BIGGEST enigma—and most talked of actress in Hollywood today as a result of her work in "Our Town"—is small-town, on-the-surface-naive Martha Scott. The enigma of Martha Scott lies in the fact that she is not nearly so naive—nor small-town—as she permits people to believe. She does come from a small town and her outward characteristics are those of a small-town girl. But there is a layer of sophistication which sometimes confuses and even shocks Hollywood. That makes her a puzzling—and intriguing—force. If you would better understand why Martha Scott is that way, you'll be sure to read "Small-Town Smoothie," in which her life, career, ambitions, likes and dislikes are bared to the public. In the same issue (aside from the regular reviews, gossip and other features) you'll find the generous second part of that unusual Hollywood document, "I'm Glad I Failed My Screen Test"; Jimmie Fidler's selections of the actor and actress of the month and many pictures.

Man of the Hour

Wendell Willkie—the Man of the Hour! But how does he get that way? The official stories of Willkie's whirlwind nomination for the presidency of the United States—already in circulation—have probably left you as cold as they have us. Miracles of that sort don't happen and the G. O. P. didn't pull Mr. Willkie out of a hat. The real story of the Willkie boom—how it started, why it succeeded—waits to be told in next week's Movie and Radio Guide story, "How Radio Sold Willkie to America." In it you will learn how radio became the meeting-ground on which Willkie was presented to the masses of people whom he may serve. In it you'll find the authentic record of what Willkie said on "Information, Please," the radio show which introduced him to twelve million Americans. Another man of national prominence for whom radio has been of far-reaching importance is Fiorello La Guardia, busy little mayor of New York City. Next week we present also a great story of La Guardia the radio personality, of La Guardia the critic and friend of radio, of La Guardia the busiest radio fan in the world!

THIS WEEK

HOW to give young listeners plenty of thrills without an overdose of blood-and-thunder, how to give them a well-balanced radio diet—these are problems which broadcasters have long had difficulty in solving. Best solution to date—perhaps the perfect answer—is presented this week in our picture story, "A Safe and Sane Children's Hour" (page 40), with pictures of Malcolm Claire, Irene Wicker and other personalities who figure in it. Parents who have demanded "safe and sane" juvenile programs will find something worth investigating here. In this week's issue also there is a different story devoted to radio's sixty-odd daytime dramatic serials. It is the result of an average housewife's intensive study of the cliff-hangers. Are there too many of them? Are they offensive morally? Are they trashy and unrealistic? Serial-listeners—admiring or hating—will find Mrs. John Paul Jenkins' opinions (page 38) constructive, thought—and sometimes laugh—provoking.

The Girl on the Cover

Born to the theater is a phrase which truly belongs to Olympe Bradna, soon to be seen in Edward Small's "South of Pago-Pago." Olympe was born just at the close of the first World War to Jeanne and Joseph Bradna within a block of the Olympic Theater in Paris, where the manager paced up and down worried lest the Bradnas be unable to go on. Papa Bradna, somehow, managed to get through his act and named his daughter where they were appearing. Eighteen months later, Olympe was a part of the act. She sat on the stage and held a French flag. By the time she was eight, she was such a good dancer that her mother and father retired from the stage and devoted their energies to training and managing her. Later, when she came to America with the Folies Bergere unit which played the Chicago World's Fair, she won the acclaim of columnists Winchell and Sobol, a chance at the movies. George Raft, seeing her on an eastern visit, insisted that she be given the part opposite him in "Souls at Sea," and her reception by movie-goers gave her stardom. Natural-color photograph is by Bruce Bailey.

WAR ANGEL

MADELEINE CARROLL: Such heroism and strength of heart as she displayed in making two Clipper trips to war-torn Europe to aid friends and to bring comfort to the orphans living in her villa in conquered France are the attributes of very few women in a generation. Leaving security, safety and wealth behind, this British-born beauty has blazed a trail of self-sacrifice that will make her one of the real heroines of our times. With "North West Mounted Police" completed, her studio preparing "Virginia" as her next film, Miss Carroll at one time was reported "missing" in France. Whatever the fortunes of war may bring, this is a salute to a woman with beauty—and courage!

I'M GLAD I FAILED MY SCREEN TEST!

A startlingly honest story by a girl who thought she wanted to be a movie star

Anonymous

A person who writes with full honesty and candor is about as rare as a person who never tells a lie. For that reason, the honesty of this story is startling. The girl who wrote it underwent the actual experiences she describes. The studio of which she writes is internationally known. For those reasons, actual names have been avoided.—Editor.

YOU'VE read the title of this story, and you think it's a case of sour grapes, don't you? I know. I should have, too, a year ago. I should have laughed and said: "Sure—she's pretending she's glad she failed. Anything for a story!"

Believe me, that is not the case. I am grateful for this chance to tell you the truth about screen tests. Read on—and then take the next train for Hollywood if you dare!

I'm young, pretty, a blonde, and have a nice figure and good legs. When I got to Hollywood I discovered that I compared nicely with the hundreds of good-looking girls that I saw everywhere. That's one surprising and rather disconcerting thing about Hollywood. In your own home town you're outstanding if you are unusually pretty. In Hollywood you are the rule, not the exception. A red-headed beauty waits on you at a lunch-counter. Your hair-dresser looks like a movie queen. The ten-cent-store girls are knockouts. It's all a little upsetting to find yourself just "one of the mob" when you had come to regard yourself as something rather special. Why don't these beauties all get chances on the screen? Why are there so many of them?

Here's the secret: Most of them have had their chance, one time or another. I found that out when I joined their ranks. Just one more pretty girl who didn't make the grade. Beauty, in Hollywood, is uncommonly common.

But to get on with the screen test. No need to tell you about the months spent in casting-offices. No need to remind you of how my money dwindled and how I ate candy bars for luncheon and soup for dinner, unless some boy friend treated me. (Most of the boys I knew were trying for jobs in pictures too. They ate the same way—sparsely.) How we longed for steak and apple pie and fried potatoes! In fact, the hopeful young would-be actors and actresses that I knew talked about food more than they did about anything else. We were all a little thin and palish.

I could write a book about that, but the tale I'm telling is about a screen test.

I got my chance by accident. A friend of mine knew a friend who knew a director, and by a series of lucky chances I ended up at a party given by that director and—well, I told him my woes and he gave me an appointment at the office of the casting-director of his studio next morning. One of the biggest and most important studios in Hollywood, too. Was I thrilled!

I couldn't sleep that night and spent my last few dollars on some sheer hose and new shoes and a wave. Breakfast, therefore, consisted of a cup of coffee—and that was all!

At the studio casting-office I was kept waiting a long time. I didn't mind waiting at all; I was inside the studio! That's more than I had ever achieved before. Two girls were ahead of me, dressed gorgeously and obviously successful contract players. I could feel my heart knocking against my ribs when I finally entered the luxurious office of the casting-director. He waved to me to sit down and finished dictating a letter. Then smiled. He was very friendly, but also very busy. After looking at me closely and examining the pictures of myself that I handed to him, he leaned back in his chair and nodded.

"Come in next Tuesday morning and bring an evening dress with you. You'll be tested at three o'clock. Be here at seven a.m. for make-up and hair-dress. See you then."

HE BUSIED himself with papers and I floated out of the room on a dream. Already the studio was "mine." I nodded to the gateman dizzily and spent my remaining dime on some more coffee and a doughnut to keep from fainting. Because now, of course, everything would be all right. A few weeks and I'd be on the studio payroll. A picture—and I'd be swathed in ermine. I built myself a dream-castle and lived in it all the way back to my boarding-house, where I excitedly told the girls there all about it. They were generously thrilled to death.

My struggles to get an evening gown were terrible and heart-breaking. I had only one and I knew it wouldn't face the camera. There were mends in the chiffon and some places that were worn, which wouldn't show under ordinary lights but in the glare of studio lights they would look just too dreadful. Feeling perfectly confident that I could pay it back very soon, I borrowed money for my finery. I just couldn't ask Mother and Dad for any more, as they were having trouble enough making ends meet in their little orange ranch near Azusa, California.

I tossed and turned at night, wondering what kind of test they would give me, and daytimes I spent shopping for the evening gown of the century—one that would make me look like a princess. I wondered whether or not the studio would send me a script to study. I worried so much I looked worried, then I tried to stop for fear it would spoil my face. I tried to eat to get some strength but honestly, I was too excited. The week passed in a daze of excitement and fear. My first confidence was waning and now I was afraid. I practised poise in front of my mirror, but it didn't seem to do much good. I couldn't help shaking every time I thought of that test. It meant everything to me!

"I undressed with cold, shaking fingers and got into my evening dress, my body feeling clammy and numb"

At last the fateful morning arrived and I set out for the studio at six o'clock after having been awake since five polishing my nails and nervously pacing up and down with a fine case of the jitters. Six o'clock in the morning is no time to try to look beautiful, but I did my best and arrived at the studio promptly with my little suitcase containing the precious evening gown.

Perhaps you can imagine my surprise when I saw two other girls entering the studio gates with me! I had been told to go to the wardrobe department and, marching silently beside me, I soon discovered not two but five other girls headed the same way! We didn't speak, but plodded through the cold studio streets together and entered a large room in the wardrobe department, where a kindly looking woman with pins in her mouth looked us over. Two girls were already there, undressing in the chilly room.

"You for the screen test?" she asked. We all nodded, dumbly.

"Come in and put on your evening gowns," she said, indicating chairs and hangers for our clothes. "Then you can go to make-up."

We looked at one another. "All of us?" I quavered.

The lady with the pins nodded briskly. "Yes—we're testing eight this morning. Better hurry."

Eight! And I thought I was the only one! Some of the others felt the same way, I guess, because they looked astonished. I undressed with cold, shaking fingers and got into my evening dress, my body feeling clammy and numb. I noticed the other girls' fingers shaking, too, and we helped one another with hooks and things because we soon discovered that we were as bad a collective case of nerves as could be found anywhere.

When we were all dressed, we paraded around and looked at ourselves in the long mirror. I puffed out my sleeves and swirled my skirts, but the fact I looked pretty didn't help much. My knees were so unstable!

The casting-director came in and looked around, calling us by name, one after another. He nodded at my gown. "That will do," he said. I felt thrilled. I had passed one test, anyway, it seemed.

He called one cute little dark girl to him and frowned. She trembled. "Your dress won't photograph—did you bring another evening gown?" he asked.

The poor kid just looked at him. "It's—it's the only one I have," she said, her lips trembling.

He patted her shoulder. "It will have to do, then," he said, and walked to the door. "See you on stage 14." He was gone.

I heard sobs and turned around. The dark-haired little girl was crying in a heap in one corner. I went over to her and tried to comfort her.

"I haven't much money," she choked—"and this is my only dress. Nobody told me what kind to wear."

I patted her shoulder. "You go in there and do your darndest," I said. "Never mind the dress. And stop crying or you'll ruin your eyes."

She stopped and grinned at me through the tears. Her name was Hazel. We were friends from then on.

I was getting mad by that time. Good and mad. Hazel was a waitress and she had given up her job for this chance. She had also spent her last cent on a dress that "wouldn't do." Just what did the studio expect of us, anyway? Seven-thirty in the morning is no time to get stirred up with moral indignation, but my nerves had begun to play a different tune. Apprehension. Not expectation.

DID you ever have your hair waved, wearing full evening dress, early in the morning? It's quite an experience, I assure you. We were herded under dryers in the make-up room, even though we had all had our hair done carefully for the occasion.

Hair-dressers examined our faces and did our hair to suit our "personalities." Hazel looked cute with her dark curls piled on top of her head. My blond bob was curled a la Ginger Rogers and turned under in a page-boy style that I had never tried. It looked grand. We all felt better in the informal atmosphere of the studio make-up department, and once in a while we caught glimpses of stars going to and from their private make-up rooms. It gave us a feeling of "belonging" which was exciting.

The make-up man tipped me back in a chair like a dentist's and worked on my face, trying different lips and eyebrows. Every one of us was treated the same, and when we were finally finished it was noon and we hadn't even seen a camera. And were we tired! Gosh—we were so tired! My nerves had been doing nip-ups since four that morning. Each girl was suffering the same way. My hands trembled gently all the time and nothing in the world would stop them. Besides—I was hungry!

Once more the casting-director strolled in and looked us over. He nodded here and there and then made some suggestions. He smiled at Hazel. "Very cute," he said, meaning her hair-do, and she felt better, I could tell. Each girl tried to get his eye; make him see her special beauties. There was one lofty silver blonde who had had "stage experience." She was the only one of us who had had any professional training and she seemed to feel herself a little above the mob. We cordially detested her.

"Well," said the casting-director, "get yourselves some lunch, kids, and then go to stage 14." He went out.

I looked at one of the make-up men. "If I eat I'll spoil this nice mouth."

He grinned. "Come back here before you go on the set and I'll touch it up for you," he promised.

THE other girls had the same offer, so we started off down the studio street toward the commissary, feeling very professional in evening dresses and screen make-up.

"Guess I won't eat," whispered Hazel. "No money."

I found quite a few of the girls were in the same fix, so those of us that had some money divided with the others and we promised to pay one another back. I had two dollars left of my borrowed money, so I sat at a table with Hazel and two other girls and paid for their lunches.

It was an expensive place to eat, we found, and the waitresses could hardly contain their glances of contempt when we ordered sandwiches and milk—all of us. We read the menu resignedly. Chops and steak, roasts and fish.

Not for us. All around us, tables were filling with laughing groups of writers, directors and actors. We were not noticed because of our make-up, since half the commissary was filled with people whose faces were similarly painted. We ate carefully, not wanting to spoil our make-ups, and watched with interest those around us. We didn't laugh or talk much, because we were still scared, and worried about the money. Somehow we hadn't thought about bringing money to the studio when we had our test. I just had a hunch about bringing those last two dollars, but most of the girls left their money at home—or they didn't have any to bring.

We laughed only once, and that was when Hazel said unexpectedly: "Gee—I thought the studio would feed us!"

We laughed so hard at that that the tears ran down our cheeks and everybody stared at us. We couldn't help it, though—it did seem so funny!

After lunch we sauntered back slowly to the make-up department. There was lots of time. It hadn't taken us long to eat our sandwiches and our table had been needed by a group of hungry actors who evidently could pay (Continued on Page 41)

RADIO GUIDE
Picture of the Week

LEFT: Largely the biography of Dr. Arnold (Sir Cedric Hardwicke), the film tells the story of a heroic head master at Rugby who founded the honor system, laid a basis for modern school systems

ABOVE: Tom Brown, played by Jimmy Lydon, is a clean-cut student who responds to Dr. Arnold's plea for fair play and honesty. For this he is tossed in a blanket, subjected to student persecution

GENE TOWNE and Graham Baker, once the wackiest writing-team in Hollywood, with screwball scripts such as "Ali Baba Goes to Town" to their credit, have transformed themselves into producers of serious classics based upon immortal works of literature. "Swiss Family Robinson" was their first. "Tom Brown's School Days," MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE's Picture of the Week, is the second. Towne and Baker originally planned to make this picture in England but were thwarted by outbreak of the war and the fact that Rugby is now vine-covered, whereas it was vineless in 1830, time of the picture. They did the next best thing. Armed with forty volumes of research and a wealth of photographs, they rebuilt Rugby on the RKO ranch in San Fernando Valley. Word that Hollywood planned to film England's long-loved classic—it is also among the ten most-asked-for books in the New York Public Library—evoked an indignant protest from the present head master at Rugby, who decried "Hollywood's presumption at making a story so close to the hearts of England." The producers replied by (1) pointing out their extensive research, (2) retaining two Rugby graduates as technical advisers, (3) casting England's Sir Cedric Hardwicke as Dr. Arnold, (4) selecting Robert Stevenson, noted English director, to direct and (5) asking for suggestions about its production. All protest was silenced. For movie-going youth, "Tom Brown's School Days" will prove an action-filled, gripping school tale. For adults, it will evoke a yearning for other, quieter years out of the past.

