HOW TO USE

To Double the Benefits from Your Radio Set

HOW TO FIND THE PROGRAM YOU WANT WHEN YOU WANT IT

The program-finding service covers the hours of 6 to 12 P. M. for each day in the month, Eastern Standard Time, or from 5 to 11 P. M., Central Time. Simply turn to the page bearing date and hour when program is wanted. Select from index in panels at foot of page particular program or type of program you prefer, then locate on schedule chosen symbol at nearest point (by use of State index) from which it is being broadcast. Or, if you prefer, check symbols of favorite stations against index of symbols in panels at foot of page until you locate type of program for which your particular mood calls.

Sunday programs appear on pages 8-13; Monday, pages 14-19; Tuesday, pages 20-25; Wednesday, pages 26-31; Thursday, pages 32-37; Friday, pages 38-43; Saturday, pages 44-49.

HOW TO USE THE WAVE-LENGTH GUIDE

Draw lines from the stems of arrows pointing to the wave lengths of stations with which you are familiar to the respective points on the scale to the right corresponding to the points on the detector dial of your set where these stations “come in.” After you have drawn about a dozen of these lines you will have a guide to all of the stations in the country. For example, if Station WEAF, which is on channel No. 12—which means it operates on a frequency of 660 kilocycles and 454 meters—comes in on your set at 74, and Station WLW, on channel No. 16, comes in on your set at 67, stations on channels 13, 14 and 15 necessarily must come in at points between these two locations on your dial.

TO MAKE A LONG-DISTANCE TEST (DX)

Ascertain which of your local stations are broadcasting chain features at the moment. Tune in one of these and find out what number is being rendered. Then start your detector dial at either end of its arc and turn slowly. As soon as you hear the same number, note your dial setting and check back to the column showing wave lengths, thus ascertaining the approximate wave length of the station you are receiving. To the left of this column you will find the call letters of stations on the wave length of that station and those having approximately that wave length. Reference to the schedule of programs applying to the time you are listening will show you which of these stations is broadcasting the program to which you are listening, and you can thus identify it without having to wait for call letters.

Announcing—

RAMBLIN' 'ROUND RADIOLAND
With WENDELL HALL
The Red-Headed Music-Maker
Pioneer Radio Artist

WE are happy to announce that, beginning with our next issue, Wendell Hall's "Ramblin' 'Round Radioland" will be a regular feature of our magazine. To every veteran radio listener his brief greeting on this page will be received like a letter from home. The "Red-headed Music-maker" seems a personal friend, so closely is he associated in the listeners' memories with the high points in the history of radio broadcasting. Truly is he entitled to the title "Radio's Pioneer Artist." Not only was he the first Victor artist to enter the radio field, but he was the first sponsored artist in radio. As the original Eveready Entertainer, he had the first advertising contract. As a pioneer he made the first and only successful world tour of broadcasting history, entertaining from all the larger stations of America and Europe.

Already internationally known through his broadcasting, as the writer of such song hits as "It Ain't Gonna Rain No Mo'," and as the leading recording artist in number of records sold, Wen Hall has decided this year to turn his hand to writing about his experiences in the radio field. Naturally, he has chosen WHAT'S ON THE AIR as the medium by which to reach the most of his friends—the radio listeners. With his opening "R-Tickle" in our next issue, we shall print some interesting data about this young man for whom radio seems to have been invented.

HELLO, folks! How are you all this evenin'? Well, suh — I've been a-ramblin' 'round radioland — a-fiddlin' 'round (an old fiddlin' fool) SO doggone long — a-buzzin' 'round in the public ear and a-talkin' to you all so long — and a-gettin' to know you all so well — and sorta chummin' 'round with you all chummy-like for such a long time — Well — it just sorta kinda seemed like that sooner or later I just HAD to start writin' to you — you know kinda continuin' out the conversation like.

Most of my line o' gab has always been just for a laugh — "no sense to it" — there's enough tragedy and seriousness in real life as is, without manufacturin' more. I've always tried to be natural like — guess I'm sort of a carefree, happy-go-lucky kind of a fella anyway — and to spread joy and saturate the ether with sunshine I like to do none other no better than, and I don't mean if, and, or, but, perchance, perhaps or otherwise! Yes, suh! But always beside a smile, a chuckle or a laugh I've tried to give you all something to take away with you — just a little sensible non-sense.

Now, this stack of story-writin' will be just that. This little "serious" of "R-Tickles" and "S-A's" will be mostly for a laugh — will be the right smack low-down on the doin's behind the mike — the goin's on right now and the goin's on that went on (and how) in the early days of radio — and — well — just chummy chatter — just for fun.

So, until then — see you pretty soon — pretty sooooooon — pretty so-o-o-o-ooooon. Nite Owl.

Never Darken My Door Again!

Dr. Lee De Forest, "Father of Broadcasting," Spurns His Offspring as a Red-headed Stepson

By JOSEPH ATOR

THEY call him the father of radio broadcasting, and rightly so. For without the audion tube which Dr. Lee De Forest invented two decades ago, we would have to-day no radio, no trans-Atlantic telephone, no talkies, no television.

Yet in the whole radio industry there is no more outspoken critic of radio broadcast programs, as they exist to-day, than this same Dr. De Forest, still a vastly potent force in radio technical circles. Broadcasting may have once been his fair-haired boy, but to-day he disinherits his child, not only cheerfully, but well-nigh venomously. His complaint?

First, blatant advertising, which he says is driving more and more listeners away from their radios every day.

Second, too many stations and lack of proper regulation.

Third, programs which fail to offer proper variety, monopolizing the air in the cities with jazz, often poorly played, and in the country with canned music and sales talks.

He should know what he is talking about, too, for Dr. De Forest put on his first broadcast in 1910. It was an operatic aria, with an audience which he describes as "prearranged and pathetically meager." In 1916 he put on the air for the Columbia Phonograph Company tri-weekly demonstrations of its new records. In 1919 his own company sponsored an entertainment program, during which mention was made of its products, to be met from remarks by a rival concern that "they had no condensers to sell over the radio."

"Then and there," he says, "I learned the lesson that direct advertising by broadcast does not always build good will. And I have consistently condemned the practice as perverse, pernicious, reflecting on the good name of radio, and distinctly retarding its development."

Yet at the same time Dr. De Forest admits readily that, under the present American system, we must look to the advertiser to pay for our broadcast entertainment.

"The sponsor," he says, "who is content with the mere mention of his name and product at the beginning and end of his fine program leaves his listeners in a wholly friendly frame of mind. Two or three per cent. of program time devoted to this affable sponsoring announcement is the optimum amount of advertising. And this is all that should be tolerated. It would benefit the advertiser as well as the listener if such a rule were made and enforced."

Already, Dr. De Forest contends, the radio manufacturer is feeling the result of the greedy attitude of advertisers in reduced sales of sets. The broadcasting agencies will soon feel it also in the falling off of large numbers of listeners, with a resultant loss in advertising receipts.

"In the sustaining (local) programs," says Dr. De Forest, "the station director often shows a far keener sense of the psychology of his listeners. He awakes them in the morning with soft strains of music, followed by a stirring bugle-call to their morning exercise. But at night many of the sponsored programs take no heed of how pleasantly they place their wares before you.

"The finest music too often terminates in insistent demands to buy this, or try that. The good will which the advertiser has carefully cultivated for fifteen minutes is suddenly turned into ill will by his clumsy salesmanship."

And that's not all. The good doctor is merely stopping for breath. Listen to this:

"In my opinion—and I know I'm not alone in this—the entire scheme of radio broadcasting is wrong.

"There are far too many broadcast stations in operation, too many by several hundred. The present status of interference, chaos, the continual battles for new channels and more power, the evils of certain uncensored stations, whose evident and sometimes literally avowed purpose is . . . 'The Public Be Damned,' are natural results of the history of broadcasting, which, like Topsy, just grew up suddenly from nothing, without plan or restriction—except such as a wholly unqualified Congress has in its infinite ignorance inflicted upon us from time to time." (Take a bow, Senator Dill.)

Check and Double Check

By Charles Magee Adams

MONDAY night, after roast beef on Sunday! By all the laws of leftovers at our house, that meant Irish stew, and I was glad.

Polly heard me as I came in, and stuck her head through the swinging door to the kitchen. I thought there was a sparkle in her eyes, like she had something up her sleeve. I noticed, too, I couldn't smell the stew. I still wasn't used to our new exhaust fan keeping the cooking smells out of the house.

I washed up, got on my slippers and tuned in some soft music on the radio, thinking how good it was to get home to a wife like Polly and a dinner of Irish stew.

Then we sat down, and Polly took the cover off the dish she'd put on the dining-table. Steam came pouring out of it, and I sniffed. But it didn't smell like Irish stew. It wasn't Irish stew.

"What is that, anyway?" I wanted to know.

Polly gave me a triumphant smile, ladling a healthy portion of the stuff into my plate. "Ragout Biscay," she announced proudly.

"Whatever that is." I sounded let down, and I was. "Why throw down an old reliable to experiment with this?"

"Because I'm tired of cooking the same things all the time." Polly never had any trouble taking her own part. "This morning I listened in on the radio cooking chat. They gave the recipe for this. It sounded good, and here it is. Try it. It's not poison."

I'd been exploring the stuff with my fork and finally took a sample. "If you ask me, Irish stew's got it licked seven ways," I reported.

Polly only smiled indulgently. "That's just because I've let your tastes get into a rut. One more reason why you need a change. I'll see that you get it from now on."

I knew she meant well. But the whole thing sounded more like a threat than a promise to me, with a plate of that ragout biscay to eat or go hungry. I managed to down part of it, and the rest of the dinner was regular. By the time I got my pipe going and heard "Amos 'n' Andy," I was in better trim.

"Amos 'n' Andy" always make me feel better. There's one rattling good program, in case you don't already know it. In fact, it's just about the only program Polly likes as well as I do.

"That is Radio Salad," Polly explained.

But I haven't been married to her five years without finding out that when she gets an idea she holds on to it. So Tuesday night I was more or less prepared for the next new dish she'd picked up from these broadcast cooking chats.

"It's radio salad," she explained, when I eyed the creation, sort of puzzled.

"Oh, yes, I recognize that blown detector tube and the old aerial, now that you mention it."

The next night our dinner was topped off with something Polly said was old hickory pie. If taste meant anything, I'd have guessed they called it that after the bark, not the nuts. Thursday the first number on the bill of fare was Adirondack soup, another Pullman name for a box-car of unclaimed freight; and Friday the piece de resistance was fish surprise. Surprised fish would have been better.

I don't mind telling you by the time a week had gone by I was downright starved for an honest-to-goodness, old-fashioned meal of things I could at least recognize.

I know new things have to come along, even in food. But they ought to come gradually, and Polly was springing them one after another, without giving me a chance to get used to any.

This idea of radio being to blame occurred to me Monday morning, as I was getting ready to leave for the office. If Polly couldn't hear those cooking chats, she wouldn't have any new things to inflict on me. So, while she was out in the kitchen, I reached behind the lowboy and loosened the power plug in the base-board receptacle.

