We Call It Viewpoint

A GUEST EDITORIAL

By Mrs. Vincent Hilles Ober

PRESIDENT, NATIONAL FEDERATION OF MUSIC CLUBS

VIEWPOINT is a position where we mentally drape brilliant robes around a mediocre subject and place it among the choice possessions of life; fasten demoniacal garments on a well-intentioned act; or, more rarely, see a thing as it really is. So, too, is the listener's reaction to radio.

"Men from Mars" was a good test of this reaction. People thought the world was coming to an end or worse because they were not adept at listening. Most of us wish to be entertained by radio and it is a sad commentary that masterful production of drama cannot be accepted as such instead of driving people to frenzy. This program proved the necessity for further presentations of the kind to strengthen our morale, steady our nerves, and increase our bravery.

Some of us are not entertained by much of the prevailing brands of "humor" on the air. However, the studio audiences seem to be. This again is viewpoint. Southerners resent inaccurate attempts at presentation of their speech. That, too, is viewpoint. How can one who has not heard real Southerners speak understand that their speech medium is, in truth, English?

As musicians and music-lovers our first concern or interest is the musical program. We, too, have a point of view from which we sometimes harshly criticize. It is lamentable that some of our great concert singers have one repertoire for radio and another, we hope, for the concert stage. When questioned about the frequent use of trivial songs and limited radio repertoire, singers often say their programs are chosen for them. Why is a singer on a commercial program submitted to this injustice? Does the sponsor really believe that the American audience is moronic or just plain simple-minded? Can he not be shown that the Metropolitan Opera, the New York Philharmonic, the NBC, Ford, and Columbia Orchestras do not play down to the below-average listener?

We are grateful for the system which makes possible the presentation of the world's greatest music at the turn of a dial. Some of us are happy about our radio offerings, realizing that no other country in the world can match them. We do beg the commercial sponsors to believe their cause stronger, however, when shorter announcements extolling their wares are made. It is such an easy thing to turn the dial for a while. We will even take a small dose of the hoarse or coarse voiced blues or torch singing, or whatever the strange sounds are called. We will accept a little swinging of the classics because that is one way to introduce a good thought even at the price of mutilation and plagiarism. Too much perfection would dim our appreciation for rare gems.

All in all, we are rather proud of this musical prodigy who, in his twelfth year, leads the world. At least, that is our viewpoint about radio.

Next Year's War?

A forecast of radio's role in the next war is in the news story from Greece. Vincenzo Caivalo, an Italian architect living in Greece, designed and built a $50,000 church, which he dedicated to the memory of his wife. At a dedicatory service, the coffin containing his wife's body was moved from the original grave and brought to a special crypt. Through the glass top could be seen the mummified face. The citizenry thought Mr. Caivalo was a sensitive and devoted person. But a Greek policeman became suspicious. One night, he searched the church and found that the steeple contained a modern radio aerial. And the coffin, instead of containing a body, held a brand-new and powerful radio broadcasting set.

Cheerio!

As we go to press it looks as if the British government has finally decided it's all right for King George VI and Queen Elizabeth to make that trip across the Atlantic. American radio welcomes them with all its resources in a host of programs during the ensuing weeks of the visit. Perhaps the visit and the radio programs will result in a still closer understanding between the two great democracies.

THOSE BLESSED LETTERS

by

LOTTE LEHMANN

Famous Star of the Metropolitan Opera Company

IT IS the same with letters as with the telephone: one scolds and one groans over the time lost with superfluous telephone conversations, one wishes ardently to be rid of this modern instrument of torture, at least for a short time . . . but, well, how can one live without a telephone? And it is the same with the mail. At least it is for me. I stand on an absolute war footing with it.

Alas! The big portfolio, on which is written "Unanswered Mail" like a warning mene tekel, swells alarmingly. I pass by the writing-tables of my ever-changing hotel suites with the feeling of a debtor who, with a feigned innocence, tries to avoid his creditors

Lotte Lehmann, glamorous prima donna of the Metropolitan, writes a droll and intimate account of her biggest headache—fan mail!

. . . The writing-tables look strange and cold—distressingly orderly and inviting order. My maid moves busily round the room, a pattern of traveling routine. Family photographs, which accompany me everywhere, are set out, flowers arranged in vases with a bundle of letters already forwarded from my New York centers. And alongside, the portfolio, "Unanswered Mail" . . . Sometimes it brings me to tears! I have, unfortunately, a fixed idea that I must conscientiously read and answer every letter, either by dictation or by writing personally. I have a sweet little typewriter, which once half in jest I bought in Salzburg. I learned to "tap" on it with fanatical abandon and can produce quite imposing speed records, although I am bound to confess that in the ardor of writing I, alas, sometimes hit a wrong key. Occasionally, I get a sudden urge. I hurl myself on my mail and for hours on end I dictate letters and write autographs well into the night until I am quite dizzy. I work my way through this avalanche and sink into bed very late, an exhausted conqueror. This all sounds exaggerated, but it is the truth. Perhaps by a little wiser arrangement this orgy of writing might be somewhat avoided. But I am so unwillingly "wise" . . .

I have often been asked whether the numerous letters received by an artist are not very similar. Oh no—on the contrary. Every aspect of life in all its motley colors is reflected in them, and it would read like a novel if a collection of such letters were published in book form. From childish raptures of quite young students of music to those of the mature connoisseur, giving wonderful happiness; from professional begging letters to the veiled call for help of the homeless and impoverished; from the vicious anonymous to the genuine censoring letter; it is a kaleidoscopic melody which resounds from those lines, a melody which often moves me deeply and often amuses me but which is never tedious. For I always look forward to my mail with excitement. I receive the bundle of letters which habitually awaits my arrival in each hotel and say, "Good heavens, what a lot!" . . . and heave a sigh and imagine that I am very annoyed and bored . . . But the letters never have to wait long before I open them and I even begin reading them in my bath . . . and my

Radio facilities for prison inmates have been one of the chief grounds for the complaint by disciplinarian penologists that prisoners are pampered and coddled. Here is a story by a prison inmate which defends radio as a powerful morale-building force—an important aid in rehabilitating convicts!—Editor.

THOUSANDS of convicts escape from Michigan prisons every day. Suave-voiced radio announcers standing before broadcasting studio microphones are unwitting accomplices as they introduce programs that afford inmates temporary release from the nerve-straining monotony of prison existence.

Radio in prison—a far cry from the ball-and-chain, lash, and iron-hat era of penology! Today approximately five thousand inmates of the State Prison of Southern Michigan enjoy the educational and rehabilitative benefits of America's finest air programs. The soft rhythms of orchestras have replaced the rattle of leg-chains in cells as lighted dials of radio sets glow behind the bars of the world's largest and most modern penitentiary.

Prior to 1935, the only radio sets within the walls of this prison were a limited number in the offices of the administration's more important officials. With the exception of a small minority of the prison's population, who received "outside" newspapers, the inmate body remained virtually ignorant of world events. Isolated in a small universe of their own, they accepted with childish credence every whisper of information about "outside" activities.

In January, 1935, a radio firm agreed to manufacture special five-tube receiving sets designed to operate satisfactorily despite adverse reception conditions resulting from the prison's industries. Approximately five hundred such sets were manufactured and sold to inmates. Equipped with headphone connections instead of speakers, the metal cabinets of the sets were sealed to prevent experimental tampering by inmate owners. At the same time, inmates able to obtain sets from other outside sources were given permission to have them in their cells, providing headphones were substituted for the speakers. This was to prevent bedlam in the twelve huge cell-blocks, each of which houses from 350 to 516 men.

INMATES with an eye for business quickly saw an opportunity to reap a harvest of "packs," with the result that within a few months radio "lines" were in operation. Prison currency is packages of cigarettes, and inmates discuss business transactions in terms of "packs" and "cartons."

Probably the most successful line operator was a former motion-picture sound-technician who had made the mistake of signing the wrong name to a check. He built a "booster" for his eight-tube set, strung wires behind the cells, and operated his private system to the complete satisfaction of ninety men, each of whom paid one pack a week and supplied his own earphone. The enterprising operator was released before the large centralized system came into being.

In a small room in the basement of the chapel building, a life-terminer studied radio and repaired sets for his friends. In his mind was born the plan for this prison's present "hook-up" system. He discussed his ideas with Warden Harry H. Jackson, "Michigan's reform warden," who okayed the project and ordered that work be started immediately.

The radio division borrowed $10,000 from the institution, equipment was ordered from outside firms, and upon its arrival inmate workmen began the task of installing "the system that couldn't possibly operate."

THE inmate body viewed the undertaking with a jaundiced eye. Five thousand men listening to one radio at the same time? Impossible! Only a "screwball" could have conceived such a plan!

On Christmas day, 1936, the "inside hook-up" was completed when the inmate technician threw switches which sent programs from the Columbia, National, and Mutual broadcasting networks to approximately three thousand dubious, waiting inmates.

In the control-room, situated in the administration offices just outside the front gates, three huge, twelve-tube receiving sets bring the nation's finest air programs to the man in the cell. An auxiliary set is always ready for use in the event that one of the three others cuts out. The three receivers in operation relay an average of fifty-five programs daily over approximately seventy-five miles of wire to more than thirty-six hundred individual headphones.

Each cell is equipped with a wall panel having three color-tagged outlets—CBS, white; NBC, red; MBS, blue. Inmates subscribing to the "state hook-up" pay twenty-five cents a month, for which they receive a headphone with eight feet of cord to permit freedom of movement in their cells. Controlled by an automatic time switch, the system is in operation from 7:00 a.m. until 11:15 p.m. An inmate can switch from one network to another by simply pulling and replugging his phone connection. All cells in the hospital building are equipped with hook-ups, free to patients.

Approximately $17,000 has been invested in the centralized system, including original installation cost, headphones, broadcasting studio equipment, and subsequent maintenance. The initial $10,000 borrowed from the institution has been repaid and the radio division is now self-sustaining.

Thirteen inmates under the supervision of Harry L. Sairs operate and maintain the system. Eight are employed inside the walls, three in the front-house control-room, and two in the probation cell-block outside the walls. Since inmates working outside the walls are never permitted to enter the prison except on urgent excuse, a talk-back system connects the inside department with the control-room. All business between the two branches is conducted over this line.