BEHIND THE CHAPEL, Rugby's traditional place for the settlement of students' differences, Tom Brown (r.) and Bully Flashman (Billy "Dead End" Halop) battle to a finish before their clustered classmates

THE VICTORY OF TOM marks a new era for Rugby and schools which were founded after it, for Tom, the embodiment of fair play, was fighting not alone for himself but for the ideals of Dr. Arnold against those who wanted only the rule of the bully

Five Husbands

Laurence Olivier, Greer Garson in "Pride and Prejudice"

LAURENCE OLIVIER, fresh from new triumphs in "Rebecca," and Greer Garson, remembered especially for "Goodbye Mr. Chips," are soon to be seen together in M-G-M's picturization of Jane Austen's classic novel, "Pride and Prejudice." For Miss Garson particularly this role holds a real significance. Several years ago in London she was striving desperately to get a start on the stage. After a long period of heart-break and waiting she was finally selected to play the feminine lead in "Golden Arrow," only to learn that many members of the company were afraid to risk opening with a newcomer. The one dissenter to this fear was the leading man, who insisted upon her retention. Her performance in that play was an overnight sensation and Miss Garson was established in London theater. The leading man was Laurence Olivier. In "Pride and Prejudice" they meet to play hero and heroine again.

FIVE MARRIAGEABLE DAUGHTERS living in a village where eligible bachelors are few is the theme of "Pride and Prejudice." They are (l. to r.) Marsha Hunt, Heather Angel, Maureen O'Sullivan, Ann Rutherford, Greer Garson

THE PRIDE of Miss Garson, daughter of a commoner, and the prejudice of Laurence Olivier, cast as a wealthy nobleman, are overcome and love conquers the stilted formalities which—amusingly in this film—marked the reign of good Queen Victoria

ABOVE: Baby Sandy (Sandra Henville) got her break in pictures as a result of a note tied to a milk-bottle—and because she liked Crooner Bing Crosby

Can Your Child Make Good in the Movies?

No parent can afford to miss these revealing, authoritative facts and practical hints about how to get children into pictures

By Francis Chase, Jr.

Last week, MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE published the success stories of several outstanding child stars, together with suggestions made by leading directors as to the best methods of preparing a child for a movie career. This article (the second of two) outlines the careers of still more movie-star children, contrasting accomplishment with Hollywood's own suggestions for success. Must reading for every parent!—The Editor.

UPON one thing all child-directors and producers agree. The greatest handicap a youngster seeking a film career can have is parents who are too forward and pushing in their efforts in their child's behalf. The experts feel that many parents—particularly the persistent ones—are attempting to use their children as an easy meal-ticket.

But here again actual cases of successful child stars show how the advice of the experts has been ignored in achieving stardom. The case of Jane Withers and her mother (related last week) is a perfect example of disregard of expert advice. Baby Sandy's is another.

It wasn't solely the fact that Sandy's father happened to be a milkman on the route of a Universal executive that gained Sandra her chance in films. It was the persistence and ingenuity of milkman Henville, as proud and as ambitious a father as you'll meet in many a moon. When Mr. Henville happened to hear, by the back-door route, that Universal was seeking a baby to play with Bing Crosby in "East Side of Heaven," he knew he had the baby they were after.

The next morning, when Charles Previn, Universal music-director, came to breakfast, the maid brought him a note which had been attached to the milk-bottle that morning. It read: "I have a baby that I think will solve your problem." It was signed, "Your Milkman."

Mr. Henville had chosen the proper word. Universal was faced with a problem in finding the right baby. There were babies who smiled marvelously and had everything until they saw Bing Crosby. Then, having no use for strangers, they puckered their faces and started bawling. Sandy, in addition to being photogenic, having the happy disposition and the marvelous smile they sought, also liked Bing Crosby. They signed her on the spot. (Incidentally, she almost stole the picture, was put under contract, and became a star in her second film.)

The Henvilles immediately gave the lie to any voices charging self-interest. They continued to live in their humble little bungalow in Glendale, still employed no outside help. Mrs. Henville continued to do the washing, her housework, and caring for Sandra, their only child. The Henvilles aren't touching a penny of Sandra's earnings. Only change has been in Dad Henville's status. He no longer delivers milk. The milk company thought that if being the father of such a baby didn't justify promotion, then his initiative did. They made him a route supervisor!

For an example of fame which came quite uninvited, the case of Baby LeRoy is a good example. Several years ago Norman Taurog, director of "Skippy" and other child films, was making "Bed Time Story," with Maurice Chevalier. A child was needed for the picture and Taurog's search had become almost frantic. None on call answered the requirements. Finally, in near-despair, Taurog started making the rounds of nursery homes in Los Angeles. In one home, he came upon two babies in a single room.

ONE was standing up, holding on to the rail of the crib, singing and grinning to beat the band, while the other youngster was beating him over his head with a rattle. Taurog noted the happy-go-lucky spirit that exuded from the youngster, the cocky way he stood there. He picked him up. The infant smiled all over his tiny face and crowed with delight. This was the baby Taurog sought, and, at fourteen months of age, Baby LeRoy entered the movies and started his scene-stealing career.

Quite unsuspected was the fame Baby LeRoy earned. Yet even in this case it should be noted that had Baby LeRoy been in any other city than Los Angeles he probably would never have been discovered. On the other hand, screen careers can begin in other cities and quite without any thought of the films in their initial stages.

Larry "Baby Dumpling" Simms, of Columbia's "Dagwood and Blondie" series, is an example. Margaret Simms, his mother, had once been on the stage, and if there was one thing upon which her mind was made up, it was that Larry shouldn't be a theatrical child.

One day, however, the Simmses were at a beach in northern California, and Larry, who had a trick of pulling in his waist, throwing out his chest and imitating Tarzan, caught the eye of a newsreel cameraman, who took a number of scenes of the youngster doing tricks. The cameraman was enthusiastic about Larry's possibilities and even managed to get him a small bit with Edward G. Robinson in "The Last Gangster." But Mrs. Simms was never enthusiastic, never pushed Larry ahead.

A short time before this, a freelance color-photographer—Ivan Dmitri—also had seen the well-built youngster at the beach and had asked permission to photograph him. Six months later, the picture appeared on the cover of the Saturday Evening Post and aroused a storm of comment.

Mrs. Simms was asked to bring Larry to Hollywood from San Francisco, where they lived, to test for the part of Baby Dumpling. After the test was made they waited a week, and when nothing materialized, returned to San Francisco. A week later

The Tamiroff Touch

WHEN AKIM TAMIROFF is just Akim Tamiroff he is the pleasant and genial chap you see above

AS THE BOSS in "The Great McGinty" he gives a studied portrayal of a political string-puller

Polished performances, make-up wizardry are making Akim Tamiroff Hollywood's character actor No. 1

AKIM TAMIROFF, soon to be seen as The Boss in Paramount's "The Great McGinty," is busy proving himself a worthy successor to the late Lon Chaney, "Man of a Thousand Faces," in the wide and varied scope of his screen portrayals. Born in the Russian Caucasus, son of a wealthy oil man, he admits that his "future was obscure until he decided upon the stage. Then it became more obscure." Educated at the Moscow Art Theater School, Tamiroff came to America with a Russian Theater group in 1923, stayed. His work on the New York stage was a step towards a Hollywood where pictures were learning to talk in the early 1930's. Today he is recognized as a character actor capable of handling almost any type of role. In "The Great McGinty," more than in other pictures, acting rather than make-up is responsible for his effective portrayal of a ruthless political power in a great city.

STYLE OF THE WEEK: Virginia Field models a tricky hat, designed by herself and made of the same fabric as the suit she wears. A feature of the hat is its crown, cut into twelve pie-shaped pieces

THIS WEEK in Hollywood

Lamarr-Markey separation;
Richard Greene to war; read all about Hollywood here!

REAR VIEW of Miss Field's hat looks like this, with the pie-shaped pieces fitted together to form concentric stars. It is worn with an autumn suit of Oxford gray wool with white pin-stripes

HEDY LAMARR and GENE MARKEY are the latest to add their names to the growing list of Hollywood separations. According to a recent report, Markey has moved to his father's home, while Miss Lamarr remains in the Beverly Hills house with their adopted son. Incompatibility, which has been increasing for several months, was given as the cause for the separation. Miss Lamarr, often described as the "screen's most glamorous woman," was formerly the wife of Fritz Mandl, munitions manufacturer. Producer-writer Gene Markey formerly was married to Joan Bennett. Announcement of the separation was first made by Miss Lamarr, later was confirmed in a manner described as "unhappily" by Markey.

RICHARD GREENE is the only English actor who will be affected by England's recent decision to recall for war service all British-born actors in the United States between the ages of eighteen and thirty-one. Greene, who volunteered for service several months ago, and was told at that time to remain in America until further notice, recently completed "I Married an Adventuress" for 20th Century-Fox, was scheduled for Sonja Henie's next picture. Other major British actors such as Cary Grant, Ray Milland, Brian Aherne and Nigel Bruce were not affected by the order. They are over the thirty-one-year-old limit.

CAROLE LOMBARD knows now why it is so difficult for a girl to have a perfect career and a perfect marriage simultaneously in Hollywood. When RKO studios told her that she would have to go on location to Nappa, California, for "They Knew What They Wanted," Carole knew what she wanted. She wanted to drive up to the location with her husband, Clark Gable, and have him remain there while she acted for a couple of weeks. But the studio executives had other plans. It was necessary, they said, that Carole go to Nappa on the location-train along with the rest of the company so the publicity department could take pictures of her en route to advertise the film. Director Garson Kanin pleaded personally in favor of the train. The outcome: Miss Lombard went on the train. What Gable said about making the trip alone by car you can imagine.

SONJA HENIE and Dan Topping were married in a quiet ceremony in Chicago, verifying MOVIE AND RADIO

GUIDE's prophecy that Sonja had made her New York trip to shop for a trousseau. The 20th Century-Fox star has been seen constantly in Topping's company in Hollywood and went to Honolulu on the same boat with him. She constantly denied anything more serious than a friendship. Friends of Miss Henie believe that marriage to Topping will not interfere with her career, although his former wife, Arline Judge, did retire from the screen after marriage. Sonja will have months for a honeymoon, as the starting-date for her next picture, "Passport to Love," is still indefinite and her winter ice-skating tour will not start for some time. It is expected that the couple will live in the Beverly Hills house which Miss Henie rented recently.

LANA TURNER - ARTIE SHAW marriage break-up, predicted by Hollywood generally since the announcement of the whirlwind wedding, occurred Monday, July 1, with the elements of comic opera attendant. With M-G-M officials, speaking for Lana, admitting the separation and Artie Shaw and his press representative denying the rift, reporters and columnists learned the truth after the first broadcast of the new Burns and Allen radio show, when Lana rushed down to be with Artie to "refute" rumors of their separation. After viewing the program, Lana hurried to the NBC stage to pose for pictures with Artie, where both denied the break for several minutes, until, pushed by reporters, she refused to kiss him and he turned to her and said: "Darling, you take it from here." Lana did. She said: "It's true. Incompatibility is the reason." Following this verbal blitzkrieg, Mrs. Shaw burst into tears and left the studio and the bewildered Mr. Shaw, who could only murmur over and over, "I can't understand it. I'm dumfounded, I thought she was keeping her date for tonight with me. We were together last night. I can't believe it." MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE, however, was not so surprised, because of its advance knowledge of the break as evidenced by Lana's renting an apartment for herself Saturday, June 29, two days before the news broke. Results: M-G-M representatives refuse to speak of Lana and change the subject with rapidity; Shaw's press-agent rushes forth assurances of the complete surprise to Artie.

BEN TURPIN, 70, veteran film comedian, died of a heart attack in Hollywood. Turpin's death followed closely that of comedian Charley Chase and added to the mounting number of deaths in the film colony within the past few months. Ben's Keystone comedy pictures brought giggles to millions, and a million to his bank account.

OLIVIA DE HAVILLAND and Jimmy Stewart may be married by the time this paragraph reaches print—and they may not. But the true story of Jimmy's serious interest in Olivia is more amazing than marriage headlines. Another woman, a famous actress, actually played Cupid in this romance. In private life Jimmy is a good friend of Margaret Sullavan, with whom he appeared in "The Shop Around the Corner" and "The Mortal Storm," and her agent husband Leland Hayward, often pinch-hitting for Leland when Margaret needs an escort. Jimmy has been looking for a wife as nearly like Maggie as he can find. He has taken each of his girls to her house for her approval. But so far Olivia is the only one to have received a "thumbs up" from Maggie! Conclusion: Looks like wedding bells this time.

CAROLE LANDIS-WILLIS HUNT, JR., wedding, expected but not so soon, took place at Las Vegas on July 4. The blond star, who promoted herself further by her refusal to participate in the "Ping girl—because she makes you purr" campaign sponsored by Hal Roach studio, was married six years ago at the age of fifteen to writer Irving Wheeler, whom she divorced last May 9 after Wheeler had unsuccessfully tried to sue director Busby Berkeley for $250,000 for alienation of affections. The day before the decision, the pair had been bemoaning the fact that they had no time to get married, as Miss Landis was to start work in "Roadshow" immediately. Proof that this was no marriage-in-haste was the wedding ring, of platinum filled with diamonds all the way around the band, held in readiness for their planned marriage. Hunt's former wife, Dolly, became Mrs. Hal Roach, Jr., May 27 last.

AL HALL, director of "He Stayed for Breakfast," indulged in a worthwhile bit of pool-jumping, fully attired, at the party given for the cast by Melvyn Douglas. Starting with Al ribbing Joe Gilpin, studio manager, for more contributions to the Red Cross, Al jumped in when Loretta Young, Douglas and Gilpin each volunteered to contribute $100 to see the splash.

PENNY ("BLONDIE") SINGLETON is flashing the ring which makes her engagement to Bob Sparks, producer of her air show, official. First gift of the set which the ring completes was a cross of platinum and Ceylon sapphires, followed by clip earrings, the stones forming a semi-circle, and last, a double-chain linked bracelet, with a small watch in the center surrounded by the sapphires. The ring, with the stone about a half inch square set in plain prongs, is breath-taking in its sparkling simplicity. Wedding is planned in January.

PATRIC KNOWLES, dog-lover that he is, read an ad in the Hollywood Reporter pleading for consideration of the dogs and cats who would be frightened by the furor of the Fourth of July. So Pat hurriedly went the rounds of all his friends and acquaintances and invited them to bring their dogs and cats to share the hospitality of his San Fernando ranch. About forty pets were brought to avoid the noise of the firecrackers and celebrating. Result: There were as many injuries from fights between unfamiliar fellow vacationers as would have occurred from "nerves."