That night when I got home the set was going strong. She didn't even mention the loose plug; just served two experiments instead of one.

The next night I tried to call her up a little before five and tell her I couldn't get home for dinner. But she wouldn't answer the telephone.

It looked like I'd just have to let her go on with this nightmare till she got tired of it. By that time I might be a dyspeptic shadow, but there was nothing else for it. Then I got a break.

Mona and Steve Westbrook invited us over for dinner the next evening. Mona's a real cook, one of these cooks you can count on to set you down to a meal that rings the bell, like Polly used to before radio ruined her. So I was more than politely expectant when I walked into their dining-room Wednesday night.

There on the table, all juicy and pink and fairly oozing goodness, was a baked ham. We'd been razzing Steve because his set had blown a tube and we couldn't hear "Amos 'n' Andy." But I forgot all about that the minute I spied what was on the meat platter. I know my mouth watered, and maybe I licked my lips.

"It's ham a la Humbert. I heard the recipe on the radio this morning and it sounded so good I decided to try it," Mona announced.

Polly almost crowed. "Oh, then, you listen to the cooking chats too? They're so interesting. I've been using the recipes the last week or two, and you would not believe how many new things I've discovered. Why, they make cooking positively exciting."

I didn't say much. I was thinking what was ahead of me, now that Mona had played straight into her hand.

We put in the evening at bridge. Polly's keen for the game, but a little after eleven she said we'd have to be getting home.

"Don't you know we'll miss 'Amos 'n' Andy' again?" she wanted to know, as I swung out of Steve's drive. "You must talk and talk and talk, after I said it was time to go."

A great light dawned on me. The next night, after dinner, I filled my pipe and strolled in to the radio while Polly cleared the table.

The clock showed a few minutes before seven. I tuned to a station I was sure didn't broadcast "Amos 'n' Andy" and went out to the dish-drying detail.

At twenty minutes after eleven I put down my detective story and began fishing for distance, careful to pick stations that didn't carry "Amos 'n' Andy."

Polly just gave me a funny look.

The next night I went through the same little routine of tuning in a different station after dinner (another of the radio kind). Then Polly marched into the living-room. "What's the matter with 'Amos 'n' Andy'?" she asked, eyeing me suspiciously.

"Matter?" I was innocence in person.

"Why don't you tune them in?" Her tone wasn't exactly coaxing.

I smoked a minute, trying to seem natural and convincing. "I've just decided our listening's got into a rut. You know, we hear the same things every night and every week, and we shouldn't, with so many fine programs to choose from."

She just looked at me, then went back into the kitchen without a word. She was in bed by eleven o'clock too. But if you think that meant she surrendered, you just don't know Polly.

The next night dinner was a whole broadside of new things. So were Saturday's and Sunday's. By the middle of the week we even had new things for breakfast. Some of them weren't so bad. I'd even begun to like the two or three dishes Polly'd forgot and served more than once.

The line-up was "Amos 'n' Andy" versus broadcast recipes, and all my chips were on the boys from Georgia.

Thursday night the phone rang just before seven. I heard it, but never budged from the dial, and Polly finally had to answer it herself. It was Mona calling, by prearrangement I guessed.

Saturday night she almost put one over on me by taking the dial at half-past ten and DXing — something she never does — right up to time for the second performance. But I developed a sudden touch of neuritis and started the violet ray just in time to ruin reception for her.

To be truthful, the pace was beginning to tell on me. Being the subject of these culinary experiments was bad enough, though some of them were pretty good after you got used to them; but missing "Amos 'n' Andy" was worse.

I managed to act cheerful as I came

New Dance Each Month—Keep Your Dancing Up to Broadway

New College Dance Steps

"The Georgetown" Is Especially Popular in the National Capital

By ARTHUR MURRAY

"America's Foremost Dancing Instructor"

NOT only are dances becoming more refined, but their names, too, are taking on an educational flavor.

During Vernon Castle's day the popular dances were the Turkey Trot, the Bunny Hug, the Camel Walk and the Kangaroo Hop.

Now most new steps are named after colleges—probably because the new steps originate there.

The Georgetown is especially popular at that university in the national capital.

This combination consists of one long, syncopated walking step forward with the left foot, followed by three chasse or side steps with the right foot.

The Man's Part

Begin with the left foot, and, as you step forward to take a long walking step with this foot, turn your body one-quarter to the left so that you face the center of the room.

Then, with the right foot, take three long side steps sidewise to your right.

The Woman's Part

The woman's part is exactly the opposite of the man's. Simply take one walking step backward with the right foot and then three chasse or side steps directly to the left with the left foot.

As music for this dance, "A Little Kiss Each Morning" (fox trot) is suggested.

When dancing to fast fox-trot time you march to the music, allowing a beat of music to each step.

But when dancing to the new slow music, each walking step is given a double-action movement.

It is most important to learn to walk properly in the fox trot. The steps in this dance are very long. Each walking step is given two quick beats of the music. You place the whole foot forward (heel and toes touching) on the first beat, rising slightly on the toes.

On the second beat let the heel drop to the floor. The accent is placed on the second beat. This gives more "pep" to your walk.

Begin with the left foot and go forward, walking around the room, right hand to the wall. At first exaggerate the movement by rising up and down on the toes in order to bring the muscles of the toes into action.

Remember that the walk in the fox trot is very slow. Each step is given almost a full second.

A Step a Second

In the beginning do not be afraid to exaggerate the rising motion. Rise up and down. Later you can modify the action.

When you are ready to dance with a partner, the rising motion should be modified until it is hardly noticeable.

Practice walking forward, reaching as far forward as you can. Always make the toes go first.

To learn to walk correctly—the woman begins with the right foot and takes long steps backward. Her toes must go as far back as possible. She should practice an extremely long step.

The woman who has learned to take a long step can follow a leader better than the one who is accustomed to taking a short step. By taking a long step, she has her feet out of her partner's way, and she also has them in readiness for the next movement. She should lift her feet slightly off the floor when walking, not let them drag or scrape the floor. Nor must the heels touch the floor when dancing backward. When walking forward, it is usually necessary to let the heels touch the floor.

Arthur Murray and Charlotte Earle about to take the second step in the Georgetown.

AS WE GO TO PRESS

DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME

We go to press April 6 with the assurance of the chains that their May programs will all be based on Eastern Daylight Saving Time. Our New York office has checked all schedule listings carefully, not only with NBC and Columbia, but with the 110 stations whose programs we are now listing and with the advertising agencies of all the sponsors of chain programs. For the sake of the accuracy of our schedules, we hope that the plan agreed on—to advance all programs one hour during the summer months—will be carried out. But as to the practicability of this plan we have grave doubts. Time rates on the chains double after 6 P. M. That means that advertisers will be asked to pay the doubled rate for programs which will reach the Central Standard Time area as early as four in the afternoon, and that the chain features will have been concluded by 10 P. M.—the very time when the summer audience in Central Time cities will just be nicely assembled.

We are putting into effect some helpful simplifications in our program schedules this issue. The chain features for each half-hour are grouped in a box to themselves, so that listeners, looking for a chain feature, do not even need to refer to the station listings, if they know which stations carrying the chain features are available.

WILL ROGERS

At midnight lunch with the Prince of Wales, or breakfasting with the President, playing in a Ziegfeld show, or cavorting before the movie camera, telling the President how to run the country or the political parties how to play winning politics through the pages of the Saturday National Advertisers' Field-meet, Will Rogers stays plain Will Rogers.

Sunday nights Will comes into the homes of radio listeners all over America just as his own plain self, without a thought of the fact that he has a mighty reputation as a humorist to sustain, and apparently unconcerned because he is receiving one of the highest salaries ever paid a radio artist. Rumor has it that Will's thirteen Sunday evening appearances over CBS tap the Squibbs' treasury to the tune of $65,000 for the benefit of the Rogers family alone.

The public has real reason to admire Will Rogers—he does just what we all long to do. He lives as a citizen of a republic might be expected to live, honoring only merit, and kotowing to no one because of fame, fortune or social position. He is one man among us to-day who tells the truth about the self-important of earth to their faces, and makes them try to like it.

KEEPING UP WITH THE COMMISSION

May 4, 11, 18, 25 SUNDAY

With more than a hundred applications for change of channel, change of time, of call letters, of location, of power, of ownership, of equipment, etc., etc., as well as a goodly number of applications for permits to construct new stations, flooding in on the Federal Radio Commission each week, it is difficult to understand how the five czars of radioland have time for any of the myriad of interviews and expressions of opinion on broadcasting in general credited to them daily in the papers. We freely confess that so far we have found it impossible to secure a complete and accurate record of all their decisions. In numerous cases we have found that published decisions have been modified in district instructions to individual stations. When our station listings vary with the published listings of the Commission, it is because we have direct information from the broadcasting stations themselves.

Many readers are aiding us by sending us any changes in time or channel occurring in their localities. We appreciate their thoughtfulness.

PROGRAM BRIEFS

Grid of broadcast schedules for various stations across the country, including Eastern Daylight and Central Standard time zones. Columns represent hours (8-11) and days (A-D). Rows list stations and their programs, with letters and numbers indicating program types and broadcast times.

Shall we say, "Dog on the air," or, "Radio gone to the dog"? NBC has signed "Rin Tin Tin, the Wonder Dog," for a fifteen-minute series from its Chicago studios.

Columbia's big announcement at our press-going time is, of course, the thirteen Sunday nights of Will Rogers, beginning April 13, at 10 P. M.

NBC is launching several new series of programs for the summer months. Among them we note the two Canadian Pacific programs from Toronto, Beacon Oil, Shell Oil, Crush Dry Night Club, Knox-Dunlop, Lucky Strike Dance Orchestra mid-week program, and the Del Monte program. It is probable that before the end of May "Real Folks" may make place for "Flit."

We are making a list of all the requests for pictures and stories of artists which have been sent us by our readers. In planning ahead for future issues, we are arranging to include requested features, choosing, of course, first those programs on [Continued on page 50]

I Turn The Radio Dial

By Carl Holliday

LOWLY the little dial I turn,
And all the nation sweeps across the air—
The fitful strains from cities here and there—
A bit of dance, a schoolma'am stern,
Explaining how the children learn,
An airy waif of some lone violin,
A parson warning "loway" from sin,
New York a-quiver with symphonic din,
Detroit with brassy dinner fare
Of saxophone and cornet blare,
A speaker's "message" to a luncheon club,
With "pep" and tears and soft flub-dub,
Atlanta, Dallas, West De Pere,
Chicago, Muscatine, Eau Claire—
America, her soul revealed, "stands by"
As here a tiny dial I ply!

Oh, nation, country of my birth,
What sounds arise from thy broad earth!
What sorrows, triumphs, empty mirth
Sweep/out through space!
Oh, revelation of a race!
What soul is this—this bedlam wild
Of jazz and dance and crooning song,
Of stock reports and cheering throng,
This aimless prattle of a child?
To Him who turns the Dial Above
And listens in with heart of love,
What is His thought
Of tones thus brought,
The waves broadcast, so filled with joy and woe,
From out the Universal Radio?

