New Cover

Don't look now, but that picture just to the right represents our idea of a new and better cover for RADIO GUIDE. On second thought, do look now. Impress those pretty features and that red band across the top (we call it the logo-type) on your mind, and then, Thursday next, go to your newsdealer and demand the genuine article.

Readers have asked us what happens when a cover design is changed and why? Well, in this case it was spring. We felt its surge in our veins as we walked to work. Then, there were letters from readers who wanted bigger photographs, different photographs. Besides, wherever we looked in the park Mother Nature was changing her face.

Why not our own?

In short order experts were huddling over photographs and paint-pots. New designs were completed and discarded. Finally there emerged just the one we thought perfect. It gave the reader a better and bigger photograph in a simpler design that was easier to identify. So we adopted it and scheduled it for our issue dated April 1. April Fool's Day, that, but we aren't fooling. We believe this new cover is the best RADIO GUIDE has ever worn, and we believe it encloses a better RADIO GUIDE than ever before.

Now we sit back in uneasy suspense hoping with all our hearts that you agree with us, and that the imperious surge of springtime did not lead us astray that morning.

Baloney

In the recent news from Washington was the story that the American Telephone Company had invented and used for several years radio tubes which would last a lifetime. The inference was that our present radio manufacturers were a bunch of heels for forcing listeners to replace their own tubes every two years. Some busybodies with long noses and axes to grind asked us to believe that the manufacturers were monopolists engaged in bleeding the public.

But now we find that those lifetime tubes are unusable for the good reason that they would last at least fifty years, whereas the average radio receiver holds together only from five to ten years. Also those tubes would raise the price of our ten-dollar sets to thirty or forty dollars each.

This is as good a place as any to remind listeners that there usually are two sides to every story and that the wild tales of television for the nation at large or other radical changes in radio receivers are usually just so much baloney.

Jumper-Upper

We visited in a friend's home and, as the radio was on, started to tune to a favorite program. "Don't get that one," she begged. "It's a jumper-upper."

"What's a jumper-upper?" we inquired.

"It's a program in which the speeches can barely be heard when the music is right. When you tune the program up to hear the speeches, you have to jump up and turn the volume down when the music comes on."

We listened, and the lady was right. It made us wonder how many other listeners have formed the habit of avoiding those programs that are jumper-uppers. The fault lies with the engineer, of course. He can turn a dial and save our ears or our distress, but does he? As often or not, he seems to tune it the wrong way. It seems too many times that he wants to impress the listeners with the enthusiasm of the audience's applause or with the importance of the announcer's message.

Jumper-uppers, we agree with the lady, are not good for listeners and therefore not good for radio.

Is there a millionaire in the house?

The question is perfectly serious, for if there is we seek his attention for a project which, though a bit unusual, can benefit both broadcasting and that portion of the human race which listens.

Recently we pointed out the plight of the poor radio-writer. This week we return to him, for we still believe that the measure of our entertainment is only as great as the intellects employed in perfecting that entertainment.

Now, to our brain-storm. Centuries back, the rich and royal men of Europe selected promising painters, goldsmiths or musicians and endowed their work, giving them freedom from the worry of earning a living and affording them opportunity for the expansion of their talent. To some extent, the same practice is followed today; there are foundations and fellowships and scholarships supported by the wealthy, and certain artists or architects are benefiting thereby.

So now, why should not writing for radio provide a worthy field for endowment by some modern man of wealth? Today's writing for radio is exclusively commercial except for occasional flyers taken in the medium by men who have already made their mark in other fields. Today's style of radio-writing is going nowhere because it makes no pretense of being anything more than makeshift adaptations.

But the magic of words is as fresh and as amazing today as ever. If only radio's relentless hunger for "material" would give one time for thought, experiment and "impractical" excursions.

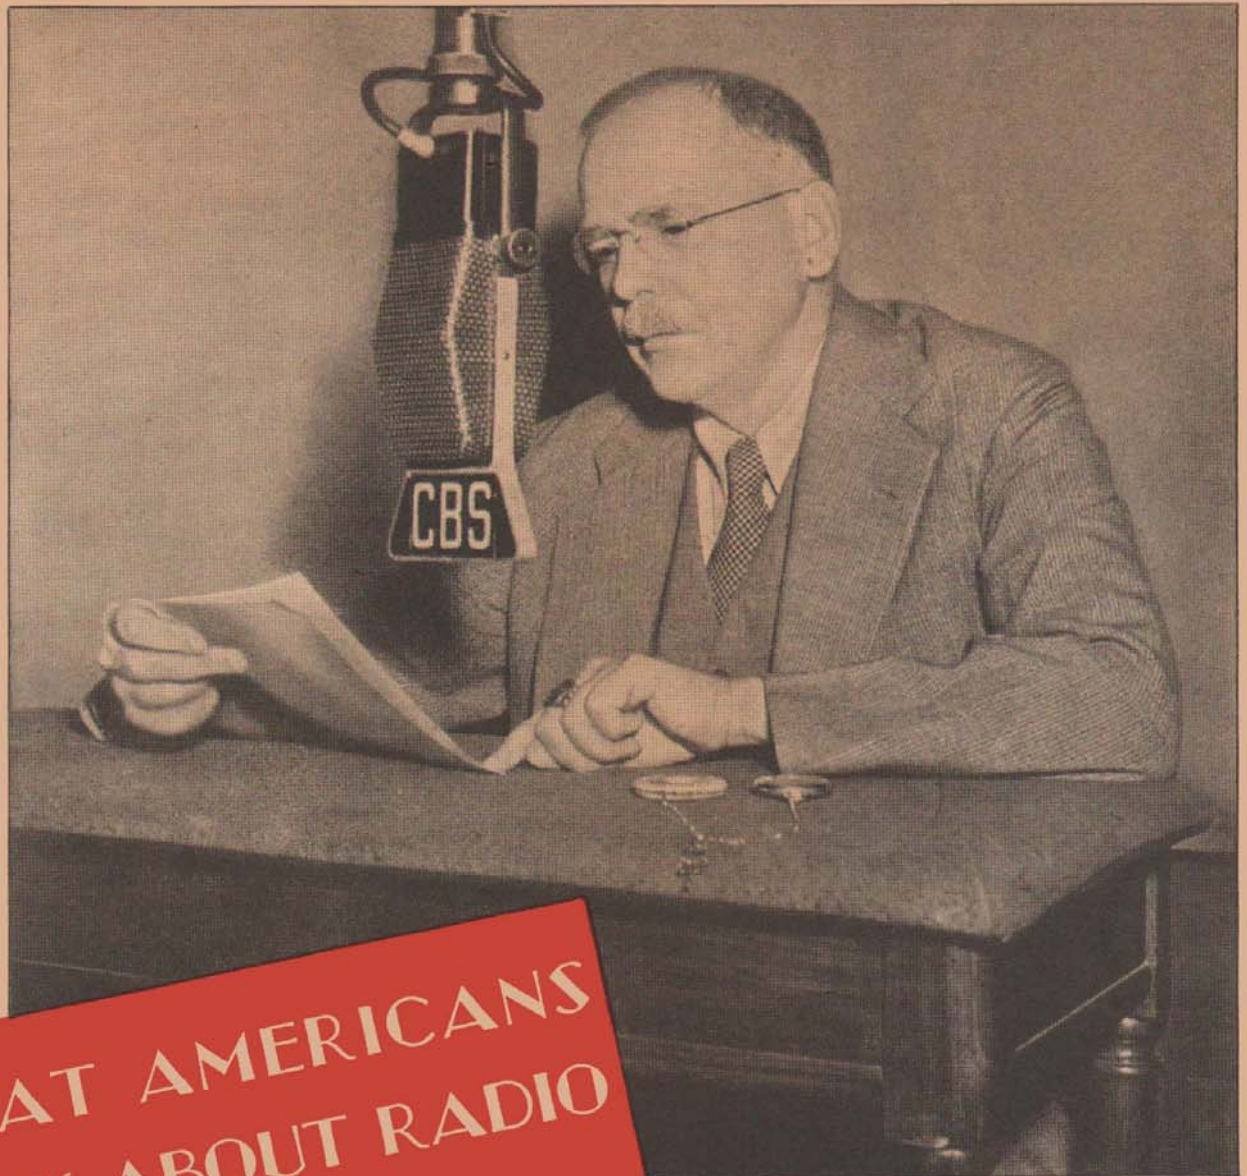

So, if there is a millionaire in the house, won't he please come forward and agree to underwrite one of the half-dozen young writers who already know the medium of radio, who are aching to do finer things, and by whom we must ultimately measure the greatness of this thing called the American system of broadcasting.

Proceed With Care

We stand behind no man in advocacy of education in radio, but we do wonder if the cause of education or radio is being well served by some of the stations which are stampeding to the cause.

We heard a dramatization the other day, presented by a big station, which would have been jeered off the stage of our own childhood Pin-and-Penny Theater.

Education in radio can benefit both education and radio, but it must be presented with the same care and showmanship that are used in presenting any other first-class program. Anything less than first-class has no business on the air, even though it bears the tag "educational."

GREAT AMERICANS THINK ABOUT RADIO

THE CHALLENGE IS REAL
BY H. V. KALTENBORN

RADIO is a blessing which we do not deny or begrudge to those in need, to the invalid, to the family with few opportunities for enlightenment or entertainment. It has become a boon to mankind which makes all that has gone into it well worth while. But we are beginning to realize that its values must be appraised wisely. We can afford to rely on its mechanical efficiency, but we must also see that such an invention finds its best purposes and uses. It is by no means automatically beneficial. Once we have familiarized ourselves with all its possibilities, for good and evil, we will be better equipped to find its true value, to find in it the means to worthier ends, to ensure the great hopes and promises mankind has set for it.

Radio has, for the first time, made all our people government-conscious. Every important figure in the Government speaks to us over the air. We get a closer knowledge of their personalities. We have an immediate, direct, personal, emotional contact with every outstanding individual in public service. Having heard him, we have much more interest in what he says and in what he does.

We are most fortunate that at a time when public education in political problems is of outstanding importance we have radio to help develop it. Democracy is being challenged all over the world. The challenge is real. When one sees the efficiency of the dictatorships, he senses the fact that they cannot be defeated by mere negation. We must learn how to develop and emphasize the positive side of our democratic institutions. We don't really know, many of us, why we believe in democracy. What a chance there is to use this magic instrument, the radio, to develop greater knowledge of democracy! Democracy is the world's only hope, the only chance for human individuality to survive. Yet the world tends more and more to become mechanized, organized, collectivized under the leadership of individuals who have lost all moral perspective. Let us, with the help of radio, educate our people to a greater knowledge of democracy and a greater belief in it. Radio stands ready and able to serve as one of mankind's greatest aids to the progress of civilization. Let it continue and increase its mission of convincing Americans that the American way of life and conduct and government is the best way and the only way of growth. Let it continue to stand as a symbol of individual freedom and of loyalty to truth. That is the service which I hope this instrument will perform in increasing measure as the years roll on.

I believe radio will fulfill that mission.

THE SAINT IS A SINNER

CONCLUDING THE
STORY OF LADY
LUCK'S FAVORITE

BY JAMES STREET

The story of Don Ameche's rise from bit radio parts to the top of the heap does not follow the trite formula of overnight transformation. In fact, it was a long, hard grind from his $60-a-week Chicago radio program to stardom in radio and movies. But with the aid of his loyal Lady Luck and, of course, hard work he made the grade Winner of practically all popularity polls as radio actor and master of ceremonies, Don Ameche herewith becomes our favorite subject of a James Street biography. We take unusual pleasure in presenting this portrait of a young man on his way to the top.

THE embroidered Hollywood saga of Signor Dominick Felix Ameche is the same old hackneyed fairy-tale that a talent scout spotted him from afar and that a twentieth-century genius grabbed a telephone, called Don, and Don grabbed his hat and shinnied up the ladder to fame. It's a nice story with only one weakness. It ain't so!