BETTE DAVIS' birthday gift to William Wyler, director of "The Letter," proved to be a happy boomerang. Bette sent Andy Iona's Tropics orchestra to the set to play "Happy Birthday" to Willie. But she wasn't there to bring her greetings in person because of a bad attack of laryngitis. Wyler taught the orchestra to play "Raisin' a Ruckus," Bette's favorite song from "Jezebel," which he also directed, and had them render it over the telephone to her at home. Note to Bette: That off-key harmonica you heard was not a part of the Iona orchestra. It was Willie Wyler's contribution.

THE RITZ BROTHERS and the Andrews Sisters are the hottest feud in town. The Andrews Sisters were originally signed to sing three songs for Universal's "Argentine Nights," in which the Ritzes are starred. The girls were so good the script was revised. La Verne was so frightened on her first day's work that her voice cracked into an Andy Devine gravel-tone, and she decided from that moment to play

PERHAPS no other city in the country has given so much of its time, talent and money to charitable causes as Hollywood. In recent months, with Red Cross facilities taxed to the utmost by the war in Europe, stars of the theater, movies and radio have done their part . . . and much more. Typical of the way in which money is being raised—and one of the most successful events—was Red Cross Benefit Day at Hollywood Park race-track July 1. Movie stars not only acted as honorary judges, wreathing the winning entries; they not only contributed liberally to the day's receipts of the parimutuel machine, receipts which went to the Red Cross, but in addition contributed liberally to Red Cross nurses who circulated among them. Best example of this was Clark Gable, who gave a ten-dollar bill each time MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE'S photographer snapped him.

BING CROSBY, devotee of the turf and an owner of a racing stable, was a cinch for the appeal of Red Cross Nurses Valerie Cole, center, and Annie Bowman, who circulated among the celebrities who attended the event

THE LANE SISTERS—Rosemary, left, and Priscilla—spent a large part of the afternoon poring over dope-sheets and making scientific selections . . . without avail. They didn't get a winner during the entire afternoon

CLARK GABLE, up in the "crow's nest" with track steward J. C. McGill, was one of the honorary judges. Gable paid ten bucks for each photo taken of him, gave a hundred-dollar bill to Red Cross for this particular shot

MARY MARTIN'S hubby—Dick Halliday, story editor at Paramount—had an important conference on Benefit Day that just couldn't wait, so Mary brought her mother along to help her pick the winners and place her bets that day

JIMMY STEWART AND OLIVIA DE HAVILLAND, occupying a box, were more the center of attention than the race-track because of the romance and wedding rumors which have been flying thick and fast about the two of late

MICKEY ROONEY AND MYRNA LOY, despite the fact that they are both signed to contracts at the same studio—M-G-M—met for the first time that day at Hollywood Park, where Don Ameche did the introducing between the races

VAUGHN PAUL AND DEANNA DURBIN, now reported engaged, represented the up-and-coming set at the benefit affair. Deanna seems to laugh at Vaughn's horse being left at the post. Vaughn takes the upset more seriously

MR. AND MRS. SPENCER TRACY are seldom photographed together in public, and it took an important event like this Red Cross benefit to get them out into the open so Movie and Radio Guide's photographer could catch them

VIRGINIA FIELD AND RICHARD GREENE, twosoming again after their short intermission, are very much engrossed at the moment watching the horse they placed bet on get off to a good start in the second race at the benefit

HEDY LAMARR AND JAMES STEWART photographed between races. Hedy has recently separated from Gene Markey, but the romance of Jimmy and Olivia, who accompanied him, burns brighter than ever, according to friends the rest of the picture as a comedienne. Result: The Ritzes are trying to be funnier and the Andrews are getting funnier all the time.

JOAN BLONDELL and young sister Gloria recently appeared on Hollywood Boulevard in a legitimate play, "Goodbye to Love." On opening night at the El Capitan Theater Joan was so surprised when the audience laughed at the right time that she missed her next line. She and Gloria were both "scared to death" and had expected a glacial reception. Backstage talk: Gloria is expecting picture offers and is not planning on going to New York with the play. She spent between-acts time chatting with fiance Cubby Broccoli and Bruce Cabot. . . . The sisters' father, Edward, is at the theater every evening. Joan and Gloria used to appear with him in a vaudeville sketch.

BOB STACK has dyed his blond hair black for Universal's "A Little Bit of Heaven." The reason is that he plays the romantic lead opposite very blond Nan Grey and the studio felt Bob's hair should be darker for needed contrast. Oddity: This time it was the man who had to change the color of his hair. The femme stars are usually the ones who do the turnabout.

DORIS JOHNSON (21) and Helen (19) arrived in Hollywood for tests at 20th Century-Fox, after a series of experiences that still seem unbelievable even to Hollywood people, who are used to the unusual. The girls were sitting on the lawn in front of their sorority building at the University of Kansas one day when a national magazine photographer asked them to pose for a picture. Darryl F. Zanuck, head man of 20th Century-Fox, saw it. He sent a studio representative to talk with them last Christmas, but the girls preferred to finish their year's course before making a try at the movies. Doris is majoring in sociology. Helen, to get experience in theatricals, appeared in the chorus of a college musical called "Spring Swing." They are both engaged, "if you can call college engagements serious." Sidelight: Although both girls appeared very poised when they arrived at the studio, they told a MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE reporter that in the excitement of their departure from Kansas City their luggage was left in a taxi. They had to wear studio wardrobe until their clothes caught up with them!

FLORENCE RICE, daughter of famed sportsman-writer Grantland Rice, has filed suit for divorce against Robert Wilcox, charging cruelty. The couple were married under very romantic circumstances March 31, 1939. Wilcox, who had been seen only a few times with Florence, went to the boat to bid her bon voyage on a Hawaiian trip, and remained aboard. The marriage followed. A month ago Wilcox went east to appear in stock, and on a trial separation. This was Miss Rice's third marriage. One was annulled before she was twenty-one. Her second hubby was Sydney Smith, Broadway playboy with whom she is still good friends.

JOHN WAYNE gets his big break with the assignment of the lead opposite Marlene Dietrich in Universal's "Seven Sinners." Dietrich had been looking for a man to play this role for several months, with Joel McCrea and Franchot Tone rumored as likely candidates. The selection of Wayne, who has been associated with westerns and exciting but unglamorous heroines, came as a complete surprise to Hollywood. With John Wayne will be Wayne Morris, Mischa Auer, Broderick Crawford and Alfred Dekker. Sidelight: This picture also marks the first American appearance of English actress Anna Lee.

BORIS KARLOFF, resting between scenes of his latest killer-chiller, "Wizard of Death," reported the progress of the film by saying: "I've had a good week. I killed a man yesterday and one today. A murder a day before lunch keeps your hand in, in this horror game."

JANE PICKENS-EDDY DUCHIN opening in Hollywood brought out, together with the society following the pair has, such luminaries as the Edward Arnolds, Matty Malnecks, Skinnay Ennises, Jan Garbers, Edward Robinsons, Stuart Erwins, Jimmie and Russell Gleasons, Lucille Ball and the town's newest heart-beat, Desi Arnez, Richard Greene with Virginia Field, and Margaret Roach and film executive Guido Orlando. Accident: When Eddy was climbing the bandstand for the opening number, he slipped and fractured his foot.

BOB BURNS has moved into his new twenty-three-room house out in the Valley, with a separate roof over each room. In an interview after the Lux show, Bob said that as a little boy he had always hated living in a square box of a house. "I promised myself then that if ever I could build a house, it would be different." This one is, including a set of locked gates to insure absolute privacy. Bob had no contractor, made all his own plans. His initial budget of $25,000 was used up on the foundations alone. Bob's advice to homebuilders: "If you want a $15,000 house, get $80,000 and begin it."

BOB BENCHLEY, who is adding his unique dialog to Universal's "Hired Wife," will go over to the Walt Disney plant when he completes his film chore. "I'll be a sort of animated Benchley," he told a MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE reporter. "That is, I'm going to be in a cartoon which shows me going through the Disney plant meeting Donald Duck, Mickey Mouse and so on." Bob then returns to New York in time for an anticipated September attack of hay fever. For eight years he has managed to remain in California, where he escaped the attacks. "Maybe the old crowd of hay-fever germs will have forgotten me by now," he said hopefully.

CHARLES LAUGHTON has as much curiosity about the Orson Welles picture as any movie fan. One recent day, which happened to be his birthday, Laughton decided to give himself a little present. He left the set of "They Knew What They Wanted," where he was working with Carole Lombard, and sneaked over to RKO's stage eight, where Welles was rehearsing his newspaper opus. Laughton hid behind a prop tree and was having a spying-good time for himself when suddenly a quavery voice sang out behind him, "Happy birthday to yooooo." Laughton turned to find a Western Union boy, who conscientiously went on with his birthday greetings. Welles' exclamations were in a decided off key when he discovered Laughton, and Charles retired in embarrassment. The culprit: Maureen O'Hara, Laughton's protegee, had ordered the musical birthday greetings to be sung wherever the messenger boy found Laughton!

Read here reviews of the new films you'll soon be seeing

"Maryland"

Cast: Walter Brennan, Fay Bainter, Brenda Joyce, John Payne, Charles Ruggles, Hattie McDaniel, Ben Carter, Sidney Blackmer, et al. A 20th Century-Fox picture, produced by Gene Markey; directed by Henry King, who also directed "Alexander's Ragtime Band" and "Jesse James."

ALTHOUGH its plot is the usual race-horse plot—hero racing to the track like mad to win the big event at the last moment—"Maryland" is one of the most ambitious and most important pictures of its kind for many reasons, among them an excellent cast, which renders fine performances from start to finish, and the fact that its Technicolor reproduction of a great but little-known American sports-event is faithful and accurate.

The story of "Maryland" is woven about the Danfield family, old Maryland people to whom the stables are as important as the nursery. Charlotte Danfield (Fay Bainter) insists upon her husband riding an extremely dangerous mount during a fox-hunt, and he (Sidney Blackmer) is thrown and killed. Charlotte then orders all her horses disposed of and forbids her son, John Payne, ever to ride again.

The son, sent to England to school, learns to ride and, while there, meets Brenda Joyce, daughter of the old family trainer, Walter Brennan. She influences him to ride their horse in the Maryland Hunt Club Race. Against his mother's wishes, he does so in a well-done denouement which cures his mother of her phobia and leaves everyone happy.

Brenda Joyce, once called the girl with the million-dollar face by advertising executives for whom she modeled, is even more beautiful in Technicolor (this is her first color film), and this goes for Fay Bainter, too. John Payne, in his best role to date, acquits himself with honor, as do Walter Brennan and Hattie McDaniel, Academy-Award winning members of the cast.

But the surprise performance is that of Ben Carter, colored comedian and agent for colored actors, as an old family retainer who gets religion.

"Maryland" is a fitting and dignified tribute to the state which gives it title, and grand entertainment for every member of the family.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Los Angeles Times: ". . . A unique picture of the horseman's world . . ." Hollywood Reporter: ". . . Picture has a bright Technicolor future . . ." Variety: ". . . Pastoral beauty, plenty of comedy to lighten its sentimental drama, picturesque action . . ."

"I Want a Divorce"

Cast: Joan Blondell, Dick Powell, Gloria Dickson, Frank Fay, Jessie Ralph, Conrad Nagel, Sidney Blackmer, Dorothy Burgess, Mickey Kuhn and Harry Denmark. A Paramount picture, produced by George Arthur; directed by Ralph Murphy, who also directed "Top of the Town." Based on a story by Adela Rogers St. John.

FROM Hollywood, where divorce is a more-than-common occurrence, comes a diatribe on this social evil in the form of a nicely paced, well-handled film, "I Want a Divorce." Oddly enough, the roles of the young wife and husband over whom the dark shadow of divorce hovers are played by that happily married couple, in real life, Dick Powell and Joan Blondell.

Starting rather slowly, the pace of the story is quickened as it unfolds to tell of Geraldine Brokaw (Joan Blondell) who helps her sister, Wanda Holland (Gloria Dickson), obtain a divorce. Geraldine, despite disillusionment at her sister's unhappy marriage, marries Alan MacNally (Dick Powell), a struggling young lawyer.

Their happiness is marred by his decision to become a divorce lawyer, a career Geraldine opposes, and though he finds success in this field, they grow farther and farther apart until the gap can no longer be bridged. Face to face with divorce, succeeding events demonstrate how completely they were about to ruin their lives. The denouement of the picture is effective.

Joan Blondell is at her very best in this picture. Especially noteworthy is her underacting in the scene where her sister commits suicide. Powell, playing a straight, non-singing role, does it well, and without the usual "mugging" which characterized his earlier films. Powell, busy with a personal-appearance tour, was called back to Hollywood to play the husband to wife Joan Blondell.

In the supporting roles of "I Want a Divorce," special credit must go to Jessie Ralph as the lovable, hard-headed grandmother; to Gloria Dickson as the shallow, divorced sister who manufactures her own happiness and comes to a tragic end; and to six-year-old Mickey Kuhn, who never muffed a line during the entire filming. More—much more—will be heard of Mickey in the coming months.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Because Movie and Radio Guide's reviewer saw this picture before it was previewed to the general press, this feature is necessarily omitted.

"The Man Who Talked Too Much"

Cast: George Brent, Virginia Bruce, Brenda Marshall, Richard Barthelmess, William Lundigan, George Tobias, John Litel, Henry Armetta, et al. A Warner Bros. picture; associate producer, Edmund Grainger; directed by Vincent Sherman, who also directed "Crime School" and "My Bill." Based on a play by Frank J. Collins.

NOT a new idea, "The Man Who Talked Too Much" is a well-made, excellently cast picture.

Brent, in one of the best roles he has had of late, is a young assistant district attorney in a small town who sends a man to the electric chair only to discover, too late, that the man was innocent. Horrified, he turns to the theory that it is better to acquit a hundred guilty men than punish one innocent person.

Resigning, he becomes a criminal attorney, almost starves until he is retained by a racketeer ring. Trouble comes when Brent's kid brother becomes involved with the gang, is framed on a murder charge. At the trial, all of the tricks which Brent has overdone fail to win the release of his brother, who is saved only by a confession from the real murderer.

Richard Barthelmess, seen here for the first time since "Only Angels Have Wings," makes real progress along the comeback trail as the town's number one public enemy—a part in strange contrast to the hero roles he once portrayed. William Lundigan, as the younger brother, is effective. Virginia Bruce, as Brent's secretary, is as beautiful as usual. Brent, as a combination of crusader and racketeer, has a grand part, which he handles with finesse.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Variety: "... Decorated with new touches and spun off at a fast pace..." Hollywood Reporter: "... A well-made offering, carrying sufficient action and suspense..."

"Millionaires in Prison"

Cast: Lee Tracy, Linda Hayes, Raymond Walburn, Morgan Conway, Thurston Hall, Truman Bradley, Virginia Vale, Cliff Edwards, Chester Clute, et al. An RKO picture, produced by Howard Benedict; directed by Ray McCarey; based on a story by Martin Mooney.

ENTIRELY without that "life is grim" flavor which marks most prison films, this rich little comedy of five millionaires in the hoosegow is notable for two innovations—the funny side is accented, and not one of the five is in jail on a framed charge.

