."

In a letter to Joseph Ries, WLW-WSAI educational director, Mrs. Border wrote:

"Do you folks who arrange 'School of the Air' know what that program means to a lot of us who are not 'school-kids'? I am a busy mother who has little time for outside interests, but I do find time to hear your programs. My daughter, age seven, has benefitted greatly from your programs for the last several years. 'School of the Air' was the first program she became interested in. In vocabulary and general information she is way ahead of the other children in her class who have not had access to the 'School of the Air.'"

We hope we are right in assuming that there are other schools, country and city, where the benefits of radio-education are so realized, and other real helpers like Mrs. Border of Connersville, Indiana.

Out of the Dark . . .

What holds promise of being an extremely interesting and enlightening book is one being prepared by a former advertising man, James Rorty, and his wife, Winifred Raushenbush. It will include the study being made of news and commentators by the Princeton Radio Research Project, Federal Communications Commission reports, and a number of surveys. Here we may get answers to some of the mysteries of radio work: To what do they listen? Who listens? Why do they listen? What affects the public—newspapers or radio? The book is expected to be completed by the first of the year and probably will be published in the spring.

Newcomer . . .

The University of New Hampshire joined the fast-growing list of educational institutions doing radio work when it went on the air recently with a daily program over station WHEB, in Portsmouth, New Hampshire. This venture will be on an experimental basis for six months, after which time if the reception is satisfactory and there is a demand for continuance, it will become a permanent daily service. News, activity of the university, music, dramatics, and extension service to farmers and housewives are being presented. Despite the fact that it has been proven conclusively over a period of years that institutions like the above-mentioned can render much-needed services to the inhabitants of their state, there are comparatively few states in which this help is given.

FRIENDS OF YOURS

—Jack Albin

Al Jolson and Ruby Keeler (Mrs. Al) celebrated their tenth wedding anniversary by giving a party for their radio and personal friends in the Blue Room of Hollywood's Trocadero. Place was decorated with tubs, tin pans and posies for the affair

—Charles Seawood

"Let's Go Hollywood." Al Pearce in the role of Elmer Blurt, low-pressure salesman, shows you how he does it. Al and His Gang take you on a tour of Movietown, via popcorn-cheese route on Mondays

Newcomers to the cast of "One Man's Family" are Hank Herbert (Bobby Larson) and Joan Lacey (Aleanor Taylor), both six-year-olds. Too young to read radio scripts, the kids memorize their roles for the show, heard Sundays and Wednesdays on NBC

—Walter Selig

CBS singer on the Ben Bernie program Sundays is Robert Gibson. Once a page-boy, Bob's now a crooner. Nan Wynn, also CBS singer, is known as "Mistress of Song." She's heard Monday afternoons

WE ARE ALL ON TRIAL

escape. Escape was out of the question, anyhow.

"Herr von Rath died on Wednesday. And on Thursday every Jew in Germany was held responsible for this boy's deed. In every city an organized and methodical mob was turned loose on the Jewish population. Synagogues were burned, shops were gutted and sometimes looted. At least four people were done to death. Many, many more were beaten. Scores killed themselves. In cold blood the German government imposed a fine of $400,000,000 on the entire Jewish community, and followed it by decrees which mean total ruin for all of them.

"A horrified world was stunned. In the United States nearly every newspaper protested. A former governor, Alfred Smith, and the recent candidate for New York state governor, Thomas Dewey, protested with unusual eloquence.

"But in Paris, a boy who had hoped to make some gesture of protest which would call attention to the wrongs done his race burst into hysterical sobs. Up to then he had been apathetic. He had been prepared to pay for his deed with his own life. Now he realized that half a million of his fellows had been sentenced to extinction on the excuse of his deed.

"But I am speaking of this boy. Soon he will go on trial. The news is that on top of all this terror, this horror, one more must pay. They say he will go to the guillotine.

"The world has endured for five years unheard-of things. The fortunes of American citizens have been all but confiscated in Germany. We have protested, and no attention has been paid. What could we do? Some weeks ago some two hundred American citizens of Jewish blood were ordered to close their businesses and depart from Italy as undesirable aliens. Our State Department protested, but the protest has been all but ignored. What could we do? Every country in the world has had a refugee problem to add to all its others, as a result of a system which cares nothing for what happens to other countries, and we among them. What could we do?