He was plugging along in Chicago with "Empire Builders," a good radio show, and pulling down his $60 a week. He wanted to sing, but his sponsors didn't want him to. They had heard him.

But he'd sing at the drop of a cocktail, and he had many opportunities. For back in 1931, when Don was first building his fame on the air, he took his fun pretty much where he found it, and he often found it in speakeasies. He didn't make much money, and he scattered all he did make at race-tracks, dice-tables and bars.

There was a "speak" near the Chicago NBC studio. The boys called it "The Gym," and often would drop by for a little workout. Mr. Ameche was among the better athletes. He was in "The Gym" one day taking a little workout, a slight bit of elbow-bending, when he suddenly got the moodies.

The old melancholia got him. It often happens to men who take too many workouts in "the gyms."

"If I could just get in the movies," Don said, and began feeling rather sorry for himself.

The more he thought about it, the more determined he was, so he paid his own way to California, was tested by M-G-M and was turned down. He returned to Chicago and radio and began taking singing-lessons.

He'd never miss an opportunity to sing. One day he was in "The Gym" and suddenly broke out with an Italian song. The Irish bartender asked if he knew "When Irish Eyes Are Smilin'."

Don rattled the rafters and the bar-keep wept. He decided Don was the greatest man in the world. He bought the drinks and put his arm around Ameche and said, "Sing it again and I'll give you my race-horse."

Ameche did it all over again, and he John Brown if that Irishman didn't produce papers that proved he did own a horse. He tried to give the nag to Don, but Ameche was sober enough to say no. But he vowed then that if he ever got rich he'd own a stable. Now he owns one.

On the "Empire Builders" program, Signor Ameche often amazed the cast with his versatility. In one episode he was required to tussle with a villain, and when the going got tough, a gun was to explode and Don was to say, "Drop that gun or I'll shoot you." The tussle was okay, but the sound-man's pistol wasn't, and it snapped instead of exploding. Old Minute-Man Ameche switched his lines and roared, "Drop that gun or I'll stab you." Just then the gun got back in working order and went off. Don had a hard time explaining that one to his fans.

Also, during the "Empire Builders" show he had to use dialects of many nationalities. It gave him invaluable training.

In 1931, "Empire Builders" collapsed and Signor Ameche was back on his uppers. He had a bit on a program called "Rin Tin Tin Thrillers" and it earned him $15 a week. He picked up a little change here and there in bits and boarded with the Bob White family to cut expenses. Many times when the Bob Whites wanted to go out for an evening, Don would stay home and mind the baby.

In 1932, when things looked blackest, he married Honore Prendergast, his first sweetheart, and right away his patroness, Old Lady Luck, took him in tow again. He was cast in "First Nighter," a very successful radio show. Next he became Bob in "Betty and Bob," and in 1934 he got an opportunity to be master of ceremonies in "Romantic Melodies" and he clicked. His sponsors let him sing, and Lady Luck and the fans did the rest.

Meanwhile, "Grand Hotel" was opened, and Ameche got the lead. Tom Oakey, a pal of Ameche, told Don he should be thinking of Hollywood, and Don said, "Yeah. They got my test."

Out on the Coast, Oakey looked at M-G-M's test and liked a part of it. 20th Century-Fox was interested, and Don flew to New York and made another test. It was pretty good and was being run through the regular Hollywood mill, which, incidentally, goes 'round and 'round.

Old Lady Luck got tired of waiting for the movie tycoons to take an interest in her boy, so she took a hand. Two 20th Century-Fox moguls were watching a test of a girl who was on the same reel with Ameche.

Don and Honore were at her home in Dubuque. Donnie Ameche, now five and a half, was expecting a brother or sister, or something. It was Christmas of 1935.

After seeing the test, the movie men sent for Ameche's agent.

"Get him," they said.

"He's having a baby," the agent explained, "but I'll get him."

He wouldn't leave Honore, however, until Ronnie was born on December 30. Then Honore made him go. In Hollywood he signed to play in "Sins of Men" at $3,000 weekly. His radio sponsor agreed to move "Grand Hotel" to Hollywood.

Don telephoned Honore and yelled, "Come on out, everything's happening at once!"

"I'd just come home from the dentist," Honore recalled. "I'd had a tooth pulled at 1:15. Then Don phoned, and at 2 p.m. I was en route to Chicago to get a check-up from my doctor. My baby was only a few weeks old. The doctor said I was okay, and two days later I left for Hollywood."

She attended the preview of "Sins of Men" with Don, but wouldn't sit with him. She was afraid he might ask her something about the show and she didn't want to add to his nervous strain.

After the preview, she was with Don when a fellow walked up to him and congratulated him.

"Who is that guy?" Don asked his agent.

"That's your boss, Darryl Zanuck."

We are glad Mr. Zanuck liked "Sins of Men." Most of the populace thought it was a sin against men. As a matter of fact, Ameche's tremendous radio audience was disappointed in his first movies. He was miscast. In two of his first shows he was cast as a foreigner and wore outlandish costumes. Even his friends couldn't recognize him. And he was a serious fellow. Don Ameche serious! He knew enough book-makers, crapshooters and bartenders to swell his fan mail, but when the boys saw his first pictures they cried in their beer and said, "That ain't Dominick!"

The word got around that Signor Dominick was about washed up in the movies. One of his shows never was even presented in America. But Old Lady Luck hadn't forgotten him. His agent kept plugging. Chase and Sanborn was casting its big show. Nelson Eddy was being considered for the m.c.

Don and his wife, formerly Honore Prendergast, are a devoted couple. There is an interesting family, slightly dizzy—a madcap husband, a conservative wife, two husky children, and the lady whose name is Luck job. Danny Danker of J. Walter Thompson's Hollywood office was readying the format for the production. It was April, 1937.

In spite of poor casting, Ameche's fan mail was terrific, mostly because of his radio success. His old pals hadn't forgotten, even though they didn't recognize him in "Ramona" and what-not. Fox was wondering what to do with him. His fans were too numerous and were demanding that he be given a decent role.

The clever Mr. Danker knew all of that. He saw Ameche at a race-track one afternoon and wrote him a note asking if he would be auditioned as m.c. for the Chase and Sanborn show. So Don was auditioned. The record was rushed to New York and the heads of the agency were intrigued by the "new star."

"But it's like marrying a girl by mail," said one of the bosses. "I want to see him."

He had missed all Don's films, or if he had seen them he hadn't recognized Ameche.

So they signed him at $3,000 a week. His agent took the contract and went to the bigwigs of 20th Century-Fox.

"Laugh this one off," he said, and waved the contract before them.

They picked up Ameche's film contract and tied him up again!

THE WEEK'S BEST DRAMA

Sunday, NBC

"The first night of 'Cyrano de Bergerac' was the greatest first night on any stage within the memory of living man." Thus says William Lyon Phelps in his "Essays on Dramatists." Edmond Rostand is considered one of the greatest dramatists of the world's literature. His masterpiece, "Cyrano de Bergerac," is undoubtedly one of the greatest plays of all time. Made famous on the stage in recent years by America's Walter Hampden, the story concerns a warrior-poet with a huge nose and his tragic love affair. "Great Plays" does it this week.

The candidates in the "Gateway to Hollywood" contest will this week have for dramatic support none other than the veteran expert, Leslie Howard. As a portrayal of Shakespearian roles Charlie McCarthy is a dummy in double measure. However, he'll probably begin dabbling in the Bard of Avon's stuff after he gets a load of the acting of the "Chase and Sanborn Hour" guest this week, especially when he sees how much fun Maurice Evans has playing Falstaff. The Shakespearian actor, who is concluding a very successful season on Broadway as blustering, blubbering Falstaff in "Henry IV," will appear in a sketch with Don Ameche and give McCarthy some pointers—or get some.

Miguel grew up to become a Franciscan monk and serve in the San Gabriel Mission. There he discovered the bell he had sponsored as a child. Lincoln; and Abner Doubleday is not at all important to current political events. Yet the three of them, Cobb, Ruth and Doubleday, are important enough to figure in one of the warm discussions of "People's Rally." The serious phase of this show is usually given over to subjects of interest socially, economically and politically. The question for this Sunday does have a political significance, for it involves stamps, and already several stamp issues of the past few years have stirred up hornets' nests of argument. The question is: "Whose portrait should adorn the baseball centenary stamp?" It has already been asked twice on the program and there are three leaders in the audience-favor for the honor—Ty Cobb, outfielding genius of other days; Babe Ruth, baseball's greatest slugger, and Abner Doubleday, inventor of the great American pastime. To millions of Americans this question ranks with taxes, isms, and relief as a hot subject.

In the past few years the countries of the world have been moving more and more into one of two groups, the Fascist bloc, led by Germany, Italy and Japan, or the democratic bloc, led by Great Britain and France, with the United States becoming more militant as a leader. Many political experts believe that such a shifting process will lead eventually to war between the two groups. Others maintain that the strengthening of the democratic bloc is the only real guarantee against war. The whole question, perhaps the most important in the world today, will be discussed under the title, "Is a League of Democratic Nations Desirable?" around the dinner table of "People's Platform" this week. THE PROFESSOR CHOOSES DEATH

By RONALD COLMAN

No better sample of distinguished broadcasting has ever been heard than Ronald Colman's recent remarks on "The Circle" (Sunday, NBC), which we present, lifted bodily from the adaptation printed in the current Radio Digest. He said:

This concerns a certain teacher of philosophy abroad; some of you are probably familiar with his work. Anyway, he was rather outspoken in his criticism of the government of his country—which shall be nameless—and he was thrown into jail on charges amounting to treason. They gave him a choice of retracting everything he had taught and conforming from then on, or death. A reporter who was present at the trial made a transcript of the man's last words. He said:

"Gentlemen who have condemned me, I am going to prophesy to you; for I am about to die and that is the hour in which men are said to be gifted with prophetic power. I prophesy to you who are my murderers that immediately after my death punishment far heavier than you have inflicted on me will surely await you. Me you have killed because you wanted to escape public censure. But that will not be as you suppose—for otherwise. For I predict that you will have more accusers than you have now; accusers whom up to now I have restrained; and as they are younger they will be more severe with you and you will find them harder to brook.

"If you think that by killing me you can suppress criticism of your actions, you are mistaken. The way to do that is not by crushing others but by improving yourselves. Bear this in mind, too—that no evil can come to a good man, either in life or after death. I see clearly that to die and be released from this world is best for me, and that is why it was ordained. For that reason, also, I am not angry with my accusers or my condemners; for you have done me no real harm, although neither did you intend to do me any good, and for that I may gently blame you . . .

"The hour of departure has arrived, and we go our ways—I to die, and you to live. Which is better, God only knows."

Well, the old professor went his way, but his followers, as he prophesied, still speak out against intolerance and injustice and oppression. The professor was Socrates and the reporter, Plato.

100TH INNING Sunday, NBC

Before 1839 the great American pastime was "one of 'em," and it was a sissy forerunner of the way they play politics in parts of the world today. There were 35 on a side and the idea was to knock an opponent out with the ball. In 1839 a West Point cadet, home for a vacation at Cooperstown, N. Y. got to thinking that knocking the other fellow out might be all right in war, but in play it might be more fun to just knock the ball out. So Abner Doubleday invented baseball substantially as it is played today. It certainly caught on. They say that when the Chicago Convention Committee went to Springfield to notify Abe Lincoln that he had been nominated for President, the Great Emancipator was playing baseball and informed the committee it would have to wait till he had his time at bat. The whole fascinating story of the great game will be dramatized and related by NBC this week as a salute to the centennial of baseball.

BIG LITTLE MAN Monday, CBS

When they talk about man's mental power triumphing over wild beasts, perhaps you picture yourself in the midst of a jungle trying to frighten a hungry lion by mental force—and you just don't go for the theory. However, when you watch Clyde Beatty go into a cageful of savage lions and tigers and make them do his every bidding even at crucial moments of emergency, then you think maybe there is something to the theory. It seems to work—at least for Clyde Beatty. There certainly is nothing about the slight physical man to awe the beasts—except his eyes. His eyes, the windows of the mind, and his whip, gun and chair, the evidences of a man's mind, are the weapons with which he winds the most ferocious of animals around his finger. It's a spectacle to watch Beatty crouch, stare straight in a lion's eyes, edge toward the animal, and make it slink back like a whipped cur. Clyde is going to appear on Eddie Cantor's program this week to explain how he does it.