Twice each week the prison orchestra broadcasts from the prison studio by remote control over station WIBM, Jackson. Every evening the "blue channel" of the system is used by inmates to present a thirty-minute news program and a thirty-minute musical program to the men in the cells.

The newscast, called "the Radio Gazette," is one of the inmate body's most popular programs. Conducted by a rapid-fire commentator who employs three inmate assistants, "the Radio Gazette" presents a daily word portrayal of prison and prisoners, featuring tidbits of "stir" gossip, "classified advertisements," official notices, and miscellaneous news items with a prison slant, clipped from outside newspapers.

THE inmate body's preference in radio entertainment is comparable to that of any community of five thousand persons. However, three types of programs are unquestionably more popular with inmates than with any "outside" audience.

The first of these is the news broadcast. Convicts have come to regard the daily newscast as indispensable. It is their current-history text-book; the foundation of their discussions about "the outside world." The ancient pastime of rumor-spreading in prison is burning low. Too many men get their information "straight from the feed-box" and are always at hand to answer a would-be rumor-starter with: "Aw, you're nuts! Jack King's broadcast didn't carry anything about Hitler being shot. Take a mope!"

The second type of program is the theater of the air. When such programs are presented, rival offerings have no appeal for a great majority of the inmate body. The next day, conversations invariably begin with a question like, (Continued on Page 37)

NEW YORK.—Horace Heidt and his "Musical Knights" have the distinction of being the first musical crew to be signed for a fall series. They will be heard Saturday nights starting October 7 . . . The Tommy Riggs show fades May 27 but returns to the air on September 2. During the summer months he will take "Betty Lou" on a tour of the country, playing in vaudeville theaters . . . Gang Busters will go off for the summer on June 26 . . . The "Mighty Show" departs very soon . . . A show featuring Jane Froman, Jan Peerce and an orchestra conducted by Erno Rapee has been auditioned, and the names mentioned means that it should make for grand radio entertainment . . . The character of "Archie" heard on the late "This Is New York" series has been transformed into a dramatic show and the auditions give it good reports . . . Edythe Wright and Tommy Dorsey apparently have agreed to disagree again, because the songstress is leaving the band for the second time in a few months . . . Bob Crosby was in New York for a short visit to talk business with a prospective sponsor, who, I'm still inclined to believe, is the cigarette-maker who pays Benny Goodman his radio salary . . . Mark Warnow was given a renewal for another thirteen weeks on the Lucky Strike "Hit Parade," which makes it twenty-six straight weeks for this bandsman. No other ork-pilot has been on this show for even as long as thirteen consecutive weeks since the program hit the air . . . The Phil Baker show has added a swell Hawaiian string ensemble to the program . . . The band Ray Noble is conducting on the Burns and Allen program from New York is not the same one he used on the Coast. In most cases, whenever a bandleader goes from one coast to the other a new band has to be organized because it's much cheaper than transporting an entire crew across the country.

Kilocycle Chatter

In case you don't know it, Harry Horlick is back on the air on Friday nights. Horlick and his grand music have been missed by many dialers, including your reporter . . . And I hope that Chesterfield cigarettes uses announcer David Ross on their new Fred Waring series. It's a combination that goes well together . . . Last week I told you that "Information, Please" was going to be made into a series of movie shorts. Now comes word that you can get an "Information, Please" book containing questions and answers of thirty-five quiz sessions . . . The popular CBS quiz show, "March of Games," which is handled by some smart youngsters, has a book of questions and answers under the program's title and it is grand to have when you have guests over . . . A new song soon to be published is, "That I Did, That I Did," which will be introduced by the Andrews Sisters. The idea for the title was taken from the very funny "Man in the Box" skits on the Phil Baker show, which is written by Dave Schwarz, a newcomer to radio-writing who has made good . . . All's fair at the World's Fair and it wouldn't surprise me if Grover Whalen asked Dick Himer to get a new theme song. His current signature number is "It Isn't Fair" . . . While on the subject of the Fair, the Vox Pop show may continue through the summer with the program coming direct from the World's Fair grounds . . . That's where the new Ray Perkins show originates and it has a new and novel twist. The program awards prizes of $150 in cash to the writers and recipients of the winning letter. All you do is visit the Westinghouse exhibit at the Fair and write a letter home. The letter is mailed free of charge and a copy is retained for the contest. A board of judges selects the four most interesting and witty and these winners will also be invited to appear on the Ray Perkins program. Oh yes, the addressees back home also receive cash awards. I almost forgot that.

Behind the Scenes

Spring has finally hit the radio actors. I went to a rehearsal of "Cavalcade of America" Monday and got there before things had started. One of the actors, Frank Readick, had won his first golf tournament of the season the week-end before and the entire cast was talking about nothing but golf. When it was time for dress rehearsal to start, Homer Fickett, director of the program, stepped to the loudspeaker mike. "Ladies and gentlemen," he announced, "the Cavalcade of America Golf Tournament is about to begin. May we have quiet, please, while Thomas Chalmers tees off?" And the rehearsal was under way . . . While listening to a rehearsal of Columbia's "Aunt Jenny" program, actor Kenneth Delmar sat down beside me. I noticed that his watch was twenty minutes fast, and knowing how important time is to radio actors, I mentioned it to him—but I needn't have bothered. Kenneth, it seems, always keeps his watch twenty minutes fast. When it's only five minutes ahead it has no effect on him, but when it is twenty minutes ahead he looks at it and it scares him so he rushes as fast as he can and always gets where he's going just about on time . . . Preliminary rehearsals of the "Gang Busters" program are very dignified affairs. The actors sit in a row of chairs on one side of the studio, and the production man, engineer, sound-men and script-girl sit at a table on the other side of the room. The actors read through their parts sitting down, the sound-men note down their sound-effects, the script-girl checks the changes as they are made in the script and the engineer notes his problems as well as timing the first read-through with his stop-watch. The production-man, of course, does the directing, and later, when everyone knows what his own special problems are, they go through the whole thing "on mike."

The last time I heard Bob Ripley's "Believe It Or Not" program I wondered how they got that deep-throated, eerie sound when they announced, "Believe It Or Not" at the beginning of the show. Well, believe it or not, but I made a special trip to CBS Radio Theater No. 1 last Friday to find out. In case you're interested, that hollow-voiced effect is created by putting a long seven-foot tube about twelve inches in diameter into a grand piano. A mike is placed at the end of the tube inside the piano and then the piano is covered with a large blanket to keep the sound in. When the announcer shouts, "Believe it or not" into the end of the tube it's exactly like hollering down a rainbarrel . . . Caught a rehearsal of Columbia's "Tune-Up Time" this week, too. André Kostelanetz, "Tune-Up Time" maestro, is still unearthing new oddities like tin whistles, rubber hose, cuckoo clocks, bottles and what have you for use in his orchestral arrangements. When he played the Kostelanetz version of "The Mikado" he used one of those glass-prism affairs that can be hung from the bottom of a chandelier and which tinkles whenever there's a breeze. One of his musicians stood with it at a mike and jingled it at the beginning and the end of the number to create an oriental atmosphere. Wonder what Andre will think of next?

HOLLYWOOD SHOWDOWN

BY EVANS PLUMMER

HOLLYWOOD.—They tell me: That when Rudy Vallee went about looking for a leading lady to cast opposite himself in his April 27 performance of the sketch, "Ships That Pass" (his own play-writing(?) job, by the way), he called up Gale Page at the Warner Brothers lot. "I'm Rudy Vallee," he explained, "and I'd like to have you on my radio program." Came the snappy retort, "Don't be silly, mister. I've been in Hollywood over a year and have been kidded by experts!" The great Rudy had to prove his identity before the brunet actress would take him seriously. . . . That Irene Dunne wouldn't autograph a listener's auto fender after "Screen Guild Show" last Sunday. When asked why, she told of an actress friend who did and then was sent a bill for a repaint job! . . . That Robert Taylor is now considered a ranch expert; at least, Bob Young, the "Good News" star, is studying Taylor's ranch before fitting his new one at Tarzana. . . . That five years ago, Vick Knight, now Eddie Cantor's producer, wrote a 15-minute radio play, "The Cartwheel," about the adventures of a silver dollar, and sold it to CBS for $50. Now he learns it has been included in the Oxford Press selection of "Best Radio Material"! . . . That Myrna Loy has turned athletic and now sponsors the M-G-M technicians' softball team, who call themselves Loy's Boys. . . . That Mary Jane Barnes, the eighth of the first eighteen youngsters to be showcased successfully by Jesse Lasky's first "Gateway to Hollywood" series, has been signed for a good role in Wanger's "Winter Carnival," proving that this amateur broadcast is no racket. . . . That despite denials, the Crosby kidnap threat was the Hoyle and caused great precautions to be taken.

the only Hollywood celebrity to wear the badge. Other joiners include Cary Grant, Eddie Cantor, Fannie Brice and director Vic Fleming.

Shaw's Narrow Squeak . . .

Just how serious Artie Shaw's recent relapse was has now come to light. Shaw, taken to Good Samaritan Hospital here following his collapse after his opening-night performance, was found to be suffering from agranulocytopenia by Dr. Arnold Stevens, who stated that in his five years at the Mayo Clinic he had observed thirteen such cases, only one of which survived! Text-books even list the disease, a progressive disappearance of the white blood-corpuscles, as fatal. Five blood-transfusions were given to Shaw before he passed the crisis successfully, and although he is due to leave the hospital May 13, the bandleader must rest at home at least another three weeks. Meantime, loyal jitterbug crowds are packing the Palomar to hear his band—and his records have been selling like RADIO GUIDES.

Long-Distance Daddy . . .
Expectant father Robert Emmett Dolan, "The Circle" maestro, did his room-pacing at the western end of a transcontinental telephone line week before last when his eight-and-three-quarter-pound son was about to be born in New York City. Brother-in-law Buddy Elsen, in New York, kept father-to-be Dolan's nerves soothed until the ordeal was over and word came through that mother Vilma and son were doing nicely. . . . Other hospitalizations of the week included that of Frank Gill, Bill Demling's comedy-writing partner on the Joe E. Brown show, who had an impacted wisdom-tooth removed, and Jackie Cooper, who parted with his tonsils.