Oh, God of Nations, to whose throne
Float up in ever-changing tone
The cries, the laughter, of Thy folk,
The wail, the sob, the minstrel's joke,
Confused, all fitful, like a smoke
Of sound, may Thy keen, loving ear discern
The pathos of it all—the hearts that burn,
The songs that smother tears, the soul
That laughs while draining Death's dark bowl!
We are but children shouting in the Microphone;
Why and what for—Thou knowest—Thou alone!

For over two years ARNOLD JOHNSON and his MAJESTIC ORCHESTRA have been a stellar attraction of the "Majestic Theater of the Air" every Sunday evening over the international CBS network.

REDFERNE HOLLINSHEAD, tenor, has been associated with this program for well over a year. He has grown steadily in favor with the listening audience, so much so that he has been called on several times this year to take the time usually allotted to a guest artist as well as his own. The delightful Muriel La France is now associated with Mr. Hollinshead as a regular soloist on the Majestic program.

HOW

"Something for Every One"

Got Its Start on the Air

As told by BILL SCHUDT, Jr.

SOMETHING for Every One" was hastily originated one brisk January morning in 1929. Julius Seebach, program director for the Columbia Broadcasting System, decided that WABC should widen the scope of its program. Thus was the first program planned, and two days later a one hour's program went on the air over one station (WABC).

Ernest W. Naftzger.

I remember the first program mainly because I was assigned the news resume, and, although it was not my first radio job, it was the earliest. We went on the air at eight o'clock (in the morning, of course).

Ernest W. Naftzger, a prominent music-teacher then conducting the very popular radio series, "Pipe Dreams," was chosen to act as master of ceremonies.

"Ernie," as all studio folk call Mr. Naftzger, was pretty nervous at the time of the premier. The studio was in his home. It, being used for music instruction, naturally had perfect acoustic properties. Microphones were installed at both ends of the room, one for the announcer and the other for the music pickup. Mrs. Naftzger had made coffee for the staff on duty, and, incidentally, has made coffee every morning since that the program has been on the air!

The first program was rather "ragged," as we say in radio. There wasn't enough variety. Two or three singers, a pianist, Mr. Naftzger and myself were the principals of the first broadcast.

To-day "Something for Every One" is presented from the same homelike studio in Mr. Naftzger's home. The best of CBS talent is presented on it. Ernie's jokes have improved! They are now collected from the listening audience, which numbers many hundreds of thousands tuned to the twenty-five stations usually hooked up on the early morning CBS programs.

Perhaps the best reason I can give you for Ernie's success is the undying enthusiasm which he injects in every broadcast. He is untiring. When he is finished with the early programs he goes over to the headquarters of the Columbia System, where he gathers his daily mail (which exceeds two hundred letters daily). Ernie is attempting to answer all of his mail, but is pretty far behind in this.

Many artists, whose names we shall not mention for obvious reasons, have had their start on a glorious radio career from the "Something for Every One" studio.

Typical scene at Mr. Naftzger's New York City studio during broadcast of "Something for Every One" program over CBS each week-day morning at 8:45.

RADIO GOSSIP

NBC

DURING a recent broadcast of Raymond Knight's "Cuckoo" program in the NBC New York studios, the wrong person was nearly "killed."

Eustace Wyatt, supposedly an income-tax expert, was giving a burlesque talk on how easy it is to make out an income-tax report, and was laughing heartily at the layman's perplexities when a "shot" from the rear of the studio supposedly killed him.

At the sound he had been instructed by Knight to jump back and utter a mournful "Oh!" When the proper moment in the script had been reached, the "shot" came, and Wyatt jumped back, only to catch Adeline Thomasson, who plays "Mrs. Pennyfeather," neatly under the chin and nearly stretch her out on the studio floor.

Letters from listeners inquired the reason for the laughter when the income-tax expert was "killed," but they approved of it.

Raymond Knight.

A SANGUINE admirer of Amos 'n' Andy, living in Lancaster, Pa., dropped a letter for the Georgia boys into the mail-box, which bore in the way of an address only the radiant countenances of the two, clipped from the March cover of WHAT'S ON THE AIR. This method should only be employed when addressing national celebrities. Of course Amos 'n' Andy got their letter without the slightest delay.

BECAUSE his new police dog, Lynx, was going to listen to the program, Vernon Radcliffe, NBC production man, was especially anxious to do a good job on a recent "Harbor Lights" program, for which Burr Cook, the author, had supplied a thrilling dog story—perhaps in honor of Lynx—called "The Dog-catcher of Stamboul."

The script called for a whole pack of ravening dogs to which a renegade Englishman throws his enemy. As the program ended on the victim's blood-curdling shriek, Radcliffe rushed to a telephone and called his wife in Connecticut.

"I thought it was grand!" she said. "The whole street seemed to be full of snarling dogs, and the man's yell was terrifying."

"Yes, yes," said Radcliffe, "but Lynx—did he hear them? What did he do?"

"Well, he didn't seem to notice, but the cat ran away."

A CERTAIN woman, who had risen high in a profession which demanded very little in the way of good English, was appearing as guest speaker in a program to be presented from the National Broadcasting Company's New York studios.

Arthur Snyder, the NBC production man in charge of the program, reports that, when she came to the word "colleagues," while reading her talk at rehearsal, she pronounced it as "colleges." Diplomatically, her manager mentioned that the printers were so often careless in their work, and, pointing to the troublesome word, he read it correctly for her.

"Why, yes," she said with a charming smile, "they've put two 'L's' in the word."

Arthur Snyder.

BBROADCASTING has taken to originating its own Scotch anecdotes. Kenneth W. MacGregor, the production man who was responsible for seeing that everything went right while Floyd Gibbons was talking last month on the Literary Digest prohibition poll in the National Broadcasting Company studios, swears to this one:

On the evening when the famous correspondent gave the first figures in the nation-wide straw-vote, Gibbons read them off with his usual lightning speed. The control engineer, Scotch by ancestry, tried to write down the details, but couldn't keep up.

At the end of the talk he approached Gibbons and said: "Listen, if you could give those figures a little slower, I could take them down. Now I suppose I've got to go out and buy a copy of the magazine to get them. Slow up a little next time."

Gibbons reminded the Scot that there are copies of the magazine in the public library, and that he could read them there free of charge.

Elsie Hitz

Alfred Swenson

HENRY MELVIN, ELSIE HITZ (Peggy) and ALFRED SWENSON (the father) appear each Thursday in Jack Frost Melody Moments over NBC. All three have long been favorites on the stage. Last year Henry was with Eva La Gallienne in "Peter Pan." Miss Hitz has played Broadway leads. Mr. Swenson is also a popular Broadway star.

Eunice Howard

EUNICE HOWARD, heard often in "True Romances," played the lead in Christopher Morley's revival, "The Black Crook."

Gertrude Hitz

Effie Palmer

GERTRUDE HITZ, of Physical Culture Hour, was ingenue with Margaret Anglin—remember her? Later Miss Hitz played the lead in "Broadway" and "One-way Street." Then she came to radio. EFFIE PALMER, heard in several of the McFadden programs, is a former actress who now conducts her own School of Dramatic Art.

STUDIO CHATTER

CBS

WANTS A MONKEY

Mark Hawley, of the CBS announcing staff, was a farmer up-State before joining the radio staff of a prominent Buffalo broadcaster. His greatest desire at the present time is to own a monkey (of all things!).

Mark Hawley.

Annie" and "Sweet and Low."

Tiny Ann Leaf, better known as "Mitey," and still better known as organist for CBS, collects a new nickname most every day; the latest are "Little by Little," "Little Organ

After seven years of playing together, the Royal Canadians, under Guy Lombard's directorship, still count nine of their original ten players.

Archie Coates has become one of the continuity staff of the Columbia Broadcasting System. This intrepid literary adventurer has served on the editorial staff of Life, Vanity Fair, Literary Digest; was Deems Taylor's assistant on the World, and was personal representative for Vilhjalmur Stefansson on exploring expeditions.

Folks wonder how Mme. Molka De Polka persuades that funny giggle prevalent in the Nit Wit Hour. Believe it or not, that is her natural laugh, and she's the winsome Lucille Black, invaluable as staff pianist and hostess.

Audrey Marsh, Columbia's latest radio find, is just eighteen years old. The young lady is the possessor of a soprano voice that is considered very valuable for microphone work. Despite her youth, she played a leading role in "Abie's Irish Rose" for two years, followed by a featured appearance in "After Dark," a Hoboken product.

Audrey Marsh.

Everybody but Dale Wimbrow seems to know that both the new hit, "The Big Man from the South with the Big Cigar in His Mouth" and the "No Smoking" signs in WABC's studios claim him for their inspiration. (See page 39.)

Introducing a little girl who plays in her own back yard: Lot Harrington, popular comedienne of CBS, fondly remembered as the tough showgirl in "Mrs. Murphy's Boardinghouse," is a New Yorker from birth and has never seen the Statue of Liberty. And the other day she was treated to her first look-in on the broadcast control-room, after years before the microphone.

Indications point to Lucille Black, CBS star of the Nit Wit program, as the artist most in demand, if public invitations are to be accepted as a criterion. Lucille has won the hearts of Ralph C. Wilson and his family, and recently made a hasty visit to their beautiful estate near Wellesley, Mass. Twenty guests were introduced to her at a tea given in her honor, during which she discarded the burlesque robes of a Nit Wit and played selections from Beethoven and Wagner with her usual grace. Mr. Wilson is vice-president of the Babson Statistical Bureau.

Lucille Black.

Did you know that Edith Thayer played the leading role in the original production of "Blossom Time" for three seasons? Ben Selvin is planning a musicians' colony in one of New York City's suburbs where the streets are being named after famous composers and everything? Freddie Rich has now discarded his tortoise-shell glasses for the silver-framed variety? Howard Barlow weighs less than any other Columbia orchestra leader? That Guy Lombardo and his orchestra are most sought after by music publishers to "plug" their songs? That Wilbur Mild and Chester Frost work under Columbia's banner? One of Paul Tremaines' most popular classical arrangements in dance tempo is the overture "Orpheus in Hades"?

Harry Swan, taking the part of Tige in the Brown-bilt Footlites, has left this program. Guess he tired of living a dog's life.

The Davey Hour

THERE are certain entertainment units that have been found to be consistently successful in broadcast programs. Among these units may be mentioned the male quartet, the chorus of mixed voices, the organ and the instrumental trio. Thus, while a program featuring these units is not heralded as an outstanding novelty, it does attract an ever-increasing audience. Programs of this type remain popular year after year.

The Davey Hour, broadcast every Sunday evening by the National Broadcasting Company and sponsored by the Davey Tree Experts Company, is such a program. Its personnel includes a male quartet, a string trio, a mixed chorus and an organ. The formula used with these carefully tested program ingredients is a simple one. It is: "Give the listeners old, familiar songs and melodies that retain their

thwaite, who is known as a skillful conductor, and likewise as a skillful organist, directs the program. During the time it is on the air he manages to jump from the conductor's stand to the organ for two or three solos.