"We could, of course, do many things. There are half a million non-naturalized Germans in the United States and as many Italians. We might have loaded them on boats, confiscated their property and shipped them home. There are hundreds of thousands of dollars in German and Italian fortunes in this country. We might have confiscated them as reprisals for the confiscated fortunes of American citizens and for unpaid debts. Why don't we do it?

"We don't do it because it isn't, according to our standards, decent. We don't do it because we refuse to hold people responsible for crimes that others commit. We don't do it because our sense of justice is still too strong to answer terror with terror. We don't do it because we do not want to add to the hatred and chaos which is already making this world intolerable. We feel that violence breeding violence will destroy us all, in the long run.

"When the dictators commit what to the rest of the world are crimes, they say there is a higher justice—they claim the justification of national necessity and emergency. We do not think that that justice is higher. We think it low to the point of revulsion, and cannot therefore answer it in its own language.

"But is there not a higher justice in the case of Herschel Grynszpan, seventeen years old? Is there not a higher justice that says that this deed has been expiated with $400,000,000 and half a million existences with beatings and burnings and deaths and suicides? Must the nation whose Zola defended Dreyfuss until the world rang with it cut off the head of one more Jew?

"Who is on trial in this case? I say we are all on trial. I say the Christian world is on trial. I say the men of Munich are on trial, who signed a pact without one word of protection for helpless minorities.

"Herschel Grynszpan will be tried by a French jury. But nothing will be able to prevent his being tried by the jury of world opinion. Whether he lives or not won't matter much to Herschel. He was prepared to die when he fired those shots. His young life was already ruined. Since then his heart has been broken into bits by the results of his deed. Isn't it enough?

"I would like to be one of the millions to try to save this boy's life—not because I condone any act of violence but because, like millions of others, I am sick at heart of violence. They say a man is entitled to trial by a jury of his peers, and a man's kinsmen rally around him when he is in trouble. But no kinsman of Herschel's can defend him. No man of his race anywhere in the world can defend him. The Nazi government has announced that if any Jews anywhere in the world protest at anything that is happening further oppressive measures will be taken. They are holding every Jew in Germany as a hostage.

"Therefore, we who are not Jews must speak, speak our sorrow and indignation and disgust in so many voices that they will be heard. This boy has become a symbol, and the responsibility for his deed must be put by the jury of world opinion, where it belongs. If you are not Jewish and you feel as I do, I ask you to wire or write me in care of this station."

This heart-warming and fascinating story of a faith that worked miracles began when the Markerts, missionaries to the far corners of the world, finally settled in Florida in 1923. With just $100 to their name, they rented a forty-room house, bought some necessary furniture on time, and opened a day nursery to help needy mothers. From there it was but a step to taking in homeless babies.

Today the Markert family numbers seventy-seven. Babies up to three are accepted, and once taken in they become a part of the family until they are of age. When they leave Faith Mission, it is in the secure knowledge that they will always be welcome to return. None of the children are available for adoption, since the Markerts are their legal guardians.

And certainly even Mr. Maxwell would have to go a long way to find a town like Streetsville, Ontario, Canada. When neighbor William Numan's home was destroyed by fire, the townsfolk chained six tractors to a cottage and hauled it four miles for the homeless family. Even linemen helped by moving telephone and telegraph wires to let them through railroad and highway crossings. And when the house arrived, all the women in the town fell to, house-cleaned, and arranged a house-warming party for the Numan family.

Another who merited a place on Mr.

Maxwell's honor roll of good neighbors was W. J. Warrington, an eighty-seven-year-old humanitarian of New Orleans, La. Mr. Warrington has spent sixty-four of those years and all his riches to help the needy. Turning his gracious ancestral home into a refuge for the unemployed and those in trouble, and ignoring red tape, with which he has no patience, he has given tired men beds, starving women food. At present, his efforts care for an average of 2,000 persons every twenty-four hours.

Two other programs were dedicated to John Nickerson, a truck-driver of East Boston, Massachusetts, who has turned his big back yard into an amusement spot for hundreds of children living in the same congested neighborhood, and to Mrs. N. M. G. Prange, seventy years old, of Orlando, Florida, who, in spite of fourteen years of blindness, has taught Braille free of charge to five hundred sightless men and women.

If you don't believe that folks even in this jazz-tempoed twentieth century are still pretty fine and get a true joy out of helping their fellow men, listen in when Richard Maxwell goes on the air Wednesday morning, December 7, at 9 o'clock EST. He may convince you.