Phil Harris Papa Too

Disclosed last week was the news that the Phil Harris household now boasts a valuable three-year-old bundle of boy, with blue eyes and brown hair, who has been dubbed "Tookie" at the request of Phil's boss' wife, Mary Livingstone, who noted that the youngster asked for a "tookie" when he wants a cookie. The name will stick, Mascotte Harris explains, until Tookie takes himself another of his own choice. . . . And also, when Tookie takes a few boxing-lessons he can level off at Jack Benny for saying that his actor-bandleader Harris is "so hammy that he wears cloves instead of clothes." Which reminds me that the other day a man phoned and asked for Harry Baldwin, Jack's secretary, who has evidently well impressed listeners with his voice on the Jell-O show. "This is Baldwin," he replied, and heard, "Yeah? I know you. You're the guy who's always heckling Benny with a fake telegram."

Backstage in Glamourland

At NBC, Charlie McCarthy showing off his new wardrobe additions—a baseball suit and a new all-cotton outfit from Memphis. . . . At "Camel Caravan," the visiting Ned Sparks, from "Texaco Theater," discovering that the check Cantor had playfully given him was a real one made out to Eddie for several thousands of dollars! . . . Kenny Baker showing his most unusual fan request—from an aged spinster who wanted him to sing "She's Only a Bird in a Gilded Cage" on her 8-year-old canary's birthday!

Rom-Antics . . .

Hmm! Now it's Memphis Cotton Carnival Queen Alice Louise Hall who has captured the Edgar Bergen eyes—and two dates with him. . . . Meantime, Connie Moore, of the cast of Bergen's last picture, "You Can't Cheat an Honest Man," eloped secretly to Yuma, Arizona, April 23 and became the bride of Johnny Maschio, the agent. . . . Glenda Farrell, who opens her summer stock circuit May 15 at Olney, Md., with "Stage Door," will take an intermission come August to visit New York and say "I do" in the company of Tom Lewis, the Young & Rubicam radio executive. . . . Bud Ernst, the KMTR, Hollywood, manager and crony of Errol Flynn, has given a sparkler to Mary's niece, Gwynne Pickford. . . . Frank Parker fan clubs, please copy. Said Parker, "I hate to go back to New York. I'm getting old (36) and want to settle down." So? . . . Maxine Grey, the Hal Kemp canary, and Tommy Lee, the Don Lee network proprietor, aren't kidding! . . . Who's the new cutiepie in Phil Stewart's life? . . . Skinnay Ennis, after the Bob Hope show winds up late in June, plans a trip to Honolulu. And how about Joy Hodges, is she going?

Screwballs All

Used to be that Carole Lombard was known as Hollywood's greatest screwball, but now that she's gone domestic with a sewing-basket and all, Clark Gable has joined the order. Yep, he took time out (who doesn't?) from making "Gone with the Wind" to pin on his lapel a gold screwball emblem recently distributed by Doc Rockwell to folk who appreciate the proposal, on Doc's NBC broadcast series, of the Rockwell cure-all brain trust. Nor is Gable one room. Grandma Esther was only sixty then and she had to work hard to feed that little runny-nose brat.

Izzy was a brat, bawling one minute and singing the next. Grandma Esther sent him to school here and there, but every time he got a chance to make a few pennies he quit school. Pennies were more important than history. You can't eat history. However, a lot of folks are eating it today and it doesn't rest well on the stomach.

Izzy Iskwowitz of New York's Ghetto got shoved around by people and circumstances when he was a kid, so Izzy grew up to be Eddie Cantor of the radio and the movies and the stage, a champion of underdogs

EDDIE CANTOR was born in a dump by the side of the road—Tobacco Road. And he became a friend to many men and all kids.

Forty-five years ago Izzy Iskwowitz slept on a bare floor with unwashed immigrants. Ten years ago he was worth a million, earned honestly, despite the times. Eight years ago he was broke again. Last year, in London, a spotlight reserved for kings was turned on the jester and a big man said, "Eddie Cantor, a Jew, is the best Christian I know."

God bless America! A gentleman at Monticello takes up the cudgel for the poor. A roughneck in Tennessee, tough as old hickory, hauls out his horse-pistols to defend the downtrodden. An ugly man with a wart emancipates millions and keeps a surging, squalling family of brat states under the same roof. A pop-eyed kid is spewed from the stinking gutters and lives to be called beloved. God bless America!

Although there is a Tobacco Road in Georgia, the gummy road has come to mean a sordid thoroughfare from Maine to California along which struggles one-third of a nation. The road runs past Eldridge Street in Manhattan's Ghetto, where there is nothing much except hope, and precious little of that.

Izzy Iskwowitz was born with egg eyes and spider legs over a Russian teashop in the Ghetto on January 31, 1893. Grandma Esther lived down there, too. Grandma Esther had a tongue like parted lightning and a love as huge as the sky whence lightning comes. She would box a fellow's left cheek and kiss his right, and feed him and put him to bed.

IZZY'S mother died before he was dry behind the ears, and his father soon after. The meanest team of the Apocalypse, disease and poverty, loped around the Ghetto day and night and they ran over Izzy's parents. But not Grandma Esther!

She took Izzy to her home. It was

Cantor made a Broadway hit in "Whoopee" ten years ago (shown in scene from show above); made "Whoopee" for films soon afterwards; did the show on the air for "Lux Radio Theater" in 1936

The boy's favorite stunt was to imitate the Polish girls who flopped in Grandma Esther's one room. He was a figgy, springy boy, smart-alecky.

Not far away on Henry Street lived Ida Tobias, and Izzy would roll his popped eyes at her and she would giggle. Sometimes they would walk along Henry Street holding hands. And one night Ida was sitting at home in the dark and her mother said, "What are you doing, Ida? Dreaming about that pop-eyed, skinny little loafer with the bum jokes?" Mrs. Tobias didn't know Izzy was with Ida.

He was a good impersonator. He could take off Grandma Esther to who laid a chunk. He'd take off anybody, even the Tammany bosses, who were taking off of everybody. He got two-bit jobs here and yonder and got fired for kidding and clowning.

But down on the Bowery at Minor's Theater the big-hearted management conducted an amateur night. He'd give a kid a dollar if he made the grade. If he didn't make the grade the boss would yank him off the stage with an iron hook. Izzy took a chance. He mimicked a ward politician and won the $5 top award.

Out at Coney Island he got a job as entertainer in a saloon.

"It was Carey Walsh's Cabaret," Cantor said. "I was only a singer at first, but when I discovered that waiters made more, I became a singing waiter. Jimmy Durante played the piano, and I acted before the most critical audience in the country—one that wouldn't hesitate to throw anything from a lamp-post on down if they thought the song was rotten."

His first real break came when the juggling team of Bedini and Arthur gave him a spot. They played at Hammerstein's Victoria. And we might as well tell this story right now. Bedini and Arthur were good to Eddie. Years and years later, Bedini died, and so did vaudeville, and Roy Arthur was on his uppers. Cantor heard about it and gave Arthur, known as Bunky, a job on his radio staff for life. He's Eddie aide-de-camp.

Gus Edwards saw Cantor work, and in 1912 Grandma Esther's boy joined Edwards' "Kid Kabaret," the cradle of many of the theater's great. Other kids in the "Kabaret" were Georgie Jessel, Georgie Price, Lila Lee, Eddie Buzzell, Gregory Kelly and a hooper now known as Walter Winchell.

The kids barnstormed, and on a tour Eddie met Will Rogers and idolized him. He still idolizes Rogers' memory almost to a maudlin degree. He owns a priceless collection of Rogerana, the largest in the world.

In 1913, the "Kabaret" was acclaimed in New York and Cantor was made. Ida had done all right. She had a job and her folks had moved from Henry Street out to Brooklyn. The wedding was at her folks' flat. The friends asked her father to suggest a wedding present and Mr. Tobias said, "I think Eddie can use the cash." They took up a collection of $60, and on June 9, 1914, Eddie sailed for England with a bride, $2,500 and a good dose of seasickness.

THEY took in London and London took them, and soon the $2,500 was gone and Ida suggested Eddie get a job. He placed in a thing called "Charlot's Revue." It did all right until the caissons began rolling. Oh, Lord, will they ever stop?

Back home, he teamed up with Al Lee and toured the vaudeville circuits. Ida toured with him. There was a dog act in the show and one of the Mexican bull pups was named Punillo. Mrs. Cantor said the pup looked like Eddie, or vice versa. They bought the dog and Ida began calling Eddie Punillo. She still does.

Earl Carroll spotted Cantor on the West Coast in 1916 and persuaded Oliver Morosco to hire him for "Cannary Cottage," a musical comedy. In it, Eddie played with Charlie Ruggles and Trixie Friganza.

Ziegfeld, God's gift to A. T. & T. stockholders, was the head man of New York's musical show empire. Cantor was plugging along out West. Ida was busy, too. Marjorie was a baby.

One day, like a bolt from the blue, Cantor got a telegram from his agent that Ziegfeld had booked him for twenty weeks in the Midnight Frolic, on the New Amsterdam Roof.

Eddie almost collapsed. He didn't know that his agent was pulling a fast one. In New York Eddie discovered the Great One not only hadn't promised him a spot but didn't even know him. However, he didn't know all that when he went up to Ziegfeld and Gene Buck and said, "I'm Eddie Cantor."

Ziegfeld stared at him. "What do you do?"

"I'm marvelous," Cantor said.

"How do you know?"

Cantor said, "I wouldn't lie to you." The Great One said, "I'd better go to lunch." But Buck stayed. Cantor lifted his heart out of his boots.

Buck let him sing "Oh, How She Could Yacki Hicki Wicki Wacki Wool!"

He even let Cantor tell this joke: "My father is a nice fellow. He ought to be back soon. After all, no matter how nice you are, you can't work in a bank and bring home samples."

That was 1916, not 1929!

Buck talked a bit with him and said, "You're in the show."

From the Frolic, he was in the Follies with Will Rogers, W. C. Fields, Fannie Brice and Bert Williams.

Cantor started crusading when he was a kid. He always hated bullies. He was a little fellow and got kicked around a lot, and as he grew older he formed a contempt for big men who picked on little men. And he always had a feeling for the underdog. It was natural for him to take an active interest in Actors' Equity (snooty name for a union) back in 1920. Actors took a lot of punishment from producers and their stooges back in those days. So the actors got together and unionized art. It was a terrible thing to do! The producers said so, and that made it true.

Today, Cantor is the crusader with a cudgel, the militant missionary. He was the first president of the American Federation of Radio Artists. He's been head man of just about every organization in the actors' world. There is no telling how many children he has helped.