The quartet, which includes Henry Shope and Judson House, tenors; Walter Preston, baritone, and James Stanley, bass, has a generous share of the time on the air. Old American folk songs, especially adapted to male voices, are the favored selections, although vocal numbers from other lands are used on occasions. Familiar semi-classical selections are offered by the instrumentalists.

In recent broadcasts the Davey Hour has offered such old favorites as "Good Night, Ladies," "The Lost Chord," "School Days," "Nancy Lee" and "The Glow Worm." It is the avowed policy of the program to devote part of its time to keeping alive American folk songs of other generations.

Fade Outs

Selected for WHAT'S ON THE AIR by ERNEST W. NAFTZGER, who conducts the popular "Something for Every One" program daily over CBS.

"You don't seem to realize on which side your bread is buttered."

"What does it matter? I eat both sides."

"I hate playing cards with a bad loser, don't you?"
"Oh, I don't know; I'd rather play with a bad loser than any kind of a winner."

BACHELOR GIRL—What do you miss most, now that you are married and settled down?

WIFE—My husband.

CHEMISTRY PROFESSOR—What can you tell me about nitrates?

STUDENT—Well—er—they're a lot cheaper than day rates.

"Pardon me, professor, but last night your daughter accepted my proposal of marriage. I have called this morning to ask if there is any insanity in your family."

"There must be."

A beautiful young widow sat in her deck-chair in the stern, and near her sat a very handsome man. The widow's daughter, a cute little girl of four or five years, crossed over to the man and said: "What's your name?"

"Herkimer Wilson," was the reply.

"Is you married?"

"No, I'm a bachelor."

The child turned to her mother and said: "What else did you tell me to ask him, mamma?"

MOORE—Say, Blake, what person likes to see her husband down and out?

BLAKE—I give up. Who?

MOORE—An aviator's wife.

"Girls were harder to kiss in your day, weren't they, grandpa?"

"Mebbe, mebbe," ventured the old gentleman, "but it wasn't so blame dangerous. The old parlor sofa wouldn't smash into a tree about that time."

Doc's SON—Pa, did you go to Sunday school when you were a boy?

Doc—Yes, my son; I always went to Sunday school.

Doc's SON—Well, dad, I think I'll quit going. It isn't doing me any good either.

Two members of the club were discussing the table manners of a new member.

"Well, what do you think of him?" asked one.

"Really dreadful," replied the other.

"I've heard soup gargled and I've heard it siphoned, but, upon my word, it's the first time I've ever known it to be yodeled!"

A Maryland schoolma'am was teaching her class the mysteries of grammar.

"Now, Johnny," said she, "in what tense do I speak when I say, 'I am beautiful?'"

The little fellow answered quick as a wink, "The past!"

"How old is your son?" asked the visitor.
"Well," replied the dad, "he's reached the age when he thinks the most important thing to pass isn't his examinations, but the car ahead."

She came into the police station with a picture in her hand.
"My husband has disappeared," she sobbed. "Here is his picture. I want you to find him."
The inspector looked up from the photograph. "Why?" he asked.

One day, in the lobby of a New York hotel, an Englishman, who had just returned from a tour of the United States, was talking to a young American business man.

"Yes," said the Englishman, "your country is wonderful, but I missed one thing, the aristocracy."

"The aristocracy?" the American asked in a bewildered tone.

"Aristocracy," replied the Englishman, "a class of people that don't work."

"Oh, yes, we have them, but we call them tramps over here."

ERNIE—Why, Bill, you know we are getting in awfully late to-night, this morning.

BILL—Oh, that's all right. We will sleep until evening to-morrow.

BILL—That was a blind date, Ernie.

ERNIE—Why do you say it was a blind date, Bill?

BILL—Because she couldn't see me at all.

BILL—What made you as crazy as you are, Ernie? Was it finance?

ERNIE—No.

BILL—The stock market?

ERNIE—No.

BILL—Family troubles?

ERNIE—No.

BILL—A sweetheart?

ERNIE—No.

BILL—What then? Writing radio programs?

ERNIE (screams)—Ah! . . . Take him away.

BILL—You should see my girl, Ernie!

ERNIE—What's the matter with her, Bill?

BILL—Nothing's the matter with her. She's a Venus De Milo girl.

ERNIE—What do you mean, Venus De Milo girl?

BILL—Hands off.

Sincerely yours.

ERNIE—Have you prepared for a rainy day, Bill?
BILL—Sure, I'm going to marry a girl by the name of MacIntosh.

ERNIE—That's preparedness, all right.

BILL—Do you know that they are going to make umbrellas, in the future, square?

ERNIE—What's the idea?

BILL—Because they are not safe to leave around.

BILL—You know, when I first met Miss MacIntosh I was struck by the beauty of her hand.

ERNIE—What do you mean—struck by the beauty of her hand?

BILL—I tried to kiss her and I was struck by the beauty of her hand.

BILL—They have given me the name of being a terrible ladies' man.

ERNIE—You know how you got that, don't you? You were out with a girl the last time I saw you, and she looked terrible.

ERNIE—Bill, tell me what has green feathers, long ears, flies backwards and can't see in the dark?

BILL—I can't figure that one out. What is it?

ERNIE—I haven't made up my mind yet.

Sincerely yours

"The Shoe Flyer"

. . . Men's Shoe Special . . . CBS

PARK yourself in your easiest easy-chair at 7:45, E. D. T., Wednesday evening, turn the dial of your radio until you have tuned in on WABC, or other stations of the Columbia Broadcasting System, close your eyes (but not your ears), and you will find yourself aboard the Men's Shoe Special, chartered by the National Shoe Retailers' Association for a scheduled fifteen-minute run.

Once you are safely aboard you can just sit back and listen to some enjoyable music and excellent humor. Probably the first thing you hear will be the voice of Midnight Mose, the porter. He and his fellow-porters are busy shining up the shoes of passengers. They might have become diverted from their duties, however, and will have settled around a little space in the middle of the smoking-compartment floor for a little session with the African dominoes. You might hear Mose and his colored colleagues entreating the ivories to behave. The game is apt to be interrupted, though, by a ring from the old lady in Lower 10, who has already rung for water fourteen times in the last hour. While Mose hurries out to see what is wanted, the other porters go back to their shoe polishing, indulging, meanwhile, in some of the close harmony that has earned them the title of the Black and Tan Quartet.

Dale Wimbrow, who takes the part of the central character, Midnight Mose, in these broadcasts, was born and raised in Maryland. He is a Columbia artist and is gaining recognition as one of the greatest interpreters of negro character.

COON-SANDERS ORCHESTRA

Original Kansas City Night Hawks
Now Broadcast over N.B.C. every Tuesday during THE FLORSHEIM FROLIC

ONE of radio's most featured groups, famous since the very beginning of broadcasting, Coon-Sanders celebrated dance orchestra, is heard every Tuesday evening in a half-hour of distinctive dance rhythms, from 8:30 to 9, C. D. T., in the Florsheim Frolic program from the Chicago NBC studios.

More than a decade ago this orchestra, piloted by Carlton Coon and Joe Sanders, first went on the air in Kansas City—the first orchestra to be broadcast from this Missouri city. Fame came rapidly to the Kansas City Night Hawks, as they were then known, and, as thousands of radio fans sat up into the wee hours in order to listen to their melodies, sleep was virtually at a premium.

Deserting Kansas City five years ago for the wider field offered to them in Chicago, Coon-Sanders made an immediate hit in the Windy City. Since leaving the Missouri capital the orchestra has remained intact—not one man has been replaced—a record remarkable in any musical organization.

The keynote of the vast popularity of this dance orchestra—every night during their various broadcasts hundreds of telegrams, requests and phone calls are received from practically every part of the country—lies in the distinctive, pleasing personalities of its versatile leaders, Coon and Sanders. Another factor in their success is any one of a number of song hits they have written. "Martha," "Beloved," "My Dear," "Hi Diddle Diddle," "Gotta Great Big Date," "We Love Us" and "Take Me" are a few of the most successful melodies. These boys have set a pace that is hard to equal.

Joe Sanders is the possessor of an excellent tenor voice, while Carlton Coon can also boast of much popularity as a singer. In their "routine" orchestral work, Sanders is both a pianist and a whistler, while Coon lends weight to the organization as a drummer. The transcriptions of the popular songs heard on these broadcasts are always in dance tempo, but of such an individuality and personality that they can be instantly recognized by any radio listener.

Making a Home-Maker

The Story of the Founder of the Radio Home-Makers' Club

By EVE M. CONRADT-EBERLIN

IT seems a far cry from the diminutive clubhouse of an equally diminutive gang of bloodthirsty desperadoes to the model kitchen-laboratory of the Radio Home-Makers' Club, but that is where Ida Bailey Allen received her first cooking experience!

The clubhouse was an unused chicken-coop in young Ida Bailey's back yard, and the "desperadoes" a group of boys, organized into the "Death Valley Rangers."

As the only female member of the club, Ida's main duties lay in and about the clubhouse. The desperate gangsters were still human enough to enjoy delicacies which the female Ranger was called upon to prepare.

When Miss Bailey was ready to graduate from the Oread Institute of Domestic Science, she decided to write her graduation thesis on interior decoration. She wrote to Gustave Stickley, famous furniture craftsman, asking for information. The letter aroused the artist's interest and Ida was invited to Boston to dine with the Stickleys.

The visit resulted in a valuable apprenticeship in the Stickley plant at Syracuse, where the young girl displayed talent not only for interior decorating, but in the remarkable feat of living well on her eight-dollars-a-week salary.

Back in Worcester Ida Bailey directed a tea-room in the town's largest department store. In a few months she gave up the successful venture for further training, and went to New York to study dietetics at the Metropolitan Hospital on Welfare Island.

After her novitiate in the Metropolitan Hospital, she went to the General Hospital in Elizabeth, N. J., and then to the Hahnemann Hospital in New York, ever alive to the possibilities of increasing efficiency.

After several arduous years of laboratory work in New York, Miss Bailey went back to Worcester for a vacation. Part of this she spent in helping some of her fellow-townsmen to found a children's hospital.

Her chosen field beckoned in an opening for service in the domestic-science department of the Worcester Y. W. C. A. In two months she was conducting twenty-eight classes, and at the end of four years her pupils numbered seven hundred a week. Always on the alert for the greatest service to the most needy, Miss Bailey extended this work to reach the mill girls and those living in the slum districts.

"This work and the work with the classes we taught in the slum districts I regard as some of the most important I have ever done," Mrs. Allen says today. "We founded cooking-clubs in the various mill districts and journeyed about the country, my stove loaded in a wagon together with the other necessary utensils, visiting churches and granges where we established other classes and cooking-clubs."