GOOD-WILL VISIT Tues., Wed., Thurs.

As the world's democracies become more and more solidified as a protective measure against the encroachments of the "isms," more international gestures of good-will are being made between the democratic countries. An example is the pending visit of Britain's rulers to the United States. In another such gesture this week, President Albert Lebrun of France and his wife visit King George VI and Queen Elizabeth of England. Many broadcasts have been arranged concerning the activities attendant upon the visit. TUESDAY, at 10:25 a.m. EST, 9:25 a.m. CST, 8:25 a.m. MST, 7:25 a.m. PST, over MBS, will be heard a radio description of the arrival of the visitors in London's historic Victoria Station. WEDNESDAY, at 10:00 p.m. EST, 9:00 p.m. CST, 8:00 p.m. MST, 7:00 p.m. PST, over MBS, will be heard a recording of President Lebrun's address in Guildhall, London. WEDNESDAY, at 9:15 a.m. EST, 8:15 a.m. CST, 7:15 a.m. MST, 6:15 a.m. PST, over NBC, the original broadcast of President Lebrun's address will be heard. THURSDAY, at 6:45 p.m. EST, 5:45 p.m. CST, 4:45 p.m. MST, 3:45 p.m. PST, over CBS, a talk by Edward R. Murrow will tell the story of the visit and the international significance behind it. (For others, see program listings.)

POWELL BACK Tuesday, CBS

Old "Mammy" Jolson got the wanderlust again, took down his walking-cane and left radio for a while. He left his emcee shoes behind to be stepped into by a younger successor, but one with quite a name—Dick Powell. Dick comes back to the radio fold as Al leaves for other pastures, and the personality singer should be ripe for a full-blossoming show. The rest of the cast remains intact, with Martha Raye and Parkyakarkus still on hand to do the heckling and comedy. Back to the radio fold also with Powell comes W. C. Fields for a guest appearance this week. A wayward but favorite son of radio, Fields has been heard on and off for the past few years, his most notable work having been done as a jousting opponent of Charlie McCarthy on the "Chase and Sanborn Hour."

INFO ABOUT INFO Tuesday, NBC

As the brilliant "Information, Please" continues on its sensational course, after smashing to the top of the quiz heap in a few months, its statisticians have compiled some interesting records. These will make an interesting background as you listen to Messrs. Fadiman, Adams, Kieran and renowned guests tussling with tough ones this week. For instance, in its first thirteen weeks under commercial sponsorship, the program received more than 1,000,000 questions from listeners. Reduced to program-time measurements, that makes more than 2,500 questions a minute that have been flung toward the experts. Listeners often write in to suggest guest experts whom they would like to hear on the show. Charlie McCarthy and Mickey Mouse have been nominated many times to sit in with Adams and Kieran. Others suggest that Fadiman take his turn in answering as well as asking questions.

EINSTEIN SPEAKS Tuesday, CBS

All over Europe, one country after another is following the lead of Nazi Germany in discriminating against a certain group of its citizens—the Jews. And the Jews of each of these countries—Germany, Italy, Poland, Hungary, Roumania, Czechoslovakia—are sorely in need of assistance for refuge, for rehabilitation, for relief. A special drive is being conducted by the United Jewish Appeal for Refugees and Overseas Needs. The world's most eminent Jewish exile, Dr. Albert Einstein, joins the drive this week. The originator of the relativity theory, now a special professor at Princeton University, will speak on "Humanity on Trial." Dr. Einstein is known as a great humanitarian as well as a great scientist, and his address will be listened to with

LATE SPRING Wednesday, NBC

Ransom Sherman takes a lot for granted. In the first place, because they call one of his programs "Ransom Sherman Presents" and let it go at that, he assumes he has a right to present anything under the sun. In the second place, he thinks he can stretch the formal phrase, "through the courtesy of the National Broadcasting Company" enough that the courtesy will allow him to tinker with the calendar. In the third place, he knows that he can excuse himself with the plea of spring fever. Anyway, come Wednesday, he's going to pretend that spring just went right by the day before and came in about the time of his program on the 22nd instead of the 21st. He prefers the Julian (or the Shermanian) calendar anyway. He has browbeaten the rest of his gang into celebrating with him. That means Wayne Van Dyne and Lillian Cornell, the Vagabonds, Joseph Gallicchio's orchestra and announcer Durward Kirby will have to follow the Shermanian calendar this year. Stubborn as he is, it won't be surprising if Rans insists on Christmas carols to commemorate the occasion.

THE RADIO PLAYBILL: THIS WEEK—"ONE MAN'S FAMILY"

"ONE MAN'S FAMILY" is a radio institution. Year after year ranked as a top-notch among dramatic programs, this favorite serial is close to the hearts of millions because its themes are close to their lives. It is both profound and homely, pathetic and humorous, human and idyllic. The serial was originally conceived as a family drama to present various characters typifying some particular phase of American life and problems. The story is so lifelike, with just the right shading of melodrama, and the players so nearly live their parts that it has become a real story to many. "One Man's Family" may be heard over NBC Wednesday at 8 p.m. EST, 7 p.m. CST, 6 p.m. MST; for the West on Sunday at 9:30 p.m. PST

NEXT WEEK:
"THE LIFE AND LOVE OF DOCTOR SUSAN"

HAZEL BARBOUR HERBERT is played by Bernice Berwin, shown above with organist Paul Carson. She is the eldest Barbour daughter. She met Bill Herbert at the University of California and married him. They live near the elder Barbours

TEDDY BARBOUR (played by Winifred Wolfe) came from the East when a baby to live with the Carters after the death of her mother. She selected Paul Barbour as her ideal father, and he later adopted her and brought her to the Barbour home to live. Teddy is in her second year of high school. WAYNE GRUBB (played by Sonny Edwards) is Teddy's best boy friend

BETH HOLLY (played by Barbara Jo Allen) has been a close friend of Paul for six years. Several years ago, becoming angry at Paul, she married Philip Spencer, a New York playboy, and went with him to New York. They were later divorced and Spencer was killed in a plane crash. Beth had a baby and would not say who the father was, denying it was Spence's

BETTY CARTER (played by Jean Rouverol) is now Mrs. Jack Barbour. She met Jack when they both attended Stanford University. It is a coincidence that Jean and Page Gilman, who plays Jack, actually knew each other as students

HANK HERBERT (played by Bobby Larson) is the 7½-year-old son of Hazel Barbour (Mrs. Bill Herbert). JOAN ROBERTS (played by Eleanore Taylor), above with Hank, is Claudia Barbour's daughter by her first marriage

CARLETON MORSE is the author of the dramatic serial that is so popular it has been given a seven-year contract. Rice mills in the South, a dairy ranch in Oregon, news-reporting in California, radio-writing—that's Morse's story to resolve to take the fix completely out of the Traffic Court; but it wasn't so easy to bring about a complete reformation at once. There were difficulties, such as getting the violators into court, awaking the public interest and activity, and convincing former "influential" customers and even his own acquaintances that the day of free-and-easy traffic violation was gone.

FOR instance, just a few weeks after Judge Gutknecht took over the bench, a defendant appeared, accompanied by a very prominent politician who was accustomed to the breaks in judicial matters. The judge shocked the politician by fining the defendant. When leaving the courtroom later, the judge passed the two, stopped and spoke to the politician:

"Well, George, you don't like this new deal in the Traffic Court, do you?"

The bigshot said, "Judge, I wasn't going to say anything, but I want to ask you one question: Is there a back door?"

"George," was the reply, "you can be sure that as long as I'm here there will be no back door."

The bigshot could take it. He put out his hand. "Judge, I'm with you. We must do something about the traffic problems. If there is no back door, I'm with you. If there is, I want it. If nobody else can get a pass, I'm satisfied."

In the first year of Judge Gutknecht's tenure two hundred less lives were sacrificed on the altar of speed in Chicago, even while the country as a whole was suffering an increase in auto deaths. Now, instead of two hundred thousand cases a year with a 90-percent fix, Chicago's "Lone Ranger of the bench" can boast of cutting the number of cases in half. Moreover, he long ago offered $100 reward to anyone who could demonstrate that a single ticket had been "fixed" in his court, and the reward is still unclaimed.

His opponents scoff at him derisively as "the crooning judge," but Hon. John J. Gutknecht of Chicago gets results by court broadcasting

IN THE last fifteen years automobile accidents have killed more people in the United States than all the wars the country has fought since its birth. Last year over forty thousand were slaughtered in the traffic-pen. With the increase in automobiles, highways and population, the American traffic problem grows more and more acute. There will probably be over fifty thousand such deaths this year unless something is done to check the traffic carnage.

What can be done? There are several methods of approach, among them education, closer regulation and stricter law enforcement. Perhaps you have your own pet remedy for curing the traffic plague for your own community or for the nation.

Judge John J. Gutknecht is a man who had one for Chicago, and the nation may well consider it. The example is well worth passing along.

In 1934 Mayor Kelly's administration started a "Keep Chicago Safe" campaign. In line with the movement, the mayor and the Municipal Court were feeling around for some judge to put on the traffic court "hot seat." Judge John J. Gutknecht happened to be roaming through Europe. The thirty-six other municipal judges were at home. The prodigal, therefore, was elected to the mission of belling the cat, a mission no other judge relished.

Judge Gutknecht went into the Traffic Court with his fingers crossed and his jaw sticking out aggressively over the bar of justice. He found the court, literally, in a "fix." He believed, as every honest citizen believes, that the behind-the-hand procedure of disposing of traffic cases according to "influence," along with other dishonest practices and haphazard methods, is responsible for much of the grave traffic toll of today—not only in Chicago, but throughout the whole country.

Upon investigating the situation, he found that the city was issuing over 200,000 traffic tickets a year, and he declares that an average of 90 percent of these in years past had been fixed by "seeing the judge" or had been ignored altogether by the court. One hundred and eighty thousand tickets a year illegally handled, a mounting death-rate, and only scattered, half-hearted protests from the public—this was the situation Judge Gutknecht inherited, for better or worse.

Something had to be done and done quickly. It wasn't so hard for this gray-haired, steely-eyed, iron-jawed fellow

Other means were employed to bring about a rapid reformation. Gutknecht introduced a "cafeteria" into his court. This means that first-offenders may simply file by the cashier and pay a specified fine rather than demand a hearing and risk getting a court record as well as a fine.

Also upon Gutknecht's suggestion a branch called the Safety Court, with various other judges sitting on the bench, was instituted to relieve the too-congested Traffic Court of the more serious cases, such as drunken driving, hit-and-run acts, and collision cases. Judge Gutknecht was left the cases involving speeding, parking violations, driving without license, stoplight-running, and similar minor offenses.

It didn't all happen as easily and rapidly as it sounds. There was from the outset the need for some unusual and dynamic force to strike at the root of the evil by appealing directly to the public at large.

Radio stood ready with the answer.

One day in September of 1934, when the defendants lined up before the Traffic Court bench, they faced not only Judge Gutknecht, but also a live microphone.

"JOHN BROWN, state your case," said the judge.

"Well," began the middle-aged man holding the salesman's derby, "I was going south on Sheridan Road at a moderate speed, and just as I got to Bryn Mawr the stoplight turned yellow. I put on the brakes but couldn't stop on the ice. The cop stopped me and gave me a ticket."

"Discharged. Watch your step."

The public listened and thought, "He's not so tough."

Came the next case.

"Officer Moriarty, how about this case?"

"Well, your honor, the defendant was driving north on Sheridan Road, ran a stoplight at Diversey at pretty fast clip, then jammed on his brakes, just missed several other cars and tied up traffic for several minutes. I gave him a ticket."

"Had he been drinking?"

"Yes, and he offered to fix it up with me, and when I refused threatened to punch me."