The fat 20's wallowed by, and Cantor made a fortune. You remember such shows as "Make It Snappy" and "Kid

WHO is your star of stars? This is a contest for you, this Radio Guide Star of Stars poll. This is your one big chance to exercise your right to register your vote for the radio candidates of your choice. Why shouldn't it be your contest? Why shouldn't you have that right to go on record for your favorites? American radio belongs to you, the listener; and you have the inalienable right—along with life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness—to determine your own entertainment and education. Who is your star of stars? Who has given you the most care-soothing, the most blood-tingling melodies, the most hilarious laughs, the most valuable information, the most unusual thrills? Who is your star of stars? Join the parade of top honors. The contest is the hottest yet. Results (see page 41 for standings in poll) to date show many neck-and-neck races, with many old and new candidates in the running for their own favorites. Who is your star of stars? Even the radio stars themselves vote for the colors of your favorite home in front. Midnight, May 31, is the finish line. Get your whip into action—and your pencil. Don't let your candidate falter in the stretch. Vote now! Who is your star of stars? Push him, or her, or them to the front for the honor they deserve and for the satisfaction you yourself will get from picking a winner. Who is your star of stars? For complete up-to-date tabulations on all of your candidates, listed according to their proper classifications, look on page 41 of this week's issue of Radio Guide.

THEY'LL REMEMBER MOTHER'S

IN EVERY home the idea of Mother's Day has the same deep emotional appeal. That appeal is as meaningful to the mothers of radio and to the sons and daughters of radio as to any of their listeners. Those who know radio folk will tell you so. For, in spite of the demands which fill the lives of these workers in a profession characterized by the strain of creative effort and punctuated by stop-watch timing, you'll find among them some of the best mothers, some of the happiest children. On these pages, Radio Guide presents some of the mothers of radio with their children, and some of the children and grown-ups of radio with their mothers. They are offered with the thought that listeners will like to know more of the family life of radio personalities—to know that their radio friends have the same warm appreciation of home and mother as they have themselves.

THE WEEK'S BEST DRAMA

Sunday, CBS

Sometimes it isn't so fortunate to be the son or daughter of one of the greats—especially if you're the kind who wants to get along on your own name and merit. Such a one is so often branded with the "son of so-and-so" mark and it is likely to lead to a complex and a pigeon-hole. Doug Fairbanks, Jr., is one who rose above the "son of" situation, even though his father was one of the most illustrious actors ever to cavort on the silver sheet. Doug, Jr., recently married out of the profession, at just about the time his ex-wife, Joan Crawford, divorced Franchot Tone. The great son of the great father will be starred this week on the "Silver Theater" program.

"Down on your belly, you fool!" Imagine shouting thus at a president of the United States. President Lincoln—as Lincoln would—thought it quite a joke, and took it like a sport. He often laughed about it later with Oliver Wendell Holmes, for Holmes was the young lieutenant-captain who had been assigned to guide Abraham Lincoln around the camp and who barked the "down!" command at the President when artillery fire came dangerously close. Holmes, thrice wounded in the Civil War, later became as great an American jurist as his father had been a great man of letters. When the brilliant and liberal Supreme Court justice retired in 1932 he said to his associates, "Good-by, boys. I won't be down tomorrow." A few years later one of America's most revered public figures died. "Cavalcade of America" pays tribute this week to Oliver Wendell Holmes (the second) in its dramatization of his life over a CBS net.

FRONTIER OPENERS Sunday, NBC

A single shot rang out in a squalid blockhouse on the old Natchez Trace—and the Lewis and Clark Expedition was ended. A great adventure had run its course—an adventure that began in the White House and was carried across the continent, penetrating one million square miles of wilderness.

But the story of the Indian tribes inhabiting the regions of the buffalo and the timber wolf, of the hardships and the hardihood of these brave explorers is one of the most colorful chapters in our American history. SHOOT TWICE! Monday, NBC

When you tell someone to "shoot!" you naturally aren't suggesting that they put you out of your misery with a lead slug. Usually in good American slang you mean one of two things—either "go on and click the camera" or "spill your story." Not often do you mean both. In the case of Gene Lester you do, for Gene's a double-barreled phenomenon. He's an expert professional cameraman and he's a glib gabber and actor. So when Al Pearce says "Shoot!" to Gene Monday night, he'll get both a clicking camera and a clacking tongue. Adding Gene Lester to Elmer Blurt, Arlene Harris and Eb and Zeb should make quite a novel gabfest. Look for Gene Lester's visit to the Al Pearce show—in pictures—in RADIO GUIDE soon.

ROYAL ACTIVITIES

Mon., Thurs., Fri., NBC, MBS, CBS

You know, of course, that King George VI and Queen Elizabeth are coming to visit Great Britain's favorite child, Canada, and Britain's highly esteemed prodigal, the United States. (We're assuming there will be no war to keep them at home between our press deadline and their starting date.) There will be many elaborate functions and colorful activities attendant upon the visit. Radio will bring to you many of these highlights. For instance, on Monday the networks will carry descriptions of the arrival of the royal party in Quebec and that city's pagentry of welcome. Later in the day in another broadcast the king will make his first address in North America when he will be the guest at a formal luncheon at the Chateau Frontenac. On Thursday the king will speak again at the unveiling of the War Memorial at Ottawa, Canada. On Friday the queen will have her day, speaking on the air for the first time on the trip.

Commissioned to gather data on the unknown Indian tribes west of the Mississippi—a seemingly commonplace purpose on the surface—the expedition blazed a trail through prairies, plains and timberlands that men with vision and women with endurance were later to follow in America's course of destiny. Advancing in stages of twenty-five miles a day, Captains Lewis and Clark and a crew of twenty-eight men sighted the Pacific sixteen months after beginning the historic project that opened a world of frontiers for millions of immigrant homesteaders. It may seem detached and unexciting to us as we sit safe and comfortable in our modern homes, perhaps in territory opened

LONG WAY TOGETHER

Tuesday, NBC

Frank Crumit and Julia Sanderson will celebrate their tenth anniversary of radio entertainment this week. That's quite a record, but it isn't the only long-range record that Mr. and Mrs. Crumit are proud of. They have seen eighteen years of one of the show world's most successful professional partnerships and eleven years of harmonious married life. All this despite the title of their current radio program, "Battle of the Sexes"! Back in 1921, the mills of the gods ground out a feathery little piece of musical comedy proportions known as "Tangerine." Being in a magnanimous humor the rulers of destiny continued to grind their mills till they got the tenor-comedian and the giggling gal pretty close together in this show. From then on Sanderson and Crumit took care of their destinies together, and the individual star of each rose higher thereby. Now, after years of traveling along the highways—and a few byways—of public entertainment, Frank and Julia live contentedly in their home—suggestively called Dunrovin—at Longmeadow, near Springfield, Massachusetts, commuting to New York for their "Battle of the Sexes" show each Tuesday.

ACE IN PEACE, TOO

Wednesday, CBS

General Pershing needed a capable chauffeur. Eddie Rickenbacker was capable, even if he was a speed demon, so he got the post and said good-by to the Indianapolis Speedway. As the great general's chauffeur he was for a while under close surveillance, for such a key position would have been an ideal spot for a German spy. Rickenbacker proved to be anything but a German spy when he went overseas. He became the greatest ace of the American flying-corps and the scourge of the German air warriors. He survived the war miraculously and returned to America to pick up where he left off his interest in motors and the speedway. A few years later under great handicap he mustered together enough money to open the Rickenbacker automobile factory. Misfortune after misfortune befell the flyer

VETERAN VALLEE Thursday, NBC

They say Rudy is slipping. It looks as if Kate Smith's American gestures and personal charm and showmanship are definitely winning the Thursday night tug-of-war from Vallee's venerable formula of variety entertainment. But a gallant warrior doesn't go down without a fight. You can't deny Rudy is a stanch warrior, and he's still a long way from the bottom, even if the Crossley ratings do show him a bit removed from his former top rung. This week Rudy celebrates his 500th broadcast for the same sponsor. Any performer or program that can sell goods for one outfit over that long a period isn't going to slip into oblivion very rapidly. No matter what you think of Rudy's public fracasas and his romantic whims, you can't take it from the guy—he's a shrewd showman. Don't be too surprised if he makes something of a climb-back. One of the weapons Rudy has recently pulled out of his arsenal is his personal venture into the radio dramatic field. It's no secret that the musician has a strong drambition for both screen and radio. What effect his recent Thespian work on his variety hour will have on the program's rating remains to be seen.

Granpappy will be tapping his heel on the floor if nobody's watching. The old hayloft is going modern this week with a hot dance orchestra as guest of the weekly jamboree. The "Barn Dance" gang will be pitching a lot of hey-hey up in the loft. And speaking of pitching, Joe Sanders—whose orchestra will visit the hayloft—was a phenom as a baseball pitcher before he decided he'd rather stick to musical pitch for a career. Joe was an all-around athlete, with a muscle in that south arm that could do Hubbel-like things with a baseball. Proof? He won a big game in Kansas City by striking out twenty-seven batters! That drew him a big-league offer, but that left hand somehow decided it could have more fun and make more money striking out unique piano music. Joe wound up directing his own orchestra in some bizarre left-handed rhythms. Before the death of Carlton Coon, Joe was half of the Coon-Sanders leadership, with the old Kansas City Nighthawks. You remember, don't you?

WBBM announcer Ken Ellington (left) ad-libbed interviews with Chicago packing-industry workers on April 15 "Americans at Work"

CHICAGO.—"Knickerbocker Playhouse," a new half-hour dramatic show, bowed locally over WBBM Sunday, April 30. It's scheduled to go CBS May 21. The first show was "House Forsaken," with a cast headed by Elliott Lewis, sensational young star imported from the West Coast; Betty Lou Gerson, popular Chicago actress; and as guest, Ian Keith, stage and screen veteran. Keith also received the first of a series of "Knickerbocker Awards" for dramatic distinction. "House Forsaken" was a swell starter. The plot seemed to have been inspired by an actual situation in Evanston, Illinois, where a lover died just before the wedding, many years ago, and his fiancée left the car that was to have been their wedding coach standing beside the house, where curious passers-by peek at it through the weeds.

Hey, Rube!