Now Ida Bailey began writing articles for a number of newspapers and magazines. Inexperienced in journalism, her first attempts ended in tears and weariness. Edward Bok, then editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, saw the promise of material if she were properly developed, and instructed one of his editors to send for the young girl. She was asked to prepare a full page of illustrated menus for the Christmas issue. To this she devoted time and energy with accustomed abandonment, winning a place that was to serve her well in the trying years that followed.

At this time Ida Bailey married Mr. Allen and moved to New Jersey. After a short and unfortunate attempt at farming, they returned to New York where an order for $3,000 worth of material for the Ladies' Home Journal awaited them. During the next few years Mrs. Allen confined most of her work to writing, widening her circle of friends through the columns of Good Housekeeping. Mrs. Allen has written a number of excessively popular books on home problems, including Your Foods and You; Vital Vegetables; Cooking, Menus, Service; Home Partners, and the Bride Book.

The death of Mr. Allen left his wife with two children, Tommy, aged three, and five-months-old Ruth Elizabeth. Mrs. Allen bravely carried on, going from Good Housekeeping to Pictorial Review, and when the war broke out shortly after, that magazine loaned her to the Government to lecture for the Hoover Food Administration.

Mrs. Allen motored over ten thousand miles of a Chautauqua circuit, stopping to lecture at the thousands of small towns along the way. The entire trip was made in a car drawing a trailer tightly packed with a complete kitchen cabinet—a direct descendant of the wagon, with its jangling pots and pans, which had traveled from church to grange some years before. During this lecture trip Mrs. Allen gave luncheons to many well-known figures in public life, feeding them with food prepared in her portable kitchen.

"I remember so well the personal preferences of some of these men," says Mrs. Allen. "The late President Harding, then editor of the Marion Star, liked green corn better than anything else. This preference was shared by Opie Reed. Billy Sunday wanted beefsteak. Over the open fire Dr. Ming Pong Chew, newspaperman and one time vice-consul at San Francisco, taught me how to make chop suey and other Chinese dishes."

It was during this long and enlightening tour that Mrs. Allen gathered the impression that countless women from all walks of life wanted to be liberated from the shackles of self-centeredness into the expression of unselfish action. Here, then, was implanted in her mind the idea which ten years later was to crystallize in the form of the Radio Home-Makers' Club.

After the war, Mrs. Allen sought some way of reaching larger numbers of women. Motion pictures seemed to offer the widest field for her teaching; then the editorship of the Home Economics Department of the Woman's World seemed to suffice.

In 1921, shortly after her second marriage, Mrs. Allen conducted a school of good cookery in New York, which, though successful, was abandoned.

Next, William Childs, founder of the vast chain of restaurants bearing his name, engaged Mrs. Allen to make a survey of these restaurants from a scientific dietetic viewpoint. To carry out this work she had to visit, at unexpected times, the thirty-seven Childs' restaurants then scattered throughout New York City.

By this time radio broadcasting was a firmly established member of society. Here at last was a medium through which Mrs. Allen could reach the vast audience of women she had been wanting to help for years. She founded the Radio Home-Makers' Club, and from her own studios broadcast daily to a local audience in and about New York.

In September, 1928, she joined the Columbia Broadcasting System, and to-day millions of women listen in on her two-hour morning programs broadcast every week-day except Saturday. The club receives an average of fifteen hundred letters each week, containing questions on every subject that troubles homemakers throughout the nation—and each letter is faithfully answered. In March of this year the club moved to new headquarters in the same building at 1819 Broadway, taking three times as much space as heretofore to accommodate the huge staff necessary for the twenty-six weekly broadcasts and the other work of the club.

At last Ida Bailey Allen's dream has come true and a world of women profit daily.

The Van Heusen Hour

ALTHOUGH they have been on the Columbia network only since the middle of last March, the Van Heusen programs have already gained wide popularity. Miss Vee Lawnhurst is on each program as the regular feature soloist, and is supported by a good, live band under the leadership of Will Wirges, and the Van Heusen quartet.

A lot of people are of the opinion that this small, but exclusive, array of talent should be enough for any one; and a lot more people are ready to argue that Vee Lawnhurst, all by herself, is sufficient to make any program worth listening to. Nevertheless, the sponsors have chosen to put an added kick into the program by bringing in a new guest artist each week. Not that the Van Heusen people do not share the opinion of an appreciative public that their regular artists are sufficient unto themselves; they feel, and rightly, that a bit of variety is a desirable thing for any series of programs.

They got the series off to a grand start by engaging the engaging and ubiquitous Walter Winchell, Broadway's golden-haired boy, for the first program. They since have followed up with the Frohne sisters, whose unusual harmonizing is becoming the talk of this and every other town; the Sunshine Boys, famous singing comedy duo; Miss Patricola, one of the greatest of vaudeville headliners; Eddie Walters, ukulele virtuoso and vocalist comedian; Hazel Crosby, Canadian songbird and vaudeville star discovered by Gus Edwards, and who made her radio debut with Van Heusen, and Frank Crumit, musical comedy star, composer and ballad singer.

There is variety of talent, and what talent! At the time of going to press it was impossible to find out who the guest artists would be for the month of May and thereafter, but with the start they have made, and with the assurance of the sponsors that this high standard of guest talent would be maintained right through the series, there are pleasant things in store for listeners-in on these programs.

Perhaps this very air of mystery will whet the appetite of the appreciative, music-loving audience that the Van Heusen Hour already claims as its own.

N.B.C PRESENTS

"The Two Trouters"—Helene and Marcella—are back on the air again with their dramatization of the adventures of a small-time vaudeville team. Marcella also does the "Dixies Circus" with Phillips Carlin.

Now it may be told! LUCILLE WALL is the mysterious "love story" girl of Collier's, as well as the star of "The Adventures of Polly Preston."

LESLIE JOY both sings and acts in numerous NBC programs.

VINCENT LOPEZ and his famous dance orchestra are featured on the Pure Oil Hour.

Here are THE RAMBLERS who almost ramble away with the Sunoco Show, in spite of its other exceptional talent.

NEEL ENSLEN, who announces some of NBC's major programs, came to radio from grand opera, in which he sang baritone leads.

Coca-Cola Topnotchers

WEDNESDAYS, 10:30 P. M. (E. D. T.), NBC.

AND as he crowded close, swinging for the head, I stepped in close, punched a left to the body and dropped my right to his chin. That ended it."

Thus does a world-famous heavyweight boxer describe his greatest battle for two nations of radio listeners.

Those who make and have made the world of sport the interesting, colorful, human and dramatic place that it is, tell the how and why each week in the Coca-Cola Topnotchers program.

These figures, with Graham McNamee, world's best-known radio announcer; Grantland Rice, recognized as the leader of American sports writers, and Len Joy, leading an orchestra that is really different, are the Coca-Cola Topnotchers.

There are enough outstanding stars in the Topnotchers to build half a dozen half-hour radio programs. McNamee has probably been featured in more radio broadcasts than any other person on the program, but the others are more than important enough, according to critics, to be outstanding in broadcasting as they are in other fields.

The orchestra itself is sufficiently different to be good copy for press agents and radio critics alike. It is composed of thirty-one pieces, every one of them a stringed instrument.

For the inaugural program, Wednesday, March 19, builders of the broadcast chose to feature the one and only Tyrus Raymond Cobb in the sport talk. Cobb, with his rich background of baseball, provided the necessary spark to set the broadcast series off at a sizzling pace.

In the second program of the series Rice interviewed Stuart Maiden, another Atlantan, and trainer of America's greatest golfer, Robert Tyre "Bobby" Jones.

And so the series continues. One sports celebrity after another, the only all-string orchestra of its size on the air, the one and only Grantland Rice and the buoyant and sparkling Graham McNamee week after week presented "under one top" for radio listeners.

ARTELLS DICKSON, captain of the "Ship of Dreams." YOLANDE LANGWORTHY directs Columbia's children's programs. PAT RYAN, Columbia's child star.

CBS Programs for Children

MISS YOLANDE LANGWORTHY is the creator of all three children's programs heard over the Columbia System, including "Adventures of Helen and Mary," "Land o' Make-believe" and "Littmann's Mountainville True Life Sketches."

After you've talked to Yolande Langworthy a few moments, it is easy to understand why she is in charge of children's features. First of all, she is a real "beautiful lady," which is important in dealing with kids. Further, she has the quiet poise and dignity, and a soft, melodious voice, so necessary to arouse the imagination and hold the attention of small people.

In the "Adventures of Helen and Mary" program, which is broadcast every Saturday between 12 o'clock noon and 12:30, a cast of fourteen children is used, ranging from six to eleven years old. Pat Ryan, the star of all Columbia's children's programs, plays the part of Helen, and Jean Derby that of Mary. Artells Dickson takes the part of the cobbler who, together with Uncle Joe, shows the children certain principles of life, and trains them along psychological lines. This program, as well as the other two, is educational, but the lessons are worked into the plays so skillfully that the kiddies are not aware of anything but joyous amusement. Appropriate music is always worked into the program as part of the play.

On Sunday mornings at ten o'clock the Ship of Dreams leaves port to sail to one of the many islands that are part of the Land o'

Make-believe—the islands of Thought, Fear, Courage, Difference Between Light and Dark, and many others. The captain of the bark is Artells Dickson; Scrubbem (typifying cleanliness) is Warren Scofield. Yolande Langworthy plays the part of the Beautiful Lady, and the children are Pat Ryan and Donald Hughes.

Into the creation of this program Miss Langworthy weaves a threefold idea: to teach the children the value of ideals, to make them see life through rose-colored glasses, and to bring about a better understanding between parents and children.

When Mr. Littmann, the sponsor of "Mountainville True Life Sketches," came to Miss Langworthy to work out this program, he told her the main object of it was to be the education of children in the right attitude toward their parents, school and as citizens of the United States. In each broadcast there is a moral attached which is depicted through the medium of the complexity of the lives of Marilyn and David Peters, a young married couple, in their liberal endeavor to educate their adopted children, Freckles and Tiddlewinks. Included among the cast of eleven are Howard Merrill, as Freckles; Pat Ryan, who plays Tiddlewinks; Frank Knight, as the lovable schoolteacher; David Peters, and Miss Langworthy, as his wife Marilyn Peters.

Of course all three programs are immensely popular with both children and grown-ups. Schoolteachers, too, are taking note of these agreeable and workable methods.

ESTELLE LEVY, JEAN DERBY. They appear in "Adventures of Helen and Mary."

NBC Programs for Children

AN average of an hour a day now is being devoted to children's programs by NBC. The juvenile feature with the longest run is the NBC Children's Hour, broadcast every Sunday morning at nine o'clock, through a network including WJZ. Milton J. Cross, veteran announcer, becomes Uncle Milt for this program. All other entertainers or musicians are youngsters. The program is directed by Miss Madge Tucker, one of the NBC's two production women.

"Jolly Bill and Jane"—he's really William Steinke, and Jane is Muriel Harbatter—are on the air every morning during the week, from 8 to 8:15 o'clock. Young listeners accompany Jolly Bill and Jane and Jerry, the dog, on imaginary trips to Make-believe Land.