Here the shifty-eyed defendant remonstrated with his own viewpoint—to no avail.

"Five-and-five. And next time remember that you can't fix it with a policeman in Chicago any more."

The public listened and thought, "Maybe he is going after those guys."

That air-court premiere in the fall of 1934 was the first regular radio broadcast of that exact nature in any big city. When the "Keep Chicago Safe" campaign got under way, two alert publicity men of station WBBM, Bob Kaufman and Hal Burnett, had sold the city authorities on the idea of broadcasting Traffic Court proceedings as an auxiliary safety measure. Judge Gutknecht accepted the proposition as the one reserve. He is also, however, a member of the liberal National Lawyers Guild, and he believes that sometimes a new and sensational method, as long as it is honorable and American, can be the best method.

Sensationalism is contrary to the dignity and conservative tradition of the legal bar. Indiscriminate courtroom broadcasting might conceivably come under the head of sensationalism. It looked like a publicity stunt. The Chicago Bar Association strenuously opposed the idea and has continued to oppose it. To the bar Judge Gutknecht said, "Which do you prefer—dignity or integrity? You may keep your dignity. I'll take integrity."

Regular politicians, moreover, spurned him as a stubborn recalcitrant because he wouldn't play ball with them.

Yet despite the publicly declared opposition of bar and political bigwigs, the last time Judge Gutknecht was up for reelection in Chicago he polled over 870,000 votes—more than any other candidate for office on the ballot—and his figure topped the next highest by 70,000. We, the people, speak with the ballot, and a loud voice voted Judge Gutknecht a green light for his ideas of justice and safety—including his broadcasting. His pioneering also won him the honor of being only recently elected president of the National Lawyers Guild, an organization overflowing with big names.

Radio, of course, was not an immediate cure-all. There were other problems.

One of the biggest was that of how to handle most effectively youthful offenders. There is where radio played its biggest part.

IN CASES involving minors, Judge Gutknecht always insists on Mom or Dad also being present. He gives the parent the chance to spare the lad a court record if it is a first offense. The parent is allowed to name some fit punishment, or have the boy's driving-privilege taken away, or—most effective and most generally prescribed sentence—may send him to the county hospital and morgue at a specified time.

The boy is at that time guided through a tour which shocks and sickens him with the realization of what ghastly things recklessness can do.

There lies a woman with only one eye glaring at him. The other side of her face is bloody pulp. Here, within reach of his arm, is a boy, no older than himself, with his arm gone—the driving-arm, and the arm that might have painted or plied a tool or embraced a sweetheart.

And out in the morgue on the cold slabs—men, women and children with skulls bashed in, some practically beheaded, twisted and mangled by the sudden whims of the traffic ogre.

They were once drivers or passengers.

One of Judge Gutknecht's innovations in his drive for safety and justice is the "cafeteria." First offenders may, as pictured above, go to the cashier's cage in the courtroom and pay set fines without a hearing and the risk of a court record available weapon with the power sufficient to the need.

Broadcasting of the Traffic Court sessions went over the air originally via WBBM in Chicago. Subsequently it was moved to WIND, Hammond, Indiana, and still later the Safety Court was scheduled over WJJD, Chicago.

GUTKNECHT is a member of the orthodox American Bar Association, properly respectful of the profession's traditions, and as a college professor of law, he preaches intelligent posed the idea and has continued to oppose it. To the bar Judge Gutknecht said, "Which do you prefer—dignity or integrity? You may keep your dignity. I'll take integrity."

The March of Music

Edited by LEONARD LIEBLING

"...An ampler Ether, a diviner Air..."—Wordsworth

QUITE some pother has been stirred up by columnist Westbrook Pegler with his article in a New York evening newspaper taking Beniamino Gigli to task for criticizing America upon his return to Italy after his recent visit here. He is reported to have said to interviewers that our land is "decadent," "full of corruption and extortion"; that the Metropolitan Opera is in a state of artistic descent; and that its American singers are of inferior talent and ability.

Mr. Pegler is exercised chiefly because those views come from a famed opera singer and are therefore quoted by our press. He says that "singing is the lowest and most vulgar of the arts," that "the fact of Gigli's being an opera singer imparts no special value to his remarks on matters beyond opera"; and "that it is time to destroy the superstition that because a man or woman can shriek louder and a little less sharply than most human beings, that person's views on politics, economics or cultural topics deserve reporting and editorial discussion."

Having set that down, the columnist sees vivid red and launches an immoderate attack on the lyric art and its male practitioners who "are not original creators except to the extent that one singer emits a special gurgle, grunt, gasp or snuffle; or brays, moos, or yowls the music written for him by the composer . . . The singer's function can be likened to that of a train-caller in the Northwestern station in Chicago."

It may be guessed by even an unshrewd reader that Mr. Pegler does not like singing as such and dislikes singers in particular. Perhaps a prenatal cross influences his opinion, or maybe his cradling nurse crooned inferior songs out of tune.

Of course there is much more to the art of singing that Mr. Pegler divines or admits. Its best exponents are not the result of accident but of years of hard study. Aside from the physical cultivation of the voice, there is the matter of adapting it expertly to musical expression and interpretation, achieved only through intense application and long experience. Texts must be understood and assimilated; tone modulated to many varying moods and emotions; diction polished and style acquired; and in the case of operatic artists there are the learning and memorizing of long roles and their truthful and telling enactment and characterization. Altogether the process is perhaps somewhat more arduous than learning to be a columnist who writes at the top of his voice.

Mr. Pegler might rather have objected to the tactlessness of Signor Gigli, who made his statements about America just subsequent to his having earned around $80,000 here this winter. Also to his Metropolitan reference . . . Far from slipping downward, the institution scored one of its most productive and profitable seasons in 1938-39. And lastly, to Gigli's fling at American artists, the best of them at the Met are, to put it modestly, fully the equals of that tenor, whom some competent critics think not nearly as eminent today as he was when he first charmed our audiences with his golden tones and melting delivery.

Speaking Up

By V. V.

Some months ago this column was chided by the Metropolitan Opera Association and the agency handling the Sunday afternoon radio auditions, both taking exception to our question, "Can Leonard Warren and John Carter escape the total eclipse that seems to have overtaken most of their predecessors?" We published those chidings and again pointed out that the runners-up, not the finalists, got the best breaks.

May we remind those same critics that it is now the middle of March and the winter season of opera has closed . . . and to this date Mr. John Carter, last year's finalist, has not as yet appeared in a single operatic role during a regular performance of the "Met." True, he sang in a few Sunday night concerts. Is that considered opera? Does that fulfill the promises of the auditions sponsors? We'd like an answer to that, and we'll hold open our space to publish the reply just so no one can say we're being unfair.

In the meantime, we'd like to take some bets on this year's Met Auditions finalists. The first three are to be heard this Sunday and the last three the following Sunday. We pick Mack Harrell, baritone; Anna Mary Dickey, soprano; Robert Topping, tenor; Winifred Heidt, contralto; Morton Bowe, tenor, and Emery Darcy, baritone. Best bet—Mack Harrell.

Radcliffe College, a dignified and sober institution for young women, was shaken to its depths last year by the invasion of a large male contingent from Harvard. The occasion was neither a prom nor a sorority dance. A small, gray-haired, electrically energetic Frenchwoman was giving a course on music; and so important was it considered that for the first time in history Harvard students were allowed to attend Radcliffe lectures.

Not only a teacher, composer and conductor, but also an inspiring force in modern music, Nadia Boulanger has influenced the younger generation of American as well as French composers. Roy Harris, Virgil Thompson and Aaron Copland are a few of the many Americans among her pupils, and when George Gershwin turned to serious composition he went to her for advice.

FORECAST

THIS is a week for patriots, with American music predominant on four programs: the Indianapolis Symphony, Wallenstein's Sinfonietta, the Eastman School Symphony and Milestones in the History of Music.

Four-star items are Arthur Rubinstein's playing of "Nights in the Gardens of Spain" with the New York Philharmonic and a special broadcast of Tchaikowsky's "Sleeping Beauty" ballet from Covent Garden, London.

SUNDAY, MARCH 19

Dr. Charles Courboin, organist, MBS. Toccata, Adagio and Fugue (Bach), Allegretto (Guillemont), Harmonies du Soir (Cary Elert), Allegro Vivace from Symphony No. 5 (Widor).

Radio City Music Hall of the Air, NBC. A revival of the tabloid opera series beginning with "Lucia di Lammermoor" (Donizetti). (Lucia) Rosemarie Brancato; (Enrico) Robert Weede; (Edgardo) Jan Peerce; (Alisa) Martha Lipton; (Normanno) Lorenzo Alvari; (Arturo) Louis Purdey; (Raimondo) Lorenzo Alvari. Conducting the broadcast, Erno Rapee.

More careful story-continuity should be stressed in the revival of this series. Both cast and orchestra were excellent, but sketchy commentation gave one a confused idea of the operas. A comprehensive grasp of the libretto is essential to the enjoyment of the music in any operatic performance, tabloid or otherwise.

Eastern 12:00 noon Central 1:00 a.m. Pacific 9:00 a.m.

The Magic Key of RCA, NBC. Symphony orchestra, Frank Black, conductor; guests.

certo for Two Pianos in C Major (Bach), Symphony No. 77 in B Flat Major (Haydn).

Much lovely music graces this Ormandy compendium and grandeur is represented by the one movement from Beethoven's loftiest piano concerto. It is, by the way, the liveliest part of the composition.

Gieseking follows his classical essay with two shorter numbers, one the too infrequently heard piece by Ravel, in which his rippled and filmy music characterizes Ondine, the fabled water nymph.

Weinberger, who wrote the opera "Schwanda" (done a few seasons ago at the Metropolitan) is at present on a visit here from his native Czechoslovakia. Recently a two piano transcription of his popular polka was played for the composer at a private musicale and he liked it not at all, saying (much to the embarrassment of the arranger): "You have made an elephant out of a mouse. You have put evening dress on a simple little peasant. You have covered a field flower with gold paint."

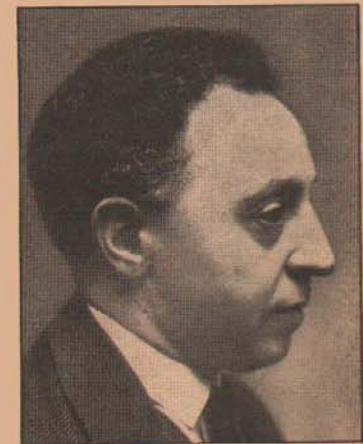

Eastern 9:00 p.m. Central 8:00 p.m. Pacific 6:00 p.m.

MONDAY, MARCH 20

The Curtis Institute of Music, CBS. Veda Reynolds, violinist; Zadel Skolovsky, pianist. Sonata No. 4 in D Major (Handel), Veda Reynolds. Balade in A Flat Major; Mazurka in A Minor (Chopin), Two Etudes (Liszt), Devotion (Godowsky), Ballet Music from "Rosamunde" (Schubert-Godowsky), Jeux d'Eau (Ravel), Fireworks (Debussy), Zadel Skolovsky; Impromptu, Girl with Flaxen Hair (Debussy-Hartmann), Caprice (Ysaye), Veda Reynolds.

The Metropolitan Opera presents "Tannhaeuser" by Richard Wagner, NBC. The cast: (Elizabeth) Kirsten Flagstad; (Venus) Kerstin Thorborg; (Tannhaeuser) Lauritz Melchior; (Wolfram) Herbert Janssen; (Landgrave Herman) Emanuel List; Conductor, Artur Bodanzky.

Tannhaeuser (13th century knight and minstrel), wearied of the spell of Venus, is tempted by her to remain longer at the court of carnal love; but, refusing, finds himself transported while asleep to the foot of the Wartburg Castle belonging to Landgrave Herman, whose niece Elizabeth has long mourned Tannhaeuser's absence.