Richard Maxwell may be heard Monday, Wednesday and Friday over CBS at:

EST 9 a.m. — CST 8 a.m.

RECORDS OF THE WEEK

A department reviewing the recordings of your radio favorites

Classical:

WHEN Gustav Holst taught at St. Paul's School in West London, he wrote the pleasant St. Paul's Suite for Strings for the school orchestra. Holst, who died three years ago, is best known for his suite "The Planets." This work is lighter-weight, containing four short movements—jig, ostinato, intermezzo and the dargason—all pleasant enough. The Jacques String Orchestra performs. (Columbia 17113-4. $2.)

Few more effective lullabies were ever written than the Berceuse of Stravinsky, from the suite Firebird. Nathan Milstein pays it notable tribute in his violin solo recording, with a Tchaikowsky Scherzo, edited by Zimbalist, to offer contrast on the other side. (Columbia 17115. $1.)

Chamber-music fanciers should turn cartwheels at the fat list Victor recently opened to U. S. buyers in a special imported catalog. And one of the greatest albums is a viola quintet by the master,

Brahms, played by Alfred Hobday in the second viola chair, together with the peerless Budapest String Quartet. All the power of greatness and magnitude in music are yours in this generally placid but always happy, very mature and rich masterpiece. It was written in the later years of the composer's life, on a holiday at the Austrian watering-place, Ischl, in 1882. Played magnificently. Caviar stuff. (Victor album 466. $6.50.)

Popular:

A strong Bluebird label band is the Jan Savitt Top Hatters' mob and their punchy theme song, Quaker City Jazz, together with Sugar Foot Stomp, make a neat 35c worth.

Mildred Bailey's records are ever perfect, and in Old Folks she does another good job. It is a plaintive song with considerable quality. Have You Forgotten So Soon is on the other side, a these-foolish-things-thanks-for-the-memory type. (Vocalion.)

NOTICE: The programs as presented here were as correct and as accurate as the broadcasting companies and RADIO GUIDE could make them at the time of going to press. However, emergencies that arise at the studios sometimes necessitate eleventh hour changes in program listings, time, etc.

If your favorite station is not listed at quarter or half hour periods, consult the time listings immediately preceding. The chances are that a network program of 30 or 60 minutes' duration is on the air at a quarter-hour when you do not find your station listed.

years before Shakespeare's death, is the father of French comedy and tragedy, and the author of 'The Cid,' a drama whose theme is a hero torn between love and honor. Reprimanded for his independence by his patron, Cardinal Richelieu, he produced this play in defiance of the Cardinal. Corneille was the first French dramatist to consciously delineate character.

 Subject: "Microscopic Animals." Minute life has enormous economic value since these tiny creatures furnish food supply for larger creatures. Their shells are used for designs in clay, stone and metal, as well as in the graphic and textile arts. The animal pictured in the drawing on page 14 is one of the large and varied class of unicellular marine animals known as PORAMINIFERA, the skeletons of which make up the immense deposit of chalk.

THRILLS!
TEARS!

... WHEN RADIO'S MOST NOVEL PROGRAM IS ON THE AIR!

Every Tuesday night—tune in "We, The People," and hear real people—not actors—tell the amazing stories of their personal experiences. Men, women, and children—some famous, some obscure—with firsthand tales that are hilarious, pathetic, astonishing, thrilling! Nothing like it on the air.

Sponsored by Sanka Coffee.

NEW PROGRAMS

Cavalcade of America (Dupont Company), the program that dramatizes events of importance and the lives of famous people in the history of America, begins Monday, December 5, at 8 p.m. EST. In this new "Cavalcade" series, the program will feature Thomas Hardie Chalmers, singer, actor and editor, as narrator; Gabriel Heatter, famed news reporter, as commentator, and Don Voorhees' orchestra providing the musical background.

Central City (Fleischmann Yeast), the serial that replaced the Ma Perkins morning broadcast, can be heard Mondays thru Fridays at 10:45 a.m. EST.

Playhouse (Campbell's Soup), starring Orson Welles, director and actor, who will head a new series of broadcasts featuring famous guest stars in dramatizations of plays, motion pictures and novels, will be premiered Friday, December 9, at 9 p.m. EST.

PROGRAM CHANGES

Connie Boswell-Henny Youngman-Richard Himber combination, usually heard on Monday nights, will be broadcast hereafter on Wednesday nights, starting December 7, at 10 p.m. EST.