Something rather unique has come to my attention. It's about a newspaper compositor who heard the call of radio. He came back to his home state of Illinois from Florida, landed a local spot on WHIP, Hammond, Indiana, and proceeded to put on a rube sketch that is wowing listeners and interesting radio higher-ups. I. W. Dunning takes the part of a couple dozen characters besides the title role of Rube Limpkins and does them well. Drawing fifty letters a day on a small local station illustrates how a Rube Limpkins or anybody with that certain spark can set the radio ether on fire—sometimes. Often a real spark smolders to ashes because broadcasting officials get smoke in their eyes, like other humans.

Head or Television?

You can flip a coin as to just when television will become a widespread popular reality in the United States, but you can bet on one sure thing—if you think of television images as a series of blurred lines, you'll be very pleasantly surprised. On April 24 television came to Chicago for several days, came lock, stock and iconoscope in the shape of a special portable televising outfit which Philco Radio & Television Corporation is taking on a Coast-to-Coast tour. You know, perhaps, that the range of television is about forty or fifty miles. The range of this particular set-up was much shorter—confined to the space inside an auditorium—but the principle was the same. Those who had heard about but had not seen a television demonstration were enthusiastically impressed by the vividness and three-dimensional effect of the images on the eight-by-ten-inch screen. The fidelity of the sound reproduction, too, was very high, as a group of local radio stars went through their paces for the demonstration.

June Marches On in May

Now it can be told for your benefit and mine that NBC's former screen actress, June Travis, has been on the air for three months incognito. It was a commendable gesture, typical of June's earnestness about the radio business, that she agreed readily with NBC to their letting her act for a while without a "name," in order to give her full opportunity to learn all there was to learn about the radio technique. So she did several "Story of the Month" roles as an unknown. She made her "name" debut in "Lights Out" April 26 (did a bang-up job). June now has a starring role with Karl Weber in "Shadows of the West," May's "Story of the Month." So NBC and June fooled us—yes, us—they scooped me, too. Ah, well, it's all for the best.

From Les to Moore to You

Many readers continually inquire about the background, the appearance and other characteristics of Les Tremayne, one of the most popular radio actors—not only of Chicago but of the country. The star of "First Nighter" and "Betty and Bob" hereby gives the lowdown on himself. There would be more to tell if space allowed, for Les' dramatic background is tremendous, even if it does just go back to 1917, when Les was four years old. Take the mike, Les.

"First, let's get the facts about my appearance out of the way, for I'd rather talk about acting. I'm five feet ten and one-half inches tall, weigh 155 pounds, have fair complexion, auburn hair, blue-gray eyes, a mustache and a baritone voice. I'm single.

"I was born in London, England, April 16, 1913, of a theatrical family on my mother's side. My first professional appearance was in a motion picture with my mother, Dolly Tremayne, when I was four. My educational background includes New York, Chicago, Iowa, Oklahoma, Kansas City, and private tutoring while in pictures in England. I've had special work in commercial art, drama, sculpture, dancing and vocal.

"My dramatic career includes everything from school and church plays in Oklahoma and tent-shows around the middle West to heavy drama. Some highlights are: Played the lead, Nicodemus, in the religious drama, 'The Messiah,' with a thousand in the cast, when it was dramatized for the first time in 1933; played Septimius in the American premiere and first performance in 300 years of Handel's 'Theodora'; made radio and personal appearances as special impersonator of the voice of President Franklin Roosevelt.

"Have been director, instructor in make-up, stage-manager, stage-hand, scenic artist, writer, hooper, vaudeville comedian, vocal soloist, dramatic reader, barker at fairs, stooge for magician, boy soprano in church choir, and jockey.

"I have no strong likes or dislikes, and try to enjoy everything, for life is short. We're all escapist and speed is my method—plus beautiful women, nature and fun. Those beat drink or a shot in the arm. Incidentally, they call me Speed."—Signed: Les Tremayne.

News Notes

A group of students of the "radio laboratory" of Frances Shimer College, girls' school of Mount Carroll, Illinois, was conducted on a tour of NBC, May 3 . . . Byron Keath, who came here from New York in March and who appeared at the State-Lake Theater with "Gang Busters," is now playing on WGN's "Painted Dreams" . . . Jimmy Dudley, popular Chicago sports announcer, has transferred from WIND to WCFL to work with sportscaster Hal Totten. Dudley was a prominent sports man in the East, especially Pittsburgh, before coming to Chicago . . . Barbara Luddy planned to New York after her April 28 show for a three weeks' vacation.

Trailer Tip

Roger Pryor has disbanded his band, perhaps so he can spend more time with wife, Ann Sothern. Anyhow, his ex-manager, A. H. Melcher, is very much interested in that new dance band built by Harry Kogen along new lines of crisp, sweet, danceable melody. Watch this Kogenisty band. It's the one I've been referring to mysteriously. I heard a preview the other day, and, believe it, Harry has something tri-umph-al.

The March of Music

Edited by LEONARD LIEBLING

"... An ampler Ether, a diviner Air ..."—Wordsworth

To the Ladies!

WHAT the Red Cross is to the world in general, the National Federation of Music Clubs is to the world of music in America. Both are humanitarian upbuilders, spread a spiritual message and give practical succor and sustenance.

The special domain of the N. F. M. C. (as that organization is universally called) is to foster the public love of good music, to encourage its practice among the members, to sponsor concerts and stimulate patronage in every community, and to hold prize contests for composers and native young artists.

Before 1893, there were many women's music clubs in our country, but they operated individually until that year, when at the Chicago world's fair their representatives assembled and formed the N. F. M. C.—with twenty clubs—under the honorary presidency of Mrs. Theodore Thomas, wife of the famous conductor of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. The first biennial convention was held in 1899. Now the Federation has grown to embrace 4,800 music clubs in forty-seven states, Alaska, Canada and the Panama Canal Zone, with a membership of some 500,000. The current president is Mrs. Vincent Hilles Ober, of Virginia.

In addition, the Federation has a junior division of 2,500 clubs, with about 6,000 members, having their own Junior Bulletin, courses of study and contests.

Through programs and concerts, the Federation clubs spend annually about $3,000,000 and are the backbone of the recital patronage; indeed, they developed it, and without them it would be difficult for touring artists to make their appearances financially successful.

On their own, the Federation clubs hold national Young Artists', student musicians' and Junior contests (established since 1913), and give awards of from $500 to $1,000. An affiliation with the Schubert Memorial, Inc. (New York) assures piano or violin winners engagements with the Philadelphia Orchestra and vocal winners an audition with the Metropolitan Opera.

In competitions for American composers, since 1907 the Federation has presented $50,000 in prizes, premiered their works (including four operas) at the biennials and given about 100,000 annual presentations of music by our native creators. Since 1931, the Federation commissions compositions from them.

Among other activities of the N. F. M. C. are a college-music survey, promotion of standards for music supervisors in public schools, radio broadcasts and recommendations, exchange programs with Europe and close cooperation with the Federal Music Project.

This week (May 16-23) the N. F.

M. C. is holding its twenty-first biennial in Baltimore, Md., with concerts, dance recitals, conferences, lectures, broadcasts, and social get-togethers.

There has been no force more helpful or constructive in American musical life than the N. F. M. C., and as at previous biennials, the Baltimore occasion is certain to bring forward more new and wider fields for its usefulness.

Speaking Up

By V. Vidal

A few months ago, station WQXR in New York, in search of novelty for their recorded symphonic programs, hit on the idea of broadcasting Edward MacDowell's second piano concerto. It used to be a favorite with pianists, but now is rarely heard. Eddy Brown, program director of WQXR, started on a hunt for a recording of the concerto. He found nothing in New York City, and only after a thorough search was he able to locate a recording by an obsolete company up-state.

He had the concerto played on the air. In less than a week, the station received almost two hundred letters praising the piece. Then five symphony orchestras decided to program it for next season. And finally, the World's Fair (N. Y.) chose it as the official American concerto for their festival of American music. It all happened on the strength of that one broadcast.

It was no surprise to Eddy Brown, however. He has always felt that the more American music is heard, the better it'll be liked. So he scheduled an American symphonic series to begin May 7 and run indefinitely every Sunday night at eight. He planned to include recordings of the best American modern music. But when he began to round up recordings for the series, he made the astounding and disgraceful discovery that practically no recordings of modern American music exist. Outside of a few outstanding examples, Brown was able to obtain only private recordings and some made at various music festivals, such as Yaddo. It took patience and long weeks of research to gather together a representative collection of recorded American works.

WQXR's experience should be a valuable eye-opener for the rest of the small stations around the country that broadcast recorded music. There is a demand for American music. The more it's played, the more people want to hear it. But if there are no recordings, it can't be played. And it's up to the smaller stations to see that such a situation is remedied, by creating a demand for more recorded American compositions. At a time when phonograph sales have reached a new high, it is inexcusable that some of our best native music should remain practically unknown.

FORECAST

SUMMER is officially on the way when Howard Barlow opens his annual Sunday symphonic series. This year it will not be known as "Everybody's Music" but merely as the Columbia Symphony Orchestra Hour. The time, however, will be the same, every Sunday at 3 p.m. EDT.

The National Federation of Music Clubs sponsors a large number of programs on both CBS and NBC this week. They afford a good opportunity to keep up with what is being done by various amateur groups around the country.

The Columbia Symphony Orchestra, CBS. Howard Barlow, conductor. Overture to "Iphigenia in Aulis" (Gluck), Ballet Suite (Rameau-Mottl), The White Peacock (Griffes), Indian Suite (MacDowell).

Gluck's two operas dealing with Iphigenia and happenings in Aulis and Tauris are practically unperformed these days, but their chastely classical overtures survive enduringly.

The composer, with his disdain of coloratura arias and other merely display music, had difficulty in getting "Iphigenia in Aulis" premiered in Vienna, where operatic traditions were Italian; likewise in Paris, but Queen Marie Antoinette (Gluck had been her childhood teacher) intervened, and in 1778 the work came to successful first hearing there. The libretto, based on the Racine play, is the story of how Diana saved Iphigenia from becoming a sacrifice to the god of winds when Agamemnon's fleet is becalmed in the harbor of Aulis.

Felix Mottl (1856-1911), one-time assistant to Wagner at Bayreuth, served as conductor at the Metropolitan in 1903. His skilfully orchestrated suite consists of excerpts from works by Rameau, early French composer of operas and ballets and author of a celebrated treatise on harmony.