Raymond Walburn and Thurston Hall are two elderly men embroiled in an illegal scheme; Chester Clute and Morgan Conway are top-hat confidence men; and Truman Bradley, the doctor, is incarcerated for drunken driving. Tracy—abandoning the fast-talking, brittle characterizations which are his trade-mark—is a philosophical inmate. Linda Hayes and Virginia Vale, as the girls who wait outside, are thrown in for good measure.

Director McCarey studiously avoided all actions and gestures standard to prison films. Result is a picture nicely balanced between comedy and drama, which is in no way a burlesque of prisons or their inmates, but just a different view of them.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Hollywood Reporter: "... Film evokes countless hearty laughs..." Variety: "... Good satire and novel comedy..."

"Scatterbrain"

Cast: Judy Canova, Alan Mowbray, Eddie Foy, Jr., Ruth Donnelly, Joseph Cawthorn, Wallace Ford, Isabel Jewell, Luis Alberni, Billy Gilbert, et al. A Republic picture, produced and directed by Gus Meins, who also directed "Ladies in Distress."

JUDY CANOVA, the Jenny Lind of the Ozarks, is not only a capable yodeler and singer but a right smart comedienne, as evidenced by her first film, "Scatterbrain."

Judy is getting along peaceably in her Ozark home when Isabel Jewell is planted there as part of a fake talent-hunt being staged by Eddie Foy, Jr. Alan Mowbray is the phony movie-director who comes to the Ozarks to judge the talent and, by error, he picks Judy instead of the plant.

By the time the mistake is discovered, the contract has been signed with fanfare and the press as witness. Then follow a series of attempts, ludicrous and highly ineffective, on the part of Mowbray to get out of the contract. These are balked when Joseph Cawthorn, the producer, actually likes Judy and decides to go ahead with a picture starring her. Billy Gilbert, as the voice coach, becomes involved with the Canova mentality and gets as excited as only Billy Gilbert can in one of the most hilarious scenes.

Actually, Judy is a Florida-born, Spanish-descended hillbilly who has never been in the Ozarks. No fake, however, is her grand-opera trilling, for Judy is a coloratura soprano with vocal "it." Radio fans will not only recognize Judy Canova but the music of Matty Malneck's orchestra and the "Hello-o-o Joe" voice of Phil Kramer, a Joe Penner radio cast member and assistant director in this film.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Hollywood Reporter: "... Light and nonsensical, has some very funny comedy routines..." Variety: "... Fast, tuneful and loaded with laughs..."

"The Fugitive"

Cast: Ralph Richardson, Diana Wynyard, Romney Brent, Mary Clare, Henry Oscar, Dave Crowley, et al. Universal release of Josef Somlo (British) production; produced by Josef Somlo; directed by Brian Desmond Hurst.

THIS is a grim and tragic—and extremely heavy—psychological study of a man hounded past all peace by his conscience. It brings to the American screen again Diana Wynyard, absent for five years while she appeared on the London stage, and Ralph Richardson, last seen in a supporting role in "The Citadel" and known as England's Spencer Tracy.

Richardson is a barber, Diana is his wife. They live in a state of near-poverty, the wife contracts a debt and, hounded by creditors, Richardson steals money to pay. A neighbor, learning this, begins a systematic blackmail of the barber until he is goaded into killing the blackmailer. The psychological reactions of Richardson after this murder form the story basis.

Unusual and straight from the shoulder, "The Fugitive" is not diverting drama or pleasant theater. It is grim and stark but highly gripping.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Los Angeles Times: "... An exceptionally powerful story, well acted..." Variety: "... A tragedy-drama of retribution impressively performed and directed..." Hollywood Reporter: "... An interesting and unusual psychological study..."

BRIEF REVIEWS

ALL THIS, AND HEAVEN TOO (Warner Bros.). Bette Davis as the innocent victim of a Parisian scandal. Charles Boyer, Barbara O'Neil.

AND ONE WAS BEAUTIFUL (M-G-M). Laraine Day's first starring vehicle is an adequate, meaty piece without affectation. Almost a "must."

ANDY HARDY MEETS A DEBUTANTE (M-G-M). Funniest yet of the Hardy series. Mickey Rooney, Lewis Stone, Judy Garland, Ann Rutherford.

BISCUIT EATER, THE (Paramount). The simple, beautifully told James Street story of a boy and his dog in hunting country.

BROADWAY MELODY OF 1940 (M-G-M). Lavishly produced musical that rings the bell, with Fred Astaire, Eleanor Powell, George Murphy.

BROTHER ORCHID (Warner Bros.). Strange, haunting film of a gangster (Edward G. Robinson) who finds regeneration in a monastery.

CASTLE ON THE HUDSON (Warner Bros.). Prison melodrama from Warden Lawes' "20,000 Years in Sing Sing," with John Garfield, Pat O'Brien, Ann Sheridan.

COURAGEOUS DR. CHRISTIAN, THE (RKO). Jean Hersholt in a film version of the kindly and benevolent country doctor he popularized on radio.

DARK COMMAND, THE (Republic). A stirring drama of guerrilla days in "Bleeding Kansas" of the '60s; Claire Trevor, John Wayne.

DR. EHRlich's MAGIC BULLET (Warner Bros.). Absorbing story of the life of this famous medical researcher after the style of Muni... Edward G. Robinson excels.

DOCTOR TAKES A WIFE, THE (Columbia). What happens when a man-hating writer of popular novels (Loretta Young) meets a handsome young doctor (Ray Milland) is good comedy.

DOWN WENT McGINTY (Paramount). A better political satire in which a bum becomes governor, neatly contrived, well acted with Brian Donlevy, Akim Tamiroff and Muriel Angelus.

EARTHBOUND (20th Century-Fox). Warner Baxter is an earthbound ghost who solves his own murder.

EDISON, THE MAN (M-G-M). Inspiring sequel to "Young Tom Edison," with Spencer Tracy as the adult Thomas Edison.

FLIGHT ANGELS (Warner Bros.). A better aviation film which treats air stewardesses as human beings. Virginia Bruce, Dennis Morgan.

FORTY LITTLE MOTHERS (M-G-M). Eddie Cantor plays a straightforward role effectively, with a cute baby and forty Hollywood cuties.

FOUR SONS (20th Century-Fox). Gloomy, foreboding story of Fifth Column penetrations in Czechoslovakia in pre-Munich days. Don Ameche, Eugenie Leontovich, Mary Beth Hughes.

GHOST BREAKERS, THE (Paramount). More hilarious than "The Cat and the Canary." Bob Hope and Paulette Goddard.

GRAND OLE OPRY (Republic). Comedy based on the radio show of the same name, with the radio artists playing their air roles. Amusing.

I WAS AN ADVENTURESS (20th Century-Fox). Intrigue and adventure with a continental flavor and the incomparable dancing of Zorina.

IF I HAD MY WAY (Universal). Bing Crosby and Gloria Jean co-star in a light musical which isn't a "Road to Singapore" by any means.

INVISIBLE STRIPES (Warner Bros.). A crisp melodrama above the average for its type. George Raft, Jane Bryan, Humphrey Bogart.

IT ALL CAME TRUE (Warner Bros.). A good comedy-drama which gives Ann Sheridan a chance to act. Plus Humphrey Bogart and Jeffrey Lynn.

IT'S A DATE (Universal). Deanna Durbin is grown up and lovelier in face, figure and voice. Kay Francis, Walter Pidgeon.

JOHNNY APOLLO (20th Century-Fox). Exciting film of cultured collegian in underworld. Tyrone Power, Dorothy Lamour, Edward Arnold.

LA CONGA NIGHTS (Universal). A full measure of Hugh (Woo-Woo) Herbert for his fans in which he plays six characters.

LILLIAN RUSSELL (20th Century-Fox). Alice Faye, Edward Arnold, Don Ameche revive the Gay Nineties. Elaborately produced.

MORTAL STORM (M-G-M). Growth of Hitlerism and its effect upon a German family. Frank Morgan, Margaret Sullavan, Jimmy Stewart.

MY FAVORITE WIFE (RKO). Another in the cycle of two-husbands-and-a-wife-or-vice-versa films, with Cary Grant and Irene Dunne.

MY LOVE CAME BACK (Warner Bros.). Fresh, delightful story of the adventures of a musical student. Olivia de Havilland, Jeffrey Lynn, Eddie Albert, Jane Wyman.

NEW MOON (M-G-M). Screen version of the Romberg musical comedy is swashbuckling, tuneful, with Nelson Eddy, Jeanette MacDonald.

NORTHWEST PASSAGE (M-G-M). Spencer Tracy gives vivid portrayal of Major Robert Rogers and trail-blazing. Technicolor.

OF MICE AND MEN (United Artists). Magnificent study in tragedy from Steinbeck's novel. Burgess Meredith, Lon Chaney, Jr.

OUR TOWN (United Artists). One of the year's most magnificent films, telling the story of simple folks. A perfect cast, perfect production from the Pulitzer prize play by Thornton Wilder.

PINOCCHIO (RKO-Disney). Classic tale of the little wooden boy who became a real boy, brought to the screen in Technicolor by Walt Disney.

PRIVATE AFFAIRS (Universal). Fresh, whimsical comedy of a Boston Back Bay black sheep who makes good. Hugh Herbert, Roland Young.

REBECCA (United Artists). Superb production of the Daphne du Maurier best-seller. Joan Fontaine, Laurence Olivier.

REFUGEE, THE (Republic). Effective story of the refugee problem, with John Wayne, Sigrid Gurie.

ROAD TO SINGAPORE (Paramount). A hilariously funny farce of the South Seas brings together Bing Crosby, Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour in a laugh-riot musical.

SANDY IS A LADY (Universal). Melodrama of the Harold Lloyd type, with Baby Sandy, Eugene Pallette, Mischa Auer, Nan Grey.

SATURDAY'S CHILDREN (Warner Bros.). Touching filming of the Pulitzer prize play (same title) with John Garfield, Anne Shirley.

SEVENTEEN (Paramount). An excellent modernized version of the Booth Tarkington classic about a boy in adolescence, his loves, his life. Jackie Cooper, Betty Field, Otto Kruger.

STRANGE CARGO (M-G-M). Joan Crawford and Clark Gable become involved in a seldom dull melodrama of prison and escape.

SUSAN AND GOD (M-G-M). Good Joan Crawford performance in filming of the stage play.

THOSE WERE THE DAYS (Paramount). College days of the early 1900's are faithfully—and humorously—portrayed. William Holden, Bontita Granville, Ezra Stone (Henry Aldrich).

'TIL WE MEET AGAIN (Warner Bros.). Merle Oberon, George Brent, Pat O'Brien in a remake of "One Way Passage."

TOM BROWN'S SCHOOL DAYS (RKO). Meticulously produced biographical film of the father of the public school system in England. Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Freddie Bartholomew, Jimmy Lydon.

TOO MANY HUSBANDS (Columbia). A screwball modernization of the Enoch Arden theme finds Jean Arthur the wife of two husbands, Melvyn Douglas and Fred MacMurray.

TORRID ZONE (Warner Bros.). Adventure in a banana republic which is lusty and hard-hitting, with Ann Sheridan, James Cagney and Pat O'Brien.

TURNABOUT (Hal Roach). Imaginative—and entertaining—film about wives and husbands who exchange places. Carole Landis, John Hubbard, William Gargan, Adolphe Menjou.

TYPHOON (Paramount). Dorothy Lamour and Robert Preston in a "Hurricane" style film which has breath-taking Technicolor photography.

UNTAMED (Paramount). Virile outdoor film of society doctor in the North Woods. Ray Milland, Patricia Morison and Akim Tamiroff.

WATERLOO BRIDGE (M-G-M). A timely remake of one of the best films to come out of the last war—soul-stirring love-story of an officer and a maid. Robert Taylor and Vivien Leigh.

WAY OF ALL FLESH, THE (Paramount). Akim Tamiroff, as the tragic father in a heavy, sordid film, proves his ability as a character actor.

YOUNG TOM EDISON (M-G-M). An excellent dramatization of Edison's boyhood days which is real under the deft handling of Mickey Rooney.

COMING RADIO EVENTS

For the Week of July 27-August 2

Saturday, July 27

EZRA STONE, whom you may know better as Henry, the "Aldrich Family's" typical American boy with a little extra genius for getting into difficulties, will be starred in "Lincoln Highway." NBC.

Eastern Daylight 10:00 a.m.	Central Daylight 9:00 a.m.	Mountain 10:00 a.m.
Eastern Standard 9:00 a.m.	Central Standard 8:00 a.m.	Pacific 9:00 a.m.

JOHNNY MIZE, slugging first baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals, will be in the clean-up spot for the "Sports School" from the New York World's Fair this Saturday. Manager Billy Southworth and outfielder Ernie Koy of the Cards also will bat against the questions tossed up by Christy Walsh. NBC.

Eastern Daylight 11:30 a.m.	Central Daylight 10:30 a.m.	Mountain 9:30 a.m.
Eastern Standard 10:30 a.m.	Central Standard 9:30 a.m.	Pacific 7:30 a.m.

"REFUGEE IMMIGRATION to the United States" is a staggering question today, involving humanitarian as well as political and economic considerations. This was illustrated by the United States government's recent decision to let down the barriers to the entrance of British refugee children—if they were brought here by British ships and if their support were guaranteed by American adults. The problem of refugee immigration, looming larger every day, will be explored on "People's Platform" this week. Participants will be Mary W. W. Hillier, secretary of the New World Resettlement Committee; Capt. Paul S. Lawrence, official of the Veterans of Foreign Wars; and Miss Florence Birmingham, Massachusetts Women's Political Club. CBS.

Eastern Standard 6:00 p.m.	Central Standard 5:00 p.m.	Pacific 3:00 p.m.

"SKY BLAZERS," which dramatizes the historic exploits of the men who have made aviation great during its brief history, will make the air sizzle this week with the fiery story of Emory Bronte and Ernie Smith, who flew the first plane from San Francisco to Hawaii. CBS.

Eastern Daylight 8:00 p.m.	Central Daylight 7:00 p.m.	Mountain 8:00 p.m.
Eastern Standard 7:00 p.m.	Central Standard 6:00 p.m.	Pacific 7:00 p.m.

PROPAGANDA—What is it? How does it work? What are the modern techniques? How can you recognize it? These and many other critically pertinent questions stare us straight in the face today. It would pay us all to hear what experts have found out through scientific application about this sinister monster among men. "The Human Adventure" will unfold a complete, factual analysis of propaganda, based on the explorations of the new kind of sleuths called "political psychiatrists." Hear how propaganda attacks on many fronts with its "mobilization of hate," its "invocation of God," its "fifth column" boring from within and other equally insidious methods. CBS.

Eastern Standard 7:30 p.m.	Central Standard 6:30 p.m.	Pacific 4:30 p.m.