The second act is in the festival hall of the castle, where Herman offers Elizabeth's hand to the winner of the great song contest in praise of love. Tannhaeuser competes, and horrifies the assemblage by lapsing into glorification of Venus and profane passion. The Knights are about to slap the impious singer, but Herman offers his pardon if Tannhaeuser will make a pilgrimage to Rome and seek forgiveness there.

Elizabeth opens the third act by a wayside shrine with a prayer for Tannhaeuser's soul. The pilgrims return without the expected penitent and Elizabeth dies of grief. As her body is borne to the grave, Tannhaeuser appears, and, converted by her faith, sinks into death at her bier.

Something About Symphony

By Leonard Lieblich

THE previous article on this subject traced the origin of the symphony and showed its derivation from the earlier operatic overture of France and Italy. Readers were given the names of the leading composers who for the next two hundred years or so gave the overture ampler form, structured its movements more skillfully, blended them cohesively and worked improvements in the combinations and treatments of the instruments.

The primitive symphonies had rather crude instrumentation. The violins were always playing, the oboes and flutes at times reinforced them and the horns sustained the harmonies. (If some of those ancient composers could be brought back now to hear a symphonic score by Strauss or Stravinsky, their wigs would doubtless rise straight up in horror!)

WHEN Haydn was only nine years old, Carl Philip Emanuel Bach (son of Bach the Great) was perfecting instrumental balance and contrasts. When Haydn wrote his first symphony, Mozart was a babe of three. However, in his brief life, his genius was not without imprint upon Haydn, whose final symphonies far exceeded his first in craftsmanship and importance. The two giants soon drove their symphonic predecessors into the bin of oblivion, where they still rest.

Haydn's last symphony came to creation in 1795. Beethoven's first had its premiere in 1800. Only a few years later he poured out his "Eroica" and thereby advanced symphony from a mere exposition of themes, structure and treatment to a medium for the direct expression of emotion and human personalities and events. In 1808, came his "Pastoral Symphony," again with a definitely stated idea, the wonders and beauties of nature as an inspirational basis. Beethoven, disclaiming any intention of imitating nature realistically, said that his "pastoral" music voiced only his esthetic "impressions" of the countryside, but he definitely made the instruments reproduce the exact calls of birds and try to sound like a rippling brook and a thunderstorm. He believed, like Rousseau, that "Music does not express things directly, but evokes in the mind the same sentiments that are felt in seeing them."

For a long while before Beethoven, composers had toyed with realism in their music, and especially solo instrumental pieces had the calls and cries of birds and sounds of the marketplace, the chase, and the battlefield. It was Beethoven who stopped the practise for a while when he issued his dictum that only "states of the soul" rather than natural objects were the real interpretative media for music.

The admonition was not heeded by Hector Berlioz. He devoted himself to the type of composition known as a "program symphony" (earlier essayed by Ludwig Spohr), frank pictorial matter tonalizing a story or a series of events. In 1832 he issued his "Symphonie Fantastique," or "Episode in the Life of an Artist," setting forth the reactions to his love for Harriet Smithson, Shakespearian actress. The five movements of the symphony are labeled (1) "Dreams, Passions"; (2) "A Ball"; (3) "Scene in the Fields"; (4) "March to the Scaffold"; (5) "A Witch's Sabbath." Other "program" symphonies by Berlioz are "Lelio, or the Return to Life," "Harold in Italy" (after Byron), "Romeo and Juliet." All those works represented an immense stride forward in orchestration, as to brilliancy, complexity and instrumental coloring. Another innovation was the "Idee Fixe" in the "Symphonie Fantastique," a "fixed idea" or recurrent theme which the hero finds and hears everywhere. To Berlioz the melody symbolizes his Miss Smithson. (He married her later, and they lived unhappily ever after.) The "Idee Fixe" is undoubtedly the precursor to the "leit motif," or leading motive, of Wagner.

The youthful Liszt, living in Paris during the vogue of Berlioz, eagerly imbibed that firebrand's principles, and in his own two long symphonies uses "Faust" and Dante's "Divine Comedy" as mottoes and material. Raff joined the programmatic writers of symphony with his "Forest" and "Lenore." Rubinstein wrote an "Ocean"; Richard Strauss told his household secrets in the "Domestica" and his admiration of Switzerland in the "Alpine." Vaughan Williams honored a city with his "London Symphony." Scriabin stepped higher with "Poem of Ecstasy," "Poem of Fire" (employing color effects thrown on a screen), "Divine Poem" and "Prometheus." Also other Russians contributed to the "story" repertoire.

AMERICA has program symphonies by Edgar Stillman Kelly ("New England" and "Gulliver"), Howard Hanson ("Nordic" and "Romantic"), Robert Russell Bennett and Daniel Gregory Mason (each with "Lincoln"), Werner Janssen ("Louisiana"), Ernest Block ("Israel"), Roy Harris ("1933"), Harl MacDonald ("Rhumba"), Arthur Sheperd ("Horizons"), William Grant Still ("Afro-American"), and more.

Music, traveled far since Beethoven's day, has outmoded his prejudice against "program symphonies." We no longer care what the title or tendency of a work might be so long as it appeals through authority, distinction and art. If the score bears a "program" the intelligent listener still is concerned with the music itself before judging its fidelity as description.

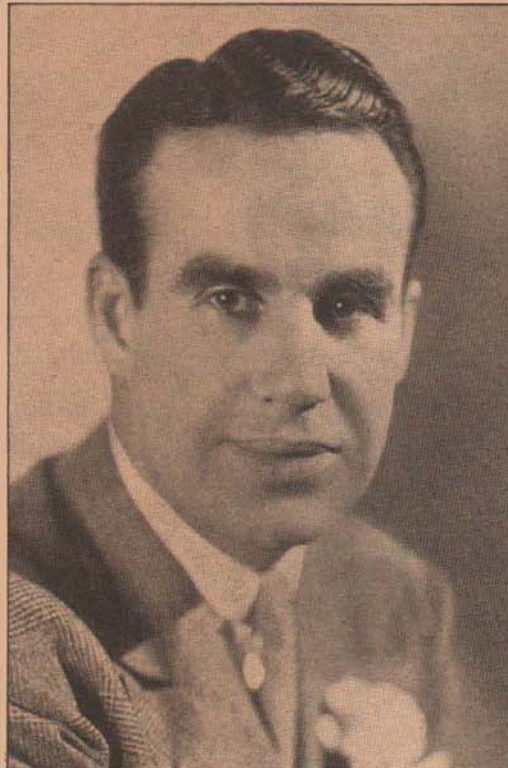

From the "program symphony," Liszt evolved the symphonic poem, and that form will occupy us in the next article of this series.

Sponsors, Please Keep Out

While attending the broadcast of what usually is a very informal program, one night last week, a very amusing thing happened. The first part of the show went along in the regular carefree manner, as is its custom, with everyone connected with the program having a good time; that is, until they saw MR. SPONSOR walk into the control-room. Then things began to happen. The head man on the show, who is usually very calm and gay, got nervous and stumbled over his lines. The announcer would have spoken into the mike out of turn if the production man hadn't shoved him away. The entire program, which is one of the more popular shows on the air, went haywire and lost its informality. It isn't the first time I've seen this happen, and for that reason I suggest, SPONSORS, PLEASE KEEP OUT.

AIRIALTO LOWDOWN

BY MARTIN LEWIS

Another program that went slightly haywire was the all-star "Hobby Lobby" show of a couple of Wednesdays ago which featured Ben Bernie, Gabriel Heatter, Lanny Ross, Al Pearce, Morton Downey and Phil Baker. During rehearsal, the program ran more than eleven minutes overtime, and if you know your radio, that means a terrific headache for the production-man, whose job it is to cut the program in order to have it come out "on the nose," as they say in radio. Came time for the program and the studio was jammed. The first one to face the mike was Ben Bernie, who told about his horse-racing hobby; then Gabriel Heatter, who appeared slightly nervous, telling a story about a dog, during which time Lanny Ross walked into the studio with his guitar in hand ready to go up on the stage to sing and play the songs that attract the foxes. Al Pearce told one of his fish-stories and Morton Downey sang an Irish song. Then came Phil Baker, and the fun began. The program was running way over, and as Baker was reading his lines the production-man was trying to signal him to skip over some lines to make up the time. This caused a lot of confusion and muffing of lines, and when the program went off the air Baker yelled from the stage, "Everything happens to me."

From "Hobby Lobby" we walked across town to visit Kay Kyser's "Kollitch of Musical Knowlitch." For the past two weeks Kay had been doing five shows a day at the Strand Theater in New York. When he walked on the stage of the radio studio, you didn't have to be a detective to see that he was a mighty tired man—and he still had another show to do which was scheduled to start eighteen minutes after he signed off the air. Announcer Ben Grauer has a new gag. He yells, "WPA, New York," into the microphone just before the program goes on the air, and then pulls a shovel out from underneath his collegiate gown. It gets a big laugh. Incidentally, the Kyser show now ranks in fourth place of all the radio programs on the air, according to the latest surveys, and it was only a little more than a year ago when I was on a short visit to Chicago that Kyser took me up to his office to tell me about his new idea and to show me the cartoons and cartons of mail which was the response to the first two programs of the "Kollege of Musical Knowledge." Time marches on!

Fred Allen Makes a Light Remark

From the Kyser show back to Radio City to witness the repeat Fred Allen show, which hits the air at midnight. Five minutes before broadcast time, every light in the studio went out and the place was in complete darkness. Production-men and studio officials were frantic—every available telephone was put in use and in about two minutes the electricians were on the stage with emergency lamps and searchlights all set up. One minute before going on the air, the lights went on and Fred Allen walked on the stage and remarked, "I was just walking into the studio and noticed it was dark, so I said something BRIGHT and the lights went on."

Ezra Stone, who is "Henry" of the Aldrich sketches on the Kate Smith show, was in the studio with an attractive young lady enjoying the broadcast, and along about the middle of the program Paul Douglas, announcer of the Burns and Allen show, came in the back way. Paul has been flying to New York from California between broadcasts for the past two weeks in order to be near his best love—so they say. Douglas wouldn't deny or confirm the rumor.

Vallee Works Overtime

After the Allen show, while waiting for the back elevator which is used by the artists and musicians, the door opens and out walks Rudy Vallee with a flock of his men. Mind you, this is almost 1:30 in the morning. I asked Rudy what he was doing coming into the studio at that hour and he told me that they were going to rehearse the rest of the night for the next day's program. Vallee was playing five shows a day at a theater in Newark, and this was the only time they had for rehearsal. Whadda life!

If you're in New York on a Wednesday afternoon around 1 p.m. you can always be sure to find Fred Waring in the Automat Restaurant on Broadway near Fifty-fourth Street. Lunching with Fred is practically every song-publisher and song-plugger in the business. Fred generally invites a guest orchestra-leader to join him. Last Wednesday Red Nichols was the honored guest, and a huge cake was baked, and all around the top were forty nickels that had been dipped in red nail-polish. Fred gathers the song-pluggers together for this weekly luncheon because he is generally too busy to see them during the week. If they have a new song they'd like Waring to play, they usually hand him a copy to take back to the office. Very little business is discussed but a good time is had by all.

Several dramatic serials had to be canceled the day the networks announced the election of Pope Pius XII, which was followed immediately thereafter by announcements direct from Rome. The last-minute canceling of the serials gave a few practical jokers the opportunity to perform. The director of "Big Sister" hadn't told anybody about the program being off the air, so the entire cast went to work as usual. In the middle of the script the director came HOLLYWOOD.—Poor, old outspoken Eddie Cantor has stuck his foot in his mouth again, this time because his sponsor and the CBS network feel that Eddie went a little too far anti-Nazi during his broadcast of March 6. The sponsor, wishing to remain neutral and non-controversial with his programs, has admonished Cantor to cut out the propaganda and substitute jokes if necessary to fill out his weekly thirty minutes. Your Hollywood reporter would like to remind Cantor's sponsor of two things: (1) That Cantor without a campaign wouldn't be Cantor, and (2) that the Nazis smoke few cigarettes; prefer smelly pipes and stogies. And CBS might turn an ear westward and make a note of this: Radio has reached adulthood and should start becoming the powerful medium for molding public opinion that it has a right to be. Also, the networks have been censoring themselves ridiculously. It is high time that radio stop its Nazi-like suppression of "dangerous thoughts" and start employing the fundamental democratic American principle of free speech! . . . Let's laugh boogymen Hitler into the insane asylum, where he belongs.