Lanny Ross (Lucky Strike Cigarettes), who has been off the air since last March, is now the featured soloist of Your Hit Parade. This announcement is for all who have missed the first three broadcasts of the golden-voiced star. Lanny can be heard Saturday nights at 10 p.m. EST.

Model Minstrels (Model Tobacco), featuring Pick and Pat, blackface comedians, are now assisted by the Eton Boys and Ray Block's orchestra. The program, on which Edward Roecker and Benny Kreuger were formerly heard, is broadcast Mondays at 8:30 p.m. EST. Star Theater (Texaco, a dramatic musical program, changed time Wednesday, November 30. The broadcast which features John Barrymore and many other stars of the radio firmament, can be heard at 9 p.m. EST. This program was formerly at 9:30 p.m. EST.

CLOSINGS

March of Time (Life), pioneer news dramatization, is another program which left the air Friday, December 2.

The life of Desiderius Erasmus (1466-1536), great humorist and scholar of the Reformation, is Dr. Geigis' theme. Usually contrasted with Martin Luther, the other moral giant of the age, he had not Luther's militant power or religious fervor, but, unlike Luther, was a charming compound of man of the world and scholar. The medieval counterpart of today's witty, intellectual, Erasmus spent his life in an effort to correct the ecclesiastical evils of the age through teaching and writing.

Short-wave programs of American stations are shown along with the regular listings beginning on page 20. These are indicated, for example, by (sw-11.87) in parentheses following a program listing. This means that on 11.87 megacycles the same program may also be heard over an American short-wave station. Please note that foreign stations do not always adhere precisely to their announced program schedules.

On Short Waves

Edited by Chas. A. Morrison

President, International DX'ers Alliance

Times given are EST. For CST subtract 1 hour; MST, 2 hours; PST, 3 hours

DAVID SARNOFF, president of the Radio Corporation of America, in a recent speech before the Federal Communications Commission, predicted that within the next five or ten years, if political developments keep pace with scientific advances, we may hear the "voice of the world" expressed by a huge broadcasting station speaking for a future league of all nations; and the mandates of a world court or the messages of a league council may be sent to the utmost confines of the earth in a trifling fraction of a second and reach everyone everywhere.

The new Turkish transmitter, TAP (9.465), "Radio Ankara," at Ankara, Turkey, is being heard throughout the United States with excellent signals from about 1 to sign-off at 4 or 5 p.m. EST. The station carrier may be easily distinguished by the heavy hum on it. Both men and women announcers are employed and station identification is made in French, Spanish, German, Turkish and English.

Ashley Walcott of San Francisco, Calif., reports a powerful new short-wave transmitter is on the air in what is still independent China. Announcements in English, which are made every quarter-hour, are to the effect that the station is XGSA, the Kwei yang Broadcasting Station, Kweichow Province, China, operating on 43 meters (actual frequency is 7 megs). The station is on the air daily from 1 to 2 and 8 to 10:10 a.m. EST. News in English is read by a woman at 9 a.m. EST.

The new Chilean station CB970 (9.73), "Radio Populare, La Voz de Chile," at Valparaiso, operates nightly from 6:30 to 11:30 p.m. or 12 midnight EST.

SHORT-WAVE SHORTS: August Balbi of Los Angeles, Calif., writes that TPB7 (11.885) of Paris, France, has been sending test programs to Canada between 12:15 and 2 a.m. EST. . . . The new 60,000-watt short-wave transmitter in Lithuania will be testing shortly. . . . RV96 of Moscow, U. S. S. R., formerly on 15.18 megs, has shifted to a frequency of 15.27 megs where it is completely blotted out by W2XE of New York City as soon as it comes on the air at 1 p.m. EST. The Soviet transmitter on 9.52 megs, operates in parallel with RV96 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. EST. . . . Another frequency of the new Vienna, Germany, short-wave station, namely DJX (9.675), has been put into operation and may be heard daily from 10:40 a.m. to 4:25 p.m. EST. Its aerial is beamed on Africa during this period. . . . HB5J of Panama City, Panama, is at last operating very nearly on its assigned frequency of 9.59 megs. . . . The new short-wave station YNRF, "Radio Nicaraguente," of Managua, seems to be operating simultaneously on two channels, namely 8.58 and 6.74 megs. . . . W2XAA, an experimental transmitter of the Bell Telephone Company, located at Chicago, is testing irregularly throughout the day on frequencies of 8.655 and 12.862 megs. . . . Visitors to General Electric's building at the New York World's Fair next year will not only see, but will participate in television programs. The company will establish in its building a studio with a number of television receivers, camera, and transmitting equipment. . . . W9XA (26.45), owned by the Commercial Radio Equipment Company of Kansas City, Mo., relays broadcast station KITE, and features a short-wave mail-bag program daily from 12 noon to 12:15 p.m. EST. A valuable booklet is being sent to all reporting the station.