AL PEARCE (or should we say Elmer Blurt?) will fly to Chicago (or should we say Rosedale?) to accept the invitation of Uncle Ezra to appear on the latter's new program on NBC (or should we say on Station EZRA?). Comedian Pearce, who is pleasing new and old friends, with a comparatively

Gracie Allen (right) turned over proceeds from the sale of her book, "How to Become President," to the American Red Cross

Gracie Allen — Patriot

Gracie Allen, screwball comedienne, stepped out of character on June 29, when she appeared in a special NBC Red Cross broadcast. Here is the serious and significant talk she made:

ON EVERY occasion when I faced the microphone before, it has been as a comedienne. For years and years my husband, George Burns, and I have tried to bring a little cheer into your life, to make you laugh and forget some of your troubles. We have enjoyed every moment of it in the past, and we will continue to enjoy being your jesters in the future for as long as you will let us. Tonight, however, must be an exception. I speak to you tonight as an American woman, a woman with children of my own whom I am doing my best to bring up in a world of terrible uncertainties. I cannot help but feel, even as you must feel, the gravity of the times in which we are living, and I cannot help but wonder, as you must wonder, what kind of world our children will be living in. A few thousand miles away, people like ourselves are going through terrible suffering inflicted by the tragedy of war. Most of them are innocent people, who bear no ill will to anyone in the world.

And they are people like us, who wouldn't harm anyone if left free to follow the dictates of their own heart and their own conscience. Today the horrible shadow of the events in Europe, which like most women I don't even pretend to try to understand, is falling across even the security of our own nation, of which we are all so proud and happy to be citizens. That shadow of events in Europe is falling not only across our own security but, what's more important, the future security of your children and mine.

A few months ago, in the spirit of fun, I threw a hat into the ring and announced my candidacy for the President of the United States on a Surprise Party ticket. Also in the spirit of fun, I have waged a campaign for the nomination from one end of the country to the other, even to the extent of holding a Surprise Party Convention in Omaha. The many letters I have received from you, my fans, and your personal response on my trips across the country, have told me that you have enjoyed my little joke. But like all jokes, this one could be carried too far. And I feel I've carried it far enough, now that the Republican party has met in convention and the Democratic party is about to choose its candidate. Tonight, therefore, I wish to announce that I am withdrawing from my mock presidential campaign and giving my whole-hearted support to the man who is elected President of the United States. While fun is fun and a sense of humor is one of the greatest assets of the American people, the sacred right of franchise under the American constitution is nothing to be trifled with. As a native-born American of Irish ancestry, I consider my right to vote a privilege beyond any price, and like every other American, I will consider casting my 1940 vote the gravest privilege of my life.

And I want you to know that as I take leave of my campaign of laughs, I do so with the deepest gratitude possible for just being an American and for living under the protection of the Stars and Stripes. Where else but in America would a comedy treatment of a presidential campaign be permitted? Thank God that America still has its democracy and its sense of humor! In being serious tonight, however, I don't want you to feel for a moment that I advocate America scuttling her sense of humor. What we need today more than ever before are laughs, laughs and more laughs. But as there are times for laughter, there are also times for a sober facing of our responsibilities.

I don't care how anyone votes, for what party or for what man. Just so each man and each woman votes his or her honest convictions and goes away from the polls sincerely thankful for the privilege of voting. And whoever we elect, let's support him with all our might and with all the unity of which we are capable.

Eastern Standard 7:00 p.m.	Central Standard 6:00 p.m.	Pacific 7:30 p.m.

Thursday, August 1

"HOLD ON TO YOUR HATS" is a mad musical comedy. Behind the scenes is something of pathos, but the show is merry. Al Jolson and Ruby Keeler, who dissolved their long-standing domestic partnership not so very long ago, nevertheless teamed up professionally to help the Democratic Convention entertain Chicago and to help Chicago entertain the convention with their show, running at a Loop playhouse. Martha Raye, who used to team with Jolson on the air, is also in the cast, as are veteran musical-comedy star Jack Whiting and Bert "Mad Russian" Gordon. The group will give listeners a sample of their mirth and melody in a special program this Thursday. MBS.

Eastern Daylight 8:30 p.m.	Central Daylight 7:30 p.m.	Mountain 8:30 p.m.
Eastern Standard 7:30 p.m.	Central Standard 6:30 p.m.	Pacific 4:30 p.m.

Friday, August 2

"CITIES SERVICE CONCERT," considered the oldest network commercial program on the air, will be brought right up to date with a streamlining job. Beginning this week, the program will be trimmed to a half-hour summer show. And following the theory that lighter music, like lighter clothing, is suitable for hot weather, gayer and more buoyant music will be the mode for the new streamlined show. There will be no change in the cast of the veteran program. The new series will continue to star Lucille Manners, soprano, and feature Ross Graham, baritone, the Cities Service Singers and Frank Black directing the orchestra. NBC.

Eastern Daylight 8:00 p.m.	Central Daylight 7:00 p.m.	Mountain 5:00 p.m.
Eastern Standard 7:00 p.m.	Central Standard 6:00 p.m.	Pacific 4:00 p.m.

Some Stories for Summer

ONCE in a while it does no harm to look upon the humorous side of music, especially when the summer sun hangs high in the heavens and playful zephyrs seem temporarily more welcome than serious Beethoven.

Richard Strauss told me that when quite a young boy he preferred the outdoors to sitting home practising the piano. (As which lad wouldn't?) The following was a conversation between him and his father:

"Richard, do you practise regularly while I am away at business?"

"Yes, Father."

"Every day?"

"Indeed I do."

"How long did you practise today?"

"Three hours."

"And yesterday?"

"Two hours and a half."

"That's fine. I'm glad you're so industrious."

"Thanks, Father."

"However, my boy, the next time you practise, be sure to unlock the piano. Here is the key. I locked the instrument last week, and I have been carrying the key in my pocket ever since."

Maybe that is one reason why Strauss became a great composer instead of a great pianist.

A new version of a time-honored and venerated song came from another little boy whom I knew. His school-teacher asked him who was Nero. "He's the one we sing about in Sunday school," he said. The puzzled teacher was unable to recall any song in gospel hymns where Nero is mentioned. "What is the song like, Arthur?" she inquired. "It's called 'Nero, my God, to Thee,'" came the answer.

If some musical artists have not chosen the places for their summer vacations, here are suggested appropriate spots:

Pons—Lily, Fla.
Damrosch—Sage, Ark.
Swarthout's husband—Chapman, Ala.

Toscanini—Leeds, Ala.
Flagstad and Melchior—Wagner, Mont.

Milton Cross—Cross Plains, Wis.

Highlights of the Week

OUR list today opens with an Anglo-Saxon affiliation, the Dorian String Quartet being heard in American Hanson's music, and that of English Bridge. (The latter recalls the story of the dowager who was asked whether her daughter played Mozart, and replied, "I believe that she does, but I think she prefers Bridge, for not too high stakes.")

Although Bridge (born 1879) is nearly twenty years older than Hanson, his style is on the whole more modern than that of his U. S. colleague, although both are essentially melodists. Hanson is better known as an orchestral creator, Bridge excels in chamber-music.

Two Americans, James Dunn (1884-1936) and Howard Brockway, figure on Wallenstein's choral program. Both also wrote for orchestra. Dunn studied with Edward MacDowell. He composed several songs that won popularity, "The Bitterness of Love," "Weary," etc.

Bernard Herrmann, indefatigable conductor of modern music, also bows to the English school with three scores from "the tight little Isle." Dvorak's fourth symphony, while not as famous as his "New World" (No. 5), nevertheless has charm, romance and typical Bohemian rhythms.

At the Stadium we are hearing the fourth violin concerto, in D minor, by Henri Vieuxtemps (1820-1881), a tunelessly brilliant piece of old-fashioned romantic composing. Vieuxtemps, a Belgian, was one of the greatest violinists of all time, and visited the United States triumphantly in 1844, 1857 and 1871.

Record Reviews

CLASSICAL SYMPHONY (Prokofieff). The Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, Dmitri Mitropoulos, conductor. Columbia.

Any new recording of Prokofieff's delightful and witty work will inevitably be compared with Koussevitzky's, which brings out all the sharp brilliance and incisive rhythms of the Prokofieff score. This Columbia recording is technically better than the Koussevitzky version (which is ten years old) and while not as brilliant, brings out rather the charm and quaintness of the piece.

SYMPHONY NO. 4 (Beethoven). The BBC Symphony Orchestra, Arturo Toscanini, conductor. Victor.

Toscanini and Beethoven make for the perfect musical combination, and this recording of the robust and vital Fourth Symphony is no exception. The BBC Orchestra is here heard at its best, and anyone who heard Toscanini conduct the Fourth in last winter's NBC Beethoven cycle need not be told how splendidly he does it.

On Short Waves

Programs from foreign countries subject to change without notice

BRITISH SHORT-WAVE PROGRAMS ARE REVAMPED TO MEET CRITICAL SITUATION

CRITICAL observers believe the hour for the long-threatened German invasion of the British Isles draws near, perhaps it will occur before this column reaches print. To meet the demands of this approaching zero hour in England, every activity has been stepped up to a terrific tempo. In line with this present emergency, practically all short-wave programs from London have taken on a serious and topical aspect. Gone are the frivolous variety shows, the numerous sporting commentaries, the comic dialogs of yesterday. Replacing them are an almost continuous round of news bulletins in twenty-two different languages, interspersed with talks dealing with every aspect of the critical situation. Some of these talks are linked in with the news bulletins; for example, the length of the news bulletins, which now start at 7:00 a.m. in transmission 2 and at 3:45 p.m. CST in transmission 4, has been extended from thirty to forty-five minutes in order that topical talks such as "The Empire at War," "Cards on the Table," and "Background to the News" may immediately follow the reading of the news.

The new daily broadcast "Britain Speaks" is being broadcast daily at 6:30 p.m. CST over GSD (11.75). A "Radio News Reel" is an innovation in the service for the North American continent. The previous news bulletins in these transmissions have been replaced by a fifteen-minute news summary at 5:30 p.m., a news commentary of the same length at 7:00 p.m., and the "news reel," broadcast between 8:30 and 9:00 p.m. CST. To provide an informative but informal background to the news of the day is the aim of the new feature, which is planned to appeal to the tastes of the North American listener. Serving officers and men, eye-witnesses of striking events, visitors to Britain with a topical story to tell are the types of contributor whom listeners hear, and illustrations are provided by actuality records made by the BBC's mobile recording unit. Best reception is over GSD (11.75).

Other important topical talks, together with the best hour and frequency for reception of each in North America, are given in the following list: "Industrial Britain" (alternating with "A Farmer's Diary") on Sundays at 8:45 a.m. over GSV (17.81) and at 7:45 p.m. over GSD (11.75); "To Talk of Many Things" on Mondays at 9:00 a.m. over GSV (17.81) and at 9:30 p.m. over GSD (11.75); "Matters of Moment" on Wednesdays at 7:30 a.m. over GSV (17.81) and at 5:30 p.m. over GSD (11.75); "English Newsletter for Canada" on Thursdays at 6:00 p.m. over GSD (11.75); "This Land of Ours" on Fridays at 9:00 a.m. over GSV (17.81) and at 7:45 p.m. over GSD (11.75); "World Affairs" on Fridays at 7:30 a.m. over GSV (17.81) and at 5:30 p.m. over GSD (11.75), and "London Log" on Saturdays at 6:45 a.m. over GSV (17.81) and at 6:00 p.m. CST over GSD (11.75).

Advance notice of outstanding broadcasts during each week will be given under the title of "The Week's Programs" on Saturdays at 7:15 and 9:00 p.m. over GSD (11.75) and on Sundays at 5:00 and 8:30 a.m. over GSV (17.81), at 1:00 p.m. over GSV (17.81) and at 4:25 p.m. CST over GSD (11.75).

When the invasion actually gets under way, all programs from London will probably be set up on an hour-to-hour basis, latest news bulletins being given as soon as they come in. Capture of the great Empire transmitting center at Daventry will be one of the first goals of the invading army, but it is unlikely that it will be a target for bombing raids, as this would render the delicate and valuable equipment useless for subsequent use by the Hitler troops should the raids prove successful. There is always the possibility that the British Broadcasting Corporation would give the word to destroy the short-wave center rather than allow it to become another Nazi mouthpiece.

GENERAL NOTES: Nazi broadcasts are now being made regularly on a frequency of 15.24 megs, accompanied by the following announcement in German, French or occasionally English: "This is the French short-wave station." Presumably these transmissions are being made over the 100,000-watt transmitter of the former French government at Allouis, near Paris . . . DXB (9.61), Berlin, now carries the North American transmission nightly from 5:15 p.m. to 12:00 mid. CST . . . The English news bulletin read over DZD (10.543), Berlin, daily at 4:15 p.m. CST ends with the reading of a list of names of British

This Week Along the Airialtos

SEE PAGE 13 FOR NEWS OF THIS WEEK'S IMPORTANT PROGRAMS AND GUESTS

NEW YORK, N. Y.—News that screen star Anne Shirley had given birth to a girl should have broken in Hollywood. Instead, it broke—unexpectedly—in Flushing, Long Island, at the World's Fair. It was "Johnny Green Day" at the Fair and the "Johnny Presents" maestro was offered a free telephone call at the A. T. & T. Building. He put in a call for Anne at her Hollywood residence, but the call was referred to the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, where Johnny finally reached Anne. Then, while approximately five hundred fair visitors listened to the ensuing conversation between the two old friends, Anne told Johnny (and the others) that she had given birth to a girl, named Julie, the previous night.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Although NBC and CBS are again broadcasting the night-spot orchestra pick-ups, the germ of a change may have been born during the few days the dance orchestras were off. Listeners, many of whom have been protesting against too much dance music at night, got a chance to hear something else for a change. A test survey in the New York area showed that seventy-nine percent preferred the evening schedules of variety presented by NBC and CBS during the strike period, while twenty-one percent switched around among the three networks, mixing dance music over MBS with other types of programs on the other nets.

"America" a Must

SHEBOYGAN, WIS.—With a high percentage of German-descended citizens, Sheboygan, Wis., adopted an ordinance requiring that bands playing in any kind of concerts and public programs include "America," "Star and Stripes Forever," "Star Spangled Banner" and "God Bless America" in the program which they present.

Tony Wons Will Return

CHICAGO, ILL.—One of the real pioneers of radio and one of the most beloved personalities of the airwaves, Tony Wons, will bring his Scrap Book of poetry and philosophy back to the networks October 13. The show, which includes Irma Glen at the organ and Shirley Sadler singing, was on WMAQ locally last winter, made a big hit, and will be on NBC this fall three times weekly.

Niles Trammell New NBC Chief

NEW YORK, N. Y.—NBC now has its third president. Niles Trammell, for the past eighteen months executive vice-president, has been elected to succeed Lenox R. Lohr, who resigned June 7 to become president of the Chicago Museum of Science and Industry. Trammell has risen from the ranks through sheer ability since he joined NBC in 1928 and earned quite a reputation as manager of the Central Division of NBC in Chicago before coming to New York.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Paul Whiteman has given up the hectic activity of leading a dance band in one-nighters and dance spots. "Pops," as he is affectionately known in the musical fraternity, plans to confine his future music endeavors to whatever radio assignments may call for his services. His disbanded musicians are seeking other connections.