At the other end of the radio day comes "The Lady Next Door." Miss Tucker, who is the NBC's most talented director of children's programs, is the lady next door, and all others who take part in the sketches are children. Directed by the lady next door, the youngsters stage amateur shows, go on imaginary journeys, hear stories and do all the things that children do in playtime.

Another just-before-supper feature is "Old King

Cole," a program for children, featuring George Mitchell, who is widely known for his songs and juvenile stories. This program is heard at 5:45 o'clock through WEAF.

Every Saturday night, at eight o'clock, young listeners are taken to the "Dixies Circus" by Marcella Shields and Phillips Carlin. Again they hear the cries and roars of animals and the music of the circus band.

All children's programs, however, are not just entertainment. The NBC Music Appreciation Hour, broadcast every Friday morning through the fall and winter, under the direction of Walter Damrosch, has been made a part of the curriculum by many public schools.

According to letters received, the Durant "Heroes of the World" program, broadcast every Sunday night at seven o'clock through an NBC network, including WEAF, is very popular with young listeners.

Other sketches, such as "Penrod," "The Adventures of Polly Preston," "Mystery House," "The Johnson and Johnson Musical Melodrama" and "The Rise of the Goldbergs," have a large juvenile audience.

There seems to be no age limit on "Amos 'n' Andy" fans, for children just three years old are known to follow their adventures.

JIMMIE M'CALLION plays Sam Williams in "Penrod."

JANE HARBATTER, the "Jane" of "Jolly Bill and Jane."

HARBOR LIGHTS. Seated is Capt. Jimmy Norton (Edwin Whitney), spinning a sea yarn to Joe (Leslie Joy). Thursdays, NBC.

HARBOR LIGHTS is more than just another radio program to thousands of listeners. It has become a real experience to them, according to their letters.

The story background of the series is simple. Capt. Jimmy Norton, skipper of a ferry-boat in New York Harbor, tells a sea tale every week to a young friend. As the old sailor's yarn unfolds, the incidents he relates are dramatized and the listener hears the roar of a gale, the crash of waves on ships' decks.

There are three reasons for the success of the series. One of them is Burr Cook, who writes the presentation. Cook gathered his material from retired sea-dogs in Sailor's Snug Harbor on Staten Island and from his own adventures as a seaman.

Vernon Radcliffe, NBC production man, is a second reason. Radcliffe directs and produces "Harbor Lights," and is responsible for the sound effects heard in the broadcast that make it so realistic.

The third reason is E. M. Whitney, of the NBC production staff, who acts the role of Capt. Jimmy Norton, and who has been so successful in his characterization.

The production has a sound "signature" that is unique on the air. The listener gets a sound picture of a ferry-boat leaving the slip. He hears automobiles and trucks move onto the ferry, the closing of the gates, the tinkle of bells, the blast of a whistle and the sound of the engines. And radio's ferry-boat is off on another adventurous voyage.

May 1, 8, 15, 22, 29 THURSDAY

By JOSEPH ATOR

SUNNY skies and breezes sweet from the bluegrass fields, belles and colonels of old Kentucky, along with the elite of Long Island, Broadway sports and Chicago racketeers, thronging clubhouse, paddock and grandstand—there you have the setting in which King Horse holds his greatest court of the year, the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs.

The date this year is May 17. It is a day when the thousands of regular race-track fans of the country are augmented by a vastly greater army which is suddenly, and for that day only, horse-minded.

Every office has its Derby pool, at two bits or a dollar a head. And the fifty thousand or so souls who make the trip to the track to see a great spectacle and a great race are a mere handful compared to the millions who will hurry home that afternoon to tune in on their radios for the broadcast of the affair.

Both the Columbia and NBC chains will be there waiting for them this year, for, with the exception of the World's Series, the race probably attracts more radio listeners than any other sporting event of the year. In addition, a number of individual stations will have their own announcers at the track.

A horse-race presents a unique problem in sports broadcasting, for the actual running of the race takes just two minutes and a few additional seconds. Beforehand, of course, there are the crowd, the earlier races, the betting odds on the Derby candidates, and other matters to occupy the announcer's attention, but the big thrill itself is compressed into those 120-odd seconds.

To capture the maximum of thrills for his listeners is a pretty big job for one man, although some of the veterans of race announcing can do a bang-up job of it. Last year, however, the NBC put five announcers on the job, following the field right around the track on its mile-and-a-quarter charge for cash and glory.

Instead of watching the race from the top of the grandstand, as a single announcer is forced to do, the five NBC representatives had their microphones right at the track rail. The first of them described the jockeying and hustling at the starting-post, echoing the great crowd's shout of "They're off!" when the field got away.

Down at the first turn the second man picked up the story as the horses whirled past him. He was succeeded by a third announcer on the back stretch, and he by a fourth as the thoroughbreds thundered around the last turn into the stretch. The fifth man crouched at the wire to flash the name of the winner to millions of listeners.

Baseball continues to be a daily diet on your radio during May, of course. Another big radio sport spectacle during the month is the Indianapolis speedway race on Memorial Day. WGN at Chicago started broadcasting that classic years ago, giving a full account of the five-hour, five-hundred-mile grind, but stepped out when the chains took it up two years ago. The chain broadcasts are confined to the final hour of the race. NBC will broadcast the contest, and Columbia may, the matter being still in abeyance with that organization at this writing.

Bill Munday put on a red-hot description of the final game in the national interscholastic basket-ball tournament at the University of Chicago April 5 for the NBC. It was the first time that event has gone on the air nationally, and probably will be the last, for the university authorities are doubtful whether or not they will stage any more of the tourneys, due to the criticism which has been leveled at them by high-school athletic authorities.

At Springfield, Ill., the local baseball club cherished a mutt dog as a mascot. But a lush diet of free hamburgers failed to keep the animal at home. He wandered afield in search of love or adventure, and WCBS, the local station, offered to aid in the search for him.

The announcer painted a heart-rending picture of the hardened ballplayers, broken by grief over the loss of their pet.

"And now, friends," he continued, "I am going to turn the microphone over to Prof. Ali Bulbul Kazam, the famous Arabian mystic, who guarantees to answer any question or tell you the location of any lost article."

When Quin Ryan crouches over his microphone at Churchill Downs this year, it will be the sixth time he has followed the progress of the Derby field around the oval. As feature broadcast director for WGN, the Chicago Tribune station, he arranged and announced the first Derby broadcast by any metropolitan station in 1925.

Following his attendance at Northwestern University and some preliminary training as a newspaper reporter and advertising man, Quin started out as a radio announcer at WMAQ in 1923. He later was the first director of Station WLS, in Chicago, and joined the WGN organization in June, 1924.

Thousands of radio listeners know him for his broadcast of the Scopes evolution trial at Dayton, Tenn., and of the Army-Navy game at Chicago in 1926, the Dempsey - Tunney fight, and scores of other important sports events.

Sport fans may soon expect more chain entertainment in their field from the National Broadcasting Corporation. That company has assigned W. Burke Miller to the exclusive task of arranging chain broadcasts of important sport and news events.

If that seems to be one of those names you know, but can't quite place, he is the same "Skeets" Miller who six years ago crawled down a narrow, tortuous underground passage in the limestone hills of Kentucky, the last man to speak to Floyd Collins alive.

"Skeets" also arranged the five-man broadcast of the Derby referred to above.

Sports fans received a surprise treat on Thursday afternoon, March 20, when four of the nation's foremost football coaches spoke from the New York Athletic Club over the NBC chain. The quartet was led by one of the most successful coaches of all time, Knute Rockne, of Notre Dame, who represented the middle West. He was followed to the microphone by Glenn S. "Pop" Warner, coach of Leland Stanford University, speaking for the far West; T. A. D. "Tad" Jones, formerly coach of Yale and now chairman of the Yale Athletic Football Committee, representing the East, and W. A. Alexander, of Georgia Tech, for the South. Graham McNamee announced the program.

The coaches were on their way to attend the annual meeting of the Intercollegiate Football Rules Committee at Atlantic City.

Pat Flanagan, WBBM (Chicago) sports announcer, is not going on the road with a baseball club, as was first expected when he was seen recently purchasing a catcher's mask in a Chicago sporting-goods store. He was merely preparing to broadcast another prize-fight. During a recent ringside job, Pat had the misfortune to get a black eye from an over-enthusiastic fight fan, so he has added the mask to his equipment to save his eyes to describe the scenes in the ring.

QUIN RYAN, feature broadcast director of WGN, Chicago.

THERE are two radio characters who are as well known as some of the featured stars of evening programs, yet they are heard regularly before the sun goes down.

To radio listeners they are Mary Olds and Calliope. Mary Olds is a Southern woman who has a home in a New York pent-house, and Calliope is her faithful old colored cook. In real life Mary Olds is really Mary Olds. The part of Calliope is taken by Katherine Tift-Jones, one of the best-known interpreters of negro characterizations.

The pair are heard four days a week—Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. The program also is unusual in that it is sponsored by two different organizations. Tuesdays and Thursdays it is sponsored by the Kirkman Soap Company, and on Wednesdays and Fridays it is sponsored by the Pie Bakeries of America.

On Sunday afternoons Katherine Tift-Jones appears over the WEA group of stations in a program known as "Calliope and Mis' Kathrine."

The "plot" of the program is simple, but interesting. Calliope reflects the humor and philosophy of her race and reveals the practical knowledge she has gained through long years in various kitchens. The comments of her mistress are more sophisticated. Together they discuss problems of household management and culinary accomplishment.

The voices of two children, David and Dorothy, also are heard in the broadcasts.

Katherine Tift-Jones is a real Southerner. She was born not far from the famed Swanee River in Tifton, Tift Co., Ga. Her birthplace was named after her family. She grew up on a plantation and learned all the negro folk tales and songs when she was a child. Miss Tift grew up and married. Her husband died and she found herself faced with the problem of earning a living.

Her negro stories always had brought merriment at dinner parties and other gatherings, and when a friend suggested that she turn these same songs and stories into a means of earning a living, she tried the suggestion and succeeded.

After a number of successful years in which she toured as a diseuse, she came to radio, where she established herself as the leading interpreter of negro characters. She has been heard in "My South," a popular NBC broadcast; "The Cabin Door," and many other widely known features.

RADIO NEWS

The coming summer season brings a vacation in Scandinavia to Miss Margaret Olson, native of that land. The Davey program over NBC network now claims Miss Olson's singing.

Phillips H. Lord, originator of the popular radio religious services, has announced the early publication of a book of 150 hymns. This is Lord's answer to the urgent requests for the songs used in the services.

Harold H. Isbell—no introduction needed—has come to WENR direct from KYW, Chicago. An addition to WENR's staff of announcers was made necessary by this station winning back some of its "lost time."

NBC has inaugurated a new program series in the way of fifteen-minute addresses on "Genuine Antique Furniture," by Major Arthur de Bles. These talks will be heard between 2:15 and 2:30 P. M., Eastern Daylight Time.

WENR has solved to its entire satisfaction the question of literacy of those who correspond with the radio stations. A special test was made, and from the 10,099 letters received a good rate of intelligence was manifested throughout.