Example Two

The latest silly and unnecessary self-purification by the Puritan-minded networks is the deletion by NBC of the word "suckers" from the line "People are suckers for a grin" in the Monaco-Burke tune, "Sing a Song of Sunbeams," from Bing Crosby's forthcoming new Universal picture, "East Side of Heaven." So, we suppose, in the children's programs hereafter, no reference may be made to an all-day sucker. No, sir! From now on the brats will have to be content with lollypops . . . Phooey!

A Program Leaves Town

A joke's a joke, and the Santa Fe Chief porters can take one with the best of us, but Tommy Riggs' Betty Lou and Edgar Bergen's Charlie McCarthy are driving them a bit wacky. When Tommy Riggs Chiefed into Hollywood week before last, he kept his Pullman car porter in an uproar. The invisible Betty Lou, supposedly in Tommy's berth, kept crying "because of the noise," and demanding little special favors, such as glasses of milk and graham crackers (which went into Tommy's tummy). Then, next week, on March 6, the Chase & Sanborn cast embarked on the eastbound Chief. Bergen asked one of the porters to page Charlie McCarthy, and, if he couldn't be found, to hold the train. Not wise in the least, the poor man vainly hunted the train and station over. Once he thought he had found Charlie in a washroom, but investigation revealed only Bergen, who swore he hadn't seen Mr. McCarthy . . . Nor was that the porter's only headache. Boarding the train in advance of the coffee-hour crew, Chet Lauck (Abner's Lum), racing-stable partner and pal of Don Ameche, decorated his friend's stateroom with losing pari-mutuel tickets, concealed chicken eggs everywhere imaginable, and then capped the gag by nesting a fat hen in Don's berth! Act three occurred at Pasadena, where a dozen of music-director Bob Armbuster's musicians boarded the train and serenaded their departing boss with a rendition of the program's theme tune, "The Big Show" . . . The crew of the Chief hope for a nice quiet trip sometime when there are no radio celebrities aboard.

Pennies for Benny

Lum and Abner feeling deserted in this tinsel village while their buddies took in the New York shows, likewise journeyed east for two weeks after their airing of March 10, but not before they had paid Jack Benny for his guest appearance on their show of that date. Remembering the radio artists union ruling that he must be paid at least scale for every broadcast, Benny jokingly asked Lum and Abner "How about my pay?" They were ready for him. Into his hands they dumped a cloth bag containing 2,250 pennies and then insisted that he sign a huge receipt form, which they intend to frame for their office to prove they "hired Jack Benny once."

Off Live Mikes

Connie Bennett does have a heart. Buster Phelps, eight-year-old actor, was cast as her son in Texaco's March first drama, "Processional," but at dress rehearsal a business agent said Buster couldn't broadcast unless he had a radio-union card. He didn't, nor had he money to buy one. Connie, hearing the argument, wrote a check for the amount and launched Master Phelps on his air career . . . "Good News" master of ceremonies Bob Young is expecting two blessed events—at his Bel Air stables, where two mares are ready to foal . . . Two comics on a Tuesday evening show from Hollywood almost came to blows week before last at rehearsal, but were separated by other members of the cast. Now they aren't speaking . . . Treat for spinster ears: Three of radio's leading tenors — Kenny Baker, Frank Parker and Allan Jones—singing as a trio at Frances Langford's recent Tahitian party . . . Unless more of you good people listen quickly to Jack Haley's Wonder Show, you won't be hearing it after April 7 . . . NBC's head man, Lenox Lohr, in town for various business—including maybe smoking a pipe of peace or two with movie czar Will Hays . . . When Joan Blondell visits New York next week to co-star with Orson Welles in "Twentieth Century," she'll also be present to hold the hand of her sister Gloria at the latter's debut as a daytime air-serial star . . . Can't help laughing at the irony of the fate of M-G-M's film "Ice Follies." Radio warbler Virginia Verrill was to have had the starring role, for Ginny can sing and ice-skate. But Joan Crawford cronies edged Ginny out, pushed Joan into the cast. Result: The studio cut all of Crawford's singing from the finished film and Joan's skating was so bad that she asked for most of her ice scenes to be eliminated . . . "One Man's Family" writer Carleton Morse is in a pickle. An episode or two ago he made Claudia hint that she was an unfaithful wife. Now he can't find a way out for Claudia!

Purely Personal

Tyrone Power has purchased the little-used but very grand house of Grace Moore—meaning, perhaps that he's readying for housekeeping with Annabella? . . . Alice Faye is making plans for a flying trip to New York to visit with hubby Tony Martin . . . Arrived, February 28, the heiress of True Boardman, "Silver Theater" script-writer . . . Married "secretly" March 1, Jello-O writer Bill Morrow and model Margaret Wilkins . . . Passed away February 27, the mother of Jack Oakie.

Destiny Commands

Some years ago, Kay Francis and William Powell made the film "One Way Passage." It was a great success. A few weeks ago, Cecil B. DeMille decided to bring it to the radio with Norma Shearer cast opposite Powell. Strangely enough, he also had placed Kay Francis under contract for the following week's Lux Theater drama. But a week before "One Way Passage" was to go on the air, (Continued on Page 40)

HAIL TO A PRIMA DONNA

WHEN Orson Welles' big scare proved that not all listeners tune to the same program at a certain time, not even to hear Charlie McCarthy, broadcasters got a shot in the arm. They began to waken to the fact that keen competition is healthy for radio. Rudy Vallee and Kate Smith both have their audiences. Now a comparatively new program called "Tune-Up Time" has the courage to challenge what many had considered a monopoly by Bing Crosby and Bob Burns of the Thursday night spot (10:00 p.m. EST, 9:00 p.m. CST, 8:00 p.m. MST, 7:00 p.m. PST). The young show is doing very well, too, for it is presenting sterling entertainment. The cast is composed of comedian Walter O'Keefe as emcee, Andre Kostelanetz and his orchestra, Kay Thompson's Rhythm Singers, and name guests. This week soprano Grace Moore, popular in opera, concert, films and radio, will be the visiting soloist.

Andre Kostelanetz leads the orchestra for "Tune-Up Time." Kostelanetz is a very popular veteran in radio and is known as an expert conductor of both classical and popular types of music

Kay Thompson, well-known radio contralto, leads the vocal group known as the Rhythm Singers as another unit of "Tune-Up Time." As the girls relax and keep time with the orchestra, Kay is seated on lowest step and sister Marion is third from left

Grace Moore, soprano star loved by millions, will be soloist this week on the show. Famous as a Metropolitan prima donna and a movie star, Miss Moore was also a top-ranking radio artist in a series with Kostelanetz last year

CHICAGO.—It's a case of turning the spotlight on the men who turn the spotlight on others—the men behind the people behind the mike. The Association of Technical Employees of the National Broadcasting Company, in short, the engineers, have decided to come out from behind the dials and switches and buttons and generators and so forth to assume their rightful heritage of humans with names. The mechanical men, seeking a closer relationship between radio engineers and radio artists as well as a bit more prestige in the public eye, are making a master stroke April 14 with a lavish dinner-dance in the Terrace Casino of the Morrison Hotel. A big-name band, or perhaps even two, will furnish music. To help in welding the closer engineer-artist bond, a huge representation of all the performers in Chicago will be present along with the technicians—and a good time should be had by all.

Seeing the Doc

"It is hard for me to write anything about myself, because I'm such a bore to myself. Anyway, I think radio is here to stay. The question is, Am I here to stay? I like it here in Chicago. I went to a party recently. Almost all the radio people were there. It was a sort of unemployment rally: I met a movie actress there. Those movie actresses will do anything to attract attention. For instance, out in Hollywood an actress sometimes goes to a party with her own husband to get notice. Oh yeah, about me: I'm five feet eleven inches tall; weigh 190 pounds; have brown eyes and brown hair—what's left; teeth—fair and white; tonsils—removed; fifteen collar; corpuscles—red—both of them. I got to go now, as I'm getting measured for a nervous breakdown at six o'clock." Signed: Doc Hall.

Many listeners in the Chicago area, especially the ladies, are pleased that Don Norman is back on the air with one of his famous street-broadcast programs. Don, who is Chicago's pioneer mike-on-the-streeter, has not been doing this particular air specialty for a number of months, but now he is in the street-light again and his former immense audience is flocking back thicker than ever. Don's program is not the run-of-mine, tricky-question type. It is centered around real serious problems and the interviews are with people, chiefly women, who in the main come downtown especially to air their ideas on the show. Anything can happen, and many unusual things have happened—enough to glamorize Don, not by his choice, and give him one of the largest followings that could be had for a local program. He gets female mail proposals by the scads, and dozens of cakes baked with his sponsor's flour, and they have tacked on him the credit for the "most contagious laugh in America." It's really an unusual treat to witness one of Don's street sessions. It's something of a psychological laboratory. By the way, for the records, his full name is Don Norman Dalton Martin Carrol Crosnoe.

Personality Potpourri

Happy news is the fact that Molly (Marian Jordan) will be available for work and fun on Fibber McGee's show in two or three weeks to put the sketches back on the basis of a happy family (in real life) and cantankerous couple (on the air) . . . A nice note from the mother of Tommy Lane, Joe Penner's juvenile songster, says Tommy is so proud of being an American he wants it known he was born in Danville, Virginia, rather than in Lodz, Poland, as erroneously stated in a RADIO GUIDE feature recently; that was his father's birthplace . . . Catherine McCune might lay claim to being radio's number-one star. The "Scattergood Baines" actress moved into an apartment hotel, street number of which is 111. Her apartment is number 1111 on the eleventh floor . . . Quirks of life and publicity: When photographers called for Ruth Doring, singer heard in Edgar Guest's "It Can Be Done" series, to show the poet—for the sake of pix—how to test the temperature of milk for his new grandson, Guest had to show Miss Doring how it was done before she could pose showing him how . . . Which reminds me—

Personal Paragraphs

Pat Murphy, who plays Scoop Curtis in "Girl Alone," has been having fun asking his fellow actors to try to read a script speech Pat was assigned on a recent broadcast. He was supposed to say: "What kinda flairs you want, Madame? How about some double-fluffed, triple-frilled, free-flowering Lilliput, dwarf-giant zinnias?" Even author Fayette Krum had her doubts about Pat's ability to negotiate the tongue-tangler and inserted in the script a note reading, "It's okay if he can't say it!"

Ginger Jones of "Helen Trent" literally stopped the traffic on Michigan Avenue the other day when she dashed into the street to rescue her new bonnet.

If you ever bump into three personable fellers scrambling, or unscrambling, themselves at a lunch-counter or in an elevator, it might be Tom, Dick and Harry. The veteran trio, now heard on Cincinnati's "Plantation Party," always arrange themselves in the correct name order. Wherever they are, whatever they're doing, they read, left to right, Tom, Dick and Harry.

Virginia Payne and Bob Ballantine knew them when . . . The former, known as "Ma Perkins" and now appearing also in "Carters of Elm Street," came to radio from the stage after being a leading lady for Tyrone Power and other noted stars. Ballantine, harmonica player of "National Barn Dance," got his start in radio as a staff musician at a station in Clay Center, Nebr., where he was quite chummy with a cello player named Arlington Brugh—Robert Taylor to movie-goers.

LISTENING TO LEARN

Dr. Griggs eloquent and understanding on topic of great men

Meet the Faculty

EDWARD HOWARD GRIGGS, outstanding lecturer, author; one of the few men in the United States to bear the title L. H. D., "Doctor of the Humanities," conferred upon him by the University of Maine; Colby University gave him the degree of LL. D. in 1922; Ohio University conferred Litt. D. (Doctor of Letters) in 1926; is president of the Department of Philosophy of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences; heard on the air over NBC in his own series titled "Lives of Great Men."