Winchell "Totes" Guns

Walter Winchell, when broadcasting from a small NBC studio on Sunday nights, often removes his jacket, always loosens his tie, but never puts aside his two .45-caliber revolvers which hang from each hip. In 1937 two men whom Winchell believes to be Nazis waylaid him and knocked out a false tooth. The encounter could have been worse and Winchell knew it, so for a year thereafter he traveled with Pete, a bodyguard. About a year ago Winchell began to depend upon the "irons" and his own steady aim rather than upon a bodyguard. He has even more enemies now. He knows this and he's proud of it, because every enemy represents one who doesn't subscribe to his anti-Nazi, anti-Communism, anti-everything-that-isn't-American campaign—and they are the ones he wants to ferret out and expose. To those who stand for the Bill of Rights and all it represents, Winchell is America's most popular commentator and writer. Of that, Winchell is prouder. His own views were summed up when he ended a recent Sunday night broadcast and column with this line: "Notice to the ostriches: The Walter Winchell warnings that were belittled as hysterical are now historical." How true!

ALONG THE AIRIALTOS

Arlene Francis Aids Refugees

Arlene Francis ("What's My Name") is giving two British refugee children a home on her Connecticut farm . . . Charita Bauer, youthful NBC actress, will be in the Broadway play "Your Loving Son," which will star Ezra (Henry Aldrich) Stone . . . Wynn Murray, ex-Fred Allen singer, and socialite Henry Oehrig of Long Island are daily doubles . . . Yvette, the blond Birmingham singer with the French accent, makes her first theater appearance August 2 at The Earle in Washington . . . When you hear the new song "Six Lessons from Madame La Zonga" sung on the air, you're listening to a special set of lyrics. The originals are not considered proper by the network authorities for presentation on the radio . . . Peter Cappel of Katharine Cornell's acting group has been added to "Light of the World" for the role of Laban.

Public Necessity

Shocking can be the words of commentators. A Union City, N. J., man heard via CBS that his son, visiting in Mexico, had been shot during the Mexican elections. He hurriedly telephoned CBS headquarters, was advised his son was expected to recover. It was while listening to a Mutual commentator last September that this writer first learned of the death, by a mine-struck ship, of his roommate. Then, too, a telephone call revealed the source and the truth. Truly radio is, as the law specifies, a "public necessity."

Ralph Edwards Causes Mix-Up

Ralph Edwards is taking a vacation. The turmoil caused is typical of this vacation season. In Ralph's case, he's on at such unusual hours that it takes five announcers to substitute for him. Nelson Case took his place on "Life Can Be Beautiful," Ed Herlihy on "Vic and Sade," Allen Kent on "Major Bowes' Amateur Hour," John Darlington on "Against the Storm" and Don Lowe on WEAF's "Children's Hour." He isn't allowing his vacation to interfere with his work on "Truth or Consequences," coming into town from New England each Saturday for the latter.

Observation

It's amusing, glancing over Mutual program listings, to see titles like: Who Knows? Where Are You From? Is Anybody Home? And then to find: The Answer Man . . . I like Fulton Lewis, Jr.'s, description of the Willkie surprise strength: "It's Willkie phenomenon" . . . Irritating is the mispronunciation of "immediately" when CBS' 8 a.m. (EDT) announcer says: "Immidjetly following we will bring you the news from Europe."

Frank Wilson, script-writer for "The Bishop and the Gargoyle," now on NBC, brought his series back to that chain only after being assured it wouldn't be canceled for anyone but President Roosevelt. Numerous last-minute cancellations during its former NBC run weakened the continuity and Wilson didn't want that to happen again.

"The Show of the Week" returns to MBS September 29 in a new format. Everything but the title will be new. Instead of guest bands, Vincent Lopez will hold the permanent orchestral niche. Singer Buddy Clark and guest comedians complete the set-up . . . When Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt guested on the opening NBC "Washington Merry-Go-Round," Drew Pearson and Robert Allen predicted Roosevelt would not seek a third term but allow himself to be drafted. After making the statement, Allen penciled a note and handed it to Mrs. Roosevelt. It read: "I hope I wasn't talking through my hat" . . . Robert ("Believe It or Not") Ripley returns to CBS September 6.

IN HOLLYWOOD

with Evans Plummer

Fulton Lewis Opens Up

Fulton Lewis, Mutual's Washington commentator, who talked to civic organizations here last week, asked first if his remarks would be broadcast. When told no, he really opened up! . . . Significant: Producer Bill Robson's bar against audiences at Woodbury's "Promoting Priscilla" broadcasts; he doesn't want studio laughs to dispel dramatic illusions . . . Fans need not worry—the Fred Allen-Jack Benny "feud" won't end with fall just because Allen will be angeled by a new sponsor (Texaco) . . . Screen actor Pat O'Brien, terminating his long Warner Bros. contract, admits he has long wanted to do radio work of (1) the Edward G. Robinson like or (2) the Burgess Meredith commentarial type. He is going to New York to consider offers . . . Also now in New York discussing several big aircast nibbles is Phil Stewart, the smoothie voice who helped make Wayne King what he hasn't been without him . . . Auditions for possible new shows: Eddie Dunstetter's orchestra with the Merry Macs for a shoe firm; Rosemary DeCamp ("Dr. Christian's" Judy) with radactor Elliott Lewis in a dramatic series titled "Voices in the Crowd," for a Chicago advertiser.

Dick Powell Loses Mother . . . Personals

Dick Powell's mother, Mrs. Ewing Powell, passed away July 3 in Los Angeles at the age of sixty-eight; so overcome was Powell that Kenny Baker pinch-hit for the singer July 4, and donated his pay for the turn to the boys' camp sponsored by the Salvation Army and the Volunteers of America . . . Don Ameche is hanging on the phone awaiting that stork's fourth trip . . . Also urgently expectant are the Charlie Ryans; he's one of the Burns and Allen "Smoothies" trio . . . Infant of the George Dunning (Kay Kyser arranger) has been christened Kathleen.

Colored Lad Makes Good

Success story of the fortnight is that of Charles Holland, young Negro tenor who hit immediately when he sang on the Red Cross broadcast of June 22. Reward: He is being heard on "Charles Dant Presents Charles Holland" Fridays at 5 p.m. EDT and 5 p.m. PST on NBC-Blue network stations. As a boy in Norfolk, Virginia, a white friend took him to a white teacher, May Hamaker Hanley, and Holland sang the only music he possessed, Donizetti's "Una Furtiva Lagrima," in English to her. Mrs. Hanley sat entranced; offered to teach him for nothing. She did, for four years, and then sent him off to New York for more studies. He joined the Hall Johnson Choir in 1932 and stayed with it until now, except for three years when he crooned for Fletcher Henderson . . . At the Red Cross airing he sang "Una Furtiva Lagrima" again—in Italian. And it brought him movie offers from every studio, an NBC management contract, and his new radio series!

Noise Research Department

That take-off on the sound-effects man which is bringing so many laughs to Burns and Allen tuners, was inspired by Al Span, CBS chief sound-technician, who, when he formerly made sounds for B & A, became irked whenever he was referred to as "soundman"! . . . The real dog woofs of Daisy on the "Blondie and Dagwood" airings have succumbed to the phony; Art (Dagwood) Lake is now doing the woofing for fun—and free . . . Al Pearce soundman Billy Gould is getting too big for his britches; he now plays his comic antics for studio audience laughs so much that he practically has forgotten the invisible audience . . . Which reminds that Lou Bring, pianist for Carl Hoff's orchestra on the Pearce opus, drew an extra hour's pay last week for simply leaning on the piano with his elbow to give the desired sound-effect in a comedy skit. His benefactor was a union rule.

Crippled Girl Walks for Dr. Christian

"Dr. Christian" wields much influence. Recently a crippled girl wrote for tickets and her mother amended her note telling Jean Hersholt to give her the tickets only if she'd walk for them. Result: The youngster, who had taken but few steps following an injury, walked the entire length of the studio aisle! . . . Kenny Baker is making the most of his spare summer moments by reorganizing his thousand-odd fan clubs into one whose expenses he will stand.

Taglines . . .

Fordham University has voted Kay

Kyser's the nation's number one show band; the plaque presented goes to Kay's mother, who has the walls of her home in Rocky Mount, N. C., plastered with similar trophies . . . Frances Scully's NBC "Speaking of Glamor" show has been sold to Johnson's Wax for translation to Spanish and Portuguese and transmission to South American listeners.

This Week's Dilly

Arthur Q. Bryan's "It wasn't easy!"

IN CHICAGO

with Don Moore

Let's tell some stories this week: Here's a fable about foibles that has a feminine "ring" to it. Elmira Roesler (Valerie in "Romance of Helen Trent") was having a picture-sitting at the CBS photographic studio. When it was over she couldn't find her two diamond rings which she had taken off. By the time the studio had been turned upside down and inside out in the search, Elmira appeared at the dressing-room door holding an extra pair of shoes. "They were in here," she sheepishly confessed. "That's where I hid them when I took them off."

The second episode in the above story: Mary Patton (Jane in "Golden Store") appeared at the same photo studio, removed her wedding ring and handed it to the photog for safe-keeping. He slipped it on his watch-chain. Mary left in a rush. Next day her husband raised his eyebrows and asked, "Where's your ring?" "Oh!" said Mary, the light dawning, "I just remembered I gave it to a photographer." The husband, director Frank Papp, took it like a good husband. But that photog at CBS is playing safe. He has posted a sign: "Not responsible for jewelry—especially wedding rings!"

Caroline Ellis, author-star of "Caroline's Golden Store," came the nearest to being "broken up" in all her radio years recently. It was her birthday and a sequence had been written into the script wherein Caroline was to receive imaginary gifts. At the exact spot in the script, into the studio marched the cast with real bouquets and a candle-light cake, with Caroline on the air, almost flabbergasted!

Helen Trent Has Blind Date

"Romance of Helen Trent," in all the troubles it has encountered in its seven-plus years on the air, was never confronted with as sudden and bewildering an obstacle as the technical vicissitudes it underwent recently. The CBS serial cast was rehearsing the Tuesday episode when New York phoned that Monday's episode should be repeated because war news had canceled that chapter on eastern stations. Scripts were dug up and Monday's skit rehearsed. Then, just as Virginia Clark was about to say her first words on the air as Helen Trent, somebody shoved a different script into her hands, and she began acting lines she had not seen before. Another call had reversed the decision, and Tuesday's episode was on after all. The cast got through the "cold" sketch admirably, but they were warm with tension when it was over.

Mrs. Ezra Goes to Town

Pat Barrett, now back on the air as Rosedale's perky old Uncle Ezra, went home to his farm at Hebron, Ill., and started telling his wife about the swell combination apartment and office he had rented in the loop for his use while in the city for his programs. Mrs. Barrett (known on the air as Nora Cuncen) was in the midst of canning some jelly—that is, she was till she heard his description of his swanky hideaway. As she removed her apron, Pat said, "What you quittin' for, Nora? Are you through with the jelly?" "Yessir," answered Nora. "I'm moving into town. Let's go!"

Willard Farnum (David in "Midstream") and several friends bought a forty-acre chunk of the Isle of Pines several years ago. They knew this island was supposed to be the original model of "Treasure Island," and they had vague ideas of leaving civilization, with its worries, behind and settling down in an island paradise. Long afterward, they found out a penal colony occupied part of the island. And now, with gunboats menacing each other off near-by Martinique, the landowners have decided U. S. civilization isn't so hectic . . . Gabe (Hoosier Hot Shot) Ward recalls breaking several windows in the Willkie home at Elwood, Ind., which is also Gabe's home town. He also recalls, ironically, telling the father of Republican nominee Wendell that he, Gabe Ward, would some day be president!

"Stepmother" Remodeled

"Stepmother" has a new producer (Joe Ainley), a new director (actor Charles Penman), a new story slant (through a series of flashbacks to the earlier background of the plot), a new writer (George Roosen)—and a new leading man. Francis X. Bushman has already parted with his part and gone back to Hollywood. Veteran stage actor Ian Keith probably gets the John Fairchild role.

Betty Winkler was the first air star to travel by the new Stratoliner service when she flew west for her vacation—which makes her just about at the top in the air as well as on the air . . . Jeanne Juvelier (Mme. Babette in "Arnold Grimm's Daughter") is mother of an eight-pound boy, Kalman Juvelier Kahn . . . Tom Wallace, friend of kenneled husbands, was honored at the New York World's Fair July 7 with "Uncle Walter's Dog House" Day.

ON THE BANDWAGON

UNDISPUTED king of Latin-American rhythm in the United States is suave Xavier Cugat, fiddling Spanish maestro currently broadcasting over both CBS and MBS from New York's Waldorf-Astoria. Born in Barcelona, Cugat was brought to the United States by the late Caruso, who engaged him as his accompanist. He organized his first band in Los Angeles ten years ago, debuting at the Coconut Grove of the Hotel Ambassador. Three years later he moved to the Waldorf, made Gotham dancers rumba-conscious via his foot-compelling rhythms. Today America has another Latin-American dance craze as a result of Cugat's influence—La Conga—a comparatively simple rhythm in contrast to the rumba and typified by Cugat's own composition, "One, Two, Three, Kick." An outstanding caricaturist, Cugat has had five books of his art work published. A member of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, he composed, among a score of other tunes, his own opening and closing themes, "My Shawl" and "Night Must Fall." His subdued yet strongly rhythmic music highlighting full violin and saxophone ensembles, supplemented by maroccas, Cuban bongo drums and marimba, is on full parade in his Latin-American album, recorded for Victor. His orchestra lines up: Ismael Morales, San Juan, P. R., Rub Moss and Max Nadell, both of New York, saxophones (latter two double on violin); Catalino Rolon, San Juan, P. R., maroccas; Antonio Lopez, Havana, Cuba, bongo; Noah Landberg, Philadelphia, violin; Billy Hobbs, Los Angeles, accordion; Raoul Soler, Havana, Cuba, piano; Walter Shaver, Schenectady, N. Y., bass; Albert Calderon, San Juan, P. R., drums; Eddie Asherman, New York City, guitar; George Lopez, San Juan, P. R., trumpet; Ray Gonzalez, San Francisco, marimba. For his effort in bringing to dancing America the rumba and the conga, your correspondent names Xavier Cugat—MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE's Band of the Week.

Behind the Podium

Gotham gab gives Hal Kemp's crew the inside track for the Bergen-McCarthy show set for an early September debut from California . . . Hal's lads currently NBCing from Beverly Hills Country Club, Newport, Ky., and due for a four-week stint in August at New Orleans' Roosevelt Hotel . . . Tommy Dorsey holds over for the remainder of the summer at New York's Astor Roof . . . Fiddler-maestro Emery Deutsch and composer Marjorie Goetschius due for early fall wedding bells . . . Bea Wain will have a happy first birthday on the Hit Parade August 3 with a thirteen-week renewal gift from chum sponsor . . . Mary Small signed to wax for Columbia . . . The Griff Williamses expect a cradle-tenant come Xmas . . . Raymond Scott tees off the first big location stand for his new dance band at the Panther Room of Chicago's Hotel Sherman August 2 . . . Jimmy Van Heusen flew his new Luscombe plane to the Coast last week. He'll pen a new Paramount picture score while there . . . Art Jarret will road-tour in front of a band when he completes current chores in "Walk With Music," Broadway musical . . . Art, you may recall, used to baton-wave over MBS from Chicago's Blackhawk, ex-wife Eleanor Holm then handling the female vocal position.