A number of the most recent additions to the great staff of educators offering supplementary education every Tuesday and Thursday over WABC are Henry Turner Bailey, Dr. Hollis Dann, Mabelle Glenn, Daniel Beard, Thornton Burgess and Howard Hanson.

Phæbe Mackay originally studied to be a dancer, this training including appreciation of music. She claims the distinction of having attended more operas and dance recitals than any other woman in radio. Miss Mackay is Mrs. Watts in "Real Folks," NBC weekly attraction.

With the opening number on April 6, radio broadcasting entered the international field on a sustained basis. The Canadian Pacific Railways is sponsoring a half-hour program broadcast from CKGW studios, Toronto, Canada, every Sunday and Wednesday night. An extensive group of stations associated with the NBC broadcast both series, WJZ being the New York outlet.

The Sunday night programs come direct from CKGW's studios at 9:15, and consist of an extended list of favorite ballad operas directed by Alfred Heather, and on Wednesday nights these studios pick up the Cully dance series from the Royal York Hotel, Toronto. The Wednesday night program begins at midnight, Eastern Standard Time.

Texas Legislature is considering a bill which "provides that it shall be unlawful for any person to circulate, and for the owner or person in charge of any broadcasting station to permit any person to circulate, by words spoken over the radio of such station, a verbal defamation."

"The Musical Time Table," early morning feature for the convenience of listeners throughout the East, is broadcast from the Hartford (Conn.) station WTIC, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. It is designed to help the commuter out of bed and to work on time and in good humor. The program opens with electric recordings and continues until 8:30 o'clock.

To date no one has contested the title of "youngest announcer" owned by little Miss Dorothy Jane Munz, four years and nine-months old daughter of C. G. N. Munz, Chicago. On March 6 this little lady had full charge of WENR's Air Juniors program conducted every other evening at 5:30, Central Standard Time, by Everett Mitchell and Miss Irma Glen, staff organist.

Extensive changes have occurred in NBC's program direction personnel. William Burke Miller is promoted to director of current events; Norman Sweetser is now program man for the new Times Square Studio; William S. Lynch has the title of sponsor program representative; Curt Peterson is now assistant to Miss Bertha Brainard; Edward Thorgeren has become supervisor of announcers; Thomas McAvity is elevated to assistant production manager; Miss Bertha Brainard's activities are enlarged under the new title, Eastern program manager; Gerard Chatfield is appointed balance expert. The majority of these executives are under thirty years of age.

The Raleigh Review

THE personable and cavalierly Elizabethan character, Sir Walter Raleigh, has been reincarnated for the microphone. He has abandoned his ancient practices of spreading coats over muddy sidewalks for virgin queens, and dashing about the Spanish Main in fleet corsairs, destroying Spanish colonial shipping. Instead, Sir Walter appears as a man fresh from Broadway to be master of ceremonies in the new radio show known as the Raleigh Revue, an hour feature heard every Friday night over stations associated with the National Broadcasting Company.

Alfred Shirley plays the part of Sir Walter, and introduces Edna Kellogg, soprano; the Rovers, an internationally known male quartet under the direction of Frank Black; Phil Ohman and Victor Arden, two-piano team, and a new orchestra directed by William Merri-gan Daly, George Gershwin's favorite conductor, who has long been associated with musical comedy.

Daly is a new recruit to radio. The son of Tom Daly, he was born into musical comedy, but lived the greater part of his life in Boston, until he was graduated from Harvard. During those years he took occasional turns at the piano and liked it. The Chicago Civic Opera next claimed his attention, but the war upset plans to be an assistant conductor. The island of Manhattan welcomed the young musician. He conducted for George White, Dillingham, Erlanger, George M. Cohan and others; composed by himself and with George Gershwin, and in various other ways contributed to the entertainment of the Great White Way. His last work was as conductor for the musical show, "Wake Up and Dream."

Frank Black's arrangements for vocal groups have become an institution in the broadcasting studios. He scores the music for the Rovers, and serves as their accompanist.

Ohman and Arden have been much associated with musical shows, although they have been constantly before the microphone as well for about seven years. Ohman's own compositions, peculiarly adapted for the two-piano arrangements, are their specialties.

RADIO NEWS

A bill introduced to the South Carolina Legislature seeks to impose a tax upon all radio sets in the State.

In Rhinebeck, N. Y., during the progress of an important trial, court was adjourned so that no one would miss Amos 'n' Andy. Bet the prisoner was acquitted.

The NBC studios in San Francisco are treating the Western States to the splendid radio adaptations of Booth Tarkington's "Penrod." Billy Page fills the title role in the coast company.

Fishing-vessels operated by German companies are equipped with wireless telephone installations, giving them direct contact with headquarters whenever they remain within two hundred miles of shore.

A French State Railway train, operating between Paris and Havre, is supplied with radiophones for each passenger. There is promise of this service on other trains of the State Railway.

"Voices," a new NBC radio program to be heard every Tuesday afternoon at five o'clock, marks a distinct advancement in the usefulness of radio. This program is in connection with the Better Speech Campaign and will feature such experts of diction as Miss Olive Wyndham, Miss Helen Hathaway and Miss Vida Ravenscroft Sutton.

A fast one is being pulled by Earl Babcock, of Chicago, who records his favorite radio artists direct from his loud-speaker on to aluminum disks. Recently he sent two of his records to WTAM, whose engineers found on them an exact recording of Jane Dillon's imitable impersonations given from that station.

The latest in radio slang is to "grow a beard," meaning to miss a cue, mangle one's lines, or commit one of the many other styles of faux pas which keep the broadcasting studio personnel between titters and tears, in spite of the displeasure of the program director. According to the Judson Radio Program Corporation, the phrase originated with one of its usually most reliable, who missed a line entirely in a recent True Detective Mysteries broadcast. At any rate, "mistake" and "beard" are now synonyms in most well-regulated studios.

The demand, made apparent by International radio broadcasting, for a simple device to determine relative time at all points of the globe, has been satisfied in the form of a cardboard mechanism which can be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., under title of Bureau of Standards Miscellaneous Publications, No. 84. The price is 10 cents.

DXers will be interested in learning of William G. Sturgess, 311 Canal Reserve, Christ Church, New Zealand, who reports having heard and identified a number of American stations, some of them coming through with great power. For over two months, he says, he heard Station WENR every night. Other stations he has listed are WLW, KSL, KNX, KFOX, KVOO, KHJ, KPO, KGO, KFI. Mr. Sturgess is also quite proud of the fact that he was the first New Zealand listener to pick up and identify Station RFM in Siberia. Perhaps some of the DX fans nearer home can report performance of equal impressiveness, but it will be interesting to learn of any set which has done better on an inside loop aerial, the type used by Mr. Sturgess with his seven-tube set.

The prize "hoax" of the radio season, in our opinion, was perpetrated over WTAM, Cleveland, the night of All-Fools' Day. Gene and Glenn, fresh from their record-breaking week at the Cleveland R. K. O. Palace, during which they played to over 110,000 paid admissions, were the principals abetted by a host of WTAM artists. The plot was the long-forecast "marriage" of "Jake" and "Lena," two of Gene's favorite characterizations. After a most elaborate and painstaking staging of a ceremonial wedding affair, it was discovered at the altar that Jake had mysteriously disappeared. Thousands of fans sat with their sets carefully tuned in on WTAM the balance of the night to hear the reading of bulletins at frequent intervals, reporting either details of the search for Jake or of the condition of the heart-broken Lena. The station was receiving literally hundreds of telegrams from all parts of the country, offering advice as to Jake's whereabouts. We thank WTAM for the handsome wedding announcement sent us a few days before the event.

At the sign of the Green and White

By J.G. Gude

IF it means anything for a program to be well balanced—and most people who have anything to do with radio agree that no more complimentary description could be applied to a program—then the series called "At the Sign of the Green and White," heard over the Columbia Broadcasting System, should be one of the most popular on the air. With Norman Brokenshire as guest announcer; Herbert Polesie teaming up with him in comedy sketches; Leonard Stokes contributing vocal talent in the form of baritone solos; David Mendoza leading his band in orchestral selections, both modern and classical, and the Rollickers, known on these programs as the Quaker State Four, supplying harmony of a high order, there is something for everybody who listens in on these broadcasts.

Norman Brokenshire, veteran radio announcer, hardly needs an introduction. Broke's broadcasting career began back in the days when announcers cloaked their identity behind a set of initials, and when it was usual for announcer and artists to foregather in the studio thirty minutes before the broadcast was to begin, determine what was to be presented, and then and there make up the program.

Herbert Polesie is another pioneer in the radio game, who started broadcasting when radio was in its infancy and when he was still an undergraduate at Carnegie Tech, in Pittsburgh. After he completed his college course he came to New York and appeared in several Broadway shows under the direction of Sam Harris. However, after two seasons on the stage, he drifted back to his first love, radio, and began directing commercial programs over local New York stations.

Herbert Polesie and Norman Brokenshire

Leonard Stokes, who hails from Moultrie, Ga., studied both in New York and abroad for his musical career. In France he was a pupil of both Oscar Seagle and the late Jean de Reszke.

David Mendoza, for all his Latin-sounding name, is a home reared and taught product. He is a native of New York, as were his father and mother, and, like many of his confreres in the artistic world, was a boy prodigy.

Custom-made Recipes

A NOVEL FEATURE ADDED TO RADIO HOUSEHOLD INSTITUTE SERVICE

CUSTOM-MADE recipes—who ever heard of such an idea! Well, everybody who listened to the Radio Household Institute broadcast of March 18 has heard about it . . . and, judging by the thousands of enthusiastic letters which have been received, this brand-new idea appeals very strongly to home-makers everywhere.

The broadcast was built around the subject of cheese—not any particular kind of cheese, but every kind and flavor and type! When Miss Carter was planning the program (Miss Carter is the home-economics expert of the Institute), she discovered such a wide variety of delicious and unusual cheese recipes that it seemed impossible to select any one group of recipes which would have the most interest for all the listeners.

So, as usual, the staff of the Institute put on their thinking-caps, and pretty soon a brand-new scheme was evolved—a new way to be of help to listeners-in! Why not let women choose their own recipes? That is, Miss Carter would not make an arbitrary selection of cheese recipes; instead, she would invite the listeners-in to submit their own special preferences. If Mrs. Jones is especially fond of cream cheese, she may write in and ask for a set of cream-cheese recipes. If Mrs. Brown likes combinations of Camembert and Roquefort, or Swiss, or Brie, or Gorgonzola, she may ask for special recipes using these cheeses.

In this way a group of recipes may be selected by a popular vote of listeners-in, recipes built to order!

Of course, in this program Miss Carter included a variety of fascinating cheese recipes. For instance, here's a delicious suggestion she gave for cheese dainties to serve with the bors d'oeuvres, the soup or the salad: Cut squares of fresh white bread about one-fourth of an inch thick, butter them, sprinkle liberally with grated American cheese, a little paprika, a dash of salt, roll up tightly, secure with a toothpick and bake until they are nicely browned and crisp. Serve hot.