Person-to-Person

• Following close on the heels of NAB's (National Association of Broadcasters) handbook, How to Use Radio in the Classroom, the Chicago Board of Education's Radio Council announces the completion of a handbook on utilization prepared by members of the Radio Council staff. The R. C. handbook will be distributed to Chi teachers to aid in the handling of programs heard both in the school and at home; NAB's book contains much valuable material information for educators anywhere and may be secured by writing to your local station.

• Definitely a move in the right direction toward a healthier democracy is the Lay Conference established by Teachers' College, Columbia University, five years ago. At a date following the conference at which educators have presented their views to the lay public, a second conference is called in order that representatives of the lay audience, after a careful study of the issues previously presented, may criticize frankly the policies of the educators, express their own wishes, and make their own suggestions. These sessions sound interesting enough to be aired, having all the potentialities of a nationally popular series.

• Most interesting (and probably most significant) radio-education experiment being conducted in this country today is William B. Levenson's work with the ultrahigh-frequency station, WBOE, in Cleveland. Top floor of Cleveland's Board of Education building houses studios, experimental classroom and offices. Many important advances in the use of radio in the classroom will come from this laboratory.

A LAZY LISTENER?

YOUR radio will pay you dividends in something more valuable than money if you give it half a chance. Maybe the dividends won't be anything more tangible than the satisfaction of having spent some of your leisure time broadening your mind. But this is something that money can't buy! Or maybe the dividends won't be anything more concrete than the pleasure of having an active, healthy mind. Try to buy that! Let your own living-room be your classroom and your own radio your guide to a fuller, richer existence.

We are all prone to pass up the things that come easy to us. Usually it is only those things that we have to go after and fight for that assume any value. You won't get the best that radio can bring you by just listening to anything that happens to be on the air. To get the best, you have to make an effort—not a great one—but an effort nevertheless. When a worthwhile program comes to our attention, don't we say to ourselves, "I'll tune that one in next Thursday night." But do we? Nine times out of ten we forget all about it when the hour arrives, and miss the program completely. If, by this time, you have made up your mind to start taking radio seriously, don't let the matter stop there. Grab a pencil and proceed with this problem in an orderly fashion. Start by turning to "This Week's Programs" (pages 19-35). Scan all the programs on the air from Sunday morning to Saturday night, marking the ones you think will interest you and pay you some of the dividends of radio. When you have finished this, make up your own personal listening-schedule, somewhat in this fashion:

SUNDAY—

- 12:30 p.m. Chicago Round Table Discussions (station).
- 2:00 p.m. Americans All — Immigrants All (station).
- 4:30 p.m. World Is Yours (station).

MONDAY—

- 2:30 p.m. American School of the Air (station).
- 7:45 p.m. Science on the March (station).

Proceed this way through the rest of the week, and then post your schedule where it will be a constant reminder to you to listen to your favorite programs.

This is only the start. There are other things to be done to insure those dividends, and they include forming a set of habits—the habit of taking notes on what you hear; the habit of discussing with your friends all matters that arouse your interest; the habit of reading when you want to know more about a certain subject; the habit of continuing study and doing research when you are so motivated. Now you have a start, you are making a bid for those dividends, you are getting an education or building upon the one you already have.

An education used to be something you had to fight for and then very often didn't get. Now it is at your very finger-tips.

Production and presentation are included in Dr. Morgan's course

Radio at I. S. T. C.

Promising is the future of radio as a tool of education when you consider the thousands of students studying broadcasting in more than five hundred colleges and universities in the United States today. Definitely radio-minded is Indiana State Teachers College, Terre Haute, Indiana, where a course in radio has been made a regular part of the curriculum. Here, under the direction of Dr. Clarence M. Morgan, the teachers-to-be are acquainted with radio in the raw, get a chance to work at the various phases of broadcasting from program research, writing and production to the actual presentation over the air.

Radio-broadcasting was introduced as a definite course at I. S. T. C. in the summer of 1937* and made a regular part of the English work of the college. The course opens with a series of explanatory lectures on the history and objectives of educational broadcasting, and follows in order into the study of studio etiquette and mannerisms; radio terminology, signs and practices; microphones and the physiological aspects of speech; auditions and corrective drills.

In considering the broadcast, types of programs are studied first, their advantages and disadvantages discussed. Following this, the class is divided into production units, grouped according to the ambitions of the students. Each production unit then functions to build a program which, when ready, goes on the air.

Unique is the college-commercial station set-up in Terre Haute. Station WBOW supplies time gratis, pays line charges from the college studios to the station's own main control-room, offers listeners an organized schedule of educational broadcasts; I. S. T. C. trains teachers-to-be in the many phases of radio without the usual exorbitant costs attending the operation of a college-owned broadcasting unit.

Much of the "mystery" is being taken from broadcasting at Indiana State Teachers College and more than five hundred other educational institutions in the United States—a move that will pay dividends in the not-too-distant future through a widespread, keener understanding of the unlimited potentialities of this thing called radio.

*I. S. T. C. actually entered the field of education by radio as early as 1936, when president L. N. Hines appointed Harold Bright as director of radio and requested him to develop a radio program for the college.

First produced in 1807, "Cyrano de Bergerac" ran for three hundred performances, was hailed by critics as the greatest play since the days of Shakespeare. Edmond Rostand, its author, was a Frenchman born in 1868, the son of a wealthy journalist who gave him a cultural background and a splendid liberal education. The six plays which he wrote contain some of the greatest characters in world literature.

DISCARD YOUR OLD AERIAL
It is Most Likely Corroded and Has Poor or Loose Noisy Connections
NO MORE BUZZERS, CLICKS and shorts from summer rains and winter snow and sleet when using an F & H Capacity Aerial Eliminator. Anyone can connect it in a moment's time to the radio set—occupies only 1 1/2 inch by 4 inch space behind the set, set enables your radio to operate without an aerial and tune in stations over the entire broadcast band, transmission and short wave channels.
ELIMINATE THE AERIAL FOR GOOD
Attach this unit to your radio—make your set complete in itself—forget aerial wires and troubles—move your set anywhere—no more roof climbing, unsightly lead-in or aerial wires.
NOT NEW—VALUE ALREADY PROVED
On the market five years; 100,000 customers in U. S. and foreign countries. In use from the Arctic Region of Norway to the Tropics of Africa. Each factory tested on actual long distance reception. (Cannot harm set—Easily connected to any radio, including radio having no ground or radio for doublet aerial. Note: It will not operate on battery or automobile radio.)
BEFORE AFTER
Does any with aerial entirely—just place an F & H Capacity Aerial Eliminator (like 15's in 3 1/2 in.) within your set. Complete Simple instructions furnished with unit. Easily connected by anyone to aerial and ground of set. Your radio will then operate and tune in the same manner as if it were connected to an aerial. Operates on both short and long waves.
WHAT USERS SAY
LaPorte, Tex. After using the Capacity Aerial Eliminator over a year on my 1935 small 1 tube set can say it brings in reception with fine volume and clarity, pulling in stations from Japan, Europe, South America, and broadcast stations from all over the U. S. Efficiency proven. I took down my old outside aerial.
Alpena, Mich. Received your Radio Aerial Eliminator and it sure works fine. Also works well on Short Wave band. With it I had found it long ago. Aligned.

GOOD RECORDS

A department reviewing the recordings of your radio favorites

All-Classic Review:

Haydn Symphony No. 102 in B Flat Major. You'd think a fellow would run out of spark after writing a hundred-odd symphonies. Not Papa Haydn. His No. 102 is as bright as his No. 1 or No. 50. Koussevitzky and the Boston Symphony Orchestra are at their best, which is very good indeed. (Victor album 529. $6.50.)

Bach's Concerto in A Minor for clavier, flute and violin. A real recording event, this musically magnificent blending of three solo instruments with string orchestra accompaniment. Three brilliant movements . . . endless ingenuity . . . with the famous Yella Pessl playing the harpsichord, Frances Blaisdell, the flutist, and William Kroll, the violinist. Carl Bamberger directs the orchestra. (Victor album 534. $6.50.)

Mozart Concerto No. 1 in F Major for harpsichord and orchestra. Another harpsichord work by a woman, Marguerite Roesgen-Champion, is of note. The romantic purist Mozart offers continuous pleasure to the listener. This set, made in Europe, with the Orchestre Symphonique of Paris, M. F. Gaillard conducting. (Columbia set 114. $3.25.)

Purcell Suite for Strings, with four horns, two flutes and English horn. Another work derived from the earliest of composers, this one in a fine arrangement by John Barbirolli, conductor of the Philharmonic-Symphony of New York, who perform this music. Purcell's themes are on the smoother, richer side, still bearing the stamp of the early classicist. Mr. Barbirolli's revival is most welcome. (Victor album 533. $4.50.)

Williams Fantasia on a Theme by Thomas Tallis. This is another revival of an ancient English composer by a contemporary one. No recordings of any of Tallis' works are known, but Mr. Vaughn Williams has suitably orchestrated one of his themes with warmth and depth. The Boyd Neel String Orchestra perform. (Decca 25567-8. $1.50.)

Harris Chorale for String Sextet. The Kreiner Quartet plus violin and cello offer a modern American's work, an ingratiating piece by Roy Harris. (Victor 12537. $1.50.)

Havanaise by Saint-Saens. Heifetz, master of violinists, once again displays his power, clarity and supremacy. It's a vari-colored and agreeable eight minutes by the French genius. (Victor 15347. $2.)

Three standard concert works are freshly recorded and adequately:

March Heroique by Saint-Saens. F. Ruhlmann and the Orchestre Symphonique of Paris. (Columbia 69408. $1.50.)

Rosamunde Ballet Music by Schubert. Bruno Walter and the London Symphony. (Victor 12534. $1.50.)

Coriolan Overture by Beethoven. Bruno Walter and the London. (Victor 12535. $1.50.)

—Joe Thompson.

sedan and drove it home. Honore saw it and said, "Are you crazy? We can't afford that."

"Oh, yeah?" Don said. "I just signed a big radio contract."

His fan mail began mounting until it was the largest on the Fox lot, even greater than Shirley Temple's.

They gave him better pictures, but his fans squawked. They were tired of his playing second fiddle to Tyrone Power, who always got the girl. He's now making two pictures, "Midnight," with Claudette Colbert, and "Alexander Graham Bell" for Fox without Power. The studios finally heeded the voice of the multitude and gave him a show of his own.

He is salting away about $1,000 a week in annuities, and still has plenty left for fun. Don is an ardent churchman and has great faith in his religion. When he is moody, which is seldom, he goes to a priest and unburdens his heart, then feels better. He never misses mass, and observes his church's fast days, although it takes much will-power for him to refuse steaks, even on Fridays.

He was hurt when his church started the wave of disapproval of the Mae West skit. He and Honore had combed the script for objections but had found none.

"I won't play in a show that is suggestive," he said. "I'd never read a line that would offend Father Sheehy, who has been such a warm friend to me. After all, it isn't necessary. Entertainment needn't be off color."

HE REFUSES flatly to pose as something he isn't. It's not the best press in the world for a studio to say one of its stars is the son of a saloon-keeper and came from across the tracks. But Don won't let it be different.

"My Dad was a miner and crosstie-layer," he said proudly. "He worked with his hands. He was good to his family. He educated all of us. We had a happy home. Dad ran a good saloon. Tavern, my eye! It was a saloon."

His Mama and Papa now live on a ranch he built for them.

His first love is his family, his second the church, his third the theater and his fourth is gambling.

His memory is wacky. He forgets to answer the phone, write letters and change his shirt. His home is a madhouse. One morning he and Mrs. Ameche woke up about eleven and photographers were bunched around their bed.

She asked Don, "Friends of yours?" "I forgot," he said. "We were supposed to have pictures taken." The photographers tripped over dogs, babies and toys.

He and Honore rib each other constantly. She likes to tell about the time, as children, he got riled because she had a soda with another boy and wrote her a note. It said, "It isn't any other girl; it's just that my care for you is dying out."