MacDowell and Griffes offer interestingly contrasted styles, with the former more "American" than his younger countryman. Griffes, trained principally in Paris, fell strongly under the influence of the impressionism which found its peak in the music of Debussy and Ravel.

The NBC Orchestra, NBC. Hans Steinberg, conductor. Suite "Pulcinella" (Stravinsky), Siegfried Idyll (Wagner), Scheherazade (Rimsky-Korsakoff).

The ballet "Pulcinella" (a sort of Punch) was premiered at the Paris Opera in 1920, and concerns itself with that hero's comical and amorous adventures. Stravinsky's score is made up of melodic fragments from the music of Pergolesi (early eighteenth century). Modern touches of harmony are added, but without losing the contours or charm of the original tunes. Reproached for that "sacrilege," the composer retorted, "Better to hear neglected Pergolesi this way than not at all."

Of his familiar "Scheherazade" (1881) Rimsky-Korsakoff himself said: "All I desired was that the hearer, if he liked my piece as symphonic music, should carry away the impression that it is beyond doubt an oriental narrative of some numerous and varied fairy-tale wonders."

If your tastes are like mine, you will at all times shut off everything else on the radio to listen to the tender and poetical "Siegfried Idyll" whenever it is on the air.

Have you ever met the homey and forthright type of individual who declares "You can have all your symphonies and sonatas and fugues and I'll take 'Annie Laurie' and 'The Last Rose of Summer'?" Well, here's his carnival feast and he'll have many companions in his enjoyment.

Not that simple folk-tunish music is beneath the rest of us, but without being snobbish, we still feel that it does not belong with the masterpieces. Some of this program is as an Edgar Guest poem to Shelley; "Shore Acres" to a Shakespeare drama; and the old chromo-lithograph "The Empty Cradle" to Rembrandt's "The Night Watch." Our homey friend who chokes up when he hears his favorite type of music is moved chiefly by association and not by the prompting of high art.

It would seem, too, that the Lord's Prayer and the Ten Commandments carry a sufficiently potent message without being transcribed into music or verse.

Violin Series, MBS. Alfred Wallenstein, conductor; Benno Rabinof, violinist. Concerto in G Minor (Bruch).

Max Bruch (1838-1920), one of the most popular composers of his day, is now best known through his G Minor Violin Concerto, whose sentiment and brilliancy still ensure occasional performances from outstanding players. The work, written in 1865, has lost nothing of its romantic appeal, with a dramatic first movement, a truly lyrical second part and a rollicking and tempestuous finale. Bruch's other generally familiar opus is his "Kol Nidrei," for cello and orchestra, a beautiful setting of the famous old ritual Hebrew air of lament.

Bruch also shone as a choral composer, and many of his vocal examples remain in the repertoire of singing societies. In 1883 he visited the United States and conducted his "Arminius" with a local chorus in Boston.

Something About Violin Concertos

By Leonard Liebling

FOR such a young art as music, history is astonishingly obscure about the origin of some of the most important forms of composition. For instance, violin concertos. Giuseppe Torelli (1660-1708) is believed to have written the first violin concerto, but the jury is still out on the question.

However, there is no doubt that, like the piano concerto, those for the violin developed from the sonata, copied its form and tendency, and added orchestration at first sparse and then with all the later enrichments. Tartini and Corelli had carried the sonata to its highest expression, and it was inevitable that its next step should be collaboration with orchestra. Both masters then essayed the concerto and achieved some notable classical examples which embraced the technical innovations of those virtuoso composers. Nardini, pupil of Tartini, left six violin concertos. Vivaldi improved the form so extensively that it served as a model for Bach's harpsichord concertos. Locatelli (1693-1764) was another early fashioner of violin concertos in the style of his period. Pugnani (1731-1798) came next, with his nine violin concertos.

All those men were not only expert performers but also eminent teachers, and they and their pupils built the foundation upon which rests the present perfected art of violin-playing.

It was Viotti (1753-1824), pupil of Pugnani, who is unquestionably the creator of the kind of violin concertos (twenty-nine) that bridged over the ancient orthodox type to the modern style practised by his leading successors. He made the solo passages an integral part of the whole and derived from the themes themselves. The Viotti music has fire and feeling, much of the simple charm of his famous contemporaries, Haydn and Mozart, and also their fullness of orchestration. Of the concertos prior to Mozart, only Bach's grandiose ones now have frequent performance.

Viotti's pupil, Rode, brought pure poetry to his concertos, while Kreutzer reverted to some of the dry scholasticism of his predecessors. Spohr, the German, gave broad melody and nobility of design to his nineteen concertos, of which No. 8 ("in the style of a song scene") has an honored place in the repertoire. Beethoven left only a single concerto, but it is one of the greatest two of all time, Brahms' being the other. The first movement of the Beethoven is a veritable symphony, and the same may be said of that of Brahms. The pair of works, together with Bach's (especially the E Major), several of Mozart's, and the imperishable Mendelssohn masterpiece are the concertos most revered by violinists as well as the rest of the musical world.

Now we come to the two virtuoso concertos of Paganini, chiefly featuring technical brilliancy but also containing much intrinsic beauty and expert craftsmanship. The D Minor still is often heard. Ernst's F Sharp Minor tried to outshine Paganini in difficulty but lacked his invention and virility. De Beriot's concertos had vogue in their period, but at present find utterance chiefly in the classroom. His celebrated pupil Vieuxtemps carried on with distinction, his E Major concerto emphasizing all the glitter of the violin and most of the resources of the orchestra. His contemporary, Wieniawski, had greater melodic wealth and more sincerity of feeling. His D Minor concerto, active in the present repertoire, offers a truly romantic and lovely slow movement. Wieniawski's pages are the last of the real virtuoso concertos.

Beethoven set the standard which became general toward the end of the nineteenth century and dominates the twentieth. His D Major work has aptly been described as his "No. 10 symphony with violin obbligato." Bruch's G Minor, moved by the same spirit, has never lost its appeal and, for a while, rivaled Mendelssohn's E Minor in popularity. Saint-Saens (B Minor), Lalo (his "Symphonie Espagnole" is in reality a concerto), Godard ("Romantique"), Goldmark, Joachim ("Hungarian"), Glazounow, Dvorak, Tschaiowsky, each won acclaim with a concerto, the ranking one being by the last named. Elman once told me that he considers it only a whit behind Beethoven and Brahms in beauty, depth of feeling and mastery of workmanship.

Closest to our own time are the concertos by Elgar and Sibelius (recently come into use by many outstanding fiddlers) and some radical examples by Milhaud, Prokofieff, Szymanowski, Schoenberg and Americans Achron, Roy Harris, Roger Sessions. Less daring concertos by musical nephews of Uncle Sam have come from the pens of Carpenter, Jacobi, Schelling, Powell, Spalding, Stock. It is only natural these days to expect a concerto in jazz, and it has been furnished by Robert Braine.

Concertos for two violins were essayed by several composers, Bach's lone specimen being mightiest in that category. Brahms wrote one for violin and cello, but it does not touch his usual celestial heights. Nor does the triple concerto (piano, violin and cello) by Beethoven. Maurer (1789-1878) went them all one better with his concerto for four violins. Vladimir Dubensky (present member of the New York Philharmonic) has achieved no concerto so far, but hit a numerical high with his "Fugue for Eighteen Violins."

It seems reasonable that violinists should be best qualified to feature concertos for their instrument, but the undeniable fact remains that the acknowledged finest ones are by Bach, Mozart, Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Brahms, and Tschaiowsky—all of them pianists!

THE RADIO PLAYBILL

THIS WEEK:

"COAST TO COAST ON A BUS"

"THE White Rabbit Line! Jumps Anywhere! Anytime!" That's the call of "Coast to Coast on a Bus" as the capacious jitney stops here and there along its make-believe route, picking up little travelers who pay their fare in the coin of entertainment—singing, whistling, reciting. Begun in 1924 as a children's audition program, in 1927 it was turned over to Madge Tucker, who made it a breezy, juvenile variety program with Milton Cross as "conductor." "Coast to Coast on a Bus" presents as many as thirty children on a broadcast, resembles an amateur hour in its routine. It is presented over NBC on Sundays at 9:00 a.m. EDT; 8 a.m. EST; 8 a.m. CDT; 7 a.m. CST.

Next Week: "Kaltenmeyer's Kindergarten"

MILTON CROSS, important NBC announcer, is "conductor" of the imaginary bus. Usually associated with dignified, grown-up programs, Mr. Cross has proved his ability to preside over this informal juvenile show with an offhand good humor which speeds the passengers on their rollicking way without making them appear self-conscious or himself granddaddyish

THREE little Robinsons, Susan, Niels, and Lawrence, hop aboard the bus every Sunday morning. Fourteen-year-old Niels, with Susan (12) and Larry (9) are featured in quaint Danish folk-songs, and also have speaking parts. Like most other children on the program, the Robinsons are called by their own names, receive two dollars for each time they appear on the show

JUNIOR O'DAY, an accomplished young actor, plays the title role in the "Adventures of Peter Pig," episodic drama presented every Sunday, partly to bring listeners in closer contact with the children

AUDREY EGAN plays the part of Mumsy Pig, mother of Peter. Audrey is seventeen and one of the outstanding singers on the show. She was Betty on "Betty and Billy," serial soon to return to air

HERE are Carmina Cansino, Jean Harris, Diana Joan Donnerwirth, and Joy Terry—eight, nine, six and eight years old, respectively. Known to listeners as Carmina, Jean, Diana and Joy, they usually pay their bus fare by singing as a quartet or by acting. Joy has appeared on NBC's "Your Family and Mine" as Barbara Putman. They are all typical of the children who have come to the show as amateurs and are now regular members of the cast

HERE are the youngsters who appear regularly on "Coast to Coast on a Bus" gathered 'round "Conductor" Cross, singing their new theme song, "We're On Our Way." The song was written by Miriam Pollack, NBC staff musician, and Madge Tucker, author-director of the program. Other songs, novelty numbers and sketches are featured here as on any variety show

THIS fascinating foursome entertains sometimes as "The Singers," sometimes in a singing-guitar-mandolin bit, as "The Spanish Sisters." Very popular, they have also appeared on Irene Wicker's "Musical Plays" and on several other dramatic programs. Left to right, they appear: Renee Terry, 15; Virginia Torell, 15; Audrey Egan, 17, and Clementine Torell, 18