Another suggestion for an appetizer is this: Cover little rounds of toast with a thin slice of onion, a slice of tomato and a generous layer of soft cheese, dusted with paprika. Bake until the cheese melts.

For a tempting after-dinner tray, to give a dinner a perfect top-off, here's an idea which was met enthusiastically by the listeners-in: Serve cold, fresh fruit with plain cheese—perhaps a tempting triangle of Swiss, cool and creamy; perhaps delicate cream cheese, or spicy Roquefort, or Camembert, soft and full-flavored, served with a rosy, red apple.

And here's a recipe for stuffed celery, which everybody is advised to try:

STUFFED CELERY

- ¼ pound pimento cheese.
- 2 tablespoons chopped olives.
- 1 tablespoon hot milk.
- 6 large stalks of celery.

Grate pimento cheese, add chopped olives and hot milk. Blend to a smooth paste. Select six stalks of celery. Wash and trim. Fill hollow of stalks with pimento cheese mixture.

The Institute is always making interesting new discoveries which will bring extra help to home-makers. Every member of the staff keeps both eyes open for new ideas which will make home-making easier and pleasanter and better. And these ideas cover every sort of problem: cooking, laundering, entertaining, child welfare, and so on. A typical week's program presents a fascinating variety of subjects; for instance, here is one week's programs—every week is different, of course, but this illustrates the never-ending variety of the Institute presentations:

On Monday, Miss Carter talked about unusual cakes for dessert; she gave recipes, all sorts of baking hints, and then actually demonstrated the making of a cake, going through the entire process, step by step.

On Tuesday, Mrs. Milton discussed the question of letting children eat between meals. Mrs. Milton is the Institute expert on child health and welfare; she has two youngsters of her own, and she knows her subject thoroughly.

On Wednesday, the program consisted of an amusing little domestic sketch, played by Miss Burns and Mr. Brenton, the actors of the Institute staff.

On Thursday, Mr. Thomas opened the program with a colorful piano solo. Mr. Thomas is production manager of the Institute programs, and is as well a gifted pianist.

On Saturday (the Institute does not broadcast on Friday), a French chef from one of New York's largest hotel restaurants talked about his favorite salads and gave recipes.

Women who have been regularly listening in to the Institute programs ever since it first went on the air, two and a half years ago, have found out that every day means a new surprise! But, no matter what type of presentation is used, each program is packed full of practical home-making information.

In addition to the many helpful suggestions contained in every Institute broadcast, listeners-in are always invited to write in for various types of free material, which is compiled by a special department of the Institute. It may be a brand-new book of recipes—not long ago more than ten thousand women wrote in for a book of cake recipes, which included actual photographs of every step in making cake. And every recipe which is sponsored by the Institute, either in the broadcasts or in the free material, has been tested and retested in the Institute kitchen, and is known to be perfect.

When Mrs. Milton told her listeners about a thirty-two-page booklet called "The School Lunch"—a comprehensive manual covering every phase of the nutrition story, and including menus, recipes and health charts—thousands of enthusiastic and grateful mothers wrote for a copy of the book.

A detailed bulletin on auction bridge, prepared by experts, was hailed with enthusiasm by bridge-playing fans. Another bulletin entitled "Novel Bridge and Luncheon Sets" filled the mail-bag with interested responses; and a bulletin on stunts and games, called "Merry Moments for Little Folks and Grown-ups," was so popular with listeners-in that the Institute knows there are going to be a lot of gay parties held this season!

And this really leads us right back to where we started—"recipes built to order." The Radio Household Institute not only deals in custom-made recipes; it also stands ready to give special information on every kind of home-making problem—information built to answer individual needs.

May 3, 10, 17, 24, 31 SATURDAY

EMERY DEUTSCH'S GYPSY ORCHESTRA is heard in an all-gypsy musical program entitled ROMANY PATERAN each Tuesday at 9:30 p. m., E. D. T., over CBS.

EMERY DEUTSCH, director of the Gypsy Orchestra, plays a violin which was given him by the famous gypsy, Janci Breknavatchi. The violin was willed to him many years ago, and it was only in 1920 that Emery finally received the instrument. It is this he uses during all of his radio concerts.

HAROLD TRUE, veteran WTAM announcer and bridge hound, disregards black cats and ladders, but insists upon drawing the line somewhere.

At the home of an antique-collector friend recently, in an evening of bridge, Harold was proffered a quaint-looking bench.

"You would never guess where I picked that up, or what it was used for," his hostess lightly remarked.

"Looks as though it came from a church," True grunted.

"It's an old-fashioned casket-rest used by undertakers," came the reply. Whereupon True politely backed away and found a chair.

BENNET LARSON, of the National Broadcasting Company's New York production staff, is taking field-glasses with him into the studios these days.

During a recent rehearsal of Nathaniel Shilkret's orchestra, Larson, sitting in the control booth, felt that the oboe part should be heard more clearly in a certain passage. The oboe player happened to be very short, and Larson sent a message into the studio that he should stand while playing that passage, to allow his notes to reach the microphone without bouncing off the heads of the other musicians.

A moment later the musician stormed into the control booth. He had already been standing, he said, and if he heard any more wisecracks about his size he'd bend his oboe around some one's neck.

HENRY BURBIG, who broadcasts his comedies over the Columbia System, is a story-book character, but his story might be a burlesque of the usual tale. Most young men in life or fiction run away from their small home towns to seek the bright lights of Broadway. Henry Burbig is a native New Yorker. He could not run away to New York. He had to run away from it!

He stuck to his studies as long as he could bear them, which was up to his Junior year at school, and then signed up with a road company doing minstrels.

The reversal of all the traditional business doubtless served to develop his sense of the ridiculous. Henry started his burlesquing in real life.

To-day he is famous for his misinterpretations of well-known poems. One of his earliest skits, "School Daze," left much leeway for parody.

He has recently written a book called "Laughing Gez" that contains many of the presentations that his radio audience hoped to preserve for posterity.

He is as amused by "life's little ironies" as might be expected of a young man who turned the regular stock-stage hero's part into an original comedy role.

NEVER DARKEN MY DOOR AGAIN!

ance of the maximum number seems to be the maxim of the majority of broadcasters," concludes Dr. De Forest.

But he has a solution, although he is pessimistic of its accomplishment so long as "Congress is comprised of its present material." Here it is:

Fifty 100-kilowatt stations, chain-linked, but on widely separated channels to avoid heterodyning, and so located that from any point in the country the radio listener may tune in on any one of a group of ten of these stations. The stations divided then into chains of five, each five sending out the same program, giving every listener the choice of ten programs.

Each program continuous and of consistent type: one chain broadcasting symphonic and operatic music; another, drama; another, comedy sketches; another, "political discussions and harangues—wet and dry;" three chains, say, devoted to educational topics, systematically diversified by hour and theme; one program devoted wholly to advertising, not the nauseous blurbs of to-day, but advertising presented as news vital to the life of the citizen of a modern civilization. This last program, as Dr. De Forest phrases it, "unspoiled by music or entertainment, and as rough and ready as an Italian cheroot."

In addition to that, a hundred local stations of limited range, "to broadcast neighborhood doings among rural communities, sell garden seed and give vent to all high-pressure fulminations against chain stores, high tariff, or what have you." There would be ample channels for these small stations alongside the national broadcast chains.

Television, Dr. De Forest predicts, will be available in the home within a year or so, perhaps on a considerable scale by the end of this year. Already two stations are broadcasting "see and hear" programs in the East, home sets can be had as low as $150, and mere stations will take up broadcasting as soon as ownership of the receiving sets becomes more general.

And perhaps, in outlining his plan for the reform of radio broadcasting, which he himself terms "utopian," Dr. De Forest really has in mind the future of television. For, as he sees it, television programs in time will not come into the home over the air, but over the telephone wires, with the listener in the role of a subscriber who pays to hear the program he wants. That, of course, would make this newest form of entertainment independent of advertising support.

Another possibility of television which the doctor foresees is the revival of the stock theatrical company, now all but extinct because of competition from the talkies, to present a different play each night for broadcasting to television subscribers.

in and sat down Monday night. It was nearly seven o'clock, I noticed. It had been a heavy day at the office, and I was debating whether to tune in the other station now or wait till she served dinner—to make it more obvious.

Then she brought in the dish of ragout, set it down and took off the cover. Steam came pouring up out of it, and a savor—a savor still remembered and deeply stirring—smote my nostrils. It was Irish stew!

I looked at Polly. Polly looked at me. Bill Hay's voice boomed cheerily out of the loud-speaker: "Monday night; Amos and Andy in person."

"Oh, aren't they good?" Polly said softly from my shoulder.

I inhaled a long, luxurious sniff of stew.

"Check and double-check," Andy remarked, and we giggled like the two happy youngsters we were.

After you become expert, you may dance any way you choose. But first dance on the toes or the ball of the foot.

Move naturally, easily and with comfort.

Practice taking long, slow, walking steps around the room for about thirty minutes, as described above, in order to give more spring to your step.

Learn the Syncopated Walk to the music of "Turn On the Heat" (fox trot).

which we have the most reader comment. The two single-station programs for which we have the most requests at present are "Gene and Glenn," of WTAM, and "The Smith Family," of WENR. Both will be featured in our pages in the near future.

With promiscuous roving discouraged by atmospheric conditions, the summer months offer a golden opportunity for worthwhile features to build up their winter audience. That is why both CBS and NBC are preparing to announce some exceptional feature artists for summer broadcasts.

Let's Enjoy the Programs

Numbers of our readers seem to be both alarmed and angered over the deluge of absurdities about radio broadcasting reaching the daily press from Congressmen, some members of the Federal Radio Commission, Governors and other office-holders. We get many letters urging us to take up a cudgel and spring to the defense of the listening public.

So far as we are concerned, we believe the old childhood adage holds good at this point: "Sticks and stones might break my bones, but names will never hurt me." Our object as a magazine is to do all in our power to make the reception of radio programs as enjoyable as possible to every owner of a receiving set. We do not believe it will add to the listeners' enjoyment to air mere vague threats. At the same time we promise that at any time definite action hostile to the interests of the listener seems probable, we shall tell our readers about it and give them every opportunity to make their reaction known to the authorities.

By the way, have you ever considered the fact that the very men who are doing the most talking about radio broadcasting just now not only are not radio listeners, but are not listeners at all? Even in conferences (or in Congress, for that matter) they never hear intelligently anything apart from that which they themselves are saying or are about to say. Therein is the real listeners' security. When time for action comes, and the talkers have talked themselves out and find themselves hopelessly divided and muddled, a common-sensed proposal from any considerable group of intelligent listeners is quite apt to win the day.

TO OUR NEWS-STAND FRIENDS:—Our publication date is definitely set for the 28th of the month preceding date of issue. In March a great many of our friends who went to the stands late were disappointed. We try to keep a sufficient supply over the country, but, to be safe, we urge that you place an advance order with your newsdealer.