He evens matters up, however. Often when they have an appointment at some ritzy club, or something, he'll spot her in a crowd and shout, keeping a straight face, "What are you doing here. I told you to stay home and mind the babies." She always blushes.

Or they'll be walking along a crowded street, and Don suddenly will say to her in a loud voice, "I've got a notion to slap you! Do that again and I'll push your nose right into the back of your neck."

She pleads with him to hush, but it's no use. Passers-by stare and feel sorry for her.

Don will kid anybody. On the Paramount set where he is working with Claudette Colbert, he recently hired an old man to visit the set and ask her autograph. After getting her name, the old fellow said the line Don had taught him, "Thank you, Miss Colbert—I've been a fan of yours since I was a little boy."

His friends agree that his most impressive characteristic is his love of fun. He always enjoys himself, whether he's broke or flush, and money means nothing to him.

Back in his early radio days in Chicago he was the brokest man in town and had the most fun. He is an extremist in everything he does. He'll gamble for a dime or $10,000 with the same gusto, and if he loses he simply shrugs his shoulders and reckons the Old Lady is pouting.

Don loves to reminisce and will sit for hours with old friends and recall funny incidents. One of his pals is Evans Plummer of RADIO GUIDE's Hollywood staff, who knew Don back in the up-and-down days.

"He never changes," Plummer said. "He's the same likable guy now that he was when he was plugging along back in Chicago. He's a sweetheart in every way, nothing bogus. He's a booming, hale and hearty guy, who loves fun and who has had an almost eerie run of good luck."

Don must have his sleep, at least eight hours at a stretch. He sleeps raw. He is a heavy eater and goes for steaks, broccoli and spaghetti. He's an excellent cook himself.

When he is serious or sympathetic, he will wrinkle up his nose and curl his lips. He talks usually with his hands in front of him, as though he were holding a basketball. If he's thinking, he will dig at his hair with one finger as if afraid he will muss a lock.

"He's always done that," his wife said. "He was always careful not to muss his hair."

He enjoys laughing, and if he is really tickled he'll draw his knees up to his chin and guffaw, then puff, "who, who." And he'll laugh at himself. One of his favorite cracks now is, "Sure, I'm getting a vacation. I get twenty minutes off between pictures."

He and his pal, Chet Lauck (Lum of Lum and Abner), were trying to decide whether to buy some race-horses, and they nearly drove Mrs. Ameche insane.

"You would have died," she recalled. "Don and Chet met here at our house to decide if they should buy Dave Butler's horses. Chet and Don rolled on the floor and talked, then they phoned Butler and asked a question or two. Then they hopped over some furniture and did some more discussing. Then back to the phone. Finally they thought maybe if they stood on their heads they could arrive at a decision. So they did, and decided to buy. But Butler had decided, in the meantime, not to sell. He changed his mind later, however."

Don has lots of imagination and builds huge castles in the air, then knocks them down. He hopes some day to build a great orphanage.

His favorite game is poker, with everything wild, including Ameche. He also likes the game "indication."

Don is very careful about his appearance and always was, even back when he had to keep his pants under his mattress to press them. When he's lounging around the house, he wears neatly pressed pajamas and a robe

FRIENDS OF YOURS

Margaret Speaks was chosen to sponsor a new giant African-French mari-gold when it made its debut at a Waldorf-Astoria ball in New York recently. Miss Speaks is soprano star of "Voice of Firestone," over NBC Monday night

Jack Holden is announcer for "National Barn Dance" (Sat., NBC), "Uncle Ezra" (Sun., Tu., Fri., NBC)

Donald Novis came back to big-time radio when he joined "Fibber McGee and Co." (Tues., NBC)

In the sketch "Myrt and Marge" (Monday through Friday, CBS) the parts of Myrt and her daughter, Marge, entertainment team, are played by a real-life mother and daughter—Myrtle Vail (left), mother, and Donna Damere out of the control-room shouting. "What's the matter with you people, can't any of you read lines correctly?" Of course everyone in the cast was startled—a thing like this had never happened during a broadcast. Then the director started to laugh, and when he told them they weren't on the air at all they could have socked him.

"Her Honor Nancy James" was off the air for the same reason—and Frank Gallup, the director, and the engineer were the only ones to know about it. Gallup got up in front of the mike to read his first commercial and started to stumble all over his words. The rest of the cast, unaware they were not on the air, felt sorry for him and were sure he'd be fired for it. Gallup could not keep a straight face for long—he started to laugh and then told everyone the truth. Being an announcer and not a director, he didn't entirely escape bodily harm.

This has to be told because it's a true story and I think very funny. A radio executive gave his maid two tickets to attend the Andre Kostelanetz-Walter O'Keefe program on her day off. The next morning the girl told her boss how much she enjoyed it. Having heard the program over the air, the r. e. stated that he thought the best thing on the program was Ravel's "Bolero." To which she replied, "Yeah, he was very funny, wasn't he?"

Purely Personal

After a short stay in New York, Amos 'n' Andy were glad to go back to the Coast. The big-city life proved too strenuous for them. In California they go to bed at a respectable hour, but while in New York they were up all hours of the night keeping social engagements . . . Those new silver foxes that actress Templeton Fox is wearing is a present from her husband . . . and that corsage of flowers Barbara "Howie Wing" Weeks wears daily is sent by her hubby—Carl Frank . . . A New York femme columnist reported that CBS word-spieler Charles Stark and his frau had parted. They are as far apart as the postage stamp is to the envelope the mailman brought you this morning. Last Sunday they were out looking at homes together . . . Allan Kent and his bride-to-be are picking out furniture for their new apartment, which they will occupy in a few weeks . . . Harry "Bottle" McNaughton had been married nine months and never met his in-laws. The other week he and Marion flew to New Orleans between broadcasts to meet the folks and take in the Mardi Gras.

Announcer Bert Parks, who got a swell break when Eddie Cantor took him back to Hollywood, wrote a letter to his colleagues in New York. It read: "Dear Gang:

"Just a line to tell you how very much I appreciate your good wishes. It's a grand feeling to know you're so interested.

"Would like very much to hear from any and all of you—that is, if you can leave your commercials long enough. Thanks again, fellows, you're the nuts. "Bert."

To spare Bert Parks any bodily harm, a sentence from the letter referring to the West Coast announcers has been deleted. You're welcome, Mr. Parks.

HOLLYWOOD SHOWDOWN

a starring vehicle for Will Rogers.

Miss Shearer developed a strepto throat infection. Doctors tried their best to heal the actress so that she could carry on, but after two rehearsals they decided the effort would be too much for her. She could not broadcast. At the last minute, DeMille asked Kay Francis to pinch-hit. Kay filled the breach, and adequately, too. Tuners-in are still raving that Francis and Powell even excelled their previous film success.

Tag Lines . . .

Fibber McGee's Molly will move here shortly from Chicago and Fibber's so tickled he can hardly wait . . . Harry Owens' Royal Hawaiians stop next at San Francisco's St. Francis Hotel. They open March 21 . . . Park-yakarkus' mother, Mrs. Sara Einstein, is down with the flu but not in danger . . . Donald Novis sings March 23 and 24 at San Bernardino's Orange Show, and Meliza Korjus last week drew a half-dozen encores when she soloed with the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra . . . Irene Rich seeks to regain her stage laurels with her starring role in Jaques Duval's "A Broom for the Maid," in which she opens March 27 in San Francisco . . . H. V. Kaltenborn in town, and busy as during a European crisis lecturing to capacity audiences.

Styles and Trends . . .

Two ether dillies are molding fashions in dress and child behavior. The first, Gracie Allen, has launched the new style of wearing glass magnifying buttons, backed with loved ones' pictures, on one's blouse. Gracie's reveal photos of George Burns, her two youngsters and her brother . . . The second, Fannie Brice, learns from fan letters written to her by school-teachers that now, since "Baby Snooks" recites poems weekly on the "Good News" show, their charges like and want to recite poems!

Jose Iturbi Studies Plinking

Guest recently of "The Circle," Jose Iturbi's chief concern was to learn how to "plink" from Chico Marx, who obligingly tried to instruct the celebrated pianist during two forty-five minute periods of study between rehearsals. Chico, you may recall from his stage and screen work, punctuates his keyboard runs with a trigger-finger plink. Iturbi knows his runs, but since he plays a piano the way it should be played, never could develop the plink. However, after kneeling on the floor beside the piano while Chico demonstrated, Iturbi finally caught on and has promised to add the new achievement to his next guest appearance.

Gateway is Wide Open

Jesse L. Lasky's "Gateway to Hollywood" isn't kidding. All entrants to the series thus far have been given exhaustive film tests by RKO studio executives. John Laird, of Waukegan, Ill., is already playing his first role in that studio's film "Sorority House." Rachelle Germano, a hat-check girl in a San Francisco night-club, was signed to support Lupe Velez in RKO's "The Girl from Mexico." And three other entrants are being considered by major studios. Quite a record, considering that at this writing but twelve entrants have been heard in the series and the final eliminations are yet to come.

Movies Look to Radio for Stories

Although the Lux Theater policy is to provide radio adaptations of time-tried and successful screen stories, the reverse is true of the Wednesday night Texaco Theater. The latter offers original radio dramas—and the movie tycoons are watching the air series for suitable screen-play material. Patterson McNutt's "Happy Journey" was bought for $10,000 by Paramount. Mervyn LeRoy has optioned Bill Bacher's own "Each Wish of My Heart"; RKO studios are scanning Texaco's recent "The Last Frontier," and most recently Universal studios are considering "One and One Make Three," in which Reginald Gardiner and Lurene Tuttle starred, as a possible vehicle for Bergen and McCarthy.

Life of an Actor's Wife

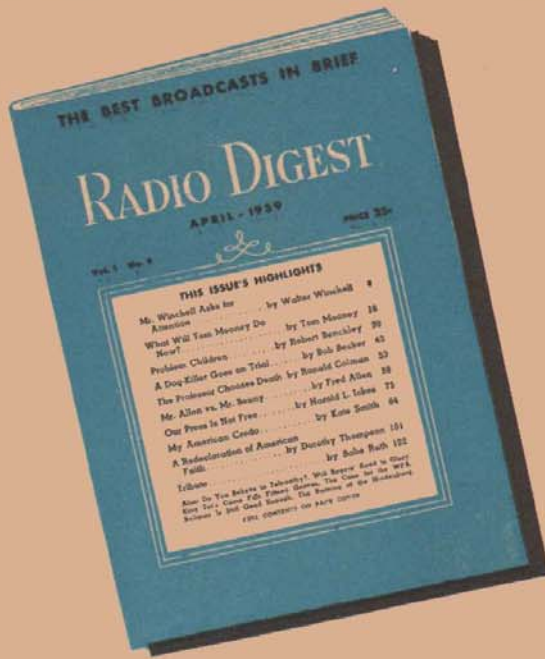

Andy Devine, Jell-O's rasp-voiced principal, has a new beard job under way. This time the stubble is to be exactly three weeks long in order to add the proper note of tonsorial inelegance to Andy's face for his role in Paramount's filming of "Geronimo." Andy's wife Dorothy is getting a little bit discouraged about her hubby's screen career. "Even the children can't recognize him any longer," she reports, and adds, "I think I'll commit a Delilah."

Unfair to N. Y. Is Fair Enough

Ha, ha! Recent NBC announcement reads: "Cancellation: Due to line switches, the scheduled series of broadcasts discussing the government's participation in the New York World's Fair will not be heard on the Pacific Coast" . . . Why, of course, NBC, we understand perfectly!

Flicker Flicks

Nelson Eddy, on his return this spring from his concert tour, will play the lead with Ilona Massey in Metro's "Balalaika" . . . For a flock of heart-guffaws, you may like Paramount's "Never Say Die," featuring Bob Hope, Martha Raye and Andy Devine. I did . . . Bob Burns' next starring screen-play will be "Us Americans," a story written by Irvin S. Cobb originally as