IN THE "Adventures of Peter Pig" these little girls are known as (left to right) Mrs. Hen, Honey Bun, and Jennie Goose; their real names are Marilyn Miller, Jeannie Elkins, and Patty Chapman. Miss Tucker writes all of the barnyard dramas, presents them not as an outstanding feature but as a means of achieving a balanced program, and also of giving juveniles the opportunity to develop their dramatic talent through the medium of radio

SINCE Madge Tucker took over "Coast to Coast on a Bus" in 1927, she and Milton Cross have made it the pride of NBC's juvenile fare. Miss Tucker is proud of the records made by child actors with whom she has worked on this program, delights in reminiscing about those who are coming to the fore on stage and screen. She is director of all children's programs for NBC

JACKIE KELK is the young man who opens the program by calling "The Jack Rabbit Line! Jumps Anywhere! etc." He is the "driver," also plays Percy Poodle, pampered darling of "Peter Pig" sketch

ESTELLE LEVY has a prominent part on the show, is talented both at singing and acting. At fifteen, she is currently heard as Peggy of the "Aldrich Family" on Kate Smith's show. Estelle is Polly Pig

Equipped to Receive TELEVISION SOUND

30 TUBE CUSTOM-BUILT
SCOTT
PHILHARMONIC

"In the future, as in the past, every practical development in Radio or Television reception will be incorporated in Scott Receivers immediately upon passing the experimental stage. The reception of television sound is a proved, practical accomplishment. I have therefore incorporated it into the design of all standard SCOTT Philharmonic receivers up to 60 megas. Far advanced in design and engineering, and with many amazing features developed in my own laboratories, the SCOTT is indeed the radio of today and tomorrow!"

"THE WORLD'S FINEST RADIO"
"Skilled technicians, working with finest materials and equipment, custom-build each SCOTT Receiver by hand, with fine watch precision, under my personal supervision. They are built to a standard of quality and performance not even remotely approached, I believe, by any other receiver in the world today! Yet, they cost no more than many mass production type radios. Small wonder the SCOTT has been purchased by Kings, Presidents, distinguished scientists, musicians, and other critical listeners in the U. S. and 154 foreign countries."

GUARANTEED 5 YEARS
30 days home trial. Convenient budget plan if desired. No dealers. SOLD ONLY DIRECT FROM OUR LABORATORIES. Mail the coupon for all the facts. No obligation.

DISCARD YOUR OLD AERIAL
It is Most Likely Corroded and Has Poor or Loose Nuts Connections
No MORE BUZZERS, CLICKS and shorts from summer rains and winter snow and sleet when using an F & H Capacity Aerial Eliminator. Anyone can connect it in a moment's time to the radio set—occupies only 1 1/2 inch by 4 inch space behind the set, yet enables your radio to operate without an aerial and tune in stations over the entire broadcast band—longwaves and short wave channels.
ELIMINATE THE AERIAL FOR GOOD
Attach this unit to your radio—make your set complete in itself—forget aerial wires and troubles—move your set anywhere—no more roof climbing, unightly lead-in or aerial wires.
NOW NEW—VALUE ALREADY PROVED on the market five years. 100,000 customers in U.S. and foreign countries.
In use from the Arctic Region of Norway to the Tropics of Africa. Each factory tested on actual long distance reception. Cannot harm set—Easily connected to any radio, including radios having no ground or radio for ground, aerial, etc. It will not operate on battery or automobile radios.
5 DAYS TRIAL. Mail coupon at once. Pay postman $1.00 plus a

WHAT USERS SAY
Lafayette, Tex. After using the Capacity Aerial Eliminator over a year on my 1935 small 7 tube set
I can say it brings in reception with fine volume and clarity, pulling in stations from Japan, Europe, South America, and broadcast stations from all over the U. S. Efficiency proven, I took down my old outside aerial. Signed:
Davenport, Ill. Received your Radio Aerial Eliminator and it works fine. It also works swell on short wave band. Wish I had found it a long ago. Signed:

NO MORE PLOTTING

"Say, did you hear 'Silver Dollar' last night? That guy Edward Arnold knows his stuff!"

The third type is the educational program. The average convict is anxious to learn, realizing that the date of his release will depend to a great degree upon his self-improvement. Instructors in the prison school, which has served as a pattern for other prisons throughout the world, constantly recommend that their pupils listen to educational features of the air as an aid in their school work.

The rehabilitative and educational benefits of radio in prison cannot be too greatly stressed. Penologists now recognize the fact that the maladjustments of character which result in criminal tendencies cannot be beaten into submission. Rather, they must be corrected.

However, despite statistics which clearly prove that medieval forms of penal punishment have unquestionably failed to stem this nation's ever-rising criminal population, there are those adherents of the old school of straight-laced penology who censure authorities for "coddling convicted criminals."

When these advocates of ball-and-chain penal methods learned that inmates of this prison were to have the privilege of radio in their cells, a condemning chant of "sugar-coated prison modes" arose on all sides. Scathing letters were written to newspapers and state officials. Charges were made that the taxpayers were supporting a "country club for convicted felons." Through it all, Warden Jackson stuck to his guns, firm in his belief that his was the right course.

Today, the results of his judgment are apparent. Inmates are no longer isolated, virtually ignorant of what is happening in the world they once knew—hope to know again. Instead of marking time on the sidelines while humanity marches by, as they once did, inmates are now able to keep step—out of formation, it is true, but abreast of the column nevertheless.

Probably the most important result of radio in prison is the amazing degree to which the morale of the inmate body has risen. Inmates no longer talk solely of crime, prisons, other convicts, and officials. Rather, they discuss politics, the European situation, music and orchestras, sports and the common little every-day activities of people all over the country as relayed over the walls to them by the magic of radio.

To lie in bed at night, wide-eyed and studying the shadows of cell-bars cast upon the wall by dim night lights, is one of prison's most nerve-racking periods. In spite of thoughts and good intentions during the day, bitterness grips the mind with dark fingers when cell lights are turned off and men lie down to toss in sleepless misery. It is in such hours that persecution complexes are born and nurtured. In bygone years, one adage held true: "When convicts can't sleep, they plot."

The past tense is used in mentioning that adage simply because it no longer holds water. Inmates now retire when cell lights are extinguished at 9:00 p.m. It is then that they slip over the walls to radio playhouses, Broadway night-spots, and Europe's political or war-torn fronts. Minds strained by the routine of a prison day relax to the melody and laughter of America's star radio programs. As convicts tour the world via three great broadcasting networks, conversation magazines are recharged for serious discussions during the coming day.

Radio in prison has been definitely beneficial to society. As a means of educating and creating in the inmate a desire to improve his circumstances, radio has succeeded where innumerable "reformers" have failed.

If the average person "outside" would experience the real value of radio, he may do so by simply confining himself to his home for a period of one week, discontinuing newspaper delivery, and admitting no visitors. Then, for the first six days, disconnect the radio. The morning of the seventh day, let him dial the radio to his favorite newscast—and wonder what half of it is all about! He will find that during his six days of complete isolation, the world has marched on, leaving him alone and bewildered.

Imagine, then, the confusion in the mind of the convict who, after five or six years in prison, finds himself suddenly on his own in a world that has advanced beyond his immediate understanding. Today, through the advantages of radio in prison, released convicts are able to step forth into a world with which they are familiar; a world whose rapid progress they have followed under the guiding hand of radio.

Educational measures are slowly replacing the "purely punitive" idea in American prisons. Radio plays a leading role in the drama of salvaging and remolding men who otherwise might always be liabilities to society. America's "Man at the Microphone" is doing more than just entertain. He is giving thousands of convicts courage and equipment to face the struggle of "coming back."

WRITE A SONG HIT

with a Hit Song Writer

We have 5 new melodies that need words . . . and 5 new sets of lyrics that need music. Each was written by a hit song writer . . . and we invite you to finish their songs. $1,000 advance royalties will be paid for the 10 winning songs selected with the aid of Paul Whiteman, Guy Lombardo, Billy Rose and Kay Kyser. If you can write simple rhymes . . . or hum simple tunes, it will pay you to send for our free illustrated booklet which describes our unique plan. Song Hit Guild, Inc., 1619 B'way, New York City.

Short-wave programs of American stations are shown along with the regular listings beginning on page 20. These are indicated, for example, by (aw-11.87) in parentheses following a program listing. This means that on 11.87 megacycles the same program may also be heard over an American short-wave station. Please note that foreign stations do not always adhere precisely to their announced program schedules.

JULY 11 has been set aside as "DX'ers Day" at the Golden Gate International Exposition. To celebrate this event an elaborate DX Festival has been planned. Amateurs, short-wave listeners and radio enthusiasts are all cordially invited to this first international DX convention. The Festival will include visits to radio points of interest in the bay area and to radio and electrical exhibits at the Exposition; participation in two International DX Festival programs to be broadcast over 20,000-watt Treasure Island station W6XBE, on Tuesday, July 11, and Wednesday, July 12; attendance at a genuine California barbecue banquet, at which visiting radio authorities will speak, and many other attractions. Notify Festival Chairman George C. Sholin, 55 Lapidge Street, San Francisco, Calif., as to how and on what date you or your party will arrive so that proper arrangements can be made to meet and entertain you. The committee urges those driving through to bring along a load of friends. If you plan to travel by train, and live in the eastern or central states, don't fail to join the special DX Festival tour party which is to leave Chicago on July 2, aboard the North Coast Limited of the Northern Pacific, stopping en route at many points of interest, including the Rockies, Seattle and Portland. Further information concerning the Festival or the tour can be had by addressing an inquiry to your columnist in care of RADIO GUIDE.

W8XAL (6.06), Cincinnati, Ohio, one of the most consistently received short-wave stations, is now operating as follows: Sundays from 8 a.m. to 7:30 p.m.; Mondays and Thursdays from 5:45 a.m. to 12 midnight; Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 5:45 a.m. to 7:30 p.m.; Saturdays from 5:45 a.m. to 11 p.m.; Sundays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 11 to 11:30 p.m., and daily except Saturdays from 1 to 2 a.m. EDT.