Song of the Week

"Sierra Sue"—nostalgic ballad in similar vein to "South of the Border," composed by Joseph B. Carey, an unknown from Denver, Colo., in 1916 . . . Tune accumulated dust on a publisher's shelf for years until accidentally unearthed early in 1940 . . . Records available include Bing Crosby, Glen Gray (both Decca), Glenn Miller (Bluebird), Gene Krupa (Columbia), Sammy Kaye (Victor), Tommy Reynolds (Vocalion), Johnny Green (Royale).

Off the Beat

Bonnie King is the new gal vocalist with the Bob Crosby crew, now airing for Camel Thursdays at 7:30 p.m. (EDT) . . . Imogene Linn new in a similiar capacity with Emerson Gill's band . . . After four successive lacings at the hands of the Harry James, Joe Marsala and Glenn Garr teams, Tommy Dorsey's softball team is ready to challenge any all-girl band in the business . . . Babe Fresk is a tenor saxophone addition to Gray Gordon's band at New York's Hotel Edison . . . Coleman Hawkins, great hot tenor saxophonist recently returned to this country after five years in France, just learned that his $15,000 house outside of Paris had been demolished during a Nazi air-raid . . . Joe Reichman in production for a Warners short . . . Buddy Rogers rumored for a short retirement from his band when it concludes its current stand at Dallas' Baker Hotel . . . Johnny Morris may take over the baton . . . Maurice Spitalny opens Pittsburgh's "Pines" with NBC

August 2 . . . Al Donahue, currently NBCing from the Meadowbrook Country Club (New Jersey), due for two weeks at Virginia Beach beginning August 11 . . . That new ditty, "Maybe," which seems headed for a wave of air popularity, was originally penned in 1923 by Allan Flynn and Frank Madden, "laying off" during a lull in show business. By 1925, it became popular in New York's "speakeasies," and was labeled "The Buck Song," because its rendition invariably brought the singer a dollar tip. It never hit a large degree of popularity, however, until its present publisher acquired rights to it. Records available include, among others, Sammy Kaye, Bob Chester, Dick Robertson, Gene Krupa and The Ink Spots.

Discussions

ARTHUR MURRAY—"Learn to Dance" (Columbia album C-20, four records, $2.50)—Advertised as "America's Foremost Dance Master," Murray operates thirty-one dance schools throughout the country . . . Here offers on wax fundamental lessons on how to dance the waltz, fox trot and rumba.

YVETTE—"In the Park in Patee" and "How Can I Ever Be Alone?" (Bluebird 10775, $0.35)—NBC's continental chanteuse lends her dulcet, charming voice to wax for the first time, promises to be as successful in this medium as she has been on radio.

BUD FREEMAN—"Fashions in Swing" (Decca album 142, four records, $2.50)—The great summa cum laude jazz combination of Freeman on tenor sax, Pee Wee Russell on clarinet, Max Kaminsky on trumpet, Brad Gowans on trombone, Dave Bowman at piano, Eddie Condon at guitar, Pete Peterson, bass, and Morey Feld, drums, revive in jam fashion a set of eight ditties popularized by the famous Wolverines Band of 1924, including "Copenhagen," "Tia Juana" and "Fidgety Feet," among others . . . A swing must!

WAYNE KING—"I'd Love to Live in Loveland" (Victor 26645, $0.75)—The Waltz King waltz-tempos a pretty melody in typical style, handling the vocal himself . . . "If I Forget You," the backer-upper fox trot, also featuring the maestro's voice, attained great prominence when featured by Judy Garland in the recent short commemorating Will Rogers.

RECORDRECOMMENDATIONS—Glen Gray, "When Buddha Smiles" (Decca 3261); Will Bradley, "Strange Cargo" (Columbia 35545); Hal Kemp, "I Just Couldn't Take It, Baby" (Victor 26655); Bobby Hackett, "What Can I Say After I Say I'm Sorry" (Vocalion 5620); Glenn Miller, "A Million Dreams Ago" (Bluebird 10768).

FIRST FAMILIES OF RADIO

This is "Pepper Young's Family"

COME hard times, come good times, Pepper Young's family sticks together. That is the solid, true-to-life foundation which has anchored the hard-to-believe ups and downs of this serial-drama family's existence since it was introduced to listeners in 1933. First meeting the Youngs—Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Young and their children, Pepper and Peggy—as an average family in an average town, serial listeners have followed Mr. Young's career as fortune brought him wealth and the mayorship of his home town; as misfortune swept away his business and his family's security; as rehabilitation came slowly and painfully. All of this, however, they have regarded through the eyes and with the feelings of Pepper Young, for the life of the Young family has always revolved about this restless, romantic lad. Recently the story has veered to Pepper's infatuation with a California girl and his desire to follow her back west. After working for many weeks to earn his bus fare, he eases his parents' anxieties by giving the money earned to an old lady who needs it more than he. And so Pepper Young's family still sticks together. Those who haven't already made their acquaintance, may tune in "Pepper Young's Family" Mondays through Fridays, NBC.

ARE THERE TOO MANY SERIALS?

Read what this housewife has to say after a day of intensive serial-listening

By Mrs. John Paul Jenkins

Trouble . . . Triangle

Bess Johnson, played by herself (below) in "Hilltop House" (CBS), longs for John, whom she loves but who is being seduced by an Indian girl. Triangle problems like this perplex most serial heroines

Trouble . . . Amnesia

Mary Marlin, played by Anne Seymour (above) in "Story of Mary Marlin" (NBC), lost her amnesia-stricken husband years ago. High amnesia rate is a phenomenon of daytime serials

AMONG each American listener's inalienable rights is the pursuit of daytime dramatic serials. Pursuit meaning, as in the dictionary, "an eager endeavor to gain," or pursuit meaning, as in the words of some listeners, "Chase that stuff off the air!" The right is fully exercised both ways. You either cherish radio serials or you hate them. There are many listeners on each side. And there isn't much half-way territory.

I've read letters from listeners printed in MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE saying, "We couldn't do without the serials . . . They lighten housework . . . They are so true to life . . . so interesting." And I've seen other letters saying, in effect: "We have enough troubles of our own without listening to that trash all day. Can't something be done about it?" I read in the papers that a woman's club in New Rochelle, N. Y., has been trying to organize a national boycott of women against the sketches and the sponsored products. But I also know of several groups of women who listen regularly to the serials and consider them not only entertaining but lifting.

I was thinking about this paradox one day while listening to a skit. I'm an average American listener. It's my right to have an opinion about the serial situation. Not only my right but a kind of duty. Like the right and the duty to vote. But what did I really think? What was the "serial situation"? How did it come about and what was it leading to? Being a housewife, I was personally concerned, for they say these dramatic offerings are aimed at the housewife. And being a modern housewife, who likes to know what's going on and why, I made up my mind to conduct an experiment with my radio. I would expose myself to a whole day of intensive, analytical serial listening, and see what it would do to me.

First, to begin with a solid foundation, I counted the number of daily serials listed in MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE, from 9:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. I found about sixty network sketches listed each day. Some of these, I understand, are repeated later in the day for West Coast listeners. There are also numerous sketches broadcast only by transcription. It was something of a shock when the actual figures confronted me, for I remembered not so long ago when "Betty and Bob," "Myrt and Marge," "The Goldbergs" and a few other veteran stories were the only serials on the air, and something of a novelty. Now it's a novelty to hear anything but a dramatic skit in the daytime.

With an open mind, I began my experiment, starting early in the day with my listening, just as the housewife listeners are presumed to do. The first story I caught was "The Man I Married." I found myself eavesdropping on a very personal conversation between Evelyn Waring and Phineas Grant. He was telling her that he couldn't stop loving her, even though her husband, Adam, had come back. But Phineas was the right kind. He wanted to remain a friend to both Evelyn and Adam. He even provided a new job for Adam by secretly paying his salary through the employer. Or was the listener supposed to suspect ulterior motives in Phineas' action?

While the closing commercial slipped by me, I pondered what I had just heard. The episode surely wasn't offensive. After all, love is here to stay, and even the eternal triangle is something you can't do much about except try to stay out of it yourself. At least, I heard no hint of adultery and eroticism, motifs I had just been reading in a couple of best-selling novels.

BUT here was case number two, a pioneer favorite sketch, "Myrt and Marge." Myrt, it seemed, had been befriending a boy whose mother had died and she had been trying to help the lad's father get a job. She sent the unemployed man to an executive she knew. The man thought perhaps he appeared not independent enough, he confided later to Myrt. But, peculiarly, the executive called to tell Myrt that the applicant had seemed too independent to work with the authoritative superintendent he had in mind.

Here was a different dramatic theme. Trouble to be sure. But a situation true to life, surely. It brought to me poignant recollection of husband and son walking the streets and hearing employers say, "No," sometimes for reasons that seemed unjust; coming home discouraged and desperate. The dramatic situation was close to home and held my attention. But then

Trouble . . . Hair-Pulling

Chi-Chi, played by Alice Reinheart (above) in "Life Can Be Beautiful" (NBC, CBS), recently made good a threat to mop up a vamp who threatened her friend. Do serials have too many vamps?

Trouble . . . No Jobs

Myrt and Marge, played by Myrtle Vail (r.) and Donna Damerel Fick in "Myrt and Marge" (CBS), currently are trying to find jobs for their friends. Are serials too full of misery?

my husband and my son were not now trudging the streets. Maybe if they were, I wouldn't want a dramatic focus thrown on the painful picture. Maybe I wouldn't then have got much consolation out of the episode.

Then I found myself in the midst of another "woeful" situation with "Vic and Sade," but this time I could grin. The "adversity" in this case was that Sade had been elected president of the Thimble Club, and the members all had axes to grind. Sade was also supposed to make speeches. She was worried about all this trouble-shooting responsibility. It was all she could do, she said, to get up and "pound the gravel on the table."

Poor Sade! I knew just how she felt. Good old Sade—and Vic and young Rush. There surely couldn't be any complaint about this most human, most gently ludicrous of serials. We all like to have fun poked at us, if the caricature is kind and close to the truth. I remembered that my youngest brother thinks the Gooks are tops, and I recalled a number of elderly people who set their clocks by the time for "Vic and Sade."

"The Story of Mary Marlin" was coming up next, and now, indeed, I'd get full measure of misery, if some of the listeners' charges were true. But "Mary Marlin" failed me. The episode about the doings of a precocious little girl named Tootie was not calculated to skyrocket the blood-pressure. So I quickly switched to "Hilltop House," which was on at the same time. And "Hilltop House" didn't let me down.

While Bess Johnson was being tormented by her longing for John, he was working among some Indians, suffering from a loss of memory, listening to the protestations of love from a native girl, knowing temptation, but valiantly putting it away from him for fear that he would recover his memory sometime and find out that his life was complicated by someone else in his past—like Bess. A little far-fetched, perhaps, but why get bothered about it? After all, these things are only make-believe. If a character wants to go and lose his memory—even if there is an illogically high amnesia rate in the serials—let him lose it. Maybe he wants to forget it all, too. But what sinister influence can this have on the listener's own mental and nervous balance? By the time the closing commercial was punched through, I had experienced enough lapse of memory myself that my sympathy for both Bess and John hardly tortured me with impatience for tomorrow's episode.

Came next young Bud Fairchild, with a desperate look in his eyes. Kay Fairchild, his stepmother in the "Stepmother" story, feared something serious was weighing on the lad's mind. John Fairchild, the father, scoffed at Kay's concern; but the announcer wondered in an aside to us if Bud was involved with a gang of hoodlums. (A plausible plot situation. And pretty tame, at that, to the many who laugh tolerantly at the "Dead End Kids." Anyway, Bud wasn't shuddering with terror as part of a ghoulish bomber's objective. There are worse things than a child's mental struggle over a personal problem.)

PEPPER YOUNG disappeared from the rest of "Pepper Young's Family" when they were waiting for him to take them on a picnic. Mr. Young got the police to help find him. He had driven eighty-five miles to see his girl friend off on the train. It was intimated that this girl had "broken a tie" between Pepper and his family. (More problems of youth. Plenty of them nowadays. Always have been; always will be. Fellows wouldn't grow up to be seasoned men of power and vision if they didn't have trials to look back at and laugh at.)

A SAFE AND SANE CHILDREN'S HOUR

Thrills without chills for the kids on NBC's new "Supertime Hour"

HOW to take the too sensational and the too mature out of children's programs and yet leave interest and fascination for the youngsters—in short, how to give them thrills without chills—has long been a problem with broadcasters. In isolated instances it has been solved. Here and there throughout the week there have been programs which have left nothing to be desired from either parent or child point of view, but likely as not, before or after such a program the loudspeaker would blare out an erotic serial story or a juvenile show filled with blood and thunder. A much longer and more satisfying step toward the solution of the problem is NBC's new "Children's Supertime Hour" (Monday through Friday), which runs a full hour with four consecutive features: "Uncle Mal," who began telling radio stories to the kiddies five years ago; "Rocky Gordon," adventure drama about railroading; Irene Wicker, the famous Singing Lady, and "Story of Bud Barton," serial about a typical American boy. Here is a complete schedule of juvenile entertainment, planned for approximately the same age groups. Here is a broadcast with which parents may leave their children without fears, with assurance they will enjoy themselves.

"IREENE WICKER'S MUSICAL STORIES" features the famous Singing Lady of radio. Miss Wicker tells, sometimes sings, stories fanciful and true on her quarter-hour

"ROCKY GORDON," written by Robert Monroe, above, is the hour's story of railroading—of a hard-boiled engineer and an ambitious boy starting at the bottom

I'M GLAD I FAILED MY SCREEN TEST!

for a real meal. We vacated it under the cool eye of the head waitress and slunk out, not having enough money to leave a tip. Of course I discovered later that there was a hot-dog wagon on the lot, but nobody told us about it when we needed it.

Oddly enough, my dream-castles had all vanished by this time and I no longer thought of "When I would be a star." All I could think of was to get that screen test over with and then go home and get into bed. I was sleepy and tired. We all were.

After we had been revived by the make-up man and our lips touched up, we asked directions and went to stage 14. The test stage.

I began shaking again as soon as the big stage doors shut behind me. The sound-stage had been divided in half with walls, and we were seated on benches near a heater and told to wait. It seemed ages before the casting-director came in.

"I'll take you one at a time on the set," he said. "You first." He motioned to a pretty redhead who had been getting whiter and whiter under her make-up ever since she first entered the room.

She stood up to walk into the set, swayed and fell in a crumpled heap of shimmering satin at the feet of the casting-director. Her name was Jennie and she never had her screen test. She was carried out and sent to the studio hospital for care. Later, I learned that they sent her home.

We were nervous enough, but this sudden elimination of one of our number was terrifying. Each girl was wondering the same thing. Will I faint, too?

How can I explain the nervous agony of this business? How can I show you how ghastly it is to wait for hours, dressed and painted, for a chance to face that unknown adversary, the camera? It is by far the most terrifying feeling that I can think of.

The "stage experience" blonde was next, and she strolled into the next room calmly, though I could see her fingers trembling, hidden by her full skirt. We listened and waited, wondering what was going on in there. In about fifteen minutes she returned and picked up the cape of her gown from the bench.

"How was it? What's it like?" we asked.

She turned to answer and we were surprised to find her face oddly broken, as though she were trying not to cry.

"Don't be afraid," she said, and hurried out.

We looked at one another with frightened eyes, beaded thickly with mascara. Just what was it all about?