MR. FAIRFAX REPLIES

No personal replies to questions unless accompanied by stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Miss Grace M. Smith, Charles City, Ia.—Marion (Molly McGee) Jordan, wife of Jim (Fibber McGee) Jordan, was forced to leave the "Fibber McGee and Molly" program because she was suffering from a severe nervous breakdown, brought on by too much work. She was confined to a sanitarium for almost a year, but she is now well enough to be home. It will probably be a long while before "Molly" will be able to resume her radio work, because she has been advised by her physician to take a long, much-needed rest.

Miss Maxine Kanouse, Pana, Ill.—The theme song of Ozzie Nelson's orchestra is "Loyal Sons of Rutgers." Ben Bernie's opening theme is "It's a Lonesome Old Town," and in closing he uses "Au Revoir." Shep Fields has named his unusual theme song "Rippling Rhythm." Ted Weems uses a theme written especially for him by Harry Sosnik, called "Out of the Night."

Miss Nancy Bishop, Dallas, Tex.—The author of "One Man's Family" is Carleton E. Morse. His present address is NBC Studios, Hollywood, California. The theme song used on his program is "Destiny Waltz" by Sidney Baynes.

Miss Viola Turner, Payson, Ill.—"Don Winslow of the Navy" is the only network program that Ruth Barth appears on at this time. Tony Cabooch was last heard over station WHO in Des Moines, Iowa.

Miss Barbara Young, Reading, Pa.—Edward Otto Roecker was born September 24, 1914, in Merchantville, New Jersey. While still very young his musical ability asserted itself and he was given every opportunity to develop his talent. Eddie attended high school in Camden, New Jersey, and after graduating, received a music scholarship from Temple University. He graduated from Temple with a fine scholastic record, but before starting upon his career as a singer, Eddie worked a while in the Campbell Soup plant, then went to Camden's RCA-Victor company. It was while working for RCA that he really started his climb to fame by singing at local social functions. His contract for the "Pick and Pat" program expired last week, but it is rumored that he will soon be singing for a new sponsor. Eddie is a handsome red-haired bachelor, weighing 180 pounds and is six feet two inches tall. Incidentally, he doesn't like his middle name.

Mrs. H. M. Baggary, Happy, Tex.—Elizabeth Reller is a member of the cast of "Grand Central Station," she is also appearing in the current Broadway hit "Abe Lincoln in Illinois." Mary Hunter portrays the role of "Marge" in the "Easy Aces" program.

Mr. Richard Campbell, Providence, R. I.—Rachel Carlay was born in Brussels, Belgium, on May 24, 1911. She is unmarried, has brown hair, fair complexion and is five feet eight inches tall. Rachel made her American debut on Rudy Vallee's program in 1933.

Mrs. Cushing, Rockland, Mass.—Elsie Hitz and Nick Dawson, who were formerly heard on "Follow the Moon," are not broadcasting on the networks at present. We have no information as to when they will return to the air.

Mr. John G. Serena, Dayton, Ohio.—The part of "Butch," a soda-fountain clerk, on the "Win Your Lady" program, was taken by Bob Jellison. Cliff Soubier portrayed the role of Mr. Maldon. Cliff and Bob are acting in the "Story of Mary Marlin" and "Girl Alone" sketches at this time. Cliff may also be heard on the NBC "Minstrel Show."

Miss Helen A. Parkensen, New York, N. Y.—Pat Ryan, who appears on Nila Mack's "Let's Pretend" program, was born in London, England, on February 25, 1923. She has blond hair, blue eyes and a fair complexion.

Miss Ruth La Fontaine, St. Paul, Minn.—Annette King, Fran Allison, Tommye Birch, Ransom Sherman, Don McNeill and Jack Baker do not use nom de plumes but broadcast under their own names. They all live in or near Chicago.