The Newark News Radio Club will sponsor an elaborate DX broadcast over station WKRC (550 kcs.) of Cincinnati, Ohio, on the night of May 20 (early morning of Sunday, May 21), at 4 to 6 a.m. EDT. The program will include a minstrel show, several comic sketches and an all-request musical period, as well as several interviews with members of the NNRG who will be attending from distant points. An operator will be on duty to take all telephone calls and wires, and listeners throughout the country are invited to call in or telegraph their request selections. Many valuable prizes, including an all-wave receiver, electric razors, pen and pencil sets, leather wallets, etc., will be awarded for the best reports on reception of the broadcast. Although not a short-wave item, DX'ers should be interested in this transmission.

Walter Kammann of Caracas, Venezuela, air-mails information about two interesting amateurs: YVAB8 (14.095), power 200 watts, operated by a private expedition to the Caroni River in southern Venezuela, may be heard almost daily at 10:30 a.m. EDT; YVAB9 (14.125), a transmitter belonging to the Gran Sabana Expedition, operates near 7 p.m. EDT.

SHORT-WAVE SHORTS: TPB3 (17.85) of Paris, France, is being heard with loud signals from 9:30 to 11 a.m. . . . According to the Australian DX club, authorities of the German Short-Wave Station have requested listeners to refrain from mentioning political affairs in their reports to them . . . Alfred Tuft of London, England, writes that FO8AA (7.1) of Papeete, Tahiti, is now transmitting Saturdays only, from 1 to 4:30 a.m. EDT . . . ZNS (6.09), the new short-wave station at Nassau, Bahamas, relays broadcast station ZNS (790 kcs.) daily from 2:30 to 3 and from 9 to 10 p.m. EDT. Station authorities are anxious for reception reports on ZNS, which should be addressed to the Director of Telecommunications, East Street, Nassau, Bahamas . . . Desmond Callan of Readville, Mass., has received information to the effect that PSH (10.22) of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, is now operating week-days from 7 to 8 p.m.; Mondays from 9 to 9:30 p.m., and on Fridays from 8 to 8:30 p.m. PSE (14.93) operates Wednesdays from 5 to 5:10 p.m., and Thursdays and Saturdays from 4 to 4:30 p.m. EDT . . . YV5RN (5.04), "Radio Caracas," Caracas, Venezuela, now said to be broadcasting with 5,000 watts power, is the best-heard station on the 62-meter band . . . ZRL, Capetown, South Africa, has shifted in frequency to approximately 9.62 megs . . . YV1RJ (4.97), Coro; YV5RY (4.79), Caracas, and YV5RS (4.96), Caracas, are the latest stations to adopt their new official frequencies in the 62-meter band. To date, all of the Venezuelan stations have shifted to the new band except two or three who are expected to move very soon.

LISTENER'S AID...

Radio Guide presents to the short-wave fan a new aid to reception . . . Radio Guide's LISTENERS HANDBOOK. In it will be found the leading short-wave stations listed according to their frequencies; their operating power, location, call letters and time on the air is also shown. Printed in easily understandable language, this log will prove an indispensable source of information to the short-wave dialer. Also included are logs of the municipal and state police transmitters of the United States listed alphabetically by cities. In addition, you will find 17 other sections full of interesting data including the following:

- How to Use Listeners Handbook
- Television Today—Tomorrow
- Television's Big Drawbacks
- Master Time-Conversion Table

breakfast is flavored by a shriek of indignation from a particularly ardent member of the top gallery, who, much grieved, accuses me of not having used enough "make-up" in my last Sieglinde at the Metropolitan, and entreating me to put more gray on my eyelids in order to improve my appearance. And surely next time I shall put on "more gray" and wonder half smilingly whether my unknown critical friend is more satisfied.

I shall try to mention some letters which have been fixed in my memory.

There are those often very funny requests for assistance of a quite unusual sort. I remember one letter received in Vienna from two youths longing for adventure. They had seen me as Eva in the "Meistersinger" and were delighted at the readiness with which the well-bred little daughter of the goldsmith agreed to her knight's proposal to elope with him. Now they assumed that I would have a worthy understanding for absconding! Incited by my Evchen, they had decided to leave school, which bored them stiff, and to set out on a trip round the world. With due modesty they begged me to finance their ambitious and wild plan. I squared the unintentional demoralizing effect which, amazingly, my Eva had on the boys, and wrote them a letter which would have done honor to any manager of a reformatory for misguided children. Probably it brought them the first great disappointment of their lives!

Another young man from an Austrian provincial town bombarded me with voluminous letters. He merely wanted me to adopt him and at the same time to arrange that a certain conductor whom he admired as ardently as he admired me should become his adopted father. He could not conceive anything more beautiful than to be the adopted child of us both. Now, it happened that this very conductor was especially uncongenial to me; in fact, we were known to be antagonistic, and therefore this whole question assumed a very comical, and perhaps also a satirical, flavor. I finally wrote the boy—as considerately as to a poor idiot—that he was a big child to assume that I, etc., etc. That was a dangerous word . . . Henceforth I received passionate letters in which he only signed himself "Your big child"! He unfolded world-crashing musical ideas to me; with my help he wanted to place himself at the top of the musical tree, and I was courageously to fight all intrigues which might stand in the way of his goal! I actually received these letters for years; the youth never tired of assuring me of his filial devotion and of asking me for fantastic sums of money for all sorts of exalted purposes.

Only the other day a young man wrote me from a provincial town in the U. S. A. that he felt he was an immortal artist. He composed eternal works and would like to be the interpreter of his fictitious characters. But a great genius belonged in New York. He was sure that I would understand this and give him the means to live there carefree and to come in contact with "high life"! Apart from his living-expenses, he asked me for $370, as he absolutely must have a new trunk and other trifles.

A young girl asked me for dresses, hats, coats and underwear, as she was quite sure I never wore anything more than once and threw it away in any case!

Once when an interviewer in Vienna only had the sense to report that my dogs are named Mohrle and Jimmy, that they howl protestingly when I dare to sing and that I consider galoshes for dogs unpractical, I received an anonymous letter in which the angry writer asked whether all prima donnas stood on such a high intellectual plane and whether I was not ashamed to have talked such nonsense. Heavens, how right the person was who treated me so unkindly! I should have liked to reply so much and asked that the angry outburst should be slung in the face of the interviewer . . . But unfortunately this letter bore no name or address. A great pity.

An old man from a home for the aged in New York sent me a childish painted bouquet of roses—with red, shaky pencil strokes—and a touching little note: he had no money to buy real flowers, but would I accept these from a radio listener?

In Australia a blind woman begged me for my photograph—she wished to hold it in her hands, even though she could not see it, but it sufficed her to know that it was my head that rested in her hands. How exquisite! That letter made me cry.

I once wrote a novel full of love adventures, and a young man, studying psychoanalysis, made me the bewildering proposal to experience these adventures—all wild figments of my imagination—with him! My husband and I laughed till we cried over this epistle.

THERE are often touching letters of closely written pages, wherein some very lonely soul seeks refuge with me, sometimes without an address—just to speak, to tell me things. Quite personal statements and simple every-day experiences . . . At first I thought, But why do they write me this? I do not know them, I cannot even reply, for neither names nor addresses are given . . . Why do they confide in me, a complete stranger? But I learned to understand it: they are people living alone without any "red-letter days," and a concert, a radio hour came perhaps as an ecstatic, deeply felt uplift in their monotonous existence. And they want to unburden themselves and make it clear to me how much it meant to them. In this way they come to tell me their story, and soon their whole life is laid before me, a movingly simple, barren life with neither heights nor depths . . . And once again I feel, with overflowing thankfulness, the great blessing which was bestowed upon me in my art. For by means of it I live a hundred-fold. And the more I begin to transform myself into another personality, the more truly I can make someone else's experiences my own, by sympathetic re-creation. In the words of Goethe, "Plunge yourself deep into the whole of humanity, and when you grasp it, then it will be absorbing . . ."

Trails through the Northwest

LEWIS & CLARK'S ROUTE, 1804-1806

AN ADVENTURE was started in the White House and carried across the continent, penetrating one million square miles of wilderness. This is the story The World Is Yours program will dramatize Sunday, showing the hardships and experiences encountered by the brave explorations of Lewis and Clark. It will tell of the Indian tribes inhabiting this region of the buffalo and the timber wolf. The map above was prepared by the Smithsonian Institution especially for RADIO GUIDE readers, to give them a vivid picture of the route covered by the expedition as they listen to the adventures dramatized in the May 14 broadcast. (The Indian names refer to tribes living in that territory.) In cooperation with the Smithsonian Institution, the Office of Education produces The World Is Yours Sunday. Time: 4:30 p.m. EDT, 3:30 EST, 3:30 CDT, 2:30 CST, 1:30 MST, 12:30 PST.

THE MILITANT MISSIONARY

Boots" and "Whoopie." Eddie was cleaning up. In 1927, in his autobiography, "My Life Is In Your Hands," he said he had amassed a million dollars in ten years. He went into the movies in 1925 with "Kid Boots."

The years rolled by and the Cantors had five daughters—Marjorie, Natalie, Edna, Marilyn and Janet. Eddie hadn't capitalized on his family in those days. He didn't need to.

Brother Cantor sort of held his nose at radio in the early days. He had a million dollars in the Wall Street sock and the sock had a hole in it.

Now, here's a good one. It was Rudy Vallee again! Great stars, Vallee, how many more did you get started—Alice Faye, Bergen—and Cantor! It was in Miami and Eddie was on the program with Rudy. Rudy said, "Eddie, I think you've made a hit. You should make radio your business."

Eddie said, "I would, Rudy, but radio won't last."

That was in 1930, the year Brother Cantor went broke. He lost all he had, that is, money, in twenty days! It had taken him ten years to make a million and twenty days to lose it.

Crazily enough, Cantor's great show just before the fall-down was "Whoopie." Everybody was making it. And then the hangover.

So radio wouldn't last, Mister Cantor?

Well, it was radio that saved him. It was radio that gave him the opportunity to become the crusading jester, the militant missionary. Grandma Esther's little boy Izzy no longer sang for Mr. Hearst and Diamond Jim Brady.

He started singing for the cross-roads' folks, and they re-made him. Grandma Esther would have liked that. She never saw the cross-roads' folks, but they would have got along swell.

So radio was a fad, Brother Izzy. Well, mister, there are three things you can't do—play the market and win, predict tomorrow, and have a son.

James Street's second and concluding article about Eddie Cantor appears in next week's issue.