"Next!"

This happened four times and, counting delays, it was three-thirty before my turn came. One other girl was eliminated in that time because she had hysterics. The waiting did that. I ground my teeth and stuck it out—but Hazel kept saying she was going to go home. The dickens with it. A screen career wasn't worth this much suffering. I secretly agreed with her, but I was determined to learn the worst. My make-up was fading fast and my nose shone, so I resurrected myself as best I could.

Then I was "next!"

What happened when this movie-struck girl entered the test stage to face a camera for the first time? What was the experience that makes her glad she didn't get into the movies? Don't miss the dramatic denouement of this startling true story—next week in MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE!

TONI GILMAN, who plays Virginia Craig on "Martha Webster" (CBS serial), says the secret of a streamlined figure is "will and won't" power

ACCORDING to Toni Gilman, whose photograph you see at the top of this page and whose figure is the kind that makes the average man look in the direction of his wife and say, "I wonder how Mary could have slipped so," a graceful, streamlined figure is seldom an accident but invariably the result of well-planned "home work" consisting of exercise and diet, plus quantities of will and won't power.

"And it's the won't power that's apt to bring quicker results than the will power," Toni declares laughingly, "at least it does in my case. I won't allow myself to eat candy, pastry, white bread, potatoes, cream sauces or heavy mayonnaise. I won't allow myself to ride when I can walk, or do without ten minutes of floor exercise every day, to keep my stomach muscles flat and my little 'behind,' also.

Toni informs me that you can do wonders with the average figure even in a week's time if you will choose foods that make for energy rather than for flesh, see to it that your digestive machinery is speeded up to perfect running-order, and be sure that your daily ten minutes of stretching and bending exercises aren't sliced down to a miserly three or four!

In case you didn't know it, it is exercise that whittles off those unbecoming inches, but it is wisely chosen food that cuts down the poundage!

If you want to re-contour your figure in the quickest possible time, go on a fruit-juice diet for three days and see to what a flattering extent it flattens the abdomen—your most noticeable fault—without causing you to feel weak or dizzy (except in your imagination whenever you pass a bakery or a rotisserie!). And remember that it is posture that at any stage of the game controls three-quarters of your appearance! The success or failure of the other quarter may be chalked up to overweight or underweight, but while you are waiting for your newly firmed muscles to support you, get busy on your willpower! Watch those slumping shoulders, concave chest and advancing abdomen every conscious moment.

Here is a little exercise that you can do at any time of the day you happen to be in a more or less inconspicuous position—walking, riding.

Pull your abdominal muscles in as tightly as possible and hold them so for as long as you can stand it—then let go! Do this over and over through the day and before you turn over to sleep at night. It works like a charm!

ARE THERE TOO MANY SERIALS?

new character named Mr. Ross, who came to the foundling home to adopt a baby and who "may play a sinister part in Dr. and Mrs. Graham's life." (Ominous suggestion there, but hardly enough to cause sinking-spells and chewed fingernails.) "Big Sister" was more explicit than ominously suggestive. Miss Sheldon, the debutante, had been spanked by Aunt Mamie, and to get revenge she hired a tough thug to steal Aunt Mamie's precious good-luck pin from the jewelry store. (Since the first time a prehistoric prima donna bashed in her neighbor's skull for a catty remark and then carved the record on the cave wall, revenge, among the weaker as well as the stronger sex, has been a main motif in literature. Can't blame radio for taking up such time-honored themes.)

THEN came "Guiding Light." But there was darkness. For Ellis Smith was blind. Mr. Nobody from Nowhere, as he is called, bitterly raved through the whole episode. He did so with such interpretative power that, in spite of the pathos of the situation, I felt as if here was a real piece of drama. That is, until the announcer wound it up with: "Out of this darkness must come light—a 'Guiding Light'—and went into a commercial which seemed to be meant as that "Guiding Light."

What next? I was beginning to feel slightly bewildered, if not quite morbid yet. Drew Sinclair had been using liquor and strong sedatives to keep up with his work, but Helen forgave him for recent unkindnesses, attributing it to the mental attacks he had been having in the story, "Romance of Helen Trent." "Our Gal Sunday" was losing the love of her titled English husband to a sophisticated other woman.

Chi-Chi made good her threat to mop up the floor with the villainess, Rita, to prove that "Life Can Be Beautiful." "Ma Perkins" was feeding a couple of undernourished sisters who came to her door. Their mother had died, their father had abandoned them, and they had been living in an empty shack, eating scraps of garbage.

Patricia, heroine of "Girl Alone," found John Knight with another woman in the jungle, but they were reconciled, even though the true relation of John and the other woman was left for future clarification—both to Patricia and the listeners.

And so on and on and on. These were by no means the only sketches I heard throughout the day. By dialing back and forth between several on at the same time, I managed to catch substantial portions of forty serials—about two-thirds, perhaps, of the full number. And I was tired. Jittery.

Relaxing and thinking back, I could easily recall individual episodes that had stood out as interesting, even absorbing. But the impact of one upon another continuously had been too much, had accelerated the merry-go-round in my head to a giddy speed. I knew what the complainers meant. They were not the listeners who followed two or three favorite serials, probably. They must be those who listened much of the day, as I had done, and finally the merry-go-round got them dizzy, too, till they sought relief.

In what I had heard I could see no justification for charging daytime radio drama with indecency, violence or improper insinuations of any sort—not, at least, when compared to literature, the movies or the theater. One motif did stand out throughout the day—one against which listeners cry out most insistently—domestic unfaithfulness. Heard as the theme of one serial it would go unchallenged. Splattered through two dozen, it does, perhaps, become an unhealthy overdose.

The sickening number of times I heard "What will happen?" and "Tune in tomorrow and see" and "Is John Doe really losing his mind?" and similar bromides brought home to me this regrettable fact: These dramatic pieces are not planned as literature or drama or entertainment or education. They are planned and executed as advertising—nothing else. I confirmed this fact also by checking systematically the amount of time occupied by commercial announcements and other business outside the dialog itself. The time consumed by commercials on this day ranged from one minute forty-five seconds for "Backstage Wife" to three minutes thirty seconds for "Pretty Kitty Kelly." The average time was about two minutes forty-five seconds. This time is not such an exorbitant price to pay; but combined with time for synopses, summaries, theme music and a few contest announcements, it takes altogether an average of almost half the fifteen-minute period. The average time, in fact, for the actual plots in the sketches checked was eight minutes forty-five seconds.

But if the approximately nine minutes of story can arouse enough curiosity or excitement to make you listen again tomorrow and tomorrow, and perhaps finally accept the three minutes of commercial talking without too much antagonism, then the sketch is a success—to the sponsor. Maybe the sales psychology is faulty, but the fact remains that they plan it that way. Even with this situation, daytime radio drama would be accepted by the general public as pretty much all right, except for two things: There are too many serials; they're too much alike.

WITH magazines, books, movies, plays you can take them or leave them alone. Select what you think you'll like. Not so in daytime radio, ironically supposed to be a sort of public utility. At almost every fifteen-minute period you listen to a serial, much like the one before and the one to come. Or you listen to recorded music on a local station (which is at least a break for the small station). Or you don't listen.

Isn't it possible that advertisers, actors and listeners would benefit from thinning and culling the strip shows?

Maybe if they'd end a serial now and then and start a new story in its stead, it would help.

Perhaps if they'd stress day-to-day life nearer the average or spots of intense acting rather than "do listen tomorrow" suspense in every episode, it would help.

I'm only one listener. Only an average housewife. But to pursue or not to pursue is my inalienable radio right. If through a day of analytical listening I conclude that some of the serials are good, but that there are too many, that they are built on false psychology, that they are too much alike—that is my right. Just as it is everyone's right in America to think for himself. Improvement comes no other way.

Can Your Child Make Good in the Movies?

they were called back to Hollywood. Larry had won the role in the "Blondie" series.

While a chance photograph which found its way onto the cover of a widely circulated magazine gave Larry his big chance, his success really is due to his earlier training. Larry had never been taught dramatics, gestures or recitations. But he had been taught to follow orders—the first time. Like the Baby Dumpling he emulates, Larry is punished for disobedience by having to sit on his chair for fifteen minutes. Mild punishment and a definite drawing of the line between discipline which does not hamper but trains and discipline which might squelch his initiative are responsible for his success.

Joe Pasternak, producer of the Deanna Durbin pictures, comes closest, perhaps, to the actual achievements of child stars in the advice he offers. "Never force a child to act," he says. "Ask the child if he or she would like to act, and unless the child shows a willingness, forget the whole idea."

"Give the child dancing and singing lessons. Give the child every sort of preparation that would develop his or her natural talents. Then, don't come to Hollywood! Let Hollywood send for you. Talent makes its way to the top if it's real." (Mr. Pasternak could easily point to his own career in proof of this point. A couple of years back he was a waiter who spent his spare time going to the movies and dreaming about how he would improve them if he had the chance. Today he's a top-flight producer of pictures, especially noted for his handling of child stars like Deanna Durbin and Gloria Jean.) "I don't unequivocally say stay away from Hollywood," Mr. Pasternak continued. "But I do say, don't bring your children to Hollywood unless you have plenty of money to live on. Ten child players make a go of it each year. Thousands try."

Boiled down, the almost universal opinion among noted child-directors and producers—men who should know—is that your child has little or no chance in Hollywood. They feel that his or her best chance is to stay at home and be a big fish in a little puddle to which talent-scouts may be attracted, instead of coming to Hollywood, where, nine times out of ten, the child will become lost in the shuffle. These men, too, feel that dramatic training ruins more prospective starlets than it helps, but they agree that dancing and musical education may be a great advantage.

The bright side of this ten-thousand-to-one gamble which has a literal pot of gold at the end of it lies in the fact that children do make good in Hollywood year after year. They make good, as in the case of Jane Withers and Billy Lee and many others, despite the discouragement and by ignoring everything the experts say they should—or should not—do.

That there is no royal road to Hollywood success is quite obvious. It's a long gamble, but for such stakes as are involved in Hollywood success, the odds could not reasonably be expected to be shorter.

This is the second and concluding article on the subject, "Can Your Child Make Good in the Movies?" The first was published in MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE last week.

Instrument of Torture

Dear V. O. L.:

In the past few dreadful months my radio, which has always been a source of delight to me, has turned into an instrument of torture. I can avoid the newspapers with their screaming headlines, but I have no defense against the ominous "We interrupt this program to bring you a late news bulletin," which assails my ears so constantly at the present time.

Yesterday I heard via radio of the fall of Paris, and the realization came to me that the gracious city of my dreams was in the clutches of an invading horde. No longer can good music be enjoyed because of that chilling fear of what may interrupt it.

Maxine Baxter, Norwood, Ohio.

● Read the next letter for a different approach to war and music.—V. O. L.

Dear V. O. L.:

None of us knows what the future holds, but let us resolve right now that, whatever happens, fine music and inspiring drama will not be censored from the airwaves, no matter who might have been their creator.

Radio is a young and modern thing and shouldn't have to act so foolish as to halt the performance of music and drama that became great long before the present conflict started, and will live long after it is over.

Paul L. Smullin, Chicago, Ill.

YOU ASKED FOR THEM And Here They Are

Movie and Radio Guide will pay one dollar for any letter which the editors accept and print on this page. Address Pictorial Editor, 731 Plymouth Court, Chicago, Ill.

QUIZZERS on "What's My Name?" (NBC, Fri.) are Budd Hulick, Arlene Francis (l.). Arlene has radio's "oomph" voice; Budd started with Stoopnagle

GENIAL JIM McWILLIAMS pioneered the quiz with "Uncle Jim's Bee," currently conducting "Ask-It-Basket" Thursday nights over CBS

"VOX POP" (CBS, Thurs.) came to the networks from Texas with Parks Johnson (left) in 1935; the year Wally Butterworth (right) became coquizzier with him. No intellectuals, Parks and Wally would rather extract laughs than correct answers

Dear Sirs:
How about pictures of our quizmasters, such as Dr. I. Q., Jim McWilliams and stars of "What's My Name?", "Vox Pop"?
C., Milford, Conn.

"DR. I. Q." (NBC, Mon.), who is Mr. Lew Valentine in private life, started out as a local station announcer in Houston, Texas. Today he is a Chicago advertising executive in addition to being originator and conductor of radio's big theater quiz

HOW RADIO SOLD Wendell Willkie to America

UNHEARD of a few months ago, Wendell Willkie, dark horse and 100-to-1 shot, in an avalanche of popularity surprised the best political forecasters in America by grabbing off the prized Republican nomination for President.

How did he do it? What was the cause of his powerful popularity? How did he sell himself to the American public?

* * * * *

One night as you and millions of other listeners were tuned in on "Information, Please," Wendell Willkie took his place behind the green-top table along with F. P. A., John Kieran and Christopher Morley.

Out popped questions:

- "With what institution or organization is each of the following greetings associated: 'Where's Elmer?' 'Hello, Bill?'"
- "Name the Presidents during whose administrations the following expressions came into use: 'Carpetbagger' . . . What did the term 'carpetbagger' mean? 'Farm bloc?'"
- "According to its preamble, the Constitution of the United States was adopted in order to promote what, insure what, and provide for what?"

● "During the same session of Congress, two bills were passed and sent to the President for signature. The President neither signs nor vetoes the bills, yet one becomes a law and one doesn't. How is this possible?"

How did Wendell Willkie answer these and other questions that Clifton Fadiman, the Master of Ceremonies of "Information, Please," put before the fastest thinkers on the air—the best informed?

His direct, simple answers, reproduced word for word from the actual transcript, reveal the character and human appeal of America's most exciting political figure. This was the broadcast that started Willkie on his way to the nomination. To understand his spontaneous popularity, his dynamic personality, you'll want to read the very words he used to sell himself to America!

Movie and RADIO GUIDE

brings you each week new and thrilling experiences on the air and on the screen. Here are some of the features you'll find in the coming summer issues:

"Small Town Smoothie"

A story of Martha Scott, who failed a screen test as Melanie in "Gone With the Wind" and was told that she had absolutely no future in the movies but who now is the outstanding player in "Our Town," one of the year's great movies.

"I'm Glad I Failed My Screen Test"

By a Girl Who Took One

You have read the first installment of this story in this week's issue. Next week you will learn whether it is the exciting, easy lark most people think or a grueling, exhausting ordeal.

"The Truth About Hollywood's Social Life"

By Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr.

A son of one of America's first families looks at the hurly-burly world of Hollywood society and tells what he sees.

"Ruth Hussey's Amazing Story"

By James Street

The story of a girl who didn't have a chance until she appeared in "Susan and God," with Joan Crawford. All America sings her praises and she is now scheduled for stardom. Another success story which could happen only in America.

Every issue of MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE gives you beautiful rotogravure pictures of forthcoming movies. Here are some:

"Boom Town," starring Tracy, Lamarr, Gable, Colbert.

"Lucky Partners," starring Ronald Colman, Ginger Rogers.

"Return of Frank James," starring Henry Fonda, Gene Tierney.

"The Sea Hawk," starring Errol Flynn, Brenda Marshall.

Buy MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE every week this summer. Keep informed on the important radio programs and the interesting movies. You can double your movie and radio enjoyment by making sure that there is a copy of MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE in your home.
